Motion to Quash Mandamus Denied

At a session of circuit court held here yesterday morning, Judge Herman Dehnke denied a motion to dismiss mandamus proceedings in the case of Hobart Brayman versus the Osceola Township Re-count Board.

Following a close vote at last April's election between Frederick Lockhart and Hobart Brayman for office of supervisor, Brayman asked for a recount. A recount of the votes gave the election to Brayman by a vote of 74 to 72, but two members of the four man board refused certification of Brayman's election and asked that all of his votes be rejected.

Brayman petitioned circuit court for mandamus proceedings. The two members of the recount board, through their attorney, W. R. Barbour, of Harrisville, asked that the mandamus proceedings be dismissed on the grounds that it was not the proper proceeding. The motion was denied by Judge Dehnke and they were allowed another week to answer Brayman's petition. T. George Sternberg is attorney for Brayman.

LEGION PLANS MEMORIAL DAY EXERCISES

Rev. H. E. Davis Will Speak At Tawas City Cemetery

Rev. Herbert E. Davis of East Tawas will give the Memorial Day address Friday, May 30, at the Tawas City cemetery. The address will be a portion of a patriotic program which will be given under the auspices of Jesse C. Hodder Post, American Legion. Boys and girls from the city schools, Boy Scouts and others interested will assist in the program.

The local ceremonies will be a part of services which will be held at various places in the county and will follow along the lines originally laid down by the Grand Army of the Republic many years ago. In 1868 Gen. John A. Logan, commander in chief of that organization, issued an order designating May 30 as Memorial Day, "for the purpose of strewing flowers on the graves of comrades who had died in the defense of their country."

Since that time nearly every state in the union has adopted Memorial Day as a legal holiday.

The services will start with a parade from the billet to the Matthew street bridge by the Tawas City High School band, firing squad and ex-servicemen. Flowers will be strewn on the waters of Tawas river with appropriate ceremony in honor of sailors who died in the service of their country. The group will leave the billet at nine o'clock.

The program at the cemetery will begin with an invocation by Rev. M. A. Sommerfield. There will be selections by the band, exercises by the school children and the address by Rev. Davis. This will be followed by the Legion Memorial Day ceremonies and decoration of the graves.

A meeting will be held Thursday evening at the billet when wreaths will be prepared for the graves.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

By Edward C. Wayne

Reports of Hess Flight to England Fill News Columns and Radio Lanes; Convoys Plus Strikes Plus Priorities Equal Headaches in Defense Program

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

BOMBSHELL: Human Variety

The Rudolf Hess incident was the dropping of a bombshell into the moors of Scotland which went up with a louder explosion than any of the tons of TNT that Hitler's aviators had yet sent across the channel.

Imaginations ran riot—the house of commons was in a dither—more than 20 basic theories were advanced to explain why Hess fled Germany in an airplane and dropped to earth in a parachute, and with the interweaving and variations of these, one had several thousand stories to choose from.

To list the British theories and those of neutrals would be futile because they were not only limited by the imaginations of their creators. To list the German explanations also would be futile because they obviously were the propagandic outbursts of a government whose nose was temporarily out of joint.

Outside of this, all was speculation, all was guesswork, but the guessers, most of them being paid at so much a word, let themselves go and endless columns were printed.

Yet the story was not being "overplayed"—most thinking newspaper men being at a loss for earlier comparisons in journalistic history, which, one must recall, doesn't go far back when history is considered.

But outside of the type of story that history presented in the Middle Ages and during the days of Caesar and Hannibal, and Anthony and Cleopatra, and Cassius and Brutus, and Helen of Troy, Hess' flight was unique.

Most newspaper commentators were willing to call it the biggest story in centuries and let it go at that. They wagged their heads and said, "What if Cordell Hull were to fly to Germany, or what if it had been the other way over the channel and Anthony Eden had made the trip?"

This was enough to settle the point as to the magnitude of the news to their own satisfaction, anyway.

Basic explanation of the Hess incident, on the standpoint of logic,

PRIORITIES: And OPM

A new difficulty in the U. S. handling of defense work loomed when William S. Knudsen, motor official and head of OPM, seemed to take as a personal issue the question of taking priorities out of his hands and giving them to a special organization answerable only to the army and navy chiefs.

Knudsen was quoted as saying that he would quit if the plan went through.

Thus the question of priorities lifted its head as a vital defense issue, further complicating the picture.

Priorities were becoming a very real issue in business, also, many manufacturers finding that this one question might easily keep them from success or failure in carrying out contracts. The right to a priority of delivery of machine tools might alone answer an entire question of manufacture.

Knudsen took the attitude that if the work of production management was his, that to remove from his hands a vital tool like the right to decide questions of priorities, would be to make his task impossible, and to rob him of his prime prerogative.

WILLIAM S. KNUDSEN
He forced an issue.

It seemed likely that unless this question was ironed out swiftly to the liking of the Danish-born production expert, the government might be looking for a new man.

STRIKES:

Up-Grade Again

The labor trouble tempo in the United States defense industry was on the upward curve again, with a $30,000,000 order for Browning machine guns held up at the Colt factory at Hartford, Conn., and other old labor difficulties threatening to break out anew, including the coal strike.

Always rearing its head was the threatened General Motors strike, which would, if it occurred, affect millions of dollars in defense work and about 100,000 employees, and John L. Lewis said that if the coal contract with southern operators was not forthcoming soon, he would call the 400,000 coal miners out again.

This brought the strike news back onto the front pages with a bang, and Representative Thomas of New Jersey, a Republican, called for a roundup of Communists in labor groups, and to order them all arrested on treason charges. This was the most drastic step suggested thus far.

SHIPS:

Britain Bound

President Roosevelt assured the nation that the administration's objective of 2,000,000 tons of merchant shipping for Britain would be realized by mid-June.

This assurance carried with it the important promise that the bill permitting the President to take possession of foreign vessels idle in American ports was in the category of "sure things."

The senate and house engaged in a desultory effort to write into the bill amendments chief among which was the Tobey amendment forbidding the use of convoys.

The whole convoy issue, as indeed all other news of the war on this side of the water took a back seat during the news ascendancy of Rudolf Hess, but the issue was there, ready to rip itself out into the open at an appropriate moment, and to become the central point of a whole congressional debate on the President's general foreign policy.

The 2,000,000 tons of ships for Britain within a month came as the Nazis were claiming 10,000,000 tons of British ships sunk by U-boats since the start of the war, and with the British, while admitting losses of at least half that amount, generally showing the pinch sharply.

Further drastic reductions in the meat ration (and little is as dear to the Britisher as his beloved beef and mutton) were announced and the general trend of commons debate indicated that Britain was feeling the ship pinch tremendously.

Gold Star Mother

When American Gold Star Mothers conducted their annual ceremonies in Glendale, California, Mrs. Anna Barnbrock, 94, oldest of the group in the nation, participated in the ceremonies. Mrs. Barnbrock is pictured standing before the marble statuary, "A Compassionate Mother," which was unveiled.

DRAFT: Bars Lifted

Of extreme import was the decision of congress to lift all bans to the size of the army or to the question of selective service for any purpose for which it might be used in the national defense.

Also vital was the decision immediately to classify the 10,000,000 young men still unclassified in the first call, and to set up the second call for an early date, probably in July.

Two things were highly likely as a result—that the draft would be used to call men of a younger age than before, and that it would also be used to hunt out "missing links" among the skilled trades for use in defense industry.

The first eventuality naturally would follow the report of army chiefs after a few months' experience with draftees that the younger men were far more adaptable than the older, and could take their training quicker and better.

The second resulted from the realization that many men in the uniform would be much more productive to defense in shipyards or munitions plants and that the classification lists, if turned over to defense production men might result in discovery of these facts before the uniform was donned.

The lifting of any ban on the size of the army tended to indicate that there was justification for the growing belief that the end of a calendar year would not very likely mean the end of a man's military service, under present conditions.

VICHY:

A New Role

More and more it was becoming apparent that newest German propaganda was to convince the world, especially the United States, of one fact—that the war was over and Germany was about to undertake the difficult task of reconstruction.

In effect the story to (as one German writer put it) "poor daddy Roosevelt" was this:

"All British have been chased from the European continent except at Gibraltar.

"Thus Germany's prime objective has been achieved. We shall now try to cement these 300,000,000 people into one force, working for Germany.

"With this force we shall confront the United States and defeated Britain."

First move in the "war is now over game" was to lighten, somewhat, the armistice terms for France—and to ask deeper collaboration.

This, according to dispatches, Vichy accepted unanimously.

The German plan called for the return of some prisoners of war, the raising of the line between occupied and unoccupied France, and a list of demands on the French for co-operation which might never be made public.

Most observers believed that Germany, in order to get and hold the Mediterranean, would give almost any concession to beaten France to grab the French fleet, but this did not appear on the surface as a condition.

Why a Change?

What did change Vichy's role in the world? Up to that moment the world had pictured Vichy and unoccupied France as a saddened, hungry nation, bled white by the Nazis, and hoping against hope for the day when a British victory would return the country to peace, prosperity and freedom.

Now the world had to picture a France which had further surrendered, which was sending Darlan to repeated close and secret conferences with a "high Nazi authority," and which was prepared to tell the United States, in effect, just what the Germans were claiming:

"The war is over, Europe now is dominated by Germany, and France is going to collaborate politically and socially, to see what she can gain for herself in the reorganization of Europe. If you go into the war on the side of Britain you are against, not for us."

Watch Your Kidneys!
Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste
Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.
Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.
There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

At last I've found out what those WPA workers have been doing on West Twenty-fourth street all these months. They're narrowing the sidewalk and widening the street . . . State Comptroller Gets

Query on 'Lawful Money'
ALBANY.—An apostle of brevity is gunning for State Comptroller Morris S. Tremaine. Tremaine advertised a sale of housing bonds, adding that interest would be paid in "lawful money" of the United States. Promptly he received a postal card with the message: "What is this lawful money? Is there any unlawful money? Please put us wise."

BREAD TRICKS APLENTY!
(See Recipes Below)

'BREAD 'N' BUTTER'

Those new loaves of white bread featured on grocery store counters and in bakeries everywhere these days look just like the loaves of white bread you have been buying for years. But they're different—they've been "vitalized."

"How?" you ask. Through the use of enriched flour—a wheat flour which contains added vitamins and minerals.

It was the Bureau of Home Economics of the United States department of agriculture which suggested, when flour standards here were under discussion, that fortified flour should contain a specified amount of vitamin B1 and of iron, and that nicotinic acid, riboflavin and calcium should be added.

Because American dietaries lack chiefly B-vitamins and iron, the accent was placed here. The law is that each pound of Enriched Flour must contain at least 1.66 milligrams of thiamin (B1); 6.15 milligrams of nicotinic acid (pellagra-preventing vitamin); and 6.15 milligrams of iron.

So, now in addition to being the most versatile and economical energy-yielding food, bread also provides, in economical form, additional nutrients essential to health.

And, since bread is the one food that probably appears more often than any other on the family menu, I'm going to give you a variety of new and interesting uses for this "health food."

Bread Buttermiscs.
Remove the crusts from a loaf of uncut bread. Cut lengthwise slices from the loaf. Trim the slices so that they are about 1 1/2 inches wide and the ends pointed. Brush with an egg and milk mixture and arrange in baking cups. It is best to brush the tips with a little melted butter so that they will brown more readily. Bake the bread buttermiscs in a moderate oven until they are delicately browned.

Pinwheel Sandwiches.
Trim the crusts from a whole loaf of uncut bread; cut in lengthwise slices. Spread the slices with any desired spread of a creamy consistency. Roll the bread firmly the narrow way. Small stuffed olives, nut meats or hard cooked eggs make an attractive center for the roll. The rolls should be tightly wrapped in waxed paper and chilled in the refrigerator before slicing.

Croustades.
Trim crusts from two or three slices of bread, making even-size squares. Remove the centers from all but one slice. Dip in melted

LYNN SAYS:

Do your menus meet nutritive requirements, and appetite appeal, too? Careful, now. Here are 10 points on which to check your meals for appetite appeal:

1. Avoid repeating the same food in one meal.
2. Avoid serving more than one strongly flavored or highly seasoned food in a meal.
3. Avoid using too much of one type of food in a meal—such as spaghetti as a main dish and rice pudding for dessert.
4. Use as much texture contrast as possible—have some soft, some solid, and some crisp food in each meal.
5. Get flavor balance in your menus by serving some sweet, some bland, and some acid foods each meal.
6. Serve some hot and some cold foods each meal.
7. Serve foods whose colors look well together and avoid serving colorless foods in one meal.
8. Try to get contrast in size and shape in the foods served.
9. Serve leftovers in a new form.
10. Avoid serving the same food combinations too often. Serve some other tart fruit with your pork, instead of the stand-by applesauce.

It's Picnic Time

Has winter made you forget the wonderful, carefree afternoons spent along sparkling streams or in sunny meadows, munching hot dogs, dipping into baked beans and ice cream? It's time to plan Sunday excursions and be lazy by eating off paper plates, with paper forks. And next week Lynn Chambers will delve into picnic atmosphere. Watch for her recipes of good things to eat out-of-doors!

Bread Patty Cases.

Cut three rounds of sliced bread. Cut holes in two of them and place on the first slice. Brush with a mixture of egg and milk (1 egg slightly beaten plus 1/2 cup of milk) and bake in a moderate oven until brown.

Checkerboard Sandwiches.

Remove the crusts and spread the slices with soft butter, and any sandwich spread of paste consistency. Then, alternating the slices, make two stacks of three slices each—one with a whole wheat slice between two white slices and the other with a white slice between two whole wheat slices. Next, cut the two stacks into half-inch slices. Spread with soft butter and another flavor spread, and alternate them again, making stacks of three-layer slices each. Press the stacks together, wrap each in wax paper and place in icebox to harden the butter. When ready to serve, cut crosswise into thin slices to give the checkerboard effect.

Ribbon Sandwiches.

Remove the crusts from four slices of bread, two white and two whole wheat. Put them together with different fillings, wrap in waxed paper and chill. Cut down through the four layers in thin slices to form a ribbon sandwich.

Try these tricks very soon, won't you?

You'll receive no end of compliments on your ability to prepare these tasty and attractive "bread delights." They are all pictured at the top of the column.

If you're weary of serving the usual type of sandwiches when you entertain, here are "fillers" that will bring such phrases as "May I have your recipe?" from fascinated guests.

Egg Filling.

4 hard cooked eggs
1/2 cup chopped cooked bacon or 1/2 cup stuffed olives
Few drops Worcestershire sauce
Cream or salad dressing
Chop eggs, add bacon and Worcestershire sauce. Add enough cream or dressing to give a spreading consistency.

Ripe Olive Filling.

Use one cup ripe olives, minced; one cup finely diced celery; 1/2 cup minced nut meats, and salad dressing to taste. Combine olives, celery and nutmeats and moisten with dressing, then spread on bread.

Sandwich Loaf.

Trim crusts from a sandwich loaf of bread and cut in four lengthwise slices. Spread each slice with softened butter. For the three different fillings necessary, use any good combinations of flavor and color, such as minced ham and pickle, a yellow cheese mixed with finely-chopped green pepper, chives, parsley or watercress, and chopped tomatoes and cucumbers, or a tuna or salmon mixture. Each of these fillings should be mixed with mayonnaise or softened butter so that it spreads easily. The loaf may be made several hours ahead of time if wrapped in waxed paper and kept in a cool place. Prior to serving, it is iced on top, sides and ends with cream cheese softened to spreading consistency with water, milk or mayonnaise. Garnish with slices of stuffed olive, sprigs of parsley or endive. For serving, cut in thick slices. This loaf will serve 10 to 12 persons.

Rheumatism And Use of Vitamin D

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON
LOOKING back but a few years, physicians today feel that they have much for which to be thankful as they treat and are able to cure the disease which physicians of former days found "incurable." Tuberculosis—consumption—meant slow, but certain death. Pernicious anemia and diabetes also meant certain death within a couple of years. Relief for asthmatic attacks was often possible, but how to cure or prevent attacks was unknown.

Notwithstanding all these advances in medicine, the oldest disease known to man, rheumatism, still is a thorn in the side of physicians. Rheumatism has well been called the stepson of medicine.

Not only is rheumatism the oldest disease, but it is also the most common disease of man, according to a survey made by the United States Public Health Service. "There is almost twice as much rheumatism (arthritis) as heart disease.

In former days it was considered almost the natural thing to develop rheumatism as one got older, but this survey showed that half of those permanently disabled by rheumatism were under 55 years of age. If permanently disabled at 55 it means that many were partly or almost completely disabled some years before they reached 55.

Infection Still Commonest Cause.
In my early years in medicine it was thought that infection—teeth and tonsils—was the cause of most if not all cases. Today it is known that, while infection is still the commonest cause, there are other causes—coldness and dampness, wrong diet, injury, emotional disturbances and others.

While the cause is being sought, treatment today consists in use of pain-relieving drugs, application of heat, diet rich in vitamin B1 and D, and physical therapy.

Dr. Roger T. Farley, Chicago, has had great success by use of massive doses of vitamin D. Other physicians then tried this method, but reported little or no success. Today the reports on the value of this method are more favorable and it is taking its place as almost routine treatment in some hospitals.

Head Colds From Indoor Swimming

MANY towns and cities are equipped with swimming pools. These pools are in the great majority of cases kept very clean by washing down the sides and floor once or twice a week, allowing the water to drain over troughs at the edges, and use of chlorine every 24 hours. Despite all these precautions the number of head colds and nose and ear infections is very large.

Because of these colds there has been much criticism of these indoor pools: the water is not changed often enough, too much chlorine is used, the air about the pool is too hot and wet causing a cold when going outdoors after the swim.

One of the causes of these head colds and infections is pointed out by Dr. H. Marshall Taylor, Jacksonville, Fla., in the Journal of the American Medical Association. "It is now an accepted fact that chilling of the body surfaces causes constriction (partial closing) of the blood vessels of the skin including the blood vessels of the lining of the nose." It is also an accepted fact that prolonged lack of blood to the lining of the nose (due to this partial closing caused by cool air) naturally reduces the local resistance of the lining of the nose, so that this lining is unable to fight off infection.

The cause of these head colds and infections in most cases is thus believed to be (a) breathing in when head is under water, and (b) sitting or standing around the swimming pool and allowing the skin and mucous membrane of the nose to get chilled instead of keeping body warm by moving around.

The remedy is to learn to take a long breath when head is out of water and breathe out when under water. Also, to keep the body active when not in the water.

Right of the Accused

The right of an accused person to be confronted by his accusers is based upon the law of imperial Rome. This protection of St. Paul threads its way through the English law and is not original with our Constitution. Festus, the Roman procurator of Judea, answered Paul's accusers (Acts XXV, 16) at Jerusalem: "It is not the manner of the Romans to deliver any man to die before that he which is accused have the accusers face to face, and have licence to answer for himself concerning the crime laid against him."

LIFT up the bonnet of this darling Buick and you see only one engine—a big, efficient valve-in-head straight-eight.
The net result? Well, see for yourself what it means in life and lift and unflinching response. As to what else it means—the records show that Compound Carburetion gives this '41 Buick a 10% to 15% edge in gas-economy over its predecessors of the same size!
Important? Sure is—especially when present prices make Buick the Number One all-round bargain of the year.
Just ask your dealer what one will cost delivered!
It wings you lightly through tough going—because having that second carburetor is almost like having an extra engine to call on when you want it.
Look again—and you note that Compound Carburetion† gives it two carburetors—and what amounts to a dual personality.
One of those carburetors does all the work in casual, about-town, everyday driving, giving you a car that's easygoing on everything, from the way it handles to its consumption of gasoline.
But that other carburetor steps up this nimble sweetheart into a regular giant of power any time you give the word!
†Available at slight extra cost on some Buick SPECIAL models, standard on all other Series.

"Best Buick Yet" delivered at Flint, Mich. State tax, optional equipment and accessories—extra. Prices and specifications subject to change without notice.

New Food Covers

Icebox odors have been completely eliminated by new food covers coated with the synthetic koroeseal. In addition to being waterproof, the covers are acid and stain resistant and will not become stiff with age.

Snakes Catch Mice
Large, harmless snakes are kept in some parts of Mexico to catch mice, much as Americans keep house cats. Non-poisonous, they swallow their prey.

Measuring Baking Powder
Baking powder should be measured exactly with the standard one level teaspoon. Too much baking powder makes for coarse, dry, crumbly texture and poor volume in the baked product.

NEIGHBORS AND GOOD CITIZENS

Few Michigan citizens stop to think how much the railroads mean to Michigan today. In this era of commercial and industrial development the railroads are vitally essential to Michigan's progress.

For Example: In the average year the railroads spent more than 75 millions in Michigan-- $55,007,715 in payrolls to 47,000 men; $5,759,621 in taxes; and, in 1939, $15,473,292 for supplies purchased in 248 communities in 69 counties in our state.

The railroads are good citizens. They furnish us with an indispensable service. They are the state's largest taxpayers. Railroad taxes help make possible the schooling of hundreds of children in this county. Railroad taxes last year in Iosco County amounted to $9,881.22, all of which went into the Primary School Fund. The prosperity of the railroads and of their employes helps make the business of all of us prosperous. Railroad employes in Iosco County were paid last year the sum of $187,419.35 most of which was spent with local merchants.

We urge our Legislature and Congress to be just and fair in considering any legislation intended to remove the inequality under which our railroads are forced to operate.

The Lamp in the Valley

By ARTHUR STRINGER

Carol Coburn, Alaska-born daughter of a "bush rat" who died with an unestablished mining claim, returns North to teach Indian school. Aboard ship, she is annoyed by Eric (the Red) Ericson and is rescued by Sidney Lander, young mining engineer.

Lander, working for the Trumbull company, which is fighting Coburn's claim, is engaged to Trumbull's daughter. Though a romantic spark is kindled, Carol is on guard against her own emotions.

baby which his dog found, spend a night in a truck when a snowstorm traps them. But the next day Lander is able to get them through.

Miss Teetzel, head of the school, who represents Carol's youth, is shocked, and says so.

THE STORY SO FAR

INSTALLMENT V

Lander merely turned his back on the poker-spined Miss Teetzel.

"Are you going to stand for stuff like this?" he demanded, towering over me with a quick flame of indignation lighting up his eyes.

Behind me I could sense the last boat of hope burning up on the coast of desperation. I knew, when I spoke, that I was issuing an ultimatum.

"I don't intend to," I quietly announced.

Miss Teetzel flounced out of the room.

Lander, when we were alone, stood a little closer over me.

"I got you into this," he said, "and it's up to me to get you out of it."

I was conscious of his bigness as I let my gaze lock with his. My laughter, I'm afraid, was a little reckless.

"There's nothing to be done about it," I told him. But deep in the ashes of disaster I could feel a small glow of happiness at the thought that he was there to lean on.

"Why not come back with me?" he finally inquired.

"What good would that do?" I said.

Lander, after looking down at me for what must have been a full half-minute of silence, walked to the window and then returned to my side.

"It wouldn't do any good," he said, with just a trace of the color ebbing from his face. "It's all happening a little too late."

"What's happening too late?" I asked him.

"Our coming together," he said. "There are things," he went on, "not easily talked about."

"But we can at least be honest with each other," I announced, for instinct had already told me what he was groping toward.

"Yes, we must be honest," he agreed. And the unhappiness in his eyes made my heart beat a little faster.

"So it's time," I said, "that we both came down to earth."

"What do you mean by that?" he asked, his grim-faced companion.

"I saw the girl back on the Seattle wharf, the girl you said good-by to. And I can understand why you must play fair with her."

Lander's glance came slowly back to my face.

"I've been engaged to her," he said, quite simply, "for over two years now."

If I reached for a chair back, to steady myself, I at least managed to laugh a little.

"That's fine," I said, with my chin up.

"Fine?" he echoed, plainly puzzled by that lightness of mine.

"Of course," I maintained. "For now we can go on being good friends, without any worry or threat of complications."

"Can we?" he asked as his eyes once more rested on my face.

"Good pals," I cried, "to the end of the trail. So let's shake hands on it, like two old-timers."

He failed to observe, as we shook hands, that I had to swallow a lump in my throat.

"Would you mind telling me," I said when that was over, "just who she is?"

It wasn't easy for him, of course. But he faced it with a forlorn sort of casualness.

"She's Barbara Trumbull," he explained. "John Trumbull's daughter. We practically grew up together."

"Then you must have a great deal in common."

He studied my face, as though in search of second meanings.

"We had," he finally acknowledged.

"But you talk of fighting her father?" I reminded him.

"And I intend to fight him," said the wide-shouldered man beside me. "But she'd feel things like that shouldn't count between us."

When I spoke, after thinking this over, I was able to keep my voice steady.

"How do you feel about it?" I asked.

"I can't answer that," was Lander's slightly retarded reply. "You see, she's coming to Alaska to get things straightened out. She doesn't agree with her father that I've been disloyal to the Trumbulls."

That also gave me a moment of thought.

"Then she must be very fond of you," I heard myself saying.

To that, however, Lander offered no answer.

CHAPTER VI

Toklutna didn't get rid of me so soon as it expected. Two days after my scene with the acidulous Miss Teetzel I was interrupted in my packing by Katie O'Connell.

"We're in quarantine," she announced, "with two cases of scarlet fever in the infirmary. And Ruddy says you can't walk out on him."

"Miss Teetzel," I reminded her, "said otherwise."

"But old Teetzel's out of the picture. She's in bed with bronchitis.

And Ruddy says we've got to carry on."

I felt less at sea after Doctor Rud-dock had me write to the Territorial Commissioner (following up, I discovered, a secret dispatch of his own) asking for a teacher's position in the Matanuska Valley.

When I heard, by that grapevine circuit which seems to operate in all frontier countries, that John Trumbull had visited the valley and that Barbara Trumbull had flown in to Anchorage, it seemed like echoes out of another world. Even when I heard that Lander had taken over the management of the Happy Day Mine and that he and Trumbull had fought a wordy battle on the open platform of Matanuska station, I failed to be as excited as when Katie told me that the little Indian girl from Iliamna, up in our improvised pest ward, wasn't going to die, after all. I kept waiting for my Commissioner's report.

That report was neither prompt nor encouraging. It acknowledged they were in need of a teacher for Matanuska but that conditions were not suitable there for a young and inexperienced outsider.

I wrote back admitting my youth but pointing out it was a defect which time would undoubtedly correct.

I also alluded to my physical sturdiness and my eagerness to work in the new field, with an underlined postscript announcing I was Alaska born. And in the meantime both the calendar and the excitement of our little redskinned wards reminded us that Christmas was close at hand.

Then came the second blow. For Katie and I, with Miss Teetzel still weak and crabby, did what we could to make the children's holiday a happy one. We sent to Anchorage for hard candy and sugar-canes and colored candles and glitter-paper and powdered mica. With my own hand I cut down a spruce tree and dragged it in over the hills. This, when duly installed in the school-room we draped with strung popcorn and emblazoned with bits of ribbon and spangled with tin stars cut out of empty tomato cans, adding copious streamers of wrapping cord dyed red with beet juice and snowy handfuls of absorbent purloined from the surgery. And over everything we sprinkled a generous glitter of powdered mica.

It was all pathetically meager and make-believe. But the raptness of the children's eyes, as they stood and watched that tree, brought a lump to my throat. It paid for the long hours when Katie and I sat up wrapping oranges in red tissue paper, one for each child, and labeling the mitts and stockings and sweaters out of the community gift boxes from Seattle and Juneau.

But my little Injins loved it all. On Christmas morning, in fact, when I appeared in pillow-stuffed Turkey red, as Santa Claus, they got so excited we had to drape the school-room doors with blankets, to keep the noise from Miss Teetzel's disapproving ears. They put on paper hats and sang "Rock-a-bye, My Little Owllet" and "Jingle Bells" and even had a try at Handel's "While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks," which Katie and I found it expedient to finish out by ourselves. Then they made the rafters ring with "Alouette."

But their little Indian souls eventually got so drunk on music and excitement that we had to ease them down with a square dance. And the easing down would have been less dire if a little Copper River brave hadn't chased a still smaller Innuin blubber-eater from the Kuskokwim right into our twinkling and glittering Christmas tree. That collision overturned one of the lighted candles.

I heard a crackle of flames and a dozen shrill cries from a dozen little throats. Then I saw, to my hor-

I wrote back admitting my youth.

BROADENING CHRISTIAN HORIZONS: PETER'S VISION

LESSON TEXT—Acts 11:5-18. GOLDEN TEXT—Peter opened his mouth, and said: Of a truth I perceive that God is no respecter of persons.—Acts 10:34.

"The best argument for Christianity is a Christian" (Henry Drummond). Peter presented just such an argument when, early in the history of Christianity, there arose a difference of opinion regarding his ministry to a Gentile and his family. The stumbling stone of offense became a stepping stone to higher things, leading to the place of broader horizons. Peter, instead of appealing to his apostolic authority or asserting his position, simply related what God had done. He presented the best proof that God had actually been at work; namely, a redeemed soul.

We may learn from this lesson that the way to broaden horizons and greater usefulness for the church is by

I. A Vision of God's Plan (vv. 5-10).

All men are equally precious in God's sight. God taught Peter very effectively that, whether Gentile or Jew, the Lord is "not willing that any should perish, but that all should come to repentance" (II Pet. 3:9).

When God speaks we do well to give heed to His message, even though it cuts across our ideas and prejudices, as it often does. It is not our plan that is important; it is God's plan and purpose. As we walk in that way we shall have

II. An Experience of God's Power (vv. 11-15).

The Holy Spirit had fallen on the Gentiles and they actually had been saved. Is it not singular that in the early church they could hardly believe that a Gentile could be saved? Now we are astonished if a Jew is saved! Why will we in our unbelief limit the Holy One of Israel?

The all-powerful gospel of the grace of God is still saving men and women, Jews and Gentiles, from their sins. Have you seen it happen? It is a great inspiration to faith and service. God is ready so to encourage us—He is the same today as He was when He sent Peter to Cornelius. Are we willing to run His errands, proclaim His message? To do so we need

III. An Appreciation of God's Word (v. 16).

The best way to learn the meaning of God's Word is to use it, live it, obey it. "If any man will do his will, he shall know of the doctrine, whether it be of God" (John 7:17). Peter had learned anew that God's Word meant just what it said. We who are God's servants should believe His Word and act on it in faith.

Observe that Cornelius had gathered a group in his household to hear the Word of God (Acts 10:27, 33). Could we not do the same? "Cannot each calculate with exactness some time and place where the gospel is to be preached, and is it not possible to bring thither one's relatives and friends? Secondly, when present in a place of worship, cannot each be prepared to say, 'We are all here present—all family and friends, mind as well as body; 'in the sight of God'—not to be seen by others, not conscious so much of theirs as of the presence of God; 'to hear all things'—not to be amused or to sleep; that have been commanded thee of the Lord—not to listen to human conjecture or the exploiting of doubts, but to receive a positive message which is delivered in a reverent spirit and with the prophetic formula: 'Thus saith the Lord.' What would happen were all Christian churches filled with such audiences?" (Charles R. Erdman).

This brings us to what is most important of all in broadening our spiritual horizons.

IV. An Understanding of God's Love (vv. 17, 18).

God's love is for all people. Since He has not raised any barriers of race, creed, color, class, or social position, it is not for His followers, and assuredly not for His servants, to set up hindering restrictions which He does not countenance. If God intended to save Gentiles, Peter wanted to be an instrument in His hand, not a hindrance in His way. One of the needs of our day is that those doing God's work should not withstand Him and His love. He who is the same yesterday, today, and forever, is ready to work as powerfully today as He did in the days of Peter and Paul, or of Finney and Moody. Let us give Him liberty to work in and through us, not as we may wish, but as He desires. Who are we that we should withstand God?

Goal of Life

Oh, yet we trust that, somehow, Good will be the final goal of ill, That nothing walks with aimless feet,

That not one life shall pass away, Or cast as rubbish to the void, When God has made the pile com- plete.—Tennyson.

Masonry Via Wire

Even the laying of a cornerstone has been done over electric wires, says Colliers. Not long ago in London, 10,000 Masons in an exhibition hall watched a dignitary go through such a ceremony, every movement of laying the substitute stone actuating, through electrical synchronization, the laying of the real stone on the site of a hospital several miles away.

"Symbolic of life sacrifice for America, and made by men who have sacrificed health and strength for the country, the memorial poppy is a true badge of patriotism. With our country again facing grave dangers, we need to wear the badge and to wear it with sincere devotion to the things for which it stands. highways, with graveled backroads throughout the camp. And hot! It must have been 90 degrees today. These "Palm Beach" clothes we've got don't help matters either. We're supposed to get summer issue clothing in two weeks. Tomorrow we go on a 20-mile tramp, hike, march or whatever it is called.

We sleep in regular army tents, with board sidewalls. You know what they are like, dad, the CCC's used them before the barracks were built. They have a board floor, sleep six men and have a modern oil heater. God only knows why the heater. Though I understand it gets pretty chilly here some nights. Of course, all of the main buildings, like the mess halls, canteens, shower rooms, warehouses, and theatres (Yes, the theatres) are constructed of wood. I haven't seen any hostess yet, but then we're confined to camp for two weeks (that's quarantine), and our activities for the period are divided between the canteen, church, shower room and lengthy hikes that might ensue.

I'll condense the rest of the news. This is getting lengthy and my back is getting sore. I'm sitting on my locker and using a cardboard box for a table.

George Staudacher and Allan Stepanski are located about five tents down the line. Charley Cross is here, too, but I haven't seen him yet. That makes it nice having three Tawas fellows a few tents away in a camp this size.

We wear stamped identification tags around our necks. "Dog tags" they are called. On them is the name, number and nearest relative's name and address.

We rode down here in a sleeper, of course, but comfort was realized only when we slept. Never leaving the car for fifteen hours, and only moving around occasionally was tiresome. On the trip were fed dry bread and something from an unlabeled can, that looked and tasted like I imagine dog food tastes, beans and coffee. But that was only on the trip. The food at Camp Grant and here is fine.

Be sure to write right away and give me the news.

Weeds go...

when a

JOHN DEERE-VAN BRUNT MODEL "CC" CULTIVATOR

takes over your important tillage jobs

You can make short work of cleaning your fields of weeds when you let a John Deere-Van Brunt Model "CC" Field Cultivator take over your important tillage jobs. Every time across the field, the Model "CC" tears out all weed growth and stirs the soil—preserves the moisture and saves those "profits" for you.

Whether it's roughing stubble fields, summer fallowing, making seedbeds, killing bindweed or other weeds, cultivating alfalfa, or breaking up land, you can do a better job with a John Deere-Van Brunt Model "CC" Cultivator. See this all-round tilling machine at our store the next time you're in town.
