Pieced Border for Kitchen Curtains

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS DO YOU remember this oldfashioned Saw Tooth quilt pattern? It has been used for the border of many a handsome quilt. It is so effective and so simple to piece that it should serve more decorative purposes. Here it trims kitchen curtains of unbleached muslin. It surprises one a little to see how modern it looks. Cut a piece of stiff paper in a perfect square and then cut diagonally through the center. One half will size suggested in the sketch makes a very striking border. If a very strong, bright color is used for the plain triangles, a narrower border in this design will also make a good showing.

NOTE: Mrs. Spears has prepared for our readers a set of three Quilt Block Patterns from her favorite Early American designs. Included in the set is the Kaleidoscope, and the Whirlwind. The third is the Ann Rutledge, which Mrs. Spears sketched from an original in the Rutledge Tavern at New Salem, Ill., where Abe Lincoln boarded, and where he courted the proprietor's daughter, according to the romantic legend so familiar to movie goers. It is an unusual variation of the Ninepatch, and rich with historical background. For set of three complete patterns, send 10 cents in coin to Mrs. Spears, Drawer 10, Bedford Hills, New York.

Owing to the variety of ways in which people live, the United States census bureau, for census purposes, is obliged to place a wide meaning on some of its terms. A "family," or those who constitute a household, ranges from a man living alone in a tent to a thousand inmates living together in an institution. A "dwelling," or a place where persons sleep regularly, ranges from a freight car to a hotel.—Collier's.

'Rundhia is more impetuous than cunning," the Resident answered. Norwood thought again, scowling, for half a minute. Then: "D'you think he's sufficiently impetuous to try to kill several birds with one stone?"

"He might be. He's an impatient fellow-not at all good at waiting for what he makes up his mind that he wants."

"If he could prejudice the case against the priests, by accusing them of having bribed me. And if he could break me for taking a bribe. And break you for knowing about it but doing nothing-there would be a scandal that might distract attention from whatever else he might be doing at the moment." "I concede that," said the Resi-dent. "But if I report you as charged with having accepted a bribe, can you disprove it? If you could identify the Brahmin who, you say, put those diamonds into your pocket without your knowledge, he would say on the witness stand that you had demanded a bribe, and that he saw some unknown person hand it to you. She has had the audacity to invite Lynn to stay on with her after I leave. I forbid it, of course. Equally, of course, Lynn will do as she pleases. If Lynn ac-cepts the invitation, I am through with her forever."

Norwood's pugnacity broke restraint. He stood up. He looked ut-terly unconcerned and good-humored except for the fact that his eyes looked steadily at Aunty Harding's. He didn't raise his voice. He didn't betray anger. He spoke quite calmly:

"Lynn is a lovely girl. Has anyone ever said that of you, Mrs. Harding?"

THE PERILS OF REJECTING CHRIST

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 21:28-43. GOLDEN TEXT—I am the way, the truth, and the life: no man cometh unto the Father, but by me.—John 14:6.

Fearlessly facing crucifixion within a few days, Jezus stood in the temple, there facing His bitter enemies and replying to their attacks in words such as no man ever spake. He brought them face to face with the very essence of sin, which is the rejection of Christ. Their own words condemned them, but when they should have repented, they became embittered and hardened in their sin. Let no one who reads these lines follow their example, but if the Holy Spirit brings conviction, turn to Him in repentance and faith. Every Sunday School lesson is of great importance, but possibly no lesson we shall ever have to teach will be as important as this one, for it deals very plainly with the awful peril of rejecting Christ. Eternal destiny depends upon the choices made in response to this lesson. Let every one of us study it and teach it with solemn earnestness. I. Actions Speak Louder Than Words (vv. 28-32). All church members, who have come into that relationship by smoothly spoken words of acceptance and devotion to Christ which then have not been lived out in the daily walk, may see themselves pictured in the son who courteously and glibly assured his father that he could depend on him, and then promptly went his own way. They will see that they need to repent and substitute real heart-moving and life-changing action for their words, lest the harlots and publicans pass them and go into heaven before them. Professing church member without any evidence of God's power in your life, turn to Him now!

Note the word of encouragement to repentant sinners. Perhaps someone who reads this paragraph has at some time rejected Christ and has since thought that he could not turn back, that it was too late for him to do the thing which his heart tells him to do even though his lips have spoken unkind words of rejection. Friend, consider the one who said, "I will not," but who did his father's will. Come to the Saviour now; you will find Him ready to receive you.

Moses Lafayette O'Leary, with a cigar in his teeth, wearing a clean striped shirt and a snow-white solar topee, strolled along the widest street of the bazaar; it was about fourteen feet wide, lined on either hand by rows of open shops in which bunnias sat cross-legged and admired the gracious ways of God, rage and plunged into a Cheap Jack shop, upsetting tables and trays. Cheap Jack and his family The abused O'Leary instead of the bull, but O'Leary took no notice of such a trifle as that, beyond tilting the topee a bit further over his right eye. He was using his left eye. He had spotted Noor Mahlam lurking in a doorway, and he knew Noor Mahlam waited for him; he looked as if he had been waiting a long time, exhausting nearly all the philosophy from behind that serenely wrinkled forehead. "Wipe your spectacles," said Moses. "Don't you recognize me?"

Noor Mahlam began to answer in the vernacular. Moses interrupted: "Speak English. If you've business with me, I don't want it known all over the bazaar. Where's that three hundred rupees you promised me?" "You are too late," said Noor Mahlam.

"You mean you've spent it?" "That is a foolish question. If I had spent it, I could get moretwice, three times as much." "Uh-huh?" said Moses. "What do you mean? You were watching for What do you want?" me. "Someone has taken a very much bigger bribe than three hundred rupees," said Noor Mahlam. "Who has?"

"Someone. You know him." "You paid it to him?"

"No. Others paid it to him, and there were witnesses. But an impartial witness, who could testify to having seen the bribe in someone's tunic pocket, would be worth not three hundred rupees, but three times that much, or even more-say a thousand. That is a lot of money.'

O'Leary grinned: "You show it to me.'

Noor Mahlam blinked behind his spectacles: "You take me for a simpleton? You think I carry fortunes in my pocket, to tempt the bazaar thieves?' "Terms for witness," said O'Leary, "are cash in advance. Noor Mahlam blinked again. "If you will come with me-' "I won't," said O'Leary. "I'm an hard. It's going to land right in your stomach if you waste any more o' my time. Who's that bloke watching you?" Noor Mahlam turned, stared, blinked and shook his head:

"I don't know who he is," he answered. "But I have been told that it is very dangerous to know too much and to refuse generous offers of payment for a very simple little thing that a man of your talents can easily do.'

"What do you want me to do?"

"Invent an excuse to speak to Miss Lynn Harding. Tell her that a reward has been offered for a lost packet of diamonds, which are said to have been dropped by someone near the palace guesthouse veranda. Should you say it subtly, she will answer innocently. She will tell you what she saw. If you should take a witness with you-" "Sergeant Stoddart, for instance?"

"Yes, the sergeant would do perfectly. Then there would be two reliable witnesses to what she said, and she would not retract. There would be a thousand rupees for you." "And Captain Norwood?"

"That will be his business. It is unfortunate but-"

"I'm a halfbreed, I am," Moses answered, "and I'm a sinner, if you know what that means. I could use that thousand rupees. But I'd rather go to hell for pulling out your tongue by the roots than for framing my officer. He has his faults, but he's a gentleman and I've kep cried, 'O Lord, by these things men him out o' trouble for thirteen years. palace. When he arrived at the gates he turned his horse over to one of the guards. There were five huge trunks on the veranda and three native servants. Mrs. Harding, looking pale and in a vile temper, reclined on the chaise longue, superintending the packing of the trunks.

"Good afternoon. Can I speak to Miss Lynn Harding?"

Norwood's voice startled her. The certainty that he had overheard her remarks to the servants increased her anger. She didn't even invite him on to the veranda.

"No.' "Sorry," said Norwood. "I must. Where is she?"

"Must? Oh, well, come in, Captain Norwood. Tell one of these imbeciles to take the things off that chair.

"Sorry to contradict a lady, but you shall listen. It is your clear duty, Mrs. Harding, to have yourself carried to the palace if you can't walk."

"Oh? What on earth for?"

"If you can persuade your niece to go away with you tonight, that may save not only her, but more than one other person from disastrous consequences."

"Oh. So you want her out of the way! What has Lynn done to you? I have heard a rumor that you are in trouble. But what authority does that give you to lecture me? Why don't you go to the palace? Aren't you welcome there?"

"I have told you what your duty is," said Norwood. "There my own duty ends, as far as you are concerned. Good afternoon, Mrs. Harding.

Son. The heartbreaking story of Israel's unbelief and rejection of Christ and the judgment which has been upon them all the years since then, is not something over which we should gloat, but rather something which should move us to tears and prayer for our Jewish friends. After all, are we any better than they? Are not the appalling majority of Gentiles walking in that same road of selfish unbelief which leads inevitably to the rejection of Christ?

No man or woman can go on selfishly taking the benefits of God, using them for self advantage or comfort, turning a deaf ear to the cries of God's messengers, and hope to have any ultimate result other than Christ-rejection. It is high time that thoughtless people who perhaps have no deliberate intention to be wicked or to turn Christ away, should awaken to the fact that they are doing just that by their manner of living.

III. Rejection of Christ Does Not Defeat God (vv. 42, 43).

At first glance one wonders why Christ at this point turned so abruptly from the figure of the vineyard to that of the cornerstone. "The reason why He leaves for a moment the image of the vineyard, is because of its inadequacy to set forth one important part of the truth which was needful to make the moral complete, namely this, that the malice of the Pharisees should not defeat the purpose of God-that the Son-jected stone becoming the head of the corner, on which the builders -on which they were now already they set themselves against it to the fixion of Christ. Christ will not be defeated simply because men reject Him in the world. We who are on His side, we who are the followers of the Lord are on the victorious side. Those who oppose Him and speak ill of His name may appear to be victors for the moment, but the judgment of God is yet to come upon them.

The excited man mounted the platform and began his speech. The chairman made repeated efforts to stop him, but to no purpose. In the end he had to let him carry on.

And carry on he did, fiery and pungent, for an hour, then stopped. "Have you quite finished?" asked the chairman.

"Yes," said the orator, "and I defy you to contradict a single word I said.'

"I don't wish to," said the chairman. "The Brewery company, of whose management you complain, is holding its general meeting on the floor above. This is a reunion of the Beekeepers' society."

An Inlet, Not Outlet

The straight of Gibraltar, often sonsidered the Mediterranean's chief outlet, is technically an inlet. Due to evaporation, the level of the Mediterranean is a little below that of the Atlantic ocean, so that fresher ocean water constantly flows in through the strait. This is true in spite of the large volume of water poured into the Mediterranean by such rivers as the Nile, the Rhone, the Ebro, the Po and through the Dardanelles. The Mediterranean extends over an area of more than a

He is close-in as he methodically films the blazing ruins, trussed up in military gear and quite in the mode with a snappy iron hat—which the well-dressed photographer will do well to wear these days. He is Harvard '25, of impressive social line-age, tall and slim, but husky, and, all in all, a fictional ace for adventurous youth, considering what he's been mixed up in.

Mr. Menken has brought near-ly the entire latter-day apoca-lypse into sharp focus. He has dodged every kind of missile from South American poisoned arrows to Japanese shrapnel and Russian air bombs, nicked by a bomb splinter in the Spanish civil war, but suffering nothing worse than profound disillusionment about war in all its moods and tenses. Milton went blind, looking into the abyss of human horror, Mr. Menken just keeps on grinding with a sharp eye for focus, action and background and makes us see it, too. Just now, he's shooting the Finnish war for an American film company.

INTERNATIONAL: Charge and Answer

The comments of a Catholic pri-mate in late January seemed des-tined to touch off a one-two-three sequence that would lead Europe to a real war.

At the Vatican, August Cardinal Hlond reported that his primacy of Poland was the scene of mass shooting, religious persecution and other atrocities by Nazi Germany. Adding its two-bits worth, Poland-inexile charged from Paris that Ger-many had executed 18,000 Polish leaders. These things, true or not, made Berlin downright mad, insulted and vengeful. Diego von Bergen, ambassador to the Holy See, protested in vain. German executives in Po-land like Arthur Greiser, Arthur Seyss-Inquart and Hans Frank made speeches and gave interviews, the general theme being an admission of stern measures against "chauvinistic agitators" and sterner measures against Polish Jews. But atrocities were denied; all reprimands, they asserted, were designed to make everybody happy.

Adolf Hitler didn't bother to explain; he merely raved against his enemies. Occasion was the seventh anniversary of his rise to power. In his speech Der Fuehrer: (1) promised continued friendship with Italy and Russia; (2) tried to "pep up" Germany's war morale; (3) attacked Britain as usual; (4) attacked France, which was not usual; (5) announced the "real war" was about to start.

(London interpreted the speech as a surrender of hope that the allies might somehow be split. Italians heard Hitler with indifference, perturbed because he spent more time polishing apples with Russia than with Italy.)

Western War

In Britain, where a cold wave and fuel shortage had made bigger news than the war, Adolf Hitler's declarazeal in taking pictures there, he hastily flew off to China, to record more of "the giant agony of the world" as Euripidea about the total and the war, Adon Filter's declara-tion suddenly struck home. Waves of Nazi bombers swept down the coasts for the second consecutive day, destroying (according to Berlin) 19 ships. Just as France's Premier Daladier had warned a few hours earlier that total warfare would start soon, so did Britain's Neville Chamberlain indirectly hint at the same thing when he made a speech containing strong overtures toward neutrals like Japan and the U. S. (Japan was still protesting British seiztwo months of fighting, in addition to unestimated tanks, horses, trucks and miscellaneous supplies. Finland's first major aerial offensive was assigned to Italian pilots flying Savoia-Merchetti bombers, who raided an unnamed Soviet naval base.

(In Moscow, Italy was warned against joining the Anglo-French war bloc. Like-wise, Norway and Sweden were warned not to aid the Finns. Nevertheless every conceivable aid short of a declaration of war was being rushed from these coun-tries. U.S. metticing accounted and the second tries. U. S. participation was evidenced by (1) assignment of American volunteers to a legionnaire unit, and (2) arrival in Norway of at least 11 American-made pur-suit planes.)

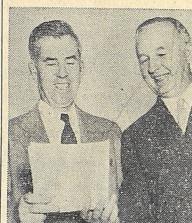

The Balkans In the Balkans where Rumania, Turkey, Greece and Jugoslavia met to plan a mutual defense bloc, dissatisfied Hungary opened a bitter press campaign for the return of Transylvania, ceded to Rumania after the World war.

CONGRESS: Farm Fight

Sped through the house were drastic slashes in such items as postoffice, treasury, emergency defense and independent offices. Reason: Congress would tickle an economyminded nation by avoiding new taxes or an increase in the national debt, thus safeguarding itself in an election year. In the senate appropriations committee there was mild balking at these economies, but they were destined to pass with minor adjustments. But when congress struck the farm bill it found a hot potato. President Roosevelt asked $788,929,519 in his budget, making no mention of the much-demanded $225,000,000 for farm parity payments. Bluntly the house appropriations committee slashed $154,530,000 from the budget ($72,678,000 for surplus commodities, lieutenant in the French army. FATHER CHARLES E. COUGHLIN, Detroit "radio priest," heard the justice department was not going to inves-tigate him after all, despite a statement to that effect by the New York Jewish Peoples' committee, which charged him with anti-Semitism. LAZARO CARDENAS, president of Mexico, announced flatly that further arbitration of expro-priated British and American-owned oil lands is "impossible."

LABOR:

Convention's End

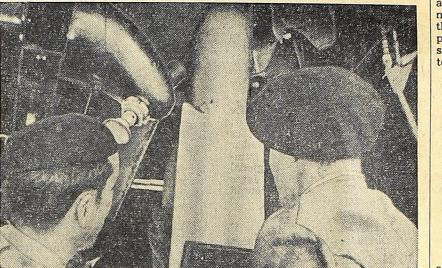

Denounced were President Roosevelt, Vice President Garner, Democratic Hopeful Paul McNutt, Labor Secretary Frances Perkins, the Republican party and Democratic ma-jorities in both houses of congress. Flayed was the National Labor Re-lations board and the house committee now investigating it. Tabled were 47 resolutions endorsing Pres-ident Roosevelt for a third term. Handed to the omnipotent union ex-ecutive board (whose powers re-mained uncurbed) was the right to endorse whatever Democratic presidential candidate it chooses, and to support him with union funds.

This done, John Lewis sent his United Mine Workers home from Columbus. They had served him well: They had given him an audience for his startling speech de-nouncing the President; an opportunity to launch his presidential campaign for Montana's Sen. Burton K. Wheeler; a carte blanche to ladle U. M. W. campaign funds into whatever coffer will best serve his purpose.

air, your head feels "stuffy," your nose runs, and there is a constant "dropping" into back of throat.

It is now known that while infection from others is a frequent cause of colds, it is allergy or sensitiveness to various substances that often causes the usual symptoms we call the 'head" cold.

"Allergy of the respiratory tract (nose, throat, bronchial tubes and lungs) may go undiagnosed (not recognized) because the characteristic symptoms of hay fever or asthma are not present. Yet allergy alone are not present. Yet allergy alone may produce chronic obstruction of the nose without sneezing and re-peated attacks of a running and stuffy nose, due not to infection but to allergy, called "colds" or sinus infection. Allergy alone may cause persistent s o r e persistent sore throat and stuffy ears that have nothing to do with inflammation or infection of the mouth, ears, nose or throat. Allergy alone can cause all the symptoms and signs of acute or chronic infection of the nose, the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Allergy Causes Inflammation.

In addition to causing the same signs and symptoms as infection, allergy can cause so much irritaallergy can cause so much irrita-tion and inflammation of the lining of the nose and throat that the help-ful organisms, always present in this lining, cannot fight off the harm-ful organisms and so infection oc-curs. This means that the individ-ual who is allergic to various subual who is allergic to various substances in the air or in food eaten will not only have the usual "allergic" symptoms, but in addition is likely to be attacked by an infection because of the loss of resistance to infection caused by this allergy.

What does this mean? It means that in those who seem to "always have a cold," the usual tests for allergy should be given by their physician or a specialist in allergy because it is hardly worth while to use "cold" vaccines or other preventive measures against colds if being allergic to various substances is not only causing some of the symptoms but making it "easy" for infections to get a start. * * *

Conferring in Washington with oil company executives, he is told that the withdrawal of high test gaso-line from Japan and Russia will set back the oil companies quite a few millions, but the companies express a willingness to meet the issues of "national policy."

Mr. Green's office is at the fulcrum of weighty political and economic issues and naturally is concerned with the increasingly urgent consideration of munitions reserves for national defense. The word "munitions," like many other words, takes in more territory than it did when Professor Green herded it into Webster's dictionary, back in 1929. Incidentally, at that time, he was also an editor of American Indian terms. When moral issues intrude, as of today, it is well to have a word expert around.

A native of Cincinnati, born in 1887, Mr. Green was graduated from Princeton in 1908 and did post-graduate work there and in Europe. He was instructor in history at Bordentown Military institute, assistant professor of history at Princeton and associate professor from 1924-30. He was a major of infantry in the war, holding home and foreign decorations, was with Belgian Near East Relief missions, and entered state department in 1930. He asked for a permanent scheme of subsidies, pointing his argument by suspending the cotton export program. Next he hinted the house could expect "political reprisals" if it dealt too severely with the farm-

JUSTICE: Anti-Trust Restraint

Since last autumn Trust Buster Thurman Arnold has secured indictments against 519 persons, 124 corporations, five trade associations and 34 labor unions, carrying on a popular campaign against combinations in restraint of trade. Considerably enlarged over last year, Arnold's livision is operating on a $1,300,000 budget but is still too small to prosecute all cases now scheduled.

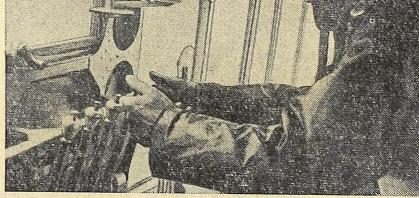

When budget estimates were prepared last autumn he asked for $2,208,000 for the 1940-41 fiscal year. Instead the budget bureau granted $1,209,000-or $100,000 less than Arnold's current appropriation. All efforts to get the fund increased have met with opposition in the economyminded house appropriations com-mittee, despite the fact that Arnold's division will probably collect $6,-000,000 in fines during the current year. Unless his fund is increased, observers believe the anti-trust campaign is apt to bog down.

Mucous Colitis Due to Nervousness

SPEAK often of mucous colitis because it is probably the commonest abdominal ailment for which physicians are consulted. The outstanding symptoms are more or less pain or distress in abdomen, diarrhoea mostly but sometimes spastic constipation, gas, and considerable mucous comes away in the stool

Mucous colitis is now considered due to nervousness and emotional disturbances, a tendency which can be inherited just as can hay fever or other allergic ailments.

The persistent diarrhoea, the colicky or spastic pains and the mucus in the stool makes the patient believe that there is something wrong with her bowel—that it is probably badly inflamed and may later develop into cancer. As a matter of fact these patients do not die of this condition and if they can learn a real philosophy of life it often passes away.

In speaking of mucous colitis Dr. Walter Alvarez, Mayo clinic, points out that there is really no "inflammation" of the colon (large intestine) as colitis implies and that if patients really knew this they would be less alarmed and be more free of their symptoms.

Avoid Excitement.

"If a patient with a sensitive colon is ever to be really helped, she must be made to realize that she has a peculiar nervous system which will cause her discomfort off and on, perhaps for the rest of her days. It will cause the bowel (colon, to get sore whenever she gets excited or upset nervously or when she is very tired or when she is coming down with a cold or perhaps when she gets badly constipated or takes too many laxatives or when she eats some particular food to which she is sensitive (allergic).

"If the woman has good sense she will see then that she must not keep hunting for a complete cure, but must settle down to live with her bowel avoiding as far as she can those influences that tend to upset her bowel."

Lights of New York by L. L. STEVENSON

The lobby of the Playhouse was crowded with those who had come out during the intermission of the Grace George play, "Billy Draws a Horse." In the throng were two women, one extremely well dressed and considerably older than her companion. Handicapped somewhat by a heavy pair of white wool gloves, the older woman opened her handbag and took out a flat tin of cigarettes. On one side of the tin were cigarettes. On the other an ash tray and a pack of matches. But clumsiness due to the gloves caused an accident wherein cig-arettes, ash tray and matches hit the floor. The well-dressed woman got down on her knees and started salvaging her belongings, her gloves again a handicap. Others joined her in retrieving the smokes, the ash tray and the matches. Finally, all were back in place and the owner arose. "I didn't want to waste them," she explained. "I don't smoke but they were a present."

. . . In the hurrying throng of Grand Central terminal, a small, wrinkled and plainly but neatly dressed woman, weighted down by two heavy bags, was being buffeted here and there. Finally the attention of a red cap was attracted and he sprang to her assistance. Having relieved her of her baggage and learned what train she was taking, he led her to a day coach and stowed away the bags in the rack. When he came back up the ramp he looked rather dazed.

"I didn't expect nothin'," he explained to a fellow worker. "I was just givin' her a hand 'cause she's old. But look here, boy, at 'what she give me and she said it wasn't no mistake neither."

And the other porter whistled as he gazed at two big homemade cookies-and a new five-dollar bill!

. . . A young traveling man, back from a long trip, which had kept him on the road during the holidays, sneaked into his Bronx apartment to give his wife and youngster a surprise. To his surprise, he found the place dark and deserted. Switching on the lights, horror swept him as he saw that the living-room walls and rug were stained with what seemed to be blood. As he was about to rush out to give an alarm, the telephone rang and, moved by an impulse he couldn't understand, he stopped to answer it. It was his wife who was at her sister's and had called purely on the chance that he might be home. When he had recovered sufficiently, he investigated and found that nature had taken its course with a keg of wine which, in the fall, he'd put in a warm closet to ferment.

On the way uptown, a taxi driver told me of a fare he'd picked up an hour or so previously. The fellow seemed to be sober enough but insisted that the driver turn into Central park and drive around an hour or more. Finally, when the meter charge caused the hackie to begin to worry a bit about the solvency of his passenger, he made an inquiry as to what it was all about. After a few moments of silence, the passenger replied that he was a writer and had got stuck with the end-ing of a story which he had promised to deliver at the end of the week. In a few words, he outlined, the plot. The driver shut off the clock and they went into a huddle, with the result that the proper ending was forthcoming. And the driver wouldn't accept a tip. In his spare time, he too writes short stories. . . .

Headliners in recent European news include three men whose activities are of world wide interest. Left Cardinal Hlond, primate of Poland, who reported to Pope Pius that German authorities are extirpating the Polish people and the Roman Catholic religion in the conquered area of Poland. Center: Marshal Semion Mikhailvitch Budenny, present commander of Soviet troops attacking Finland, who is attempting a more forceful attack than his disgraced predecessor, General Meretskoff. Right: Sir Dudley Pound, admiral of the British fleet and head of the naval department, who is responsible for England's war at sea.

Favorite Foods in Lent

It takes a bit of planning to produce meatless meals that please the family because we're so accustomed to the meal that's built around substantial roasts, or chops, or steaks. But fish, eggs, milk, cheese, beans, peas and nuts, are excellent protein or body-building foods that should be substituted now and then for meat. Their uses are many and with judicious planning they add inthe beaten egg. Drain, and roll in crumbs. Fry in deep fat at (375 de-grees Fahrenheit) for $1\frac{1}{2}$ to 2 minterest and variety to meals.

Fish and eggs occupy an important place in meatless meals; less commonly used, but inexpensive and good, are cheese, nuts, peas and beans.

Cheese is a concentrated food which gives good returns for the money spent on it; because it is an excellent body-building food and is rich in mineral salts, and because its flavor combines well with that of other foods, it should be more widely used. A little cheese goes a long way when combined with cereal products such as rice or macaroni.

Nuts are apt to be considered a mere accompaniment to a meal, or something to be nibbled on "be-tween meals," but wisely used, they're an acceptable substitute for meat.

Vegetable plates are popular for meatless meals. Where they include peas or beans or eggs (which might be hard cooked, sliced and creamed) they provide a satisfying and "bal-anced" meal. Banana Scallops are an unusual addition to a vegetable dinner-hearty and delicious, and easy to prepare.

Lenten Feast. Mix together 8 cups soft bread crumbs, 1/2 cup fat (melted), 1 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons onion (minced), 1 tea-spoon poultry seasoning, 4 eggs (slightly beaten), 1/4 cup milk and

On Fifth avenue, a gang of men were working in a manhole and because of their job were more or less begrimed and were in overalls of course. Just as an extremely welldressed and pretty young woman was passing, one of the workers emerged from underground. The young woman stopped and talked with the half-way-in-half-way-out toiler for several minutes. Then, with a smile, she went on her way. And the man-in-the-hole had quite a time convincing his associates that the pretty girl was his sister.

Parchment Paper Keeps

Fish in Shape in Pan

Broiled fish is difficult to remove from the broiler without breakingjust as it is in a frying pan. A piece of parchment paper cut just the shape of the fish, may be greased and placed under each slice of fish. It will not be necessary to turn the fish, as it will broil all the way through. Then the parchment may be removed upon serving.
