Luncheon on a Huge New Dam in California

The gigantic municipal Pardee dam, in the foothills of the Sierra Nevada mountains, impounding the waters of the Mokelumne river to serve 450,000 people in the cities of the east shore of San Francisco bay, was dedicated recently. One of the novel features of the ceremonies was the luncheon served on the crest of the dam where 500 persons were served.

Young Turks Want to Dance in This Palace

Here is what may be the most magnificent dance hall in the world—the Dolma Bagtche palace, former dwelling of the sultan and caliph and their numerous concubines. Because there is a growing craze for modern dancing in Turkey, citizens and officials have appealed to the president to turn the palace into a modern ballroom.

Words! Words! Words!

We just happened to look in a little dictionary and chanced upon the definition of a clock. A clock, it says, is a mechanical timepiece not adapted for the pocket. Following out that idea of defining things, you could say that an ocean liner is a boat not adapted for sailing in the bathtub; that a whale is a fish not adapted for packing in sardine cans, and a redwood tree is a vegetable not adapted for planting in window boxes.—A 7-year-old Boy.

HOW TO LIVE LONGER

By JOHN CLARENCE FUNK, A. M., Sc. D. Director of Public Health Education, State of Pennsylvania.

Food Fads

IT WAS recently announced that two internationally known Arctic explorers sustained life most satisfactorily on an exclusive meat diet while living in the temperate zone and engaged in sedentary habits.

However, when it is all said and done, these digestive excursions merely prove the amazing flexibility of the human system to food adjustment.

It must be readily admitted that various kinds of food are definitely contra-indicated in the actual presence of disease.

Therefore, follow fads in clothing, interior decoration and motor cars if you have a falling for fads, but do not go crazy on the food fads.

Don't Get Chesty

IT IS only natural to develop a superior feeling over man's present-day achievements. Airships, subways, skyscrapers and all the wizardry of electricity are enough to turn the head of the most modest of us.

And with modern filtration plants, sewage disposal works and all the other magnificent strides in disease prevention and cure, it seems entirely logical to develop a "high hat" attitude on the question of living.

Has not the span of life been increased at least twenty years in the last two decades? Are not the health laws the best and most efficiently enforced in man's history?

But in spite of it, the outstanding and disturbing fact remains that for the great number of citizens who have attained fifty years, increased longevity has no application whatsoever.

Resting in a sense of false security, hundreds of thousands of adults who have reached the one-half century turn in life are dying at the same rate of years ago, and sad to say are increasingly dying.

Cancer, diabetes, tuberculosis and heart affections are today actually creating havoc among those over middle age. It is this group of maladies which maintains the unsatisfactory death rate among adults.

The annual physical examination alone, if employed, would by means of early diagnosis, save countless lives.

Rest assured that adult mortality will not decrease until health interest increases. Don't get chesty over this modern living business. Do something about it.

Ownership of Arctic Island Awarded Norway

The island of Jan Mayen in Arctic waters, between Iceland and Spitzbergen, was recently formally annexed to Norway, says a dispatch from Oslo.

ONLY A DOCTOR KNOWS WHAT A LAXATIVE SHOULD BE

Danger lies in careless selection of laxatives! By taking the first thing that comes to mind when bad breath, headaches, dizziness, nausea, biliousness, gas on stomach and bowels, lack of appetite or energy warns of constipation, you risk forming the laxative habit.

Now Water "Caterpillar"

St. Louis.—Secrets of a new kind of boat that has power to move on dry land like a war-time tank were revealed here.

The tracks are endless belts of flexible steel, that rise above water level to re-enter the boat through tunnels running the length of the hull on each side. Automatic doors close the ends of the tunnel, except to the moving tracks.

The towboats are made to haul long lines of barges. The analogy does not end there. The barges too—like railroad box cars, although their capacities equal three to five standard freight cars.

Small towboats are designed to do switch engine duty at various ports. It is claimed that a "switch engine" boat can hook a barge to the main tow without stopping the procession.

Highways and The Telephone

From woodland trail to corduroy and dirt road; then gravel, macadam, concrete—thus, our highways have evolved.

Yesterday, we traveled twenty miles a day behind a spirited mare; today, we ride one hundred miles of an evening, in a motor car. Yesterday, travel was momentous; today, it is incidental.

From smoke signal and moccasined runner to pony express; from pony express to fast mail; fast mail to long distance telephone—thus, communication has evolved.

Yesterday, we wrote long letters and waited days, weeks, or even months for a reply; today, we lift a telephone receiver and, in a few seconds, have an answer. Yesterday, communication was laborious; today, it is effortless.

Michigan is building one of the finest highway systems in the United States, linking her cities by means of splendid concrete roads and opening a paradise of lakes and forest to all her people and to thousands of visitors.

The Michigan Bell Telephone Company, too, is building highways, modern voice wireways, comparable in every way with the finest concrete roads; these wireways link every section of the state. Michigan's telephone wireways are partners of her other highways of commerce, and an important part of a universal telephone system.

Highways and wireways have helped develop our state, its commerce, prosperity and social life, and wherever your motor takes you over the fine, wide roads of Michigan, you also will find a voice wireway leading to your home and office.

Our policy—"To continue to furnish the best possible telephone service at the lowest cost consistent with financial safety".

"Lest We Forget!"

By ELMO SCOTT WATSON

ARMISTICE day is a day for recalling the thrill of joy which swept the world on November 11, 1918, when the four-year crescendo of the guns was stilled and the costliest war in all history came to an end.

For us it is also a day for remembering the Americans who crossed the Atlantic to play their part in that titanic struggle and who never came back—the 30,000 men who sleep beneath the white crosses in the Meuse-Argonne, St. Mihiel, Oise-Aisne, Aisne-Marne, Somme and Suresnes cemeteries in France, in Flanders field in Belgium and near Brookwood, England.

But, most of all, it should be a time for remembering those who did come back, not the men who were returned unharmed to their rejoicing families, but the "human wreckage of war"—men with blinded eyes, with deafened ears, with gas-seared lungs, with severed legs and arms, with shattered nerves, men whose precious years of youth and opportunity had been sacrificed for their country.

How many of them are there? The best answer to that is a statement made by Gen. Frank T. Hines, director of the United States Veterans' bureau that more than six hundred millions of dollars has been spent by the government in the rehabilitation of nearly 130,000 legless, armless, sightless and otherwise crippled or physically handicapped men to the point where they are capable of self-support; that more than 26,000 men and women who served with the military forces of the United States are now receiving treatment in government operated or supervised hospitals; that there are still in hospitals today more than 18,000 ex-service men who are undergoing treatment for disabilities due to their war service; and that there are under guardianship 25,727 veterans who are incompetent to take care of their own affairs.

"The problem of paying the human cost of the World war was a huge one in the beginning," says General Hines. "It is still a major national problem."

"Across 3,000 miles of ocean, in 1917 and 1918, we transported an army of 2,000,000 Americans, practically without loss of life from enemy guns, torpedoes or mines.

"Across the same expanse of water, a little later, 117,000 wounded and sick were brought back to the United States—some to live, some to die, many not to know for years the price they must pay for their participation in the war.

Beyond the sea, on foreign soil, 80,000 soldiers of the American Expeditionary Force were killed in action, or died of wounds, injuries or disease.

"In the single great offensive operation of the American First Army, in the period between September 26 and November 11, 1918—the attack which brought about the enemy's appeal for the armistice—our losses were 117,000 in killed and wounded.

"These items, large as they are, do not constitute the total human cost of our brief participation in the World war. There were, in addition, scores of thousands of young men who either died in the training and concentration camps here in America, or in those camps contracted diseases with lasting effects.

"The total toll of war was such that death or disability claims have been filed for one-fifth of all the men who served in the armed forces of the United States during the World war. More than half a million claims have been allowed. And nearly ten years after the war—on July 1, 1928—250,000 veterans, were receiving disability compensation. That army of disabled included men afflicted with anemia receiving from $40 to $100 a month, depending upon the seriousness of their condition. It included thousands of men with impaired hearts or arteries. We had and have scores of thousands of other cases involving every disease or abnormal physical or mental condition from bronchiectasis to dementia praecox."

Another aspect of this problem is presented by General Hines in these words: "As time goes on the obligation of the government changes. The average age of the former service men is now thirty-four years. That age is beyond the period of greatest susceptibility to tuberculosis. We shall have in Veterans' bureau hospitals, therefore, fewer and fewer cases of tuberculosis. In 1922 we had 12,000; now we have 6,500.

"So, too, the surgical and general medical cases, including, of course, shot and shell injuries sustained in the war, have been decreasing. We had 10,000 in 1922. Now there are only 6,700.

"But in another direction the government's obligation is increasing. There has been a steady, upward trend in the number of veteran patients with mental and nervous afflictions. In 1919 there were less than 3,000 such patients, including those who bore the so-called 'invisible scars of war'; the shell-shocked veterans. Now there are 13,000. Our medical experts estimate that the peak of such cases will not be reached until 1947, when, with the veterans at an average age of fifty-three, there probably will be between 40,000 and 50,000 suffering from nervous and mental disorders. We may have to provide hospital facilities for 16,000 of these unfortunate veterans."

Another estimate of the increasing importance and scope of rehabilitation is given by the Disabled American Veterans of the World War, a national organization of disabled ex-service men established in 1921. This group has been named by congress as an official representative of the disabled who present claims to the government. According to William E. Tate, national commander, during the next decade, more than 275,000 ex-service men will need help as a result of disabilities incurred during the war.

So when Armistice day comes 'round each year, it behooves all Americans in the midst of their solemn celebration of the day to give a thought not only to those "who gladly died" but also to that "lonelier company" of those "who still are crucified."

NEW POINTS FOUND IN METAL DIRIGIBLE

"Flying Tomato Can" Built for Navy Is Odd.

Detroit, Mich.—The all-metal dirigible ZMC-2 which has been completed here for the United States navy presents three radical differences from the usual type of rigid balloon as represented by the Graf Zeppelin and the Los Angeles.

Its covering, shape and controls are departures in accepted practices of dirigible construction.

The Navy department and the builders of the ZMC-2 frankly admit it is an experimental craft and its practicability in the present stage of development, engineers admit, is not great. They believe, however, that the successful test flights already made with the craft will make aeronautical history.

Four years in the making, the ZMC-2 has been referred to by scoffers as the "flying tomato can." This somewhat disparaging reference came from the extremely thin metal covering, an alloy of duralumin covered with a sheet of aluminum.

Metal Envelope Thin. The metal envelope is no thicker than a piece of fine writing paper. Weatherproof and fireproof qualities are claimed for it.

In shape the ZMC-2 presents a stubby, bloated, egg-shaped appearance, being 150 feet long and 50 feet wide. The stubby shape was decided upon to eliminate certain dangerous influences of air currents on the more slender type of ship.

Elevator and rudder controls all are in the fins, which project from the hull about 30 feet forward of the stern. This arrangement, the engineers say, permits use of the side air currents instead of those that have passed around the ship, as would be the case if stern control had been utilized.

Speed Sixty Miles an Hour.

The craft is powered with two Wright Whirlwind motors of 440 horse power. Its ordinary cruising range is 680 miles and it is believed it will develop a speed of 60 miles an hour. It has been estimated the ship will carry a crew of three, 200 gallons of oil, 50 gallons of ballast, a radio set and 742 pounds of passengers and cargo.

Congress appropriated $300,000 for an all-metal ship in 1925 and awarded the contract to the Detroit company. The actual cost of the ship is said to have been about $1,250,000. Much of this was spent in experimentation before the government order was given.

Goes to Hospital to Learn Beauty Aid

"THE first time I heard of it," writes Mrs. E. Whitney of 35 Parker Street, Bangor, Maine, "was when I was at the Hospital. I was very nervous and run down and after my baby daughter was born the doctor began giving me something. In about ten days I felt like a new person. Before then, I was miserable. My skin was in very bad condition and I could not understand what made it clear up so quickly.

"Before I left I asked the House Doctor what kind of medicine it was that cleared up my skin and made me feel so much better. He said 'My dear girl, didn't you ever hear of Nujol? Hospitals aren't the only place where you can get it! You can buy it most everywhere!'

"I have been using Nujol ever since, and I think it is wonderful."

That's the great thing about Nujol. Not a medicine, contains no drugs, can't possibly hurt you, forms no habit—and if you are like most other people its simple natural way of bodily lubrication will do wonders for you, too.

You see, all of us have an excess of body poisons that make our skins

Primitive Pearl Fishing

Arabian pearl divers in the Persian gulf take world records for a minimum of diving equipment. They go to the bottom with a stone to pull them down, a rope to pull them up and a clothes pin on their nose.

The diver stands on a large stone with a rope tied to it, that he may descend quickly to the bottom of the sea. He walks about the bottom picking up oyster shells and putting them in a basket which is suspended from his neck. After he has been down about two minutes, he is dragged quickly to the surface by means of a rope tied about his waist.

Pearl fishing is one of Arabia's most important summer industries says the report to the Department of Commerce made by Consul John Randolph of Bagdad.—Detroit News.

The octopus or devil fish is a food delicacy in oriental countries.

Movement Imperative. I find the great thing in this world is not so much where we stand, as in what direction we are moving. To reach the port of heaven, we must sail sometimes with the wind, and sometimes against it; but we must sail, and not drift, nor lie at anchor.—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

Reduction Expected From One to Three-Fourths. OVER 7,000,000 PEOPLE VISIT STATE PARKS

The state parks of Michigan were visited by 7,454,741 people during the season just closed. This is an increase of 39 per cent over the number of visitors in 1928 and represents more than twice the population of the entire state. The East Tawas state park had 48,452 visitors and 6,642 campers during the season.

These figures are contained in a report prepared by P. J. Hoffmaster, superintendent of state parks, and are based on actual attendance records submitted by the superintendents of the 53 state parks that were open to the public during the season of 1929. The total represents only those visiting the parks before October 1, when compilation ceased.

During the season of 1929, 138,308 men, women and children camped at the state parks, representing an increase of 8.5 per cent over last year. They built 40,181 camps. Of these camps 32,013 were those of Michigan residents and 8,168 were of residents of other states.

Ohio, Indiana and Illinois continued to send the largest numbers of non-resident campers. Ohio led all other with 8,991. Illinois followed with 6,662. Indiana was third with 5,029. Wisconsin and Canada were rivals, Wisconsin sending 1,098 campers and Canada 1,091. The next five runners-up were: New York 386, Minnesota 383, Pennsylvania 397, Iowa 319 and California 245.

In 1928 the total number of park visitors was 5,346,411. In 1927 it had been 5,107,487. The total for 1926 was 3,509,425. In 1925 it was 2,539,672. These figures show that in five years the number of visitors at the state parks has increased more than 300 per cent. Because of this fact, and the fact that no saturation point is apparently evident, the state is continuing to reserve sites for more parks.
