Big Navy for U. S.? Yes, Say D'Alesandros

Duce Decorates Hero of Spanish War

Premier Benito Mussolini of Italy, resplendent in army uniform and steel helmet, pins a medal for valor on the breast of an Italian hero who lost his legs in the Spanish civil war. Mussolini, during the past few weeks, has had occasion to review almost all of his troops.

Nazi Infantrymen Practice New Tactics

German infantrymen, especially trained in parachute jumping, demonstrate how they leap from giant transport planes. The invaders from the sky carried light machine guns which can be put into action immediately. "Fifth column" tactics such as these have been employed by the invading Germans on a widespread scale.

Headaches May Be Caused by Too Rich Foods

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

I HAVE spoken before of trying to make up a list of the causes of headache. After reaching about 100 causes and noting that these causes were often related to one another, I stopped further search.

However, in medicine, physicians look for commonest causes first and so eye strain, stomach, liver and intestinal disturbances form the largest number of headaches.

For a time many physicians declared that there was no such ailment as biliousness, but it is generally agreed that biliousness does occur and that taking a dose of Epsom salts and doing without food for 36 hours is good treatment.

What about "bilious" headache? "A bilious headache felt at the brow, behind the eyes, and in the back of the head, often accompanied with vomiting and retching, is part of the group of symptoms known as toxemia (poison in the blood) of the gall bladder. It is a noteworthy point that abdominal pain is not present in a true bilious pain. (Except, of course, the pain of muscles of abdomen due to vomiting or retching)." I am quoting Dr. Harold Dodd in the Practitioner.

Gall Bladder Should Be Flushed.

These headaches respond well to flushing of the gall bladder by Epsom salts taken early in the morning. The dose should be one teaspoonful or more, and must be so gauged to the individual that a soft but not a watery stool results. After taking the Epsom salts the patient lies on the right side for half an hour or three quarters, after which a tumbler of water, either hot or cold, is taken. In addition, pure bile salts—not combination of bile salts with other substances—are given three times a day in ordinary doses. This treatment is continued for about two weeks.

It should be remembered that the bilious headache does not usually result from one big meal but from persistent overeating of rich foods. By using a level teaspoonful of Epsom salts every morning for a week, once a month, bilious headache may often be avoided.

Stammering and Self-Consciousness

JUST when it was thought that all was now known about the cause of stammering, another new finding appears that should be of great help to parents, teachers and to the stammerer himself. It is known that there is nothing wrong with the tongue, vocal cords, sounding box (sinuses), in the great majority of cases. Stammering is really due to nervousness or self-consciousness, because when stammerers are at home or with friends, and are not nervous or self-conscious, they can talk freely with no hesitancy whatever.

The new finding in regard to stammerers is that stammering or speech defects may be due to defective hearing.

Hearing Ability Important.

The greatest amount of loss of hearing is due to diseases of childhood which occur during the first seven or eight years of life. Doctors M. Arline Harms and J. Y. Malone, Milwaukee, in Annals of Otolaryngology and Rhinology and Laryngology (ear, nose and throat) state that it is at this time that the greatest good can be accomplished in improving the hearing and correcting the stammering.

Doctors Harms and Malone found that stammering was rare in the deaf, that is, in those who had completely lost their hearing, but stammering becomes frequent in those who had lost but half their hearing. In 62 consecutive cases of stammerers who did not know they had any loss of hearing, the loss of hearing was from 10 to 22 per cent.

This strongly suggests that in many cases there is a relation between hearing loss and the development of stammering. Cases were discovered where there was no stammering until the individual had lost some of his hearing ability.

QUESTION BOX

Q.—What are the symptoms of Bright's disease?

A.—In Bright's disease—nephritis—there is albumin and little casts or impressions of the tiny tubes of kidneys in the urine.

Q.—What causes twitching muscles during sleep?

A.—This twitching may be due to nervousness, a run-down condition, or to infection. May be due to same cause as arthritis—infection or some vitamin lack.

Sunken Treasure

"DEAR MRS. SPEARS: I would like to make some handy end tables of spools for the living room, but I can't think of a way to make them rigid. Have you any suggestions as to how this may be done? B. P."

Because there is no property right in oceans, it is widely believed that anyone is entitled to hunt and keep the countless millions of dollars of treasure lying in sunken ships, says Collier's. However, this is not true as the underwriters become the sole legal owners of these wrecks and all contents on the day the insurance is paid.

THE STORY THUS FAR

Left orphaned by a tragic automobile accident which claimed the lives of their mother and father, three sisters, Helen, Adele and "Limp," are visited by their Aunt Olympia, politically minded wife of Senator Alencon Delaporte Slophshire.

"How can I drum up votes for the Governor," continued Len, "if I'm going to be upset over the Opposition all summer? Do you want to nip the budding career of a rising young genius?"

"Not as good a reporter as Len Hardesty," thought Aunt Olympia. "Len hasn't overlooked a lash."

The girls sat quite motionless until he had dashed from the room. Aunt Olympia contentedly lit a cigarette.

The girls talked him over when he had gone. They agreed that Len Hardesty had been unjustly prejudiced and that Cecil was a nice boy and they could stand having him around.

CHAPTER V

On the next morning at eleven o'clock, Aunt Olympia received Cecil Dodd in the sitting room. She received him alone, having with difficulty hardened her heart to the girls' importunities, for they, eager curiosity doubly whetted by the united opposition of Uncle Lancy and Len Hardesty and by Aunt Olympia's defense, were eager for a glimpse of him.

"He's really what you would call a sweet child," Helen wrote to Brick Landis. "He seems so young and so unspoiled, and yet Aunt Olympia says he's had his own way all his life and had everything he has ever wanted."

"Why, that's Gabriel d'Allotti!"

"I've been thinking of our talk the other day," she began at once. "Did I understand you to say you would like to try your hand at campaigning?"

Aunt Olympia went with Helen and Adele one afternoon to a large cocktail party—the invitations had said "tea."

"Experience is worth more than money," he murmured, devoutly. "Not to us," she admitted. "Anything it'll be something and we'll pay your expenses, and if anybody can teach you the racket, Dave Cooper can . . . With some help from me . . . You see, Cece, this isn't like the usual campaign. We've got our young nieces with us and we're going to take them along. Those girls are going to be our best asset in this campaign and we want someone—not quite so hard-boiled as Dave—to do full justice to their vote appeal."

"I met you just after you came in, Miss Rutherford," he said pleasantly. "I am Gabriel d'Allotti. I couldn't possibly expect you to remember me in that crowd and that confusion, but by the same token, you could not possibly expect me not to remember you in any crowd or any confusion. You are unforgettable."

"Mrs. Slophshire," he said earnestly, "I'll work like a dog; I'll work day and night."

Adele smiled pleasantly. But she remembered Len Hardesty's warning, "Beware of embassies and attaches!"

Having come to this amicable agreement, Aunt Olympia asked him to stay and meet the girls. He accepted the invitation gratefully but Aunt Olympia could see that his mind was less on them than on the great opportunity which a bounteous Heaven had so surprisingly bestowed upon him.

"It's a bargain," he said heartily, shaking hands with her. "I shall go at once and make diplomatic overtures to your aunt."

Inside of five minutes he had Aunt Olympia's attention.

"Mrs. Slophshire," he said ingratiatingly, "it is only fair to inform you, in strict confidence, that I have been completely enchanted with your very lovely niece. How does one go about getting permission to call?"

"Oh, very much." "Of course you get the right slant on it," he conceded. "It helps a good deal to be on the inside looking out and around, instead of, as I am, on the outside, waiting my turn at the knothole."

"You can't be far outside in the home of Senator Slophshire. He knows his America. I have often wondered about your senators. Do they act at home as they do on the floor?"

"Um, something the same. Uncle Lancy wipes his glasses; and blushes through his thinning hair when he is flattered."

"But what does he talk about? Does he merely say, as I would, how very beautiful you are? Does he complain about the eggs being overdone? Does he read his speeches to you?"

"Dear me, is she going to run for something?"

"Maybe. Anyhow, she made up her mind to learn it. She goes to committees and reads the Congressional Record and at night they go to the library and argue for hours—over how many air defense guns are required here and there, and whether peace is preserved by more armaments or by disarmament, and which end of a boat is the proper

"He is very interesting," Helen wrote to Brick Landis a couple of weeks later. "And isn't it strange that he hasn't fallen in love with Adele? Well, he certainly has enlivened my study of the American system. He disagrees with me on nearly everything. He has the foreign idea of maintaining peace—that is, by bigger and better armaments. You'd almost think he was going to take out naturalization papers, he gets so wrought-up over America's lack of preparedness."

"To tell the truth he knows a lot more than I do about the American system, though he doesn't approve of most of it. He comes to the house quite often and once he went with me to one of Uncle Lancy's committees and we did agree on one thing: that it is mighty hard for a dozen men sitting around a table to agree on a policy to save the nation; especially when the plan goes from them to the Senate, then to the House, back to the Senate, and back to conference again; and when they do finally agree on something, there's still the White House to reckon with."

"You needn't worry, darling. He hasn't the suggestion of a crush on me. You can't fool women about that. Sometimes we think they have when they haven't, but we never think they haven't when they have. We're not that dumb. But we are both interested in the same things and it really is more exciting to argue with him than with Uncle Lancy. Uncle Lancy's always afraid of hurting my feelings, and Mr. d'Allotti isn't. But he isn't my type. I like 'em red headed and a bit roughed up."

"Oh, Brick, the session is nearly over and nothing has happened! Wouldn't you think one really big thing—an important thing—might happen while I am here, so I could get a glimpse beneath the surface?"

CHAPTER VI

Early in May, Aunt Olympia decided it was time for the assistant director of publicity, Cecil Dodd, to begin sending stories to the home papers. Olympia, who was an indefatigable maker of notes, had a list of "points" ready to start the campaign on her own and the girls' behalf; the Senator, except for incidental remarks in passing, was to be left to Dave Cooper. So she sent for Cecil and, at their laughing insistence on its educational value, permitted the girls to listen in.

"Now, you see, Cece," began Olympia, with great gusto, "politics is an elaborate and intricate system of build-up. That's all. Just build-up."

"A lot of it has to be done in advance because it must be gradual. An untimely climax gums up the works. It has to be a gradual ascent to the wind-up. Dave, as you know, is already at work building up the Senator's record and so forth but we women of the Senator's household must have our domestic build-up. The woman-vote, you know, though a lot of males fall pretty hard for that domestic angle, too."

Cecil, raptly attentive, made a note of "domestic angle."

"Now, in the first place, you must announce that certain salient facts were gleaned from Mrs. Slophshire in an interview . . . This is an interview . . . I'm going to answer the questions you would ask me if you had enough experience. Now, in answer to what should be your first question, I reply, with deep feeling, no, we have not as yet given a moment's thought to the coming campaign. That is left to the future. We—the Senator and I—are so happy in having these dear children with us, our home life is so full, so serene—Never say 'exciting,' Cece, for your life! Say 'satisfying.' Our home life is so serene, so satisfying—you might say serenely satisfying, if you like—that so far we have been entirely wrapped up in quiet family interests."

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D., Dean of the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for June 2

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

TESTING CONDUCT BY ITS USEFULNESS (A Principle of Temperate Living)

LESSON TEXT—Ezekiel 15:1-6; Matthew 5:13-16; 7:16-20; 1 Corinthians 10:6, 7. GOLDEN TEXT—Ye shall know them by their fruits.—Matthew 7:16.

Sound principles are foundational to right living. Right living is temperate living. The first temperance lesson for the year emphasized the sacredness of life. This lesson, which is our second one on that subject, properly stresses the importance of testing conduct by its true usefulness.

The emphasis of modern thinking is upon learning, upon the brilliance of scientific achievement, with little or no concern about personal character. Christianity and the Bible go to the root of that matter, stressing the need of stalwart moral and spiritual character, without which other attainments are lacking in real value and meaning. Unless what a man accomplishes is the expression of the greatness of his character, it is transient and often detrimental in its effect on society.

Tested by its results, the liquor traffic stands conclusively and completely condemned. Even its own frantic efforts to clean up and be more presentable indicates that fact. McAlpine made a rather acute comment when he said, "IF I WERE A LIAR . . . I'd advertise beer as a food, whisky as the promoter of the abundant life, and cocktails as the badge of social correctness. They say that if you repeat any thing times enough, people will believe it."

The Scripture portions before us present five inconsistencies, five instances where fact denies a false profession.

I. Wood Without Strength. (Ezek. 15:1-6)

The branch of a vine is at its best too crooked and pliable to be very useful, but here we have a piece of vine which has been charred in the fire until it is so useless that it can only be burned up. This is the picture of a life, possibly somewhat limited in its abilities and gifts, but nevertheless valuable, but made utterly useless by careless or dissolute living. How tragic!

II. Salt Without Savor (Matt. 5:13)

True salt is penetrating, antiseptic and purifying, but savorless salt is good for nothing but to make a road for the feet of men. "Ye are the salt of the earth." Christians, if they have the true savor in their lives, will count, by their very spiritual pungency, against sin and corruption in their communities.

III. Light Without Illumination (Matt. 5:14)

A light is intended to give illumination to all around about it. It always does that thing unless someone hides it under a cover, and then it becomes not only useless, but dangerous. A life lighted by faith in Christ will shine to the very ends of the earth and, as a missionary once said, "The light that shines farthest shines brightest at home."

IV. Trees Without Fruit (Matt. 7:16-20)

Every plant brings forth fruit after its own nature. We do not expect figs from thistles, but we do expect figs from the fig tree. The countryside bears no more desolate figure than a blasted, fruitless fruit tree. Quickly the owner cuts it down and terminates its shame and uselessness by burning it. What about men and women? God has made them in His own image and likeness. He has given them intelligence and personal ability. He has a right to expect the fruit of a useful life from every one, and particularly from the Christian, who is "a good tree."

V. Life Without a Purpose (1 Cor. 10:6, 7)

Light and salt are inanimate objects. Trees and vines with their wood and fruit are alive, but they are without intelligence and morality. Man, however, as we have already suggested, is the moral and intelligent crown of God's creation, made in His own image and likeness. If they who know better, live lives of careless indifference, yea of outright wickedness, how shall they escape the judgment of God in the day when they shall stand before Him to give an account of the manner in which they have used this precious gift of life?

The Beginning of Wisdom

He sent redemption unto his people; he hath commanded his covenant forever; holy and reverent is his name. The fear of the Lord is the beginning of wisdom; a good understanding have all they that do his commandments; his praise endureth forever.—Psalm 111: 9, 10.

AROUND the HOUSE Items of Interest to the Housewife

A rubber band wrapped near each end of coat hangers will prevent garments from slipping off them.

A pinch of cinnamon or sugar burned in a tin can will remove objectionable food odors in the house

Fasten a large paper sack over the end of the food grinder when grinding bread or crackers. The sack will catch all of the crumbs.

Always melt marshmallows in the top of a double boiler over hot water.

Flour sifters and kitchen strainers should be dried thoroughly before storing.

Rubber plants cannot be fertilized too highly. Give each plant a teaspoon of sulphate ammonia once a month and do not be afraid of watering too much. They like a wet soil.

STRANGE GAME

An Englishman's viewpoint of American baseball—excerpts from an account in the Ashington Collieries Magazine:

"A diminutive person about four feet high, complete with player's uniform including giant jockey cap, is handing bludgeons around for inspection." Yes—it was the bat boy! He continues: "The fielding is the liveliest thing imaginable. Those at the bases and outfield are armed with a single glove as large as a frying pan. The balls are skied to a tremendous height, but I never saw a catch missed."

In a Nutshell

The theater was in an uproar. "They're calling for the author," said the man responsible for the play.

The manager grabbed the playwright and impelled him along the passage. As he shoved him toward the curtain he said curtly: "Well, just go in front and tell them you're sorry."

Justice in Rebellion

Men seldom, or rather never, for a length of time and deliberately, rebel against anything that does not deserve rebelling against.—Carlyle.

No child can be sure to escape BOWEL WORMS

Maybe you don't realize how easy it is for youngsters to become infected with round worms without their parents even knowing it! Your child may "catch" the infection from other children, from a dog, from uncooked vegetables, from infested water.

So, watch out for these warning signals: Uneasy stomach, fidgeting and squirming. Itchy nose and other parts. Finicky appetite. Biting nails. And if you even suspect that your child has round worms, start using JAYNE'S VERMIFUGE at once!

JAYNE'S VERMIFUGE is the best known remedy in America for expelling round worms. It has been used by millions of mothers, for over a century, and is backed by the most modern scientific study.

JAYNE'S VERMIFUGE has great ability to drive out large round worms, yet it tastes good and acts gently. If there are no worms it works merely as a mild laxative. Ask for "JAYNE'S VER-MI-FUGE."

Edward N. Barnard, and other similar persons who openly boast of their political deceptions, and has caused great and widespread suffering among crippled and afflicted children, aged persons and those in distress by reducing the funds for these purposes in an inhumane and cruel manner, and has ripped open non-partisan and upright civil service in favor of a ruthless and depraved spoils system operated by the Republican bosses, and has failed in its proposal to reduce the cost of state government in accordance with its promises and the mandate of the people of this state;
Therefore Be It Resolved, That we favor the candidacy of Hon. Murray D. Van Wagoner for election to the office of Governor of this state; and, that we favor the election to state and county office of Democrats pledged to decent, honest and efficient government; and, That we favor the return of a good Civil Service in our state government together with humane and honest effort to adequately provide for our school system, our aged, our crippled and afflicted children, for our distressed, for our feeble-minded and mentally afflicted persons, for a proper administration of our prison and corrections system.

Whereas, President Franklin D. Roosevelt in his administration has achieved a unique record in improving agricultural conditions, bringing about social security, restoring banking and investment stability, providing better housing conditions, relieving the distressed of ill-housed, ill-fed, ill-clothed millions of our people and in many other innumerable ways providing for the uplift of our distressed and depressed people for a better American life, and, Whereas, the leadership of this indomitable great American in the history of Democracy has safeguarded our people and his courage, ability and intimate knowledge of world affairs makes his guidance of our country in these dark days indispensable,
Therefore, Be It Resolved, That this convention deems it imperative that the Honorable Franklin D. Roosevelt be drafted and re-elected the president of these United States of America, and that the delegates to the Democratic National Convention from this 10th Congressional District in Michigan be instructed to vote for the nomination of President for another term.

THE FORD WAY OF DOING BUSINESS

The Ford Motor Company was founded by a working-man for working-men. Its present officers began as employees of the Company. It was the first company to pay a minimum wage, beginning in 1914, at the then astounding figure of $5 a day. That was double the prevailing wage of the time. The Ford minimum is now $6 a day for all employees engaged in production work. And from that, the wages rise to $10.80 a day, with the average wage $7.25, exclusive of salaried employees.

The Ford Motor Company was the first large company to establish the 8-hour day—also in 1914. And the 40-hour week was inaugurated by the Ford Motor Company in 1926, years before any such laws existed.

The Ford Motor Company employs men without regard to race, creed or color. It is common knowledge that working conditions in the Ford shops are the best that science and constant care can make them. A square deal, a just wage and stabilized employment for a large proportion of our employees—and as fully stabilized for all as conditions will permit—enable our men to retain their personal independence.

In consequence of these policies the Ford Motor Company has one of the finest bodies of employees in the world. The larger proportion are mature men of long service with the Company—sober, decent family men. Hundreds of them have been with the Company for more than 25 years—thousands for more than 15 years. Their health record, home ownership and citizenship records are good.

All this is reflected in Ford products, whether cars, trucks or tractors. The work is honestly done. Materials are the best that can be made or procured. Less profit to the Company and more value to the customer is known throughout the motoring world as "Ford's way of doing business."

Ford Motor Company was the first to make a motor car within the means of the average family—quitting the manufacture of what was then the largest selling model in the world to do so. Its chosen field in all the 30 years since that time has been the average American family—for which it has consistently provided car facilities which formerly only the wealthy could buy.

It is the policy of the Ford Motor Company to share the benefits of advanced methods and management with workers and public alike. Increased wages and employment over a period of many years have resulted in

A 300 per cent increase in the built-in value of the Ford car and a 75 per cent reduction in its price.
