David Mallory, in search of newspaper work in New York, is forced to accept a job as switch-board of erator in a swank apartment house, manaked by officious Timothy Higgins. There David meets Miss Agatha Paget, a crippled old lady, and her charming niece, Allegra. One day, talking with Higgins in the lobby, David is alarmed by a piercing scream. David finds the scream came from the Ferriter apartment, not far from the Pagets'. The Ferriters include Lyon and Everett, and their sister, Ione. Everett, a genealogist, is helping Agatha Paget write a book about her blueblooded ancestors. Inside the apartment they find a black-bearded man—dead. No weapon can be found. The police arrive. Higgins, who actively dislikes David, informs him that he is fired. David is called to the Paget apartment. There he finds elderly, prim-appearing Agatha Paget sipping a cocktail. She offers him a job helping write her family history—which will unearth a few family skeletons. He' accepts the offer. Meanwhile, police suspect Lyon Ferriter of the murder.

"The fine old Mallory luck still holds," I said. "You're about three hours too late."

I told of my discharge by Higgins and the life-line Miss Paget had thrown me. Cochrane heard me through with his pink face quiet, but his eyes were narrower when I fin-

"I don't know why you're balking," he said. "You're sitting pretty, right in a family that lives across the way from the Ferriters, a family that's taking care of the girl tonight and that hires one of the broth-

I felt better, but I was still both ered.

"Look," I said. "This old lady has been more than white to me. If I throw in with you, I'm doublecrossing her." "You think maybe the Pagets had a hand in it?" he asked softly and that stung me. "Why-" I began, so hotly that he grinned and looked like a rowdy cherub. "All right, all right," he soothed. "Then if they're in the clear, how are you crossing them? Mallory, this town is paved with good newspaper men who would give one hand for your chance. Better take it."

I nodded agreement at last. For a moment I had the good feeling inside that at last the breaks were going my way. Then I said:

"I don't know why you think the story is still so hot, after Lyon Ferriter's pinch."

"What!" he said as though I had struck him. I repeated what Fineman had told me.

"Holy, suffering martyrs," he jerked beneath his breath and shoved back his chair. "And here I've been sitting. Shannon's been holding out again, the dirty tramp. So long, fella. Wait. I'll see youlet me think. Right here. Three tomorrow. G'by."

He rose, thrust his check at the cashier and vanished with a wheeze of the revolving door. I ate a piece of pie and then another before I followed him.

Mrs. Shaw was suspicious when she answered her doorbell, but after I had paid a week in advance for the room I had used during my first month in New York and had redeemed my trunk as well, she was glad to see me back.

I took all my things from my trunk. I thought, as I hung them up, of Allegra Paget and the ghastly uniform in which she first had seen me. I should have dreamed of her that night, by all standards of remance and Freud, but I didn't. I was too tired to dream of any-

I took a long time dressing. My shoes had to be shined and my hair needed cutting.

I had barely time for a cup of coffee and arrived a little out of breath before the Morello where Higgins, once more arrayed in maroon and gilt, glared at me.

"I'll trouble ye, Mallory," he growled, "for the key of me flat downstairs. And I told ye to move your things last night."

I gave him the key and told him I would call for the suitcase later. I meant to gall him by my manner and I must have for he turned redder and muttered something about upstarts and "that old so-and-so upstairs," I grinned. "Miss So-and-so to you," I said, and went on in.

The patrician gloom of the Morello had been proof against yesterday's upheaval. Hoyt beamed at me as he took me upstairs, and muttered congratulations. Shannon, emerging from the Ferriter flat as I stepped from the elevator, was not so cordial. He followed me into the Paget apartment. Sunlight on the opposite whitewashed wall of the air shaft filled Miss Agatha's dining room with a soft reflected cheer. The sun had been no more visibly marked by the day before than the old lady her-She sat in her wheel chair at the table's head, white-haired and sharp. Grosvenor, sullen from lost If there's anything you want, there's sleep, looked far less competent. "Good morning, David," Miss Agatha said precisely. "Captain

"That's where Lyon is hanging out," Shannon growled.
"Possibly," Miss Agatha agreed,

Her question made the Captain angrier. His thick neck bulged over his collar.

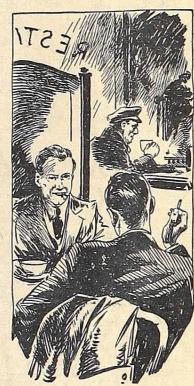

"He has not. We took him in for questioning, that was all. He's told the truth as far as we can prove it. He ate at Mino's and washed up beforehand at the Grand Central, like he says. We have nothing to hold him on. Before we were through with him, his lawyer sprung him. I'd like to know who tipped off the papers last night, I would indeed.

I looked across the air shaft at a window of the Ferriter flat. There was movement behind it, where Shannon's subordinates still searched for the missing weapon.

"Someone," the Captain said in a surly voice, "killed that man. That's why I want to see Ione Ferriter." Color crept into Grosvenor's handsome face. He blurted. "Ione of all persons. What utter Grosvenor's voice shook.

"I know what you dumb cops do. first crack," he shrilled. "If you're too thick to understand a thing, you try to pin it on a woman. Why don't you accuse my aunt? She lives here too. Ione Ferriter knows no more about this thing than-than you do."

He choked and water slopped from the glass in his hand. He drank with hot eyes still fixed on Shannon. Miss Agatha said dryly:

"I'd suggest, Grove, that you pull yourself together and get on downtown. If you will dance all night, you're bound to be jittery in the morning.'

The lad hesitated, rose and flung himself out of the room. Shannon asked without expres-

"It's the Babylon they're stayin" at, Miss Paget?" Miss Agatha looked at him with studious care.

"It is," she said at last.

He let his eyes rest on me a second, nodded and left the room. Miss Agatha pushed her wheel chair back from the table and propelled it toward the hall. "Somehow," she said half to herself, "an outburst at breakfast makes me feel young again. It's as if my own dear father still were alive. In here, David."

We entered the chamber into which I had carried her yesterday. She pointed to the paper-laden desk. "In the top drawer," she said, "you'll find my outline for a first chapter, together with Everett Ferriter's bowdlerizing expansion. When you've read his work, you'll know how I don't want the book written. The dossiers of the Pagets from the first Calvert-who incidentally got a baronetcy under Charles II for double-crossing the Protectorate-are there. You might read them, too. It'll be a long day's work, I said it would be, didn't I?

a call-bell on the desk's edge." She nodded briskly and wheeled her chair about with deft hands. As Shannon, one more call and I'll have she rolled toward the door, she said over her shoulder in a mild scathing voice:

"Mr. Ferriter is still too shaken by yesterday's happenings to work. nesses," said he. "I'd like to see I suppose if Captain Shannon calls Ione Ferriter a minute if you at the Babylon, he will have another relapse."

I thought I heard her chuckle as she trundled away.

All morning I plowed through the uncensored annals of the Paget ancestry-quotations from innumerable books, excerpts from court records, old letters and the like-all compiled, no doubt with frequent shudders, by Everett Ferriter, genealogist.

When someone moved in the hall, I found my eyes jumping from the scandalous annals before me to the open door. My heart would pound and then, when nothing happened, I would swear and bend again to my work.

Once, in midmorning, I heard Allegra laugh in the dining room. To-ward noon Miss Agatha rolled herself in. "Well," she asked, "do you begin to see why I wanted a newspaper man to write it?"

"I begin to see," I told her, "that a book like this would sell." She lit a cigarette, blew smoke through her nose and shook her head.

"I know," she said. "One of those literary strip dances. I'm a sinful Jesus Himself regarding human afold woman, David, but I'm not selling the bones of my ancestors, no matter what I think of their owners. This book will be a family affair. Allegra and I are going out to lunch and you better, too.'

I thought of my date with Cochrane and shook my head.

"I had a late breakfast. I'll slip out later. There's a lot of reading still ahead of me."

"If you can't finish today," began, but I cut her short. "If I'm not in the way, I'll stay till I've finished. Then we can talk it over tomorrow morning and get to work.' "You're an obstinate person, aren't you?" Miss Agatha asked, and grinned.

"Aren't you?" I asked her. She chuckled and turned her chair. Her warmth almost made me halt her and confess my arrangement with Cochrane, but I hesitated and then she was gone.

Later I saw Allegra push her aunt's wheel chair past the door. She did not look toward me and I took my mind by the scruff and jammed it back into its job so thoroughly that it was ten minutes past the time appointed when I recalled my tryst with Cochrane.

"You and me both," he answered. 'Let's order and then solve it."

"What have we got? We know who had keys to the flat. All right, one of the Ferriters or your friend Higgins did it. Let's not kid ourselves. One of them did. Yesterday noon, while you were away, and Higgins may have been downstairs, and the other guy-this Hoyt-may have been upstairs with the elevator, is the only time Blackbeard and his able assassin could have got in. All right again. Then it wasn't a planned murder because they couldn't have known that luck would leave the way clear. But it wasn't unintentional, at that. For they walked upstairs. As soon as the killer knew they hadn't been seen, he began to design slaughter. Right?'

"As far as you've gone," I agreed. (TO BE CONTINUED)

Utensils for Making Candy. Saucepans should have broad bottoms, and should be large enough to allow for "boiling up." The inside surface should be smooth, because rough spots may cause candies to stick and burn.

Measuring cups -use standard measuring cups for successful results; accurate measurements are essential. Spoons and spatulas - wooden spoons are desirable for candy making because they do not become uncomfortably hot, nor does the wooden spoon handle cut into one's hand during beating. Use standard tablespoons and teaspoons for measuring. A medium-sized spatula is a help in scraping candy from kettles, and lifting candy from the pan. Baking sheets, platters and pans-ordinary cookie sheets provide a good surface for pouring hard candies; large platters may be used for taffy, which is to be taken out and pulled, or for fondant which is to be beaten. A marble slab from an oldfashioned marble-topped table or bureau makes an excellent smooth, level surface for pouring candies.

Candy thermometer-a thermometer is essential in order to obtain uniform and good results in making candy.

Candies are classified as "creamy candies," such as fondant or fudge, and as "taffies" and "hard" candies, like nut brittle and lollipops.

In making creamy candies two rules must be observed: cook the ing the all-powerful Saviour, who is able and willing to deliver. Jesus candy to a definite temperature, and cool to room temperature before you begin to beat.

III. Perverted Solicitude (vv. 14-

It is a splendid thing to be concerned about good order, proper procedure and decorum, especially in the house of God. But when there is a human need and the Son of God meets that need by the working of His power, it is both folly and hypocrisy to obstruct or become angry because one's own interpretation of the proper order of things has been set aside.

This man, who as a religious leader should have realized that the need of humanity came above his consideration for the beast of the field (vv. 15, 16), and who should have rejoiced that the Son of God had done this miracle in the synagogue, rightly deserved the swift and stinging rebuke of Jesus. His objection was not really to the violation of the Sabbath, but to the working of God. Such men need rebuke.

Butterscotch Nut Marshmallows.

1 cup light brown sugar

½ cup cream

1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract 1/4 teaspoon salt

½ pound marshmallows 34 cup nut meats (finely chopped) Place brown sugar, cream, vanilla extract, and salt in a saucepan. Cook slowly, stirring frequently to the soft ball stage (236 grees). Remove from flame and place sauce-pan over hot water to keep mixture from cooling. Coat marshmallows with the butterscotch mixture and then roll immediately in the finely chopped nut meats. Place on a buttered platter until cold. Red and Green Popcorn Balls. (Makes 10 balls)

2 cups sugar

2 tablespoons light corn syrup 1½ cups water

1 teaspoon vanilla extract Red or green liquid coloring 3 quarts popped corn

Combine sugar, corn syrup and water, and cook in a saucepan, stirring until the sugar is dissolved. Continue cooking until the temperature 290 degrees is reached, or until a few drops of the syrup becomes brittle when dropped into cold water. Add vanilla extract and a few drops of red or green coloring. Stir sufficiently to mix the coloring evenly. Pour the cooked syrup over the popped corn, which has been sprin-kled with salt; stir well, and form into balls with the hands, using little pressure.

Chocolate Fudge. (Makes 36 14-inch squares)

2 tablespoons butter cups sugar

A NEW YEAR'S MESSAGE

As We Enter the New Year, it is Well to Take Inventory of Our Great Northeastern Michigan Resources, Both Natural and Physical.

IOSCO COUNTY IS RICHLY ENDOWED WITH NATURAL RESOURCES FAMILIAR TO EVERY ONE FOR WE COME IN CONFACT WITH THEM DAILY. THIS IS NOT TRUE OF OUR PHYSICAL RESOURCES THAT IN THE COMMUNITY ARE HIDDEN TO VIEW BUT NEVERTHELESS CONTAIN MANY VALUABLE AND INTERESTING ASSETS.

- 1. The Detroit and Mackinac Railway Company maintained an average employment of 143 persons in Iosco County in 1940 and paid salaries and wages of $200,164.44 to these employees with a monthly average of $140.00 per person. With few exceptions all these 143 employees reside in the Tawases.
- 2. The Detroit and Mackinac Railway Company owns 35.5 acres used for station grounds, shop and yard facilities and an additional acreage for sale or lease to any incoming industry of 13 acres within the city limits of the Tawases.
- 3. The Detroit and Mackinac Railway Company's Tawas facilities comprise machine shops, freight car and woodworking shops, paint and coach shops, freight car repair yards, 16 stall engine house, sawmill, tie treating plant, store buildings, depot and general office building, all laying within the cities' limits.
- 4. Industries within Iosco County are served by 9.511 miles of team and industrial trackage.
- 5. Iosco County received from railroad taxes alone this year $10,500 for its primary school fund.
- 6. The Detroit and Mackinac Railway Company operates four mail and passenger trains through the Tawases each week day and two on Sunday with through direct service to Detroit and Chiago. Daily freight service is furnished north and south and connections maintained for every point in the United States and Canada. Fast merchandise schedules to and from the Tawases with Detroit and Chicago are operated daily.
- 7. The Detroit and Mackinac Railway Company call for and deliver freight shipments within the city limits of the Tawases, a service without cost found only in cities with large populations.
- 8. The Detroit and Mackinac Railway Company is the only independently operated railroad of its class in Michigan.

THE DETROIT AND MACKINAC RAILWAY COMPANY, ITS OFFICERS AND EMPLOYEES FIRM-LY BELIEVE IN THE POLICY OF RECIPROCAL BUSINESS RELATIONS FOR WITHOUT IT WE CANNOT HAVE PROSPERITY. WE GRATEFULLY ACKNOWLEDGE WITH THANKS YOUR PATRONAGE DURING THE PAST YEAR. WE WILL APPRECIATE AN OPPORTUNITY TO SERVE YOU AND THE COMMUNITY DURING THE NEW YEAR. MAY IT BE A HAPPY AND PROSPEROUS YEAR FOR ALL.

'More Aid to Great Britain' Problem Faces Opening Sessions of Congress; Tempo of Attacks on Italy Stepped Up; Report 'Heavy' British Shipping Losses

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

77TH CONGRESS: Washington Gloomy

As the new congress comes into being, it meets in a Washington that is marked by a mood far from optimism. There is public talk, which may be nothing more, that Britain has only a 90-day grace period before Hitler strikes hard-and that Britain is far from well prepared and American "aid" has fallen

The first job of the new congress will be to stir the public, industry and labor out of that lethargy. Efforts already have begun in speeches by Defense Chief William Knudsen, and Secretaries Stimson

The topic of all is the same: It is much later than you think. They hope by painting the defense picture in its true colors to convince workers, employees and the general public that there must be an immediate all-out arms production and all other considerations — labor's right and profits-must step aside until the job is done.

New Board

One step in this direction was appointment by President Roosevelt of a new super-production board on defense. It has been given complete executive authority-all the constitution allows, according to the President-to act in the name of the government. The national advisory defense council which has been carry ing on the work up until this time has been pure that, advisory. It lacked authority.

The new board will have authority, probably more than most people expect, and will crack down. Knudsen has been named chairman and Sidney Hillman, C. I. O. vice president and enemy of John L. Lewis, is vice chairman. War Secretary Stimson and Navy Secretary Knox are the other members.

Job Ahead

The job is monumental. Army housing is 60 per cent behind schedule with only 300,000 soldiers on active duty, out of a contemplated 1,400,000. Not a single airplane ordered since congress voted money last July has been delivered. If any tanks have been delivered it is a secret. When it was decided to build one munitions plant and work on construction more than 40 hours a week, that was "news."

Most startling of all was the lack of realization on the part of too many that in this war those nations which sensed their danger too late have reached their war potentialities too late-or not at all.

Shopping—Lady Decies, the former Elizabeth Drexel of Philadelphia who married Social Leader Harry Lehr in the gay 90s and moved to Paris, returned home. She told of shopping in occupied Paris. In one store she had decided to buy a coat when a fat, uniformed man reached across the counter, seized it and said, "I'll take this for my wife." Lady Decies walked away. The man in uniform was General Goering.

all Europe would bow to his whim. But times change and sometimes men change too. Lord Halifax now is described as one of the most determined men in England in sup-port of the war effort. The death of Lord Lothian, British ambassador to the United States, gives Lord Halifax a new task. He steps down from the foreign ministry, where he directed ambassadors, to become an ambassador himself, being assigned to Washington.

WAR ON ITALY:

Fearful of being too optimistic, but still hopefully, the eyes of the democratic nations were turned on Italy. Reverses for the Fascist legions were reported by the Greeks in Albania and by the British in Egypt. There were continued reports of falling morale on the home

The forward march of the kilted Greek Evzones in Albania appeared to be slowed down. There were desperate counter-attacks by the Italians and some towns were retaken. But the Greeks were certain it was just a momentary halt and the march north could be resumed.

From Africa, Field Marshal Rodolfo Graziani reported to the Duce on why his Egyptian campaign had been such a dismal failure; and why after making a 75-mile advance into British territory he halted for three months and then suffered a serious

He said he had not received mechanical equipment from home which had been promised to him. Even before the British attacked and drove him far back into Libya, he reported, he knew of their plans. He denied the campaign against him was a surprise and said that so many Italians, reportedly as high as 80,000, were lost because they chose to fight into the "last spasm" rather than retreat.

But excuses don't win battles, and good reason or no, the Libyan forces had lost all their gains and were in a desperate plight to save the remnants of their army. The British indicated that an even more extensive blow was being aimed and hinted much of Libya may be in their hands by spring.

Even the British navy mocked the Italians. In broad daylight, with flags flying and openly inviting attack, a squadron of the royal navy swept through the Straits of Otranto and into the Adriatic, Mussolini's private lake. It was an open dare to the Italians to come out and fight, but no Fascist man-o'-war appeared. So the British crossed over to Valona, Albanian port used by Mussolini's forces, and turned their guns on the harbors. Then they sailed

ANGER IN BERLIN: Sharp Words to U.S.

The official Nazi spokesman turned a wrathful tongue loose on the United States. The American policy of giving all aid to Britain "short of war" appeared heading toward a critical stage.

The spokesman said American foreign policy was one of "pinpricks, injury, challenge and moral aggression" against Germany. On the other hand, he said, the Reich had "exercised restraint to the point of self-effacement." He talked of "warlike acts.'

Crux of the irritation was a state-ment by British Minister of Shipping Ronald Cross who told report ers England "looks with a covetous eye" on every ton of shipping in American ports. The transfer of "a certain number of enemy snips, plus United States ships was seen by him as the only way for "replenishments of any consequences."

The British shipping situation was admittedly serious. In the past several weeks U-boats have accounted for an average of three British vessels each day. The losses in tonnage are not as severe as during the World war, but the British have fewer ships, and cannot rely on Allies as they could in 1917.

The American merchant marine is now estimated at 1,600,000 tons. Also there are about 470,000 tons of German ships in American ports, waiting out the war.

"The Reich," said the Berlin spokesman, "is therefore centering its entire attention upon America's reaction." Mussolini jumped into the argument the following day. Through his editorial spokesman, Virginia Gayda, he called attention to the Berlin policy and said, "Me, too."

CROP NEWS:

Wheat and Hogs The department of agriculture made two announcements of interest to farmers and food buyers. The first was that the 1941 wheat crop again would be above the 10-year average which is 571,067,000 bushels. The estimate of the 1941 yield was 633,000,000 bushels. In 1940 the crop gave 589,151,000 bushels and in 1939 569,741,000 bushels.

Economists also predicted an increase of between 16 and 32 per cent in hog prices by March and an even larger increase in the retail figure for pork. They said it was quite probable that hogs, now averaging about $6.25 per hundred pounds in Chicago, would be selling $1 to $2 higher before winter is over.

Schiaparelli Says ing to return to France Cost Fetters Our soon, the fa-Art of Creation mous dress-maker finds that Americans are too much given to money-grubbing to appreciate the beautiful art of couture. "The Paris designer is free," she says, but here in America "in creating a costume you must think about cost." So she's going back to Paris where art is unfettered and nobody worries about Molyneux fled, to make gowns in London, but Lucien Lelong, the new Judge Landis of the French fashion industry, remains in the service of art-not money of course. The latter implication might suggest that Paris as a continuing world style center is somehow geared into Chancellor Hitler's jug - handled economy, and that, of course is a rather gauche idea. In Herr Hitler's new order, it's art for art's sake.

Soon after the occupation of Paris, Mme. Schiaparelli arrived here to begin a national lecture tour. We seemed to be suffering from much misapprehension about France. It was business as usual in Paris, and anyone who fancied that New York might become the world style center had another thought coming. However, she reserved her apostrophe of art against money for the last.

Addressing the Junior League of Los Angeles recently, she said: "All of us in Paris are impressed by the generosity of American men regarding their women. American men have a world-wide reputation for the money they spend on women. "I say bravo to you! Go right ahead."

I had an idea that the French felt that way a few years ago when I was privileged to see some of the inner workings of Lanvin's establishment in Paris, to talk to the vendeuses and witness the deference to a Texas oil magnate, when he came in to help his wife choose

Mme. Schiaparelli lived five years in New York. Her daughter, Marisa, was born in her Ninth street house in Greenwich Village. That was before the days of her fame and opulence, and she thought about money a great deal in those days.

Taking an unheated flat in Patchin place, a dingy little nubbin of a street off Jefferson Market court, she found a $20 bill on the floor. It was a good omen. Other money came and she returned to a garret in Paris, to write poetry. A sweater design brought her into her career. For one who scorns money she is a masterful and diligent business woman, her huge establishment turning out around 10,000 garments a year at prices up to $5,000. Of a distinguished Italian family of astronomers and scholars, she has been described by Edna Le Fevre as "a woman nobody can know, absorbed with books on metaphys-ics, aesthetics and philosophy."

After 32 years he appears with his critically important inven-tion. He got a job with a wireless station in Sacramento, and was soon throwing his voice farther than anybody else in those parts. He later worked with Lee De Forrest and by 1932 had brought through a "cold light" radio tube. He started work on his jet expulsion or "rocket" motor four years ago. Engineers say it may increase the speed of fighting planes by 200 miles an hour.

Softening Rubber Articles

Practically all rubber articles which have grown hard and lost their elasticity may be softened by a simple process utilizing glycerine. First cleanse the article by scrubbing thoroughly with a brush dipped in warm water and place in a solution of one part of ammonia to two parts of water allowing it to remain an hour or so until the ammonia has evaporated. Then rinse with a dilute solution of glycerine and water, wipe off and dry. This handy idea is borrowed from the rubber in dustry where glycerine is used extensively in various points of processing.

Wall Linoleums

An interesting combination for modern kitchens can be found in matched wall and floor linoleums. Wall linoleum, as a treatment for side walls, reflects the qualities that have made it popular for floors. Harmonious wall and floor blends are obtainable. Another use of wall linoleum, said by builders to be growing in popularity, is in shower stalls.
