WOMEN'S CLUB HOLD ANNUAL MEN'S NIGHT

Program Given Thursday Night at Masonic Temple

The Annual Gentlemen's Night given by the Twentieth Century Club was held Thursday evening at the Masonic Temple with members of the Eastern Star serving the dinner.

Mrs. Albert Davison, vice president, gave the President's Greeting and the response was given by L. H. Bradlock. Mrs. Elmer Kunze, accompanied by Mrs. Giddings, sang three numbers, "The Greek Hymn," "There'll Always Be An England," and "The Last Time I Saw Paris."

Mrs. Edward Stevens acted as master of ceremony, with a candid camera which she threatened to use on every person without a smile.

Short toasts to the ladies or the men were special features of the program. A toast to the Career Women was given by J. S. E. Mark, while Mrs. Douglas Ferguson gave a toast to the businessman; The Lady Politician—Russell Rollin; The Bowling Widower—Mrs. Ira Horton; The Bowling Widow—C. L. McLean; The Tightwad Husband—Mrs. W. C. Davidson; The Spendthrift Wife—E. D. Jacques; The Playboy Husband—Mrs. J. A. Campbell; The Coy Young Thing—James Leslie; The Absent Minded Husband—Mrs. Atlee Mark; The Bachelor Girl—A. E. Giddings.

The program was closed with a piano duet "Stars and Stripes Forever" by Mrs. A. E. Giddings and Mrs. G. Leslie. The remainder of the evening was spent playing bunco.

7000 Participate In Winter Sports Day

Last Saturday, February 1, was set aside by the Recreation Department of the Works Projects Administration as "Play Day," and one of the greatest winter sports programs ever conducted in Isosco county was presented at the various winter sports parks, with a total participation, computed on an hourly basis, of nearly 7,000 people, including all age groups. The tabulations were made by WPA Recreation leaders in charge and Elmer Galkins, Area Supervisor, between the hours of 10:00 a. m. and 10:00 p. m.

Although moderate weather made skating quite difficult in the late afternoon, other activities such as coasting, tobogganing, snow-sculpturing, giant snowball rolling, snow fights, competitive games and races, broomball, square dancing on ice, etc., were continued until late in the evening. Practically all units completed the day's activity with bonfire banquets, which, in some cases, lasted until some midnight.

Due to the condition of the Whittemore skating rink it was necessary to transfer their activities to Sand Lake.

A great deal of credit for the success of the day's program is due to the cooperation of the following persons and organizations: P. N. Thorn, publisher of the Tawas Herald; Berkeley Smith, of the East Tawas News; Edna Otis, of the Isosco County Gazette; Will McGillivray, of the Osceola Press; Russell A. Rollin, County School Commissioner; George Myers, Chief of Police of Tawas City; the Osceola Lions Club; the Tawas City Men's Club; R. E. Crowell, Forest Supervisor of the Huron National Forest; Fred Adams, Chairman of the Winter Sports Activities; the American Legion; the Chamber of Commerce; members of the recreation committee; and others who assisted in planning the programs, furnishing reiners and marshmallows, and contributing prizes.

The Dorcas Society are planning a Washington's Birthday supper Friday, February 21.

The Isosco County Child Health Council will meet Tuesday, February 11, at 2:30 p. m. at the Osceola High School auditorium. The tonic will be Social Hygiene. A splendid program has been arranged.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Leslie have received word that their daughter, Arlene, who has been receiving treatment at Ann Arbor, has been returned to the Howell Sanitarium for further treatment.

Mrs. S. F. Scanlon, of Chicago, and sister, Mrs. J. J. Oliver, of Alpena, are spending the week with Mrs. Jas. Preston and also attended the funeral of their mother, Mrs. M. C. Davis, last week.

Miss Norma Musolf, of Bay City, visited her mother, Mrs. M. C. Musolf, on Sunday.

Card of Thanks
We wish to express our appreciation to all the neighbors and friends for their many acts of kindness during the illness and at the death of our mother. We also want to thank the choir, and for the flowers.

Mrs. G. F. Scanlon, Mrs. J. J. Oliver, Mrs. Jas. Preston, Jas. H. Davis.

Winter Sports Carnival Will Open This Saturday Morning

Chamber of Commerce Will Meet Tuesday

The annual meeting of the Tawas City Chamber of Commerce will be held Tuesday evening, February 11, at the city hall. Election of officers and a discussion of the 1941 program. Every citizen is urged to attend.

Iosco Man Elected Director Michigan Hereford Ass'n

At a meeting of the Michigan Hereford Breeders association held Tuesday at Lansing Chas. T. Prescott, Sr., of this city, gave an address on the Northeastern Michigan Hereford Calf project which has been in successful operation in this section during the past year. At this meeting Mr. Prescott was elected a director of the Michigan Hereford Breeders association.

PURCHASES MOELLER BROS. FOOD MARKET

Ernie Moeller, Jr., Becomes Owner of Tawas City Store

One of the most important changes in Tawas City business circles of the past few years occurred this week when Ernest Moeller, Jr., purchased the Moeller Brothers' Market from Charles Moeller. He took immediate possession.

"Ernie" has had many years of experience in the retailing of meat and groceries and has been with the Moeller store since it began business here 20 years ago. His many friends wish him success as owner. Mrs. Ernest Moeller will be associated with him in the store.

After 20 years, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Moeller have retired from the business which they were instrumental in making grow from the small "corner store" to one of the best retail food markets in this section of Michigan. As the business grew a modern building was constructed and furnished with the latest in merchandising equipment. Mr. and Mrs. Moeller's absence from the store will be missed by customers and friends.

Charles Moeller said yesterday, "I wish to thank our customers and friends for the liberal patronage and good will extended to us during the past 20 years. It has been a pleasure to serve you. Under the ownership of my brother, patrons are assured of a continuance of the policy which built this business."

Mr. Moeller states that he will be associated with his son, Harold, in the operation of the Tawas City Recreation.

TOBOGGAN SLIDE, SILVER VALLEY

Evangelist at Whittemore

Evangelistic services are in progress every night, including Saturday night, at 7:45 o'clock, and will continue up to and including Sunday, February 16.

Rev. Raymond Smith, of Lansing, is our speaker each night. He is a very fine preacher, singer and bird whistler. His son is also with him, singing special songs accompanied by guitars. Miss Daisy Andrews is the musician.

Rev. R. V. Smith each night, giving a concert on her marimba and the piano. You will miss a treat if you miss these meetings. Remember it is at the Whittemore Methodist church.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Nelson and family, of Big Rapids, spent the week end in the city.

Ed Anderson Gets 15th Wildcat With Arrow

After a running battle Friday in a swamp near the Seven Mile Hill, Ed Anderson, of Alabaster, brought down another wild cat with his bow and arrow. He had trailed it for several days. The cat weighed 32 pounds and is a beauty.

Anderson has killed fifteen wild cats since adopting the bow and arrow as a weapon, and is one of the outstanding archery hunters in Michigan. He says that hunting with the bow is one of the keenest of sports, giving many thrills which are absent when the hunter carries a gun to the woods.

Tax Land Sale Will Be Held at Tawas City

An auction sale of tax reverted land will be held March 11 at Tawas City, according to an announcement made by the state conservation department. The lands are located in Arenac, Isosco and Alcona counties.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey McMurray left Sunday evening for a month's trip to Salt Lake City, San Francisco, Los Angeles, El Paso, Old Mexico and New Orleans.

Rita Klenow of Bay City, spent the week end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Klenow.

Floyd Fernetto, of Detroit, spent the week end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fernetto.

Special Program
The Methodist Sunday school of East Tawas is featuring a program of special interest at 10 a. m. Sunday. A choir composed of third grade boys and girls will participate, assisted in special numbers by the first and second grades.

Speaking parts are to be taken by the nursery and kindergarten children. A Primary Parade will complete the program.

Birthday Parties
The Irene Rebekah Lodge will hold birthday parties the second meeting night of each month, states Mrs. Roy Grossmeyer, Noble Grand. All those having birthdays during the month are urged to attend.

Notice
We wish to thank the neighbors and friends, the Grange, the Masons, the Eastern Star, the Dorcas and the Ladies Aid for the gifts presented to us and the kindness extended.

Mr. and Mrs. George Lake.

ELABORATE PROGRAM FOR 2-DAY EVENT

Coronation Ceremonies, Banquet Saturday Night

Elaborate preparations have been made for the Winter Sports Carnival which will be staged at Silver Valley. Included in the events will be the coronation ceremonies beginning at nine o'clock sharp Saturday evening at the Community house, East Tawas. Jimmy Stevenson, news commentator; Charles Gehringer and Barney McCoskey, renowned Tiger baseball players, will crown Miss Berniece Gearhart, Silver Valley Winter Sports Queen.

Jimmy Stevenson, Charlie Gehringer, Barney McCoskey and members of the famous "Belly-Floppers" coasting club will arrive at ten o'clock Friday evening. Saturday morning winter sports enthusiasts from Bay City, Saginaw, Detroit and other points in Michigan and Ohio will arrive by train, motor bus and automobile. The day will be spent enjoying skiing, tobogganing, skating and other activities.

Saturday evening at six o'clock, a banquet will be served at the Hotel Holland. Roy McMurray, of Saginaw, will act as toastmaster. Music will be furnished by the East Tawas high school band.

Following the banquet will be the Queen's ball and coronation ceremonies at the Community house. Queen Berniece will receive her crown from Jimmy Stevenson, assisted by Charlie Gehringer and Barney McCoskey. She will be attended by four members of her court, Misses Annette Dillon, Esther Gottlieb, Rose Mary Haglund, all of East Tawas, and Miss Laura Johnson, of Hale.

Sunday noon Barney McCoskey and the "Belly-Floppers" will be honored camp. After an inspection of the camp with a dinner at Silver Creek CCC the group will join the activities at Silver Valley.

It is estimated that if weather conditions are favorable, more than ten thousand people will be in attendance during the two-day carnival of fun.

Will Aid Income Tax Payers to Make Returns

Jack A. LaBreck, deputy collector of internal revenue, will be at the Holland Hotel, February 24, 25 and 26, for the purpose of assisting taxpayers in making their 1940 income tax returns.

Mr. LaBreck states that there has been a number of changes in the income tax laws that will affect the tax payer this year for the first time. Single men file if their gross earnings are $800.00 or more, and married men if their gross earnings amount to $2,000.00 or more. In prior years it was $1000.00 and $2500.00, net. These are the changes in the law and Mr. LaBreck will welcome the chance to assist you in preparing your income tax returns.

Four Selects Will Report February 12

Four selectees in Isosco county have been sent orders to report February 12 for induction. They are as follows: Clinton D. Blanchard, East Tawas; Edwin Kildal, Whittemore; Adolph L. Siegrist, Whittemore; Francis L. Drumm, East Tawas.

Hidden Ways

By FREDERIC F. VAN DE WATER

"If," I went on, "you'll let me keep my amateur standing, I'll be very glad to escort your niece. Otherwise, as I told you, I'm busy."

"Hello," said he. "I'd just about given you up and was on my way out for a paper. Come in."

His flat was bright with lights but it had a feeling of emptiness. He explained as he took my hat and coat that Ione and Everett had gone for a walk.

"He's a lazy dog," Lyon said easily; "takes no exercise, whatever, and of course when there's a strain, it simply pulls him all apart. Here we are."

He had led me into the living room and pointed to the trophy above the mantelpiece. I admired it and with an effort kept from looking behind the couch where the black-bearded body had lain.

Lyon ran through his collection with the engaging pride of a child, taking down sabers, claymores, rapiers, thrusting them upon me to swing and balance while he chatted of their history and where and how he acquired them.

"Here," he said at last, his leathery face glowing, "are my best beloveds," and opened a long rosewood box. From chamois casing, he drew one forth, an epee de combat, and handed it to me tenderly.

"Like it?" Lyon asked artlessly. "Very much," I told him. "It would be a joy to use it."

"I don't suppose," he mused, "that we could. I say! I shove the sofa aside and try. Oh come," he urged as I hesitated.

"En garde," he cried in an odd voice. His blade darted for my throat. Instinct alone prompted my parry. He caught my thrust on his guard and the shell uttered a high clear note.

He had stripped off his jacket as he talked. His enthusiasm and the pleading of the sword in my hand impelled me to follow him. We thrust the sofa against the wall, put on our masks, and faced each other.

"I cried a warning and lowered my blade. Lyon Ferriter laughed harshly and lunged.

CHAPTER X

Body, not mind, saved me. The reflex centers that keep half-forgotten training helped my sword to engage and delay his. I leaped backward barely in time and he had me in a corner. I could retreat no farther.

Our blades bound. There was no sound but our breathing and the whisper of steel on steel. In that odd instant of delay, neither of us spoke. I knew it was useless to repeat my warning and he, embarked on his purpose, had no need for words.

His face was blurred by the mask but I could see purpose in the pose of his body; could feel it in the vigilant movement of his blade along my own. I felt little fear. It was hard to recognize death in a familiar and heretofore safe sport.

Thought of my own stupidity roweled me. By a pose of mystery, by fatuous hints to Everett and Lyon I had asked for this. I had stuck my neck out. While his brother and sister found an alibi elsewhere, Lyon would silence me so deftly that, no matter what others might suspect, he would be safe.

His sword had felt and tested and tapped mine. Automatically, I had responded. He feinted now to lift my guard and followed with a lunge that I barely turned. He caught my riposte. For an instant we faced each other.

A strange calm held me. I had fathomed his purpose and now I understood how he would perform it. He was a trained fencer, stronger if no quicker than I. He held his weapon delicately in the French fashion. He could have run me through before now, if he had wiped away his instinctive regard for my utterly harmless sword.

Steele's sibilance broke now and then in the high thin, chiming of blade upon resonant shell guard, an innocent, mocking sound. I fought carefully, knowing that my first mistake would be my last and, in the fascination of contest, he tolerated me.

Defense would not serve me. He could at any minute catch my harmless blade in his free hand and drive his own point home. My sole, fragile chance lay in a trick. It could be attempted only once. It must be tried before the already aching muscles of my sword arm grew weary.

The blades engaged and parted with clicks and brief sharp sighings. The shell guards rang brightly. We moved against each other, cat-footed, sharp-witted, tight-bodied. And I felt myself tiring.

"Whatever is on your mind will have to be unloaded while I shave."

I forced all myself into desperate assault. My purpose needed the deftness of long practice, which I lacked. Strength it demanded too, and I doubted if I had enough, but it was my only chance.

The apparent wildness of my attack pleased Lyon. He must have seen in it the flurry before the end, and so he contented himself merely with parrying my weapon, waiting until my vain fury should flag. I thought I heard him chuckle as he turned aside my thrust. And then, for a flash, his blade was where I wanted it. I threw my life into the trick d'Armaillac had taught me.

My sword whipped about his in clumsy imitation of the Frenchman's deadly cutover. I heard him gasp. I saw the epee half torn from his hand.

He was quick in recovering, but I was swifter. I leaped forward to pass him and, in the leap, brought my own weapon down like a whip across the knuckles of his sword hand.

He grunted. Behind me, I heard the ringing clatter of the dropped epee. I reached the table and tore off the mask with my left hand. My right gripped the ornate hilt of a sixteenth-century Italian rapier. With the long blade ready, I whirled.

Lyon had made no effort to retrieve his fallen sword. He had taken off his mask and was sucking with a slight frown the hand I had struck. His calm was more shocking than fury. It saved his life for, at the instant, I should have run him through right gladly. Lyon looked up from his injury with a rueful smile and his words made me feel that I had reached in darkness for a step that was not there.

"Effective," he said quietly, "though perhaps not quite orthodox."

He seemed for the first time to see the long sword in my hand and lifted his eyebrows. He was still breathing fast but was quite unruffled. I wondered, for a wild instant, which one of us was mad. His dignity, the normal furnishings of the room, mocked my recent terror. Yet I kept the rapier ready.

"Entirely unorthodox," I agreed, striving to match his self-possession, "but necessary. And now that we've—enlightened each other, I'll be going."

His bewilderment, as I backed toward the door, gathering up my outer clothing, made me feel silly. "I don't understand," said Lyon slowly.

overcoat and hat, thrust myself into my jacket. I kept my eyes on him. His expression was so perfectly astonished that it quickened a doubt. This made me angry at myself and I snapped:

"You can stop registering purity of heart. Look at your epee." He stared at the weapon on the floor before him, glanced at me in something like fright and, bending, picked it up. He reached out his left hand and tried the broken point with his thumb.

"My God!" he said at last. "Exactly," I answered. Color quickened his tanned face. He looked from me to the weapon and back again.

"It's—it's—why—" he babbled and then burst out: "Good Lord, Mallory, I might have killed you."

I admired his acting—if acting it were—and was ashamed of myself for even questioning its fraudulence. I said:

"That was my impression, too." "You thought," he groined, "you thought that I would—I never looked. The button must have snapped—it must be about. Ah!"

He bent down on his side of the table and rose with the little blob of waxed thread in his hand. It wobbled on his trembling palm.

"It snapped off," he said in a hushed voice. "It must have when I tried the steel."

The memory of the weapon, flung ceilingward by its own resilience, shook my belief. Lyon rocked it further now by asking in mixed indignation and reproach:

"Why didn't you tell me, man? Am I not in enough trouble without—that?"

He swore proficiently. I asked:

"Are you deaf, by any chance? Or maybe it's just a bad memory. I did tell you. Perhaps I should have stopped to write."

Lyon looked at me a long minute. His question was simple and dazing as a punch in the jaw.

"Didn't you know that I was deaf?" I pulled myself together and jeered:

"Congratulations on a fast recovery."

He shook his head. "My boy, I can read lips, but I'm quite deaf."

The smile vanished from his lean face and dim horror succeeded it.

"I heard you call," he said. His voice shook a little. "I couldn't tell what you were saying. Your face was masked. I thought—" He broke off savagely and shrugged.

"What in hell," he stormed, "do you care what I think? Or for my apology? Or for the fact that I'll never touch sword again? You thought, you had every right to think—but why, Mallory, in heaven's name, should I want to kill you?"

I didn't know whether he were honest or not. I knew that I could serve myself best by letting him think I believed him so.

"That question," I told him, "also occurred to me."

He drew himself together with a shudder.

"Well," he said and gave a crooked smile, "you've given me something else to think about, anyway. If the police had found a second body—I wish there were something I could do or say or offer as apology for—"

"Let it go at that," I broke in. I picked up my hat and coat and left. He had no movement to follow me.

I had a bare hour to change and return to the Paget apartment when I reached my lodging house. I galloped up the stair, thrust open the door and paused, staring.

"Hi, accomplice," said Jerry Cochrane. "I began to think you'd moved again."

"Whatever," I told him, "is on your mind will have to be unloaded while I shave and dress. I've got a date."

"Oh-ho," crooned Cochrane, and looked at me with fake mildness. "Something more important than your duty to your paper, for which every reporter worthy of the name would give his life blood?"

"In round numbers, about a thousand times as important—to me." I told him where I was going while I stripped off coat, vest and shirt. He said mildly:

"For a country lad, you aim high, Mister."

I let that pass. Cochrane droned:

"I've found out something."

"So what?" I wasn't encouraging. He blinked and beamed.

"You remember the guy I told you about, who went gold hunting with Lyon Ferriter, and never came back?"

The question stopped me as I turned toward the bureau for my shaving kit. I nodded.

"Horstman, wasn't it?"

"The same," Cochrane droned. "This Everett Ferriter, the brother, does he look like a Heinie?"

"Is this," I asked, rasped by the knowledge that he hid something, "a game of twenty questions? If so, let's postpone it. Look like a Heinie? Of course he doesn't. He's got a phony Oxford accent, a little waxed mustache, a faintly mauve manner and a leech for cologne. He wears a funny expression, half hauteur, half imminent sneeze. He's no German."

Men Beneath the Wings

Important in the scheme of things to come are the men beneath the wings of our air fleets—the earthbound, overalled technicians who design and build the planes as well as the engines that power them, and the men who keep them in shape to take the air safely.

A student studies a collection of airplane propellers taken from wrecked aircraft. To make such "props" usable again is a factory job, but wrecks tell stories.

This student is "doping" the wing of an airplane. He is using a spray gun and must wear a nose mask to keep from inhaling the fine spray of varnish.

Soldier-Students . . . Students from the U. S. army air corps, enlisted men, are working on a hydraulic system here. The students can study the action of the system in the glass cylinders of the class model.

An instructor supervises the work of a group of students here in the construction of an airplane body. The faculty of the school is composed of men who have had long and varied experience.

C. S. (Casey) Jones, president of the school, is giving his personal attention to a pair of students at work on an air-cooled airplane engine. Students must know all there is to know on the subject.

There is enough space in this classroom to stage a polo game or an infantry drill. Planes of all makes and all shapes and sizes are here to aid in the education of aeronautical students.

The hundreds of books on health, medicine and drugs written by Galen, the famous Greek physician of the Second century, formed a complete system of medicine that prevailed throughout most of the world for almost 1,300 years, says Collier's. In fact, his work on "Anatomical Operations" was the most authoritative book on the subject until 1811.

Tonsil Removal Doesn't Always Prevent Colds

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

WHEN a youngster has frequent colds, parents may feel that removal of the tonsils might prevent these colds. Experience has amply proven that the removal of tonsils does not prevent colds except in some cases where the cold always begins with a sore throat.

TODAY'S HEALTH COLUMN

There is present throughout the world today a feeling that tonsils should not be removed unless it can be definitely shown that they are to blame for the symptoms present. Thus in the Hospital for Sick Children, London, 2,729 operations for removal of tonsils were performed in 1938, as compared with 4,730 operations in 1930.

In discussing the removal of tonsils and adenoids, Sir Lancelot Barrington-Ward at the Royal Society of Medicine, said that the tonsil was in his experience much the more dangerous element. The structure of the tonsil allowed organisms to remain dormant or quiet, but nevertheless active, leading to chronic general poisoning of the system or flare-up into acute inflammation from time to time.

Adenoids, on the other hand, acted simply as an obstruction to the breathing or by a low grade infection causing inflammation of the ear or the glands in the neck.

Size Not Important.
In discussing tonsils it was stated that large tonsils might not be septic (pouring poison into the blood stream) and septic tonsils might not be large. Mere size is not important unless it is causing obstruction.

How can it be known that a tonsil or tonsils are septic? The appearance doesn't tell much, but if there are certain noticeable conditions the physician usually decides to have the tonsils removed.

1. Repeated attacks of tonsillitis which can only be stopped by removing the tonsils.
2. Chronic or persistent enlargement of the upper deep gland of neck, without enlargement of the other glands, always means infection of the tonsils.
3. Middle ear diseases followed by mastoid infection and deafness is due to infection from tonsil and adenoid in most cases.

Infected tonsils should be removed when there is a history of rheumatism accompanied by heart disease or chorea-St. Vitus' dance.

Facts Regarding Angina Pectoris

ANGINA pectoris—breast pang not only frightens the patient but frightens the entire family, as these "heart attacks" are distressing to endure and even to watch. There is a strangling, vise-like pain in the chest over the heart or under the breast bone which is brought on by physical effort (exercise) or emotional disturbance. It lasts but a short time, during which the patient stands in whatever position he happens to be in at the time and as he stands he has the feeling that if he makes the slightest move it may be his last.

Angina pectoris is often caused by the heart muscle (the muscle which pumps the blood from the heart to all parts of the body) not receiving enough blood from the little blood vessels which supply the heart muscle with blood from the general supply as it circulates throughout the body. Naturally, if the heart muscle does not get enough pure blood it cannot work, that is, pump the blood from the heart to all parts of the body, and so no movement is made by the patient to make the heart muscle do any work until it gets a little more pure blood into it with which to continue work.

These attacks of angina pectoris are really "life savers" because the individual learns what is likely to bring on an attack—heavy work, excitement, a fit of anger or other emotional disturbance—and so by living carefully he is enabled to live a useful and often a long life.

Most angina patients carry little pearls (thin glass tubes) of amyl nitrite, that can be easily broken in a handkerchief and inhaled, which soon ends the attack.

QUESTION BOX

Q.—Please suggest another treatment other than Whitfield's ointment for athlete's foot.
A.—The symptoms are those of athlete's foot—ringworm of the feet—as your physician has pointed out. It is called eczematoid ringworm of the feet. Whitfield's ointment half strength is considered excellent treatment. The dusting powder prescribed by your physician is likely sodium thiosulphate 1 part to 4 parts boracic acid.

Too Much Water

After their much-talked-of trip abroad, the Greenings told their experience to their envious friends.
"And what did you think of Venice?" asked a neighbor.
"Venice? Venice?" murmured Mrs. Greening. Then she turned to her husband. "Did we go to Venice, George?"
"Don't you remember that we stopped there, but there was a flood on, so we didn't leave the station?"

Cause for Anger

Jameson—Why the anger?
Jimson—I met a woman sitting along the road with all her furniture and belongings, thought she was an evicted share-cropper or something, and gave her five dollars.
"Well?"
"She thanked me kindly, and told me her husband was just papering the first floor of the house before they moved in the new piano."

VEGETABLES SERVED STREAMLINED FASHION
(See Recipes Below.)

NEW WAYS WITH VEGETABLES

The time may come when we will get all our vitamins in little pellets, but I doubt it—not when eating vegetables is as much fun as it is. There would be a big gap in our meals if such things as tender little green beans or whole carrots rolled in butter, disappeared from the dinner table. Success in cooking vegetables depends on such small things—the amount of water in the pan, whether the cover is on or off, whether the vegetables are removed from the heat when they are just tender or allowed to continue cooking until they become slightly mushy.

Remember, it's "covers off," for all green-colored vegetables. Then the acids which are given off during cooking are not held in the pan where they turn the brilliant green color to a dull olive. To keep the vitamins in the vegetables instead of losing them in the cooking water use just as little liquid as possible. For mild-flavored vegetables an inch of water in the bottom of the pan to keep the pieces from burning is ample. Vegetables like spinach, which contain a great deal of water, should be cooked in the moisture which clings to the leaves after washing.

And if you value your vitamins, never, never discard the liquid from canned vegetables. Place it in a saucepan, heat until the liquor evaporates to about one-half, then add the vegetable and heat to serving temperature.

Lima Bean Casserole.
(Makes 6 servings)
1 10-ounce can tomatoes (1½ cups)
2 medium-sized onions (minced)
1 small green pepper (finely chopped)
2 tablespoons molasses
½ teaspoon dry mustard
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
1 No. 2 can green lima beans (2½ cups)
6 strips bacon

Put tomatoes through sieve, add minced onion and green pepper and simmer for 15 minutes. Then add molasses, mustard, salt, pepper and butter. Stir until well mixed. Drain lima beans and arrange in a shallow, well-greased casserole. Pour sauce over them and arrange strips of bacon over top. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) for 20 minutes or until bacon is crisp. Serve piping hot.

Beets, Orange-Style.
(Makes 6 servings)
3 tablespoons grated orange rind
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon paprika
1 tablespoon sugar
1 tablespoon water
2 tablespoons lemon juice
4 tablespoons butter
½ cup orange juice
½ tablespoon cornstarch
1 tablespoon water
3 cups cooked beets (sliced)

Place orange rind, salt, paprika, sugar, water and lemon juice in saucepan and simmer for 5 minutes. Cream butter until soft, and add it to hot mixture together with orange juice. Blend cornstarch and water to a smooth paste and add to sauce. Cook slowly, stirring occasionally, until sauce is thickened and cornstarch is thoroughly cooked, about 15 minutes. Pour over hot cooked beets and mix lightly but thoroughly. For company dinners serve the beets in orange shells.

Corn and Bacon Rings.
(Makes 8 servings)
7 slices bacon
2 eggs
1 12-ounce can whole kernel corn
2 tablespoons flour
½ teaspoon salt
Few grains pepper
¼ teaspoon baking powder
½ cup milk

Line muffin tins or custard cups with sliced bacon. Snip edges with kitchen scissors to prevent curling. Beat eggs slightly, and add well-drained corn. Sift flour, salt, pepper and baking powder together and add to corn together with milk. Fill bacon rings with this mixture. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees Fahrenheit) for 35 to 40 minutes, or until firm.

Peanut Butter Crust.
1 cup flour (all-purpose)
Few grains salt
2 tablespoons peanut butter
4 tablespoons shortening
2 tablespoons ice water (about)

Sift flour once before measuring, then sift together with salt. Cut in peanut butter and shortening with a pastry blender, two knives or rub it in with the fingers. Lightly stir in ice water, using a fork, until mixture forms a stiff dough. Turn out onto a lightly floured board, and roll out to fit top of casserole. Cut several slits in crust to allow steam to escape. Place over top of casserole and seal edges.

French-Fried Green Pepper Rings.

(Makes 6 servings)
4 large green peppers
1 egg (well-beaten)
1 tablespoon water
½ cup fine, dry bread crumbs
¾ teaspoon salt
¼ cup flour

Wash green peppers, cut into thin slices (about ¼ inch thick) and remove seeds and membrane. Combine beaten egg with water. Season bread crumbs with salt. Dip rings first in egg mixture, then in flour. Dip again in the egg mixture, and finally in crumbs. Fry them, a few at a time, in deep fat at (375 degrees Fahrenheit) until nicely browned, 2 to 3 minutes. Drain on absorbent paper. The green pepper rings are excellent with broiled steak.

Any-Season Spinach.

(Makes 4 servings)
1 14-ounce box quick-frozen spinach
1 cup water
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
2 tablespoons butter
1 hard-cooked egg

Place water in saucepan, add salt and heat to a brisk boil. Drop frozen spinach into boiling water, bring again to a boil and cook 4 to 6 minutes or until just tender, separating the leaves with fork during cooking. Remove from fire and drain thoroughly at once. Add butter, salt and pepper. Garnish with slices of hard-cooked egg. Reserve the liquid to use in a vegetable soup or stew.

Vegetable Pie, Peanut Butter Crust.

(Makes 6 servings)
12 small white onions
3 carrots (sliced)
2 tablespoons butter
3 tablespoons flour
1½ cups hot water
2 beef bouillon cubes
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon paprika
¼ teaspoon celery salt
1 cup canned or cooked peas
1 cup canned or cooked green beans

Place onions in saucepan with 1 cup water. Cook for 10 minutes, then add sliced carrots and continue to cook until both vegetables are tender (about 15 minutes). Cooked leftover onions and carrots may be substituted. Melt butter and blend with flour to a smooth paste. Dissolve bouillon cubes in hot water and add to flour together with salt, paprika, and celery salt. Cook, stirring constantly, until thickened, about 10 minutes. Combine onions, carrots, peas, and beans with sauce and place in shallow greased baking dish. The ingredients should come nearly to the top of the dish. Top with peanut butter pastry and bake in a hot oven (425 degrees Fahrenheit) for about 20 minutes.

Now You Won't Have to Build a New Garage

Four New Additions to the Buick SPECIAL Line now give you Big-Car Pleasure in More Compact Size!

Buick SPECIAL 4-door Sedan, model 47, $1021. White sidewall tires extra*

IN search for impressive size, cars have been getting longer every year. Bumper has retreated from bumper until there's hardly room left in the family garage for the lawn mower and the good wife's gardening basket. Does that mean you'll have to build a new garage to enjoy a big car's glories? Not now! For there are four new Buicks on the market—additions to our 1941 SPECIAL series—that let you indulge your big-car tastes in spite of 1929-car-size garages.

They are big cars in ability—with a 115-horsepower Buick FIREBALL engine that can be stepped up to 125 "horse" by the addition of Compound Carburetion.*

They are big cars in their room—with plenty of leg-, elbow- and head-room in their spacious interiors.

But—they fit your garage, handle like baby carriages, park on small change —all because we have trimmed down their bumper-to-bumper length!

So if you've been itching for a big car—but wondering where you'd find room for it—better hop right over to see these beauties now. You'll call them the season's biggest news!

"Please Deliver 1,000 Miles of Telephone Wire"

SOUNDS like a staggering order, doesn't it? But to Western Electric it's commonplace. The resources of this central supply unit are great enough to meet stupendous demands. Through scientific purchasing and standardized, large-scale production, it provides the companies of the Bell System with the best of telephone equipment at low cost. At this time, when rapid expansion of telephone service is a defense necessity, the Michigan Bell can rely on this dependable source of supply.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PAR'ON
(Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK—Adam Smith described economics as a science and then added, "Science is an antidote to the poison of enthusiasm."

FDR's Economist It is possible that President Roosevelt's personal economist, rarely heard or seen, serves as such an antidote when impulsive action is indicated. He is the somewhat dimly outlined Dr. Lauchlin Currie, graying at 37, clothed in gray, as though in protective coloring, a shadow-shape in the Washington fogs of doubt and uncertainty.

Dr. Currie not only delves into mountains of detail, as did Hay and Nicolay for Lincoln, in another critical hour in March, 1860, but he is a deep fount of economic doctrine. He has not been credited with the inspiration for the lease-lend bill for aid to Britain, but it is interesting to note that in April, 1938, he put forward a plan to solve railroad troubles by a leasing-lending procedure in which the roads would get equipment much in the manner in which Britain would get war goods under the new bill.

As the "last of the brain-trusters," he is an advocate of the full utilization of technical resources by clearing them of financial entanglements and commitments, so far as possible. The late Thorstein Veblen foreshadowed these techniques. Dr. Currie is a native of Nova Scotia who became an American citizen in 1934. He joined the New Deal in that year, three years after taking his doctorate at Harvard, as an assistant economist under Jacob Viner of the treasury department. Later he was taken over by Marriner Eccles of the Federal Reserve board as an assistant in the division of research.

He is not only the President's personal economist, but his liaison man in economic matters, appointed as one of those six White House assistants, "with a passion for anonymity," which passion seems fairly authentic in his case. He was a teacher at Harvard and an industrial consultant in Boston before going to Washington.

All of which is a reminder that the average man's wife is his personal economist and that she frequently is an "antidote to the poison of enthusiasm."

IF ADAM SMITH were alive, he would note that Mlle. Eve Currie's scientific antecedents had not dimmed any of her enthusiasms.

Science Has Not Curbed Emotion The daughter of Marie Curie arrives on the S. S. Excambion boiling with enthusiasm for free France and for democracy and civilization in general, science or no science.

Her previous trips over here had made her a favorite in this country and her charm, intelligence and beauty have been eloquently extolled.

Her burning black eyes might be called "an antidote to the poison of indifference." She qualified in science, at the Sorbonne, but turned to music in 1926, a gifted pianist, praised by her friend Paderewski. With all her other gifts, she is an athlete and a first-rate bowler.

And with all that, women rave about her clothes. Writing has supplanted music as her chief interest and she has been highly praised for her biography of her mother, published in 1938. Her proficiency in higher mathematics rounds out a perfect score for one of the most highly esteemed of our gang-plank celebrities.

ERICA MORINI, whose recent concert drew an overflow crowd to the Town Hall, frequently has been called "the greatest woman violinist." She doesn't like it. While she notes that there have been, in nearly three centuries, only 73 distinguished women violinists, as against thousands of men, she insists that the lag is due only to the fact that women have been too busy with homes and children to bring through their talents. She thinks the above accolade is patronizing to her sex.

When Adolf Hitler's tanks rolled into her native Vienna, the comely young violinist moved out, with her $45,000 Stradivarius. It was in 1921 that she first came to New York, a child prodigy in pig-tails, making her American debut with the New York Philharmonic in a recital which one critic termed "the greatest violin sensation since Kreisler." Her father was Italian, one of a long line of musicians, but none so gifted as she. She defies snobs and highbrows by playing Victor Herbert and Stephen Foster along with the violin classics.

(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

FORT DIX, N. J.—Taking advantage of a snowfall along the eastern seaboard, members of the 44th Division's ski patrol glide down a hill in their first maneuvers in this huge army encampment. Warfare knows no seasons, so Uncle Sam must prepare to fight under any condition. The patrol pictured here was organized by Lieut. Eric Wilkner, formerly of Lapland, Sweden, but now of New York's 113th infantry.

EIGHT YEARS: Of Hitler

On the eighth anniversary of his assumption of power, Adolf Hitler told his people and the world that U. S. aid for Great Britain "will be torpedoed" and that "Europe will defend itself" in case "those people" (meaning Americans) enter the war.

A cheering crowd of 20,000 gathered at the Berlin Sports palace for the speech heard the German dictator tell of Nazi plans to defeat England in the coming months. He said that Germany had "armed and armed and armed" and that anyone seeking to destroy that nation would get a rude awakening. He told also of Germany's preparation of military surprises that will be used in the coming battles. He said that enemy hopes for revolts in Italy because of Italian setbacks were in vain. The British were challenged to invade the continent.

Hitler declared that 1941 "will be the historical year of a great new order in Europe." He said also that Germany has never been against American interests.

BRITAIN'S NEED: Congress Considers

There was a growing feeling in congress that unless the President's measure to permit him to lend or lease material supplies to Britain was passed soon, the Germans would arrive before American arms. Administration leaders made concessions to opponents of the bill in order to obtain greater speed. They agreed to set a time limit on the President's powers, they were willing that a clause should be contained in the bill to prohibit convey by U. S. naval ships, and they were agreeable to an amendment which would require the President to report every three months to congress.

Further they would not go and efforts to make the proposal ineffectual by further amendment met firm resistance. Meanwhile supply and military experts held conferences with the new British ambassador, Viscount Halifax, whose arrival in America was unprecedented. He came on the H.M.S. King George V, a new battleship just recently launched and which was not yet known to be in commission. He was met at Annapolis by President Roosevelt.

MISSION: Failure Expected

Kichisaburo Nomura, admiral of Japan, is a graduate of the United States naval academy. During the World war he was Japanese naval attaché in Washington and a close friend of the then assistant secretary of the navy, Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Now Admiral Nomura, admittedly a pro-American among Japanese, is en route to Washington as the new ambassador from Tokyo. He sailed, he said, on what promised to be "a mission of failure." Younger men, offered the job, turned it down. They said it would be sure to end their political careers.

But Admiral Nomura is a man of courage. He lost an eye when a bomb was thrown and killed several other politicians. He received a glass eye from the empress herself. Before he left Tokyo he had a duplicate made, in case anything

LOS ANGELES, CALIF.—Embarrassed naval officers have threatened disciplinary action against any sailor who might have helped Shirley Dale, 23, pictured above, aboard the U. S. destroyer Long, two hours before it sailed for Honolulu. She was discovered and put ashore.

DEBTS: U. S. Needs Money

Congress is ready to consider plans to increase the national debt limit and raise additional funds to finance defense efforts already authorized. The present debt limit, set by congress, is $45,000,000,000. Chairman Doughton, of the house ways and means committee, introduced legislation to raise this limit to $65,000,000,000.

At the same time a plan was submitted for selling 25-cent defense stamps to the general public. The plan parallels the War Savings stamps of 1917.

Meanwhile the committee of federal finances of the United States Chamber of Commerce sounded a warning. It recommended a federal agency to "co-ordinate the debt program with the general fiscal plan." They also suggested congress establish the debt limit at a sum only necessary to cover the necessary borrowing immediately in sight. "Financially," the report said, "the government is in a wilderness."

DRAFT: Harsh Words

In England the government has had the power since the early days of the war to draft manpower and capital for defense. Virtually the same powers were voted to President Roosevelt under the selective service act. In neither country has there been much of a crackdown on industry, the force of the law being sufficient to compel co-operation of recalcitrant plants.

But now England is talking of drafting labor to man its factories and in Washington there has been threat to use the power on one or two industries. Most vocal of these instances was at a meeting of the lumber and timber products defense committee when Leon Henderson, defense commissioner in charge of price control, warned that prices must be cut sharply and production speeded.

Henderson said there had been some improvement. He said prices in December dropped to $35.01 per 1,000 board feet but would have to come down to $25, or the government would take over. "I've had all the arguments, excuses and explanations I want and a whole lot more than I need," he said and stalked from the meeting.

In the Army

Winthrop Rockefeller, grandson of the late John D. Rockefeller, got up one morning at 5 a. m. and reported at the New York recruiting office at 6 for transportation to Fort Dix, N. J. He'll never get rich, he's in the army now—as a private.

On the other hand, Ernest Eisle, 22, of Pontiac, Mich., who fought to evade the draft, is dead. When federal officers called with a warrant for evasion, a gun fight resulted. Two officers were stabbed and young Eisle fatally shot.

With the approach of spring the draft will be speeded. The objective is 800,000 men in camp under the selective service law before June 1. Between now and then the monthly drafts will reach about 100,000 men.

Boy Scout Work Encourages Confidence in Young America

By WARREN WILLIAM
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)
WASHINGTON, D. C. — Plagued by fears of world disaster, Americans will find new encouragement in the future of this country during Boy Scout week, February 7 to 13. More than 1,500,000 future citizens are enrolled in this nation-wide organization which follows the slogan, "Be Prepared."

Fully conscious of the emergency facing America today, the Boy Scouts are endeavoring to become a signal and effective asset to the country. Scout officials point out that the new slogan, "Strengthening and Invigorating Democracy," is more than just a slogan—it is a plan of action.

Take 'Roll Call.'
First step in this new program was taken last September. Because it was done smoothly and efficiently, few persons were even conscious of the nation-wide roll call and inventory taken in every one of the 40,000 Scout units throughout the nation. This work forms the basis of an extensive plan to make Scouting more effective.

In many communities older boys are making ready to act as Emergency Service Corps, trained to apply Scout lore in assisting the Red Cross and other existing agencies in times of disaster.

Invaluable services performed by Boy Scouts during emergencies are familiar to almost all Americans. Every year brings additional accounts of youngsters who save lives through prompt action made possible by their rudimentary training in first aid and self-reliance.

Help in Emergencies.
New England and Florida, still recovering from the hurricanes and floods of 1938, remember the Boy Scouts with warmth. Running messages, taking care of refugees, and many times actually saving lives in dramatic episodes, these Scouts showed themselves to be fine examples of young manhood.

These teen-age boys also proved their worth during the World war by selling more than $400,000,000 worth of Liberty Loan subscriptions. They also distributed $43,000,000 worth of War Savings Stamps and located over 5,200 carloads of standing walnut trees for defense authorities.

"Learning by doing" is the only "secret" to the ability of Boy Scouts to meet emergencies. Their program is an active one, stressing outdoor life and self-reliance.

The Boy Scouts of America were founded as the result of a "good turn" performed by an unknown Scout in London. During the winter of 1910 the late William D. Boyce, a Chicago publisher, was in London on a business trip. One evening when he became hopelessly lost in a heavy fog, a boy appeared out of the night and offered to guide him. Mr. Boyce handed the youth a tip, but he refused it, saying he was a Boy Scout and part of his duty was to be helpful.

Familiar to millions of Americans is this symbolic picture of a Boy Scout. It has appeared on the front cover of the Scout Handbook for many years.

The result was the founding of an organization in America that has attracted more than 8,700,000 persons during the last 31 years.

Taft Honorary President.
President William Taft accepted the office of honorary president proffered him immediately upon the organization's incorporating, and since that time each succeeding President has held that office.

Great progress was made in 1911 to put the organization on a sound basis. The national council was established and the first annual meeting was held at the White House. The first edition of the Handbook was published and the Scout oath, law, badge and fundamental policies were adopted. Before the end of the year the membership grew to include 61,500 Scouts and organizers.

The Scout movement was expanded to include members in every state during 1912. Sea Scouting was launched and Boys' Life was purchased to become the official magazine. During the spring of 1913 the Scouts gave their first assistance in a major disaster when spring floods inundated parts of Ohio and Indiana.

After the end of the World war in 1918, the Scouts rendered first-aid service throughout the country in the influenza epidemic. That year Rotary clubs started the present wide-spread co-operation by business men's clubs and other institutions in sponsoring troops.

Half-Million Members.
Membership in the Boy Scouts of America passed the half-million mark in 1920. The first International Scout Jamboree which was held in London that year was attended by representatives from 32 countries, including 300 from the United States.

Today, with the largest membership in its history, the Boy Scouts of America are ready for any demands that may be made of them in the present world crisis. It is ready not only to act in case of emergency, but it is ready to continue to uphold American democracy.

Author Describes 'Life After Death'

Claims Ample Experiment Provides Real Proof For His Theory.

NEW YORK.—Though differing in its military phase, World war II nonetheless appears to be running true to the form of World war I in an aspect important in the opinion of psychologists. That aspect has to do with revival of wide-spread interest in what from the religious standpoint is called spiritualism and in scientific circles is known as psychical research.

It was during the mass killings of the first World war that Conan Doyle stopped the flow of his famous Sherlock Holmes detective stories to announce boldly that he was in communication with the dead and could prove it. The rest of his life was given over to offering that proof, or what he thought was proof of his theory.

'Speaks' With Dead.
Actuated by the same conviction, Sir Oliver Lodge, one of the great physical scientists of all time, brought consolation into millions of bereaved British homes by his book, "Raymond." In it he related conversations he believed he had had with his son after the latter's death in action during a battle "somewhere in France."

But the psychic work of Doyle and that of Lodge were only examples of the hundreds of "revelations" published in England and America between 1914 and 1920—by ouija board operators, table-tilters and amateur clairvoyants as well as by trained scientific experimenters. In addition, strange tales had been brought back by soldiers who had fought at the front. Many still remember the story of the Angels of Mons.

And now with Europe once more drenched in blood, with people being killed daily and whole populations living under hourly threat of death, men of achievement like Lodge and Doyle are again testifying to their conviction that those who have died can and do communicate with the living. And this time something more than mere testimony is being offered. One book, just published, "The Unobstructed Universe," by Stewart Edward White, undertakes to chafe a program for proving survival by physical experiment and not just through so-called revelation.

Life After Death.
He has embarked on what he considers an even more important exploring task—that of finding out and reporting what goes on beyond the very borders of life itself. Why he believes he has succeeded in this new exploration is told in "The Unobstructed Universe."

His interest in psychical research is due largely to the persistence of his wife, Betty. It had long been established that she herself was possessed of remarkable psychic powers. But White was skeptical 20 years ago of his wife's excursions into a forbidden frontier which he could not explore himself. An unusually practical man, he had to be shown, and was at last convinced only by the mounting weight of evidence she provided.

It was a logical outcome of their joint psychic experiments that, after his wife's death in April, 1939, White set about seeking to establish contact with her. How, in his own belief, he finally succeeded he related in "The Unobstructed Universe."

White's book purports to present a detailed report of how the spiritual form retains its personal identity; how it is fed, clothed and sheltered. The work and even the pleasures of life after death are described.

Of intense interest is the explanation offered of how the transcended individual lives on with earthly friends, though unseen—not merely as a memory, but as a fully aware person.

Some will think, as they did in the case of Conan Doyle and Sir Oliver Lodge, that Stewart Edward White, self-deceived, is just another brilliant writer of good literature gone wrong.

"I don't object to that," he says. "It's part of the game of putting over a new idea."

THE CHRISTIAN'S ATTITUDE TOWARD POSSESSIONS

LESSON TEXT—Luke 16:10-15, 19-23.
GOLDEN TEXT—Ye cannot serve God and mammon.—Luke 16:13.

"In the service" is an expression much used today. Every community has young men in the service of their country. But they are not the only "service men," for the fact is that every man and woman serves under some authority. Our lesson today reminds us that our attitude toward our possessions determines both character and destiny. We decide whether they shall rule us or we shall rule them.

I. Who Is Your Master—God or Gold? You Decide! (vv. 10-15).

The decision here is of the "either—or" variety. "Ye cannot serve God and mammon" (which means "riches").

Money itself is neither good nor bad. It is the use to which it is put that determines whether it is to bless or to destroy. Rightly gained and rightly used, money is an honor to the man who has it, and will, through him, become a means of blessing. On the other hand, money which controls a man will blast his own soul and those of others round him.

Who decides which it shall be? You—and you alone. Here we come to the central truth of the matter. "He that is faithful in that which is least is faithful also in much" (v. 10). We generally read that as though it said, "He that is now faithful in a little will later have an opportunity to be faithful in much." That may be true, but what Jesus said here was that he "is faithful in much."

The point is that the man who is faithful in the much shows that life attitude by being faithful in the little. That is, only the man who is right in the great matter of his relationship with God will be the ruler over his possessions for the glory of God and the good of his fellow man.

Someone may say, "I don't believe that." Well, you are in bad company (see vv. 14, 15). The Pharisees, who loved money, who were self-righteous, and whose attitude was an abomination in the sight of God, derided the words of Jesus. If you don't like that kind of companion, I invite you to come over on God's side.

II. Where Will You Spend Eternity? Your Life Decides (vv. 19-23).

Our life beyond the grave is determined by our life on this side of death. Yes, we know that eternal life is a gift of God received by faith in Christ as Saviour, quite apart from our own works or our merit. But let us not forget that this means far more than uttering a few words of profession or going through a formula.

The man who really turns to Christ in saving faith becomes a new creature; he is born again (I Pet. 1:23). That means that he walks "in newness of life" (Rom. 6:4). And thus his life in this world determines both by decision for Christ and daily living for Him that he will, like Lazarus, be received into eternal blessedness.

Sad to say, the opposite is also true. Living as the rich man did, for self, will bring judgment in the world to come. There is no indication that he was especially wicked, but only that he loved his money, revelled in the flamboyant display of his wealth (v. 19), and had no thought for others (v. 21). Here again, the point is that these outward deeds were the expression of a heart attitude against God.

Death came to both of these men. It will come to all of us, unless the Lord returns to take us to Himself. It is not a pleasant matter to think of death, but only the unintelligent will fail to recognize the coming of that day. When it comes, it may be too late to make any real life decisions. Now is the acceptable time. Today is the day of salvation.

The verses immediately following our lesson in chapter 16 indicate that the decision of men concerning their relationship to God is not dependent on the miraculous, but on moral and spiritual truth. The man who says he would believe if he could only see God perform a miracle is only evading the issue. Verse 31 says that the man who rejects God's Word does so because he wants to, not because he needs to be convinced by a miracle.

We Sleep to Wake

One who never turned his back, but marched breast-forward, Never doubted clouds would break; Never dreamed, though right were worsted, wrong would triumph; Held we fall to rise, are baffled to fight better, Sleep to wake.

—Robert Browning.

6. What sorcerer in mythology changed men to swine?
7. When were the first dining cars introduced by railroads?
8. War is compared with which of the ancient gods?
9. How much does it cost to feed each man at the army cantonments?

The Answers

1. A farewell drink.
2. Suez canal, cut in 1859-69.
3. Caligula.
4. The word "set" has more meanings and more possible uses than any other term in the English language. In defining and describing it, the Oxford dictionary, for example, employs 30,000 words.
5. Sheep.
6. Circe.
7. The first railway dining car was introduced on the Baltimore & Ohio route in 1863.
8. Moloch (a god, worshiped by several Semitic peoples), to whom human sacrifices were offered.
9. In the camps in the army's Fourth corps area (N. C., S. C., Ga., Fla., Ala., Tenn., Miss., and La.) 42 cents is spent on food per man per day. While this sum will vary slightly from area to area, it is expected to be about the average.

Neighbor Seemed to Find Memento Interesting Now!

There came a rap on the kitchen door, and Mrs. Brown opened it to admit her neighbor, in a state of great indignation.

"It's that mischievous boy of yours," cried the enraged woman, holding up a brick. "He's thrown this right through my window."

A delighted look came over Mrs. Brown's face.

"Really! How interesting!" she remarked. "I wonder if you will let me have the brick? We're keeping all the little mementoes of his youthful pranks—they'll be so interesting when Herbert grows up."

World's Largest Airport Nears Completion in Miami

MIAMI, FLA.—The world's largest commercial aviation landing field, a 900-acre tract with runways a mile long, is nearing completion on the outskirts of Miami.

Known as the Miami International Air terminal, the new air base will be the clearing house for all air traffic between the United States, the West Indies and the South American Republics. It represents a potential expenditure of more than $9,000,000.

Present plans call for the runways and landing field facilities to be completed by July 1, when the new airport will be formally placed in service.

Last year during a period of six months 1,152 planes entered or cleared Miami to and from the West Indies, Cuba and Central and South American countries, carrying 45,814 passengers, 243,428 pounds of mail, and 291,540 pounds of express, valued at more than $5,500,000.

TAWAS CITY LOSES TO OSCODA (By Nelson Thornton)

Last Friday evening the "Maroon and Whites," of Tawas City high school, lost to Oscoda high school "Big Guns" to the tune of 44 to 20.

The first half of the game was an exciting see-saw battle with Oscoda leading at the half by one point. But, at the beginning of the second half, the visitors let loose with a field goal barrage which completely swamped our boys.

High score honors for the game goes to Kennedy, of Oscoda, who had a total of 17 points for his evening's share of the game. Harold Ross shot the inflated sphere through the hoop for seven points to pace the home-sters. Though losing, the Tawas City team must be given a great deal of credit for their fine playing against a team which is considered one of the best in this district.

This Friday, February 7, the Tawas City high school team travels to Harrisville to play a return game with the High School team of that place. Harrisville defeated the Tawas City team earlier in the season.

Oscoda Band Steals Limelight

With the Oscoda basketball teams came one of the snappiest and best organized bands that has ever paraded in a local gymnasium.

Trimly attired in royal blue uniforms with white trimmings, the Oscoda 50-piece band stole the limelight from the basketball teams. Before the games and throughout the halves the band played varied arrangements and popular marches.

The outstanding feature of this band, however, was its marching and floor formations. Led by an eighth grade drum majorette, whose ability was little short of miraculous, the band formed a T. C. for Tawas City and then a revolving O. for Oscoda, meanwhile playing their school song. One thing was noticeable throughout the performance—discipline and coordination—the qualities which make an excellent band.

School Notes

GETTING THINGS DONE

Going back to the not too distant past we recall rumblings now and then about someone building an electric scoreboard for use at our basketball games. But, for the most part, these were just rumblings.

Fortunately, there is always that person who gets tired of hearing repeatedly about what someone is going to do, but who never gets down to the actual doing of the thing. And, of course, this person will sooner or later demand action and get things done. It remained for Hugh Prescott to take the initiative on the scoreboard project.

If you were at the game last Friday evening you would have seen on our stage an electric score-board that performed accurately and of which we can be proud, and particularly, in light of the fact that Hugh had only an old dilapidated clock with which to begin. He acquired a few necessary materials, applied his characteristic ingenuity, went to work and got things done.

The total cost to the school for this piece of work, is about $4.00. The cheapest electric score-board on the selling market costs about $128.00. We needed an electric score-board for tournament play. How were we going to get it with a serious deficit facing the athletic program of our school? Well, the answer rested with a fellow who gets things done. That's what counts. Thanks to you, Hugh, and to you too, "C. T." for your fine assistance in having this ready and operating at our game last week.

BAND FESTIVAL

The music directors of the surrounding schools held a conference on February 1 and arranged a tentative program for the Band Festival of 1941.

The festival will again be held at Oscoda and probably will consist of about eleven bands. The festival will be held on May 16. The customary parade of all bands will take place in the morning, the individual concerts of the bands in the afternoon, and the main event, the mass band concert, will be held in the evening.

This program is as yet tentative and is subject to changes at the requests of the directors of the bands.
