TAWAS CITY

OBSERVE 54TH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. S. Ferguson Congratulated by Many Friends

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Ferguson, of this city, observed their 54th wedding anniversary last Sunday with a family gathering at their residence and the receiving of congratulations from their many friends in the community.

They were married January 26, 1886, at Chesley, Ontario. Mrs. Ferguson, whose maiden name was Isabelle McCordra, was born in Bruce county, Ontario, August 7, 1867. Mr. Ferguson was born November 24, 1862, at Kincardine, Ontario.

They came to this community shortly after their marriage, going to East Tawas, where Mr. Ferguson followed his trade of carpenter and was employed in the lumber mills. Later Mr. Ferguson became interested in the grocery business in that city. In 1904 the family moved to Tawas City where he entered the grocery and meat business. This business he has operated continuously for 36 years. Although he is 78 years old he continues active in the business and is in the market every morning at 7:45.

In addition to the busy life in his market, Mr. Ferguson has been active in civic affairs. During 1913-1914 he served the city as mayor and in 1918-20 he held the post of register of deeds for this county. He is a Mason and an Oddfellow.

Mr. Ferguson is active in church work and is a prominent member of the Twentieth Century club, the Tawas City Chapter of the Eastern Star and Irene Rebekah Lodge. She is president of the Baptist Ladies Aid.

In celebrating the event last Sunday, among the guests present were Mr. and Mrs. George Ferguson and daughter, Betty Jane, of Saginaw; Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Tuttle and Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Ferguson and two little daughters, Shirley and Faye.

The Tawas Herald congratulates Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson and wishes them continued health and happiness.

She is survived by her parents, three brothers, John, Stanton and Joseph, one sister, Betty, besides a large number of other relatives and friends. She attended school in Detroit. The family have lived in East Tawas since last summer.

Lincoln Day Banquet

Rep. Everett M. Dirksen, of Illinois, will be the main speaker at a Lincoln Day dinner of Republicans of the 10th congressional district at Consistory Cathedral, Bay City, February 26.

Appearing on the program with the Illinois Congressman will be Rep. Roy O. Woodruff, of Bay City.

The dinner is being sponsored by club and the Young Republican Women's club, with the cooperation of other local Republican organizations.

Evangelistic Services at Hale Methodist Church

Rev. Harris, of Illinois, a Methodist evangelist, will begin a Lenten Evangelistic meetings, at the Hale Methodist church, starting Sunday, February 4, and will continue for three weeks. Services will be held nightly, except Saturday night, at 7:45 o'clock. On Sunday, services will also be held in the morning at 10:00 o'clock, with Sunday school following.

Rev. Harris comes to us highly recommended by other Methodist pastors, where he has held successful meetings. He is a fine singer and worker among young people. He also brings a good straight gospel message. Rev. Harris just concluded a fine series of meetings in the Rose City Methodist circuit, where he was well received and successful.

The pastor, Rev. H. C. Watkins, urges all in the vicinity of Hale to be sure to avail themselves of the opportunity of attending these meetings. At Lent a greater emphasis is placed on spiritual things, why not start Lent out right, by becoming really interested in the salvation of men.

Beginning Sunday, March 3, a series of Lenten Evangelistic meetings will begin at the Whittemore Methodist church, running up to Easter. Rev. Miss Imogene Quinn, a Methodist Evangelist, from Indianapolis, Indiana, who was here last year, will be the speaker. Remember these dates and meetings.

Mrs. Duell Pearsall introduced the speaker of the evening, Mrs. Mier, of Bay City, Director of District 2.A. Mrs. Mier's talk was about the aims and purposes of the P.T.A. One of the interesting points of her address was the progress the P.T.A. has made since its founding.

AGED MAN FOUND DEAD NEAR HIS BURNED HOME

G. Brown of Baldwin; Had Not Been Seen For Several Days

George Brown, age 86, of Baldwin township, was discovered dead near the charred remains of his home Thursday by Sheriff John Moran and Wm. Stonehouse. Mr. Brown's clothing was partly burned and it is thought that death was due to burns.

Mr. Brown lived alone at his home about five miles from East Tawas. He had not been seen for several days and sheriff Moran went out to investigate, discovering the tragedy. Apparently the accident had occurred several days previous.

Funeral services will be held from the Evans funeral home Saturday. Rev. James Colby officiating. Burial will be in the Tawas City cemetery.

The deceased is survived by three sons, Claude and Earl of East Tawas, Edward of Bay City, and four daughters, Mrs. Mildred Walton and Mrs. Myrtle Heinz of Detroit, Mrs. Ruby Simpson of California and Mrs. Cory Corey of East Tawas.

1940 to be Prosperous Year Says Farm Expert

Operators of the state's 196,000 farms can afford to be optimistic about prospects for 1940.

In the opinion of R. V. Gunn, Michigan State College agricultural economist, prices for most farm products should average higher than they did in either 1938 or 1939. His survey is a result of studying probable demands and supplies and estimating Michigan's condition for the next twelvemonth. He has probed possibilities of production and consumption and he has taken war factors into consideration.

"Demands for farm products is expected to be considerably stronger in 1940," says the economist. "Reasons are found largely in prospective increases in domestic business activity and in income levels."

"Don't expect a runaway market because of war conditions. Europe is much better supplied with food and other materials than in 1914. Even if we could expect war price increases we ought to remember that during the World War of a quarter century ago farm prices did not advance materially for the first two years."

What about Michigan's beans, winter wheat, livestock, potatoes, dairying and poultry?

Here are some of Mr. Gunn's deductions on probabilities:

Winter wheat acreage appears to be about the same nationally as was seeded for harvest in 1939. Unfavorable drouthy conditions have tended to support wheat prices, with increased demand balanced by abundant supplies which apparently will be carried over into 1940.

Bean supplies are about the largest on record. There likely will be some decrease in bean acreage in 1940. Nationally it is expected prices for beans in the 1940-41 season will be higher than the average for the two preceding seasons.

Potato acreage is expected to increase. Present marketing conditions indicate the remainder of the 1939-40 season will average higher than the 1938-39 season. Foreign trade will have little effect but consumer purchasing power will be a factor.

Livestock prices should react to increased demand. Probable effects now seen in any forecast are that cattle and lambs will find favorable markets but that hog markets will reflect the present 20 percent increase in slaughtering.

Dairy consumption increases apparently will continue in 1940. Butterfat prices at present are three cents higher than a year ago and milk prices in Michigan 15 cents a hundredweight.

Poultry and egg price improvements are in prospect for the latter part of 1940. Hatchings for 1939 were said to be the highest on record. Early in 1940, egg and poultry marketing likely will be in increased volume, but if a smaller hatch in 1940 occurs as is now forecast, smaller supplies later in 1940 and larger consumer incomes may see price improvements to producers in closing months of 1940.

Thus Mr. Gunn's survey holds optimism for those participating in production of some of the state's most important sources of farm income.

Dease-Gould

The chancel of the First Baptist Church, Bay City, banked with palms, baskets of white snapdragons and stevia, and lighted by tall cathedral candles, was the setting for the pretty wedding ceremony when Miss Isabelle Mae Dease, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dease, of Bay City, became the bride of William H. McEwen Gould, son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Gould, of St. Charles. The ceremony was solemnized by Rev. Richard A. Elve.

The bride, who entered the church escorted by her father, to the strains of the wedding march played by Mrs. Roy G. Piggott, wore a gown of ivory slipper slitted with full circular train. Her three-quarter length veil of ivory net was gathered into a tiara of orange blossoms and she carried an arm bouquet of Johanna Hill roses centered with white orchids.

Miss Jean Robinson, of this city, was maid-of-honor and wore a net gown of waltz blue. She wore blue ostrich tips in her hair and carried a colonial bouquet of Briarcliff roses, sweet peas and forget-me-nots. Miss Jane Eyre and Miss Lois Schemmelman were bridesmaids and were gowned in identical frocks of caranation pink net with matching head-dresses and carried Briarcliff roses and sweet peas. Orville Preis, of Detroit, was best man. Aigard and Don Gould, of St. Charles, and Edward Graham, Jr., of Whittemore, were ushers.

Following the ceremony, at which 350 were present, a reception was held at Trinity parish house. The following relatives and friends from this vicinity were present: Mr. and Mrs. James H. Leslie and family, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Giddings, and Ruth, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Ferguson, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Tuttle, Mrs. Ira Horton, Earl Davis and A. HOUSEHOLD QUESTIONS

Care of House Plants.—Keep the temperature of the room in which house plants are grown at 60 or 65 degrees. They do not thrive in a room that is too warm.

Tasty Apple Sauce.—Add one-eighth teaspoon of cream of tartar to cinnamon and sugar used in apple sauce. It gives it a delicious flavor.

To remove a stopper from a glass jar, pour warm water into a pan and invert jar in it, gradually add warmer water until it is quite hot, but not so hot as to break jar. Leave in water for some time, occasionally trying stopper to see if it is loose.

Washing Pearl-Handled Knives.—Never allow bone or pearl-handled knives to soak in dish water. Dip the blades into hot, soapy water, then dry them well.

Wrinkled hands from the family wash can be made smooth by washing in water to which a little vinegar has been added.

For a sweet muffin to serve with hot beverages, try adding a fourth of a cup each of chopped candied orange peel and candied pineapple to your regular muffin recipe. Or try using a fourth of a cup of chopped dates and a third-cup of broken pecans. A third combination is a fourth-cup each of citron and figs.

EAST AND WEST

BY TALBOT MUNDY

TALBOT MUNDY—WNU SERVICE

THE STORY THUS FAR

Captain Carl Norwood has been sent from his native England to the Kadur River district in India, along with his indispensable manservant, Moses O'Leary, a valuable secret diamond mine belongs to the temple priests or to the ruler, the Maharajah of Kadur. Norwood calls on the British Residency to pay his initial respects.

"Rundhia, you are talking dangerously," said the Resident. "Yes. Whose danger? It would smell sweet, wouldn't it! I was riding early this morning. I saw Norwood on his way to the river—overheard him say that priests were waiting for him near the river. And I happen to know he was down by the river after midnight last night. Now he carries diamonds in his tunic pocket."

ably fix that. And she's brave. She has an iron will. She told me to pack my things. "And will you do it?" "What in the world else can I do? I haven't a sous marquis to my name. Auntie gives me pocket money—no more."

"Who was your informant?" "I refuse to tell you." The Resident rose from his chair: "I hope the drive home won't affect you disagreeably!" Rundhia actually started for the door. As he drew abreast, the Resident said:

CHAPTER IX

The Maharane's maid, who changed Lynn's frock, was one of those who had been loaned to Auntie Harding, because she knew English. It was impossible not to believe that the Maharane already knew more than the facts about Lynn's break with her aunt. The maid left the bedroom. The Maharane sat by the veranda window, staring past the edge of the sun-blind into the garden. There was hardly a sound except the purring of the two electric fans.

Meanwhile, she smoked a cigarette and watched the Maharane, who seemed to Lynn to be considering, not what to say, but how to say what was crowding her thoughts. "Maharane dear, I wish you wouldn't feel so upset."

"How you must despise us." "Please! I don't. To go away leaving you thinking anything as untrue as that would be dreadful. I am not even angry with Rundhia." "I am more than angry with him," said the Maharane. "I am ashamed. Lynn, is it true—it has been told to me—that Mrs. Harding saw Rundhia kiss you in the garden?"

ted artfully evasive perjury. Norwood sat at the foot of the long table, looked, listened, and made endless notes.

They weren't half through by lunch-time. They gave him tiffin in the palace, all by himself, in a silent room, where a clock ticked as loud as fork against plate and he caught himself eating in time to the hypnotic beat, thinking of diamonds. Curried mutton and rice. Whiskey and soda. Sweet cakes. Fruit. Coffee. A cigar. And then back to the Council room to listen to more arguments that were interrupted by the arrival of Rundhia's Bengali physician, shepherding a servant who carried a big blue goblet on a plate.

The Maharajah swallowed his tonic and immediately became less nervous. Then he asked, in English, presumably for Norwood's benefit:

"How is Mrs. Harding?" Norwood cared less than nothing about Mrs. Harding's feelings at the moment, but he couldn't help hearing the doctor's answer: "She is not well. But I cannot persuade her to take medicine. She is petulant—very."

The Maharajah tried to seem incredulous of any lady's petulance: "Convey my solicitude." Norwood managed to escape from the conference soon after that. He was away on the horse before the said woke up. He centered to the Residency, where he had to wait in the office an exasperating fifteen minutes, until the Resident could be awakened from his afternoon snooze and could get tubbed and come downstairs.

"May I see you alone, sir?" The Resident nodded. He didn't appear to enjoy the prospect. They went into the darkened library, and Norwood sat in the same chair that Rundhia had occupied. He laid the black paper package of diamonds on the table:

"Take a look at those, sir. I want to turn them over to you. I would like to get a receipt, and to make a statement in writing." The Resident opened the envelope and poured the diamonds into his hand. He made a wry face and handed them back again:

"None." "I haven't counted them." "They look valuable. Where did you get them?" "I am not absolutely certain. I think they must have been slipped into my pocket, early this morning, by one of the unofficial representatives of the temple authorities, who met me by appointment, near the waterfall."

"What were you doing?" "Inviting myself for a visit of inspection of the mine. They met me to discuss it."

"And you say they dropped these in your pocket?" "I believe so. It's a pretty obvious attempt to bribe me to write a report in their favor."

"But they said nothing? Not even a hint?" "One of them, I remember, did say he hoped my judgment wouldn't be affected by worthless arguments. He rather dwelt on the word worthless, but it made no special impression on me at the time."

"Very well, Captain Norwood, I will take your statement." The Resident glanced at his watch. "You're rather late with it. There seems to me to be needed some explanation when you called this morning."

"I didn't know, at that time, that I had them in my pocket." The Resident's face was expressionless: "You had better be sure to include that in your statement. It's credible, of course, in view of your record. But people might draw inferences. Don't you think so?"

"You suggest, sir?" "Nothing. I am offering advice."

U. S. Weather Men Tell Army How Large Dams Must Be

The "biggest rain" that might fall on a river or creek watershed is one of the things that engineers need to know in building a dam for flood control. This hypothetical rain must be at maximum intensity and duration. The run-off from such a rain determines the size of the dam and—more especially—the size of the spillway. Huge losses may be avoided if the dam and spillway are big enough to withstand any flood that may develop.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D. Dean of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for February 4

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

HOLDING LIFE SACRED

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 1:27-31; I Corinthians 6:19, 20; II Corinthians 6:16-7:1. GOLDEN TEXT—Ye are bought with a price; therefore glorify God in your body.—I Corinthians 6:20.

Moral action and right living can only be assured on the basis of right thinking. If our principles are right, our action will be sure and our life will be steady. Fundamental in our consideration of temperate living is a right understanding of life itself. Where did we come from? Whom do we resemble? What are the ruling forces in life? To whom do we belong? If he gets these matters straight, any honest man will come out right in his life decisions.

I. Man Was Created in the Image of God (Gen. 1:27-31). "God created man"—so says Scripture, and all the forces of infidelity and unbelief have not been able to break down that simple statement. The creation story of Genesis stands and will stand. Let no critic of God's Word, no spinner of human philosophies, however plausible, take that assurance from you.

The important point for our lesson is the fact that God created man in His own image; in other words, made him an intelligent, moral and spiritual being. It takes a very glib person indeed to believe the theory (which, by the way, has never been proved) that man has evolved from some elementary substance by way of the animal into his present high estate.

Remember that you are God's creation and that you bear His likeness and you will have a high regard for your life. You will guard it, develop it, and above all you will commit it in glad surrender to God through Jesus Christ.

II. The Believer Is Indwelt by the Holy Spirit (I Cor. 6:19, 20).

Redemption at the great price of Jesus' blood not only makes the believer belong to God (v. 20), but also makes his body the temple of the Holy Spirit. When the child of God grasps that truth, his attitude toward his body and toward his life which it bears is revolutionized. Since the third person of the blessed Trinity dwells in me, I will not abuse, neglect, or misuse my body. I will not take it to places where the indwelling Spirit would not go. I will not use it or any of its members to do anything which does not honor God.

The writer wishes to bear testimony that when this truth laid hold of him, even years after he was converted, it changed his whole life. It can do the same for every Christian who reads these lines. And what about the unbeliever? He can accept Christ right now and at once the Holy Spirit will indwell him too. Why not?

III. The Believer Should Live a Separated Life (II Cor. 6:16-7:1).

We have fallen upon evil days when it seems to be assumed by Christian people that only certain individuals in the Church are called to a life of separation from worldliness. Men seem to say, "The preacher? Of course! The deacon? Oh, yes! The elders? Yes! The trustees? Well, not necessarily. Church members? Well, some do and some don't." It is felt that it is just a matter of choice or of disposition, and that the failure to live such a separated life is really no reflection on one's spirituality.

That erroneous view must have come directly from the devil himself. Christian man or woman, will you listen to Satan or to God's Word? Read again II Corinthians 6:16, 17. Note the blessed promise in verse 18, and then heed the admonition in 7:1. "Dearly beloved, let us cleanse ourselves from all filthiness of the flesh and spirit, perfecting holiness in the fear of God." As Christians, our response to such an admonition should be immediate and complete.

The command and the invitation are to you, Christian friend. If you will respond, there will be a revival in your own heart, and if all those who read these lines will respond to God's invitation and admonition, there will be a revival in thousands of churches all over America this week. Why not?

RESEARCH men may use fancier language, but they say the same thing about cigarettes as Roy Conacher (above), high-scoring forward of the Boston Bruins. Scientists know that nothing destroys the delicate elements of cigarette fragrance and flavor like the excess heat of too-fast burning. Slow-burning Camels give more pleasure per puff and more puffs per pack (see below).

In recent laboratory tests, CAMELS burned 25% slower than the average of the 15 other of the largest-selling brands tested—slower than any of them. That means, on the average, a smoking plus equal to 5 EXTRA SMOKES PER PACK!

Mystic Had Come Short On That Routing Service

The man sat with his hand outstretched as the fortune-teller read his palm. "See that line?" asked the mystic, pointing to the fellow's palm. "That means that you are going to take a trip in the very near future. To Chicago, perhaps." When he left the fortune-teller the fellow hurried to the railway station. "A ticket to Chicago," he directed. "Right, sir," replied the clerk. "Single or return?" The fellow stuck out his palm. "I don't know," he said. "Take a look!"

Common Sense About Constipation

A doctor would tell you that the best thing to do with constipation is get at its cause. That way you don't have to endure it first and try to "cure" it afterward—you can avoid having it. Chances are you won't have to look far for the cause if you eat the super-refined foods most people do. Most likely you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean a lot of food. It means a kind of food that isn't consumed in the body, but leaves a soft "bulky" mass in the intestines. If this is what you lack, try crisp crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast. It contains just the "bulk" you need. Eat All-Bran often, drink plenty of water, and "Join the Regulars." Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek, Mich. If your condition is chronic, it is wise to consult a physician.

Mrs. Violet Mareck. We have also the audit of the Iosco County Welfare Relief for the period from July 1, 1939 to November 30, 1939, by C. E. Davis and find one fund deficit but Mr. Kraus informs us that it has been taken care of. We recommend that the audit be accepted.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON
(Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK.—The recent emancipation proclamation of Kene-saw Mountain Landis, freeing an oppressed minority of major and minor league ball players, reminded this courier of the big blizzard in Chicago, along about the year 1906. I was a new and much bewildered reporter from the sticks, tossed into the maelstrom of a federal court railroad case because there was nobody else to send except the office boy. It was as intelligible as a squirrel cage. The defending attorney loosed a gas attack of statistics and my pencil dropped from my limp fingers.

The judge, a little, brown wheat-straw of a man with a chrysanthemum thatch, got me in the sharp focus of his bright agate eye. I hadn't been wrecking any trains or robbing banks, but I began to fear the worst. I wondered whether my elaborate ignorance of what was happening could possibly be construed as a federal offense.

Then the blow fell. The judge gavelled down the spouting lawyer and said the court would take a brief recess. Then he beckoned me into his chambers. He asked me to sit down.

Then he said: "I hadn't seen you at the press table before. This case is confusing, I thought I might help you in getting it straight. It's like this..." In a few concise sentences he brought the courtroom hub-bub into something understandable. I managed to write a story about it without breaking my arm and got my first pat on the back from a city editor who was no spendthrift with such gestures.

The voltairean little Judge Landis was like that, and any newspaper man who ever knew him will insist that his $65,000-a-year honorarium as baseball commissioner isn't half enough. He was a corporation lawyer before he began calling strikes on big business, and was appointed to the federal bench by Theodore Roosevelt at the peak of T. R.'s trust-busting rampage. In his dual capacity he has punished two of the major institutions of America, the Standard Oil company and Babe Ruth, the former with a $29,000,000 fine.

He was a newsboy in Logansport, Ind.; a semi-pro baseball player; a stenographer and court clerk at 18, and soon thereafter a law school graduate and practicing lawyer. His appointment as national commissioner of baseball grew out of the "Black Sox" scandal in 1919.

THE easy-going free-for-all of American journalism, in which public officials sometimes owe their high status to an understanding of newspaper men and how to get on with them, has given this country a decided advantage over the European countries in wartime press relations. In the world war and now in the present war Europe has demonstrated the limitations of even the most intelligent of its bureaucrats in co-operating with the press. While England and France have, traditionally, a free press, the human contacts between the correspondents and high officialdom are still lacking, and both countries are snarled in censorship troubles.

At the start of the war, liberal opinion noted with satisfaction that France and England had appointed, respectively, to their ministries of information, a distinguished literary man and playwright, and a leading scholar. It seemed to be an exemplification of their war aims. But, like the brass hats of the past, they didn't seem to understand newspapers or newspaper men.

The scholarly Lord MacMillan of England has faded into the background, and his press censor, Vice Admiral C. V. Osborne, is replaced by the clubby and gregarious Sir Walter T. Monckton. In France, Jean Girardoux, the playwright, is still minister of information, but his office inspires bitter stories in the American press about fantastic restrictions. The censorship tangle is an issue of daily mounting importance in France.

Newspaper men liked M. Girardoux tremendously when he was spokesman for the French ministry of foreign affairs a few years ago. He was perhaps, in Goethe's phrase, "all too human" for any careful grooving of public opinion—his own is ironic and whimsical—and has been surrounded with a bulwark of bureaucracy against which newspaper men are thrown for a loss. He is a charming, monocled gentleman of 53, who was severely gassed in the World war and so speaks in a husky voice. He did a short turn at Harvard before the World war.

LOTHIAN

There is trouble in the Lowlands and Rumania, too.

GREAT BRITAIN: U. S. Trouble

IF U. S. public opinion once favored the British against Germany, it had shifted by late January until most Americans looked with equal disdain on both sides. Reason: British interference with American shipping, seizure of mail and refusal to recognize the 300-mile neutrality zone thrown around the Western hemisphere. To make it worse, all protests by Secretary of State Cordell Hull had been rejected peremptorily, until finally Mr. Hull slapped back with an aide memoir. Its gist: That U. S. vessels were being held up by the contraband control three times as long as Italian ships, therefore the U. S. could charge discrimination. There was every sign that this protest, like others, would be rejected. In Washington British Ambassador Lord Lothian saw unhappy times ahead.

Indian Trouble

MOHANDAS K. GANDHI'S independence demands for India broke into print when Britain began demanding war assistance from the empire. Lord Linlithgow, viceroy, thought after the war would be time enough to talk about Indian independence. This provoked a storm of protest, but Gandhi cautiously urged a non-violence campaign. Lord Linlithgow, relieved, was willing to discuss terms. But he was still playing with dynamite.

Japanese Trouble

ALREADY irked because Britain has been friendly with China's "rebel" Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, Japan's ire was heightened when a British warship stopped a Jap passenger vessel in the Pacific, removing 21 German merchant sailors being returned to the Reich via Russia. Next day Tokyo gave British Ambassador Sir Robert L. Craigie a note demanding amends, calling the incident an "unfriendly act" and warning that repetition would aggravate Japan's anti-British sentiment. Next day, when a British vessel halted Japan's Tatuta Maru, Ambassador Craigie found thousand of Japs milling around his embassy, while the press bleated against his country.

Lowland Trouble

WHEN Winston Churchill made a speech demanding that Netherlands and Belgium join the allies in fighting Germany, the press and government of these countries shouted angrily. To placate them without losing Britain's point, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain next spoke, saying Britain was ready to help Belgium, but would reserve the right to decide when help was needed. Far from placating the neutrals, this speech only irritated them more. In The Netherlands all parties joined in telling Britain to keep quiet. In Belgium it was loudly proclaimed that the government can decide for itself when and if it needs help.

Rumanian Trouble

KING CAROL of Rumania has remained cautiously neutral despite British wooing. But in mid-January, when German troops were reported occupying the southern part of Russian Poland the British struck again, confident Carol would accept their aid gratefully. Instead they got the shock of their lives: Pressed by Germany to fulfill oil contracts, Rumania clung to neutrality and barked at British-French oil firms operating there. She insisted they provide their share of petroleum to help Rumania fulfill her contracts with Germany, thus providing oil to run Nazi planes to bomb English-French territory!

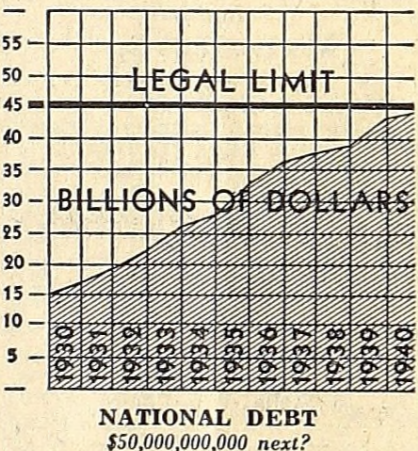

CONGRESS:

Yes, but—

"Do I think the budget should be balanced? Yes. Do I think expenditures should be cut down? Yes. Do I think taxes should be increased? Yes. But if you say, 'Morgenthau, what kind of taxes should there be?' I cannot answer that because I do not know."

This apparently frank recitation from the secretary of the treasury was no more than he had promised several months earlier, yet it made big headlines. On budget-balancing and decreased expenditures he probably was more outspoken than the President, but not on new taxes. Never has any administration spokesman suggested what kind of levies congress should enact this session, and Henry Morgenthau's statement before the house appropriations committee failed to clarify matters.

Biggest news was Mr. Morgenthau's contention that the federal debt limit should be hiked five billion dollars above the present $45,000,000,000 mark with which it is now flitting dangerously (see graph). He remarked that there was "no particular danger involved" in this act, but his audience apparently thought otherwise. Trimming desperately, congress lopped $11,491,000 from the treasury-postoffice supply bill, bringing to $128,143,300 the re-

AGRICULTURE—Mortgage-debt payments of 75,000 farmers holding land bank commissioner loans will be eased by a reamortization plan extending payments over longer periods. Cause: Henry Wallace's new full control over the farm credit administration.

Last Newsmen to See Borah Recalls How 'Lion of Idaho' Kept Mum in 1936 Campaign

Didn't Favor Landon, So He Played Ball With Home State Dems.

By ROBERT S. ALLEN
(Co-author, with Drew Pearson, of "The Washington Merry-Go-Round.")
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

WASHINGTON.—The Senate just doesn't seem the same without Senator Borah. He was the first leader I came to know intimately as a cub Washington reporter 15 years ago, and I saw him last the day before his fatal accident. I think I am the last newsmen he talked to.

It was late in the afternoon. I knew that the President's message on the Finnish loan was due the next day, and I dropped into Borah's office to get his views. Wrapped in an army blanket, he was lying on a couch, reading an article on trade treaties. He motioned me to a chair, which I pulled up near him. On the marble mantle directly over him was a striking new photograph of himself which he liked very much.

Duty Came First.
Borah looked well, but frail, and recalling that during the Christmas holiday he had told me he was thinking of taking Mrs. Borah south, I said, "What about your trip?"

"I guess that's off, Robert," he replied. "Mrs. Borah won't stay if I don't, and I can't."

"Why not? Things aren't so active now. A few weeks of warm weather and sunshine would do you a lot of good."

"Yes, but I can't leave. Those trade treaties are up and I've got to be on hand to keep an eye on developments. It's a close fight and we can't take any chances. I would like a little rest, but I feel it's my duty to stay on the job and oppose this act."

"What about the Finnish loan?" I asked.

"That's a very distressing dilemma for me, Robert," he said. "My heart goes out to those gallant people, but at the same time I have grave misgivings about lending money to anyone in Europe. Once we let down the bars we can't foresee what it may lead to. We must keep out of that mess regardless of our personal sympathies."

Dilemma of 1936.
I remember another time when he was in a dilemma. It was in 1936.

That spring, at the age of 71 and for the first time in his long career, he decided to make a serious try for the presidency. There was considerable popular response, but the machine politicians were against him. He went to the Cleveland convention empty-handed—and he knew it. The night Herbert Hoover made his speech—which he secretly hoped would stampede the delegates—I countered Borah leaving his hotel. It was past midnight, hot and sticky. "Come along, Robert, and walk with me," he said. "It's cooler out here."

HE WATCHED LANDON—Senator Borah waited for Alf Landon's campaign before "prejudging" him, but he later confided: "I am not for him."

So we walked about the deserted streets and he talked about Hoover, the convention, and Alf Landon.

Doubted Landon's Ability.
"They'll nominate Landon tomorrow," he said. "The stage is all set. Hoover tried to run away with the convention tonight, but they don't want any of him. It will be Landon and Knox, you mark my word."

"And then what are you going to do, Senator?"
"I don't know. I'll wait and see what Landon says. But what I'm wondering is what can he say. He knows nothing about national or foreign affairs. I am told he is a nice gentleman, but the country needs more than that in the White House in these times. I don't want to prejudge Landon. I shall hear him out, but I have a strong hunch I will not support him."

He Didn't, Either!
Borah's premonition was right. Three months later I spent a day with him in Boise as he campaigned for his sixth senatorial term. We had a long talk that night in his room before he retired. I remarked that I hadn't heard him say a word during the day about Landon.

"And I don't intend to say anything about him," Borah replied quietly. "I am not for him."
"Are you for Roosevelt?"

"Well, Robert," he said, "I've got a lot of Democratic friends in Idaho and I think they know where I stand." And then with a gentle smile he added, "That's a pretty good news story, isn't it?"

It certainly was. It was the big scoop of the campaign.

Mannerisms Mark the Man—They All 'Perform' Off Guard

NEW YORK.—Al Smith jingles coins in his left pocket and the duke of Windsor straightens his necktie. Franklin D. Roosevelt jerks his head sideways.

Call them habits, mannerisms or just plain nervousness, but they're among the distinguishing features you've noticed when famous men make speeches or appear before the newsreel camera. Most of us, great or little, are thumb twiddlers, button twisters, arm swingers or fist clenchers in our forgetful moments.

'This Is the Point.'
A widely known Boston professor used to enter his classroom holding a short, well-sharpened pencil which he twirled as he talked.

"Now this," he would say at intervals, "is the point." Each time he would jab the pencil at the class, until his amused students finally made up sweepstakes on how many times he'd do it each hour.

The late William Jennings Bryan combined his mannerism with practicality. Before his platform appearances he would have someone bring an old-fashioned dishpan with a piece of ice to the rostrum. As his fiery speech-making warmed him, Bryan would run the palm of his hand over the ice, then over his forehead. To break this routine he would occasionally step to the front of the platform, waving back and forth while the audience gasped for fear he would topple into the front row.

A Monocle Swinger.
Bertha Wells of Boston, who was formerly in Chautauqua work with Bryan, recalls the platform gestures of many other speakers. Dudley Crafts Watson, director of music at the Chicago art museum, went through a repeated routine of taking off his monocle, swinging it around in his hand and replacing it to the eye.

"One woman speaker asked me for a handkerchief just before she went on," Miss Wells remembers. "All through her lecture she stood twisting it in her hands. When she returned it, the handkerchief looked like a cruller."

Sen. James Reed of Missouri used to have a habit of chewing tobacco in the courtroom, while Sen. David I. Walsh of Massachusetts can never speak without thrusting his left thumb into the corner of his trousers' pocket. Ex-Gov. John G. Winant of New Hampshire used to hang his arms straight down his sides and walk sideways across the stage like a small boy reciting his "piece."

Emerson Had It Too!
Such mannerisms are not exclusively a modern device. Many years ago the highly intellectual Ralph Waldo Emerson had a habit of placing the thumb and forefinger of one hand between the thumb and forefinger of the other, moving them gently while speaking. Henry Ward Beecher would emphasize the climax of his speech by rising to his toes and throwing his arms over his head, virtually pulling the audience up with him.

Psychologists who have watched such carryings-on from the spectator's seat don't believe it's necessarily a matter of nervousness. Sometimes the speakers are merely throwing off excess energy. Or, as one psychologist suggested, it may not be so much the energy or the audience as what the speaker had for dinner.

If the Lights Go Out, Look for a Muskrat!
ADRIAN, MICH.—Twice the headlights of John Bates' car went out and twice he went to a garage to have defective wiring replaced. The third time he suspected that some strange agency was at work so he placed a trap under the hood—and caught a muskrat which had been gnawing the wires.

Patent Office Kept Busy by Gadgeteers

WASHINGTON.—Seven hundred human problems, most of them inconsequential, are solved every week at the United States patent office.

Inventions ranging from thumbless boxing gloves to fluorescent theater aisles continue pouring in to prove how wrong was the patent director who resigned 100 years ago because there wasn't anything left to invent.

If nothing else, it proves there's no slump in enterprise these days. The past year, for example, brought forth this collection:

At the University of California botanists discovered in the juice of milkweed an active substance that can tenderize meat.

A Philadelphian solved the problem of that first cigarette in the package with a strip of transparent film that tears off the seal, destroys the revenue stamps, opens the flaps and pulls out two cigarettes.

No Double Exposures.
An amateur photographer has perfected a device making it impossible for the camera enthusiast to take a second picture without winding the film—thus preventing a double exposure.

ZIPPER HOT DOG—The wienie has a perforated casing which operates on the zipper principle.

Peter J. Gaylor of Elizabeth, N. J., developed a synthetic rubber invaluable for elastic threads in clothing because it does not deteriorate rapidly.

Many inventions, here and abroad, have made it easier and cheaper to wage war. Germany, for example, is treating mineral, vegetable and animal oils with an electrical discharge process that increases their viscosity. American chemists have discovered a less expensive—but just as deadly—way to make more poison gas.

Another Invention Needed.
Some inventions are designed to soothe ruffled nerves. There's a new spring cap for tooth paste tubes, but nothing to make father squeeze it out from the bottom instead of the top. A drip-catching device has been invented for umbrellas, and somebody perfected a helical coil of wire which, as part of a cigarette holder, keeps ashes from falling on the rug.

There are two important developments in photography. One camera can expose standard film at a speed of 2,500 frames per second, enabling you to study the wing structure of houseflies or the action of a golf stick against a ball. On the more massive side, Prof. E. Newton Harvey of Princeton university has a camera which snaps pictures two miles under the ocean. This gadget is a steel ball which resists terrific water pressure.

REMOTE CONTROL SMOKING—It keeps smoke out of your eyes, but you'll break your arm lighting a cigarette!

Closely akin is the giant new X-ray projector which enlarges a standard chest plate up to the size of a regulation motion picture screen, thus allowing several hundred people to consult over the medical problem at hand.

There's a new type hypodermic needle in which the medicine is ejected by a charge of compressed air, but it probably hurts just as much those first few moments.

Two important automobile patents have been granted, the first to Henry Ford for an easily removable liner for motor car cylinders. It can be taken out with a screw-driver, contrasted with the powerful presses employed heretofore. Another patent covers an anti-icy device for autos running on icy pavement. A sharp-edged wheel is pressed against the ground by a strong spring fixed downward from the under side of the running board.

HERE is a new department that we know is going to meet with tremendous popularity with our readers, for it brings you the opportunity of combining pleasure and profit. With jig, coping or keyhole saw, you may cut these designs from wallboard, plywood or thin lumber. Each pattern brings accurate outline of the design, and complete directions for making and painting.

Men, women, boys and girls are finding this a fascinating pastime, and with each order will be sent a circular showing many additional novelties which you may make at home.

Today, we are showing designs that will appeal to flower lovers. Cut out and paint these clever designs and they become gay realistic flower boxes of your own making. Number Z9069, 15 cents, brings you the pattern for these eight designs along with general directions.

Birth Marks Classified in Three Types

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON

A GREAT amount of interest was aroused when the Doctors Kelly of Baltimore removed a birth mark from one of the Dionne quintuplets by the use of radium.

TODAY'S HEALTH COLUMN

There has been so much discussion about birth marks as to whether or not they can be removed that a late classification of these marks and their treatment should be helpful to patients and physicians.

In the Journal of Pediatrics (children's diseases), Dr. F. Young gives a summary of the kinds and the treatment of birth marks, together with the most successful method of treatment in each case.

"There are three main types, namely, the capillary or port-wine stain, the strawberry growth, and the tumor or lump containing blood. Treatment should be given according to the type of tumor, its location, and size. The simple reddish stains about the back of the head, neck and forehead disappear of themselves and no treatment is needed. The treatment of the large port-wine mark is unsatisfying and at best radium or snow substitutes a white scar for the red mark. The removal of the small port-wine marks by surgery offers the best results.

Removal of Strawberries. "Strawberry growths on the body and limbs and on the face, when small and suitably located, should be removed by surgery. "When the growth is large and involves the facial features, surface radiation, electric-dessication (drying it up by electricity or carbon dioxide snow) are effective. "The large, blood-filled growths are best injected with the solutions commonly used to destroy hemorrhoids or piles."

I believe the above information which classifies birth marks and growths and outlines best treatment for each class should help physician and patient to come to a decision on what is best to do in any particular case—leave the mark alone or use the particular method of treatment outlined above. This should bring comfort and happiness to many and in the cases where treatment is likely to be a failure, will avoid much disappointment and expense.

No Early Symptom Of Stomach Cancer WHY do so many cases of cancer of the stomach become so advanced that by the time they are discovered it is too late to save life by the usual methods—operation, X-ray or radium?

In some cases it may be the physician's fault in not making a more thorough examination or not asking enough questions. In other cases it is the fault of the patient in not stating that certain symptoms exist, such as loss of appetite and loss of weight and a tired feeling. As a matter of fact, there is really no early definite symptom to guide the physician or warn the patient. In cancer of other parts of the body—skin, mouth, breast, generative organs—there is a sore, a lump, hemorrhage or other discharge which gives warning, and treatment can be given in time to save life. In their Handbook of Cancer the Department of Cancer Control, Canadian Medical Association, states:

No Early Characteristic. "It must be emphasized that there is no characteristic of early cancer of the stomach. In fact, if one waits for a so-called typical history in all probability the growth will have advanced to an utterly hopeless stage. The common early symptoms as reported by Squire Sprigge at the New Forest clinic, England, are:

1. An indefinite feeling of discomfort in the stomach, increased by taking meals, the discomfort lasting most of the day, but disappearing at night.
2. Symptoms more marked and now associated with belching of gas and gas distension. (This is the commonest symptom also in gall-bladder disturbance.)
3. Loss of appetite, particularly for certain foods, such as meat.
4. Definite pain and discomfort after meals.
5. A feeling of tiredness, loss of weight and thinning of the blood.

"Any combination of the above symptoms appearing for the first time in any individual of cancer age (40 and up), and particularly if there is present also fatigue, loss of weight, anemia (thin blood), must be considered as evidence of cancer of the stomach till proved otherwise, and the proof must be substantiated by the report of an expert X-ray specialist."

FISH FILLETS IN TOMATO CUPS

See Recipes Below

My Family Likes Fish!

"There's all the health of the sea in fish," according to an old saying, and modern home makers find that there's variety and economy for menus, too.

Fish and sea foods are available the year 'round in almost limitless variety. In most markets it's possible, now, to purchase (1) fish "in the round," just as it comes from the water, (2) fish that is cleaned, scaled, and ready to cook, (3) boneless fish fillets, and (4) fish steaks. Fish and sea foods may be purchased quick-frozen too.

If fish is purchased "in the round," that is with skin, bones, head, and tail included, allow one pound of fish per serving; if purchased cleaned and scaled, allow one pound for two servings, and if purchased in the form of fish fillets or fish steaks, allow one pound for three servings. Fish cookery is simple, especially when you use fish that is cleaned and scaled, fillets, steaks, or the quick-frozen products. Remember, though, that the flavor of most fish is delicate, and that you need well-seasoned sauces and accompaniments to serve with it.

You'll find practical and easy-to-follow recipes for preparing fish and sea foods in my booklet, "Feeding Father." There are recipes for the old-fashioned cod fish balls men love, for delicious clam chowder, and for the other fish and sea food dishes you'll want to serve your family often.

Fish in Pepper Shells.

- (Serves 6)
- 6 tablespoons butter
 - 6 tablespoons flour
 - 1/2 cup top milk
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 1 tablespoon lemon juice
 - 1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
 - 2 cups cold fish (flaked)
 - 6 whole green peppers
 - 1 cup bread crumbs
 - Paprika

Melt 3 tablespoons butter, add flour and blend; add milk and cook over low flame, stirring constantly, until thick. Remove from flame; add salt, lemon juice and Worcestershire sauce. Then add flaked fish. Place in cleaned green peppers, top with bread crumbs, combined with remaining butter (melted), and a dash of paprika. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) approximately 25 minutes. Serve with tomato sauce.

Fish Fillets in Tomato Cups.

- (Serves 6)
- 6 to 8 tomatoes
 - 1 package haddock, sole, or perch fillets
 - Salt and pepper
 - 1/2 cup butter (melted)
 - 1/2 cup lemon juice
 - 1/4 cup parsley (chopped)

Remove a slice from the stem end of each tomato and scoop out the pulp, leaving a firm cup. Sprinkle the inside with salt and pepper. Cut fillets in lengthwise strips. Brush each strip with melted butter, and sprinkle with salt, pepper, lemon juice, and parsley. Roll the strips firmly and place in the tomato cups. Brush tops with melted butter, sprinkle with parsley, and place in a greased baking dish. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 30 to 35 minutes. Baste occasionally while baking.

Baked Spiced Whitefish.

- 1 medium sized whitefish
- Salt
- 1/4 cup lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon parsley (minced)
- 2 peppercorns
- 1 tablespoon tomato catsup
- 1 bay leaf
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon prepared mustard
- 3 tablespoons olive oil

Clean fish and sprinkle with salt inside and out. Place on a well-greased baking pan. Mix all other ingredients in the order given. Open fish and brush inside with the mixture and then spread about 1/2 of it over the fish. Bake in a hot oven (400 degrees) approximately 40 minutes. Baste during the baking period with the remainder of the spiced mixture.

Oyster Stew.

- 1 pint oysters
- 1/4 cup butter
- 1 quart rich milk
- Salt and pepper to taste

Place oysters, strained oyster liquor, and butter in a saucepan and cook gently until edges of oysters begin to curl. Heat milk in a separate saucepan at the same time. (Caution: Milk should be thoroughly heated—but should not boil.) Add oysters to milk and season to taste. Serve immediately.

Sauteed Oysters.

- (Serves 4)
- 1 pint oysters (large)
 - 1 cup cracker crumbs
 - 1/4 teaspoon salt
 - 1/8 teaspoon pepper
 - 1/4 cup butter

Drain oysters. Add salt and pepper to cracker crumbs, blend thoroughly, and then roll oysters in the seasoned crumbs, covering thoroughly. Melt butter in frying pan and saute oysters until they are golden brown on one side. Turn with spatula or pancake turner and brown on other side. Drain on absorbent paper and serve very hot with catsup or tartar sauce.

Hot Oven Baked Boneless Perch.

- (Serves 4)
- 4 perch fillets
 - 1 tablespoon salt
 - 1 cup milk
 - 1 cup hard bread crumbs
 - 1/4 cup butter (melted)

Dip fish in milk to which salt has been added. Drain and then roll fish in hard bread crumbs, covering thoroughly. Place in a well-oiled baking pan and brush thoroughly with melted butter. Bake 10 minutes in a very hot oven (550 degrees). Serve at once. It is not necessary to turn fish while baking.

Crab Meat Sunday Night Supper Sandwiches.

- (Serves 5)
- 1 13-ounce tin crab meat
 - 5 slices white bread
 - 1/4 pound Roquefort cheese
 - 1/4 cup cream
 - 1 head lettuce
 - 1 15-ounce can pimento-stuffed olives

Toast bread on one side only. On untoasted side, place a generous covering of crab meat—flaked. Cover crab meat with Roquefort cheese—softened in cream. Broil lightly until cheese mixture has browned. Serve on lettuce and garnish with stuffed olives.

Here's New Dignity For Old Chair Set

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

ANY dining room may be made fresh and smart with built-in cupboard, a little paint and inexpensive curtains. But what may be done to bring a set of outmoded chairs up-to-date? The one sketched at the upper right is typical of many that are substantial and sturdy though scarred by long use. All that they need is an up-to-date frock to make them perfectly at home in that modern dining room.

If your chairs do not have the supports shown at the sides of the seat they will be even easier to slip-cover. This cover is of medium blue cotton rep with darker blue for the bias binding and the cotton fringe around the bottom. Large button moulds are covered with the slip cover material for the button-up-the-back opening. If you are not expert at making bound buttonholes, snaps may be used under the buttons. The narrow ties sewn to the corners of the inside of the seat cover hold it neatly in place.

NOTE: Mrs. Spears' Sewing Book No. 3 contains six other interesting ways to use slip covers, with step-by-step directions. There are 32 pages of fascinating ideas. Spool shelves; braided rugs; crazypatch quilts; many embroidery designs with numerous stitches illustrated. Ask for Book 3 and enclose 10 cents coin to cover cost. Address: Mrs. Spears, Drawer 10, Bedford Hills, New York.

HIGH SCHOOL

Remember the senior pancake supper at the Baptist church basement Friday evening, February 9, at 5:30. The cost is thirty-five cents per individual. Genuine maple syrup will be featured, and Paul Bunyon Pancake flour will be used. We believe that all will pronounce the sausage O. K. Come!

February 20, 21, 22 and 23 are the dates set for the elimination contests for declamations and orations. We have turned our English classes into a public speaking seminary. Each student must evaluate the other speeches. We hope that in this way each one will be able to judge his own speech.

In citizenship, the town and country are the basis of this month's study.

The twelfth grade economics class of the first semester has become the American government class of the second semester. This subject is required of all high school graduates by state law in either the eleventh or twelfth grade. The text used is a 1940 edition of Magruder's American Government. Some of the factors which are new for this year are: Federal Security Agency, Amendment to the Neutrality Act, the Amendment to the Philippine Independence Act, the Federal Works Agency, and the far reaching decisions of the Supreme Court.

Report cards were given out Wednesday in all departments of the school. This report contains the semester averages in each subject, as well as the mark for each of the five months. The mark obtained on the final examination in each subject appears for members of all grades above the fourth.

SEVENTH and EIGHTH GRADES
 Everyone is glad exams are over and we are back to our regular class work.

Peter Pfeiffer is again absent because of sickness.
 Gav Youngs brought an interesting book to school Wednesday for the geography class to look through. The title was "The Nile," by Emil Ludwig. We thank Mrs. Carl Babcock for loaning us this book.

Ardith Lake had an all A average for the first semester. Several have resolved that they will try harder for this honor for the last half year.

People on the honor roll for the semester are: seventh grade—Marion King, Harold Burtzloff, Ardith Lake, Donna Moore; eighth grade—Hazel Galkier, Evelyn Colby, Maxine Depotty, Roy Landon and Hugo Weglner.

Pupils who were neither absent nor tardy during the semester were: Seventh grade—Lucille Malcolm and Katherine Westcott; eighth grade—Richard Clark, Evelyn Colby, Maxine Depotty, Roy Landon, Linda Lou Libka and Neil Libka.

Hazel Galkier received all A's but one, which was a B in English.
THIRD and FOURTH GRADES
 Richard Berube, a fourth grade pupil, won the Silver Valley poster contest. We hope he enjoys his skates and we are all very proud of him.

Our first semester has just ended. The highest marks in tests went to Martin Musolf, Virginia Sims and Richard Matchure; in arithmetic Donald Britting in geography; and Richard Matchure in language. Perfect scores were made by Donald Gingerich and Louis Pfeiffer on their spelling tests.

Dale Landon, Audrey Ogden and Janet Musolf haven't been absent or tardy for the first semester.

PRIMARY
 Jimmy Henrik, Margaret Mark and Rosalin Gackstetter are absent from the beginning class. Shirley Boomer and Orville McDonald are absent from the second grade. We hope they will all be well and back with us soon.

We are just beginning the second half of our school year this week. We hope to improve more than we have during the first half.
