Shortness of Breath Due to Several Causes

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON (Released by Western Newspaper Union)

AS HEART disease stands at the head of the list as a cause of death, and this fact is known to almost everybody, it is often difficult for the physician to persuade his patient that his shortness of breath and pain in heart region are not due to heart disease.

The extra first beats of the heart is another symptom that causes alarm, yet "after middle age they may be considered almost a normal phenomenon."

Even swelling of the feet, when the heart is not enlarged, is practically never due to heart disease.

What, then, are the symptoms we should look for in real or organic heart disease?

The one outstanding symptom is shortness of breath after exertion. Yet this symptom is very often present in those with a normal heart.

Shortness of breath on slight exertion is found in those with a blocked nose. As enough fresh air (oxygen) is not getting down to the lungs to purify the used blood breathlessness due to lack of oxygen or too much carbonic acid follows.

Another condition causing shortness of breath is eating too many acid-forming foods—meat, eggs, fish, cereals—for the amount of exercise taken. These are all nourishing foods and at least one of them should be eaten every day.

If, then, you get out of breath easily, you should first have your family physician examine your heart. If he finds it normal and no blockage of nose present, there is no cause for worry, but it would be worth while to check up on your daily food habits.

Is It a Common Cold Or Is It Influenza?

BEFORE the great influenza epidemic of 1918-19, a cold in the head was called a cold, but now it is not unusual for many to tell their friends and neighbors that they have just had an attack of influenza, when, as a matter of fact, they have been suffering with just "the common cold."

How are you to know whether the symptoms—sneezing, chills, fever—are due to influenza or the common cold?

In the absence of an epidemic of influenza, it should be remembered that the common cold is given its name because it is so common—the commonest ailment known.

How to Diagnose Each.

The early symptoms of the common cold are sneezing, burning and stuffiness of the nose, first a thin watery discharge which "thickens" and "plugs" the nose, making it difficult to breathe. Symptoms come on gradually, and patient is not greatly prostrated.

The early symptoms of influenza are different in that the symptoms come on suddenly; perhaps one or two days after exposure the patient may fall from severe prostration.

The cough in influenza is hard and dry, and little or nothing is brought up from bronchial tubes even after a severe coughing spell, whereas in the common cold, as noted above, there is first a profuse watery discharge from the nose and later the patient is able to cough up thick mucus. The voice is usually more affected by a cold than by influenza.

The suddenness and the great prostration then are the outstanding symptoms in influenza—symptoms which can be readily recognized. However, whether symptoms are due to the common cold or to influenza, the treatment is the same—rest and heat. The same complications—bronchitis, pneumonia and broncho-pneumonia—can develop from either a cold or influenza.

QUESTION BOX

Q.—Recently I've been yawning a great deal and feeling tired in spite of the fact that I sleep the average number of hours per night. Could you suggest a reason for this?

A.—Yawning may be due to some low infection, a blocked nose, too much acid food, constipation and other conditions. It is not considered a sign of heart disease.

Q.—What is the other name for Parkinson's disease? A.—It is also called paralysis agitans and shaking palsy.

New Tongue for Old!

If you've ever tried to order a dish of ham and eggs in a foreign country you will understand the problem facing American immigrants. In New York the foreign-born population is estimated at 2,500,000. The New York Board of Education, through its adult classes for the foreign-born, has done wonders in acquainting these people with the new language.

You may not be able to teach an old dog new tricks, but these future Americans demonstrate that it's never too old to learn a new language. The gentleman with the book is 75.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON (Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK.—The first World war tipped over 20 reigning princes and dukes, four emperors and seven kings, in addition to a scattering of small-fry royal names whose names are now all but forgotten.

European Royalty Is Heading Our Way in Drove. Carol of Rumania and George of Greece were the only kings who came back, and they aren't a good risk for Lloyd's—and perhaps Lloyd's isn't either.

If the Mayflower were still afloat, it could book a full passenger list of kings fleeing from commoners, seeking a haven in a new world—at any rate, kings and their consorts, their courtiers and others of princely rank.

It is understood that the Empress Zita of Austria will be in America before long. The word "former" is omitted here, in deference to a clever, purposeful woman, who has never admitted that she isn't still the empress.

Of her son, Archduke Otto, now living in a two-room apartment in New York, she once said, "If the time ever comes when he has but one servant, that servant will call him 'your majesty.'"

In early-day San Francisco a stately old gentleman with a splendid, kindly uniform announced that he was "Emperor Norton," and was pleased to make San Francisco his royal domain. Nobody knew who he was or where he came from, but he looked and behaved like an emperor, so they took him up on his proposition.

This Department was never particularly partial to kings, but in addition to child refugees it might be a nice idea for each city over here to adopt a king, or a prince or a duke. Hollywood, of course, would get Zog of Albania—now in London and fixing to sail for America, according to news reports—a "swinging king" who installed in his Graustarkian palace a 40-piece American jazz band and became one of the best hoofers in his kingdom.

Philadelphia probably would put in a bid for the Grand Duchess Charlotte of Luxembourg, a thrifty hombody, now in Quebec. The news is that, if England falls, she and her six children will come to the U. S. A. She knits; plays the piano; is a fluent linguist and rears her children beautifully. There might not be any bidders for old Ferdinand of Bulgaria, the butterfly collector. He has a knack for pageantry, however, which might interest New Orleans.

In case the above should appear to be a callous reference to tragic unhappiness, the main idea is that this democracy might well accord a certain respect to fugitive royalty because it appears to have something it really believes in.

AT MIAMI, FLA., in October, 1934, John Dwight Sullivan, then commander of the New York department of the American Legion, urged the Legionnaires to concentrate less on more and bigger bonuses and to center their efforts on understanding and supporting the government in constructive undertakings. He emphasized the need for co-operation as citizens rather than activity as a pressure group. His was a scholarly essay on citizenship.

Now Mr. Sullivan has placed before the convention of the New York County Legion a proposal, for a single, unified United States air force, in which all air arms of all services would be under a single command. Mr. Sullivan is chairman of the Legion's national aviation committee. He is a New York lawyer and an alumnus of Princeton university.

He has been active in the furtherance of civil and military aviation for many years and was appointed a member of the New York state aviation commission by Governor Roosevelt in 1930. He is 47 years of age, scholarly and ascetic in appearance, preaching social responsibility in the Legion for more than a decade. He insists that the organization cannot attain its high purpose without widening activities in political education, and an informed attitude on basic questions of domestic and foreign policy.

Australians Turning Out Guns for the Empire

Straining every nerve to aid the mother country in her hour of need, Australian factory workers are tolling day and night turning out tanks, planes, guns and ammunition that will be used in the defense of Great Britain. Above is a scene in a Melbourne factory where gun parts are manufactured for shipment by sea to ports in the United Kingdom where they will be assembled and turned over to the defending British army.

They're Ready to Learn American Ways

Safe from the horrors of war are these three children of Maj. Arthur Lockhart of the British army who landed in New York city recently. They were members of another band of refugee British children seeking a haven in the United States. Their father is an officer in the King's Hussars, now fighting for England against the Axis powers. The young refugees are being cared for by relatives in America.

Even the Experts Spill Sometimes

Proving that even the most expert of experts will spill once in a while, Ed Stanley takes a header during a practice run for the annual Catalina-Hermosa-Manhattan beach aquaplane race at Hermosa beach, Calif. Still upright and riding high is Bob Brown, who won the race three years ago. The event draws the champion aquaplanists of the Pacific coast each year.

W. C. T. U. Leaders See Tippling Decrease As State Liquor Regulation Gains Ground

By MILTON FORREST
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

THERE is less tippling in America today than there was a year ago. The pendulum of public opinion is swinging steadily toward temperance.

That is what leaders of the Women's Christian Temperance Union will tell you. While they do not claim that prohibition is just around the corner, they point out that support for regulatory legislation on liquor is continually gaining ground.

The White Ribboners are preparing for the most enthusiastic convention this year since the days of prohibition. Three thousand of them, representing hundreds of thousands more of their fellow workers throughout the United States, will rally for their sixty-sixth annual convention in Chicago, August 9 to 14.

Methods for intensifying the war against alcohol in the coming year will be studied by the delegates.

In a rallying cry to women everywhere, Mrs. Ida B. Wise Smith, national president of the W. C. T. U., declared:

"We again call upon America's women to enroll for true home defense—to roll up their sleeves and scrub the dirty spots out of the nation's social and moral fabric."

Sociologists will tell you that the liquor problem is as old as history itself. In America there always was a strong trend toward strong licensing and regulatory systems. Men who believed prohibition of the traffic to be the best answer sponsored such a movement in the early days. By 1856 there were 13 states with prohibition laws.

The ebb came and by 1874 there was no state prohibition.

The same post-Civil war period saw stirrings of the feminist movement. Women were throwing off their bonds. In 1873 praying bands of women began sporadic efforts to pray saloons out of their towns—and were amazingly successful. In 1874 a number of these women were at Chautauqua for a religious gathering and conceived the idea of a united temperance party for women. In Cleveland in November of that year, the W. C. T. U. was organized.

'Protect the Home.'

Their platform was "protection of the American home." They neglected no phase of that program, advocating a single standard for the sexes both in morals and in law; labor reform, such as the eight-hour day and a living wage; international peace; woman's suffrage; personal abstinence from harmful things. They sought legal prohibition of alcoholic beverages and other narcotics, of white slavery, of gambling, of obscene literature, of war as a means of settling international wrongs the country over.

They believed then, and their successors still believe, that the liquor traffic and liquor itself are the most insidious and powerful enemies of the American home. So, underlying all their social welfare activities was the struggle against liquor.

Frances E. Willard, their founder, and her fellow workers laid down the broad strategies of this still-continuing war in 1874.

Their lines of attack then, and now, were education and legislation. Mothers made up the Union and their attitude was motherly: First, try to educate your child away from wrong thoughts and practices; second, if he persists, stop him with a firm "no" with the safeguard of removing the temptation from his reach.

The odds against their success were overwhelming. They won, but it required 46 years.

The years of 1920-1925 marked the zenith of W. C. T. U. aspirations. Every legal goal had been achieved. But it seemed too good to last.

Comes Repeal.

If 1925 was the zenith, then 1933 was the nadir. For that year brought an end to prohibition and most of the enforcement or regulatory laws put on the statute books during 59 years.

Those who were at national W. C. T. U. headquarters in Evanston, Ill., the night of Nov. 7, 1933, when Utah, the thirty-sixth state, ratified the repeal amendment say that quite a few tears were shed. But, the next day they began reforming their lines for a continuing struggle.

Law enforcement had been the prime necessity of prohibition days. Now the W. C. T. U. turned to education. Never sensational in its methods, it had never stressed the emotional side of the alcohol story. Now it stressed scientific research into the effects of alcohol on the human body—and on the social body.

Always adapting its tactics to the use of current modern weapons, the research laboratory and medical science now furnished the ammunition for its educational campaign. It added the weapons of motion pictures, radio, the press, road signs, printed material, and other tools which had served its enemy so well during the repeal fight.

Some Bright Spots.

One of the few bright spots in the 1933 picture was the fact that 47 states still had laws requiring education in temperance to be taught in public schools. Much of its educational program was centered in this field, with such effect that now the liquor trade is pushing campaigns in many states to hamstring these laws or to put administration in the hands of state liquor control boards.

A five-year program was begun in 1934 to strengthen the Union's resources and push its educational work in the effects of alcohol and other narcotics. A sum close to $750,000 has been spent strictly for temperance education. This program culminated in international observance during 1939 of the centenary of Frances E. Willard.

Seemingly routed in 1933, the forces of temperance have made such a comeback, that the Chicago convention in 1940 will be told that:

Dry areas have been created by vote in 29 states since 1933. It is estimated that at least 6,000 such elections have been held in individual communities with the drys winning far more than one-half.

The new dry sections, plus the prohibition areas of Kansas, Mississippi and Oklahoma, represent one-sixth of the nation's population.

That an estimated one-fourth of the 40,000 incorporated U. S. communities have prohibition.

Churches Are Active.

That the strong temperance forces of the Protestant churches and of other dry groups again had become active in the fight.

That in the January, 1940, Gallup poll 34 per cent of the electorate had committed itself as favoring prohibition.

Particularly significant will be the release of membership figures, showing that W. C. T. U. added 32,000 members in 1938 and 36,000 in 1939 enrollment periods. More important perhaps was the addition of 985 new W. C. T. U. units in 1939.

These additions make a total of approximately 500,000 members in more than 10,000 local units.

There are five principal divisions of the organization, that is the city, county, state, national, and world's Unions. Administration is strictly democratic with each group having autonomy within its area. The World's W. C. T. U. is organized in 52 nations but its work has been stopped in some nations by current conditions of world affairs.

The national leaders are women long active in church and social welfare work. The national officers are: Mrs. Ida B. Wise Smith, Des Moines, Iowa, president; Mrs. D. Leigh Colvin, New York city, vice president; Mrs. Anna Marden DeYo, San Francisco, Calif., corresponding secretary; Mrs. Nelle G. Burger, Springfield, Mo., recording secretary; and Mrs. Margaret C. Munns, Seattle, Wash., treasurer. Headquarters are in Evanston, Ill., at the rear of the former home of Miss Willard, now maintained as a shrine.

It's Easy to Make And Easy to Wear

MAKE it in a few hours, and wear it day after day, after day! You can see, from the small diagram sketch, how easy this dress is to put together—merely five pieces, including the sleeves, and the only detailing consists of a few simple darts at the waistline. But you can't really tell until you get it on, how easy it is to wear and work in, how unhampering and becoming. The waistline looks slim but is completely unrestricting.

The front fastening makes it easy to get into. This is an easily tubbable dress, too. Make up design No. 1966-B in seersucker, linen, percale or gingham.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1966-B is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20 and 40. Corresponding bust measurements 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 14 (32) requires 3 1/2 yards of 35-inch material without nap. Send order to:

When your child BITES HIS NAILS

It may be a Danger Sign!

It isn't always "nerves" that makes a child bite his nails. Often it's because of a reason few mothers suspect—WORMS!

If, along with nail-biting, there are signs of uneasy stomach, finicky appetite, fidgeting, restless sleep . . . take heed! These may be the symptoms of round worms; a nasty infection that can cause real distress.

JAYNE'S VERMIFUGE is the best known remedy in America for expelling round worms. It has been used by millions of mothers for over a century, and is backed by the most modern scientific study.

JAYNE'S VERMIFUGE has great ability to drive out large round worms, yet it tastes good and acts gently. JAYNE'S does not contain sodium. If there are no worms it works merely as a mild laxative. Ask for JAYNE'S VER-MI-FUGE at any drug store.

Transformation of Gram's Old Buffet

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

YOU have heard quite a good deal in these articles about Grandmother, who is just "Gram" to her family. Also about her favorite grandson, Bill, and his up-and-coming bride, Marty — the same for whom Gram made the stunning rag rug in Sewing Book 3. Then there is Bill's kid sister, Betsy, who streamlined the old iron bed illustrated in Book 3. You all know "Mom," too. She has become almost famous because of her curtains and slip-covers and "The Rug That Grew Up With the Family." And there is "Dad" who is handy with hammer, saw and screw driver.

Well, recently the family have "ganged-up" on Gram about her fancy out-of-date buffet. They think she deserves and can afford something new. Gram decided to get rid of the buffet, then Marty said that she wanted it! This sketch shows you one of the things she and Bill did with it. Watch next week for what became of the mirror and legs.

Played Her Part

The only person who ever played a part on the screen that she had played in real life in a famous historical event was Madame Ada Bodart, declares Collier's. In 1915 she underwent much questioning by German army officers about her friend, Nurse Edith Cavell. In 1927 she played the part of herself in the British film, "Dawn," which was the story of this English nurse who was executed for having helped Allied soldiers escape from Belgium.

out-state counties can easily be obtained, he asserted, by watching cars stream out of Detroit on Sunday morning and race back into Detroit late Sunday evening during good weather in summer months. There is no objection to this mobility of Detroit's population and its invasion of the out-state counties for a Sunday or holiday, Dr. Webber hastened to explain, but there is objection to Detroit's complaint about its investment in the highway system of the state when Detroit autos and trucks use Cicoda, Iosco and Benzie county roads as much as do cars from any other of the 16 counties investing weight tax funds in the other 67 county road systems, he held.

One-Quarter Mill per $1,000

Considering Wayne county's investment, which amounted to $930,860, in 1939, in ratio to its real estate and personal property valuation in 1939, Dr. Webber stated that it amounted to 29 cents per $1000 valuation, or a little more than one-quarter of a mill. On the basis of Wayne's population, the ratio was 47.7 cents per person as weight tax investment in roads and streets in out-state counties, he added.

Not only is the value of Wayne county and Detroit business and industrial property enhanced by the improvement of highways over the state, making Detroit more accessible to every resident of the state, he pointed out, but also the growth and expansion of Detroit as a trading center and industrial metropolis depends upon the freest possible flow of goods and persons throughout Michigan over its network of highways.

All Highways Increasing in Importance

The city of Detroit received nearly 60% of the weight and gas tax funds allocated to the Wayne County Road Commission in 1939, Dr. Webber stated, quoting from the annual report of the Commission. "Detroit is getting its just share now of the funds available for road and street purposes," he declared, "but Mayor Jeffery's is correct in arguing that present funds are inadequate. All three highway administrative units, state, county and city, should have more money for the improvement of streets and highways at a time when they are becoming increasingly more important in a recreational, commercial and military way."

Too late. Zellweg struck out for the second out of the inning. Quick drew a base on balls forcing Davis home. W. Mallon hit a long fly to left-center which Peterson gathered in for the final out of the game.

Next Sunday the Oscoda Resorters will invade the city in hopes of duplicating the feat of Alabaster. Tawas City still has a fighting chance for the championship, with Harrisville playing at Alabaster Sunday and should the latter team have another "hot" day, Tawas City will be within grasp of the top rung. So let's come out to the game Sunday and help the boys stay in the race.

"FIRST COST AND GAS COST THEY'RE BOTH LOW IN OLDS!"

OLDS PRICES BEGIN AT $810 FOR '60 BUSINESS COUPE

SURPRISING how little it costs to own and drive an Olds! The price you pay for the big, brilliant 95 H. P. Olds Sixty is but little above the lowest. And the economy you get on gasoline compares favorably with the best—that was proved by Oldsmobile's record of 23.22 miles to the gallon in this year's Gilmore-Yosemite Economy Run. Now's the time for an Oldsmobile trial drive—and now's the time to deal!

Olds prices begin at $810 for Coupes, $856 for Sedans, *delivered at Lansing, Mich. Transportation based on rail rates, state and local taxes (if any), optional equipment and accessories—extra. Prices subject to change without notice. A GENERAL MOTORS VALUE
