EAST TAWAS AND OSCODA WIN PLACQUES

Take Honors at District Tournament Held Here

An estimated 1700 basketball fans penetrated every available spot in the new Tawas City high school gym during the three nights of tournament play which ended Saturday evening, March 8, with Oscoda and East Tawas showing the way in classes C and D respectively.

The opening play of the tournament found Saint Bernard of Alpena matching play with Saint Joseph of Tawas City. Russell Green, captain and star forward for the Saints from Tawas City, sparked his team-mates to a well deserved victory over the Saint Bernard boys with an individual tally of 21 points. This was the highest score made by any player in a single game of the tournament.

Following the Saint Bernard-Saint Joseph "go" came the Fairview high school team to do battle with Saint Anne high school of Alpena. The Fairview boys could not seem to get under way until the game was well near its conclusion. At half time Saint Anne had negotiated 22 points while Fairview had to accept the starvation ration of five points. Saint Anne went on to win a decisive victory by a final score of 46-16. However, every spectator in the gym will bear witness that the Fairview patrons and students, about 125 strong, did not leave the scene of defeat empty handed.

This crowd from Fairview backed their team with a spirit of loyalty and fair play that was good to see and hear. It speaks well for that little school back there on "M 72" where they have no gym in their community in which to practice.

In the final tilt of the first night East Tawas grabbed an early lead off the "jittery yearlings" from Tawas City and at the end of the first quarter had a commanding lead of 19-2. At half-time they had increased their lead to 29-5. During the intermission Tawas City regained their confidence and came back to out-score their opponents in the second half of the game, chalking up 21 points while holding East Tawas to 13, but the lead piled up in the first half was too much to overcome and the game ended 42 to 27 in favor of East Tawas. Both coaches used all of their reserves in this game. H. Ross, captain of the Tawas City squad, was high scorer with 15 points. Crawford made 14 for East Tawas in this game.

Harrisville, the team that drew a "bye" for the first night pairings, marched into the win column by defeating Saint Joseph in a close one 34-30 to open Friday evening's activities.

Captain Green again proved to be the greatest scoring threat in this tournament by garnering 16 big ones. This gave Green 37 points in two games. Crawford, center and guard for the East Tawas squad, was his closest rival for scoring honors in the tournament with 23 points in three games.

Fouls took a heavy toll on the Saint Joseph players in this game as Nelkie, Herrick and Klenow were banished by this route.

In the only other game played Friday evening, East Tawas took a thriller from Saint Anne by the slim margin of one point. This was a see-saw affair all the way. East Tawas moved in front shortly after play was under way and managed to hold a two point lead (Turn to No. 1 Back Page.)

JERSEY MILK PRODUCERS MET MONDAY

Iosco, Ogemaw, Arenac and Gladwin Counties Represented

Twenty men from this area who are interested in promoting and improving the Jersey cattle business gathered at the Holland hotel in East Tawas Monday afternoon, March 10, to exchange ideas regarding these fine little Jersey Island descendants who are noted for producing milk with a cream line that stands out second to none.

Jersey Cattle Breeders and County Agricultural Agents were present from Gladwin, Arenac, Ogemaw and Iosco counties to hear H. E. Dennison, Field representative of the American Jersey Cattle club, outline an educational program which is now well underway in Michigan as well as many other states. The program should in time greatly improve the registered cattle of this county whether they be Jersey or of and other dairy breeds.

Mr. Dennison emphasized the importance of Dairy Herd Improvement Associations—stating that no breeder could afford to keep a dairy herd unless he did testing work, as frequently the low producers were a detriment to the farm and might even be foundation stock for nearly the entire herd where only daughters and sons of the very best cows should be kept for replacements. Selective registration, disease eradication and herd classification as to breed type were also emphasized as important guides towards better padded pocket books from a herd of Jersey cows.

A future Jersey Parish show was also discussed but will probably not be held for the next two or three years, however arrangements for this were left in the hands of a newly elected board of directors who will represent this Northeastern Section at State and District meetings from now on. The new directors are: Ellis Ray, of Twining, also president of the board; George Dennings, of Gladwin, who will serve as secretary of the board; Robert Zahn, of West Branch, representing Ogemaw county; and Emil Christenson, of Alabaster, who will represent Iosco county on this board.

The directors have already announced that a field day and cattle classification will be held during July to which all dairymen will be invited.

Hidden Ways

By FREDERIC F. VAN DE WATER

"Don't bother," I said, "to ring for the maid to show me the door. I can find it. I ask you—not now but later when you've less to disturb you—to think seriously whether I've ever violated your confidence. I knew about Grove and his key. I saved him once from the jam he is in now. I knew of his liaison with Ione. See how much of that you can find in the Press, or any other newspaper—up to now."

Allegra gave a little laugh of disbelief. She tossed Duke's squeal on the desk between us and went from the room. I bowed jerkily to Miss Agatha and headed for the door. Her voice checked me.

"Up to now," she repeated. "Do I understand that is a threat?"

I had stood plenty. Her stern eyes could not beat mine down.

"And do I understand," I answered, "that your question is a prelude to bribery?"

"Are you," she inquired, "doing your best to be insulting?"

"I am," I told her, "and I didn't begin it."

She chuckled. The hearty sound never seemed more bizarre. It wrecked melodrama and spoiled my pose. I stared. Miss Agatha grinned.

"Put down your hat and coat," she bade me. "I want to talk to you. Don't stand there gawping. Do as I say. Allegra is troubled with ideals. She'll outgrow them in time. Suppose you tell me, as politely as you can manage, just how you happen to be on the Press."

She smoked one of my cigarettes while I confessed my arrangement with Cochrane, and the difficulties of being pulled two ways by conflicting loyalties. Once or twice, while I spoke, she nodded and when I had ended, gave that preposterous grin of hers.

"You make me feel better," she told me. "I didn't want to believe I'd twice been mistaken in my estimates of character in so short a time."

I found myself defending Grove. "You'll learn when this thing is unscrambled that he's been just a young idiot, nothing more. No one can make me believe that—"

"No one can make me, either," she broke in, quietly. "He's a good boy. He's lacking in common sense, that's all. Well, it's a family failing."

"Miss Agatha," I blurted, smitten by the calm she preserved above the anguish that must be tearing at her, "you're a game guy!"

Her face relaxed a trifle.

"David," she said, "when women reach my age, they cry easily, or not at all. I have no gift for tears. Grove is in trouble and I have to help him. I always used to pull him out of scrapes. That's my job again."

She looked at me and the wrinkles about her eyes deepened.

"If you had a spark of chivalry," she mocked, "you'd offer to help me."

"And if," I answered, "you had any intuition whatever, you would know that anything I've got is yours."

"I do know it," she admitted with another chuckle, and then grew suddenly grave.

"Will you help me," she asked, "to save my nephew from the trouble into which a scoundrel and a stupid police force have plunged him and out of which a pompous lawyer apparently can't get him? I am an old woman, David, and a cripple. I can't put a murder and a suicide where they belong, by myself."

"All you have to do," I promised, "is point out the murderer." "Do you think so?" she asked tartly. "I've found him already."

I looked hard at her.

"It's Lyon Ferriter," said Agatha Paget. "I've known that all along."

CHAPTER XVI

Miss Agatha's quiet words were more shocking than screams. They spoke so simply and readily the belief that I had blundered toward, and recoiled from and reached at again that I could only stare at her.

I blurted:

"How do you know?"

She was like a damaged and ancient lamp in which the flame still burned clearly. She told me:

"From his hands. I was sure the evening when Captain Shannon first questioned him. Don't you remember?"

"Very well," I answered, "but—" "His hands," she went on, "hung at his sides. Usually, he uses them a lot. He was watching himself. He was acting the part of an entirely innocent person in whose flat a man had been found murdered. He was overacting it. He had something to hide and he was hiding it, very carefully. Too carefully to fool me."

"Then why—" I began, but she cut me off.

"David," she said, "I've been never so certain of my own virtues that I cared to hunt down the iniquity of others. Mr. Ferriter may have had very good reasons for killing his visitor, but—"

She bit on nothing with a little jerk of her head and I thought of Lachesis, the withered Fate who cuts the cord. She rummaged in her handbag for something and, diving her need, I offered a cigarette and lit it for her. Smoke and something more dire had narrowed her eyes as she went on:

"Lyon Ferriter was clever in his alibi. Since the part that anyone can check was fact, it has to be presumed the rest was too. No one can prove he was in that flat when the man was stabbed. What?"

I had started to speak. Now I said, "Excuse me," and held my words.

"And until," Miss Agatha went on, "that is proved and it is found how he got out afterward, Lyon Ferriter thinks he is safe. He is proud of his cleverness. That is dangerous—for him."

"Well?" I asked as she paused. She did not seem to hear me. She pursued, her eyes still narrow, her voice daunting in its calm:

"All of which has been none of an old woman's business—up to now. Lyon Ferriter called on me this morning. He said he wanted to help Grove. What he wanted was to admire his own cleverness. If he had come to me fairly, David; if he had said, 'Your nephew and my sister have been having an affair. How can we get them out of trouble most easily?' he would have had me as an ally."

She rubbed the cigarette out on the ash tray with slow violence. I gave her another. Her voice had an odd ring as she went on:

"But he didn't. He had no idea why Grove was in his flat! He said that he had given the boy a key because Grove was in and out of the apartment a good deal. Implicitly he served notice on me that that was what he had told, or will tell, the police. He'll protect his sister and leave Grove to be scapegoat for the death of Everett and the earlier murder, if possible. My nephew's plight is a godsend to him."

"And to Ione?" I asked, doubtfully.

"And to Ione," Miss Agatha answered and her jaw grew hard. "She hasn't spoken, has she? She has not come forward with the truth to help her lover. Hers is the perfect fear that casteth out love. I wish I knew what it is."

Her self-possession got me by the throat. I blurted:

"How foul people are!"

Miss Agatha cocked an eye at me. "So you're finding that out?" she asked.

She sat silent a moment and I thought of the weathered figurehead, immune to storm.

"Miss Agatha," I said, "what do you want me to do?"

She answered indirectly in a level voice:

"All my life, thanks to my legs, I've been audience to the sorry dramas mortals play. I don't like the way this particular one promises to end. I don't like the thought of Grove still in jail—though I understand he is only being 'held for questioning' according to Senator Groesbeck."

"Has he—your nephew—given any explanation?"

The affectionate smile that accompanied her reply was pitiful. Grove, it appeared, had said nothing to the police and little enough to his lawyer. He had been typing a letter at the desk in the workroom and had seen a light in the apartment, across the air shaft. He had gone to the Ferriter flat and had found Everett about to throw himself from the window. He had tried to hold him, but the man had screamed and torn free. That was all. He would say no more. He would not even explain the note the police had found in his pocket.

"And they say," Miss Agatha ended, "that chivalry is dead. Grove, the young sophisticate, posing as Sidney Carton would be funny if it weren't so tragic. He won't see that. He won't help himself. Very well, I shall have to save him by putting Lyon Ferriter in his place."

The certainty in her voice stirred mine to awe as I asked: "How?"

Miss Agatha looked at me hard for an instant and the wrinkles about her eyes deepened.

"David," she said. "I haven't the least idea," and she gave her deep chuckle.

I sat on the desk's edge and told her everything I knew. It was a relief to talk to someone without holding back. We smoked together at first and then, as I passed from the scuffle in the basement to the duel with Lyon and the rifling of my room, the cigarette burned down unheeded in her fingers. She asked at last:

"And why have you had all this attention?"

"Miss Agatha," I told her with a grin, "I haven't the least idea."

"She chuckled again. 'At any rate,' she said, 'we start even as allies.' 'Wait,' I bade, and told her of the foreign voice I had heard at Mino's. She looked at me hard when I had finished.

"Are you sure?" she asked. I shrugged.

"Right now, I'm not very sure of anything. Yet I don't think I'm beginning to hear voices. And it may be important, but it isn't evidence, unless we can persuade Lyon to drop back into it again for the benefit of the police."

"No," she said thoughtfully. "You're right. It's a signpost, nothing more. There is a flaw in Lyon, somewhere. Everybody has one. If we could only find it and work on it—"

"You said he was proud," I reminded her.

"And clever," she added. "And also lucky, at poor Grove's expense. Think a minute."

She gathered her fragile body together and looked hard at the hands clasped in her narrow lap as though they held a seer's crystal ball.

"Think," she went on, "of his luck. Everett knew Lyon had killed Blackbeard. And Everett was frightened. Anyone could see that. He was not of the breed of heroes. You were to be killed by accident while Everett rifled your room. The Ferriters thought you had something that was key to the murder."

"And Everett failed," I offered as she paused, "and that, plus fear, destroyed him. So he wrote a farewell note to his family, who were waiting for him to show up at Mino's, and killed himself out of sheer terror."

The surprise in her face heartened me.

"Yes," Miss Agatha said slowly, "that is quite possible and Grove found the note and since its implications seemed to threaten the well-being of his precious beloved, pocketed it—he would—and thereby damned himself."

There was excitement and odd relief in thrusting facts into the pigeonholes of theory where, at least, they would lie without falling into confusion. Faint pink had come to Miss Agatha's cheek-bones and her eyes sparkled. I asked:

"Has your nephew told to whom he wrote the letter at this desk last night?"

"He has not," Miss Agatha answered. "I never have known silence less golden than his."

"Because," I went on, "I think he is telling the truth," and then I confided my own experience at that desk when, looking up, I had seen a light across the area and Grove pulling down a shade in the Ferriter flat.

Miss Agatha, when I had ended, reached out a hand and, amazingly, patted my knee.

"I think, David," she said quietly, "a very wrong-headed pair of women owe you more than an apology for what they thought of you this morning."

"Forget it," I told her. She shook her head.

"No," she said. "Just postpone it. Mightn't it be well if we were to write down, separately, all we know and suspect of this—bewildering? Thereafter, comparing our lists, we might find some hint of what else we should do?"

"It might," I granted, humoring her.

"There's another typewriter about," Miss Agatha thought aloud. "I believe it's in the basement storeroom. I'm sure it was put there when it came back from the repair man's. Allegra!"

I do not think she saw the movement I made to check her call. I had small desire to face the scornful girl again. It hurt too much and, at the same time, angered me. But in an instant there she stood in the doorway, looking at her aunt and plainly not recognizing my existence. Sight of her smoldering niece made Miss Agatha revise her purpose.

"My dear," she said briskly, "I have already apologized to David for what we both thought when his friend's letter came this morning."

She paused. Allegra's face did not stir nor did her eyes move. I fumbled for some word to end this ordeal and found nothing.

"Why should I apologize?" the girl asked. "So that I can read about it in tomorrow's Press?"

If she could hurt me so, I might be able to reach her. I said, as easily as I could:

"News must be either interesting or important."

I was sorry then, for she looked at me, caught her breath and fed.

By L. L. STEVENSON

Dog Tale: For purposes of identification, they may be known in this space as Mr. and Mrs. Brown. For quite awhile they looked on Ted, their prize bull terrier, as an efficient guardian of their Brooklyn home. The other evening, Mrs. Brown went to her room before her husband had finished his newspaper. Wild shrieks took him upstairs on the run. Mrs. Brown was standing on the bed and near the radiator was a rat about as large as a tom cat. Assuring his wife she had nothing to fear, Mr. Brown called Ted. The bull terrier rushed into the room and seeing the rat, leaped at it, but instead of giving battle, endeavored to make friends. The rat, as if petrified by surprise, stood motionless a minute, then fled under the radiator where its size caused it to be caught and held fast. So Mr. Brown, disregarding the tail-wagging Ted, killed it with a spear that served as a wall decoration in his parlor's room.

Winter Scene: Taxis bumping over ice chunks that remain even on the busiest streets though men and machines have worked hard to remove them. Window cleaners, standing on slippery ledges high above the pedestrian-filled sidewalks, their lives dependent on the strength of their leather belts. The tower of the Empire State building rising sharp and clear against a steel-blue sky. On the Bowery, derelicts made secure for a week or more through money earned by shoveling snow. A junk wagon horse slipping and sliding. Steam curling lazily over the tops of skyscrapers. A chestnut vender removing red flannel mittens and holding his hands against his little charcoal stove. On tenement streets, grimy youngsters playing on black snow mounds.

Picking Personalities: If he can't even carry a Mother Goose tune, he's Ira Gershwin. If he's totting a portable radio tuned in to race results, he's Harpo Marx. If he's wearing a $20 hat and an $18.80 suit, he's Orson Welles. If he's walking along Hollywood boulevard bouncing a golf ball, he's Paul Hartman. If he introduces every pretty girl in the room as his wife, he's Barney Gallant. If he's walking around the Central park reservoir at some early hour in the morning, he's George M. Cohan. If he collects tiny figurines playing musical instruments, he's Jimmy Dorsey.

New York: Tired from a hard day's work, two telephone operators dived into the subway and by great good luck one managed to obtain a seat. As they rode along, the one seated noted a young man who seemed to be in a bad way; in fact, he looked and acted so weak that he might be on the point of fainting. So the girl who was standing suggested to her companion that it might be a good thing to give him her seat. She agreed and arose with a smile. The young man, without a word of thanks, slipped into the seat and having made himself comfortable, took a newspaper from his pocket and began to read while the two girls clung to straps.

Protection: For a long time, the only ear muffs I saw in New York were worn by the street car company employee who throws the switch for Broadway and Crosstown trolleys at Seventh avenue and Forty-second street. This winter, however, movie barkers have been supplied with ear coverings as part of their uniforms. Last evening, at the ice rink in Rockefeller plaza, I noted ear muffs on a number of skaters. Maybe the time will come when gentlemen who affect tall tales will encase their ears instead of allowing them to stick out in the weather.

New Ailment: Madeline Gray avers that the wife who drives from the back seat isn't any worse than the husband who cooks from the dining-room table. Ezra Stone reports that the newest ailment is inhibited desires to strangle one's partner.

End Piece: A short, slender Oriental stepped up to the box marked "Medical Aid for China" in Ruby Foo's den and inserted five one-dollar bills. He is Yoiche Hiroaka, Japanese xylophonist.

$1-a-Year Men Frame Pay Checks, Files Awry

WASHINGTON.—The $1-a-year men give a headache a day to the government accounting office.

The office doesn't consider its files complete until every Treasury check comes back cashed. But the $1-a-year men who came in with the defense crisis just look on their semiannual 50-cent checks as something to frame.

Great Airport Opens in July

Hemisphere Will Be Served By 880-Acre Terminal At Miami, Fla.

MIAMI.—A great new airfield linking the Americas will be opened to traffic July 1, with the completion of its mile-long runways and landing-field facilities.

The new Miami International air terminal, an 880-acre field will provide facilities for handling air mail, freight and express shipments and passenger service that are exceeded only by New York's LaGuardia field.

Three thousand workmen have been engaged since October, 1939, in clearing the field and building the runways. When completed it will have a main terminal building, three hangars and accessory buildings, as well as a complete sanitary and sewage system and a fire-protection water supply.

Erect Temporary Building
A temporary terminal building will be ready in July to clear air passengers and freight when the runways are ready, and the permanent structure is expected to be ready before the close of the year.

During the last six months of 1940 1,152 planes entered or cleared Miami to and from the Caribbean islands, Central and South America, carrying 48,814 passengers, 243,428 pounds of mail and 291,540 pounds of express valued at more than $5,500,000. Domestic air lines, which connect with this international traffic, carried 20,421 passengers, 581,817 pounds of mail and 104,299 pounds of express during the same period.

Much of the service to the West Indies, Central and South American points still is by seaplane, but stratoliners and land planes are expected eventually to replace them, concentrating all commercial air travel here at the one great airport.

Base for Strato Clippers.
The home base of Pan American Airways' fleet of new stratoclippers, which now use the adjoining old Municipal airport, will be at the new field. These great four-engined planes carry 30 passengers and weigh 70 tons, fully loaded. They have a cruising range of 6,000 miles. The tail—or vertical fin—on one of these planes towers as high as a five-story building.

Eastern air lines will move its Miami operations from Thirty-sixth Street airport to the new field, and applications for accommodations also have been received from American Export Lines, which plans a transatlantic service, and Seaboard Airlines, which proposes a Baltimore-Miami service.

"The war department appreciated the importance of Miami International airport," Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson wrote recently, "as a major air-line terminal, as a potential base for land aircraft in support of naval operations and as a base for extending air operations toward the Panama canal and South America."

Balloon Flyers Given Training at Akron Plant

AKRON, OHIO.—Balloon flight training may sound rather prosaic in these days of streamlined, high-powered aeroplanes, but 17 young men in training at the Goodyear Tire & Rubber company are quite serious about lighter-than-air operations.

The students, hand-picked from a big list of applicants, are preparing to play a big role in national defense, and although they are being trained by private enterprise rather than the United States army, officials believe they will be ready for any emergency.

The course consists of two schools—flight and ground. If the student gets through the Goodyear course, however, he is capable of passing the physical, educational and actual flight training requirements established by the United States naval reserve.

Bride Elects to Serve Speeding Term, Freed

SEATTLE.—Mrs. Normal Bell McElroy, bride of three months, convicted of speeding and fined $15, announced she would serve out the fine in jail.

"I have the money," she said, "but it really isn't mine—it's my money my husband gave me for groceries. I broke the law. My husband had nothing to do with it. I don't see why he should be punished for what I did."

She went to jail in the afternoon. At 8 p. m. Judge Charles F. Smith released her.

"I think," he said, "she has probably learned her lesson."

Bomb Shelter Built for $2 Saves 7 Londoners

LONDON.—Seven lives were saved by a shelter which cost only 10 shillings when a high explosive bomb fell only three feet away.

The full blast of the bomb hit it, but it still stands on the edge of a huge crater.

The walls were pushed in, but the occupants were unhurt.

The shelter consisted of a hole in the ground roofed with corrugated iron and lined with planks.

HOUSEHOLD QUESTIONS

If dirt becomes ground into waxed floors moisten a cloth with turpentine and rub well into floor until wax is removed, then wax and polish.

Smoky Rooms—You can quickly clear the air in the living room by leaving overnight a tablespoonful of ammonia in a bowl of water.

Baking soda will keep the baby's bottles sweet. After sterilizing bottles, shake in a little soda, fill with cold water and let stand until bottles are used.

Potatoes to be french fried will be more crisp if allowed to stand in cold water for half an hour before frying.

Kerosene will soften boots and shoes that have been hardened by water.

A dry cloth is better for removing a pan or dish from the stove than a damp or wet one.

Soup is usually better if allowed to stand overnight, giving the flavorings a chance to blend.

Bread for the workers of Michigan

Modern methods and constant improvements of seed result in the high yield of wheat on Michigan farms. Among the new varieties introduced by Michigan State College is Bald Rock, a hardy, red, beardless wheat, well adapted to the climate.

YEAR after year some 900,000 of Michigan's fertile acres are sown to the great staple food crop—wheat. And most of it is winter wheat. Good farming methods, an intelligent State Government and an alert Michigan State College, have steadily increased the yield per acre. In 1940 it was 45% above the national average.

Swift, low-cost communication helps the Michigan farmer make a profit on his wheat. By telephone he can get advice from his County Agent, order seed and fertilizer, arrange for harvesting and threshing crews, and sell his grain and straw to advantage.

Bread is the food of industry—a vital factor in national emergencies. Your Bell Telephone Company serves the nation's defense by bringing increased efficiency to the growing, storing, milling and marketing of wheat.

Wheat by the trainload for Michigan-made bread and breakfast cereals. Agriculture and industry are closely linked in this state, and the telephone serves them both.

Eight Balls of Fire and how they can travel!

If you like fireworks, and who doesn't, it's really too bad you can't see what goes on inside that sparkling big Buick FIREBALL eight that romps you so easily down the broad highway.

There you'd see eight busy cylinders, with pistons flashing up and down . . .

You'd see each fuel charge packed tight into a tiny bundle shaped like a flattened ball . . .

You'd see the spark leap, the flame spread, the piston thrust down with extra force as each furious fireball lets go its pent-up wallop.

You'd see all this happening as fast as thirty times a second in each of those eight cylinders—and we think you'd understand then just why there's such a special and exciting satisfaction in the way a Buick travels.

Gasoline gives up more of its power when it's packed as tightly as it is here.

So when you've got these eight balls of fire working busily under the bonnet, you really travel!

You travel farther on every gallon and you travel more pleasurably.

You travel—but, shucks! Why listen to talk when there's a Buick dealer nearby waiting to show you how you travel behind a FIREBALL?

SURRENDER:

Prelude to Peace

Nazi soldiers marched into Bulgaria. They were not opposed. Bulgarian officials who earlier talked bravely, but took no steps to prepare the nation for resistance, capitulated to Berlin's demands when the final test came.

Hundreds of thousands of Germans poured across the border in 48 hours. Panzer divisions raced across roads and took positions on the borders of Turkey and Greece. They supplanted officials known to be unsympathetic to their cause, rationed food, directed transportation, and virtually placed the whole nation under German military law and economy. Secret police followed close behind to round up those who loved their country too well for German interests.

Berlin announced the occupation as a great military victory, although not a shot had been fired. But the action did have a strangely familiar ring. It paralleled closely the Nazi pattern that brought the downfall of many other European nations where officials had been induced to visit Munich to "guarantee peace."

Fascism had come to Bulgaria, ruled by King Boris, from within, long before it had been compelled by force of arms without. Bulgaria was sold out, as many other brave but hesitant nations had been sold out—by those groups within its own borders who believed they stood to gain in influence, in prestige and in wealth if a Fascist form of government would be established.

They will be disillusioned, as other groups have been disillusioned in other once independent nations—in Austria, in Norway, in Denmark, in the Netherlands, in Spain, in France and even in Germany itself.

Drang Nach Osten

It is said no man lives unto himself alone; that his every action reflects on the life of his community and his nation. If that is true, then it is equally true that no nation lives to itself alone; that its policies reflect on its neighbors as well.

So it was with Bulgaria. The highways of Bulgaria lead to other frontiers and 300,000 conquest-seeking Germans rested on the borders of Greece and Turkey. The small Greek army had halted the first Axis move to the east by defeating superiorly equipped Italian soldiers. Turkey, allied to Britain, had stood as the guardian of the eastern Mediterranean. But these nations found themselves in peril. Yugoslavia, through which better roads lead to Greece, was in the same situation.

KING BORIS OF BULGARIA

All found themselves facing the choice of fighting against an efficient war machine or bowing to the will of Britain. None had much hope for success if they fought. All looked to England for help, but the problem of sending such assistance was monumental. The Germans had available 26 divisions for use in the Balkans. The only British force competent to deal with such numbers was in North Africa.

Whether the British had the means available to transport and land an expeditionary force was problematical. General Wavell's speedup campaign in Libya undoubtedly was to clean up that area quickly in the hope of using his troops in the Balkans. The factor of time and space in such a movement, however, seemed unsurmountable.

The hibernating bear of the North, Russia, began to show signs of alarm. Moscow sent a sharp rebuke to Bulgaria, denouncing the surrender. Significantly enough, no protest was made to Germany. Berlin shrugged off the Moscow statement, with the observation that Russia's attitude was only a defensive one, that its army was not equipped for offensive action. Therefore the protest was of no importance.

Adolf Hitler wasted no time while Turkey, Greece and Yugoslavia trembled. He quickly sent couriers to their capitals with offers of "peace." He said he had no designs on their territory. Turkey and Greece took small comfort from these assurances. They had seen the same kind of pledges given Poland, Czechoslovakia and other small countries that now have no way of life of their own.

Hitler seemed well along toward success of the old German ambition of drang nach osten, drive to the east. To the east lies the riches of Asia—Egypt, Persia, Syria, India and East Africa.

NEW LABOR PLAN:

By Executive Order

A new labor board to serve as a "supreme court" in disputes involving defense industries is in the making. It will be created by President Roosevelt by White House order and consist of 11 men, three to represent the public and four each from labor and industry.

WILLIAM S. KNUDSEN
He wanted 30 days before a strike.

The board of non-salaried members would act only in cases where the labor department's conciliation service failed to make progress and so certified. It would have no power of compulsion but would be so constructed as to make mediation machinery possible.

Strikes

The President's decision was said to be caused by the 48-hour strike at the Buffalo plant of the Bethlehem Steel company. There 14,000 employees brought their work to a halt when the Steel Workers Organizing committee (C.I.O.) said the corporation failed to bargain with them. Picket lines surrounded the several miles of fence.

But the Office of Production Management in Washington quickly stepped in, without waiting for the labor department to get under way. William S. Knudsen and Sidney Hillman, OPM directors, offered a compromise plan of settlement which called for return of all workers with seniority protected, negotiations with the union and an NLRB election. Both sides accepted.

Meanwhile in Michigan the United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.) filed notice with the state of Michigan that it will call a strike at the three main plants of the Ford company. Notice of such intention is now necessary under Michigan law.

Knudsen Plan

Knudsen, in the meantime, wrote a memorandum to Representative Sumners (D., Texas), chairman of the house judiciary committee, which is considering changes in the national labor laws. Knudsen's plan would deny protection of the Wagner act to unions or employees considered recalcitrant. He proposed that strikes be forbidden in defense industries unless employees of a plant had given their consent by secret ballot, conducted under the supervision of the U. S. labor department. After such notice is served, he proposed the OMP be given 30 days to seek settlement.

ENVOYS:

Grab Headlines

When Lord Halifax, British ambassador to the United States, arrived at Annapolis, Md., President Roosevelt met his ship, setting a precedent. Not to be outdone, King George VI met the train which took the new U. S. ambassador to the Court of St. James, John C. Winant, to London. That also was a precedent.

A new Canadian minister was selected for the United States. He is 71-year-old Leighton G. McCarthy, Toronto industrialist. No stranger to the U. S. is Ambassador McCarthy, nor to President Roosevelt. Ambassador McCarthy has for several years been a director of the Warm Springs foundation.

BERMUDA:

U. S. Control

Grumbling in the house of commons, in London, over the swap of Caribbean bases to the U. S. for 50 over-aged destroyers, has been forbidden to break into the open by Prime Minister Churchill. However the wide authority given the U. S. in these areas is just beginning to become apparent.

Take Bermuda, for instance. There the U. S. has acquired about a tenth of the acreage of the tiny island. The chief hotel has been leased by the U. S. navy for its technicians. The hotel has no room for tourists. In another hotel army engineers have set up. Marines have pitched a camp in still another spot.

In Washington, Rep. Carl Vinson (D., Tenn.), chairman of the house naval committee, disclosed the terms of the Bermuda lease, which are similar to the terms of leases at all other bases. They include: (1) The lease to run 99 years, with the United States granted the right, if necessary for defense, to assume "military control and conduct military operations within any part of Bermuda"; (2) other areas to be leased, if needed; (3) Americans to control ship and air operations and communications within leased areas; (4) Americans to have the right to improve anchorages near leased land bases and to install defenses; (5) Americans to have the same privilege as the British in the use of roads and bridges and the right to use British docks and shops.

INSURANCE:

Supervision Asked

Discussion of federal control of life insurance was heard in Washington before the joint senate-house committee investigating monopolies. Sumner T. Pike, representative of the Securities and Exchange commission, told the committee he believed the federal government should not supplant the states in control of insurance companies, but that a program of strengthening the state systems was desirable.

Senator O'Mahoney (D., Wyo.) said he opposed the idea. So did Representative Sumner (D., Texas) the vice chairman. Thurman Arnold, assistant attorney general in charge of the anti-trust division, said if the states cannot do the job "we might wake up after the war and find we have to take more drastic action than otherwise would be necessary."

MISCELLANY:

There now is $14,000,000,000 in gold in the vaults of Fort Knox, Ky., the largest treasure ever assembled under one roof in the history of the world. The new total was reached when $8,500,000,000 was transferred from vaults in New York. The pile of glittering bars is just about half of all the gold in the world.

Alec Templeton, blind pianist, petitioned an Illinois court for an accounting of his earnings, naming his parents and an attorney. He asked they be restrained from exercising management of his affairs. He alleged his parents, Andrew Bryson and Mrs. Sarah May Templeton, and their attorney had allotted him only $100 monthly for expenses since 1930, during which time he earned $200,000. He said he signed some papers which were read to him and some which he was advised it was not necessary for him to hear.

Wet Chimney.
QUESTION: How can I keep rain from coming down the chimney of my bungalow?

Answer: One method is to put a slab of stone over the top of the chimney, supported on columns, so that the draft will not be interfered with. It may be that the water does not come down the flue, but gets into the brickwork through defective mortar joints, or through a broken chimney cap. These possibilities should be looked into.

Darkened Floor.

Question: After scraping and wiping, a floor was given a coat of white shellac thinned with denatured alcohol. The floor has darkened and is so rough that it catches dust from the mop. Shellac was purchased in a gallon-can two years ago, but has been kept covered in the cellar. Is this shellac responsible?

Answer: Yes; for shellac deteriorates with age. It should be used within a few months. The quality makers of shellac date their cans. All of the old shellac should be taken off, which can be done by wiping with denatured alcohol. You will probably find that this will leave a smooth surface. Get top quality and pure shellac, and thin it with an equal quantity of good denatured alcohol, put on in two or three thin coats. Instead of shellac, you could use two coats of top quality floor varnish.

Washing Painted Walls.

Question: What is your formula for washing painted interior house walls?

Answer: Use tepid water in which dissolve trisodium phosphate in the proportion of one teaspoonful to the gallon. When washing painted walls, start at the floor level and work upwards. If you start at the top and work down, you will make dirty streaks that will be almost impossible to clean off. Rinse thoroughly. Trisodium phosphate can be had under a trade name at a grocery store; ask for a white cleaning powder that makes no lather. Another excellent type of paint cleaner is made of a cereal preparation, which has no strong chemicals and does not hurt the hands. It is on sale at most paint stores, and is much used by professional painters.

Cesspool in an Old Well.

Question: Can you give me any information about using an old well as a cesspool? Are wells built with holes in the sides to permit the water to seep in? Do you think the water from the cesspool could drain away through the sides or only from the bottom? The well is 30 feet deep and three or four feet wide.

Answer: With water in the bottom of the well, you will naturally get no drainage, and the idea would be impractical. There is also a possibility of contaminating the water supply of another well which may be close by. I would advise building a cesspool and locating it as far from the sources of water supply as possible. Have you considered a septic tank instead of a cesspool?

Refinishing a Brick House.

Question: We wish to clean our brick cottage, which is 60 years old. How should we do it? What colors do you suggest for the trim and the shutters?

Answer: You can clean the brickwork with any coarse scouring powder and plenty of water with a stiff scrubbing brush. If this does not restore the color sufficiently, you can use a cement paint that is intended for masonry, and that you can get in brick or other color, at a paint store. White painted bricks are very popular, and you might consider this. White trim against red bricks is effective, and a soft green jade for instance, should be a good contrast for the shutters.

Cleaning a Statuette.

Question: I have a statuette of the kind that was made in large numbers 30 or more years ago, but that now can be found only in antique shops. It would look better if it were cleaned. What method and materials should I use?

Answer: The statuette is undoubtedly of a kind known as a Rogers Group, or something similar. It is made of plaster of paris and finished with oil paint. You can clean it with a cloth damp with soapy water; follow by wiping with clear water and then allow to dry thoroughly. For a final finish you can repaint it with ordinary oil paint.

Oil Finish.

Question: In a rubbed oil finish, is raw or boiled linseed oil used? Is the first coat applied hot or cold?

Answer: Raw linseed oil is usually applied cold. One excellent combination is 3 parts oil and 1 part turpentine, which has greater penetration. An alternative is equal parts of oil, turpentine and denatured alcohol.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the news

Death—To one of the world's most renowned scientists, death came in the midst of new discoveries. Sir Frederick Banting, Canadian who developed insulin, died when a plane carrying him to England crashed in Newfoundland. It was revealed Sir Frederick was about to put into practice a new discovery in the field of aviation medicine which should be of great value.

Fame—The highest awards Hollywood can bestow upon its stars is the annual shields given by the Academy of Motion Picture Arts. This year the shields (known as Oscars to the studios) were received by James Stewart (best actor) and to Ginger Rogers (born Virginia McMeth) for her portrayal of Kitty Foyle.

A Nourishing Diet That Is Low in Cost

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

IN MY student days we learned that there were three main classes of foods—proteins (meat, eggs, fish, cereals), starches (bread, potatoes, sugar), and fats (butter, cream, fat meats). The other foodstuffs, salts—iron, lime, phosphorous—and water, were considered "necessary" foods.

Today foods are not considered entirely from the standpoint of fuel or heat, but from the standpoint of the building of the body and maintaining the various body processes in proper condition to do their work.

In days when foods necessary to maintain health are of the utmost importance to a nation, adults, children and children of the future, not only must these foods be acquired but they must be within the reach of those with low income.

That the expectant mother must have an excess quantity of foods containing all the food essentials—proteins, fats, starches, minerals and vitamins—is agreed. It is a source of surprise and satisfaction therefore to learn that research workers at Columbia university have found that the expectant mother can live on a diet costing as little as 34 cents a day and still get generous amounts of all food substances she needs.

Suggested Diet.
This diet is announced by Dr. Clara Taylor, Columbia university, assistant professor of nutrition.

A sample day's menu consists of: Breakfast—four prunes; one cup of oatmeal with a little sugar; two slices of whole wheat toast; one tablespoon butter; one glass of milk.
Lunch—Cream of tomato soup made with one half cup of tomatoes, one-fourth cup evaporated milk, one teaspoon flour and one teaspoon fat; salad of one egg, lettuce, mayonnaise; cheese sandwich (three ounces of cheese and teaspoon butter) on whole wheat bread; one glass of milk.

Dinner—Three ounces broiled beef liver; one baked potato; one cup kale or cabbage; two slices whole wheat bread; two tablespoons butter; one banana; one glass milk. Sugar allowance for a day is one ounce.

What to Do for Cases of Enuresis

ONE of the gratifying discoveries in recent years is a method or methods of curing bed wetting or enuresis. Even after children reach their teens, they may be embarrassed by this distressing condition.

In young children, liquids are cut down toward evening, the child is sent to the bathroom before going to bed and as the parents are retiring the child is awakened by his parents and walks to the bathroom again. This gets him completely awake and is considered an important part of the treatment. Formerly the parent carried the child to the bathroom and in many cases he was not completely awake. Part of the treatment also were methods to prevent the child lying on his back during sleep—knot in tail of sleeping garment, narrow space in bed preventing him lying on his back.

A great advance in the treatment of older boys and girls is the eating of the salt sandwich. No liquid of any kind is allowed after 4 p. m., and a sandwich of bread and butter with a layer of table salt, or salt fish, or salt meat is given at bedtime. As salt holds 70 times its own weight of water, this great amount of salt at bedtime holds the water in the tissues till morning, thus preventing it going down to the kidneys.

However, there are some cases of bed wetting that are not due to nervousness or to emotional disturbance, but to some condition of the kidneys, bladder, or the generative organs themselves. The editor of the Journal of the American Medical Association advises that before any treatment for bed wetting is begun a thorough examination of the kidneys, bladder and generative organs be made, including X-rays, to determine whether the cause is organic or functional.

QUESTION BOX

Q.—Please advise me regarding the cause of glaucoma, and is this ailment curable?

A.—The causes of glaucoma are not definitely known. Some derangement of liver or kidney or both is believed a cause. Sometimes glaucoma is due to some disturbance in eye itself. In older people may be due to high blood pressure. Heredity is believed to be a factor. Medical and surgical treatment to relieve symptoms is the usual procedure.

ADVENTURES IN COOKING

"I get just as much 'lift' out of a new recipe as I do out of buying a new hat"—so stated a homemaker recently and her statement set me thinking. After all, why shouldn't we women enjoy a new recipe?

Given a brand new, unusual and different recipe to prepare the making up of that recipe becomes a challenge, almost a game. Can we make it up correctly? Does the recipe suggest a new cookery process, one which perhaps we have never tried before? How is the new dish going to taste? Are we going to be really proud of it when we take it to the table? Is the family going to like it? Adventure in cooking—that's just what it is, and that's why I like new recipes; that's why I like to suggest new recipes to you.

Today's assortment (given below) is centered around a number of new ways to prepare various kinds of sausage. Far too often, I fear, we think of sausage as something to serve for breakfasts or light suppers; we fry it, serve it and that's the beginning and the end of all the thinking we do about it. So let's be venturesome and try these recipes. The list contains a number of my personal favorites. I am sure both you and the family will enjoy them.

Sausage Stuffed Cinnamon Apples.
(Serves 6)

2 cups sugar
1 cup water
½ cup red cinnamon candy
6 apples
18 small link sausages

Cook sugar and water and cinnamon candy to a thick syrup consistency (236 degrees). Core apples and remove peeling from top half of each apple. Place peeled side in hot syrup and cook for 5 minutes. Remove from syrup and place three uncooked link sausages in center of each apple. Then place apples, peeled side up, in baking pan. Pour remaining syrup over them and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) approximately 40 minutes.

Thueringer Sausage With Apple Rings.
(Makes 4 servings)

8 Thueringer sausages.
1 No. 2 can whole kernel corn (2½ cups)
2 tablespoons butter
½ teaspoon salt
Few grains pepper
1 tablespoon pimiento (finely cut)
2 tart cooking apples
3 tablespoons butter

Place Thueringer sausages in skillet with sufficient water to cover bottom of pan. Cook for about 20 minutes, turning occasionally, until water has evaporated and sausages are tender and brown. Drain corn and place liquor in saucepan. Heat until it has evaporated to about one-half. Add corn and heat, then mix lightly with butter, salt, pepper and pimiento. Meanwhile, wash apples and cut into ½-inch slices. Pan-fry in butter over medium heat. Turn when brown on one side and brown on the other. To arrange plates, place two sausages, two apple slices and a serving of corn on each plate.

Sausage Waffles.
2 cups pastry flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
2 eggs, separated
1¼ cups milk
½ cup melted butter
¾ cup bulk pork sausage

Mix and sift all dry ingredients. Beat egg yolks thoroughly and add milk to them. Stir milk mixture into the dry ingredients. Add melted butter and sausage and fold in the well beaten egg whites. Bake as waffles in a hot waffle iron until crisp and brown. Serve with maple syrup.

Sweet Potato and Puritan Sausage Cakes.

Parboil 5 sweet potatoes. Peel and cut in half lengthwise. Place ½ of the slices in a buttered baking pan.

Adventures in Cooking

Everyone likes to adventure in cooking and that's just the opportunity that comes to each homemaker when she tries out a new recipe. The best part of the adventure, however, comes about when the recipe makes the man of the family look up and with both pride and appreciation in his voice pronounces the whole meal a tremendous success.

The 10c recipe book, "Feeding Father," contains a large number of brand new recipes, each so different that making them up is an adventure—so good that eating them entirely merits and begets the gratification of the man of the family. Send today—this offer may be eliminated at any time. To get your copy, send 10 cents in coin to Eleanor Howe, 919 North Michigan Avenue, Chicago, Illinois. Ask for the cook book, "Feeding Father."

Make ½ pound of pork sausage up into flat sausage cakes. Place one sausage cake on each sweet potato slice and top with a second sweet potato slice. Fasten with a toothpick. Brush with melted butter and salt lightly. Bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for approximately ½ hour.

Porcupine Sausage Balls.
2 tablespoons butter
1 small onion, chopped
1 green pepper, chopped
2½ cups canned tomatoes
1 tablespoon sugar
1 pound bulk pork sausage
¾ cup uncooked rice

Melt butter in frying pan and brown onion in it. Add chopped green pepper, tomatoes, sugar, and salt. Cook until green pepper is tender. Make the sausage into small balls and roll in the uncooked rice. Place in greased baking casserole and pour the tomato mixture over the sausage balls. Cover baking dish and bake 1½ hours in a moderate oven (350 degrees).

Sausages in Pastry Blankets.
(8 sausage rolls)

1½ cups flour
½ teaspoon salt
¾ teaspoon baking powder
¾ cup shortening
3 tablespoons cold water (approximately)

8 pork link sausages
Sift together the flour, salt, and baking powder. Blend in the shortening. Then add just enough water to form a dough, mixing lightly. Roll out and cut into 8 oblong pieces, each sufficiently large to wrap around one link sausage. Place individual sausages (well pricked) on individual pieces of pastry; fold ends over and roll up. Place, folded side down, on a baking sheet. Prick crust with a fork. Bake in a hot oven (425 degrees) for about 30 minutes. Serve very hot.

Sausage Stuffed Tomatoes.
(Serves 8)

8 large firm tomatoes (uncooked)
1 pound country style pork sausage
½ cup soft bread crumbs (buttered)
Remove stem end of tomatoes. Scoop out the center and sprinkle lightly with salt. Form sausage into eight balls and place one ball in each tomato. Top with buttered bread crumbs. Place tomatoes in a shallow baking pan, bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 45 minutes (approximately).

Ham Stuffed Baked Apples.
(Serves 6)

6 large tart apples
1½ cups baked ham (cut in small pieces)
1 teaspoon whole cloves
2 tablespoons butter

Cut a ¼ inch slice from stem end of each apple and remove core carefully. Scoop out, reserve apple pulp, and leave apple shell about ¼ inch thick. Combine ham and apple pulp (cut fine) and fill the apple shells. Top each shell with a clove and dot with butter. Place in a baking pan, add ¼ inch water and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for about one hour.

THE LORD'S SUPPER

LESSON TEXT—Luke 22:14-30.
GOLDEN TEXT—As often as ye eat this bread, and drink this cup, ye do show the Lord's death till he come.—I Corinthians 11:26.

Old things pass away and new things take their place—such seems to be the law of life. That which is useful and greatly desired fulfills its time of service and is set aside for that which takes its place. The change which occurred in our lesson shared this aspect, but was in reality so vital and fundamental that it merits our closest attention.

The Passover feast had (since that great and awful night of Israel's redemption out of Egypt's bondage) pointed forward to the Christ and His cross as the fulfillment of the type of redemption by the shedding of blood. But now the hour had come for Him to give Himself in death, and He set aside the Passover (because it had been fulfilled) to establish the great Christian feast of remembrance—the Lord's table, showing forth His death till He come.

I. The Last Passover (vv. 14-18).
Our Lord looked forward with intense desire to the Passover which He now observed with His disciples, for it was the last feast of that kind recognized by God. All that it had foreshadowed of deliverance and hope was fulfilled in Him who now sat at the head of the table. He had moved forward with resolute purpose and desire to the day when His mission on earth was to be accomplished, and He was to become our Passover (I Cor. 5:7).

The fact that He had looked forward to it with desire does not in any sense minimize the deep darkness of either Gethsemane or Calvary. Remember that, when in the garden he faced that hour and thought of the possibility of the cup being taken from Him, He said to the Father, "Not what I will, but what thou wilt." Praying concerning the same matter (in John 12:27), He said, "Now is my soul troubled; and what shall I say? Father, save me from this hour: but for this cause came I unto this hour."

II. The First Communion (vv. 19, 20).
Taking the unleavened bread and the unfermented wine of the Passover, which had just been observed by Him for the last time, Jesus established a new feast, the Christian feast of remembrance, which we call communion or the Lord's table.

As we have already suggested, it is a feast of remembrance. "For as often as ye eat this bread, and drink this cup ye do show the Lord's death till he come" (I Cor. 11:26). At the Lord's table His followers find spiritual strength in remembering His death for them, and they also find joy as they remember that He is to come again. In doing so they testify to the world that they believe in and cherish these truths.

This feast is also rightly called "communion," for down through the ages and until He does come the saints of God have at His table sweet communion, first of all with Him, and then with one another.

We also note that our Lord spoke of the cup as "my blood of the new testament." The word "testament" means "covenant." The Lord's table therefore speaks of our allegiance to Him, of our loyalty to our Lord, and our devotion to His service. The Christian Church therefore speaks of the communion service as a sacrament, a word taken from the Latin "sacramentum," meaning oath, and essentially an oath of allegiance.

III. Betrayal and Strife (vv. 21-30).

Someone will say, "That point does not belong with the other two. Both the feast of the Passover and the Lord's Supper are for the joyful remembrance of deliverance and redemption." The objection is well taken except for one thing—we are dealing with human beings as they are, not as they should be and could be by the grace of God.

Here in the inner circle of the twelve there was one traitor. It seems impossible, but apparently Judas had maintained such outward conduct as to turn no suspicion in his direction, even though all along he had in his heart the blackest of treachery against his Lord. It is a sad and soul-searching fact which is here revealed, that it is possible for one to make a high profession of faith in Christ and even so to live as to give no cause for criticism, and yet to be unregenerate and in fact the enemy of Christ.

What about the strife regarding position? Shame on us, for it still goes on in the church. Not even the remembrance of our Lord's death and the reminder that He is coming again is enough to keep men from wanting to be greatest.

May the spirit of Christ get hold of some self-seeking Christian as he today sees Christ as the One whose body was broken and whose blood was shed for him.

TIPS to Gardeners

GARDENS FOR DEFENSE

THE home gardener has an important place in our program of national defense, a much more important role than he played during the first World War.

In the face of these facts, gardeners are advised to do two things: Plan to devote increased space to vegetable gardening; and perfect plans for the 1941 garden so as to get the greatest possible yield from the available space.

In stepping up yield from vegetable gardens of limited size, two major devices should be relied on, first, companion cropping—the planting of fast-growing crops like radishes, spinach, and lettuce between rows of slower-growing vegetables like tomatoes, and cabbage. The fast growers will be pulled and used before the other crops need the space.

Second, succession cropping—the repeated planting of major crops such as beans, sweet corn, radishes, carrots, beets, and lettuce. Moderate-size, new plantings made at regular intervals during the early part of the season will provide a steady supply of fresh vegetables until the season's end.

Apparently the Old Man Was Still to Be Satisfied

The old countryman and his wife were seated in the shoe shop of a small market town. The occasion was a pair of new shoes for the wife.

She tried on practically every shoe in the shop, and at last expressed her satisfaction. The weary assistant breathed a sigh of relief.

But the matter was not settled so easily. Addressing his wife, the old man queried: "Now are you quite sure you would like shoes for your birthday present or would you prefer an umbrella? They are on sale today, you know."

School Notes

INTRA-MURAL GAMES

(By Norma Westcott)
On March 11 the boys of Tawas City High gathered for the second day of intra-mural games. The game between the Freshmen and Juniors was a walkway for the Juniors with Art Biggins as high scorer with 13 points. Eddie Coyle and Roy Landon were tied in points with four each. The final score was 21 to 12. The unknown scorer has yet to be found. Your scorekeeper wasn't watching that one. Incidentally, Coach Forsten was on the Juniors' team. The score was 33 to 5 and just as the Freshman-Junior game was a walkway so was the Senior-Sophomore encounter with Harold Ross leading with 24 points to his credit. Of the Sophomores, Bill Musolf and Reg Bublitz were tied with two points each. Maybe the Sophomores could have won with Bob Rollin in there.

SENIOR CLASS

Attention! Ladies!

Remember the time, 2:30 o'clock at the High School auditorium. Admission twenty-five cents. In a recent class meeting, definite plans were made for the Senior class trip to Washington which will be made in the spring. The tentative dates for the trip are June 6 to 12. The Seniors now have approximately $225.00 in the bank. Through their corresponding secretary Julius Musolf, the Seniors have received booklets and letters, giving information on points of interest within Washington.

FRESHMEN NEWS

(By Hazel Galliker)
At the Freshman Class meeting

Tuesday, the class continued to study parliamentary procedure. Leland Britting acted as temporary president and Norma Lou Westcott acted as secretary. Later, Mr. Pollicutt gave the duties of the secretary and treasurer. A motion was made and carried to put a chart on the bulletin board showing when and how much the students paid.

SEVENTH and EIGHTH GRADES

Three students from this room had the TB x-ray Monday. Harold Burtzloff is the new librarian.

The seventh grade hygiene class drew pictures of the head showing the three centers of sinus infection. They also made graphs showing the location of the world's largest coal fields.

The eighth grade has started the study of Michigan government.

No. 1

lead 6-4 at the end of the first quarter. At the half, the score stood 8-7 in favor of East Tawas. At the three-quarter mark, East Tawas still held to a one point advantage, 12-11. Then things happened—with about three minutes left to play, it looked like all East Tawas for a "spurt" had given them a 19-14 lead. But the Saint Anne five refused to concede anything to their rivals. Two successful tries of the foul line coupled with two field goals sent the Saint Anne boys in the lead 20-19 with less than a minute to play. East Tawas worked hurriedly, sending the ball down the side lines, a pass to Crawford. Here was his chance. He had turned in a splendid brand of defensive ball all evening but had not succeeded in dropping in a shot from the playing court. With careful aim, he let go with a double-decker which left his hands just before the timers horn sounded the end of the game. So great was the excitement that the blast from the timers table could not be heard by officials or players and the game went on until fans swarmed madly onto the playing court. Yes, this was a perfect demonstration of why basketball, everywhere, charms thousands upon thousands into gymnasiums every season. Fans will talk about this one for many a day to come.

The final game in class D took action at 8:00 Saturday evening with Harrisville opposing the conquerors from East Tawas. The East Tawas coach threw an even dozen at the Harrisville lads and laid claim to the Class D district championship by measuring victory with a 33-19 gauge.

The only game in class C found Oscoda and Whittemore bring to a close a successful tournament. It was Oscoda all the way in this one and they are possessors of the district championship in class C.

Commissioner of Schools Russell Rollin presented the East Tawas players and coach, finalist in class D, with a beautiful plaque; after which he presented a similar plaque to the Oscoda players and coach to signify their achievement as finalist in class C. Ray Templin, of Sterling and Virgil Noble, of Seginaw, officiated at all the games, and proved that their high rating as basketball officials are most deserving.

At this point, it seems quite proper to digress from basketball and express appreciation for the bands which appeared at the tournament and added color to the program. East Tawas, Oscoda and Tawas City high schools bands gave the spectators something to think about. Particularly impressive was the fine exhibition of flag twirling and baton tossing by the four majorettes from the Oscoda band together with the formations of their band on the floor.

L. V. Knowlton, superintendent of the Tawas City high school and manager of the tournament takes this opportunity to thank the members of the school board, faculty, and students and pupils of the Tawas City high school for their splendid assistance in making the tournament a success.

A microscope using electrons and a magnetic lens instead of the usual light and glass lens, now developed, is expected to enable the exploration of the realm of objects that have been too small to be seen.

Be just and fear not: let all the ends thou aimest at, be thy country's, thy God's, and truth's.—Shakespeare.

Merit exists without high position, but no one can reach high position without some merit.

TO YOUR FIRESIDE COMES BETTER LIVING

Long before sundown, with your new Allis-Chalmers WC Tractor, you are on the last round. Half the field is still moist; with horses the dirt used to be dried off before you had finished one land. Where's the old misery in your muscles? Where's the tangle in your throat from shouting at the team? Where's the old time from shouting over your 2-row and beans, laid by a week ahead of time with your 2-row Quick-Hitch Cultivator. Your new pure-bred heifers—paying livestock in place of horses—are knee deep in legume and grass rotated pasture. Already your milk check is bigger. You head for home in high gear—looking forward to another evening of Better Living.

ALLIS-CHALMERS MODEL WC SYSTEM

PLOWING—Full 2-plow WC replaces 8-12 horses, sets Safety Mower attached to WC free up to 50 acres for paying livestock. Field speeds up to 5 m.p.h.

HARVESTING—A multiple smooth-governed power for operating Model 60 All-Crop Harvester from power take-off. No extra motor needed.
