Here everyone will enjoy the opportunity of meeting old friends and neighbors. A feature at this meeting will be a roll call of the confirmation classes of the past 50 years.

Rev. Theodore Wuggazer will have charge of the English services in the evening.

During the past three months the committee in charge has been strenuously preparing for the event. In cooperation, the Men's Club has built a new kitchen at the school hall where the Ladies Aid can conveniently prepare meals for the occasion.

Plans for the event are not being made exclusively by the people of this community, however. Former residents in many parts of the state, and as far away as Ohio, Indiana, Wisconsin, Illinois and Missouri have written the secretary of the committee that they anticipate being here to enjoy the festivities. From Detroit a large number plan to come here in a caravan.

Poultry Specialist Here Last Friday

More profitable merchandising of Michigan's poultry products brought J. M. Moore of Michigan State College Poultry Department to Isosco county last Friday, August 2, for two poultry meetings which proved to be of much value and interest to our local poultrymen.

In the morning Mr. Moore conducted a poultry culling demonstration at the G. A. Prescott farm just north of Tawas City. Each and every poultryman in attendance took an active part in the culling of Mr. Prescott's fine flock of 300 barred rocks and white leghorns. Mr. Moore supervised the work and explained the important factors to be considered in culling, housing and maintaining a profitable laying flock.

The afternoon meeting held at the A. T. Vary farm in Reno township placed greater emphasis upon the use of poultry meats with considerable attention being given to the production and utilization of turkey meat. To discuss turkey meats seemed logical at this fine farm home, as Mr. and Mrs. Vary are the proud foster parents of 1800 fine Bourbon Red turkeys ranging in size from that of a quail to nearly a full grown poult. Every person in Isosco county should mark an afternoon upon his calendar, a few weeks before Thanksgiving, and see this fine flock of strutting Thanksgiving dinners.

Although Isosco county with her 47,000 laying hens is not an important poultry county, Mr. Moore in his afternoon discussion emphasized the importance of proper flock management. He stated that for a farmer to properly sell his services to the poultry industry he should keep at least two or three hundred laying hens or else a small farm flock of 50 hens for less so as to produce only meat and eggs for home consumption with none for sale. "Eggs should be marketed upon a quality basis," according to Mr. Moore, "and that type of merchandising will soon be with us, as Federal and State egg grading stations are being established throughout this and other states."

One hundred ten to 120 eggs are required per hen each year to pay for her feed and housing. For this reason the average hen must lay at least 150 eggs in order to pay the farmer a profit for the labor which is exerted in caring for the flock, according to Mr. Moore.

LIGHTNING KILLS GIRL NEAR HALE

Eleanor Graves Victim of Last Sunday's Storm

Miss Eleanor Graves, 17 years old, was instantly killed last Sunday when lightning struck the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Pat Wilson, three miles west of Hale. The young woman resided with her grandparents. Her aunt, Mrs. Minnie Wiltsie, was rendered unconscious by the bolt.

Miss Graves was in the basement and her aunt was going down the basement stairs when the bolt of lightning hit the chimney and followed it down to the basement. The girl was instantly killed and the aunt was knocked unconscious and suffered minor burns. Miss Graves had severe burns on her right side and the heel was torn from her shoes.

The two women were removed from the basement and assistance summoned. Wilbur Taylor, school principal, gave artificial respiration until the arrival of Dr. Baker, of West Branch, who said that death to Miss Graves had occurred instantly. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson, who were in the house, were uninjured although the lightning demolished the chimney and tore a hole in the side of the house. The damage to the residence was small.

The young woman is survived by her father Alfred Graves, a brother and sister, and the grandparents. Her mother died about one year ago.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon from the Hale Baptist church. Rev. Frank Metcalf, of Tawas City, officiated. Interment was in the Evergreen cemetery.

The shock to the grief stricken grandparents and father was severe and the people of the community deeply sympathize with them.

"The finest sailing water on the Great Lakes" again awaits the Annual Regatta of the Tawas Bay Yacht Club which will be held Thursday, Friday, Saturday, and Sunday, August 15, 16, 17 and 18, according to an announcement made by Lyle Mooney, secretary of the East Tawas Chamber of Commerce. Races will be held in five classes: A, B, C, Snipe and National. Registrations will be made Thursday morning at the Hotel Holland. The program will consist of four afternoon races, one each day. The purpose of the first race is to establish handicaps for the Point races on the following days.

These are perpetual prizes and remain in the possession of the club. Winners will be awarded appropriate prizes.

Extensive plans are being made for the regatta, and invitations have been sent to the various yacht owners who have been interested in sailing in the waters here. These pleasing events on the bay have been popular with sportsmen and each year they have witnessed and participated in the interesting races.

Last Sunday's Game Postponed; Wet Grounds

The Tawas City baseball team was idle again last Sunday as rain and wet grounds caused the postponement of the Tawas City-Osceda game scheduled to be played at the Tawas City diamond. All teams in both the Northern and Central division were idle because of too much moisture.

Sunday, August 11, will again be a day of leisure for the local team as it is an open date in their schedule. On the following Sunday, weather permitting, they will step over to East Tawas and play their eastern neighbors. This game will be part of a double header for East Tawas as the latter team has protested game with Hale to play on that day. The first game will start at about 1:00, with the Tawas City-East Tawas contest to follow immediately after the Hale game. The Northern division race is becoming a heated contest with Harrisville East Tawas and Tawas City in the thick of the fight for first place honors.

Friends are pleased to see M. A. Sommerfeld around again after being confined to his home from the effects of a light stroke suffered two weeks ago.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS By Farnham F. Dudgeon

England Extends Sea Blockade As Nazis Continue Air Raids; Japanese Arrest British 'Spies'

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

While waiting for Adolf Hitler's scheduled invasion of England the British army undergoes special training in beach fighting tactics. This picture, passed by the British official censor, shows the Royal Scots Fusiliers, "Somewhere in England," being trained on the seashore for the "Battle of the Beaches."

THE WAR: Extensions

While England extended her sea blockade of Europe to include the coastlines of Spain and Portugal to cut off possible re-shipments of war supplies through these countries to Germany and Italy, the axis powers were busy extending their air and submarine warfare against the British isles.

With new and more stringent orders the British high command threw the entire strength of the royal navy behind the restriction of shipping to the enemy as notice was served on all Atlantic commerce that all cargoes were subject to seizure unless navicerts—a form of passport for approved shipments—could be produced by the captains of the shipping vessels.

While German and Italian troops were massing along the French coastline across the channel from England, the Nazi air force continued its smashing raids against the coast towns of Britain. Berlin claimed that the important port of Dover had been seriously crippled by repeated bombings but the British countered with the statement that always the invader was driven away from his objective, losing many planes in the process. Figures were released in London claiming the loss of 240 German planes in the past month.

A change in the plans for the defense of Britain was revealed when the order went out to remove many of the barriers which had been erected across roads to impede travel of the invading forces. It was explained that now since the home defense has organized the entire island into one "large armed camp" these barricades were not only unnecessary but a possible handicap.

POLITICS: Underway

Thus far both Republicans and Democrats have confined their 1940 political activity to a long-range "hit and run" exchange of statements regarding the respective demerits of each other's cause, but with the Wilkie notification speech scheduled for August 17, that date is looked upon as the time for the beginning of a "knock-down and drag 'em out" campaign.

While Candidate Wilkie has been busy conferring with party leaders on the draft of his speech, Democrats were casting about for a choice to succeed James A. Farley as head of the national committee and campaign manager for Franklin Roosevelt and Henry Wallace. After several prospects had been considered,

Alfred E. Crump of Memphis, Tenn.—brand him as a "foe of the people," declaring that Willkie's whole life "has been a fight against the people."

JAPAN: British 'Spies'

Although directly opposed to many of the political and trade policies of the British government in the Orient, Japan has usually been quite cagey about refraining from tramping too roughly on Johnny Bull's toes. But with the British pretty busy at home and with the Royal navy occupied at the task of enforcing the "blockade of Europe" the Japanese have taken the opportunity to move in a bit on the English.

It now appears that a very definite drive against British espionage and propaganda has taken form in Japan and the arrest of at least 13 British citizens—well-known residents of Tokyo—started a series of diplomatic exchanges between the two nations that may have a very serious effect upon their future relationship. Domei, Japanese news agency, reported that one of the Britons arrested, Melville James Cox, newspaper correspondent, had committed suicide while undergoing questioning by Japanese officials.

Britain immediately demanded a complete investigation of the incident and called for substantiation of the spy charges but word from Tokyo was soon forthcoming that Japan would resist any official protest over the affair. Japanese officials announced that they had "sufficient evidence" against the prisoners and that arrests were continuing despite strong British reaction.

U. S. Ban

Japan had a little complaining to do on her own score as the United States put into effect a government order requiring that all future exports of scrap iron would be subject to a federal licensing regulation. Japan has been a heavy buyer of U. S. scrap for use in the manufacture of munitions to pursue the war against China and the Nipponese would be prone to believe that the order was aimed directly at them. While U. S. officials were non-committal, the feeling persisted that America might be taking a slap at Japan for her unfriendly attitude toward Britain and her ever-increasing friendliness for the axis powers.

Included in the U. S. order was a phrase calling for the same export license requirements for shipments of aviation gasoline. Washington said U. S. supplies of this vital commodity were low but Tokyo said it was direct step to bring "economic pressure" against Japan.

FOOD: Full & Famine

While crop reports from Europe indicate that serious food shortages may result in near-famine for that continent this winter, the grain bins of North America will soon bulge with the huge surplus of bread grains and feeds. When the 1940 harvest is finished an estimated exportable surplus of wheat alone of 60,000,000 bushels—largest in history—will be stored in the United States.

Fugitive?

Mme. Genevieve Tabouis, one of France's best-known political commentators, is shown as she arrived in New York, on the S. S. Britannic from Europe. Mme. Tabouis, one of the French columnists who consistently warned the world on the menace of Hitler, is now reported a fugitive from the new French government.

U. S. DEFENSE: Appeasement

As the Congressional opposition to a peacetime military draft continued to grow President Roosevelt asked for authority to call the National Guard into immediate active service for a year's intensive training.

While it appeared that such authority would be forthcoming the opponents of the conscription plan refused to be appeased by an offer of the proponents to cut the registration limit to include only men between the ages of 21 and 30 rather than those between 18 and 64. This opposition headed by Senators Burton Wheeler of Montana, Norris of Nebraska and Vandenberg of Michigan argued that special training for the National Guard at the present time would provide enough margin of defense in the nation's manpower line up.

Five Billion More

As the debate over the manpower issue developed, the house of representatives quickly passed another defense measure calling for the expenditure of $4,963,151,957 as a further boost in the nation's preparedness drive. The money, requested by the President, would launch work on the two-ocean navy, deemed so vital if England's naval force should be lost to Germany. Also included in the bill, which now goes to the senate, are provisions for 14,000 additional warplanes, and cash for purchasing equipment for 2,000,000 soldiers.

TRANSPORTATION: Tragedy

Railroad investigators blamed failure of a train crew to follow instructions for the death of 43 persons in a tragic head-on collision of a 73-car freight train and a gasoline-motor coach near Akron, Ohio. They said that members of the gasoline-coach crew had been instructed to side-track to allow the freight train to pass but for some reason had neglected to do so. Severely injured, the crew members could not immediately give their version of the accident.

CENSUS: 'Biggest'

As adding machines click and results are checked, findings of the 1940 census continue to take shape. Latest reports indicate that true to predictions rural areas are growing at the expense of large cities. The "25-biggest" cities list has been released showing New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Detroit and Los Angeles, in that order, still ranked as the five largest. Houston, Texas, ranking twenty-first and Denver, Colo., twenty-fifth, made the select list for the first time, crowding out Jersey City, N. J., and Portland, Ore.

Golden Era Sports Champs Who Are Still Swinging

Sports fans love to talk about the Tildens, the Joneses and the Dempseys who made history between 1923 and 1936, as if they had gone to the home for the aged. And yet, the boys and girls who made that age of sport golden are still swinging, although they may no longer be getting the big headlines. These photos reunite you with some of the Golden Era sports stars.

When tennis fans get together we invariably hear the name of "Big Bill" Tilden. For he was the greatest champion of them all. Not so long ago Tilden defeated young Donald Budge in a professional game. "Little Poker Face" Helen Wills won about everything to be won in tennis and retired. Back she came in 1933 to win the Wimbledon championship.

Golden Era Jack Dempsey didn't let that now famous "long count" at Chicago get him down. Today when he can spare the time from his restaurant business Dempsey likes to get back into the ring as referee.

Earle Sande, who, in 1924 won more than a half a million in prize money, is now a trainer of race horses. He is shown here (right) with Stagehand.

Who doesn't remember Man o' War? "Big Red" is now 22 years old, and has sired many winners since ending his turf career.

Gertrude Ederle, first woman to swim the English Channel, is still a mermaid. She is shown (right) with Eleanor Holm Rose, wife of the Aquacade impresario, at the World's Fair swim tests.

Babe Ruth, greatest of all-time home run hitters, is instructor at a baseball school in the southland during the winter. In summer he is a ringsider at all the big games.

FROSTY FOODS FOR SUMMER (Recipes Below)

When you're "eating out," and you wonder what to order for the grand finale of your meal, how often do you decide on a delicious sounding parfait? There's something very special about this tall, imposing and delectable dessert. And there really is no reason at all why having parfaits for dessert should be confined to our "eating out" days. A parfait may be a culinary creation, but with modern ice cream freezers, improved freezing in mechanical refrigerators and commercial mixes to help produce smooth, creamy, frozen desserts, there's no reason why you shouldn't serve them often at home!

Make a variety of ice creams and sherbets too, and serve them with cookies or dainty cakes. You'll find a grand assortment of cookie and cake recipes in my cookbook, "Better Baking,"—crisp cookies, chewy cookies, and light feathery cakes that are just the right accompaniment for foods and drinks that are cold and frosty.

Ice Cream Freezer Ice Cream. (Makes 1 quart)

2 cups milk
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons flour
¼ teaspoon salt
2 egg yolks
2 teaspoons vanilla extract
1 cup whipping cream

Scald milk, reserving ½ cup. Mix and blend the sugar, flour and salt and mix to a smooth paste with the cold milk which was reserved. Add this mixture to the scalded milk and cook, stirring constantly until thick, in a double boiler for 15 minutes. Add egg yolks (well beaten) and cook, stirring constantly, three minutes longer. Add vanilla and chill. Fold in whipping cream (whipped), place in ice cream freezer and freeze, using three parts ice to one part rock salt. This is a good standard recipe to use as a "pattern" for many tasty variations.

Chocolate Angel Parfait.

2 egg whites (beaten stiff)
½ cup sugar
½ cup water
1 square unsweetened chocolate (melted and slightly cooled)
1 cup cream (whipped)
1 tablespoon vanilla extract
¼ cup candied cherries (quarterd)
¼ cup blanched almonds (chopped)

Beat egg whites stiff. Cook the sugar and water to the soft ball stage (234 degrees). Pour syrup in fine stream over egg whites, beating constantly. Continue beating until mixture is cool. Fold in melted chocolate, whipped cream, extract, nuts and cherries. Pour into trays and place in freezing section of mechanical refrigerator. Freeze. No stirring is necessary. Nuts and cherries may be omitted, if desired.

Mocha Freeze.

Make strong coffee in the usual manner, and pour over crushed ice to chill. Pour into tall glasses and add a generous spoonful of vanilla ice cream to each glass. Top with whipped cream.

Chocolate Mint Parfait.

1 cup sugar
1 tablespoon cornstarch
¼ teaspoon salt
2 cups milk (scalded)
3 eggs (beaten)
2 squares unsweetened chocolate (melted)
2 teaspoons vanilla extract
1 cup whipping cream (whipped)
Blend sugar, cornstarch and salt. Add scalded milk slowly, stirring well, and place in saucepan or double boiler. Cook, stirring constantly, until thick. Remove from heat; add beaten eggs; then cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Blend in melted chocolate. Cool. Then add vanilla extract and fold in whipped cream. Place in freezing container of modern ice cream freezer, and freeze, using 2 parts ice to 1 part rock salt. Serve in tall parfait glasses, alternating with layers of peppermint sauce. Top with whipped cream and a cherry. Peppermint sauce:

½ cup sugar
4 teaspoons cornstarch
¼ teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ cup cold water
½ cup boiling water
¼ teaspoon peppermint extract
Few drops green coloring
¼ cup whipping cream (whipped)

Combine sugar, cornstarch, salt, and lemon juice. Mix with cold water to form a paste. Add hot water and cook, stirring constantly until thick and clear. Add coloring and flavoring, and chill. Just before serving, fold in whipped cream.

Lemon Sherbet. (Serves 8)

1½ cups granulated sugar
1 quart water
1 tablespoon gelatin
2 tablespoons cold water
¾ cup lemon juice
Yellow food coloring
2 egg whites
2 tablespoons powdered sugar

Combine granulated sugar and water and boil for 5 minutes. Soak gelatin in cold water and dissolve in the hot syrup. Cool. Add lemon juice and a few drops of yellow food coloring. Pour mixture into freezing container of ice cream freezer. Cover and surround with a mixture of chipped ice and salt (3 parts ice to 1 part salt, by volume). Freeze.

Lemon Iceberg.

To each glass of lemonade, add a scoop of lemon sherbet. Garnish with mint and a fresh strawberry or raspberry. Slip a lemon slice over the edge of each glass.

Iced Chocolate.

(Makes 4 large glasses)
4 tablespoons sugar
4 tablespoons cocoa
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup boiling water
2 cups milk (scalded)
½ teaspoon vanilla
Crushed ice
Whipped cream

Combine sugar, cocoa and salt. Add boiling water and cook for two minutes. Remove from fire, and combine with the scalded milk. Pour into glasses filled with crushed ice, and serve with a spoonful of whipped cream garnishing each glass.

THE WORKS AND THE WORD OF GOD

LESSON TEXT—Psalm 19. GOLDEN TEXT—Let the words of my mouth, and the meditation of my heart, be acceptable in thy sight, O Lord, my strength, and my redeemer.—Psalm 19:14.

Consistently beautiful and beautifully consistent is the revelation of God, whether it be in the glory of His works, in the perfection of His Word, or in His gracious dealings with man. The spiritually minded man sees God in all of His works, whereas the blind materialist sees only matter and natural laws which he may use or abuse. He makes of God's creation things for his own comfort or for the destruction of his fellow men, not recognizing "the Creator, who is blessed forever." This is a serious matter, for in so doing the unbeliever has "changed the truth of God into a lie" (read Rom. 1:20-25).

The psalmist here presents God as He is revealed in nature, in His Word, and in the heart of man.

I. God's Glory Revealed in Nature (vv. 1-6).

"The heavens declare the glory of God." The sun in all its glory and power and the starry stillness of the night all "utter forth a glorious voice," as Joseph Addison expresses it:

"Forever singing, as they shine, 'The hand that made us is divine.'"

Nature speaks eloquently of God without saying a single word. The eye, the mind, and the heart of men may see in and know from nature alone the "eternal power and Godhead; so that they are without excuse" (Rom. 1:20). "No man living beneath the copes of heaven dwells beyond the bounds of God's court preachers."

Those who do not hear or heed these voices, whether their ears "are stopped with the clay of earthly tastes and occupations, or stuffed with scientific wadding of the most modern kind" (Maclaren), are described by Paul as having their foolish heart darkened: "Professing themselves to be wise, they became fools" (Rom. 1:21, 22).

Nature gives only a limited revelation of God, showing His existence, power and wisdom; but to really know Him we must see

II. God's Perfection Revealed in His Word (vv. 7-11).

Nowhere in the book of nature is it written that God is a Redeemer, a cleanser from sin, a restorer of the soul. That truth is found only in His Word—the Bible. What folly then for sinful men who need redemption to see God only in nature, but never look into His Word or go to church that they may hear His truth proclaimed. The final and perfect revelation of God is in His Son, Jesus Christ, the Redeemer. The psalmist with the eye of faith saw the perfection of God revealed in His law. We are privileged to know the Son of God who came not "to destroy the law . . . but to fulfill."

Note the beautiful symmetry of verses 7-9:

Law perfect restoring (R.V.)
Testimony sure making wise
Statutes right enlightening
Commandment pure enlightening
Fear clean enduring
Judgments true altogether righteous

Little wonder that the psalmist says that the words of God are sweeter than honey, more precious than gold, and worthy to be heeded and kept. The great reward of thus knowing God's Word is that we may learn of

III. God's Grace Revealed in the Heart of Man (vv. 12-14).

Man is a sinner; sometimes he sins unwittingly and ignorantly; sometimes deliberately and in presumption; and sometimes both. What shall he do with his sin? The psalmist says to bring it to God in repentance and prayer for cleansing. We may add to his invitation the admonition to come for cleansing in the blood of Christ.

"Come to this fountain, so rich and sweet; Cast thy poor soul at the Saviour's feet; Plunge in today, and be made complete; Glory to His name!"

God's grace not only cleanses—it keeps us. He is able and willing to make not only the words of our mouth, but the very meditation of our hearts acceptable in His sight. That means holy living. There is nothing more needed in our day than a revival of Christian living in the daily responsibilities of life. Personal purity of heart and motive, recognition of God's Word in thought and life—these things will make the believer "upright" (v. 13) and reflect honor and glory on the Lord who is our "strength" (R. V. "rock") "and redeemer" (v. 14).

Principle Holds Good

Except a man become like a little child, we are told, he cannot enter into the kingdom of heaven. This principle holds good in other kingdoms as well. Unless we become as humble as a child and are willing to be taught we cannot enter into the kingdom of music, or art, or knowledge, or scientific agriculture.

THE TRUTH SIMPLY TOLD

Today's popularity of Doan's Pills, after many years of world-wide use, surely must be accepted as evidence of satisfactory use. And favorable public opinion supports that of the able physicians who test the value of Doan's under exacting laboratory conditions. These physicians, too, approve every word of advertising you read, the objective of which is only to recommend Doan's Pills as a good diuretic treatment for disorder of the kidney function and for relief of the pain and worry it causes. If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove waste that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole body suffers when kidneys lag, and diuretic medication would be more often employed. Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warn of disturbed kidney function. You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all played out. Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Ask your neighbor!

Responsibilities

Be thankful for responsibilities. The more heavy they are the more thankful you should be. Responsibilities are what make men of those who might otherwise be failures.

Achievement

Achievement is the answer to accepting responsibility, duty. Why do some rise faster than others? Answer: They invite responsibility—they accept cheerfully and courageously agreeable and disagreeable duties, and they do them promptly.

THIS IS BUICK'S BIGGEST YEAR

Shouldn't you find out why?

YOU don't set all-time sales records these days without a mighty good reason!

So doesn't the very fact that we've built more 1940 Buicks than any other model in our history suggest that maybe you ought to find out why, pretty quick?

That you ought to try out the only engine electrically balanced after assembly—sample the level ride of four soft, steel coil springs that never need lubrication—inquire into the value represented by no less than six dozen important new 1940 features?

Above all—you ought to get the straight story on delivered prices. At the factory, current figures $895 begin at for the business coupe, delivered at Flint, Mich. Transportation based on rail rates, state and local taxes (if any), optional equipment and accessories are additional.

The total cost-to-you will be less than you think—ask your local Buick dealer and see.

*Prices subject to change without notice.

Aunt Olympia was back in bed first, whiling away the time with a little work on her under-chin, but the Senator was not long behind her.

"I'm not even going to shave," he said cheerfully. "Thank God it's over."

"To tell the truth, it's a great relief to me, Del," she said bravely. "Your business is your own and if you wanted to be senator, why, it was your say-so. But personally I've had enough and I'm glad to be out of it so we can live our own life for a while."

"We'd better have some coffee," said the Senator.

Hilda answered the ring with suspicious alacrity. On the tray, with a big pot of coffee, was fresh fruit and a small covered plate of hot muffins.

"You may need sustenance," she said grimly.

She gave the Senator a severe look. "Mr. Allen came about two o'clock with a dozen more hungry politicians for me to feed and with blobs of blood around his nose and a very black eye for which I offered him a beefsteak and he asked me to fry it, please, and took another of the same."

"I'm not even going to shave."

"A bloody nose?" gasped the Senator.

"A black eye!" ejaculated Aunt Olympia.

"It seems he hit the leg of a bench as he went down but giving the Senator the credit," said Hilda reprovingly. "Anyhow they ate all the steaks and are now working on the ham and eggs."

Beneath her arm, in direct defiance of orders, Hilda bore a huge stack of morning papers.

Olympia frowned at sight of them. "I said coffee and nothing but coffee and by all means none of those filthy sheets that are a profanation to the holy Sabbath."

Hilda laid the papers on the foot of Olympia's bed and arranged the tray on a small table between them. Her expression disturbed Aunt Olympia. In anybody else, it would have been definitely pleasurable; in Hilda, it was merely sardonic.

"I thought you might like a look at the pictures anyhow," she said. "And besides, I had to get them out of my way downstairs, cluttering things up, with politicians all over the place."

"How are the girls?" asked Uncle Lancy diplomatically.

"They are all right—what I seen of them," she added, with dour significance.

"You should have been at the rally," said Aunt Olympia, with a twinge that would have done justice to a toothache. "You'd have seen plenty of them."

Hilda moved toward the door. "I got to go now," she said. "I been giving coffee and doughnuts and boiled eggs to reporters and camera men for four hours. Mr. Cooper and Mr. Dodd and the boys worked all night and the telephone's been ringin' steady since six o'clock and they sent to town for more stenographers to take the messages."

Aunt Olympia swallowed hard. She looked at the Senator. He was gazing at his coffee. Obligated to say something, she said faintly, "Oh, yes. From—the constituents."

"From everybody I ever heard of so far and some I ain't. We ain't opened the telegrams yet. No time. We put them in the potato basket. I'm boiling the potatoes to make salad for everybody that'll be coming before the day's over. I'm boiling another ham, too."

Aunt Olympia groaned and closed her eyes. She waved feebly for Hilda to go away.

Hilda paused once more.

"Seems as if to me the girls did all right for themselves," she remarked cryptically and closed the door behind her.

Aunt Olympia did not open her eyes until she could hear Hilda creaking downstairs.

"After election, I'm going to fire that idiot," she said bitterly. "I don't mind her not being able to speak English, but she might at least make a little sense in some language!"

"Try one of these muffins, my dear," said the Senator. "Piping hot! Hilda's muffins make sense in any language."

Aunt Olympia, feeling dulled and bruised, mechanically set her teeth into a muffin. It was all right. Her eyes wandered to the pile of papers on the foot of the bed. Purposefully, she forced them away and looked at the Senator. He was looking at the papers, too, rather sheepishly, over the rim of his cup.

"Whoever gave a patent to the fool that invented kodaks freedom of the press, huh? It's freedom of the press makes cowardly slaves and craven knaves of otherwise good citizens. You ought to get up a bill about it. The press' freedom is taxpayers' poison." She could have smiled at that. She wished the girls had been there to hear it. Purely extemporaneous it was, too.

But her eyes would not be kept away from the pile of papers. She set her cup down with an impatient little crash.

"Oh, well, we may as well have a look at the pictures, I suppose," she snapped. "They're not bow-legged, that's one thing!"

She reached for the papers and passed two or three from the top of the pile across to the Senator, who was reaching for them. They settled back on the pillows. Suddenly Olympia gasped. "Tch, tch, tch," clucked the Senator, and kept on clucking. Olympia gazed across at him, wide-eyed, speechless. He gazed at her.

"Well, God bless my soul! Think of that now!" he said reverently.

Then they fell desperately on the papers and silence hung between them, except for the crinkle of paper, occasional hissing sighs from Olympia and an almost continuous stream of clucks from the Senator.

The election was as good as won. The girls, and the Senator along with them, had got a terrific press. Newspaper men all over the state had worked on the case all night. They had covered the Dastardly Outrage—in large caps—from every possible angle. Public sentiment was aroused to the highest pitch; public indignation was an inferno. Never had the widely publicized American standard of moral decency been so flagrantly betrayed.

The New York Herald-Tribune came out with an editorial denunciation of tactical devices so contrary to pure Republican principle and ideal.

"I'd like to see Len Hardesty's face now," said Aunt Olympia happily.

Len Hardesty publicly absolved the Governor of all complicity and shouldered the blame for the debacle; Governor Wilkie pleaded complete ignorance of the entire matter and deplored the incident. But the newsmen did not let it rest there. They admitted that while the Governor hadn't been smart enough to think it up, he had certainly been immoral enough to try to reap the advantage of it; they cited his prepared speech, the arrangement of floodlights.

Limpy's speech was quoted verbatim, with Helen's anguished "Don't say brats" in parenthesis. Uncle Limpy's glasses fogged up so over Limpy's speech that Aunt Olympia had to read it aloud to him.

"Now, you see, Ollie," he said reproachfully, "Hilda made good sense indeed. Very good sense. Seems as if they had did all right for themselves, just as she said."

In the meantime, Hilda, with all she had on hand that hectic day, did not neglect to keep the secluded girls informed.

"The've rung for their coffee now," she said. "It'll take 'em a good thirty minutes to get recomposed."

At the end of an hour, she appeared again. "Mr. Hardesty phoned have you any bad effects afterward and he feels the same and they ought to be composed by now, if ever."

The girls got up at once, a little frightened, but determined.

"Shall we dress?" asked Adele.

"Um, no, I think not," said Limpy sagely. "We'd better go as we are. Don't brush your hair, Adele. Don't be too slick. We look more votes-appeal in our bathrobes and a little tousled. But not too tousled. Not tousled enough to be tough."

In bathrobes and slippers, effectively tousled but not tough, they slipped down the hall to that suddenly dread door—keeping sharp lookout for cameras as they went. Limpy knocked bravely but her heart was heavy.

"Anybody but reporters can come in and welcome!" boomed Aunt Olympia joyously.

Limpy opened the door. Aunt Olympia and Uncle Lancy were sitting bolt upright in beds strewn with pages of the morning papers. Both were redly flushed with excitement, beaming broadly. Aunt Olympia held out her arms to them. Uncle Lancy wiped his glasses.

"Oh—hello," said Limpy, taken back by the surprising cheerfulness of the scene.

"Good morning," said Adele faintly.

"Come in, you dear precious darlings," cooed Aunt Olympia.

"Ring for coffee, my dear!" said the Senator. "They look pale. Sit down, girls. Nice legs you've got, my dears."

The girls stopped short and looked at each other.

"Would you think maybe the campaign has gone to their cerebellums?" asked Limpy.

"How adorable and rested you do look!" said Aunt Olympia. "You must have had a good night's sleep."

"Did we sleep, Adele?"

"I don't remember."

"We must be on guard though," said Limpy. "These seemingly simple cases often turn violent at a moment's notice."

"We must be armed to protect ourselves," said Adele. "We can use chairs if we have to. Keep close to a chair, Limpy."

"Oh, by the way, I forgot to tell you," said Limpy. "We have bad news for you."

"Bad news!"

"Oh, did you catch cold?" wailed Aunt Olympia, in an immediate panic.

"No. Be calm. We didn't catch anything." Limpy's small face puckered with a sudden sadness. "We lost something. We lost—"

"Tish, tish," said the Senator kindly. "Don't give it a minute's thought. I'll buy you another. Where's my checkbook?"

"You can't buy this," said Limpy, feeling suddenly sad and forlorn and homesick. "It is something not for sale! Never for sale! It's—Helen."

The smile faded from the Senator's face. He glanced almost accusingly at the shocked Olympia.

"You've—lost—Helen!" she stammered.

"My dear," said the Senator, reproachfully, "didn't you make sure we had them all with us in the car last night? Do you mean, he went on, becoming excited, "that one of our children is still running around at large among Republicans in—in a wet bathing suit?"

Limpy laughed tearfully. "Oh, we brought her home all right!—but—well—you know, this sacred franchise."

"Franchise!" ejaculated Aunt Olympia. "She's feverish! She wants to buy a bus line."

"Not that kind of a franchise. I mean the vote. Helen got up this morning and took a plane out to Iowa to vote."

"When is she going?" demanded Aunt Olympia.

"She's gone. She went at six o'clock."

Aunt Olympia turned briskly to the Senator. "Del, make a note of that. Call Dave. Tell him to get it in all the Monday papers. That's the kind of citizens we are! After a night like last night, we send one of our children by plane out to Iowa just to cast her sacred vote."

"Did—she take time to dress?" asked the Senator.

"Oh, yes. She dressed. We helped her. She looked lovely."

"She took the wind-up costume along to vote in," said Adele helpfully.

"Maybe she can get us our groceries at wholesale from this on," said Aunt Olympia philosophically.

"Will she be back after the election?" asked Uncle Lancy.

"Um—well—I rather doubt it," said Adele.

"Not for a while, at least," said Limpy.

"She's not going to send for you girls to come out there, is she?" quavered Aunt Olympia.

"Um—well—I rather doubt it," said Adele.

"Not for a while, anyhow," said Limpy.

"I'll have her mail stopped," declared Aunt Olympia. "I'll hire a detective. I said she could go when she liked and she can go if she likes. But if she tries to get you away, I'll sue her."

"She won't try to get us," said Adele soothingly. "She'll have her hands full without us. And she may be back, you know."

"For a while, at least," added Limpy.

"My dear," said the Senator suddenly, "ring for Hilda. Tell her to call the highest official of that line and tell him to report to me every hour how the plane goes through. This is—a murky day—for flying."

Tears came to Limpy's eyes. She went over and sat down beside him on the bed and kissed the rosy bald spot on top of his head.

"Uncle Lancy," she said humbly, "I'm really just sick about—disgracing you the way I did. I lost my temper and couldn't help it. But there's one thing you've got to say about my speech. I told the truth, and not many campaigners can say as much. I said you were a swell guy—and—you are a swell guy!"

"You didn't disgrace him," said Aunt Olympia jealously. "Sit down, Adele. Sit here by me. Even Hilda realizes you seem to have did all right for yourselves. Haven't you seen the papers?"

The girls covered their eyes with their hands. They groaned.

"No! No, please!"

Reveller Had Had Enough To Do With the Stranger

The reveller came home with a wicked-looking eye.

His wife was perturbed.

"Oh, dear!" she exclaimed. "How did you get that awful eye?"

The man parked himself in a chair. "It's an odd story," he sighed. "I was standing on a street corner, minding my own business, when a perfect stranger walked up and clipped me right on the eye."

"That's ridiculous," frowned his wife. "A perfect stranger walking up and giving you a black eye! Did you ask him why he did it?"

The husband shook his head. "Of course not," he returned. "Why should I butt into a stranger's business?"

"No, no, not you! The Opposition! . . . After all, the public's seen plenty of legs. Legs are nothing . . . Though a God's blessing they're good legs, I must say . . . It's Brother Wilkie they're cursing. Even the White House called up."

"Is—is it in the papers?" asked Limpy feebly.

"Certainly it is in the papers! The papers are full of it!"

"Oh . . . They are . . . Are they? . . . Did anybody mention—my speech?"

"They say it was the best speech made in any campaign this year. They print it in full—even to Helen's reminding you about the brats. It was a great speech, Limpy. I wish I'd made it . . . I just wish I could see Len Hardesty's face now!"

Limpy, blushing faintly, reached for a paper.

"Oh, Adele," she cried. "How sweet—how proud—you look!"

"Look at this one of you, Limpy. Look, where you come out of the truck. See what it says. AMERICA'S LITTLEST STATESWOMAN TAKES A BOW. Isn't that sweet!"

"Look at this one of Brother Wilkie standing on the platform with his mouth open," said the Senator.

"Look at this one of Len Hardesty standing there like a snake-in-the-grass beside the truck as you pass by!"

"Did—did anybody hear—what he said?" asked Adele, nervously.

"No. It just says he was muttering angrily. What did he say, Adele?"

"Oh, he just said—oh, he didn't say anything—he just—muttered," said Adele.

"Look at this one of the Senator wrapping Limpy in his coat! Isn't that the noblest picture you ever seen?"

"They liked what?" asked Adele timidly.

saw of the Senator? Doesn't he look like a real Napoleon standing there with his arms full?"

"We'd better save these pictures and send them to Helen," said Limpy. "She was so embarrassed. She'll feel better when she sees they aren't so bad. We don't show half as much leg as girdle and stocking ads."

"She'll see them," said Aunt Olympia. "Everybody'll see them." She mopped tears of joy from her eyes. "These pictures have swept the country. They've swept the world. I'll bet the King of England is looking at these pictures this morning . . . Look at this one of me, Adele. It's not very flattering, but it just shows how upset and motherly I am. It'll pull the woman-vote."

Hilda appeared once more.

"There's an awful lot of people on their way here about one thing and another and there's plenty downstairs now in my opinion eating us out of house and home and Mr. Allen says bygones is bygones—"

The Senator coughed deprecatingly. "Hilda," he reproved her gently. "The young ladies are present. We can dispense with the gory details."

"And the camera men are waiting to get a picture of you and him and his bloody nose with your arms around each other and Mr. Farley says you call him as soon as you wake up and whatever you need you can have and that Ambassador to England says you can have your pick of his nine to get them in training for future and someone whose name we didn't rightly get phoned from Iowa and says will Miss Limpy—he said Limpy—he his campaign manager in '40 and would you like more coffee? And Mr. Hardesty phones have you any symptoms and he feels the same—"

"My dear," said the Senator. "I think I'd better shave."

Is your child a NOSE PICKER?

It may be just a nasty habit, but sometimes nose picking is a sign of something nastier. It may mean that your child has round worms—especially if there are other symptoms, such as fretting, finicky appetite, restless sleep and itching in certain parts.

Many mothers don't realize how easy it is to "catch" this dreadful infection and how many children have it. If you even suspect that your child has round worms, get JAYNE'S VERMIFUGE right away! Drive out those ugly, crawling things before they can grow and cause serious distress.

JAYNE'S VERMIFUGE is the best known worm expellant in America. It is backed by modern scientific study and has been used by millions for over a century. JAYNE'S VERMIFUGE has the ability to drive out large round worms, yet it tastes good and acts gently. It does not contain castor oil. If there are no worms it works merely as a mild laxative. Ask for JAYNE'S VERMIFUGE at any drug store.

FOR $6 A YEAR THIS MAN WOULD HAVE BEEN PROTECTED!

Mr. X was a victim of a Michigan windstorm in 1939; his house, worth $3,600.00, was wrecked beyond repair. More tragic than this, Mr. X carried no windstorm insurance.

Mr. X could have averted this loss, completely, by investing $6.00 a year in windstorm insurance. $6.00 a year for $4,000 worth of windstorm insurance is a good investment . . . when it is pointed out that destructive windstorms will raise havoc in Michigan this year as surely as they did last year; the State Mutual Cyclone Insurance Company's claims, for 43 years, prove this conclusively.

Nobody can afford to be without windstorm insurance when you can buy $1,000.00 worth of protection for $1.50 a year . . . from the reliable State Mutual Cyclone Insurance Company. Don't wait 'til it's too late! See your local State Mutual Cyclone Insurance Company agent today.

Oranges give you refreshment — plus vitamins you need!

Nothing else is so delicious and so good for you as oranges!

They give you vitamins and minerals needed for the best of health. Fully half our families get too little of these essentials, says the Department of Agriculture!

So make oranges your family's summer refreshment. Peel and eat them. Keep a big pitcher of fresh orangeade handy. Or better yet—

Have 8-ounce glasses of fresh orange juice for breakfast daily. This gives you all the vitamin C you normally need each day. Adds vitamins A, B₁, and G and minerals calcium, phosphorus and iron.

No. 2 Continued from the First Page

In discussing the poultry outlook for the coming year it was explained that according to available reports there were 24% less chickens hatched in the county this year than were hatched a year ago, and should therefore point towards better prices for poultry meats this fall.

Each year in Michigan there is an average of about 20 million chicks hatched. Of these about 70% are leghorns, or 14 million, of which half or seven million are cockrels. Relatively only a few are needed for breeding, so that most of them are eaten when young and tender.

This has led to the development at Michigan State College of the "squab chicken." Take a leghorn cockerel at six weeks of age, kill and freeze the bird and all the housewife or hotel needs to do is to defrost and heat for about 15 minutes and the bird is ready to serve. Two of these little birds were prepared and served to the group and each person was given a small piece of smoked turkey that their taste might be acquainted with those in attendance.

The meeting was closed by a poultry killing and dressing demonstration which proved to be one of the most interesting features of the entire day.

MARKED MAN

by
 Harold Channing Wire

Walt Gandy rode into Nevada knowing that trouble awaited him. A call for help from his old range partner, Bill Holister, told him that. He didn't know, however, that he would be called upon to solve a double murder, defend a mysterious ranch against its unknown foe, and above all, to take part in a vicious range-land war. Gandy finally matches all the pieces of the puzzle, and its solution makes "Marked Man" one of our greatest serial stories.
