Harrisville Northern Division Champions

EAST TAWAS LOSES IN 4-0 PITCHER DUEL

First Game Sunday in NEM Championship Series

Harrisville was declared champions of the Northern Division last Sunday by winning from East Tawas 4 to 0 in a game to break the first place deadlock. The contest took place at the East Tawas diamond before a large crowd of fans from all sections of the division.

Kussro, right handed fire baller, was on the mound for East Tawas with Fiandt, Harrisville's portside pitcher opposing him. Both pitchers doing a neat job of hurling. Kussro gave up five hits, walked two and hit two batters with pitched balls, or rather, hit one man twice, Palmer, Harrisville's left fielder, taking two of Ham's pitches in the slats. Seven of the Harrisville batters heard the third strike called. Six errors were committed by the East Tawas defense. Fiandt allowed four hits, M. Haglund who collected four of these, just wouldn't be put out. He walked five and took one batter in the rump with a pitched ball, and breezed the third strike by ten of the East Tawas batters. Hazen "Ki Ki" Cuyler, one time big league player and at present a minor league manager, was coaching on the third base line for his "home-town" team.

By winning this game Harrisville won the right and honor of upholding the Northern Division in the league play-offs to determine the champions of Northeastern Michigan. We congratulate Harrisville on their achievement and wish them the best of luck in the play-offs and that they prove to be real champions and win the big prize of Northeastern Michigan.

Following is the schedule of the three-way play-off games between Harrisville, winners in the Northern Division; Sterling, last year's N. E. M. Champions and this year's winner in the Central Division; and Rhodes, Southern Division champions:

First Game, Sunday, Sept. 29
Harrisville at Sterling.

Second Game, Sunday, Oct. 6
If Harrisville loses, Rhodes at Harrisville.

Iosco Red Cross Will Hold Annual Meet

The Annual meeting of the Iosco County Chapter of the American Red Cross will be held Thursday, October 3, at 8:00 p. m. at the Court House in Tawas City. There will be a National Field Representative present. Election of officers will also be held. All members are urged to be present.

After the meeting a dainty lunch was served. The tables were graced with bouquets of pale dahlias and gladioli.

At the next meeting the Auxiliary will take up a Red Cross project. Mrs. Henrietta Pelton and Mrs. Gertrude Kunze were again appointed to sponsor a club of girls in the name of the American Legion Auxiliary.

After a lingering illness of over two years, death came as a release to Mrs. Peter Jarvis Wednesday morning of this week.

Sadie, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Merchant, was born at Port Hope, October 28, 1902. She was married to Peter A. Jarvis at Oquoc, November 4, 1919.

Mrs. Jarvis, being in the Coast Guard Service, was transferred to Tawas Point in 1930, where he moved his family. Because of an injury, he retired in 1937 after 16 years of service, but they retained their interest in the Point, and it was in their new home there that Sadie spent her last years.

Five children are left to mourn the loss of a most devoted mother: Allene, Louise, Duane, Rosemary and Wayland. Also surviving here are the husband, Peter A. Jarvis; father and step-mother, Mr. and Mrs. John Merchant, of Millersburg; sisters, Mrs. George Stevens, of Tower, Mrs. Harvey Olson, of Detroit, and Mrs. Stanley Fesler, of Ashtabula, Ohio. These with their husbands wives attended the funeral services. Also Mr. and Mrs. Ed. LeLabaum and Mr. and Mrs. Peter Jarvis, of Millersburg; Mrs. Ann Rogers, of Alpena; Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Olson and Mrs. Wallace Teeple, of Harrisville; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Merrow, of Ecorse; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Woods, of Flint and Mr. and Mrs. Emil Schambers, of Detroit.

The funeral services were conducted at the Methodist church, East Tawas, by Rev. S. A. Carey, Friday afternoon (today). Members of the Tawas Coast Guard station acted as pall bearers.

The beautiful floral offerings and attendance at the services attested the respect and high esteem in which this unassuming and kindly wife and mother was held by her neighbors and friends.

The directors meeting followed a tour through Iosco county where three of the leading Hereford calf breeders of this county were visited. The tour started at 2:00 p. m. at the J. A. Campbell Hereford Ranch on M-65, five and one-half miles north of Whittemore. Mr. Campbell's farm manager, Andrew Fike, showed the group of directors, bankers, editors and county agents, part of their herd of 70 Hereford cows and 70 calves which are well worth seeing by any group of people whether they be farmers or not.

The second stop was at the Britt brothers farm which is managed by Elmer J. Britt & Sons on the County Line three miles northeast of Turner. The Britt's led the visitors through their fine farm yards to see 30 of the best grade Hereford cows and 30 calves in this section of Michigan. Besides the grade cows the Britt's showed a very outstanding group of seven Polled Hereford females and a 15 months old bull which were purchased early this summer in southern Indiana from the secretary of the Indiana Polled Hereford Cattle Registry association.

For the third and last farm visit of the afternoon the group were led over the United States Gypsum Company farm at Alabaster which is operated by James P. Mielock. Mr. Mielock is secretary of the Calf association and showed the group over 80 head of heavy feeder steers and heifers that will be going to market yet this fall. A second group consisted of 25 grade Hereford cows with a splendid lot of 350 pound feeder calves at their sides. Mr. Mielock plans to place this group of calves upon dry feed and finish them for a next summer market. He also plans to purchase about 100 grade western cows within the next month which will utilize the abundance of hay and roughage that has been produced upon the company farm this year.

The evening meeting which followed a well prepared roast beef dinner at the Holland Hotel was conducted by the Board of Directors' Vice President W. A. Crandall, prominent banker at West Branch.

The 20th Century Club will open its 34th club year Wednesday afternoon, October 2, with Mrs. Ira Horton as hostess at her Sand Lake cottage.

The Roll Call will be Memories of Club Life. The Early History of the Club will be given by Mrs. L. H. Bradcock, and Memories of the Club by Past Presidents.

Methodist Ladies Aid Will Hold Last Meeting

Due to the joining-together of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, the Methodist Episcopal Church North and the Methodist Protestant church, a new organization has been organized.

This new organization which combines all Women's organizations of the Methodist church, is to be called "The Woman's Society of Christian Service."

The next regular meeting of the Ladies Aid to be held at the Methodist church, Thursday, October 3, will be the last official meeting of the Ladies Aid. A most impressive ceremony will be held following the business meeting at which time the new organization to be called The Woman's Society of Christian Service, will be organized.

All ladies of the church are urged to be present to sign the roll and in so doing become chartermembers, the same to be recognized at the meeting for that purpose in Pontiac on October 4.

Card of Thanks

I wish to take this opportunity of thanking all my friends for their kindness and full cooperation during my illness. The greetings, flowers and kindly interest shown were all very much appreciated.

Russell H. McKenzie.

Card of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks to all our friends, who so kindly remembered us during the death of our husband and father, and especially to those who so glady helped me at Clear Lake, Ontario. Also the Masons for their service rendered.

Mrs. Vera Kocher, and children.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Germany Continues Pounding at Britain As Autumn Storm, Fog Season Arrives; Italy Reports Deep Drives Into Egypt; Oct. 16 Set as Draft Registration Day

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

THE WAR: Britain Waits

While self-propelled barges were poised at French channel ports, waiting to carry German soldiers on an invasion of England, Prime Minister Churchill called a secret session of parliament.

Tides were favorable for the attempt by sea, London was being bombed day and night almost without letup, and reports said Big Bertha guns were shelling the British capital from the French coast.

Buckingham palace, home of the king, was bombed three times in LONDON, ENGLAND—That classic crack by former Premier Chamberlain that the Nazis had "missed the bus" (meaning they had failed in their conquest attempts) is recalled to mind by this one in a London street. It was wrecked by a German bomb in one of the raids on the British capital. No one was hurt says the censor, as the driver, conductor and passengers had taken shelter in a nearby raid refuge.

five days. Craters appeared along the Strand, in Fleet and Bond streets, in Leicester and Berkley Squares, houses in fashionable Piccadilly and the slums of Cheapside were demolished, the bank of England was hit by splinters, the house of parliament did not go untouched, subways and railroad yards were damaged. In 10 days, 2,000 were killed and 8,000 injured in London alone.

Berlin radios warned that London could choose between the fate of pulverized Warsaw or surrendered Paris. The British replied that the Germans' hope was to force king and government to leave the city, thus gaining a moral victory. They said there would be no evacuation of the capital. They warned citizens, however, that Hitler's attempt at invasion might come "within a few hours" and that only Hitler knew when the signal would be given.

In Nazi Territory

The Germans faced handicaps, however. While their flying was not stopped by heavy fogs, gales in the channel made shipping perilous. And British fighters were not forced out of the air. They plowed the fields of Nazi airmen at Schiphol and Ypenburg in The Netherlands, around Calais, Dunkerque, Abbeville and Antwerp. They dropped calling cards in congested Berlin, weeded out gun emplacements along the channel near Boulogne, sunk barges on the coast, wrecked oil tanks and rail sidings through German areas, hit the Bosch spark-plug factory at Stuttgart, docks at Hamburg and ammunition dumps in the Black Forest.

But throughout the British were fighting against superior odds.

Egypt

In the Near East the British were pressed by Italian armies which invaded Egypt and pushed on to vital oases. There was no declaration of war. Egypt, which had threatened to join the British if the Italians crossed the border, showed no inclination to resist at once.

The Italians captured Sidi Barrani, 60 miles from the Lybian border on the fourth day. Sidi Barrani is only 180 miles from Alexandria, one of the main British strongholds, and 350 miles from the Suez canal.

By that time the British had revealed the strategy of their campaign. With only 230,000 troops, 500 planes and 1,000 armored cars they were hopelessly outnumbered. Plan was to retreat to a shorter line, thus extending the Italian forces before engaging in a major battle.

REGISTRATION: Oct. 16 the Day

October 16 will see 16,500,000 young Americans between the ages of 21 and 36 march to polling places and register for the first peacetime draft in the nation's history. The date was set by President Roosevelt when he signed the measure over which congress debated more than three months.

After registration, local boards—it is intended to have about 6,500—will shuffle the cards and give each man a number. Then a series of numbers will be drawn in Washington by lot. When the numbers are drawn each man with a corresponding number in a local board's file will be put down for service in that sequence.

Questionnaires will be sent to each man in the order in which their numbers were drawn, asking about dependents, physical disabilities, etc. On the basis of this information each man will be classified as follows: Class 1, available for immediate services; class 2, service deferred because due to employment in necessary defense industry; class 3, service deferred because of dependents; class 4, service deferred by law—judges, legislators, etc.

Meanwhile, Washington will decide on a quota for each district, based on population and the number of men from the area already in the army or navy. Enough men then will be taken from class 1 to fill out the quota. Each man will be given a physical examination. If he cannot meet the requirements he will be passed over and the next man taken.

When draftees arrive in camp, they will be given another examination, physical and mental. Those not measuring up to notch will be placed in separate sections for physical care.

Base pay will be $21 a month for the first four months and $30 a month after that. Service will be for one year, but may be extended by the President in case of emergency.

First Call Nov. 15

The first cadre of 75,000 will be called to camps about November 15. Successive calls for about 100,000 men each will bring about 400,000 into training by January 1. On that date the army expects to have 1,000,000 men under arms, including regular troops and National Guardsmen.

On the same day that the draft measure was signed, 60,000 National Guardsmen in 26 states reported to their armories for active service which will extend for a year, and the President gave orders to call out an additional 35,700 on October 15.

Swinging full tilt into the defense program, Washington also:

☛ Heard President Roosevelt ask congress for an appropriation of $1,600,000,000 to defray expenses of the first year of training of draftees.

☛ Saw President Roosevelt sign a $5,350,000,000 supplementary defense appropriation.

☛ Awarded 21 aviation manufacturer orders to prepare for construction of 14,000 planes, at the rate of 900 a month. This production rate will be doubled within a year.

In the Headlines

Bankrupt—Perry county, in eastern Kentucky, filed a petition in bankruptcy in the federal court. It is believed the first county in the nation to take such action.

Steel—Ingot production in August amounted to 6,033,037 tons. It was the third largest in industrial history.

Wheat—Grain experts in Chicago predicted the Canadian spring wheat surplus at 508,000,000 bushels, second largest on record.

Education—Fear that defense jobs and conscription would cut into college enrollments was dispelled when fall enrollments showed a normal figure. University of California was one of the few below last year, the drop being 700.

Living Costs—Government surveys, aided by private commodity experts, indicates cost of food is not likely to rise much for the balance of this year. In communities swamped with defense contracts, rents will rise. Over-all costs may go up 2 to 5 per cent by spring.

POLITICS: Democratic

President Roosevelt made the first official speech of the campaign when he appeared before the Teamsters' union convention in the D. A. R.'s Constitution hall in Washington. He told them the gains of collective bargaining, maximum hours and minimum wages, and social security must be maintained. He said his "one supreme determination" was to keep war away from these shores.

Republican

Wendell Willkie grew hoarse in a single day of receptions in Chicago, reported unequaled since Lindbergh rode through the Loop. The official opening of his 15-day tour designed for the winning of the West was in Coffeyville, Kan., where he once taught school. From there he went on to Oklahoma, Texas, and a four-day campaign in California, the greatest attention any Republican presidential candidate ever has given that state.

Willkie's speeches raised the issue of the dictatorship of a third term. He said Roosevelt was the godfather of the unhappy Munich conference, and declared if President Roosevelt should be re-elected "you will be serving under an American totalitarian government before the third term is over."

DEATH: The Speaker

William B. Bankhead, third speaker of the house under the New Deal to die in office, was the victim of overwork. The speaker exerted himself in active days and tedious nights in the extended congressional session. When he agreed to speak at a Baltimore political rally his physician protested. But before he could speak a blood vessel ruptured in his abdomen. He died four days later. Mr. Bankhead, father of actress Tallulah Bankhead, was buried in his home town of Jasper, Ala. President Roosevelt attended the ceremonies.

Sam Rayburn, who entered congress in 1913 after being speaker of the Texas house of representatives at the age of 31, was named fourth speaker under President Roosevelt.

MISCELLANY:

☛ Hundreds of families whose wage earners have been imported to Philadelphia for employment in the navy yard are living in automobile trailers just outside the gates. Conditions brought a protest from nearby housewives who told the city council that lack of proper sanitation was a health menace. Similar conditions are reported in other defense industry towns, including Bremerton, Wash., Newport, R. I., and Mare Island, Calif.

☛ One of the first acts of the new postmaster general, Frank C. Walker, was to authorize three new stamp issues, carrying out a national defense motif. First day sale is in Washington October 12. A one-cent stamp will depict the farmer and laborer, the two-cent the army and navy, and the three-cent security, education and conservation.

☛ A campaign to turn over some of the army's "flying fortress" planes to England is expected in Washington. Reason given will be to test out the super-American air fighter under combat conditions.

Gall Bladder Often Cause Of 'The Blues'

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

A MAN of thirty-five, after doing excellent work at one branch of his organization, was notified that he was being transferred to a larger branch with an increase of salary. To make sure that everything would be in the best of order for the man taking over his present situation, he worked day and night, regardless of any regularity of eating or sleeping. As the day approached he found himself worrying about his fitness for the promotion. He became blue and discouraged and was about to turn down the promotion. In desperation, he consulted his physician.

The physician found that there was nothing abnormal except a slight yellowishness of the skin. He learned from the patient that he had been working hard to get things in order, had been irregular in his meals, eating much pastry at a neighboring restaurant as he hadn't time to go home for lunch or dinner. He was afraid the new position would be too tension a prime cause.

The physician explained that keeping his mind tensed kept his body tensed and interfered with the proper working of stomach, liver, gall bladder and intestinal movement or action, and that bile, instead of flowing freely into the intestine, was backing up into the stomach and into the blood. Also, the gall bladder was not emptying its thick bile often enough. Accordingly, what is known as the dye test was made and it was found that the liver was not filtering its poisons out promptly and that the gall bladder took about twice as long to empty (after a fat meal) as it should normally.

Some bending exercises, the use of bile, a course of Epsom salts, an enema every week, together with four small meals daily, restored the liver to normal, which, together with a more rapid emptying of the gall bladder, removed the patient's dread and fear. He entered into his new work with enthusiasm.

Do not blame your blueness, your lack of courage, your fear of work, upon any mental overwork or disturbance. Very often if you get your liver and gall bladder working properly, these symptoms will disappear.

Infection Is Chief Cause of Arthritis

IF AN attack of rheumatism or arthritis follows exposure to cold or a fall or other injury, rest in bed is the usual treatment, with heat in various forms applied to the joint.

Now, the fact that there has been exposure to coldness and dampness or that there has been some injury does not mean that the coldness and dampness or the injury is the cause of the arthritis. What it usually does mean is that there is already trouble—infection—present in the system, and the cold or injury brings the infection to the one spot—muscles or joints. Thus the cold or injury locates or makes local the condition. The tissues in these particular places that have been exposed to cold or injury—muscles and joints—appear to lose some of their power to resist infections, and so the pain, stiffness, swelling and other symptoms occur.

Cases Usually of Long Standing.

The first thing to remember is that the infection causing the arthritis has been in the system for a long time—likely for years—but the resistance to it has been strong enough to prevent symptoms until the cold or injury (or perhaps emotional disturbance) has lowered the resistance of these tissues and the infection gets the upper hand.

With this thought in mind a search should be first made for the infection and if found it should, whenever possible, be removed so that further damage to joint and surrounding tissues will be prevented. While the search for and removal of infection is being made treatment in the form of rest, heat (and later massage) and reduction of starch goods should be given.

QUESTION BOX

Q.—Sometimes my hearing leaves me for a few minutes and then returns. What could be the cause?

A.—This may be due to a head cold which closes, or partly closes, the eustachian tube which carries air from the throat to the inner side of the middle ear.

Q.—Is Whitfield's ointment, used in severe cases of ringworm of the feet, a proprietary medicine?

A.—No. It is a prescription of a British skin specialist.

Who's a Copycat? Everybody!

Man is, under the skin, and sometimes on top of it, remarkably akin to the lower animals. His sense of self-preservation is just as acute. So are his appetites and a great many of his emotions. The following series of photos is not intended to poke fun at anyone, but is designed merely to draw a few parallels. In some of the cases portrayed the subjects have deliberately copied denizens of the lower animal kingdom. In others the similarity is purely accidental. We could have drawn more deadly parallels, but our aim is a pleasing series and nothing would be gained by introducing unpleasantness. There is too much of that in the headlines.

VAMPIRE . . . In the upper picture we have a giant fruit bat, popularly called the vampire bat through a belief that it sucks human blood. It is not pretty. The maid in the lower picture suggests a bat in flight—making a pretty picture. Her cloak is designed to act as a sail on a ski run. Her name, Madeline O'Reilly, of New York. She was photographed at North Conway, New Hampshire.

NOSY . . . This monkey gets his name from his extraordinary proboscis. Nature gave it to him for a reason—and the reason was not to make people laugh.

SCHNOZZOLA . . . Jimmy Durante, famed stage and screen comic, found that his nose is his fortune. He is grinning here from a garland of Hawaiian leis.

If we don't pay too much attention to the grizzly bear's terrible claws we manage to feel sorry for him, with his nose pressed pathetically against the bars of his cage pining for the woods and freedom.

COUNTERPART . . . But we cannot pity this human counterpart of the bear, glaring through the bars of his cell after his arrest on the charge of killing a four-year-old girl through criminal attack.

GRACE . . . Among the most graceful of living things is the swan . . . on the water. On land it is ungainly. Then, too, its soft and beautiful looks hide a fierce and fighting heart.

This baby lion is pleasant . . . but just wait! And so with the boy. Will that grand smile hold out through life, or become a snarl?

FIRST-AID to the AILING HOUSE

Patching Concrete. QUESTION: What is the best method of recentering and mending breakoffs and cracks in cement sidewalks and driveways? Patching cement soon cracks out.

Answer: A crack should be cut out with a cold chisel to make room for the patch. The cut should be made wider at the bottom than on the surface, so that in hardening the patch will lock itself in. The patching material should be one part portland cement and three parts sand, with only enough water to be workable. Before patching, the old concrete should be soaked with water. The patch should be kept wet for several days for thorough curing. Where appearance is not important, cracks can be filled with roofing cement, which is most easily applied by melting and pouring in.

Noisy Water Pipes. Question: There is always air in our water pipes, which are under city pressure. It does no harm, but I wonder if it has something to do with the loud noise we always get when drawing water. The noise can be heard through the house and is annoying.

Answer: If the air is from high pressure or from pumping, your neighbors are having the same trouble, and the local plumbers are so familiar with it that any one of them could put in a reducing valve or an air separator that will stop the noise. If your neighbors are not having the trouble, the reason is in your own house, and is likely to be from loose and worn washers in the faucets. This should be looked into.

Rocking Chair. Question: In removing rockers from a chair should they be knocked off or sawed off? Should the legs be all the same length from the bottom of the seat at the corners? Would the chair then be too low for a "slipper" chair?

Answer: Knocking the rockers off may damage the legs of the chair. Sawing them off is safer. After the rockers are off, further cutting may be necessary to get the legs of the chair to set squarely on the floor. Make your measurements carefully. The front legs of the average chair are a trifle longer than those in the back (one-quarter to one-half inch.) Whether or not the chair will be too low will depend on the present height.

Retaining Wall. Question: How can I build a rock retaining wall through which soil will not wash away? Our ground is on two levels with about a two-foot drop. Is a dry wall practical?

Answer: A rock wall laid up dry is entirely practical, and has the advantage of allowing the seepage of water through it; without seepage dammed-up water will make trouble. The wall must go deep enough into the ground to be below the frost level and have sufficient strength to resist the pressure of the earth behind it. Do not skimp on dimensions.

Vacuum Cleaner on Wasps. A correspondent describes his method for disposing of his attic wasps with his vacuum cleaner. "On a day when they were out of their nests and congregated in the sunshine, a wide-mouthed tool was applied, and the wasps were instantly drawn in. This was easy, and after they were all picked up, moth gas was drawn into the cleaner until the noise subsided. The dust chamber was then emptied into a bucket of boiling water."

Stained Shingles. Question: Please advise the cause of dark spots like oil or grease on shingles. They were finished with a fine quality stain; the same quality as the original stain. The spots appear on the side walls subjected to the hot summer sun's rays.

Answer: It is possible the spots are caused by excess of oil in the wood being drawn to the surface. Try wiping the spots with turpentine. This may remove the grease or oil spots.

Round Table. Question: Where can I get the dimensions for a portable round table, to seat 10 persons, the kind of table used in hotels?

Answer: A space of 2 feet is allowed per person, which would make the diameter of such a table about 6 1/2 feet. Height of the table top is 2 feet 6 inches, while the height of the knee space is 2 feet 1 inch.

Cleaning Furniture. Question: How can spots and dirt be removed from overstuffed furniture?

Answer: If the color of the upholstery material is fast, you can do the job with a shampoo preparation to be had at a department store. Directions for use are on the label. If the material is not fast, dry cleaning will be needed.

THE SCHOOL LUNCH
(See Recipes Below)

Whether the children carry their lunch to school or dash home at noon for a hurried meal, autumn school bells bring a major problem to the menu planner. For the mid-day repast must give plenty of nourishment in a form that can be quickly and easily eaten—and, in the case of carry-away lunches, easily packed as well.

Fruit, cookies, sandwiches and milk in some form constitute stand-bys for box lunches as well as the school child's home lunch. Cocoa, cream soups, custards and simple puddings help with the milk quota at the home lunch. Cocoa, or a milk shake, as well as plain milk, can be carried with the school lunch in a vacuum bottle. For the box lunch, sandwiches ought to be carefully wrapped so that they will be fresh and appetizing. Chopped meat moistened with a little butter or mayonnaise, hard-cooked egg delicately seasoned, cream cheese, jams and jellies, all make tempting fillings.

Semi-liquid foods may be put into small glass jars with tightly fitting covers. Supply paper cups for the beverage; and as a novelty, put in a paper straw, especially when you pack chocolate malt or iced cocoa. The sandwiches and softer foods should be placed on top to prevent mashing.

Brightly colored lunch boxes are popular, because they are not only easier to pack, and well-ventilated, but are attractive to carry. Literally speaking, you can pack everything in them from "soup to nuts." The lunch boxes should be kept immaculately clean by careful scalding each day.

You may like to use this menu some day when you have plenty of meat loaf left over from the Sunday dinner:

- Meat Loaf Sandwiches
- Deviled Egg
- Custard
- Chocolate Milk
- Olives
- Or you might use a menu similar to this for colder weather:
- Cream of Tomato Soup
- Peanut Butter and Orange Marmalade Sandwiches
- Fruit Tapioca
- Cookie

There is always an extra corner into which you can tuck a surprise. To the smaller children this will be a delight. It may be a few nuts, or a few pieces of good candy, or it may be the little candy bridge favor you received yesterday. A packed lunch can become as tiresome to eat as it is to pack. Even you will be thinking of the little surprise you can find to put into it, and thus make this task more of a pleasure to you.

So get a lunch box that will be large enough to hold all the necessary equipment, but will not be too heavy to carry, and begin making your plans for the school lunch. Some of these suggestions may aid you in your plans for the school year:

Soups and Beverages.
Soups and beverages, if packed in thermos bottles, will stay hot or cold, as the case may be. The cream soups are the most nutritious, for they contain not only milk but vegetables as well. Try cream of tomato, cream of pea, cream of spinach and cream of asparagus.

There is quite a wide choice of beverages. For warmer weather you may like to give the children pineapple juice, grape juice, orange juice, milk or chocolate malt. When the weather becomes cooler, hot chocolate or cocoa are welcome beverages.

Sandwiches.
Bread for sandwiches should be cut in thin slices, with the butter and filling spread way out to the edges. The butter is easier to spread if creamed first; and the sandwiches should be cut into convenient sizes for eating. Vary the kinds of breads that you use for sandwiches: plain or white, whole wheat, rye, brown bread, peanut butter bread, orange

Why not plan a little different party for your friends? Have a harvest home party, where your guests can gather for singing, games, and dancing.

At the end of August, or the middle of September, many of the countries of Europe finished up the harvest season with the harvest festival. There the workers of the fields feasted, danced, and sang, as guests of the mansion. Wreaths, fashioned of grain, flowers, nuts and corn were hung on the walls, to remain until the following year.

Miss Howe will tell you about a harvest party in her column next week which will contain many attractive suggestions.

bread, nut bread, cornbread, raisin bread, and rolls.

For filling you may like to use these suggestions:

- Chicken, with chopped celery and mayonnaise.
- Cream cheese on raisin bread.
- Chopped dates, nuts and orange juice.
- Ground cooked veal, raw carrots and celery, with salad dressing.
- Orange marmalade and peanut butter.
- Cottage cheese, chopped olives and mayonnaise.
- Hard cooked egg, chopped celery and mayonnaise.
- Meat loaf, sliced thin.
- Bacon, mayonnaise and lettuce.

Spiced Blanc Mange.
2 cups milk
2½ tablespoons cornstarch
½ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg
¼ teaspoon cloves
¼ cup nut meats (broken)
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
Scald 1½ cups of milk. Mix all dry ingredients together and add the remaining ½ cup cold milk. Combine well. Add hot milk to the cornstarch mixture slowly. Return to double boiler and cook, stirring constantly, until the mixture thickens. Cook 5 minutes. Remove from flame, add nut meats and extract. Turn into a wet mold and chill. Serve with whipped cream if desired.

Desserts.
With the problem of packing desserts solved, there is a much wider choice than ever before. Rice pudding, small tarts, custards, oatmeal cookies, brownies, cup cakes, tapioca, cooked fruit, dates, figs, gingerbread, fresh or stewed dried fruits, and plain cakes are all to be selected to vary the school lunch.

Cream of Tomato Soup.
2 cups canned tomatoes
2 slices onion
¼ teaspoon soda
1 teaspoon sugar
1 teaspoon salt
Dash pepper
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons flour
2 cups milk

Heat tomatoes with onion, soda, sugar, salt and pepper. Rub through sieve; reheat. Place butter in top of double boiler and melt. Add flour and mix thoroughly. Add milk. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens. Pour tomato mixture slowly into white sauce. Mix thoroughly, and serve.

Better Baking.
Wouldn't you like some good yummy chocolate nut gingerbread or some of those melt-in-your-mouth meringue cookies right about now? Or how about the delicious sounding lemon sunny silver pie? Shall I stop, or have I made you hungry enough to want to rush right out into your kitchen and whip up a batch of cookies, or one of those suggested above? You may have these tested recipes of Miss Howe if you will write, enclosing 10 cents in coin, to Eleanor Howe, 919 North Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Illinois, and ask for her cook book, "Better Baking." You will like them all, for they have been tried in her own test kitchen.

SCHOOL again, and this sketch shows a quiet study corner for one girl. It is all very gay in tones of golden yellow and green and was made almost entirely of things already on hand—even down to the hooked rug.

The hanging book shelf doesn't really hang at all. It is made of a box screwed to the wall, and if you never thought of slip-covering a book shelf, here is proof of how smart one will look, especially if it is matched with a chair covered in the same material. The legs of the chair are painted green and so is the old kitchen table which has now become a desk. The yellow tone is repeated in the blotter and an old brass lamp and other desk things carry out the green and yellow color scheme. A shelf like this one would be attractive in almost any room, even the bathroom or the kitchen. This box was so rough that the oil cloth lining was necessary. A box of smooth wood could be painted inside.

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.
Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

Marked Man

THE STORY THUS FAR

Summoned to the C C ranch in central Nevada, desert-wise Walt Gandy is on his way to help his old range partner, Bill Hollister. Walt is stopped short by a girl—who holds a rifle in firing position. She knows him, tells him how to get to the ranch, and tells him that they will meet again. Within a quarter of a mile from his destination, Walt is stopped again. This time by a grotesque, misshapen man who tells him to get out and then tells him the C C crew is in Emigrant, the closest town, for an inquest. Someone has been murdered. Riding to the inquest in Emigrant, Walt leaves his horse at the livery stable. Walt learns that Cash Cameron, owner of the C C ranch, is in trouble. A hard but honest man, Cash has many enemies. At the inquest Walt sees Hollister and the girl who had stopped him. Chino Drake, former cook at the C C ranch, has been murdered and Sheriff Ed Battle is trying to pin the blame on Cash Cameron. The girl is called to the stand. She is Helen Cameron, Cash's daughter. She seemingly faints and, as Gandy rushes to her aid, slips something in his hand. It is the bullet from Drake's body. Walt rents a post office box and leaves the bullet in it. Leaving the post office he is accosted by a dark, swarthy man who offers him a job. He draws the man out, finds that he wants to usurp Cameron's public range land. Gandy then turns him down in biting fashion. The man leaps at Walt, who whips him after a hard battle. The man is Pete Kelso, foreman of the 77 ranch, an outfit hostile to Cameron. Gandy is called to the sheriff's office, where he meets Hollister. Battle tells Hollister that Cameron is through! Hollister and Gandy return to the C C. There they find Cash Cameron and Bent Lavic, the crippled man who stopped Gandy on his previous visit.

"Lavic," said Hollister. "He does that. The swing used to be Helen's. Old Bent fixed it for her when she was little."
Facing front again Walt said, "Looks like the devil had chased that Bent Lavic some time, and caught up with him, too! Who is he, anyway?"
"He's a story," Hollister answered. "A long one. Tomorrow you and I'll be together, working steers down into the sink. I can talk to you about Lavic then, and about some others." Suddenly the dark face turned into full view. Hollister's heavy eyebrows were gathered. "How much money have you got, Walt?"
"On me?"
"Yes."
Walt felt himself over; pockets, belt, remembered the ten-dollar bill in his hatband.
"Two hundred bucks," he said.
"That's paper. A few more in silver and a couple of pesos Mex."
Hollister looked away. "Let me have the two hundred."
"Sure," said Walt. "When?"
"Now," came the answer, and that was all.

CHAPTER VIII

SOME time tonight, Walt knew, he was going to see Helen Cameron, alone. That was bound to happen. There was too much at stake between them. Yet when he tramped up to the kitchen door, he was not prepared for the girl who met him.
The door opened inward as his boot heels clicked on the stone step outside, and Helen stood there holding it for him to enter. No one was with her, nor in the dining-room beyond.
The boy's shirt was gone, and the boots and blue jeans. She had dressed, and in dressing had made herself a stranger to him, disturbingly feminine in every line of her neat little body. But then the candor of her brown eyes reassured him, lighting quickly as she nodded to a door next the dining-room arch.
"In there," she said. "Leave your things and come back, will you?"
Helen Cameron was not beautiful in the white, helpless way of sheltered women. The beauty of this girl was something more; mountain wind had been in her hair and a look of the limitless desert was in her deep-set eyes. Her blood was of this open range, and it knew the full hot pulse of hate and passion and love.
With a quick smile she brought her eyes back to his. "Let's do the dishes! I'll help. The new cook shouldn't have such a pile to begin on!" She waved toward the heaped sink.

"Put those hands in dishwater?" Walt asked, looking down at them with a serious face. He shook his head. "Nope. I'll do my own pearl diving."
She dropped him a little bow. "You are a gallant man, Mr. Gandy!" Her brown head tipped up again and her eyes danced. "That was well said. No other has ever told me that my hands were not made for dishwater!"
But then laughter died on her parted lips, and the lift of her shoulders and the rise of her voice were gone.
"Come on," she said. "We'll do the dishes."
"No," Walt refused. He stood planted, waiting. They had more to talk about than this.
Helen turned from him. "Oh, all right then."

Slowly she moved across the wide kitchen to a table, and facing him, propped herself against the edge, palms pressed upon the boards, the autumn-gold dress flowing softly down the length of her slender body.
"You are a gallant man, aren't you?" she asked from that distance.
"No, don't blush, I'm not fooling." She smiled a little.
Walt Gandy said nothing.
"And a determined one, too," said Helen. "Look at that jaw!"

Still he waited. He knew for a fact she was not fooling with him, in spite of the smile. This light and round-about approach to something filled with grave purpose was not new. Let the girl take her time. Her brown eyes fell and studied her slippers feet.

"Walt," she said, unexpectedly intimate, "I want you to understand something. It's about Bill Hollister and me." She hesitated.
"All right," Gandy agreed. "Sure, go ahead." But for the girl to bring in another man just now, any man, abruptly cooled him.
"Bill Hollister," he heard her say, "is one of the finest men I have ever known, perhaps the finest. There probably is not another like him in all the world. In some ways there simply can't be."
Walt Gandy granted every word. Yet hearing from her lips things that even he himself would have declared on occasion, now brought a sudden stab of fire.

A little more forcibly than need be, he said, "You aren't telling me anything! You know, don't you, that Hollister and I were paired in the border patrol for several years? Two men don't hold down that job together without each becoming mighty sure of what his partner is made of. I could pay off Bill with everything I've got, or ever will have, and my debt to him wouldn't be half settled! What are you smiling at?"
"Not at you, Walt," said Helen gently, and her mouth was serious again. "Sometimes a girl smiles to keep from crying. Didn't you know that? It's a deeper thing than women ever know, this working companionship between men, and what you have just said is almost word for word what Bill Hollister once told me about you."

She gave herself a little fling from the table edge and came back across the room, and as she stopped, a fragrance stirred with a current of air that her movement made.
She held out her hand. "Good night, Walt; I'm glad we understand each other. That's all I wanted to know. I wanted to tell you how I felt about Bill, and to know how you felt about him. Good night."

CHAPTER IX

GANDY blew out the kitchen lamp, poked his nose outside for a breath of cold air, saw that the sky was overcast and the wind had risen.
C C foreman's headquarters just off the kitchen was a large square room, low-ceilinged, suggesting Hollister in its economy of furniture, everything for definite use—a narrow cot, a chair, a tall chest of drawers and an iron-banded box, padlocked. With a match Walt located the cot and flung himself down upon it. He rolled a cigarette lying on his back.

It was plain to him then that he would have to go. This was Hollister's country, Hollister's girl, and there was trouble enough here without adding more. He would go through with whatever job Bill had cut out for him, then leave. Tomorrow they were working cattle into the sink. That promised action. He had not forgotten the man named Pete Kelso who had been in town hiring extra hands for the 77. If those gunmen had been hired, this range war could break wide open within twenty-four hours. The end would not be long in coming after that, and he could travel.

So with a conclusion reached, Walt Gandy rolled another smoke and started the argument all over. But he took only one drag on it, suddenly crushed out the cigarette, swung himself upright and stood motionless in the dark. An unmistakable sound had jerked him up as if yanked by a rope. He listened, waiting for it to repeat.

At a distance, he could not tell how far, cattle had bawled. It had come to him on a wave of night wind for only a moment, then the wind had swept on, and the sound had faded. Yet he stood fixed in his chill grip. Somewhere out along the mountain slope cattle were bawling at the smell of old blood!
Never had he buckled on his belt with such reluctance. Something told him that if it was a man dead out there, for the good of the C C and all its people, the body had best not be found. Checking the gun's full chamber with his finger tips, he moved soundlessly to the window and raised the sash.

Two short wings jutted from the long front part of the C C house. From one, Gandy looked across an inner patio to the other. Under the overcast sky only the low-roofed outline was visible; windows there were dark. He threw his leg over the sill, touched ground and stepped out.
With that first blood-bawling un-repeated, there was little for him to go by in gauging distance and direction. He would rather not be discovered saddling and riding out of this place. Secrecy seemed to be the thing here. With the whole ranch crew going their ways under cover, he'd play that game also.
Curiosity prompted him to lift the saddle shed latch and step inside.
Cash Cameron had not showed up after the meal tonight. Bill Hollister had taken two hundred dollars. Old Bent Lavic had found nothing better to do than sit in a little girl's swing. If it was Bent Lavic! Had they all gone to bed then, to be sleeping soundly now? About as much as he had!

Having shut the door behind him, Gandy stood uncertain. It was black in this shed, blacker than inside a tar barrel with the lid on. His outstretched hands found nothing at first. He took a few cautious steps and touched the log horse where five saddles had been deposited in a row this evening. His was the one on the nearest end. Groping, he felt over the smooth leather of three more. Then there was an empty space.
Someone had saddled and gone. Who? Gandy had an urge to strike a match and see at once, yet intuitive warning checked that.

He stood for a time trying to recall the exact placing of each man's saddle, remembering that neither Horsethief Fisher nor Helen had brought theirs in here to the rack. Their gear was in another shed. That left Hollister, Cameron, Lavic, and the boy. He shook his head over the boy and the crippled man... whoever had ridden off tonight must be on some business more urgent than could involve those two. It sifted down to Cash Cameron or Bill Hollister. His exploring hands came back to his sides with a jerk. Behind him, slowly, the shed door was opening.

Gently Walt lifted the thirty-eight, brought it up into the crook of his left arm and let it lie there, pointing. He took a tentative step backward along the log saddle horse, beginning his retreat with all senses alert. His second step had not yet started when there came the fact that someone else was moving. The air had stirred.

He listened, waiting for it to repeat.

Next through the dusty smell of the shed he breathed a certain fragrance.
"Helen!"
Walt Gandy gave out the name in a whisper. A startled gasp answered; a sharp indrawn "Oh!" After that only the fresh, stirred air told him that the girl was still near.

He put out a hand, whispering again, "Helen. It's Gandy." His fingers touched her dress and she jumped back. He asked, "Shall I strike a match?"
Words burst from her in a voice held low, hoarse with tension: "No! Don't!" Then rapidly, "What are you doing here? What are you looking for? You tell me... prowling like this!"

What was he doing here! Gandy stared hard at a faint grayness that now, at arm's length, was all he could see of Helen Cameron's face. What was he doing! The reverse accusation stung him. That wasn't what he had in mind. What was she doing out here?
His gun was holstered; suddenly with both arms he reached out, caught the girl in his hard grip and shook her. "I've had enough! I'm going to find out what's happened. Understand? There's been one murder on this ranch—maybe more. Do you know that? I almost think you do! There's a devil of a lot too much under cover on this place!"

Under his clamped arms the breath gushed out of her and she was all at once limp against him, for the moment unstruggling, and he was ashamed as if he had grabbed and was shaking a helpless kitten.
Words formed to say so, but the girl jerked and tore from his hands.
"You! Let me go!"
Her voice choked in rage. She broke off. He imagined dark eyes blazing. But then she turned him cold with the dead quiet, completely final tone of her next words: "Call yourself Bill Hollister's friend! Saying you owe him so much. And now, spying! Oh! Oh, I'm glad I watched. Glad of it, do you hear? I know I don't trust you now!"
On the instant she regained control of the bitter emotion that had swept her, or else, still bitter, could yet feel a certain sympathy, for she said, "I'm sorry, I am. But all I can say is you'd better leave this ranch. No one asked you to come here and uncover what has happened."

He heard her back away from him, heard the door open and click shut. The girl was gone, but there was left behind her a turmoil of fright, and her desperate voice, and the puzzle of what it all meant.
Walt Gandy stood in the dark and swore softly. No one had asked him to come here and uncover what had happened!
A lot seemed explained in that. Was the whole C C covering up, instead of uncovering? Was that it? Even Hollister?

He struck a match and swept it along the saddle rack to the empty space. The short flare died, but Gandy remained rooted, trying to make reason of what he had seen. For the missing saddle was Cash Cameron's.

CHAPTER X

WHATEVER ride Cameron had taken last night—and Gandy saw signs that it had been a long one—it had done the old man no good. The C C owner was worried. In the faintly graying morning he clumped stiffly down to where horses stood ready outside the corals. He moved with ill-concealed saddle tiredness, no spring in his step, shoulders drooping, his large figure in a rainproof canvas coat looking heavy and leaden.
When forms appeared out of the faint morning, mounted, and when all were ranged before him in a half circle, Bill Hollister gave orders.

He turned in his saddle to Cameron on a tall gray. "I've got plans for the rest of us, Cash; what do you figure on doing yourself?"
"Never mind me," said Cameron. "You boys can do what's coming is left on the benches. I'll cut west to the rims and see how feed looks."
"You riding alone?" Hollister demanded.
"No. The girl's going."
Bill Hollister was foreman of the C C, but it seemed to Walt Gandy next moment, that even so, he worked with an unusually high hand on this place.

"West," the lank man was saying, "is toward the 77. What are you taking Helen for, Cash, and why that direction? You know well enough how the sink feed looks. If you're figuring..."
He cut himself short, compressed his mouth, and this C C foreman and the C C owner sat looking at each other eye to eye. Hollister said then: "Well, only one thing. We're all to meet back here not later than three."

Cameron's white head nodded. He said nothing.
Hollister continued directions. "Fisher, you and the kid can take the north bench. Sand Canyon will be far enough. Remember, back here at three."
Horsethief Fisher gave a wry grin. "Barrin' accidents," he said.
"Gandy and I'll take south beyond Willow Spring," Hollister ended. "We all ought to get these strays cleaned up and shoved into the sink by noon. We might meet there, but no need to make a point of it."

Passing a vegetable patch to the right of the fenced lane he stared with open curiosity. In there the cook, Chino Drake, had been found dead. Hollister rode with his face held front.
The lane ended, and they turned into somber shadow of the pine slope, still following a fence that snaked an irregular way from trunk to trunk. They came upon a bucket of staples left beside a blazed tree, with a claw-hammer hooked into a lower strand of the barbed wire fencing.
"That crazy Lavic!" Hollister exploded. "No use mending fence out this far. Snow'll have it down again this winter."
"Nuts is he?" Walt asked.
"Don't you think it!"
"I don't," said Gandy.

Hollister looked across at him. "Queer though, Lavic is." A grin broke the gravity of his face. "I guess, Walt, you've come to think we're all queer on the C C." He sobered. "We are. Queer. Worse than queer. Any man is who'll set himself to have one thing and let nothing else matter."

"I'm all ears," said Gandy after a long silence. "This was to be your morning to talk. Maybe you can begin on the easy ones and lead up to the tougher propositions. Give me a line on this Horsethief Fisher. He's a likeable cuss and all right, I figure—or isn't he?"
"Sure," Hollister agreed. "Horsethief's all right now. But he came into the country rustling C C stock. Went to jail for it, and then Cash bailed him out and made him go to work on the place. Cash is like that. Horsethief has been on the C C ever since, and that was fifteen years ago. Cash took the kid, too, Paul Champion, when his old man died in a gunfight, put him through school and made him one of the family. He's a good boy, if his dad's gunning streak is held down. Then there's Bent Lavic."
A couple cut the bench top, and they put their horses slantwise down to the bottom, then up the other side. They jingled on across the flat.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

THE USE AND ABUSE OF WEALTH

LESSON TEXT—Proverbs 11:24-31; Luke 16:11-13.
GOLDEN TEXT—Lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven.—Matthew 6:20.

Money—its making and using—is a matter which constantly concerns all of us as long as we live in this world. It is the medium of exchange whereby the labors of one man may be exchanged for the labors of another, in the purchase of goods and services. It may be used to send a messenger to the ends of the earth with the good news of salvation or, on the other hand, it may be the ready instrument to destroy both body and soul of those who abuse it. Man may have money, and be a blessing, or money may have a man, and be a curse.

I. The Right Spirit in the Use of Money (Prov. 11:24-26).

What a man does with his money is only a reflection of what he is in his inmost life. The spirit which withholds unless there is a return to itself in pleasure or profit is a selfish and ungodly spirit. To attempt to present one's self before the world as a follower of Christ and to have that attitude toward what one possesses is to deny by one's acts the testimony of one's lips.

Not all "scattering" (v. 24) is commendable. It is possible to be careless and wasteful, and that neither honors God nor helps our fellow men. Then, too, a man may scatter liberally, as the farmer does when he sows seed, knowing that he will have a richer harvest for himself. That is only a different type of selfishness.

II. The Good and Bad Use of Money (vv. 27-29).

The man who looks for good finds it, and the one who looks for trouble finds that, too. That is true in the use of money as well as elsewhere in life. One way to end up in certain disappointment is to put your trust in money, for, while it opens many doors, it cannot open the door to heaven, and, while it can buy most things, it cannot buy health and happiness. To seek good, seek the Lord and His righteousness, and you will "flourish as a branch." You may not have the riches of this earth, but you will prosper in those things which are of eternal value. You will be wise in the conduct of the affairs of your own house (v. 29) and life, because you are "wise of heart."

III. The Best Use of Money (vv. 30, 31).

One of America's leading business analysts and statisticians said some years ago that the best investment of funds was in the winning of souls to Jesus Christ. Had man expended the money which should have gone for that purpose, at the right time, we might have spared the spending of billions of dollars for war in these latter days. "He that is wise winneth souls" (v. 30 R. V.). "And they that be wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament; and they that turn many to righteousness, as the stars for ever and ever" (Dan. 12:3).

The glory that awaits the believer in this life and in the life to come, as well as the judgment which inevitably must fall on the sinner (v. 31), should urge us on in the winning of souls. But even more than that, the love of God, and "the love of Christ" which "constraineth us" (II Cor. 5:14), should cause us to put ourselves and our money into His hands, to be used in the winning of souls. Could there be any better use of money?

IV. The Test of the Use of Money (Luke 16:11-13).

Ultimately each one of us must give an account to God of the manner in which we have lived. These verses and others indicate that one of the matters for which we must answer is the manner in which we have used or abused the money or other possessions with which God has blessed us.
We are stewards, and only as we demonstrate our faithfulness and wisdom in the use of the "unrighteous mammon" (v. 11); that is, the money of this world, can God entrust us neither here or in the world to come with His true riches.
Let us be very clear about this point today. It does make a vital difference to your spiritual life how you regard money. You cannot separate your life into compartments, with a spiritual Sunday religion and a do-as-you-please weekday, business or social life. The dollar you spend on Monday is of as much concern to God as the dollar you put in the offering on Sunday.

Pleasing Motifs for Pot and Pan Holders

Transfer Z8976

FOR our first fall needlework, what could be more appropriate than making some new pan holders? Gay flower faces, hen and rooster, Toby jugs and a parrot handle holder, etc. Why, even the smallest scrap bag would supply enough material, for some of these are pieced. Bazaars and gifts will take inexpensive toll of any you aren't needing yourself.

Transfer Z8976, 15 cents, gives motifs for ten holders. Send orders to:

When YOU dust use O-Cedar on your dustcloth. Dust and NEVER raise a dust

Here's the smart, easy, modern way to dust. Add one tablespoonful of genuine O-Cedar Polish to one pint of warm water; dip your dustcloth in that; dry it and use it. Now when you dust you pick UP the grit and lint and sandy dust. You don't raise clouds; you don't scatter the dust from table to chairs back to tables again... your cloth picks UP the dust, and your furniture is spotless. Ask for:

School Notes

HIGH SCHOOL

This year in our high school, students are adjusting themselves to the hour plan of classes. With this procedure the double period for laboratory courses is eliminated, thus making possible a broader curriculum. Further, research points out that in the vocational field and in the laboratory sciences, accomplishment under the hour schedule is comparable to that accomplished under the short-manned double period method. The major advantage in the hour plan, however, lies in the fact that supervised study consumes a part of each period. The first thirty-five minutes of each hour is devoted to class discussion with the remaining time given over to supervised study. A prominent educator has said that the best way to know whether or not a student is learning properly is to see him do it. Supervised study supports this belief in practice.

Today, more and more emphasis is placed on individual teaching. There are as many levels of ability in a classroom as there are students enrolled in that particular class. This only suggests the importance of teaching the individual how to think rather than attempt the teaching of a subject matter as so many facts to a group.

L. V. Knowlton.

A week ago last Tuesday the Alabaster high school baseball team came over to Tawas City to bow before the pitching of Dick Prescott and the batting of Harold Wegner. Wegner went to bat four times and collected four hits. "Right pert!" Ify might say. Two of Harold's hits were doubles. Frank Mark also hit for extra bases. The final score was 8-3 in favor of our boys.

This afternoon (Friday) East Tawas comes here for a seven inning game which will start at 3:30. Our team deserves your following. Come out and boost their play.

Child Health Notes

Miss Dorthea Arnold, R. N., arrived in Tawas City, Monday, September 23, to take over her duties as nurse of Iosco county as a supply for Miss Bernice Klumb who obtained a scholarship and left for Columbia University a week ago. Miss Arnold has excellent qualifications as a public health nurse. She has her Bachelor's Degree from the University of Michigan and also her public health nursing certificate. She is a graduate of Saginaw General hospital and had children's work at the Children's hospital, Detroit. Miss Arnold's office is on the second floor of the Court House, Tawas City. She will be assisted in her office work by Miss Edith Reinke, of Tawas City.

It is still true that up to September 23 we have had no cases of poliomyelitis reported for the four counties in our district. Therefore, parents not being on guard by local outbreaks may fail to realize the first sign of this dreadful disease. The first stage symptoms include fever, nausea, irritability and stiffness of the neck and sometimes pain and tenderness in the arms and legs. Call a physician at once with any of these first signs. Where your physician wishes expert consultation service this may be arranged. Even though your child might have no signs of paralysis in the early stage one cannot foresee what later stages may bring.

Doctor Sue Thompson, Director of District Health Unit No. 2 announces that the Dental Clinic of the Children's Fund of Michigan will again be located in the East Tawas High school to give dental service to the under-privileged children of Iosco county. The clinic will be in Iosco county during the months of October, November and December. Beginning Monday, September 30, the various schools will be examined throughout the county, and dental treatment will begin shortly afterward. Doctor Arthur Blossing, dentist with the Children's Fund of Michigan, will again conduct the clinic.

Dr. Sue Thompson, Director of District Health Unit No. 2 has announced that all members of the staff of the Health Unit will attend the annual meeting of the Board of Health for this district which will be held at Alcona Beach Resort, Harrisville, (one mile north on U. S. 23 on Thursday, October 3, at 12:30 p. m.)

Anyone interested in attending this meeting please communicate with your County Nurse or with District Health Unit No. 2, West Branch.

In a public reply to the hundreds of inquiries flooding the Navy Recruiting Office, in Detroit, Commander Carson R. Miller, Officer in Charge, stated this week that the United States Navy is not contemplating the training of conscripts.

"The highly specialized technical training necessary to the development of a modern Navy Man cannot be attempted in a year's time—The minimum in which this can be accomplished is six years. There are a sufficient number of the highest type of young Americans applying for Naval Service to fill the needs of our expansion program, which is proceeding in an orderly and satisfactory manner. Our applications come from intelligent young men who realize that the advanced technical training of the Navy is well worth the longer period of service and will provide them with a secure future as a technical expert," said the Commander.

In some years, some cars take a big jump ahead. The Ford does that for 1941.

It has jumped ahead in size. It's the biggest Ford we've ever built, inside and out. It's wider. It has a longer wheelbase. Its seating room is wider by as much as 7 inches. It has new wide doors and semi-concealed running boards.

You'll notice also a new beauty, achieved by a skilful blending of mass with longer flowing lines. Larger windshield and windows give better vision all around.

One of its biggest advantages is the new soft ride.

New, slower-action springs give a slow, gentle, gliding movement. A newly designed stabilizer helps absorb road shocks, and maintains balance on sharp curves and in cross winds.

More rapid acceleration to match its familiar speed and power makes this new Ford an even livelier car to drive.

These are only a few of this new car's outstanding features. It represents all the rich experience gained in building more than 28 million motor cars.

Any Ford dealer can give you many good reasons for making this your 1941 car.
