DAIRY COWS WILL INCREASE FARM PROFITS

Make Profitable Market For Grains and Roughage

When dairymen feed cows in their dairy herds, they are selling their feeds to their livestock in a similar fashion as they would if they sold to several elevators in their home community with this difference—that the market place is found on the home farm.

This market place, namely, the cow, has a direct influence on the volume of profit returned from the dairy for the year.

Records gathered by the Dairy Department, Michigan State College through county dairy herd improvement associations have demonstrated this point many times and have indicated that some cows return from two to four times more profit for the dollar of feeds invested than other cows.

Good feeding practices by dairymen everywhere have shown the advantage of feeding good cows to full capacity during the entire year. This factor of proper feeding, amounts of feed and kinds of feed per cow will be used for a discussion by J. G. Hays, Extension Dairyman, Michigan State College, when the first of a series of dairy schools will be held at the Grant town hall on Monday, January 8, at 1:15 in the afternoon.

This dairy feeding school is the first of a series of similar schools which will be carried on in Iosco county during the next few weeks.

Other topics which will be reviewed during these winter meetings will concern themselves with disease control, calf feeding, selection of a sire and pasture management. Dairymen from the entire county are encouraged to attend this meeting Monday afternoon at the Grant township hall.

EAST AND WEST

BY TALBOT MUNDY

TALBOT MUNDY—WNU SERVICE

THE STORY THUS FAR

Captain Carl Norwood has been sent from his native England to the Kadur River district in India, along with his indispensable manservant, Moses O'Leary, a valuable secret diamond mine belongs to the temple priests or to the ruler, the Maharajah of Kadur. Norwood calls on the British Residency to pay his initial respects. On his way he catches a glimpse of two women in a palace carriage, one of whom is young and beautiful. The other woman he knows to be the Maharane, one of Kadur. O'Leary later tells him that the young woman is an American girl named Lynn Harding, who with her aunt, Mrs. Deborah Harding, is a guest at the palace. On a sightseeing tour Mrs. Harding sprains an ankle, and sends to the Maharajah for a palanquin. Prince Rundhia, handsome, spoiled nephew of the ruler, comes to her rescue, and takes her back to the palace where he meets Lynn. At a banquet that night in the palace, attended by Captain Norwood, Mrs. Harding takes one of the native doctor's pills, and becomes violently ill.

CHAPTER IV—Continued

Lynn laughed: "That's a testimonial for me! But thank you, I'll take care of Aunty."
"No," said the doctor. He caught Rundhia's eye. Rundhia came to his rescue and made signals to the Maharane, who wanted nothing better than to have Lynn under her own roof.
"Lynn, dear, please do as the doctor tells you. Please, please."
Aunty groaned and protested that it was a shame to inflict Lynn on the Maharane, but she was overruled. She was carried out on an improvised litter and rushed to the guest-house, where Lynn's belongings were collected by the servants and conveyed to the palace.

CHAPTER V

Rundhia was puzzled and Lynn knew it. She enjoyed it. It was cool and beautiful beneath the moonlit trees in the garden.
"You are the strangest mixture of intelligence and innocence that I have ever met," said Rundhia. "You are in love with all this. You are thrilled by the exotic strangeness. But it's all old stuff to me, remember. I'm a babe in the woods, too, in a certain sense. I'm as lost as you are. Things and places don't make life worth living. It's the people in the places, and the things they do together. If you loved me and I loved you—"

"But neither of us does," Lynn interrupted. "We are East and West. Europe delights you because you can't ever really understand it. And the East enraptures me for the same reason."
"So we've that much in common," said Rundhia. "Let me tell you something else we have in common. We like each other."
"Do we?"
"Yes. One would have to be blind, deaf, demented, not to like you. What's wrong with me?"
Lynn's defensive tactic was a thousand times more shrewd than Aunty would dream of giving her credit for:

"Well, for instance, why do you dislike Captain Norwood?"
"For the same reason that he doesn't like me," said Rundhia. "Cherchez la femme. Thank the father and mother who bred him, he's only an Engineer. If he were Cavalry, I might feel jealous. Lynn, I love you."
"How many women have you said that to?"
"Hundreds. But I lied to all the others."
"I have sometimes had to lie to Aunty. But I'm not nearly as practiced a liar as you must be. Let's be truthful."
"I am telling you the truth. I have always thought myself a cynic. I didn't know I had a heart until I met you. I have found and lost it in the same moment. It is yours. What will you do with it?"
His arm crept around her. He hardly knew how she slipped away from him. She waltzed away. She ran along the path, her arms extended to embrace the moonlit luxury of hue and view and perfumed flowers. By the time he overtook her, her retort was ready:

"Perhaps you don't like men with red hair?"
"I am looking," he answered, "at your hair. I want to bury my hands in it, bathe my face in it, breathe the—"

"Borax! I washed it and the water's terrible!"
She escaped him again. Her black pajamas vanished into shadow; she became a beautiful, disembodied head in a golden aureole that asked:

"Is Captain Norwood married? I didn't ask him."
"Well, why didn't you ask him?"
"I didn't care."
"Good!" said Rundhia. "I'm going to make you care about something else. Come along. I'll behave. Come this way."

He led her up steps to the top of the ancient garden wall. There was a summerhouse on the wall, a sort of kiosk; it had been swept and provided with cushions by a servant who crouched in shadow. Rundhia ordered the servant away. He went and lurked at the foot of the steps, but Rundhia shouted at him and he fled. Rundhia led Lynn into the open-sided kiosk.

"You have promised," she said, "to behave."
"Do you believe men's promises when they're in love? Are you as naive as that?"
"Yes. Don't be silly. Let us look at the view."

"Look at me."
His eyes were hardly less fiery than the glowing end of his cigarette. They made Lynn's flesh tingle. He threw away the cigarette.
"Lynn, you romantic girl, this scene enchants you because love has stolen on you unaware. Neither of us until now has ever known what love is."
"Do you think you know now?" she retorted.
"You know I know it. You are cruel."
"I wish you'd sit farther away," she interrupted. "Why don't you make love to your own countrywomen?"
"There isn't in all India such a lovely girl as you are."
"How do you know? It's true, isn't it, that most of them are kept in seclusion and you're not allowed to see them? Is that why you make love to me? Why not burgle a zenana?"
"Lynn," he said, "I don't make love. I am love. And you also. We are love itself, as a musician becomes music. Why waste the glorious hours?"
"What do you know about music?" she retorted. "Can you sing Indian songs?"
"Yes, love songs! I play the guitar."
"You can? What fun! Why not get it? There couldn't be a more perfect place for singing than this garden wall in moonlight."

Rundhia sensed that he had cast his fly too boldly. She wasn't hooked. She needed more subtle persuasion. He shouted to the servant to fetch the guitar. There was no answer; the servant had taken him too strictly at his word, he was out of earshot. Rundhia shouted again and again. He swore under his breath. Then he governed his anger and smiled at Lynn:
"Will you wait here if I go and get it?"
"Yes, but—"
"What?"
"You look murderous. Don't whip the servant!"
His undercover man was waiting for him in the usual place, by the gate in the wall that separated the Maharajah's palace from Rundhia's—an unimportant-looking but peculiarly unmeek Hindu, who spoke in a low voice without preliminary gestures of respect:
"The priests have learned of Captain Norwood's arrival. They sent me to speak with his Eurasian spy, O'Leary, who is a reptile. O'Leary has already detected the opening of the mine."
Rundhia thought swiftly, and spoke slowly: "Go and tell the priests that Captain Norwood is here to line his own pocket. Say he is in debt and seeks an opportunity to pay his debts. His secret report will be in favor of the highest bidder. But don't say you heard it from me. Say O'Leary was drunk and you heard it from him. Make it perfectly clear to the priests that any other officer than Norwood would be scrupulously fair, so let them think about it."
Then Rundhia found a servant in the garden of his own palace and sent him running to fetch the guitar.

The palace front gate clanged behind Norwood. The sullen sentry stood at ease, then easy and resumed his snooze. Norwood turned his horse along the road by the palace wall, riding slowly because the sais was following on foot. He had ridden about fifty yards to a curve in the road when O'Leary stepped forth from a shadow. He didn't look like O'Leary. He was wearing a turban, and dressed like a dripping wet, dirty Hindu of no caste or ostensible occupation. Norwood drew rein and listened, watching the road for pedestrians.

"I didn't stable the mare in the city. She's back in camp. I'll need her later."
"What for?"
"As soon as I'm dressed decent again, I'll go back to the bazaar. I told a yarn about coming back to camp for more money. I'm going to need it."
"What happened?"
"Plenty. I was right about Noor Mahlam. They've ditched him. So I did too. He was only ground bait. He talked too much, then tried to have me knifed to stop me talking. They'd a trap set for me and I walked straight into it. A woman. I'll tell you about her later; she'd fill a dictionary."
"Never mind about the woman. What happened?"
"Nothing happened there. It couldn't. I left your mare tied up to the veranda railing, military saddle and all, and your initials on the bridle. So they couldn't take chances. And I could. And I did."
"That's enough about you. What happened?"
"Kindergarten stuff. Confidence game. The woman's bully flattered me. I knew the woman's sister in Lahore, and he said the woman's sister'd given me a rep for being smarter than most, and a man of my word. Then he introduced me to the woman. She's all honey and poison. Sister my eye. Two words, and I knew she was lying about that."
"Never mind her lies, or whose sister she is. How much truth did she tell you?"
"Not much, barring that I'm the most exciting man she'd ever seen. She was true enough excited, so I knew the bully was listening in; and he weren't her proper bully neither; he was someone who'd been rung in on her, and she scared o' him and not used to his ways. She said there'd be a thousand rupees for me if I'd act discreet."
"Those thousand rupees?" asked Norwood.
"Trust your Moses O'Leary. I asked her that quick. She said it was Prince Rundhia's thousand rupees. So I knew it wasn't."
"What does she want you to do?"
"She told me a mess o' lies about Prince Rundhia having quarrelled with the temple Brahmins, and him wanting to get back at 'em, to spite 'em. She told me, and I acted surprised, that there's a diamond mine in the temple area. There's a thousand rupees for me if I persuade you to run your survey line slap through the temple area, so that the mine will belong to the Maharajah instead of the temple priests."
"What did you tell her?"
"I said you're easy, but you're honest. I said I'll have to find some way of artfully deceiving you if you're to do what's needed. I said I'd have to look into it, and I made her tell me where the mine is and how to get a look at it. She came clean."
"How did she know?"
"She'd been told. And she was out of her depth already. She wanted word with the bully, and she tried to get me to stay where I was. But I thought of the bay mare standing outside in the alley, and she fidgety, and you fond o' the mare and liable to find fault with me if she should come to harm. And I guessed it 'ud be wise to look into the woman's story first."

"You'd better leave that woman and her bully guessing, and show me the mine. Where is it?"
O'Leary pointed: "Two hours from now, when the moon's about there, I can guide you to a place where you can see along under the apron of water."
"Very well, O'Leary. Which way did you come?"
"Short cut. Don't you try it. Horse might break a leg."
"All right, I'll follow the road. Meet me in camp."
O'Leary vanished. Norwood had ridden another fifty yards when he heard angry shouting, several times repeated. He wasn't sure, but he thought he also heard a girl's voice. He rode forward slowly and then, a bit alarmed by the ensuing silence, stirred his horse to a canter. He drew rein, looking upward at Lynn, not much more than two or three minutes after Rundhia had left her. She was sitting in full moonlight on top of the wall, on a cushion, with one foot hanging over the wall and her back against the kiosk.
"Hello!" he remarked. "Did Rundhia leave you all alone here?"
"He said he'd come back."
"Well, he'll keep that promise. How well do you know him?"
"I met him for the first time this evening."
"Like him?"
"Shouldn't I?"
"At your age, there is danger in exotic likes and dislikes."
"I'm twenty-two."
"You don't look it. I had guessed you as eighteen. However, no doubt you know how to take care of yourself among men of your own race. I'm taking it for granted that you're a nice girl with a sense of humor but a bit rebellious against certain sorts of restraint. All this is new, and you're enjoying it. You like the Indian setting, and the novelty and the moonlight and all that stuff."
"Don't you?"
"Yes. And I like you. I would not like to hear of you making a mess of your life for the sake of a spot of excitement. You don't understand India. You don't understand Rundhia."
A shadow moved. Someone chuckled:
"Doesn't she?"
Rundhia loomed on the wall with a guitar in his hand. He smiled down at Norwood. The moonlight shone on his teeth.
"We were reaching a beautiful understanding," said Rundhia. "Are you on your way to camp? Well, it's a grand night for a ride. Sorry you're tired and sleepy."
Norwood eased his horse a little nearer to the wall. He gave the reins to the sais. In another moment he was standing upright on the saddle, with his head within six inches of the top of the wall:
"I am not so sleepy as perhaps I look," he answered. "Give me a hand up, Rundhia."
Lynn watched. This was something altogether new in her experience. Rundhia hesitated. Moonlight betrayed him. Rundhia felt tempted to refuse. But he hadn't the iron. He could have scared the horse and made Norwood look ridiculous. But he hadn't the nerve. Lynn felt sorry for him. With a shrug he handed the guitar to her, in order to use both hands to help Norwood scramble up the wall.
"You weren't invited," said Rundhia.
Norwood stared. "No, I noticed it. Can you strum on that thing?"
Lynn spoke with all the malice she could put into her voice:
"You like music, Captain Norwood? I supposed your line was engineering and ordering people about."

Zoo Animals Turn Popular Beliefs to Fables

An elephant's memory is no longer than its tail. Humming birds, so fragile that they seem winged insects, are greedier than pigs. Monkeys prefer popcorn to bananas. The house cat is more cruel than a beast of the jungle.
In fact, name any popular belief about animals and it's a good two to one bet that it is wrong.
That's the conclusion of experts after actual observation at the Chicago Zoological park at Brookfield. Consider the elephant, most maligned of the animal kingdom.
He is supposed to live the 969 years of Methuselah, but instead lives only the three score and ten of man. The female is said to breed at the age of 40 or 50; in reality, she breeds at six and eight years. Her pregnancy is said to endure seven years; as a matter of fact, it is 19 months, which is short enough, considering the size of her offspring.
And the elephant's memory! Legend says it is enduring, tenacious. Do an elephant an injury today and he will repay you in kind 15 years later. Brookfield officials say this is apesauce.
"An elephant's memory probably is not as good as that of other animals," Robert Bean, assistant director and curator of mammals, declared.

"I never heard anyone who worked with them say their memory amounted to anything. Take Honey and Tembo, the baby elephants that Christoph Schulz captured and brought here."
"When he found Honey, she was a baby, half starved and wandering in the jungle. He brought her here, feeding her by bottle, and she would follow him everywhere. When he left, she tried to trumpet, but when he came back eight months later she didn't remember him at all. Schulz," he added, "was very disappointed."
Elephants, too, are said to be afraid of mice. The truth is, Mr. Bean says, that they ignore them, making the pachyderm house at Brookfield the hardest in the park to feed of mice. Elephants like cats, however, and allow them free access to the stalls. The only animal most of them despise, Mr. Bean says, is man.

THE CHRISTIAN'S CONFESSION OF FAITH

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 16:13-24. GOLDEN TEXT—Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God.—Matthew 16:16.

Many outstanding miracles had been performed by our Lord during His ministry in Galilee, and now as that period of His earthly work was drawing to a close He went with the disciples north into the great heathen center, Caesarea Philippi. Here He asked them life's greatest question, "What think ye of the Christ?" and Peter, blessed of God with true utterance, became the instrument for that confession of Christ upon which He could found His Church. Then there came from His blessed lips the prophecy of His death and resurrection which would make it possible for all who believe to become the sons of God and members of that Church.

I. The Question—Who is the Son of Man? (vv. 13-17).

The question of Christ was general at first, and in the answer we find that the people of our Lord's own day had a very high opinion of Him. They saw in Him the combined merits of the outstanding characters of their generation. They knew that He was no ordinary individual. He had made a striking impression on His own age, as indeed He has on every age of human history.

Observe carefully that such a confession of Christ is not sufficient. It is not enough to acknowledge Him as the great teacher, the perfect example, or the way-shower. To deny His divinity, to take from Him His place as Son of the living God is to make of Him an impostor and a fraud.

The personal question which follows, "Whom say ye that I am?" is the supremely important question from which no man can escape. Neutrality is impossible. Whatever we do or fail to do declares our position. "What think ye of Christ?" is the touchstone which determines character, condition and destiny.

Peter by the grace of God had come to the place where he recognized the one with whom he was having blessed fellowship in service as the Messiah, the Anointed One, the Son of the living God. We too should be so responsive to the guidance and control of the Holy Spirit that He may be able to teach us spiritual truth, which flesh and blood can never reveal.

II. The Church—Its True Foundation (vv. 18-20).

Christ, the Son of the living God, is the rock upon which the Church is built. The confession by Peter of this fact is in response to the question of Christ, "Whom say ye that I am?" and hence clearly relates to Christ, not to Peter, or to anything in Peter's personality. He was indeed blessed in his confession of Christ, but it is Christ who is the rock upon which the powerful and glorious Church is founded.

It follows without possibility of denial that only that organization which truly represents Jesus as the Christ, the Son of the living God, has any right to call itself a church. Countless are the groups calling themselves churches which are nothing but social or intellectual clubs with possibly a slightly religious flavor, for they deny the deity of Christ. Why are they not honest enough to take their proper names and their rightful places in the community? Is it because they wish to have the financial support of God's people and bear the good name of the Church?

III. The Cross—for Christ and for Me (vv. 21-24).

The shadow of the cross falls across the little gathering of disciples as the Lord tells them of His impending death on the cross. Note that He rightly coupled with the fact of His death the truth of the resurrection, which gives it true meaning and which carries us beyond the darkness of Calvary to the light and beauty of Easter morning.

Peter who had a moment before spoken for God, now becomes the mouthpiece of the devil. From confessing his Lord, Peter turned to tempting Him to avoid the cross. That he "meant well" does not excuse Peter's folly, nor does it excuse the blundering though well-meaning misdirections which many are giving to the souls of men in our day. Had Jesus yielded to the solicitation of the Evil One through Peter, there would never have been any redemption from sin wrought out on Calvary's cross.

But we observe in verse 24 that there is a cross for the Christian as well as for Christ. Obviously we can never bear His cross, He alone could do that, but we are to take up our own cross and deny ourselves and follow Him. Self on the cross—Christ on the throne—such is the secret of real discipleship.

AROUND THE HOUSE

Do not waste cake or bread by cutting off a burned crust. This can be removed by a flat grater, and it will leave a smooth surface, instead of a jagged crust.

Prunes for Puddings.—Prunes lend themselves to almost any form of bread pudding. For this purpose it is well to soak them until the stones can be taken out easily, and then chop them.

When using soap dyes that come in cake form, put cake into soap shaker and shake until dye is right color. It will not then be necessary to strain dye.

To clean a griddle that has become crusted, put over a very hot fire and cover thickly with salt. After the salt has burned brown, the crust and salt will brush off together, leaving the griddle like new. After washing the griddle, grease well and heat before putting away.

An excellent cleaning "weapon" for kitchen utensils is found in a good-sized bottle cork. Moisten the bottom end, dip it in a powdered cleaner and rub the utensils.

To clean rubber sponges, put half an ounce of bicarbonate of soda in half a pint of water and soak them all night in this solution.

Salted meat requires longer boiling than fresh. Put it into cold water, quickly bring it to a boil, then let it simmer.

Touch of Garlic.—Rub the broiler lightly with a clove of garlic before broiling a steak.

For Dessert.—When you have a saucer of apple sauce and don't know what to have for dessert, make a one-egg layer cake, dust the lower layer with powdered sugar and spread with the apple sauce (and this is improved if a bit of candied orange, lemon or grapefruit peel has been cooked with it). Cover with the other layer and dust powdered sugar over the top.

Panic Favor Autumn

It seems that most panics occur in the autumn. Black Friday, one of the worst in September, 1869, and the panic of '73 started in September. The 1907 panic was in the autumn. An exception was the beginning of the 1920-21 depression, which broke in April. The panic of 1929 began in October.

Not a six but an EIGHT for $895 and up

Delivered at Flint, Mich. *Transportation based on rail rates, state and local taxes (if any), optional equipment and accessories—extra. Prices subject to change without notice.

The model illustrated is the Buick SUPER model 51 four-door touring sedan $1109 delivered at Flint, Mich. White sidewall tires additional.*

YOU look this smooth-stepping Buick honey over, and its very manner tells you here's a one-in-a-million kind of automobile.

You look at the advertised prices, add something more for transportation and accessories—and there you begin to go wrong!

For one of the things that give this Buick its buy-value is the number of items included in the price that cost extra elsewhere!

For instance—the Flash-Way Direction Signal, standard on all models, costs around $10 extra elsewhere—even without the automatic cut-off.

Every Buick comes to you with automatic choke and an efficient oil cleaner—it's surprising how often they're sold as "extras."

Every Buick has dual horns, dual sun visors, locks on both front doors, electric lighter, assist straps, robe cord, glove compartment

Every Buick has a Dynaflex valve-in-head straight-eight engine, micropoise-balanced after assembly. Every one has two stabilizers, and rear coil springs that never need lubrication.

All have torque-tube drive, battery under hood, two ways of starting. Super and Roadmaster have front seats close to five feet wide and all models have Safety Plate Glass all around.

And all this is included in the at-the-factory price. Why not see the nearest Buick dealer and see how little more it costs delivered to your door?

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS BY JOSEPH W. LaBINE

Short Congress Held Unlikely As Controversial Issues Arise; Farm Tax Fight Splits Cabinet

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

What They're Saying About:

Third Party

WASHINGTON wisecracks see trouble ahead for the LaGuardia-Ickes-Murphy "third party" movement which would presumably draft President Roosevelt to run again. Reason: All third party movements have failed, the nearest thing to success coming in 1912 when Theodore Roosevelt started the Bull-Moose-Progressive movement after losing the G. O. P. nomination. This campaign divided the opposition (G. O. P.) and enabled Democratic Woodrow Wilson to win. But this year the G. O. P. is united, and a third party would split the Democrats, thus aiding the Republican cause.

DAVIES
New job.

Reich Wrecks

Germany's serious train wrecks are viewed as a good indication of the Reich's serious economic plight. Nazidom's railroad extension and repair program has suffered since 1936. Meanwhile Hitler's economic program placed new burdens on the rails, climaxed by heavy troop and ammunition movements since the war started. In the latest wrecks (nine in all since September 1) there were 182 killed and 139 injured—all within a few hours.

Tariff Walls

State tariff walls which discriminate against out-of-state products are apt to fall in 1940 if the Council of State Governments goes through with its anticipated program. At least 43 of the states (all except Arizona, Idaho, Missouri, North Dakota and Washington) already have interstate co-operation commissions which will begin holding sectional conferences.

Dies Blunder

Many in official Washington believe the Dies committee erred grievously in waiting until the last minute before releasing its report on alleged Communist penetration in the Hollywood motion picture colony. Reason: The un-Americanism hearings automatically end when congress convenes, making it impossible to hold a public airing of the charges. With or without foundation, there is bound to be a complaint that persons named in the report have no opportunity to defend themselves. This will hurt the committee's drive for new funds.

Davies' Job

Anti-Roosevelt forces are making political capital out of the appointment of Joseph E. Davies, former ambassador to Russia and Belgium who has just been named "special assistant" in the state department. The current story: Davies is married to Mrs. Marjorie Post Close Hutton, cereal heiress, who reportedly didn't like the bleakness of Moscow when her husband was granted that ambassadorship for helping the Democratic war chest. Apparently disappointed when Joseph Kennedy was named ambassador to London, Davies was given Belgium as a consolation prize. Still dissatisfied, says the story, he was brought back to Washington and given the new post in an effort to keep the Davies-Post interests in line for 1940's election. Even if the story is true, Davies' knowledge of the European situation may nevertheless prove helpful to the state department. He has an intimate picture of the Moscow situation.

THE WARS:

In the North

Already a queer war in which soldiers wear ghostly white robes and travel on skis, the Finnish-Russian conflict took on a new note: Finns sent their night patrols across frozen lakes on ice skates. Next day their field guns blasted holes in the ice as Russians began crossing, Soviet troops drowning like rats. Generally speaking, battalions of 600 superior Finnish soldiers were holding off Russian divisions of 18,000 men, all the way from Petsamo on the north to the Karelian isthmus on the south.

But a month of such humiliation was enough for Russia's Dictator Josef Stalin. While the Finns chuckled over their success in penetrating Soviet soil almost to the Leningrad-Murmansk railroad, the Kremlin was reported throwing 300,000 fresh men into the fray under a new command. The officers were said to be Joe Stalin's "personal friends," who now have their choice of winning or being personal friends no longer.

In the West

Said a French communique: "There was nothing important to report . . ."

Said a German communique: "With the exception of weak enemy artillery fire, the day was quiet."

DISASTER:

Turkish Quake

At Geneva, London and many other points, seismologists found their seismographs awry, indicating an earthquake somewhere in the vicinity of southern Russia. A few hours later word leaked out of Ankara, Turkey. From the north, where Turkey borders the Black sea, came news of a major catastrophe in which upwards of 10,000 had probably died.

PEOPLE:

Royal Speech

Opening a parliament which must appropriate the largest budget in Japan's history, Emperor Hirohito hailed an "improvement" in foreign relations, yet indicated his army should make the most of Europe's war: "With the outbreak of disturbances in Europe, the . . . situation has become extremely complicated. You must therefore make a close study of conditions . . . and direct your efforts to expand the national power so the conviction of the empire may be realized . . ."

HIROHITO
"Improvement . . ."

Both Mr. Hull and the President have vowed a last-ditch defense on this matter, which could easily produce a long and heated session. Importance: An administration defeat would mean that congress favors Republican high tariffs, giving the G. O. P. an important foothold for 1940 in the important farm areas.

I-Told-You-So

Announcing a 20-year contract for sale of Bonneville (Wash.) dam's power to the Aluminum Company of America, Secretary of Interior Harold Ickes called it "a factual answer to those skeptics who claim there is no real demand for power" from government plants on the Columbia river. It was revealed Alcoa plans a plant at Vancouver costing several million dollars.

ICKES
"Factual answer . . ."

ASIA:

Army in the Saddle

U. S. business men in China were cold to Japan's announcement that foreign shipping in the Yangtze river would soon be resumed. This new concession would probably mean little; indeed it might never come to pass if the U. S. refuses a new trade treaty when the present Japanese pact expires January 26. But there was a growing opinion among Occidentals in the Orient that their biggest enemy was not the Japanese government of Premier Nobuyuki Abe, but rather the powerful army. Therefore it would be smart to play ball with Premier Abe, for his cabinet must fall if the trade talks fail. This would place the hostile army in command, leaving U. S. business men stranded. Some hint of the situation was dropped in Washington where Japanese Ambassador Kenesue Horinouchi intimated that already his government must seek the approval of army officers in China before granting the U. S. any new concessions.

NAMES

. . . in the news

At Philadelphia died Henry L. Doherty, multi-millionaire public utilities executive and oil man, who left school at the age of 12 to work for the Columbus (O.) gas company.

At Sacramento, Son James Roosevelt and two other Los Angeles men filed articles of incorporation with Globe Productions, Inc., a motion picture and radio firm.

American Canteen Serves a Cup of Tea to Tommy

Lady Astor, left, is shown serving tea to a British soldier as she inaugurated the first of the American canteens in London. These canteens were presented by American women in England. From them free snacks will be served to soldiers, featuring doughnuts and hamburgers. The latter are slow in gaining favor with the Tommies, who claim they are filled amply during regular "mess." Additional canteens, donated by the same group, will be opened soon in several convenient points in England.

Cosmic Ray Photographers Get Chilly Reception

It was 38 degrees below zero near Chicago recently—but John Q. Citizen didn't know about it, for that temperature recording was made at an altitude of 29,300 feet. A party of photographers ascended to that height to photograph cosmic rays. Perhaps Santa Claus' whiskers serve a practical purpose. They help keep him warm.

Now He, Too, Is Gone With the Wind

Seated before the typewriter in his New York home, Howard Rushmore writes his own exclusive story telling just why he resigned as movie critic of the Communist publication, the Daily Worker. He refused to criticize the motion picture, "Gone With the Wind," in his review and as a result was forced to quit his post. Rushmore's article exposed the "pressure" brought to bear by Moscow on the Communist newspaper.

Finnish Air Raid 'Ears' Warn Gunners

Advance indication of raiding Russian airplanes is given by these sound detectors in the Rovaniemi section of Finland. The "ears" tell the anti-aircraft gunners that planes are approaching before they come into sight.

Oil Land Judge

The problem of legal compensation to United States and other foreign oil companies for lands seized by the Mexican government now rests with Judge Ponciano Hernandez, who will appoint an appraiser to evaluate oil properties.

Dark Victory

Blind since birth, Miss Lillian Hillman of New York saw a lifetime ambition realized recently when she was given a specially written part in a new Guild Theater play, "The World We Make."

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—The Finns are going ahead bravely with their plans for this year's Olympic games, and Urho Kekkonen, minister of the interior, crowding 50, defeated another statesman in the 100-meter race, coming under the wire in 12.5 seconds. His time in a race against the same opponent 15 years ago, was 10.9. Recently, in the Trisathlon, 10 members of the Finnish parliament, some of them with a touch of frost over the ears, engaged in the 100-meter sprint, the broad jump and shot-putting events.

Olympic Flame Still Burning In Helsinki

Mr. Kekkonen, a leader in Finnish politics since Finland gained her independence in 1917, is president of the Finnish Athletic federation and a fervent advocate and exemplar of physical fitness. When, in 1932, the Swedes disqualified Paavo Nurmi, the Finnish distance runner, as an amateur, the Finns slapped a boycott on the Swedes, and, for years thereafter, there was bickering in the Baltic, with Mr. Kekkonen out in front as a peace advocate. In 1935, the Finns refused to lift the boycott, but, under the shadow of foreign aggression, this was more or less forgotten and the sprinting statesman was in the lead for Scandinavian solidarity, in war and sports.

He helped suppress the Communist party in 1930, and with equal vigor drove against the Fascists in later years. In November of last year, the diet sustained him in his move to restrain the 373 Fascist and Nazi organizations in Finland, and their 18 newspapers, but, a month later, a Helsinki magistrate sustained his totalitarian opponents. He followed with a devastating expose of their subversive activities and had the nub of the argument when Germany made its deal with Red Russia, Finland's old bete noir. The Russians are now complaining bitterly that the Finnish sprinters, in the cabinet and out, insist on running in their direction. They seem to think it isn't sporting.

LONG before the Civil war, girls like Scarlett O'Hara were learning to curtsy and how to enter a ballroom in Athens college, at Athens, Ala. Along with news of Atlanta's grand swirl of crinoline and old lace comes word that Athens college, of prunes and prisms tradition, is putting in a big hosiery mill to be operated by the college girls. It will employ 100 students, at 25 cents an hour.

Dr. Eugene Rudolph Naylor, president of the college, thought up the mill plan and gathered funds for it. He says, "This is a liberal arts college, steeped in the traditions of the Old South, and the main purpose of this experiment is to give the students means to obtain a liberal arts education."

Fine Stockings From Athens College

"And," he might have added, "silk stockings to match the education." Cactus colleges have been getting their turn in the spotlight for turning out lethal football. Dr. Naylor, an alumnus of several of them, has been working small-college innovations, of possibly greater interest and importance. He has been president of Columbia college of Milton, Ore., Woman's college of Jackson, Tenn., Logan and Athens colleges, dean of Logan college and professor at Wesleyan, and Emory and Henry colleges. He is a resourceful educator who thinks it's a good idea for girls to learn how much material and work goes into a pair of silk stockings.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S first dollar-a-year man becomes president of the $1,000,000,000 Associated Gas and Electric company. He is Roger J. Whiteford, Washington lawyer, and former general counsel for the Federal Housing administration.

Chalk Up One More for Little Red Schoolhouse

It is a score for the little red schoolhouse in his home town of Whiteford, Md.—named after his ancestors—a schoolhouse in which two signers of the Declaration of Independence were taught. After his graduation from West Nottingham academy, he was a high school principal for five years, at Sandy Springs and Rockville, Md., studied law and began practice at Washington.

His career has been advanced in his profession, and in finance—he holds several important industrial directorates—and his dollar-a-year job was his one side-turn to public life.

CONGRESS:

Lineup for Battle

Back to Washington each New Year's day scurry the nation's lawmakers. This year they hope to scurry home again a few weeks later, for 1940 is an election year and there are plenty of fences in need of patching. But as Franklin Roosevelt began working on his state-of-the-union and budget messages, and as Henry Wallace and Henry Morgenthau carried their tax battle into the open, there was no sign that congress would be short lived.

Main Rooseveltian aims are (1) retention of all New Deal policies, including neutrality and the reciprocal trade program; (2) appropriation of $550,000,000 which congress "owes" the treasury for farm benefits which were approved but not provided for; (3) bigger defense program; (4) as little fighting as possible, to keep the New Deal's skeletons in the closet. But no observer expected a pink tea party on these issues.

Agriculture. Formally announced was Henry Wallace's plan to siphon a minimum of $300,000,000 annually directly from consumers to help finance his farm program. Facts of the "certificate plan": Co-operating farmers would receive income certificates valued at the difference between the market price of the crop and the "parity price." Processors and others buying crops would be required to buy the certificates, thus retiring them. This was a good scheme, except that Henry Morgenthau's treasury complained about:

Taxes. There is little hope that the President's 1940-41 budget can be balanced; even though new finance methods are found for agricultural benefits, other expenses will be on the up grade. Most U. S. business favors tax modification, and certainly the average congressman dislikes to impose new levies in an election year. But the President has indicated that new revenue sources will be left up to congress, thus washing his hands of the entire matter. As for agriculture, conservative Henry Morgenthau complained the certificate plan is really an "invisible" tax, pointing out that 63.1 per cent of all U. S. taxes are already paid by consumers.

National Debt. Raising this above the present $45,000,000,000 limit is one way of circumventing new taxes. Mr. Morgenthau, commenting that the debt is already within $3,000,000,000 of that mark, says he'll simply quit writing checks when he strikes the limit.

Defense. Though he expected little opposition to his proposed increase in national defense expenditures, the President got a hint of the battle to come when Ohio's G. O. P. Sen. Robert Taft, himself a presidential aspirant, warned against a "national defense spree."

Trade Program. Under heavy G. O. P. fire, Secretary of State Cordell Hull's reciprocal trade program comes up for renewal this session.

RELIGION:

Peace Drive

A marked theological flutter followed President Roosevelt's appointment of Myron C. Taylor, former U. S. Steel head, as his "personal representative" to the Vatican. Well-timed at the Christmastide, the President's message to Pope Pius XII, Dr. George Buttrick of the Federal Council of Churches and Rabbi Cyrus Adler, president of the Jewish Theological Seminary, sought to unite world spiritual forces in a peace drive.

Said Dr. Buttrick: "We share the President's confidence that men and women in every land have a basic faith in God and therefore in human brotherhood, and that even in the present chaos . . . they are preparing a better day."

DR. BUTTRICK
Shared the President's confidence.

Down in Atlanta, Baptist Rev. Louie D. Newton questioned the move, asking (1) if Taylor's salary is to be paid by the government; (2) if congress has passed such an enabling act; (3) if Taylor will consider the Vatican a religious or political body; (4) if the President has a right to send him.

Next day White House Secretary Steve Early announced the U. S. has no intention of according the Vatican the diplomatic recognition which was withdrawn in 1867, but pointed out that the President has a right to name an "ambassador without portfolio" with the same privileges as those enjoyed recently by Norman H. Davis, who acted as European trouble shooter.

Winter Sports Have "Grown Up" in Eastern and Central Michigan

Things used to be dull in the wintertime for many of the summer resort towns. "Guess we'll hole up for the winter" was a common expression among the natives.

It's easy for an adult to loaf, but children have to keep busy to avoid mischief. So the city fathers flooded ice skating areas, built primitive toboggan runs. They soon noticed, as at Alpena, that child delinquency took a drop when winter sports were made available.

When the child finished his skating, he was just too tired to think up any new ideas—so he went home to bed. The story was similar at Grayling. The slide on Johnson's hill was mostly "for the kids"—some of the local people grumbled at the mild expense of maintaining a slide for such a childish pastime.

But in helping the youngsters, adults became interested themselves. When that happened, snow centers in eastern and central Michigan rapidly developed into facilities for both children and adults.

Now, almost every town of any size has a winter sports program. Some are local propositions and others attract enthusiasts from all over Michigan and out-state. Thousands take snow trains and busses. Motorists discovered that the Michigan Highway Department is very efficient in removing snow and ice from the highways. Resort towns learned it was possible to make their town a "four season playground" in fact as well as name.

Many Snow and Ice Carnivals
This year, many special festivals and carnivals are on the winter docket. Grayling is going in for a jamboree January 6-7 at which time major baseball players will gather to select a queen. This celebration will call attention to the half-million dollar improvement program now in progress at the park. The Michigan Department of Conservation is cooperating with the National Park Service who are directing the construction work. $256,000 has already been expended for this year's improvements.

Entertainment is the keynote at Alpena. The Sixth Annual Winter Sports Carnival and Michigan Outdoor Speed Skating Championships are scheduled for January 20-23 inclusive. Events will get a real start January 20-21 when the best speed skating talent in Michigan will be brought together for the races. During the nine days of fun, 250 members of a professionally trained figure skating group will stage costumed performances. Snow trains, hockey games and dances will round out the week.

At Cheboygan, each Sunday during the season, expert figure skaters will stage Mardi Gras, Masquerades, Fiestas, and so forth. The dates for the usual 2-day festival are unannounced.

Tobogganing Remains Popular
The improvement program at the Silver Valley Winter Sports plant near East Tawas includes a lengthened double toboggan slide with curve at the bottom to provide an additional thrill. This federal park, in the heart of the Huron National Forest, is one of the most appealing winter sports areas in Michigan. A new feature is the "Ting-a-ling" slide where the tops of garbage cans, coal scoops, snow shovels, dish pans and all manner of contrivances may be used to slide down hill. There will be a bobsled run.

Grayling's improvement program includes one of the safest and fastest toboggan runs in the world. Enthusiasts whizz down the icy chutes a distance of 3,100 feet at speeds estimated up to 100 miles per hour. The troughs are terraced and set in steel side walls to insure maximum speed and safety.

Alpena offers a three trough run with plenty of zip and speed. Lewistown, Atlanta, Gaylord, Brighton, Cassville, Port Austin and others are busily preparing their toboggan runs.

All Offer Ice Skating
In Michigan, one can count more ice skates than skis on a snow train. Every winter sports center has a rink, and new ones are being constructed every year. Silver Valley has a new rink, an acre in size, constructed along the border of sparkling Silver Creek, a trout stream flowing through the center of the park. Cheboygan too, is building a new rink to relieve congestion on the old one which has accommodated as high as 1,500 persons. Grayling has a huge new skating rink. Alpena has one of the largest official outdoor rinks in Michigan,—ice skating is definitely in the picture.

Skiing Shows Increased Popularity
Taking a cue from Canadian and Western snow centers, skiing is being taken up as a hobby by thousands. "Anyone of average physical equipment can learn to ski safely and enjoyably," states Heinz Von Allmen, Swiss ski champ. "And you don't have to start when you're young," he adds.

At Grayling, there is an expert ski instructor to coach youngsters and adults. Ski trails are being charted and mapped for miles around the vicinity. The high hills, free from trees and obstructions are safe places to learn. Then, too, East Tawas offers four ski slides, each about 700 feet in length with varying degrees of difficulty. The rangers of the National Forest are laying out new ski trails for those that desire cross country exercise.

Weather Reports
Weather reports on ice and snow conditions will emanate from the Detroit bureau throughout the winter so that parties won't be disappointed by a sudden change of weather. For further winter sports information, write the chairman of any of the winter sports centers mentioned, or the East Michigan Tourist Association, Bay City, Michigan.

No Cows Brought by Pilgrims

No cows were brought by the Pilgrims to the United States in 1620. The first cows imported were in 1624, by Governor Winthrop, according to Albert S. Bolles in the Industrial History of the United States. These cows were raised primarily for hides, secondarily for meat, and only incidentally for milk.
