New Hereford Associattion Hold Meet at Grange Hall

A group of over fifty interested farm people gathered at the Greenwood Grange hall last week Wednesday evening to discuss possibilities of increasing the Hereford cattle population of Iosco county. Because of the ease with which Iosco formers are able to produce roughages it seems desirable to encourage the production. NEW YORK.—When young "Red" Phillips played guard on the University of Oklahoma football team, in 1915, he was scaled down to a mere 260 Game of Politics pounds, but Is Another Story in spite of that man-For Football Star aged to root through the line like a high-powered snowshovel. Sometimes he wouldn't stop when the whistle blew and they had a hard time to keep him inside the state lines. Today, as Gov. Leon C. Phillips of Oklahoma, he weighs in at 290 and is even more abandoned in his rootin' tootin' guard play. He orders out the National Guard to repulse the invasion of the federals, trying to build a $20,000,000 dam on the Grand river in his state.

This, one of his many scrimmages, is part of his waxing battle for state rights against what he considers the illegal encroachment of the federal government. He is an apostate New Dealer, having defeated the similarly belligerent "Alfalfa Bill" Murray on the issue of New Deal adherence in the 1938 Democratic primary.

Now he has switched teams. With a big cigar protruding from his lips at a cocky angle, biting it to shreds when he gets steamed up, he says the New Deal is a social service outfit, and social workers are "sorority sisters." Like the "Fiery and Snuffy" of the Oklahoma cow-boy song, he's "rarin' to go and he sends word to the war department that he won't let any invader set foot on Oklahoma soil.

He started to be a preacher, but switched to the law. Born 50 years ago in Grant county, Missouri, along the covered wagon trail, he was taken to Oklahoma at the age of two and grew up in the Cheyenne and Arapaho Indian country. He attended Epworth university one year, studying, presumably militant, Christianity, and then entered the law school of the University of Oklahoma. His fame as "Red" Phillips, the bone-crushing, maneating football player, gave him a fast running start in politics, and he soon landed in the state legislature. He made his campaign for the governorship on an economy platform, sweeping the state. The citizens still know him as "Red," and the "Yea Red!" yell of his college days serves for his political campaigns.

Windy Gap, there was a story that session. the dog had

All Scotty's Cash made a great Is 'Loaned' to Him fuss over a By Chicago Man stranger at Casey's hotel, and a theory that this stranger must have been Scotty's mysterious backer. The visitor, however, was just passing through and was never identified, and Scotty, even in moments of abandon in Tex Rickard's place, continued to insist that he had a "chimney," or "blow-out" of gold nuggets, samples of which he carried in his overalls pocket. It was not until years later that the mittee. man who financed the Death Valley Scotty saga, just for his own amusement it would seem, was A. M. Johnson, the head of a big insurance firm in Chicago.

As Scotty and his backer round out 40 years of a beautiful friendship, Scotty informs the federal tax collectors that he has $100,000 in gold certificates buried somewhere in the Panamint mountains, and that the source of his mysterious wealth has unfailingly been Mr. Johnson. From the same source came the $3,000,000 Spanish castle which Scotty built in the heart of Death valley several years ago, according to his previous admissions. The unique partnership opened with a $2,500 grubstake. He not only wrote a check, but followed Scotty to Death valley. The first mine didn't pan out, but Mr. Johnson was having fun. They fought bandits, got clubby with the Piute Indians and rooted around in old prospect holes. Thereafter came Scotty's famous train ride and the deepening mystery of his treasure cache. They kept their secret until along about 1930. The pooch, "Goldbug" and Scotty's extraordinarily intelligent white mule both died of old age. But the original partnership still goes on. Mr. Johnson, now 68 years old, is cut somewhat on the same lines as Henry Ford, but with an Achilles' Heel of Romance. He was born and grew up in a small town in Ohio, went to Cornell university, did a jolt of railroading in Arkansas and engaged in mining lead and zinc near Joplin, Mo. In Chicago he augmented an inherited fortune in the insurance business. He belongs to a string of good clubs in Chicago, is a sagacious and conservative citizen, and, from all accounts, has bankrolled Scotty just for the fun of it.

But senate spendthriftiness now found its way to the house. Upped $55,651,058 above the President's budget request were CCC and NYA funds, and it was this particular increase that made Virginia's Woodrum wax poetic. Next item would be relief, for which the President asked $1,000,000,000; but everyone knew that this figure would be increased. Sole remaining bulwark of economy was the house appropriations committee, which was rumored about to slash $60,000,000 from the navy bill.

WHITE HOUSE: Welles' Return

Down the bay at New York went some 25 reporters to meet the incoming Conte di Savoia. A few minutes later, in her card room, they faced a tall, dark-suited and handsome diplomat. Behind him was a 90-minute talk with Adolf Hitler; two meetings with Benito Mussolini; long and private discussions with Neville Chamberlain and Edouard Daladier.

Had he wished, Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles might have pulled big news from his bulging portfolio. Instead he said: "I am mighty glad to see you, and I'm glad to be home."

With that he caught a train for Washington where rumors were already mounting fast. Revived was the favorite chestnut that Sumner Welles' report held the key to Franklin Roosevelt's third term ambitions. Said the wiseacres: If Mr. Welles felt a European peace was in the air, the President would retire; otherwise, no. Judging by European news Mr. Welles read the American papers, it looked like a third term.

Such was the telegram sent to Dictator Josef Stalin the day Russia made peace with Finland. It came not from friendly Germany but from hostile France—from Soviet Ambassador Jakob Souritz. Two weeks later Envoy Souritz's recall at request of the French government created a mild diplomatic flurry that echoed across the English channel. There, Britain and Russia were at swords points over British seizure of a Soviet freighter in the Pacific. After several days the excitement had apparently died down, but not a big question mark:

AVIATION:

Achievement

Skies were overcast but radio reception was good. Pilot A. F. Olson nosed his Northwest airliner into the night toward Billings, Mont. Just west of Helena a bolt of lightning 'appeared from nowhere," ripped the fabric from the right aileron and gave Pilot Olson, his two fellow crewmen and 21 passengers a good scare.

When Pilot Olson landed at Billings he also brought home the bacon. That night the nation's 21 commercial airlines completed a full year's operation, flying almost 88,000,000 miles with not a single crew or passenger fatality.

While operators slapped themselves on the back, actuaries figured this record made it safer to fly than to walk.

UNAMERICANISM:

'Amazing'

Back into the headlines after his vacation in Florida went Texas' Rep. Martin Dies and his un-Americanism investigating committee. Current enemy: Russia and Communism. While Chairman Dies announced plans to "summon witnesses as fast as we can locate them," his operatives swooped down on Pittsburgh Communist headquarters in search of a Red who used the name "Franklin D. Roosevelt" on his party member-ship card. Also hard at work was New Jersey's Rep. J. Parnell Thomas, a Dies aid, who told reporters that "any number" of school textbooks used in the U.S. contain "one subversive passage right after another . . . Taken with the surrounding material, they may mean little, but when they are put with other selected passages they fit together perfectly, and the result is

COURTS:

Sherman Vengeance -

At Washington last year an A. F. of L. teamsters' union allegedly "conspired" to make concrete mixing companies hire union teamsters to drive mixer trucks. About this time the anti-trust division of the department of justice began casting a suspicious eye at the sorry plight of America's building construction field. Taking a long shot, Trust Buster Thurman Arnold slapped a charge of Sherman act violation against Washington's teamsters. The allegation: That this squabble interrupted building operations, therefore the union had restrained trade.

Protesting loudly that unions do not fall under the Sherman act, A. F. of L. cooked up a demurrer and a motion to dismiss the indictment. In late March Federal District Judge Peyton Gordon surprised everybody by upholding the indictment, maintaining the Sherman act applies to unions where their objectives are not "legitimate."

Day before it struck at labor, the Sherman act floored a capitalist. A unanimous Supreme court ruling held that patent owners may not extend their legal monopoly to control their product after it reaches the dealers, and specifically may not impose price-fixing restrictions. Case on which the ruling was made was that of the Ethyl corporation, which has licensed 123 refiners to manufacture anti-knock gasoline officers. Into the enemy ranks went with its patented tetraethyl lead fluid, and in turn has made the rewhich the plotters had stolen. In a finers license dealers who sell it to the consumer.

NE of the reasons that there are so many cases of cancer seen today is because middle-aged individuals know that cancer is a disease that makes TODAY'S itself known at HEALTH this time. The general practitioner COLUMN is now alert to discover cancer among his patients, knowing that early cancer is curable and late cancer is fatal.

However, the big advance from the standpoint of recognizing cancer is that medical students of today can now see more cases of cancer in a week than the medical students of less than 20 years ago saw in a year.

Dr. John Garnett Howell, Philadelphia, as guest editor of the Medical World, says:

"Educational standards of cancer offered to medical students have been improved at the University of Pennsylvania in the last several years by offering them the opportunity of reviewing

X-Ray Treatments May Be Sinus Aid

WHEN a patient suffering with sinus infection has had little or no relief from nose drops, inhaling preparations to dry up and shrink the lining of nose and sinus and even has had an "operation" to give better drainage to the sinus, he naturally brightens up when he reads of the results obtained by X-ray treatment.

Drs. F. M. Hodges and L. O. Snead, Richmond, Va., in Radiology, Syracuse, N. Y., state that sinus disease is far more common than is usually realized. They have been using the X-ray treatment for sinus ailments for some time and are obtaining gratifying results. The following are some of their find-

Tabulated Investigation.

1. In acute sinusitis (inflammation of the lining of the sinus), if mucous (or pus) can drain away properly the inflammation will generally clear up rather quickly under the usual treatment of astringents (salt solutions, adrenalin, ephedrine), packings and washings. In these cases, X-ray treatments are not necessary unless to hasten recovery.

2. Cases that are subacute or subchronic (where inflammation is not severe but has lasted for some time) respond well to X-ray treatment. Symptoms may have been present for months or years. 3. In old or chronic cases where there was thickening of the mucous membrane lining the sinuses, the majority were helped by X-ray treatment. 4. In cases accompanied by soft, enlarged growths-polyps-in sinus and nose, the X-ray gave marked relief and prevented a return of the growths in several cases.

5. In very old cases with widespread polyp formation, the X-ray gave little or no benefit.

QUESTION BOX

Q.-Will you please tell me what kind of foods are acid and what are alkaline?

A .- Foods having an acid effect on system are: Eggs, meat, fish, poultry, breads of all kinds (both white and whole wheat), cereals, pastries, puddings, etc. Foods having an alkaline effect on the system are: Milk, nuts, fruits (except rhubarb, plums, cranberries and prunes) and vegetables.

'Sauce for the Goose'

The function of a sauce may be ither to accent or to soften a flavor; it may be used to enrich a food, or to moisten it; the sauce may be sweet or savory; it may be hot or cold. Whatever its purpose or classification, the sauce must be smooth in flavor as well as smooth in consistency. It should, in addition, offer contrast in color, flavor, in texture, or in temperature.

Sauces are "sweet" or "savory," depending upon whether they are

'Magic' Butter Rolls Speaking of "busy-day" meals, here's a recipe that will make one and one-half dozen "magic" butter rolls in a hurry. This is what you need: 3 cups general purpose flour 1 teaspoon salt

1/2 cup butter or other shortening 1/4 cup evaporated milk

1/4 cup water 2 cakes yeast

1 tablespoon sugar

3 eggs 1 teaspoon vanilla extract

½ cup sugar

1 cup nuts (cut fine) To 11/2 cups flour add salt and shortening, combining as for pie crust. Combine milk and hot water. When lukewarm add the yeast and 1 tablespoon sugar, blend well and then stir into the first mixture, beating until very smooth. Cover and let stand 20 minutes. Then add the eggs and beat vigorously. Beat in the vanilla and remaining 1½ cups flour. Stir until smooth. The dough will be stiff but slightly sticky. Tie the dough loosely in a square of cheesecloth and drop it into a pail of cool water (70 to 80 degrees). In about an hour the dough will rise to the top of the water. When it does, remove it from the pail. Knead lightly. Cut into small pieces, roll in sugar and chopped nuts. Twist pieces as desired and let stand for 5 minutes. Bake in hot oven about

'Shanghaied' Pilots

About 10 times a year, pilots after guiding steamships out of New York harbor, find the ocean too rough for them to board the pilot boat and, consequently, stay on the vessels until they reach a port. For such inconvenience, the ship's company pays three dollars a day as well as expenses.

The Bengali backed away from Norwood. He looked three shades paler. He was trembling. The Ma-harajah's right hand seized the drumstick of the golden gong. He raised it. "No," said Norwood. "Not yet, please, Your Highness."

The Maharajah stared. He seemed uncertain whether to feel flattered or offended. He laid down the drumstick and resumed the tapping on the desk with his fingernails:

"I become nervous," he said,
"without my tonic. This is very bad for my nerves. Captain Norwood, how did you know about Norwood answered without looking at him. He was watching the Bengali and the white-clad servant: "I didn't know. I guessed it. Both of you, go and stand over in that corner, with your backs to the The servant obeyed promptly. He went down on his knees in the corner. He put his hands together and held them in front of his face. The Bengali backed away slowly, watching Norwood's eyes. He backed until he reached a bookcase. Suddenly he snatched a stamp album and hurled it at the goblet. Norwood caught the album in his right hand, by one leaf of the cover. He set the goblet on the desk, without spilling more than two or three drops. Then he closed the album carefully and gave it to the Maharajah. The Maharajah petted it, stroked it:

"My collection of Cape of Good Hopes! My triangular black!" He glared at the Bengali. "You vandal! Now I know you are guilty! Why did you throw it?"

The Bengali had recovered some of his presence of mind: "It was at him I threw it. By his touch he has defiled your drinking goblet! He is a bribe-taker! I suspect him of having tampered with your tonic. What has he put into it? I advise Your Highness not to taste it!"

The door behind the screen opened, closed again, and the Maharanee appeared. Norwood bowed to her, but she took no notice of him. She went straight to the Maharajah, knelt beside his chair, and whispered. He grumbled at her, sotto voce. She continued whispering. At last he nodded. She stroked his right hand, murmured traditional phrases of respect and left the room. She didn't even glance at the Bengali.

"I need my tonic," said the Maharajah. "I am becoming more nervous each minute."

"Whiskey and soda should be a good prescription for that," said Norwood. "I'd have brought a flash if I had any sense. I didn't think

"I have never defiled myself with whiskey," said the Maharajah.

Norwood kept his eye on the Bengali: "If you had never drunk anything worse than a scotch and soda, they wouldn't be betting in Kadur bazaar that you'll be dead by midnight. Any money on it, doctor? What odds did you get?"

The door behind the screen opened again. The Maharanee reappeared, veiled. She was followed by Lynn, and then Rundhia. Rundhia looked startled. He shot one penetrating glance at the Bengali, then at Norwood, then at the Maharajah. He made a very obvious effort to recover self-possession.

"Captain Norwood," said the Maharanee, "why did you wish to see "About this," said Norwood. He hadn't time to reply decently. He had noticed that Rundhia was trying to signal the Bengali through the opening under the desk, so he got in the way. As soon as Rundhia had stood up again, Norwood spoke:

"Rundhia, here's something for your bruised face. Come and drink

Lynn stared with parted lips from one man to the other. Rundhia en. He spoke as if the insolence glanced at her; he looked stung, had all oozed out of him: scared, sullen. Norwood hadn't looked at Lynn once since she entered the room.

The Maharajah pointed the gong drumstick at the Bengali: "Stand still," he commanded. "If you are unable to stand, you may sit-on the floor-where you are."

"Rundhia," said Norwood, "how about a trial by ordeal? You have accused me, behind my back. I accuse you, to your face, of an attempt to poison His Highness. What do you say? Shall we share this drink together? You drink half. I'll drink what's left."

"You are the last man I would drink with," Rundhia retorted.

Norwood laughed. He thrust his right hand into his tunic. "Steady, Rundhia! Keep your hand away from your pocket. I have you covered .- Lynn! Reach into Rundhia's hip-pocket and put his pistol on the Lynn stared-resentful, alarmed, puzzled. Parted lips. Wide blue eyes. Frowning.

Norwood repeated the order: "Lynn, do as I tell you!"

Lynn felt in his pocket. She laid an automatic on the table:

"Rundhia," she said, "I didn't think that of you."

"Rundhia!" said the Maharanee.

She had unveiled her face.

Lynn spoke again: "Rundhia, you came to offer Captain Norwood something else than that, didn't you. Where is it?" Rundhia snarled: "Tell him to put his own pistol on the desk."

"I haven't one," said Norwood. He reached for Rundhia's pistol, jerked it open and broke it. There came a knock at the door.

The Maharanee rearranged her veil. Norwood stepped aside, keeping his eyes on Rundhia, who was biting his lip. The Maharajah tapped the gong with his fingers. The door opened. The anteroom attendant spoke rapidly in his native tongue. The Ma-harajah looked like a frightened sheep. He nodded, speechless. The attendant bowed in the Resident and closed the door behind him. Norwood, still holding the goblet in his left hand, reopened the door and jerked his head at the Bengali: "Get out!" he commanded.

The Resident stared. He almost forgot to bow to the Maharajah. He "Rundhia," said Norwood. He held up the blue goblet in his left hand, almost as if he were going to drink a toast: "Let's hear your accusation. What have you against me?"

Rundhia eyed him sullenly: "Nothing," he answered. "I don't know you."

Norwood smiled: "Very cautious of you, Rundhia. I am really alive." The Resident also smiled. He startled everyone by saying:

"Rundhia, there is a conversation on record. Of course, only my version of it. But I refused, you remember, to treat it as confidential. I made a memorandum of it." Rundhia swallowed what was left of his dignity. He was looking beat-"I forget what I said. I withdraw it anyhow. I have already written this."

He groped in his inside pocket, avoiding Lynn's eyes, although Lynn looked sympathetic. He produced an envelope, strode past Lynn and offered it to Norwood. Norwood waved it aside and jerked his head toward the Resident.

The Resident accepted the envelope, and bowed to the Maharajah: "You permit me?" "By all means. I am fascinated."

Lynn was watching the Resident. He had opened the envelope. He read the letter. He passed it to Norwood:

"Is this satisfactory to you, Norwood?"

"It's entirely up to you, sir. I accept it if you do."

The Resident stepped forward and laid the letter in front of the Maharajah: "Will your Highness please read that and, if you see fit, witness it? I have a gallant officer here in need of a rebuttal of some secret accusations that might ruin his Rundhia was silent. "Speak!" said the Maharanee. She had unveiled her face. She was looking at Lynn.

Rundhia glanced at Lynn. Lynn looked suddenly straight at Norwood and spoke with such constrained emotion that her voice sounded fiercely angry:

"Captain Norwood, I asked Run-dhia to write that. If it isn't what you wanted, you may blame me."

Norwood's lips moved toward a smile, but he saw her embarrass-ment, so he checked it. He looked straight in her eyes for several seconds before he looked at Rundhia again:

"Substitute question, Rundhia! You didn't answer that one. How much did you charge for this retraction of your accusation against Rundhia had had time to consider. He sneered: "I wrote that as an act of magnanimity. Was it wasted on you?"

Norwood glanced quickly at Lynn. 'No, no, Rundhia, it wasn't wasted. But tell us all what is in this goblet. I could have it analyzed. Perhaps you would prefer to consult that Bengali doctor before you answer? Question a bit awkward? Your trouble is that you can't guess how much I know, can you? Can you guess why I let the Bengali leave the room? Any chance that he betrayed you? Rather drop the question? Very well, answer the other: how much or what did you charge, and to whom, for the magnanimous retraction of your accusation against

The Maharanee spoke in a strained voice: "Answer him, Rundhia.'

Rundhia was silent. Lynn stared.

He avoided her eyes. "If I should have to mention this goblet again," said Norwood, "I will ask His Highness the Maharajah to summon the guard. What promise have you exacted from whom as the price of your signing that retraction?"

"There was no price." The Maharanee was looking at down the stairs. I know that trick." Lynn. She spoke suddenly: "Run-

Rundhia stared at his feet. He had the grace to speak as if he were ashamed. He almost mumbled: "I release her from the promise."

Norwood looked at Lynn steadily: 'Do you accept that?" "No I refuse. Is this your vengeance? It's cruel. Doesn't the retraction satisfy you?" Norwood smiled at Lynn and made a reassuring gesture. Rundhia stared; he looked astonished.

The Maharanee stood up. Norwood "Lynn, did Rundhia tell you that I tore up your letter? He lied. Your aunt gave it to me less than an hour ago. It reached her by mistake in the wrong envelope.' "I confirm that," said the Resident.

Lynn stood up and waited for Run-dhia to speak. He didn't.

"Rundhia," she said, "did you hear that?" Then, turning: "Thank you, Captain Norwood." "Just a misunderstanding," Norwood answered. "I will explain it later." Lynn shook her head. Her eyes met his but she made no reply. She left the room by the door behind the screen. The Maharanee followed her. Silence.

"Does Your Highess wish-" "I wish for tranquillity! I do not care to know any more!"

"Carry on!" said the Resident. "Careful!" Norwood raised the goblet, this time in his right hand: "You don't deserve this, Rundhia. You're a blackguard." He glanced at the Res-

the Maharajah scream. "Your Highness," said the Resident, "in Prince Rundhia's presence, I take this opportunity to inform you that I have written to His Majesty's advisers, strongly recommending them to exercise their veto in the matter of Prince Rundhia's succession to the throne of Kadur."

English Abbey Built 800 Years Ago Now Up for Sale

Rufford Abbey, 800-year-old Eng- | bey began in 1148, when Gilbert de lish estate, is being put up for sale, contains 18,700 acres and includes the abbey, founded in the reign of King Stephen, partly rebuilt in the Sixteenth and Seventeenth centuries and an ancient deer park of more than 500 acres.

It also includes the whole or greater part of the villages and parishes of Old Ollerton, Eakring, Wellow, Bilsthorpe and Ompton, as well as parts of Walesby, Egmanton, Ed-winstowe, Farnsfield, Kirton, Blidworth and Tuxford.

The estate comprises about 70 farms, 38 small holdings, four licensed houses, including the famous Hop Pole at Ollerton, many private residences and shops, nearly 2,000 acres of woods and plantations, and hundeds of cottages.

One of the most famous estates in the dukeries, Rufford abbey never has been in the market before, and its forthcoming sale will be one of the outstanding transactions of recent years in real estate. Lands at Gaunt, Earl of Lincoln, founded an London papers report. The estate abbey there, dedicated it to the honor of the Blessed Virgin Mary and colonized it with Cistercian monks from Rievaulx abbey.

The abbey lands increased, and from the earliest times the monks enjoyed special privileges in the surrounding Forest of Sherwood. The abbots became rich enough to enter tain royalty, and September 18, 1290, Rufford received the first of many subsequent royal visitors; Edward I passed a night there and sealed a variety of documents.

The rich abbey attracted the attention of Henry VIII's commission. ers when he was considering the dissolution of the monasteries and in 1537 he annexed the abbey and gave it and all its lands to George, earl of Shrewsbury, with whose descendants it ever since has remained. Thus began Rufford abbey's 400year existence as a country house.

AMOS PLEADS FOR JUSTICE

LESSON TEXT—Amos 5:1, 10-15, 21-24.
GOLDEN TEXT—Hate the evil, and love the good, and establish judgment in the gate.—Amos 5:15.

Social justice, though much spoken about in recent times, has been the concern of right thinking men ever since sin entered the world and started man's inhumanity toward man. In the prophet Amos we find the eloquent and plain-spoken voice of one crying out against such conditions almost 800 years before

This lesson is one which is of utmost importance because in our present-day struggle with social injustice we have come to assume that it is primarily a political or eco-nomic question. Amos and all other Scripture rightly gets at "the focus of infection," which is sin. Sin in the heart leads to sinful actions, and these inevitably involve others, and thus bring about social problems. Let us learn from Amos to cure our social ills by bringing man to God.

I. Lamentation-in the Midst of Prosperity (v. 1).

From the little village of Tekoa and out of the wilderness in which he had been a herdsman came Amos, the man of God, to hurl his The Resident wiped his face with the handkerchief: "Steady, Norwood," he said. "Steady." He spoke aloud to the Maharajah:

Amos, the man of God, to hurl his prophecy of disaster upon the heads of the complacent people of Israel and to take up a lamentation over those in Israel living in luxury and prosperity.

True it was that the common people were being ground under the heel of cruel oppression, but who cared about the poor as long as they could be squeezed for taxes to support the luxurious comforts and pleasures of the rich? A prosperity which does not reach the homes of the poor is not a real prosperity at all. When in addition thereto it encourages the "haves" to oppress the 'have-nots' it becomes a grave danger, a real cause for lamentation. II. The Reason-Sin Which Hates

Reproof (vv. 10-13).

Sin is always a horrible thing, but when men who have fallen into sin are responsive to correction and ready to repent and forsake their sin, there is hope. The thing which made Israel's state so serious in the sight of God and of His prophet was that they had only hatred for those who were bold enough to reprove them or to live among them according to God's standards (vv. 10, 13). 'They who will endure no criticism have slammed the door in the face of truth. When we get to the place where we cannot endure having our faults pointed out, we are on the way to moral collapse" (Douglass).

The sin which had thus hardened their hearts showed itself in social inequality and injustice which was built upon greed, oppression, cor ruption in the courts, etc. The shocking picture which Amos paints bears a surprising similarity to conditions in our world today. Let us face the problem and seek its solution.

III. The Cure-Seek Good Not Evil (vv. 14, 15).

God's Word condemns sin, but it always presents a remedy. In Christ we have the perfect, final, and complete answer to the sin question. Amos, speaking centuries before Christ, admonished Israel to repent and to turn away from the evil which they had cultivated with such assiduity and to be equally zealous about doing good, in the hope that 'it may be that the Lord God of hosts will be gracious" (v. 15). How favored we are to be permitted not only to urge people to turn from evil to good, but to offer them the One who is the way, the truth, and Israel did not repent, but in folly depended on their religious ceremonies to satisfy an offended God. The prophet therefore declares that IV. Religion Is Not a Substitute for Justice (vv. 21-24).

God had no pleasure in their religious observances and rites, because they were presented with unrepentant hearts and by hands which were soiled by the oppression of their fellow man.

Mark it well, God has no delight in the attendance upon church services, beautiful though they may be, does not listen to the sweet strains of sacred music, nor does He accept the rich "offerings" of those who live in unforsaken sin and who pay for magnificent church buildings and beautiful church services with money gotten by crooked dealings and social injustice. God is righteous and God's Word always cuts right through the hypocrisy of men. Let us heed the plea of Amos, that righteousness should run through our personal and national life "as a mighty stream," and then we shall be ready both as individuals and as a people to worship Him aright.

A Gracious Lord

His work is honorable and glorious; and his righteousness endureth forever. He hath made his wonderful works to be remembered; the Lord is gracious and full of compassion.-Psalm 111:3-4.

Frock for Home Or Street Wear

The subdistrict forensic contest will be held in our new auditorium, April 15. Harrisville, Lincoln, Oscoda and Tawas City will send speakers to this contest. The speakers will participate in orations, declamatons and extemporaneous speaking. It is an bonor for our school to have the contest here. If we wish to hold the contest again, we must have the support of everyone. Marion Musolf hopes to win the honors for us in orations, in declamations, Virginia Rapp promises to do her best. Let them have your support by your attendance at the auditorium at 8:15.

Just Nickname the Used Car you buy that's all! The ten best nicknames given to used cars bought from Ford dealers before midnight, April 11, in the territory shown on the map will bring crisp $100 checks to the winning used car buyers!

It's easy to Nickname a Car. To score high all you have to do is to hit on a simple nickname that's not as common as, say, "Betsy." Such names as "The Lansing Liner," for instance, or "Toledo Express." (These names should not be entered) simited Time! Prices Slushed! What a bargain you'll get if you buy from your Ford dealer NOW! You'll find the car you want at the price you want to pay! Make the down payment and you're in the Nickname Contest! Read the 3 Simple Rules.

THE RUNNING FOR A $100 CASH PRIZE!

Follow these 3 Simple Rules

See any Ford, Mercury, or Lincoln-Zephyr dealer in the territory shown on the map. Pick out any used car in his stock. When you've made your down payment, the dealer or his salesman will give you a certified, self-addressed and post-paid Entry Card.

Write or print on the card a nickname for the car you bought, using not more than five words. Mail the card. It must be postmarked not later than midnight of April 11.

The ten best nicknames as determined by the judges will each be awarded a $100 cash prize within a week after the contest closes. Decisions of the judges will be final. In case of a tie, duplicate prizes will be awarded. The judges are: Hon. John L. Carey, Mayor of Dearborn, Mich.; G. D. Gettins. Automobile Editor, Toledo Blade; Gordon Kingsbury, Director of Advertising Courses, Wayne Univ. (NOT ELIGIBLE: Ford Dealers or their families, Ford dealers' employes or their families.)
