Full Strength of German Army Hits New French Defense Line; First Nazi Bombs Fall on Paris

(EDITOR'S NOTE-When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) Released by Western Newspaper Union.

In Madrid, Spanish students, no doubt prompted by Rome and Berlin, recently staged demonstrations urging return of Gibraltar, world's greatest fortress, from English control to Spain. Until shortly after the Munich crisis, when England learned what she might some day have to face, only this high rickety fence separated the mighty fortress from the Spanish mainland. Since that time engineers have labored unceasingly to protect this Achilles heel of the key to the Mediterranean. In a war with England Italy may strike one of her first blows at Gibraltar. Its surrender may be asked as an alternative to a German blitzkrieg on England, some war oracles claim.

MORE WAR: Big Push

With the same deadly technique that has humbled Poland, Scandinavia, Luxembourg, The Netherlands and Belgium, Adolf Hitler turned from his "triumph" in Flanders to launch a mighty drive through central France-aimed directly at that nation's capital,

As usual this technique included the thousands of well-equipped troops, supported by the now-famous and highly feared dive bombers, strongly armored tanks and the mightiest of heavy artil-

Full strength of the drive struck at the heart of the French line which stretches across 200 miles of French soil along the Somme and Aisne rivers. This line of troops, under the command of Gen. Maxime Weygand, was hastily bolstered while the Nazis were busy with their at-tack on the British and French forces escaping from the Flanders battlefield via Dunkirk and the English channel.

But if the allied line of battle had been bolstered it was done with French soldiers and not British Tommies.

For from London came word that for the time being France would be forced to bear the brunt of the German attack as the English in escaping the Nazi trap in Flanders, following Belgium's capitulation, had been forced to leave behind huge stores of equipment. Until these could be replaced the British army could do little to help their allies on the continent.

Wings Over Paris

Not only were the German bombers doing their work on the battlefront-they penetrated much further than the troops. For the long expected bombing attack on Paris was carried out.

Evidently the first air raid was not aimed at the city itself but at airports and other military objectives on its outskirts. Even French officials admitted that it did not look like the "bombing of an open city" and while they promised to repay Germany, bomb for bomb, their attacks would also be directed at strategic military points, they added.

In this first raid about 1,000 persons were killed, at least that many motor factory and military bases near Frankfort-on-Main. PREPAREDNESS:

'Tragically Short'

As the nation-wide drive to build up military defenses went forward with every governmental agency straining to the utmost to be helpful, Gen. George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, told congress that manpower is the army's "tragic shortage." And he added it is the 'only thing in a large measure, that can produce immediate results."

Earlier he had said that procure-Earlier he had said that procurement of equipment was the most vital need, but when his testimony before a house appropriations subcommittee was made public it was learned that he believed the army's maximum peacetime strength of 280,000 men would be unable to handle "emergencies stemming from the current international situation."

While he opposed suggestions that

While he opposed suggestions that citizens military training camps be expanded to meet army personnel demands, he favored a plan, now authorized but never used, whereby young men could be trained for three or four months and then be allowed to go back to their regular occupations. Thus a huge reserve of partly trained men would eventually be built up.

Compulsory?

From some congressional sources came the prediction that if Germany wins the European war, such military training will become compulsory. Setting up a training system of this type has been widely discussed since the President's recent proposal to give him control of the National Guard and Organized Reserves was announced.

It is argued that under such a plan a defense system would prove less costly than attempting to build up a large army of permanent troops. Rep. Smith (Dem., Conn.) claims that half of the 1,500,000 youths who reach military age each year could be trained and would provide their terms of training. Under such a system these men would receive much less pay than regular soldiers.

C. O. D.

How all this (and the rest of the defense program) was to be paid for is proving a tough problem for con-

For as it now stands the new preparedness drive is going to cost U. S. taxpayers some five billions of dollars. And as the cost of maintaining these new forces increases it is estimated that the annual bill for new defenses will be something like $1,000,000,000.

Most discussed plan for providing a major portion of this sum is one which calls for a broadening of the income tax base to include all incomes of $800 and up per year. At present the base exemption is $1,000. AGRICULTURE:

Prospects

June cash income for U. S. farmers is estimated to remain at about the same figure for the month as in International conditions have the past two years-$600,000,000-ac- plopped the choice of the Democording to current reports of the department of agriculture. While prices of several important farm commodities have hit the skids and declined sharply in recent weeks, due to influence of war on the markets, no startling losses will be evidenced currently in the farmer's income.

Running Mate?

presidential nomination stakes for President Roosevelt's running mate (should he "choose to run") is Sen. James F. Byrnes of South Carolina. It is under-stood that the President made definite overtures to the senator to become his partner on the ticket during a conference on a recent Potomac cruise.

STARS AND STRIPES:

Salute

If state laws so require, U. S school children must salute the American flag, according to a decision handed down by the Supreme court. Reasoning: The flag sym-bolizes a national unity—which transcends all internal differences-religious or otherwise. In its ruling the court upheld action of a Pennsylvania school board which had expelled two children for refusing, on religious grounds, to salute the flag.

In the little coal mining town of Moweaqua, Ill., four men, said to be members of a religious sect known as "Jehovah's Witnesses," were rescued from a group of aroused citizens who threatened violence after one of the four allegedly defamed "Old Glory."

PAN-AMERICA:

Mr. Dies Goes South

Rep. Martin Dies, chairman of the house committee investigating un-American activities, announced that his probe will be extended to take in all of the 21 American republics. This news reflects congressional concern over reports reaching Washington that German fifth columnists are active in South America. Mr. Dies said that his investigators are already gathering information along the Mexican border.

into an occasion

In addition, the other presidential candidate, one Dr. Ricardo Alfaro, leader of the oppositionist popular front, withdrew his name at the last moment and urged his backers not to vote as they were being "denied the right of franchise." Just what he meant wasn't exactly clear but one thing was evident. Election officials were taking no chances on "repeaters" voting. Each voter had to present his identification certifian adequate standing army during cate and have his forefinger dipped in indelible ink.

POLITICS: Clear Field

As the roar of Europe's war becomes louder, its effect upon the American political scene is daily becoming more pronounced. In the main, it has been most decidedly felt in the Democratic party, where party leaders feel these war conditions will surely "force" President Roosevelt to seek a third term.

It appears that he has the nomination of his party safely tucked away should he want it.

Paul McNutt has withdrawn from the opposition; Vice President Garner is quiet and his boom apparently has fizzled; Senator Wheeler of Montana has said, "It looks like Roosevelt."

Still there are many insiders who believe Secretary of State Cordell Hull will get the nod, come convention time. Amid all this guesswork this much stands out as fact: cratic party's candidate directly in the lap of the nation's Chief Executive. He can have the nomination if he wants it and if not he can name the fair-haired boy he wants to make the bid. Until November, then, Franklin Delano Roosevelt has la clear field.

Operation for Sinus Trouble May Be Futile

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON

(Released by Western Newspaper Union.) FEW years ago there were many operations for sinus trouble—the little hollows or caverns adjoining the nose. These TODAY'S sinuses are called the sounding box of the voice. Thus HEALTH COLUMN when a head cold is present and these little sinuses get filled with mucus, the voice sounds flat and 'ing'' sounds like "ick."

When these head colds became very common and the mucus and sometimes pus was too thick to drain out, the enlarging of the opening was frequently done by nose surgeons to enable this mucus and pus to drain out. The enlarged opening also helped to "ventilate" the sinus, thus keeping its lining of mucus membrane in a more healthy condition.

Unfortunately, these openings from the sinus into the nose are not placed in the best position for drainage when we are standing or sitting, but as Dr. Louis M. Pearlman states in Hythe different positions one naturally takes when lying down are favorable to the emptying of the sinuses. When one lies on the left side, the right antrum (sinus in cheek bone) is emptied; when one lies on the right side the left antrum is emptied, and when one lies face downward the sinuses at upper and back part of the nose (level with the eyes) are emp-

However, it has been found that in many cases operation is of no help and may leave the patient in the same condition as before operation and with some loss of smell. Dr. Pearlman states further:

"The present trend of treatment is tracing the trouble to its source and getting rid of it before the condition becomes chronic. Stress is laid on increasing the resistance of the individual and performing only slight operations to increase ventilation and drainage."

Eating less meat and table salt and eating more fruit and vege-tables seems to help a number of these chronic sinus cases.

Fat Foods Important In Diet and Weight

VIRTUALLY all reducing diets emphasize the importance of cutting down on starch foods—bread, potatoes, sugar and pastry—if satisfactory reduction is to be obtained. Now starch foods give energy, help to make the fat foods burn more completely, and should be eaten in certain amounts even by those who are overweight.

What about fat in the daily diet? For the overweights who wish to lose weight, the tremendous food or fuel value of fat should never be forgotten; any quantity of fat food has twice the food value of the same quantity of either of the other main classes of foods, that is, starches and proteins (meat, eggs, fish, cere-

Fat Foods for Underweights.

For the same reason-fat foods being rich in fuel value-underweights are advised to eat fat foods up to the point where the amount of food does not cause indigestion and spoil the appetite.

A table that should help overweights to pick out foods they like that are low in fats, and underweights to select foods they like and (which agree with them) that are rich in fats, is given by Dr. R. G. Sinclair, department of biochemistry, Queens university, Kingston, Canada, in a booklet, "Nutrition in Everyday Practice," issued by the Canadian Medical association. There are three divisions, (a) foods low in fat, (b) foods containing a medium amount of fat, (c) foods rich

Foods low in fat: Less than 2 per cent of fat: vegetables, most fruits, cereals, bread, egg whites and buttermilk.

Foods with medium amount of fat-2 to 10 per cent-cream soups, milk, veal, chicken, turkey, lean beef, crab meat.

Foods rich in fats-about 10 per cent-butter, and other fats and oils, salmon, tuna, lamb, pork, duck, goose, egg yolk.

QUESTION BOX

Q.-Can worms lower the vitality? A .- Yes.

Q-Please suggest foods with their individual vitamin content which are essential to any good diet. A .- If you use a daily diet containing one part meat, eggs or fish; two parts fat foods-butter, cream, egg yolks, fat meats, and four parts starches-bread, potatoes, fruits and green vegetables, you will get the necessary vitamins and minerals.

Sherman Was Right, but Soldiers Still Take Fun as They Find It

"War is cruelty and you cannot refine it," said General William Tecumseh Sherman, Few people disagree with that statement, but there is a lighter side to war. Soldiers of every nation know that "all work and no play make a dull war," and in seeking to amuse themselves, their humor takes a lusty turn.

Tricks of Sleep

Napoleon was credited with the ability to drop off to sleep at any time and in any position. It was this gift that enabled him to work almost round the clock for long periods at a time and yet keep periods at a time, and yet keep his brain and body fresh and alert. Lloyd George of England is said to share Napoleon's secret to such an extent that he has been known to bring a conversation to an end by exclaiming, "And now I am going to have a nap," dropping at once into easy sleep.

What? WORMS in my child?.. Never!"

Don't be so sure, Mother!

Yes, right now, crawling round worms may child without your even knowing it! This nasty infection may be "caught" from other children, from dogs, from uncooked vegetables or bad water. And the outward signs are very misleading. For example: Squirming and fidgeting. Nosepicking, and scratching other parts. Uneasy stomach. Finicky appetite. Biting nails.

If you even suspect that your child has round worms, get JAYNE'S VERMIFUGE right away! JAYNE's is the best known worm expellant in America. It is backed by modern scientific study, and has been used by millions, for over a century.

HAGGAI URGES THE BUILDING OF GOD'S HOUSE

LESSON TEXT—Haggai 1:2-12.
GOLDEN TEXT—And let us consider one another to provoke unto love and to good works: not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together, as the manner of some is.—Hebrews 10:24, 25.

Religious work-or, more correctly stated, Christian work—is a dif-ficult and discouraging task, except for the grace and blessing of God. Not only does the Christian worker have to struggle against that archenemy of God and of the souls of men, Satan himself, but he must overcome the deadly indifference and carelessness of men both outside and inside the Church. Then, as if that were not enough, he finds another enemy, the discouragement of his own heart.

Haggai ministered to the Jews who had returned from captivity and who had begun to rebuild the temple. Opposition had developed before they had made more than a beginning, and they at once gave up and turned their interest to their own affairs and the building of their own homes. God was displeased by this sinfulness on their part, and brought judgment upon them through a prolonged drouth. Haggai was called to awaken their conscience and to encourage them to

I. Consider Your Ways (vv. 2-6.

It was not necessary for the prophet to work up any eloquent plea to stir the conscience of the people. He had only to point to their own ways. They were thus faced with three reproving facts.

1. Indifference (v. 2). They were negligent and indifferent, saying the time had not come to build. The same kind of folk today are very sure that the congregation simply cannot afford to keep up preaching services, or heat and light the church for Sunday School.

2. Selfishness (v. 4). They built for themselves ceiled houses and lived in luxury, while God's house lay waste. One is reminded of our own communities, which have money for every conceivable comfort and convenience but only a few fort and convenience, but only a few niggardly pennies for God's work.

3. Loss (vv. 6, 9-11). Being stingy toward God is a losing business. He has only to withhold His blessing and we will find ourselves destitute.

That is true in the physical realm That is true in the physical realm and is even more true in the spiritual life. Withholding from God will always result in loss (see Prov.

II. "Build the House" (v. 8).

God's work is constructive. He may have to destroy and tear down, but He only takes away the old and undesirable that the new and worthy may be built. Three words stand

1. "Go." The Lord wants His people to get into action. Haggai was interested in getting things going. Let us follow his example.

2. "Bring." We are not to come to the Lord's service empty handed. Only as He blesses do we have anything to bring, but often we fail to bring even that which He has supplied. "Build." God's work is committed to us. We are to be His builders.

III. "The People Obeyed" (v. 12). "Behold, to obey is better than sacrifice, and to hearken than the fat of rams" (I Sam. 15:22). God is looking for obedient people, and is ready to bless and use them. The response to Haggai's message came

1. The Governor. One wonders what progress America would make back to God if its rulers were to lead us in obedience to His commands and in seeking His face in repentance and prayer. Thank God for every truly spiritually minded national leader, and pray that others may yield themselves to the control of the Lord. Then came
2. The High Priest. All too often religious leaders have actually hindered the work of God-and what a hindrance they can be! We read that in Haggai's time the high priest obeyed. Christian leaders, are we too going before our people in unquestioning obedience to God? If not, why should we not begin now? With such leadership, we are not surprised to hear that

3. The People Also Obeyed and Feared God. Many capable Christian workers believe that the youth of America of our day, far from being worse than their fathers, are actually seeking for real spiritual leadership.

False Christs Shall Rise

And then, if any man shall say to you, Lo, here is Christ; or lo, he is there, believe him not. For false Christs, and false prophets shall rise, and shall shew signs and wonders, to seduce, if it were possible, even the elect.—Mark 13: 21, 22.

Speaking the Truth I had rather suffer for speaking the truth, than that the truth should suffer for the want of my speaking.

THE STORY THUS FAR

Left orphans by a tragic automobile accident which claimed the lives of their mother and father, three sisters, Helen, Adele and "Limpy," are visited by their Aunt Olympia, politically minded wife of Senator Alencon Delaporte Slopshire. She insists that the girls return with her to Washington, to make their home with them. In addition to loving the girls, Aunt Olympia knows they will be a terrific political asset. Senator Slopshire has as his political opponent one Brother Wilkie, a minister, whose political campaign is furthered by seven "unspeakable brats" who sit on the rostrum with him while he makes speeches. Senator Slopshire, a pleasantly foggy individual who depends on the astuteness of his wife, prepares for their coming. Though Limpy, the youngest, is 16, and Helen, the oldest, is 21, the Senator buys them all the toys and gifts he can find. When they first meet their "Uncle Lancy," as he is to be known, the girls take him to their united bosom. Soon Adele, most beautiful of the sisters, meets Len Hardesty, publicity man for Brother Wilkie. Though it is Len's job to help defeat the Senator, he promptly falls in love with Adele. Olympia buys an automobile house-trailer which will accommodate the five of them, and from which the Senator will campaign. Then she decides to hire a publicity agent for the Senator, securing the services of Dave Cooper, and as his assistant, young Cecil Dodd. At a Washington tea Helen meets Gabriel d'Allotti. Gabriel then searches out Olympia, and asks if he might call. Olympia acquiesces, thinking it might make Helen forget her suitor back in Iowa, Brick Lands. Brick, owner of a grocery store, is also running for Congress. During one of d'Allotti's visits with Helen, she turns to Uncle Lancy for advice concerning national coastal fortifications. She and d'Allotti spend much time in studying politics. Meanwhile, Adele and Len Hardesty have been more and more entranced with each other's company.

"But, Len, how could you do anything against them-when they are -are so magnificent? To you! And to us, too!"

"Because, darling, if I don't pull every trick from my bag, they'll be the first to despise me. This is a job, Adele."

"I don't like it," she said faintly. "Adele, I've known those two a long time. They are swell sports. They're game as they come. But if I fell down on this job because I like them-and adore you-they'd be the first to sneer. And you'd be next. Listen, sweet! I don't want them beaten, but I'm going to try my best to beat them. If I don't, do you think Olympia will ever feel the same? We can't beat them, unless we get some breaks I can't foresee. That's what I'm on the lookout for—the breaks. And it will mean a lot for me if I put it across. The Governor has promised me anything I want. Anything! We could get married then. I could take care of you."

"I don't want to be taken care of at their expense. You don't know how lovely they are to us. I don't want anything—taken from them."
"Talk to Olympia," Len said.
"She knows this racket. It's always a scrap. They can take a beating, but they can't stand a quitter."

"I think it is—despicable," she said, and there were tears, very becoming tears, in her lovely eyes.

"It's the democratic form of government," he said gently, and kissed the tears away. "But don't take my word for it, sweet. Ask them."

"But if you were with us, Len, it would be so perfect. To have you go with us, and plan with sus, and be on our side-'

"Yes, it would be perfect. But if I broke my contract, it would be the best weapon the Governor could hold against him. They would claim. that by Influence and Money the Senator had treacherously hired a man to break his contract. It would beat him quicker than anything

"But Len, hasn't principle got anything to do with it? Do you think the Governor would make a better Senator than Uncle Lancy?"

"No, sweet, I don't. But that hasn't a thing in the world to do with it . . . No, I don't think so. But thinking isn't my job. Publicity

"It's appalling, Brick," Helen wrote distractedly. "I'm just terri-fied of the whole thing. It all simmers down to the fact that the outs wants in and the ins want to stay where they are. I don't believe there is a single thing at stake but that. Brother Wilkie and Uncle Lancy agree on almost every point, except that the Governor thinks the Republicans could do a better job finishing what the Democrats started. I asked Aunt Olympia what is the real issue in this campaign.

"'The issue!' she boomed. 'The issue? Why, the issue is just whether the Senator is going to be beaten by that treacherous worm who ought to get back where he belongs

"All the time, Brick, all the money, all the scheming and planning, all the heartaches-just for that."

Aunt Olympia was packed and ready for adjournment by the tenth of May. Still Congress dawdled, filibustered, talked.

The second week in June she sent Hilda on up to Maysville with most of the baggage and with orders to get things ready for their arrival. It couldn't be long now. The most stentorian congressional voice was frayed and rasping.

"A hog caller couldn't stick it out much longer," she told the girls

And then, on June 16th, Congress

Helen drew a deep, tired breath. "At last! It's over!" she ejaculated. Olympia's snort was deep and gusty. She raised her shoulders like a champing Pegasus pluming for "Over!" she boomed. "Over! Why, it hasn't even begun!"

CHAPTER VII

Aunt Olympia was justly proud of Shires, the senatorial estate near Maysville. Maysville, the capital of the state, headquarters both of Republican and Democratic state committed callers, both constituents and sightseers, to trample her velvety lawn, tread roughly on her neatly trimmed hedges and flower beds, scatter ashes and cake crumbs on her oriental rugs. One week of agonizing proof it was of her love for

Then, almost overnight, Shires became a Cozy Rest. The oriental rugs and brocade tapestries were removed and stored in moth-proof containers in the attic. The best chairs and more costly small tables were removed. Pieces of bric-abrac, vases, pictures, expensive ash trays and cigarette boxes, finely bound books, were stowed away in locked drawers.

"Never leave any little nice thing lying about loose in a campaign,' she said. "To constituents, anything small enough to go in a pocket is a souvenir."

Even the grounds shared the campaign renovation. The rarest and most treasured of small shrubs and plants were removed to the greenhouse, which was padlocked. Stout grilled iron fences enclosed the flower gardens and bushes. Little railings shut off the place where visitors were not to walk.

Cecil Dodd joined them at Shires on the fifth of July, and an old roadster was turned over to him to travel about the state in, meeting committees, arranging rallies, hobnobbing with the press and getting his bearings in general.

In July, Aunt Olympia, referring to her "Social Activities" list, invited the Ladies' Aid Society in Maysville to a garden party at Shires. The girls, who thought they knew Ladies' Aids, were amazed at the quantity of refreshments she planned for this event.

Dear me, it must be a huge Aid said Helen. "You have food enough for two hundred."

"There'll be two hundred," said Aunt Olympia. "Though it's not a very large Aid. They'll bring all their children and cousins and aunts-by-marriage. They'll take advantage of it being election year and invite all their out-of-town friends."

There were two hundred and fifty at the garden party.

"Most of 'em I never saw before in my life and half of those I have seen don't even belong to our church."

The Senator had no real opposition in the Primary and spent only enough time and money on it to strengthen the party machine and lay the groundwork for the real bat-

The preliminary activities of the campaign were of a mild sort, more in the nature of social pleasantries than warfare. There was frequent attendance at church suppers, fish fries, shore dinners, club picnics, and firemen's balls. There were a few speeches to be made, photographs to be posed for, interviews given and disseminated.

To take the edge off the Senator's homey old trailer, he established the children, the beldame and Len Hardesty in a covtwo rooms till after the campaign, ered wagon and hit the trail.

CHAPTER VIII

In August, impelled by the Governor's aggressiveness, the Slopshire-for-Re-election campaign got under way. The old trailer, after standing outdoors three or four days to become plebeianly stained with dust and streaked with rain and dew, was packed for travel. The itinerary was planned to the ultimate minute. The sound truck was loaded with papers, files and books.

The girls enjoyed campaigning. Aunt Olympia hovered over them broodingly, her solicitude not entirely attributable to their value as campaign material. She saw to it -as far as she was able-that they mittees, was an ideal location for housewifely inclinations. She per- had proper rest, regular meals, abundant exercise. She decreedand saw that the decree was well publicized—that the place chosen for them to pitch camp each night should provide some recreation for the girls—tennis, horseback riding or swimming; "for the health of our children far transcends a senatorial campaign."

Olympia herself usually went about with a large sewing bag on her arm. In this she carried fresh handkerchiefs, a make-up box, an impressive array of darning cot-tons, needles and threads (assembled by Hilda), and an old, worn-out pair of the Senator's socks, on which she darned photographically with amazing patience. The regular mending and laundry were sent back to Hilda at Shires-without benefit of camera men. The girls were frequently photographed in the act of washing or ironing a set of napkins.

"Poor Adele is doing the laundry this morning," Aunt Olympia would say apologetically to the newsmen, leading them to the best view. "We ran short of linens."

"Auntie, Auntie," Limpy remonstrated confidentially, "you're forgetting you're Scotch. We're going to wear those napkins out if we keep on laundering them half a dozen times a day. Shouldn't we use them at least once, just to get our money's worth out of them?"

Invariably they returned to Shires for the Sabbath, to get a little rest and a few hot meals; and always to attend church, very much en famille, the Senator, Aunt Olympia and the three girls, the cynosure of all eyes. When Brother Wilkie, the Governor, reached Maysville on a Sabbath Aunt Olympia invited him and his troupe to dinner. She did it with penetrating heartiness, too, as the members stood agape at the church door with Brother Wilkie shaking every hand. "I want you and the children to come right up with us for Sunday dinner," she proclaimed clearly. You may be our political opponent, Brother Wilkie, but in the house our board, such as it is, is your board." Len Hardesty, who was usually hard pressed about one thing or another on Sunday morning, had also attended divine worship in Maysville that morning, occupying the corner of the pew directly opposite Senator Slopshire's and gazing un-interruptedly at Adele's slightly flushed profile during the entire service. He put nothing in the collection plate. Though Olympia had not def-initely included him in her invitation, he tucked Adele cozily into his small roadster and arrived at Shires in advance of the main party.

"You may as well lay a place for me, too, Gustavus," he told Hilda cheerfully. "And don't put me next to the brats . . . Can't they wait till the second table? Or how about serving Adele and me alone in the back yard?"

Even with the campaign well under way, they continued to see a good deal of Len Hardesty. "Too darn much," Aunt Olympia said ex-pressively. He was constantly popping in on them unexpectedly, both when they were on the trail and when they were resting up at Shires.

"Hum, squab, I see," he said one Sunday, making a note of it. "I'll have a larger portion, Senator, if you don't mind . . . So it's squab, eh? . . . And the Governor and the brats and-worse luck, I!-dine on corned beef and cabbage."

"He does that to appeal to the slaughterhouse vote," said Olympia. "I'll bet he goes right upstairs afterward and fills up on caviar and truffles and French pastry."

"I notice that's a very expensive radio you've got rigged up in your trailer," Len went on. "We've only got a second-hand phonograph in the covered wagon to amuse the brats." "We had to get a good one to follow the Governor's speeches," said Aunt Olympia. "He mouths his words so you can't understand him on anything less than the best." "Not, I suppose, figuring that it also enables your pretty wards to amuse themselves dancing on the greensward to New York night-club music?"

"Well, what's wrong with dancing on the greensward? It's one of the most innocent and natural diversions.

"Go on, Ollie, you forget who you're trying to kid! . . . Or would it be whom?

During September, the congressional hearings on un-American and subversive activities almost took the limelight from the state campaigns. The Senator was almost childishly pro-American in his convictions, and followed the reports with morbid avidity. Some of his most ringing speeches were in hot defense of this suddenly jeopardized Americanism and he received a very good press

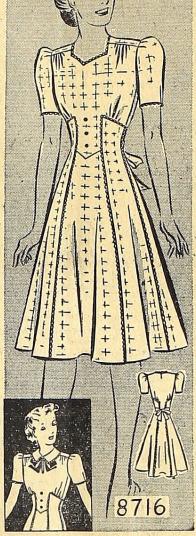

This obliged the Governor to follow the same tack, though he had no personal experience with subversive elements and thought them a good deal overrated. Still, since subversive elements were definitely not popular with the orthodox, he leaped gallantly to their denuncia-

One day the press reported that in the compulsory registration of foreign agents, some known to be engaged in such activities had not registered. Investigations were under way. The next morning headlines screamed the news that three well-known and popular Washington socialites had been arrested as spies. One of these was Gabriel d'Allotti.

That was exciting news for the orphans, and Adele and Limpy had great fun teasing Helen about it.

Helen took it good-naturedly.

Land of 300 Languages

The U.S.S.R. boasts that with in its borders there are 59 nations, the peoples of which speak no fewer than 114 languages. Some of these communities are very small, the Oroks for instance numbering only 154. The British empire can easily smash this record, for in India alone more than 200 languages are spoken, and if dialects also are considered the number is about 300.

While most of the nations in the U. S. S. R. have some relation to each other, many peoples under the British flag are diametrically opposed in religion, customs and ideas, although they are welded together as a part of the British empire.
