FARM NOTES

Saturday, February 22, is the last day for accepting sugar beet requests for accerage allotment forms in the Iosco County Agricultural Conserva-tion Association office. Those farmers who intend to grow sugar heets in 1941 should send their request forms to the county office without delay. Failure to forward these forms to the county office will result in receiving no allotments for planting sugar beet acreage for 1941.

The attention of all ex-servicemen is called to the national defense regis_ tration which will be taking place all over the United States on Saturday,

February 22. This is a voluntary registration and does not increase the obligation of the veteran beyond that of an ordinary citizen. It is felt, however, that the ex-service man, having served his country so well at one time, would be particularly interested in serving again within the scope of his ability should a local or national emergency arise. The Audie Johnson Post No. 211 of the American Legion is calling a special meeting February 19 and is likewise having a person on duty all day Saturday, February 22, at the Legion hall to assist in the registration.

died on Washington's birthday-February 22, 1827. Being the son of an artist, it was only natural perhaps that

February 22, 1778-and his father

Rembrandt Peale should become a Christianity. painter. So it is not surprising to learn that he began to draw at the age of eight and by the time he was 13 he had painted a portrait of himself.

Charles Willson Peale had made the first known portrait of Washington (painted in 1772 and depicting him as an officer in the Virginia militia) and had served as a captain of volunteers under him at the Battle of Trenton. When Washington became President, he was constantly importuned to sit for his portrait. Some of these requests he denied, but he could not refuse his old friend, when in 1795 Charles Willson Peale asked him to pose for his talented young son, Rembrandt. In fact, he granted the boy three sittings in his father's studio in Philadelphia and the portrait reproduced

This portrait of Washington was the only one which Rembrandt Peale made from life, but another of his pictures of the First American, not drawn from life, is even more famous. Known as the "Equestrian Portrait" it is entitled "Washington Before Yorktown" and it was not made until 1823. But when Chief Justice John Marshall, who had served under Washington in the Revolution, saw it, he exclaimed "It is more like Washington himself than any portrait I have ever seen." In 1796 Charles Willson Peale decided to give up portrait painting and recommended his talented son, who knows the real thing, they are "just imitations." Particularly is that true in the realm of the spiritual. Make-believe faith in God fools only the hypocrite and those who know as little as he does of real Prayer is undoubtedly the greatest privilege of the Christian, putting him and his life in touch with the omnipotence of God. But it must be real prayer, not just some formal exercise which masquerades under the name of prayer. We combine the two parables of our lesson to contrast prevailing prayer and powerless prayer. I. Prevailing Prayer.

The prayer which really lays hold upon God and brings results must be the expression of a life of prayer. It is no occasional effort brought about by a great need or a deep sorrow. We must pray

1. Without Ceasing (v. 1). Jesus had just been talking of the trying days which were to come (Luke 17:26-30). To stand fast for Christ in a day when almost all the influences are against such faith, a man needs real prayer or he will surely faint.

To pray constantly is not necessarily to be saying the words of prayer, but is the outreach of the life toward God, the setting of our minds on things above. That we can and may do at all times and in all places.

2. With Assurance (vv. 2-9). If an unjust judge will respond just to escape the constant plea of a widow, we may rest assured that God, who is just and looks upon His people in loving-kindness, will not fail to respond to their plea. He says, "Call unto me, and I will answer thee, and show thee great and mighty things, which thou knowest (Jer. 33:3). not"

3. In Humility (vv. 13, 14). We come to God, not to demand, but to humbly plead the blood of Jesus Christ. That was what the publican did. When he said, "Lord, be merciful," he used the word "propitiated," which refers to the mercy seat on which the blood was sprinkled as a propitiation for sin (see Exod. 25:17, 18, 21; Heb. 9:5; Lev. 16:5). Such a plea brought salvation to the repentant sinner.

II. Powerless Prayer.

We use the word prayer here in the broad sense, for strictly speaking there is no such thing as prayer without power. Men call it prayer, but it accomplishes nothing because it is offered 1. In Self-sufficiency (vv. 9, 11). Those who trust "in themselves" will naturally do what the Pharisee did; he "prayed with himself." "He had an intellectual conviction, but that does not make a contact with God. Hell is full of intellectual conviction. God? Oh, yes. But he was so occupied with himself he could not get away from himself" (Mor-

Our neighbors were coming back.

"You are a good egg, you know. think you've suffered a lot tonight."

I did not tell her how much or why. I only answered: "Not at all."

She wrinkled her straight little nose at me and jeered:

"Spoken like a gentleman of the old school. Mr. Wagner got you down and you know it. He helped me, though, if that's any comfort." "It's more than that," I told her, and she glanced at me again as though she expected to find somewhere the starters' whistles stabbed through the racket of cars and, at last, found a taxi-cab. I helped her in and gave the driver her address. "Must we?" she asked as I sat down beside her. I was a little stupefied by too much music on an empty stomach.

I said: "You ask the blindest questions." "And you," she answered, "don't seem to have any human feelings at all. Aren't you ever hungry or anything?'

"Anything! I'm practically everything. So what?" "All right," she snapped, "if you insist on being led, instead of lead-ing me, astray! I'd like to go to Mino's.'

"Mino's?" Somewhere I had heard that name. She misunderstood my hesitation and tried so tactfully to reassure a poor employee of her aunt that I smiled. "One of the things I want most in the world at present is a chicken sandwich and a seidel of beer." "My child," I told her, "your ambition touches me. It does indeed. Give me the address."

The cab swung east at my new order. I asked:

"Why should Mino's mean anything to a boy from the countryand what?"

"It shouldn't," she - answered. "Maybe, you've heard Grove or me speak of it. He likes it and he used to take me there a lot. Perhaps," she added, and I thought her voice grew tighter, "he'll be there tonight." "That'll be swell," I said as heartily as I could but she marked the hollow sound.

"You don't like Grove. And it's my fault."

"No," I answered, "it's probably mine."

I hit my foot against the wine bucket and I said:

"Excuse me." Instinct supplied the words. Thereafter, I had no others. In the booth, where I had heard the dire voice raised, sat Ione and Lyon Ferriter. I had rushed for an avenue to the end of mystery and had slammed up against a blank wall. If my face were stupid with amazement, the Ferriters' were calm. Ione smiled, though I thought her eyes widened. There was no flaw in Lyon's greeting. "My dear chap," he said and real pleasure sounded in his easy voice,

'this is splendid. Sit down.' He half rose and held out his hand.

"Thanks," I said inanely, "I just wanted-to say hello." "But sit down," Lyon urged, mak-

"And I suppose your stampede to their booth was just a social call, eh?"

She was the one person in the world to whom I wanted to tell everything and I knew I would gain merit in her eyes by confiding in her. She was watching me with a fairer version of her aunt's derisive grin. I only said:

"Curiosity rather. I thought I rec-ognized his voice." Perhaps, for that, the recording angel pasted a gold star on my report. "You are," she told me, "the most chronic liar I ever met." "You're just beginning to appreciate my virtues," I answered. After a moment, she shivered a little and drew her coat up about her shoulders.

"Can the rest of them be dis-played in a taxicab?" she asked, "I think we'd better go." I knew she was worrying afresh over her no-account brother. "There could be no better showcase," I boasted, as we rome.

The band blared its climax; the dancing girls skipped back to their dressing room in a rattle of applause. Beer rested uneasily in my stomach as I got my coat and hat from the check girl. I found myself shivering. Not even the smile Allegra gave me as I helped her into the taxicab dispelled my misery. She was of the flotsam, the dark whirlpool into which we all were caught and whirled about ever more rapidly.

We sat speechless while the taxy rolled uptown until silence grew uncomfortable. I said at last, to keep thought at bay:

"I'll remember this evening. It's one thing more I owe you and your aunt. I hope the pay-off will come some day.

I knew the words were stilted while I spoke, but only half my mind had followed them.

Lyon had been the murderer. Why? Lyon had spoken over the telephone, again in the restaurant, in a voice not his own. Or were those blunted cadences really his, and the faintly English speech he employed, part of a disguise he wore?

Beside me, Allegra chuckled. 'Must you," she asked, "behave like Electro, the mechanical man?"

"Meaning what?" I heard something more than jest behind her her. "Right," she said and her head came up again, "we'll do just that." Mino, himself, sleek as a black cat, ushered us into a wide, lowceiled chamber where a band presided over a square of dance floor. About the polished rectangle that dancers were quitting, tables were packed and beyond them along the walls were high-backed stalls. "Dance?" Allegra whispered to me. I shook my head. The smell of food was hard for a starving man to stand.

"We'll sit over by the wall then, Mino," she told her guide. "Hashas Mr. Paget been in tonight?"

Mino seemed desolated that Mr Paget had not. I did not share his grief. I gave our order to the waiter and prayed inwardly that he would be quick. From the center of the dance floor, a master of ceremonies spoke amid gusts of laughter and retired as two lines of girls pranced out on either side of the band platform. "The midnight show," Allegra said, lifting her voice above the din. "Do you mind?"

"I can take it or leave it, I think." "Doesn't," she mocked, "any sort of music please you? Have you no savagery in your breast, at all, Mister?'

If I had not matched her own deliberation when food arrived, she would have had her answer. Allegra lifted her seidel and grinned at me across it.

"Here's luck," she called through the racket.

Suddenly the music paused, the dancers held a complicated formation and before applause rattled, I heard a voice in the booth next to ours. The band reviving, blotted it The dancers stamped and whirled. I sat with my seidel still half-way to my lips. Reason told me I was mistaken. My ears defied it.

"It's not poison," Allegra said. I could not answer her. I was back at the switchboard at the Morello and the wheel had just come off Miss Agatha's chair and I had left a voice-that identical voice-to get its own number while I rushed to the old lady's aid. But the owner of that voice was dead. I must be mistaken. And yet I knew I was question. She said, with an impatient gesnow the fresh horde of doubts that cried for attention. The most l could do was to cover up and I tried to keep my voice and my face quiet as I went on:

"I'm in the next booth, with Miss Paget. I thought I recognized your voice."

I hoped that by some sound or sign he might show alarm. The thick voice must have come from this booth. I was as sure of this as I could be of anything, but Lyon was drawling on in his faintly English accent: "Then I'll not ask you both to join us, though you'd be most welcome. I think I'm beginning to bore my sister a bit." The fondness, that ever showed when he spoke of her, softened his face now. "We've been here," said Lyon, "for-when did we come in, Louis?" "Seven-thirty, sir," the lingering waiter replied. "For almost five hours, then.

Which only goes to show how much misery loves any company, eh, Mallory? I wish you'd have a glass with us. The band brayed on. My mind gyrated with the dancing chorus. "I must go back," I told Lyon.

"We were on our way home. I've had a rather strenuous day." "Good God," he said with a lit-tle shudder. "Who should know that better than I?" He frowned at the welt on his hand. Ione said in her husky voice: "I think you're pretty generous to speak to him at all, Mr. Mallory."

"Accidents," I answered flatly, 'will happen." "Which," Lyon supplied with a crooked grin, "is scarcely news to our family, eh? Good luck, old chap," he added, as I mumbled farewell and backed away. "Nice of you to hail us."

As I returned to my table, I craned my neck into the booth beyond. It was unoccupied. That voice could not have come from there. It had issued from where Ione and Lyon sat. That meant then that Lyon-I managed to smile at Allegra but my pretense was poor. She asked: "What is the matter?"

ture: "Meaning many things. Among them, your pretense of dupnbness.

"Thanks." "Or not," she pushed her attack, 'as dumb as that. Why don't you play fair?"

There was earnestness in her speech. There was appeal on the face turned to mine. The world at the minute was filled with many things I was unfitted to handle. Her warm voice was blowing away everything but thought of how much 1 wanted her. I tried to get out of danger.

"I'm at least," I told her, "that dumb. How haven't I played fair?" She did not answer for a minute Then she said in a quiet voice:

"I've told you more than I've ever told anyone else-except Grove. I-I trust you a lot. Why don't you trust me?"

"I'd trust you with anything that's mine," I said. I meant it too. She laughed, but not as if she were amused.

"So you say," she answered. "You fall over a wine bucket, you're in such a hurry to see who is in the next booth.'

She gave me the sort of look that always robbed me of my wind. Then she made it worse by slipping her strong little hand in mine. Her bright head was against my shoulder.

"You're pretty swell at that," she said.

I think the angel must have run out of gold stars before he laid aside my record that night. If] forgot all but my need of her, it was because her eyes and her soft mouth dared me; if, for an instant, I let go of everything I'd sworn to hold fast and kissed her, at least, 1 caught myself on the way down.

It wasn't the sort of kiss I, or she, wanted, yet it left us both breathless. There was ringing in my ears and I thought the cab had a flat my heart. The pressure of the diamond and platinum coronet against my forehead helped me to let her go. After a little, when I did not speak she asked in a shaky voice: "Well?"

I said none of the things I wanted to. I just patted the hand I still held and dropped it.

He intended to abandon art for agriculture but, after painting a few portraits, he was surprised to find himself hailed as a worthy successor to his famous father.

In 1804 he advertised himself as "Rembrandt, portrait painter in large and small, head of Mulberry court, leading from Sixth, three doors above Market street" and explained that he desired to be known by his first name alone, "the adjunct Peale serving only to show of whom descended." Three years later he visited Paris to paint the most distinguished men of the day and was successful in this enterprise. After a second trip to Paris in 1809, he came back to America the following year and from that time, until his death in 1860, his fame as a portraitist, a painter of historic scenes and a lithographer (one of the first to practice the art in America) was undiminished.

11, cf. v. 13). While the publican hung his head and stood afar off to offer his prayer, the Pharisee apparently took a prominent place and spoke with a loud voice. Jesus described that kind of prayers in Matthew 6:5 as just putting on a publicity "stunt." When men had seen them pray, the transaction was finished. They had not been in touch with God at all.

The result of the two prayers is so well described by Dr. J. Campbell Morgan that we quote his words:

"Two men at prayer. One, eloquently, in phrases circling round his own personality with which he was pre-eminently pleased. The other, hating his sin, and grasping out after the infinite and tender compassion of God to operate for him. . The man who justified himself remained unjustified. The man who sought the compassion of God went back to his house justified."

of Harmful Body Waste Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fall to re-move impurities that, if retained, may polson the system and upset the whole body machinery. Huge Fighting ShipReadySoon 35,000-Ton North Carolina First Battleship Added

In Twenty Years.

WASHINGTON .- The North Carolina, first battleship to be built for the United States navy in 20 years, will go into commission April 11. The most powerful fighting ship in the world, according to navy officials, she will join the battle line this summer under command of Capt. Olaf Hustvedt.

No announcement of her assignment has been made, but it is believed she will go to the Pacific and may become the flagship of the United States fleet.

The North Carolina was built at the New York navy yard. The Washington, a sister ship, is nearing completion at the Philadelphia navy yard. The speed of each ship is expected to exceed 28 knots. Each will carry nine 16-inch guns able to fire 10,000-pound shells more than 25,000 yards.

Many Experts Engaged.

The North Carolina was launched June 13 and is being completed about five months ahead of time. She is the result of more than 140 separate battleship designs, in the working out of which from 40 to 70 naval design experts were engaged. The designing covered 19 years and included studies of every type of battleship, its hull, super-structure, fire control, cruising radius, power, speed, gun power, anti-aircraft protection, etc.

The outcome, in the opinion of naval construction experts, is the best battle unit, offensively and defensively, built up to the present time. Larger ships, embodying many improvements, are under construction for the navy, but it will be two or three years before the first is ready to join the fleet. The North Carolina is one of six sister ships each of 35,000 tons and each having as a main battery nine 16-inch guns. The Massachusetts, Indiana and South Dakota will be launched this year and the Alabama early in 1942

Fourth of Name.

The North Carolina is the fourth American combat ship to bear the name of the Tar Heel state. The first was a ship of the line of 2,633 tons, mounting 74 guns, launched at Philadelphia in September, 1820. This ship was the flagship of the United States squadron in the Mediterranean from 1825 to 1827 and continued in commission until 1866. She was sold in 1867.

The second North Carolina was an armored cruiser of 14,500 tons and was a unit of the fleet from 1906 until scrapped in 1930. In the first World war she was in the overseas transport service.

Her name was changed to the Charlotte in 1920 and the name North Carolina assigned to one of the six battleships then under construction. When the naval limitation-of-armament treaty was ratified the first battleship North Carolina was scrapped along with her sister

Gold in Doodle-Bug but

Not in an Agent's Heart

KANSAS CITY, MO .- A real estate agent was amazed recently to find a hole, 15 feet wide and 25 feet deep, dug through the floor of a room in an old mansion.

Two roomers in the house, a man and a woman, told him that they were digging for gold, with the aid of a "doodle-bug."

When held over the hole, the "doodle-bug"-a glass jar suspended on a string from a magnetswung in a circle. This was a sure indication that there was gold underneath, according to the pair. "You see, you just put in the jar something made of the mineral you wish to find," the real estate agent was told. The couple had a gold wedding ring and chain in the jar.

"We had only a few feet to go," the woman said. "Let us finish and we'll turn the gold over to the owner of the house."

However, the agent decided that there had been enough excavating and ordered the hole filled up.

Not if it's One of these Four New Additions to the BUICK SPECIAL Line that Compact Automobile Bigness into Fewer Bumper-to-Bumper Inches

Here of late the modern automo-bile has been giving a pretty good imitation of a man getting up in the morning.

It has stretched and s-t-r-e-t-c-h-e-d -until today you almost have to have a shoehorn to get a car of any size tucked away in the family garage.

We thought something ought to be done about that.

So today in Buick dealers' showrooms you'll see four new models, additions to the 1941 Buick SPECIAL line.

They are typical Buicks on every count-steady, tireless travelers with a big 115-hp. Buick FIREBALL straightprice.

But by the simple step of compacting all this ability, goodness and value on a 118-inch wheelbase, we've trimmed inches off the over-all length-and dollars off the cost.

We're passing those dollar savings on to you, which makes three reasons for going to see these honeys now: You'll go for their ability-your wife will go for trim size and easy handling - and both will stand up and cheer for the easily-reachable

War Action Shifted to Balkan States As Hitler Moves Toward Dardanelles; British Forces Sweep On in Africa; Churchill Plea: Send 'Tools, Not Men'

(EDITOR'S NOTE-When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) (Released by Western Newspaper Union

APPEAL: But Not for Men

Winston Churchill in an address to the empire, but phrased also for U. S. consumption, said the British did not need American armies-this year, next year or ever as far as he could foresee. But England does need munitions, he said. "Give us the tools, we'll finish the job," he appealed.

There was indication that the tools were arriving. In January U. S. factories had a quota of 700 warplanes and at midmonth expectations were that the quota would not be met by 30 per cent. But this was an error. Survey showed 1,000 planes were produced. If half of them went to England, as the President promised, England was getting what it needed. The amounts will increase. But Adolf Hitler was carrying out his threat to "torpedo" American help to Britain. The planes are being flown to England, via Iceland. German bombers raided Iceland and bombed the airfield there. Iceland is 1,000 miles from the closest Ger-man air base. In four more hours the swastika-emblemed craft could reach the North American continent.

Senate Goes On

In Washington the house passed the lease-lend bill for aid to Britain. The senate began discussion with the expectation that talk would not cease before the end of February. "If this keeps up," said Senator Glass, "the Germans will be here before we get done debating."

FULGENCIO BATISTA For him, two events-one blessed

Fulgencio Batista, president of Cuba, is a study in contrasts. In 1933, he organized a revolution, squashed the rule of aristocrats. At any time thereafter he could have become president. He chose instead, to accept promotion from army sergeant to colonel and head the army. But under his behind-the-scenes dictatorial regime, Cuban citizens had their civil rights extended, schools were built, peons given land and the national administration put on a business basis. Last year Batista decided to seek the presidency. He could have seized the office with

He could have seized the office with little trouble. Instead he resigned from the army, campaigned in American style and gave the island its quietest election in history. But there has been unrest in Cuba, and the crop of rumors of new revo-lutions have been on the usual week-by quota Last summer when Botary ly quota. Last summer when Rotary International held its convention in Cuba, many delegates were so im-pressed by the rumors that they went to had each pickt mith tame di tration in the island, how newspapers openly confessed German subsidy, how German lotteries were being operated, with the winners impressed the largess came from the German government. They said German U-boats were being supplied along isolated spots of Cuban territory. The facts may be true or otherwise, but many delegates were impressed.

Through it all, Fulgencio Batista showed no signs of being alarmed. Then suddenly as this winter's tourists were at their height, one night they saw sandbags being erected around the presidential palace and anothing the presidential palace and machine guns being mounted on pub-lic buildings. Batista was holding conference with his leading military commanders. Batista announced that all civil rights were suspended. of fire started by the incendiaries. Remembering how they blew up buildings to check the spread of the big San Francisco fire, one finds the professor's idea plausible. Dr. Zanetti was a lieutenant colo-nel of the chemical warfare service in World war No. 1, and from 1922 to 1926 was a consulting expert of the League of Nations in studies of chemical warfare. Supplementing this experience with academic and industrial studies of many years, he has become a world authority on has become a world authority on bombs and what to do about them if anything.

His main idea is that gas dissipates and fire proliferatestherefore look out for incendiary bombs. In January, 1936, he wrote in a university publication that fire bombs would be the worst peril of the next big war. Two-pound fire bombs could be Two-pound hre bombs could be sprayed over a city and one ef-fective hit out of 200 dropped might start 200 fires in widely separated places. He cries down alarmists about gas. He thinks it would be just as well to do away with slums, as a de-fense measure because of their fense measure because of their vulnerability to fire.

Dr. Zanetti was born in Santo Domingo in 1885, came to the U.S.A. in 1900, was naturalized in 1906 and in 1907 took his doctorate from Harvard university. He joined the Co-lumbia university faculty in 1913, and has held a full professorship since 1929.

SPRING:

In the Balkans

Spring and Adolf Hitler came to the Balkans. The fuehrer's great criticism of World war tactics was that Germany permitted itself to become involved on two fronts at the same time. He has always avoided this this.

Whether his movement into Bulgaria and toward the Dardanelles was an indication that he did not intend to move against England immediately was not clear. But it seemed apparent that Germany's next campaign would be toward the Mediterranean.

For months hundreds of thousands of German troops have been moved into Rumania. The revolution that ousted King Carol put Nazis in control of the government. These native Nazis quickly put themselves under order of Germany. Rumanian oilfields and railroads became subject to their direction.

First news of the infiltration of German soldiers into Rumania came in a speech by Winston Churchill. Sofia denied it, but within 24 hours neutral sources made it known that thousands of German soldiers in uniform, but wearing civilian overcoats, were passing the border into Bulgaria. Then came swarms of Nazi transport planes with para-chute troops. Bulgarian railroads suddenly restricted civilian traffic.

Bulgaria had depended upon Russia for protection. It was a false hope. Moscow sent an envoy to tell Bulgar ministers not to expect them to fight. Bulgaria and Turkey, who had spoken big but not mobilized the OGPU (pronounced Oh-Gay-their troops, suddenly began to talk Pay-OO) had arrived in America.

OH-GAY-PAY-00:

A chambermaid in a second class Washington hotel opened a guest's room and found a man sprawled over the bed in a pool of blood. She called police. They found a pistol in the man's hands and notes in Russian, German and French, signed Samual Ginsberg. A certificate of suicide was issued and police prepared to write off the case after notifying a New York lawyer who was named in the dead man's notes. But it wasn't that easy. The hotel guest was identified as Gen. Walter G. Krivitsky, former high ranking authority in the Soviet secret service. An early Communist, General Krivitsky had taken part in many secret negotiations. Once he was chief of the Communist party's secret police in western Europe. General Krivitsky had incurred the displeasure of the Stalin regime. When his associates went before the firing squad he fled to America. Here in a series of magazine articles he began to expose what he said were the plans of the Communist Internationale for world revolution. He foretold the agreement that later was signed by Stalin and Hitler, he said the American Communist party was under orders from Moscow, he named some of their followers in the U. S. army and navy.

Since then he has appeared before the Dies committee with addi-tional revelations. But he told close friends that his life was in danger. He traveled under cover and hid his wife and young son in isolated areas. Just a week before his death he told friends that the most dreaded killer of the Russian secret police and Col. Bernardo Garcia, chief of the national police. With them were their families. Back in Havana, Batista announced they had resigned after he caught them in certain unnamed seditious acts. Civil rights were returned to the people. Cuba was quiet again.

There was still more rejoicing the following day. Senora Eliza Godi-nez de Batista, wife of the president, gave birth to a daughter in the presidential palace. President Ba-tista announced immediately that every child born on the island that day would receive a ten-pesos note, and a five-pesos savings account in the Cuban Postal Savings. An av-erage of 350 babies are born each day in Cuba. STRIKE:

But even that period is likely to be exceeded, George M. Harrison, no Seabiscuit saga of speed, dollars and romance. "Silent Tom," as they call him around the tracks, was a rodeo rid-er, cowhand, prospector and black-smith in Colorado, Wyoming, and Montana. About four years ago, Charles S. Howard, later owner of Saabiscuit birned him to train the Seabiscuit, hired him to train the Howard stable, then unknown to fame. The new trainer discovered Seabiscuit on an out-of-the-way New England track and persuaded Mr. Howard to buy him for $8,000. The horse has earned $437,730.

Mr. Smith is probably the only horse psycho-analyst in the world. He was about three years old when he started being a horse-wrangler and learned things about horses that nobody else ever suspected. Naturally, he became an amateur veterinarian, but psychology helped a lot in bringing through Seabiscuit. The nag was fussy and given to brooding. Long before, Tom had learned that pleasant companionship is necessary for horse well-being. After a few ex-periments, he picked for Seabiscuit's stablemate an amiable old swaybacked roan named Pete. They nickered and muz-zled each other happily and Seabiscuit began to pick off purses. Of course what happened was that Seabiscuit's ego was bucked up by having somebody around he knew he could beat.

"Silent Tom" is 50 years old Among other winners he has trained for the Howard stable are Mioland and the wild-eyed Kayak II, brought from the Argentine by Mr. Smith's son, Lin. He has about 200 horses to handle and study.

THE TAWAS HERALD

The city's newest subway is the final link in the Independent system, first planned 19 years ago, and the total cost of which has been $800,-000,000. The Sixth avenue line is short, running only from Fourth street to Fifty-ninth street, yet its cost was $60,000,000, which figures out $4,377 a foot. Construction costs were increased by the fact that it runs under or over six other underground railways that cross its path. Added expense was that while the subway was being dug, the elevated railroad was still running and precautions that cost real money had to be taken to prevent its col-lapse. Then, too, for nearly a mile at its northern end, it is only 150 feet above the Catskill aqueduct. New York's underground maze of conduits, wires, etc., didn't make the job less expensive.

At Thirty-fourth street is the largest station. It is 360 feet long, 30 feet wide, and 10 feet high, and has three different levels. There are 17 entrances and 16 escalators. Also there is a tunnel above the tracks, much like the enclosed deck of a ship, through which pedestrians may travel from Thirty-fourth street to Forty-second street without coming out into sunshine or bad weather. It's a free tunnel and so, during the Christmas rush with attendant rain, it did a heavy business. Speaking of business, it is estimated that the new line will carry 40,000,000 passengers during the coming year.

. . . It was the custom of an attractive young business woman, who lives alone high up in a big apartment house, not to complete dressing until after breakfast. But she always did reach outside her door to gather in her mail and the newspaper so that she might have something to read while waiting for the coffee to perk. The other morning the newspaper was just out of her reach. Noting there was no one in the hall, she stepped outside. Before she could bend over, the door, equipped with a spring lock, banged shut. And there she stood as if posing for a lingerie ad! The only way to get a pass key was to call the elevator operator and wait while he made a round trip. She was about to do that when something moved her to try the door. It opened readily enough. She hasn't figured out yet when she threw the catch but the newspaper and mail now wait until she is fully clad.

New Treatment Effective for Face Neuralgia

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON (Released by Western Newspaper Union.) HAVE seen an operation to give the patient relief from the terrible pain in the face called tic doloreux or trifacial neuralgia. I have never forgotten it TODAY'S and greatly won-MEALTH dered at the time if there was any COLUMN pain severe enough to require such an extensive operation.

Fortunately the use of injections of various substances often gives relief for months and years so that fewer of these operations are now performed. What appears to be a great advance in the treatment of this severe face neuralgia is reported in the Journal of the American Medical Association by two physi-cians, Drs. Henry Dorsook and M. Y. Kremers, and a dentist, Dr. C. G. Wiggins of Pasadena, Calif.

lief given by vita-Dr. Barton min B1, in neuritis and arthritis, and in an attempt to find something less severe than operation, they decided to use vitamin B1 in a number of cases of the doloreux.

The treatment may be divided into two parts: (1) active treatment, and (2) change in the diet with the addition of certain foods. The active treatment consists of injections into the veins daily of thiamin chloride (vitamin B1). In about 25 per cent of the cases, liver extract was also injected because the patients did not respond satisfactorily to the vitamin B1, alone.

Low Starch Diet.

The diet treatment consists of a high vitamin, low starch diet, and in some cases 1 ounce daily of rice, polishings were given by mouth. There were 58 patients treated, of which 37 were markedly improved, 15 improved, three slightly im-proved, and three not improved. Dr. W. J. McCormick, Tortonto, relieves cases of arthritis by means of vitamin B1. Dr. McCormick points out that it is the inability of the oxygen to reach these nerves that causes the pain. Vitamin B1 enables the oxygen to penetrate the fat or covering of the nerve and give relief.

It might be well for all who have painful joints, muscles or nerves to eat more foods containing vitamin B1. Some foods rich in vitamin B1 are whole wheat bread, brewers' yeast, peanuts, beef liver, almonds, bacon and ham.

Al K. Hall is a veteran vaudeville and burlesque comedian who has been on and off Broadway for 25 years. He's never been ashamed of his job although in his career he's entertained in some pretty rough theaters. But Al's kid, a girl, has been growing up. Before he died, he wanted to do something that would make his daughter proud of her daddy. So he sat down and composed a patriotic song called "We Are All Americans." Harry Salter heard it and thought it so good he put Hall on his "Song of Your Life" program, so the comedian could tell of his lifelong dream and how it had come true. Even if the song is never published, it won't make any difference to the composer. He feels he has done one thing in his life of which his daughter may be proud.

If you have seen W. C. Fields' latest picture, "The Bank Dick," you may have noticed that the story credit was given to one Mahatma Kane Jeeves. One of this department's Hollywood scouts reports that many folks know that the story was actually written by Fields himself, and a few know how the comic came to choose his pseudonym. If you say the name slowly, you will discover that it is really one of Field's favorite off-screen expressions, "My hat, my cane, Jeeves." (Bell Syndicate-WNU Service.)
