

TAWAS CITY

Will Observe "Winter Sports Day" In Isosco

4 PROGRAMS TO BE GIVEN IN COUNTY

Tawas City, Silver Valley, Whittemore and Oscoda

If you have never been to a moccasin dance on ice, tried fashioning figures out of packed snow or made sitzkmarks with a pair of skis...

According to Annie L. Becker, State Supervisor of WPA Recreation, Winter Sports Play Day, she said, is designed to acquaint Michigan children and adults with the opportunities for outdoor winter recreation...

There will be no primary election for the office of circuit judge in this district this spring. No one has filed in opposition to Judge Herman Dehnke...

Secretary of State Kelly announced this Wednesday to the county clerks of the State, a majority of the people of the county are satisfied with the fact that Judge Dehnke is without opposition...

Should the weather man fail to give some Michigan areas the cold shoulder in not favoring them with snow for the activities, a substitute indoor program will be offered.

Following is a list of winter sports facilities which are supervised by the WPA Recreation Department, in Isosco county:

Municipal skating rink located next to disposal plant, Tawas City.

Two skating rinks located in City park, Oscoda, also coasting and toboggan hill three blocks northwest of high school.

Silver Valley winter sports, located in the Huron National Forest.

The above projects are under the local sponsorship of R. E. Crowell, Forest Commissioner of Huron National Forest, Russell A. Rollin, School Commissioner of Isosco county, George Myles, Chief of Police of Tawas City, and Fred Adams, General Chairman of the East Tawas Winter Sports.

A cordial invitation is extended to the public asking you to visit and participate in these free activities, not only on the "Winter Sports Play Day," Saturday, February 1, but every day for the remainder of the winter sports season.

Don't miss it!

Rev. Thomas W. Albin Passes Away Monday

Rev. Thomas W. Albin, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic church at Manistee, died Monday after an illness of six weeks. Rev. Albin was a former pastor of St. Joseph's Catholic church, leaving East Tawas in 1920.

He was a graduate of the University of Ontario School of Medicine and he received an honorary doctor of laws degree from that university in 1935.

Rev. Albin had served in the Grand Rapids diocese for more than 35 years and had been a pastor at Onaway and Ludington as well as East Tawas before going to Manistee.

Plainfield Farm Home Burns During Night

Mrs. George Lake, of Plainfield township, was awakened by the crackling of flames Wednesday night. She roused her husband who found the upper floor of their home in flames.

Thankful that they had awakened in time, they and their three children gathered up a few clothes and a desk of papers and made their way to the barn where they dressed. The house was beyond saving. Help was summoned by telephone, but heavy snow blocked the road and the firefighters made the last lap of their trip on foot. All of the outbuildings were saved. The family will live for the present in the old Hobart house.

Evangelistic Services at Whittemore

Evangelistic meetings are in progress at the Whittemore Methodist church, beginning Wednesday evening, January 29, and continuing through until Sunday, February 16, every evening at 7:45, except Saturday, February 1, but every other Saturday night during the meetings.

Rev. Wm. Loukes, of Bay City, the pastor's uncle, will speak each night from Wednesday, January 29, until Monday, February 3, except Saturday night. Rev. Loukes is pastor of the Glad Tidings Tabernacle in Bay City.

Beginning Tuesday evening, February 4, and continuing through to February 16, Evangelist Raymond Smith, of Lansing, will be the speaker. Rev. Smith is a very able speaker and singer, having been preaching for about 17 years, being converted in a Salvation Army meeting, and preached for them for about six years. He has just closed a meeting in Saginaw where hundreds gathered each night, and over one hundred found Christ at an altar of prayer.

He is a very accomplished specialty singer and bird whistler. With his singing he accompanies himself on a guitar. He has been offered attractive propositions to whistle in public and over the radio, but has refused them all to preach, sing and whistle the Gospel of Christ.

The Pastor Rev. H. C. Watkins asks the cooperation of all churches to pray and attend these meetings.

PRESIDENT OF D. & M. RY. DIES MONDAY

H. K. McHarg Had Been Interested in Road Since 1897

Henry K. McHarg, Sr., of Ridgefield, Conn., president of the Detroit & Mackinac railway, died at midnight Monday following an illness of six hours. A heart attack was the cause of death. On February 6 Mr. McHarg would have been 90 years of age. He had been spending the winter in Florida.

Mr. McHarg was one of the principal stockholders in the Detroit & Mackinac Railroad company and had been interested in the road since 1897. He is survived by the widow; one son, Henry K. McHarg, Jr., a former vice president and general manager of the railroad company; and one daughter living in Switzerland.

Funeral services will be Saturday afternoon at Ridgefield. Charles A. Pinkerton, vice president and general manager of the Detroit & Mackinac railroad, will go from here to attend the funeral.

J. W. Applin Celebrates Eightieth Birthday

Last Saturday evening, January 25, a birthday dinner was served at the Applin home in honor of John W. Applin, of East Tawas. The occasion was his 80th birthday anniversary. Johnny Applin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Applin, was also honored, his seventh birthday being the day following, on January 26.

The dinner was served at 6:30 to 17 relatives. Those present were the families of James F. Mark, Roy Applin and Harmon E. Boice; guests from Detroit were Phil Applin, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Stockdale and Mrs. Leslie English.

After dinner, birthday gifts were opened. Mr. Applin also received telegrams, messages and gifts from Florida and Detroit.

John W. Applin was born in Sweden, January 25, 1861, and came to Isosco county 70 years ago, and has lived here since.

Charles Grabow

Charles Grabow, 54, of Baldwin township, passed away Tuesday morning at Samaritan Hospital, Bay City, at seven o'clock. He had suffered with sugar diabetes for many years.

He was born July 28, 1886, in Baldwin township, and lived there all his life. He is survived by three children, Mrs. Minnie Lorenz, Albert Grabow at home, and George Grabow, of Whittemore.

Funeral services were held Thursday from the Latter Day Saints church at 2:30, with Elder Stephen Barr officiating. Interment was in the Tawas City cemetery.

District Health Notes

Tolfree Memorial Hospital, West Branch, is indeed fortunate that it has been given a new incubator as a loan from District Health Unit No. 2 which in turn is a loan from the State Department of Health, Lansing.

Dr. Allen H. Moyer, State Health Commissioner, remarked, "We are going to loan the incubators to communities selected on an experimental basis, to see what can be done with this important problem of infant care."

Edith Reinke, nurse's assistant, of Tawas City, has been transferred to Ogemaw county for one month, while Miss Norma Preston has taken her place in the Tawas City court house. Miss Reinke is living with Mrs. Gillespie at West Branch.

20th Century Club Will Serve "Patriotic Tea"

The Civic and Social committees of the Twentieth Century club will serve a "Patriotic Tea" on Saturday, February 8, at 2:30 p. m. in the club rooms.

A splendid program is being prepared and a tasty lunch will be served all for 25cents. The main feature of the program will be the showing of moving pictures of Mexico, by Miss Margaret Murphy, which were taken on her trip to Mexico last summer. Members will please notice the change of date.

There is only one way to get the benefit and pleasure from the club year and that is to attend and take part in the meetings.

Each member is requested to invite guests.

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood. You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, feeling up nights, leg pains, swelling, getting constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination. Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by great doctors everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

Hidden Ways

By FREDERIC F. VAN DE WATER

SYNOPSIS

David Mallory, in search of newspaper work as switch-board operator in a swank apartment house, managed by officious Timothy Higgins. There David meets Miss Agatha Paget, a crippled old lady, and her charming niece, Allegra. One day, talking with Higgins in the lobby, David is alarmed by a piercing scream. David finds the scream came from the Ferriter apartment, not far from the Pagets. David enters the house and finds a black-bearded man—dead. No weapon can be found. The police arrive. Higgins, who actively dislikes David, informs him that he is to keep on working in the Ferriter apartment. Agatha Paget offers him a job helping write her family history—which will unearth a few family skeletons. He accepts the offer. Meanwhile, police suspect Lyon Ferriter of the murder. Jerry Cochran of the Press offers David a job helping solve the murder. David accepts. He is to keep on working for Miss Paget. Later David meets Grosvenor Paget, Allegra's brother. Then, that night, David sees Grosvenor prowling through the Ferriter apartment. David confronts Grosvenor with the story. He is told to mind his own business. Then David goes to Higgins' basement flat to retrieve his luggage. In the darkness he brushes against an unknown person, and in attempting to capture him, falls over his own suitcase. David's landlady tells him that a woman had called upon him. The mysterious lady would leave no message or name.

Agatha had been on the threshold. Nothing in her face gave us a clue. She rolled into the room and spoke crisply: "It's bad enough to be a refuge for all my family's grief-smitten, without posing as aunt to the New York City police. Captain Shannon has been telephoning. Lyon Ferriter escaped from the Babylon last night."

"How long," I asked suddenly, "did he stay after I left?" "There was a glitter in her eyes. "About a quarter-hour," she informed me, "and I'd be quite content, David, if you'd confine your criminal investigations for the present to my own ancestry."

"Yes, Miss Paget," I said with meekness that made her chuckle. I know now she had heard at least the conclusion of my talk with her niece. She turned to Allegra. "Lunch in a half-hour, my dear," she said, and the girl left the room.

"He seemed pleased," I replied —to see me and my bag spread all over the floor.

The old lady started to follow and paused. "David," said she, "I hope your head is stronger than I've any reason to think it is."

"I hope it's stronger than I think it is," I answered. She lingered an instant and then nodded.

"Perhaps," she comforted, "it's better than either of us thinks," and trundled herself away.

The door opened. Allegra looked in. "A message from Miss Paget," she said with mock gravity. "There is an extra place at the table this noon that she wishes you would occupy. Mr. Everett Ferriter is indisposed again."

CHAPTER IX

Linen's frosty glow, the cool glitter of silver and china were like friends long absent. They lifted my morale. I caught Allegra's glance as Lyon helped her into the chair beside his, and grinned. I sat between Lyon and Miss Agatha with Ferriter opposite, on her right hand, and I selected the bouillon spoon boldly, because I thought they might wonder if I could.

I found myself disliking the scent Lyon wore and her as well, for no clear reason other than that I objected to sultry brunettes.

My neighbor said in her husky voice: "I haven't thanked you, Mr. Mallory, for what you did that—awful night."

I wondered if it were only the shock of that evening that harried her now.

"Thank me," I asked, "for treating you rough?"

"Exactly. I needed it. I don't usually—fall apart like that."

Lyon spoke with the odd devotion in his eyes he reserved for his sister.

"She really doesn't. She wintered with me in Alaska, but that, after all, isn't preparation for finding—" He checked himself and turned to Miss Agatha with an apologetic movement of his hands.

"I beg pardon. There is no excuse for dragging—" "Nonsense," the old lady cut in. "My dear man, closets are the worst possible places for skeletons. It's far more wholesome to leave them out in the air. If you can stand it."

"We have to," he said a little grimly. "Until the police get there could not have done it."

I had wished, a half-hour earlier, that I might be included among Miss Paget's guests. Now I was unhappy. I knew too much and suspected too much more. I was tense and saw portents in actions outwardly innocent. For a moment, I had thought Lyon's seizure had concealed terror. Now the sanity of the well-ordered lunch, the calm beauty of the room, the decorous speech of its occupants jeered at my suspicions.

The talk veered away to less intense matters. The meal was closing when Miss Agatha said suddenly: "Allegra, Grove called up while you were dressing. He won't be home till late. You will have to find another escort for the opera tonight."

The girl nodded without expression and for an instant her eyes strayed to Lyon who asked the old lady: "You don't go, Miss Paget?"

The composure in her rich voice once more mocked my suspicion. Miss Agatha shook her head. "My dear," said she, "I was reared in the Paget tradition. I went to the opera as regularly as I went to church. Being a cripple, I had no conflicting engagements. I went. I still have my father's seats. Allegra and Grove pretend to like it. I grew tired long ago of hearing nonsense sung in one language by folks who speak another, to people who don't understand either."

"As a rule," Lyon said, "operas could stand a deal of editing."

"Extermination," Miss Agatha told him, "is the better word."

I laughed and so did he, and catching my eye, he asked: "By the way, were you coming out of the cellar last night when I left?"

Once more my spine prickled—I thought that a hidden something lurked beneath that easy question. Out of the murk a new theory suddenly jumped at me. Perhaps the prostrated Everett after all had been my basement antagonist. I gathered my wits and tried to drive into the open whatever fear hid behind Lyon's query.

"Yes."

He smiled. "After I passed, I thought it had been you. At the moment I imagined that it was just another defective following me around. I haven't dared look under the table this noon, Miss Paget, for fear of finding one."

"I can vouch for this company," Miss Agatha said dryly, "unless David is one in disguise." I wondered what she meant but Allegra asked, mockingly:

"Just a social call on Casanova?"

Out of an eye corner, I saw that Lyon held her fork motionless above her salad.

"No," I said. "I went to get my suitcase. I didn't see Higgins till later."

"Later?" Ione repeated. I looked at her, but her make-up might have been a mask.

"You see," I told her, "the helpful Higgins had left the suitcase in the basement hall. I fell over it, which pleased him, I think."

"The swine," said Lyon and his calm disappointed gaze. "That's how you hurt yourself, eh?"

He nodded at my trampled left hand. I shook my head, weighing the merits of reticence and complete exposure. I chose the former and merely said:

"No. Someone else gave me that."

"I hope," said Miss Agatha and bit that invisible thread, "that you skinned it on Timothy's jaw."

"He seemed pleased," I replied, "when he came out and turned on the lights, to see me and my bag spread all over the floor."

With the others, I followed Miss Agatha's chair into the living room and looked at my watch.

"It's time," I told the old lady, "that I stopped being a guest and became an employee."

Ione, bright and exotic as a tropic bird, smiled at me as I backed toward the hall door. Lyon's right hand went through the movements of the sword salute.

"Oh, I say," he checked me as I turned to leave, "why not stop in when you leave this afternoon? I'd really like to have you see my collection of blades, if you'd be interested."

"Thanks," I said, finding no way to refuse without seeming churlish, "I'd be glad to."

"Splendid. At what time?" "Between five and six?"

"Right. I'll be looking for you. I wish there were room for us to fence a bit, but I'm afraid that's impossible."

"I'm glad there isn't," I told him; "I'm very rusty," and went back to the workroom.

It was five when I finished and, under Annie's convoy, took the completed copy to my employer. She sat in the living room at her version of afternoon tea—solitaire, a cigarette and a highball.

I waited while she read the script slowly and without expression. When she had laid the last page aside, she said:

"You're very able as well as willful. You've done it exactly as I should—if I had your gift. Will you take Allegra to the opera this evening?"

The question, flung at me while I was a little unsettled by her approval—I had not had much praise in the last few weeks—was like a punch in the stomach. I gapped. She chose to misread my confusion.

"A purely business proposition. Allegra was going with Grove. All the other young men she knows have engagements. She can't very well go by herself and if you'll escort her—"

"I can send in my bill tomorrow?" I asked. "No, Miss Paget. I'm busy this evening."

"There are times, David Mallory, when I could slap you," Miss Agatha said and sat very straight in her wheel chair.

"That goes double," I answered. She chuckled. She liked defiance. (TO BE CONTINUED)

FEBRUARY HOSTESS? TREAT GUESTS TO A PATRIOTIC TEA (See Recipes Below.)

FEBRUARY IS A PARTY MONTH

February is a party month; every hostess calendar should have the twelfth, the fourteenth, and the twenty-second ringed in red!

And this year, with the renewed emphasis on patriotism which the world crisis has brought, there's every reason to make Washington's and Lincoln's birthdays occasions for more patriotic partying than usual.

No holiday in February lends itself to a tea quite like Washington's birthday. But instead of tea, serve coffee with squares of hot, fragrant gingerbread as you see it in the picture above. The spicy squares are much in keeping with the day, for Washington's mother was said to have been famous for her gingerbread. Make it by your own special recipe or use one of the packaged gingerbread mixes. All that you will need for decorations is a bowl of flowers and the silhouettes of George and Martha Washington mounted on white paper and hung to form a background for the tea table.

As a part of the food for the occasion, serve a minted pear salad with small deviled hot biscuits. These are tender, crunchy biscuit hearts with the top section cut out to show the deviled ham filling. Let the beverage be a deep red cranberry punch and garnish each cup with a cube of pineapple stuck on a pick. If you wish to have a second course, small cakes or ice cream molds will finish the menu in fine style.

A sugar heart cake is a dessert which any hostess could serve with pride when a few friends come in for Valentine's day evening. Fine white cake is put together with a creamy chocolate filling, and the cake-top is decorated with confectioners' sugar sifted through a lace doily with a heart motif on it. When the doily is removed, the design remains, etched neatly in sugar on the cake.

Cranberry Punch

(Makes 3 quarts)

- 2 1/2 cups sugar
6 cups boiling water
2 17-ounce cans jellied cranberry sauce

1 cup lemon juice
1 12-ounce can pineapple cubes
1 pint carbonated water
Cocktail sticks

Rub the jellied cranberry sauce into sugar. Add hot water and heat and stir until well blended. Beat with rotary beater until smooth. Add lemon juice.

Drain juice from pineapple cubes and measure; there should be 1/2 cup. Add pineapple juice to punch mixture and strain through fine sieve or cheese cloth. Chill thoroughly. When ready to serve, place block of ice in punch bowl (or use about 1 quart ice cubes). Pour punch mixture and carbonated water over ice. Insert pineapple cubes onto cocktail sticks and place one in each cup. Fill cups with punch.

Sugar Heart Cake

(Makes 2 9-inch layers)

- 4 cups cake flour
4 teaspoons baking powder
3/4 teaspoon salt
3/4 cup butter or other shortening
2 cups sugar
2 eggs (unbeaten)
1 1/2 cups milk
2 teaspoons vanilla

Sift cake flour once before measuring, then add baking powder and salt and sift 3 times. Cream butter until soft, add sugar gradually and cream together until light and fluffy. Add eggs and beat thoroughly. Add flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time. Beat until smooth after each addition. Then add vanilla.

Pour batter into 2 well-greased 9-inch square pans (2 inches deep). Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) for 35 to 40 minutes. Put together as layer cake.

Under Two Presidents

Only two men have been vice presidents of the United States under two different Presidents—George Clinton, who served under Jefferson and Madison, and John C. Calhoun, who served under John Quincy Adams and Jackson, says Collier's. Neither completed the two full terms, however, as Clinton died in office and Calhoun resigned, the only man to leave this position voluntarily in the history of this country.

Busy Canals
More traffic moves through the Suez canal than through the Panama canal. In 1938 the Suez carried 34,418,000 tons of cargo against the Panama canal's 26,227,268 tons.

Both are far outstripped by the Detroit river and Sault Ste. Marie canals. In 1938, for example, 66,760,000 tons moved through the Detroit river and 40,042,739 tons through Sault Ste. Marie.

Benefits to Our Readers
THE PUBLIC nature of advertising benefits everyone it touches. It benefits the public by describing exactly the products that are offered. It benefits employees, because the advertiser must be more fair and just than the employer who has no obligation to the public. These benefits of advertising are quite apart from the obvious benefits which advertising confers—the lower prices, the higher quality, the better service that go with advertised goods and firms.

Operator, give me AMERICA 21,830,000”

NATION-WIDE telephone communication is a mighty asset to the country's program of defense. Every city, village, hamlet and rural area is closely linked with every other by America's 21,830,000 connecting telephones. In a matter of minutes a Michigan manufacturer, working on defense orders, can speak directly with his suppliers in any part of the country. That is a single example of the service rendered by the telephone industry, thousands of times daily, in this period of national emergency.

This Company is doing its part in the Country's program of National Defense

Birds With Fingers

A primitive bird called the Archaeopteryx once lived which had three sharp clawed fingers on each wing. It is believed by scientists who have studied its fossil remains to be a link between bird life and reptiles. The strange creature had no beak, but rather a long jaw equipped with teeth. It was about the size of a crow.

Vote in Senate Holds Key to Decision On Extent of U. S. Plans to Aid British; Auto Industry Adopts 'All-Out' Schedule In Drive to Boost Defense Production

NATIONAL DEBATE:
America's Role

A state which, in the epoch of race poisoning, dedicates itself to cherishing its best racial elements must some day be master of the world. Let the adherents of our movement never forget this—Closing words of Adolf Hitler's "Mein Kampf."

In the historic halls where Clay and Webster debated, where an empire was planned by the winning of the West, where Woodrow Wilson pledged "our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor" in the cause of democracy, another crisis of America is being weighed in the balance.

Congress is considering what will be the results of a policy of unrestricted help to Great Britain in her moment of travail with German might.

President Roosevelt asked for unprecedented powers to deal with the situation, powers which will make this nation an economic ally, if not a belligerent one, with the last outpost against authoritative government in Europe. His bill would permit him to lease or lend England, without further congressional consultation, all material aid in the way of munitions and supplies. It is admitted generally that these supplies, if they can be manufactured and arrive in time, will be the only way in which Britain can hold out. Even with them, Britain is given but a 50-50 chance.

Even the inaugural ceremonies which placed Mr. Roosevelt in office for the third term lacked the usual gaiety due to the somber effects of the hour. The battle al-

PRODUCTION:
All-Out Schedule

The National Automobile Manufacturers association has decided it will not hold its national show in New York this year. The industry is too busy with defense production. New models will come off the assembly lines as usual, but the yearly exhibits at the Grand Central Palace won't be held and neither will exhibits elsewhere, except in distributors' own show rooms.

Strikes in isolated sections cut somewhat into production, although the department of labor said that such stoppages were only a fraction

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Here is the new defense poster, printed in patriotic colors, which will be displayed by manufacturers after they have complied with instructions in connection with "Preparedness Through Production" week. Governors of more than a score of industrial states have proclaimed their willingness to co-operate with the defense commission and the National Association of Manufacturers by urging all manufacturers to register their facilities for defense production.

as compared to those during the war effort in 1917. One stoppage was at the Saginaw, Mich., plant of the Eaton Manufacturing company, where airplane parts are being made. It was called by the C.I.O. Automobile Workers who charged the firm refused to hire 300 men under an agreement signed last December after another strike. James F. Dewey, federal labor mediator, speeded to the scene in a hurry. He said he would take drastic steps if the plant was not in operation within 24 hours. The strike ended within that period.

In San Diego, Calif., a strike was threatened at the plant of the Ryan Aeronautical company. State draft headquarters issued a statement that men who went on strike would be considered by draft boards to have no employment and therefore no longer exempted from the selective service act as defense workers. The ruling stood less than 24 hours. Brig. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, acting federal director of the law, revoked it.

Meanwhile Sidney Hillman, C.I.O. vice president and assistant director of the Office of Production Management, was ill in a Baltimore hospital. It is Mr. Hillman's job to handle labor problems in the defense effort and Washington was anxious over his condition and hoped for his speedy return.

CONFERENCES:
Miles Apart

Miles apart in spirit and purpose were two conferences. In Washington met President Roosevelt and Wendell Willkie, who opposed him as the 1940 Republican candidate. They came together, agreed in advance that all aid must be given Britain to defeat Germany. They sought a formula to battle for that objective.

In Germany, Hitler and Mussolini met. The place of their conferences was kept a secret except that it was in Germany, and all telephones out of the Reich were closed down to prevent the knowledge getting about.

It was a subtle compliment to the British air force.

Previously when the two Axis partners met to discuss war plans, it was at Brenner pass, on the border of the two countries. This time Mussolini went to Hitler. There also was a subtle difference there. It Duce had started out on a war of his own, took a licking on several fronts and required help to extract him from the situation which resulted.

Hitler was giving Italy such help, probably more than was desired. Not only did Hitler send troops, airplanes, tanks and soldiers. He also sent economic experts, another subtle point since economic experts always follow the German army into occupied territory to take over its economic life.

What transpired at the conference wasn't made public in detail. Announcements merely said the two leaders had made plans for the 1941 putsch on England. It was anyone's guess who made the plans and who gave the orders.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

THE INDIVIDUAL'S RESPONSIBILITY REGARDING BEVERAGE ALCOHOL

LESSON TEXT—Habakkuk 2:15; Genesis 4:9-12; Mark 9:42-48; 1 Thessalonians 5:22. GOLDEN TEXT—Abstain from every form of evil.—1 Thessalonians 5:22, R. V.

"Responsible for the drunkards of my community? Not me; I am against the use of intoxicating liquors." Such is the answer Christian men and women would probably make if faced with that accusation. But wait! Responsibility means more than just refraining oneself or speaking against "booze" in a church meeting. Before we finish the study of our lesson, we may find ourselves guilty of the charge, and needing to ask forgiveness, and see the need of bringing forth works meet unto repentance. We hear God's Word telling us:

I. Do Not Tempt Your Neighbor (Hab. 2:15).

God is very severe in judgment upon those who tempt others. Of course He condemns the one who gives another a drink of liquor. Nothing could be more despicable than thus to start a man or woman on the way to a drunkard's grave. There can be no question about the guilt of the one who makes the stuff and the one who sells it. But beyond that, those are guilty who share in the profits from such a business, who rent their buildings for the manufacture or sale of liquor, who vote to legalize its sale or support politicians who do such things; in fact, everyone who encourages, condones, or in any way profits, whether directly or indirectly, from "the traffic." Are you still "not guilty"?

II. Do Not Fail Your Brother (Gen. 4:9-12).

Everyone who says, "Am I my brother's keeper?" classes himself with the murderer Cain. Certainly I am my brother's keeper. This is the positive side of the matter. It is not enough that I do not tempt my brother. The question is: "Have I neglected to do anything that I could and should have done to save him?"

That makes it my positive business to eliminate every possible temptation. It means that the Christian is vitally concerned about the taverns, road houses, dance halls, and what not, which entrap and destroy our young people. It is not enough to passively lament their presence; we must actively seek their removal. It can be done, and is being done all over the land.

III. Do Not Offend Children (Mark 9:42).

The Lord holds His followers to a high measure of responsibility regarding the children whose lives they touch, whether they be in their own family, or in the community in which they live.

Children are innocent until their elders make them otherwise. In their innocence they are trustful and ready to learn. Their knowledge of the right way to live is received from their parents and other grown-ups, and (mark it well!) they learn more from what we do than from what we say.

Here is the question each one of us should honestly face right now: "How does my daily walk influence the children who see me?" Let us answer that in the light of verse 42.

IV. Abstain From Evil—Judgment Is Coming (Mark 9:43-48; 1 Thess. 5:22).

The Christian is called to abstain from "all appearance of evil" or, as the Revised Version puts it, "every form of evil" (1 Thess. 5:22). That may call for the sternest kind of self-denial (Mark 9:43-47), but why not? We do not follow a Christ who sought for Himself the way of ease or comfort. He gave Himself in complete and willing sacrifice, going even to the death of Calvary's tree for us. Do we then falter and seek the easy way?

The fact that there is a day of judgment to come is something to remember, but may we not stress the other side of the truth. "The very sternness of our Lord's strictures regarding the importance of self-denial only serves to enhance the value of the privilege we enjoy in being citizens of the kingdom of God. If it is worth the loss of a hand, a foot, or an eye to gain that life, then, in view of the great value we place on these members of our bodies, how great must be our divine privilege. Christianity is not merely a negative religion, but it takes the negative similes to show us the positive glories!" (Dr. John W. Bradbury).

God Send Us Men
God send us men with hearts ablaze,
All truth to love, all wrong to hate;
These are the patriots nations need,
These are the bulwarks of the state.

Something for Nazis to Ponder Over

Right: A demonstration of the various methods of getting troops and vehicles across a river is given by the British royal engineers. The troops are making the crossing in collapsible boats. For bringing heavy equipment across, the boats are used as pontoons for a plank bridge.

Their Country Lost, They Fight With British

Their homeland gone, these Polish troops joined with the British forces and are now undergoing training somewhere in Scotland. Above they are seen with tanks in battle formation during maneuvers. The tanks, incidentally, are French ones, and were taken to England when the Nazi hordes over-ran France.

Old Subs to Guard Harbor Entrances

Old submarines of the World war "O" and "R" types are shown at rest in back channel at the Philadelphia navy yard, where they have been gathering sea moss and barnacles. Twenty of these or similar craft are expected to join the Atlantic fleet for duty as guardians of harbor entrances along the eastern seaboard.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON
(Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK.—In Goldfield, Nev., when the camp was going strong we staged a "battle royal," with 10 men slugging each other, the victory going to the last man to stay on his feet. The referee was an old desert rat, who didn't like to stay out of a good fight. Somehow he got mixed up in the milling and flattened the three remaining contenders.

One wonders at the self-control of George V. Denny Jr., under similar provocation. With no holds barred and no punches pulled, America's Town Meeting of the Air is getting more like the battle royal and less and less like its antecedent chautauqua meeting. In the melee over aid to Britain, in which Verne Marshall was the storm center, it looked as though Mr. Denny might be pulled in any minute. But he wasn't, and with rising popular blood pressure and tensing vocal chords, he gives a marvelous weekly exhibition of keeping cool and watchful, and giving everybody a break. That was the main idea of the town meeting, which he organized, and now directs.

He began his New York career as an actor in Paul Green's "Pulitzer prize-winning" play, "In Abraham's bosom." In the University of North Carolina, he became a member of the "Carolina Playmakers." After his graduation, he was instructor for dramatic productions at Chapel Hill, which experience may have contributed to the uniformly good showmanship of the town meeting.

Mr. Denny was worried about the rising power of pressure groups, industrial strife, intolerance and other such matters, and these concerns directed him to an association with the League for Political Education, of which he later became director. The Town Hall of the Air was a natural extension of the work of the league, founded by Dr. Denny in 1935.

IT MAY sound far-fetched to link the Monday morning hangover with Britain's chances for victory, but such things can be, the way one thing leads to another these days. In the waning days of the prohibition era, Dr. Norman Jolliffe, an up-and-coming young New York medic, made a timely study of the bodily and psychological aftermath of bathtub gin. In translating "hangover" into "polyneuritis," he discovered that he was studying not necessarily alcoholism, but imperfect diet which lessened a man's capacity to stand up to his liquor.

These imperfections or inadequacies of modern diet led to studies of vitamins as possible correctives, with Dr. Jolliffe's later conclusion that plenty of B-1 would restore caloric unbalance caused by alcohol. He urged liquor manufacturers to slip a small jolt of crystalline B-1 in every bottle. It wasn't that he was trying to help citizens keep up with their drinking. He was just taking homo sapiens as he is and trying to give him a hand.

Moving on with their vitamin studies, Dr. Jolliffe and his colleagues find Mars just as durable as barleycorn, and an even tougher antagonist, with vitamins, again useful to buttress resistance. So here's the "Vitamins for Britain" committee, with Dr. Jolliffe participating in its effort to get "millions of vitamin tablets" over there to bolster the "Sceptered Isle" against the effects of narrowed and undiversified diet, nervous tension and heebie-jeebies. Is it possible that prohibition was a laboratory to turn up a trick to save democracy?

Dr. Jolliffe, a New Yorker, was graduated from the New York university medical college in 1926. His vitamin researches gained him membership in learned societies and the American Association for the Advancement of Science. He is chief of medical service of the psychiatric division of Bellevue hospital, and associate professor of medicine at New York university.

WHEN John D. Biggers was appointed to organize and manage the unemployment census in 1937, he invited criticism. "The more stones thrown the better," he said. He now has a job both more important and more vulnerable, as director of the production division in the new national defense office of production management. Mr. Biggers thinks the critical impulse is a sign of healthful public interest. Since 1930, he has been president of the Libby-Owens-Ford Glass company.

ready had begun in the house. Cabinet members told legislators that a crushing blow will be started by the Axis powers within 60 or 90 days. As an echo, came word from Berlin and Rome confirming this prediction.

Opposition

But there was no sign of quick agreement. Isolationists, including Representative Fish (R., N. Y.) and Tinkham (R., Mass.) bellowed their opposition. The bearded Massachusetts congressman shook his finger at Secretaries Knox, Stimson and Morgenthau and challenged them to prove that if Britain falls the United States will be attacked.

Isolationist views are that an America of 130,000,000 people can stand alone; that Hitler and Japan would be ready to do business on just as good terms with us as would a victorious Britain; that all-out aid to Britain will only create vast taxes and vast debt. They feel the United States should mind its own business.

The President's view, and apparently the view of a majority in both houses, is that the United States already stands warned by both Japan and Hitler that in an Axis-controlled world a democracy cannot hope to exist; that if England goes down unaided she will line up with America's enemies to add to its confusion.

With combined powers of 800,000,000 people opposing our 130,000,000, Germany would control export that would jeopardize the living power of 3,000,000 U. S. cotton growers and 1,000,000 U. S. wheat exporters. The combined navies of a defeated England and the Axis powers would exceed ours by three times, and the ship building capacity would be six times that of the United States.

Senate Is Key

Administration defense leaders say the power is needed at once, that every day lost is an opportunity lost. But they despair of having the bill passed before March 1, if then. They recall that conscription, for America's own defense, was debated almost six months and the program delayed a year, due to the approach of winter and inability to send men to camp because barracks were delayed until selective service was voted.

So This Is Jail!

The occupational therapy department of the penitentiary of the City of New York on Riker's island is more like an art school than a prison. The materials used are prison waste, much of it from the junk pile. These photos show you the behind-the-bars artists at work.

New Automatic Direction Finding Device Determines Position of Airplane in Flight

By WILLIAM KELLER
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)
CHICAGO.—The danger of commercial aircraft becoming lost because of inclement weather or faulty navigation has been practically eliminated by a revolutionary new invention. Location of a plane in flight is automatically recorded at ground stations by an automatic direction finding radio receiver developed by radio technicians under J. P. Cunningham, United Air Lines' director of communications.

Four years of study and experimentation were conducted under Cunningham and Sanderretto, head of the company's radio laboratory, before the direction finder reached its present stage of perfection.

An amazing degree of accuracy has been obtained by the device. Cunningham reports that tests conducted over a period of more than a year reveal that better than 99 per cent of the bearings, made by the new receiver proved to be accurate.

Entirely automatic, the receiver operates without any special assistance from the plane in flight. It is described as remarkably simple in operation.

Each time that a plane in flight makes its routine half-hour position reports, the receiver acts on the radio waves. Large antenna that form the heart of the instrument pick up these waves. This antenna is constantly being rotated by a motor.

Electric waves picked up by the antenna are transferred to a standard radio receiver which amplifies it into energy. This energy operates a moving pen which draws a line on a scroll chart that constantly unrolls beneath it. The pen traces the form of the wave in a vertical zigzag line which reveals the maximum and minimum strength of the signal.

All bearings are based upon the minimum signal, or "null," as it is called by radio engineers. The null is recorded when the revolving antenna is exactly at right angles to the direction from which the signal is coming.

The null as shown on the chart form can be plotted exactly from a transparent plexiglas plate graduated in degrees which is placed over the chart. The radio operator can then read off the bearing of the airplane in degrees.

It is necessary for at least two stations equipped with the antenna and recorder to work together in triangulating a plane's position. This position is then immediately radioed to the pilot who uses the report to check upon his own navigation.

If three stations take bearings simultaneously from a plane in flight, lines from the stations are projected on a map. The exact position of the plane will be shown by the point on the map where the lines intersect.

"In practice," Cunningham explained, "we will use two or more ground stations simultaneously in receiving the reports from any given airplane. The bearings obtained by these stations will be electrically transmitted to our key dispatching posts on the transcontinental route. There the bearings can be plotted on charts in a few seconds and we thus know the location of every plane within a mile or two.

"For practical purposes, with a

Operation of the new airplane location recorder is illustrated by this sketch. Ground stations equipped with the device automatically receive bearings on a plane every time its radio transmitter is used. By taking simultaneous bearings, stations A or B, which are on the airway, can determine the plane's position with the help of C or D which are off the airway. At the lower left is shown the revolving antenna which makes the high degree of accuracy swiftly moving object like an airplane, this is 100 per cent accuracy."

Cunningham added that the first station is now being installed at Salt Lake City. United Airlines expects to install about 20 to serve its entire system from coast to coast.

Finding directions by radio is not a new science. It was known in 1912 when radio was still in its infancy and was used at sea during the World War of 1914-1918. Pan-American Airways engineers subsequently developed a long range direction finding receiver. This receiver gave fairly satisfactory results over water where radio signals are more effective than land.

Unsatisfactory results were obtained about 1935 when the Pan-American system was tried out over land. Since then an antenna system that would operate over land has been sought by a number of radio manufacturers, the army and the navy.

Accurate results up to 80 per cent of the time were attained by a number of systems, but this was not considered sufficiently safe for use with passenger carrying planes.

Static interference was the fundamental cause of trouble with most of these direction finding receivers. It spoils signals and gives inaccurate nulls. Because United's device produces visual charts it is possible to weed out the bad bearings.

The army and navy are deeply interested in the receiver. It has been offered to other airlines in the United States.

Low-Income Families Use Housing Projects

WASHINGTON.—Nearly half of the families who live in the low-rent housing projects of the United States Housing authority have incomes of $2.50 a day or less.

For these families that $2.50 or less—the price of a decent hotel room to most Americans—must cover the daily cost of food, rent, clothes, and all the other things it takes to live. In some cases that daily income averages out to little more than a dollar.

A survey of the incomes of more than 12,000 tenant families released by USHA shows that 47.8 per cent earn less than $899 a year. In the case of 2.6 per cent of the families the annual income is actually under $400.

Only 7 per cent of the families—with many mouths to feed and in areas of unusually high living costs—have incomes of as much as $100 a month, according to USHA Administrator Nathan Straus.

11,000 Tax Bills to Face

State Legislatures in 1941

CHICAGO.—Predicting that 60,000 bills will be introduced in the 43 state legislatures to meet in 1941, Mrs. Melville Muckleston, president of the National Consumers Tax Commission, warned the nation-wide membership that "no fewer than 11,000 will be tax bills."

She added that "if the lawmakers run true to form they will enact into law more than 1,800 of the tax bills, or an average of 43 per state."

Scientific Research Increases in Petroleum Industry

PITTSBURGH.—Research in the petroleum industry has expanded 539 per cent in the past 11 years, Dr. William A. Hamor, associate director of the Mellon Institute of Industrial Research, Pittsburgh, Pa., says in a survey reported in Industrial and Engineering Chemistry, journal of the American Chemical Society. The industry now ranks second in scientific investigation, having risen from seventh place.

About 26,000,000,000 gallons of gasoline were produced last year. This output could be increased if needed to over 40,000,000,000 gallons in a short while, according to Dr. Hamor.

'Gyp' Schools Rise To Offer Training For Defense Jobs

MINNEAPOLIS.—"Racket" trade schools are springing up all over the United States to take advantage of the anxiety of young men to secure quick training for defense jobs.

Like most rackets, the "gyp" job-training school is flourishing on a wave of popular enthusiasm for something legitimate, and is "muscling in" among the many legitimate schools for trade and vocational training.

The job of separating the good schools from the bad is complicated for the ambitious young job seeker by the fact that some new trade schools are entirely legitimate and have been established due to the fact that many older schools are already crowded to capacity and have long waiting lists.

High pressure salesmen for the "gyp" schools have already filched the savings and secured the contract signatures of thousands of ambitious young job seekers by "guaranteeing" jobs with the big airplane plants and other defense production industries, and by representing that their schools have "deals" with such companies to supply them with trained employees, according to a report by the Northwestern National Life Insurance company.

The situation has become so bad that major aircraft companies have been flooded with inquiries and complaints regarding "guaranteed placements" promised by such salesmen; several California companies have issued warning bulletins to the effect that they had authorized no such agreements, understandings, or guarantees. Chambers of Commerce in various defense industry centers are issuing warnings on the subject.

The report emphasizes that the two principal faults of the "racket" trade school are to oversell the opportunity in the first place and to undertrain in the second place.

The report suggests simple tests which any youth can apply to the school he is considering, before he pays any money down or signs an application blank. He should demand a list of recent graduates of the school. He should get in touch with several such graduates, either by personal contact or by letter, and ask them the following three simple questions:

1. Was the course satisfactory?
2. Did it help you to secure a job?
3. Has it helped you win advancement in your job, or if you have been employed only a short time, do you feel that it is likely to help you win advancement?

In the case of a newly established school the prospective student should enlist the help of some older friend, to investigate the financial responsibility of the sponsors, the completeness of the equipment, and the previous connections of the instructors. Public school authorities can usually give helpful information about a local private school, and the report emphasizes that a legitimate school will welcome investigation.

The report also warns that a certain proportion of young men, due to individual tastes, mental characteristics, and personality type, could not be fitted to hold a job in a mechanical or technical trade. Therefore, the legitimate trade schools invariably examine the qualifications of the applicant and refuse to accept those who they feel cannot be successfully trained. The "gyp" school exercises no such selection, but accepts any applicant who can raise the amount of the down payment.

First Team Game
 (By Dick Prescott)

Last Friday evening in the local gym the Tawas City boys went down to a humiliating defeat at the hands of Harrisville, the score being 23 to 8. The game was a sad affair for the home town fans. Coach Forsten substituted freely trying to find a winning combination. Captain "Nellie" Thornton and "Art" Biggins were the outstanding players on the Tawas team.

On Friday evening, January 31, Tawas City will play Oscoda at the local gymnasium. Oscoda has one of the outstanding teams in this section.

DR. PETZOLD SPEAKS TO STUDENTS
 (By Helen Galliker)

Dr. Petzold, who has spent 38 years with the Crow Indians in Montana, gave a lecture to the students Tuesday afternoon about the American Indian. His very interesting speech was accompanied by amusing jokes and incidents about his life on the reservation. One interesting incident was that, when questionnaires were sent to 21 schools teachers who had taught both Indian and white children asking whether Indian children excelled in any one thing, the answer from all twenty-one of them was that the Indian children excelled in deportment.

At the close of his speech Dr. Petzold sang a beautiful Indian song. Although its words were incomprehensible its music was fascinating.

PRIMARY ROOM
 The first grade has completed their Winky word books and made their home books to keep. They are proud of their first books.

The second grade is beginning a new reader "Paces and Places." They like the stories very much.

Our attendance has been very good since vacation. We are glad that so few of our group have had to miss school.

THIRD and FOURTH GRADES
 In art, all pupils made valentines. Each pupil made one for his father and one for his mother.

The fourth grade finished reading, Walt Disney's book, "Little Pig's Picnic" and are now reading "Centerville" by Hanna, Anderson and Gray.

Wednesday, we judged some stories written by the fifth graders who came in and read them. Richard Ruber's and Milla Oisten's were chosen as the best.

Louis Pfeiffer is ill. We hope he will soon be able to return.

SEVENTH and EIGHTH GRADES
 Lucille Malcolm is in Saginaw quarantined for scarlet fever.

Perry Leitch has left school and is working in the bowling alley.

The eighth grade will take their history test Thursday. Next semester they will study civics instead of history.

Bogus Money 'Find'
 Finding what appeared to be Sixteenth century bills having a face value of $1,600 in a drain in Prague, workmen gleefully took them to the police, who consulted the national bank and were told the money was counterfeit.

'Honest Mistake'
 Gabriel Salcedo, Ft. Davis, Texas, killed a doe during the hunting season, but the state game warden, Tom Redford, made no arrest. The deer had horns. Salcedo bagged the animal and found it to be a doe with 10 pointed horns, so Redford termed it an "honest mistake."
