With the Servicemen

Chiggers have assumed an important place in national defense problems, at least in that portion of the "lines" which are around Alexandria, Louisiana, according to Allen Stepanski in a letter to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Stepanski. Allen is located at Camp Livingstone.

Excerpts from his letter read as follows:

Dear Mom and Dad,

This is Monday morning, and at the present time we are preparing to leave on maneuvers. In other words we're going out in the woods until Saturday with the chiggers, etc. Hope I weather it better than before because these chiggers darned near got me down. All I've done since we came back Wednesday is scratch. Wow!

Then there are the wood ticks. It seems that this wood tick burrows into your skin like a cork screw. You touch him with a lighted cigarette and he starts to uncure himself. Don't laugh too much because its the truth. They are not horsefeathers. They only burrow in a nice tender spot. You can hardly notice them at all until they get a good start.

On Sunday we have field service that everybody attends regardless of (Turn to No. 2 Back Page)

JUDGE DEHNKE DENIES MOTION FOR NEW TRIAL

Opinion Filed Saturday In Mrs. Moshier Case

That the verdict in the Winnifred Moshier trial last October for the slaying of little Bobby Kenyon, was necessarily based nearly entirely on the conclusions the jury arrived at relative to the confessions and acknowledgements attributed to Mrs. Moshier, Judge Dehnke pointed out in his opinion filed Saturday, in which he denied a motion asking for a new trial.

This issue was thoroughly covered by testimony and argument, both pro and con, and unmistakably presented to the jury, he said.

He said that the defendant had the right and had been permitted to introduce testimony tending to show that some other person might have committed the crime. This would be used for the purpose of creating a reasonable doubt in the minds of the jury. The affidavits presented as new evidence in the petition for a new trial were of this nature, and did not touch on the confessions. Judge Dehnke pointed out that two or three affidavits claimed to have seen strangers in the vicinity of the place where the boy's body was found. The circumstances detailed are not in accord with known facts, are of questionable accuracy, or show a confusion in dates, and are impeached by failure of the affidavits to disclose at the trial, or earlier at the inquest, what they now claim to know.

The most definite of these affidavits is made by Ernest Chrvia, who it turns out, Judge Dehnke said, is a (Turn to No. 3, Back Page)

CAMP SKEEL FLIER DIES IN PLANE CRASH

Lieut. C. S. VanZant Killed Instantly Last Thursday

Lieut. C. S. VanZant, of the 41st Pursuit Squadron, was instantly killed when the P-40 pursuit plane which he was flying crashed at Camp Skeel last Thursday forenoon shortly after eight o'clock. He was making the first take-off for gunnery practice. The plane crashed from about 300 feet. The nose of the plane buried itself in the earth six feet. The plane came down in the woods adjacent to Camp Skeel flying field, and struck the ground in a spot not much bigger than the dimensions of the body of the plane, without touching a tree. The victim's entire body was practically crushed by the impact.

Gunnery practice starts each morning at eight o'clock. VanZant was the first to take off. When he had reached an altitude of about five hundred feet the engine stalled. It is stated that the plane then went into a roll, which the pilot succeeded in bringing out of. He called in and told what had happened and asked for instructions. In similar situations the pilots are sometimes instructed to bail out. Apparently before any determination of the situation could be made the plane unaccountably dove and crashed.

VanZant's home is in Newcastle, Indiana. It is stated that he was a graduate of Purdue University. The body was flown to Selfridge Field.

Supervisors Disallow Mrs. Brook's Bill

At the meeting of Board of Supervisors which ended Friday, it was voted to disallow a bill of $322.00 by Mrs. Byron Brooks for services in the Winnifred Moshier case. Disclosures made by Mrs. Moshier to Mrs. Brooks led to Mrs. Moshier's confession and arrest by the State Police. The bill was for time Mrs. Brooks claimed she had spent on the case.

The board voted to remodel rooms in the basement of the court house to be used as an office for the Welfare department.

National Forest money amounting to $932.00 was apportioned to Iosco county school districts eligible to receive such money.

Clerk hire in the prosecuting attorney's office was raised from $200. to $600 per year.

The board voted that the county should furnish gasoline and oil for the sheriff's car.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

By Edward C. Wayne

Nazi and Italian Activities in U. S. Are Curtailed by Government Action; 'War of Nerves' Continues as Fighting Centers in Near East and North Africa

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.) (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

What is said to be the most modern short distance reconnaissance plane in the world is this double-fuselage ship of the Nazi luftwaffe. It is superior in maneuverability to a pursuit plane and has strong offensive as well as defensive weapons. Cannons and machine guns of the latest construction are carried in the ship which is powered by two powerful motors. Its crew of three has unobstructed views on all sides through the glass-enclosed cockpit.

NETS: A Tightening

Following up the sinking of the Robin Moor, the government tightened still further its nets about fifth columnists in this country, and, second, by ordering all German consulates closed down, also news agencies and travel bureaus.

Another order, that barring the leaving of the United States of any German nationals until further notice, plus the word that was sent out that there would be a tightening of immigration permits, was held to be contingent on Germany's attitude to the American protest on the Robin Moor.

The fact that the remaining 35 Americans aboard the ship were eventually saved, the state department said, did not change the diplomatic situation regarding the vessel. America, President Roosevelt indicated, was going to be firm from now on with regard to fifth column activities and sabotage, and was going to see to it that it was known who was coming into the country under the guise of "refugee."

WAR: Of Nerves

In spite of considerable activity in the Near East and the North African fronts, the war settled down to a "war of nerves" again, with the nervous tension reaching far and wide as Germany massed men and machines on the Russian border.

The troops were not placed geographically close to the border, but were so disposed that they were within an exceedingly short distance in time from what many believed was a "bluff" objective.

The announcement that a Turkish-Russian-Nazi pact had been drawn up did little to relieve the nervous tension, as it was not immediately confirmed, nor was it clear whether this would solve the situation.

For few thought that any such agreement, made under the threat of an army force variously estimated at from a million and a half to two million men, would be long adhered to if the men were withdrawn. Senator George, head of the foreign affairs committee, frankly expressed the belief that Germany, by the move against Russia and the concentrations in the upper and lower Balkans, was "trying to make sure of her eastern front" before attempting the long expected invasion of Great Britain herself.

However, even Senator George saw in the move the conviction by the Germans that it would be a long war, and an effort to obtain satisfactory supplies of wheat and oil. Still others believed that a Russian-Turkish pact, implemented by troops of sufficient numbers to continue to enforce respect and strict adherence, might permit Germany to move southward through Russia and Turkey into the Near-East and the Middle East, and thus to close the pincers on the entire Eastern Mediterranean country.

This was the stage setting that caused the spread of the war of nerves into Britain itself, for day after day went by with only the most desultory German bombing efforts against England.

Honors for Both

Robert Jackson, newly selected as associate justice of the United States Supreme court, shows his fatherly pride as he poses with son, William E. Jackson, upon the latter's graduation from Yale.

KNOX: And Stimson

Secretaries Knox and Stimson, also Canada's prime minister, Mackenzie King all made important statements carrying big sidelights on the war and America's national defense.

Knox, speaking in Canada, said that the United States is "practically" deciding that her course will thoroughly parallel that of Canada in the present struggle.

He thanked the Canadians for remaining aloof from America's own decision-making, and reminded Canada that at the time when she was making up her mind, America did not meddle.

Secretary Stimson, in Washington, arguing that the $285,000,000 St. Lawrence river seaway ought to be constructed as soon as possible in order to provide a safe journey much of the way from American factories to Britain, foresaw a long war.

One senator asked Stimson if it was not true that the project would take four years to construct, and if so, wouldn't the war be over long before it was finished.

Mr. Stimson said, in the first place, that he thought it was going to be a long war, and in the second place, we ought not to go on a basis of thinking it would be a short one.

Premier King, in the United States for a visit, made Canada's answer to American isolationists and enemies of the lease-lend bill who had accused Canada of demanding "cash on the barrel-head" for Canadian production while Britain asked the U. S. for leased or lent goods.

Mr. King said that Americans who made these statements failed to take into account the fact that Canada was giving the United Kingdom enormous quantities of men and munitions which were neither leased nor lent but were an outright gift toward the winning of the war.

He said that Canada was not forced to fight on behalf of Britain, that the decision was fully and freely made by Canadians themselves on a basis of complete autonomy.

He added that he believed the United States, in much the same way, had arrived at the same decision—to give all-out aid to Britain.

CHUTE: British Style

A dramatic story of how the British were using parachutists in occupied France was told.

The little party of chutists landed near to the German-held airport, made contact with British agents on the ground, also with French people sympathetic to Britain, gathered together and made a surprise nighttime assault on the airport.

They seized the control room, also the field itself, and a barrack room in which were German pilots awaiting the command to take to the air. Other squads went out to the landing field and destroyed 30 planes on the ground, also the buildings were set afire and burned.

The chutists then sped for the coast, where motor torpedo boats were waiting for a prearranged signal to take them back to England.

The maneuver was said to have been carried out so swiftly that the German headquarters did not know anything had happened until it was all over the chutists were safely on their way back across the channel.

The move was predicated by the sympathy of the French people, and this was borne out in repeated dispatches and stories by returned refugees, one of which told of British skywriters almost daily writing "Courage" (spelled the same in French and English) in the air over French territory.

AFRICA:

A full-scale attempt by the British to break over the Egyptian border back into Cyrenaica again, resulting in the capture of Fort Capuzzo, brought into the attack, according to Italian sources, large numbers of the newest American tanks.

This did not check, however, with American production figures, which showed that the only tanks sent in the lease-lend program had been those we could spare from the army, all of them of old design and manufacture.

Household Hints

Apricots stuffed with mint and currant jelly make dainty garnishes for baked ham, roast lamb, meat loaf, chicken or mushroom souffles and veal cutlets.

To keep your house cool in sizzling summer heat, use a white or light-colored paint on the side walls.

Colored gum drops—either round or flat—may be cut into petal shapes and used as cake and dessert trimmings. They are especially effective on birthday cakes.

If cream has been overwhipped pour a little cold sweet milk into it and stir slightly. The cream will then be of the right consistency.

A coat of clear varnish applied to the oilcloth in your kitchen will make it last longer and you will find it will clean more easily.

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery. Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Horsepower of Vessels creed. At 10:30 we have mass by our own chaplain. He hears confessions on Saturday.

Naval vessels vary greatly in their ratio of size to horsepower because some require far more speed than others, says Collier's. For example, the engines of a battleship of the U. S. S. Maryland class, with a displacement of 32,600 tons, develop 28,900 horsepower, while those of a destroyer of the U. S. S. Porter class, with a displacement of 1,800 tons, develop 50,000 horsepower.

Our daily schedule is as follows:
5:45—First Call.
5:50—In ranks.
6:00—Reveille.
6:15—Breakfast.
7:05—Drill call.
7:15—We are now on our way.

4:40—Retreat.
5:30—Supper.
From then on we are on our own. We only go to bed at 9:00 o'clock, so figure it out for yourself. In that time, we've got to take a shower, shave and wash our clothes. I'm getting to be a regular old lady on the wash board!
For Sunday dinner we have chicken, along with other trimmings, which isn't so bad. During the week days we don't know what to expect. Most generally we always get enough to eat, if we care to go up and get "seconds." I always leave room for a milk shake and ice cream, and at present I feel pretty darned good. You never have to have somebody tell you twice to come and eat. You're always there before time.
Saturday afternoon I went down to Alexandria and all you could see was soldiers. There's only about 60,000 soldiers around this town—three camps to be exact.
The old sun is getting right up in the sky, so it won't be long before the temperature is up in the nineties. Before the day is over it will be somewhere around 95 degrees. At nine o'clock the sun is straight above you and it is hot! After a hike this week everybody wound up with a sunburned face that looked like raw beef. Even our officers are sunburned. One of them looks as dark as a Hindu.
I received a letter from Uncle John with a lot of good advice and a carton of cigarettes. He invited me to tell him if I wanted some sweets or anything of the sort. When I answered I didn't turn down a thing!
That just about sums up the news for now, so will sign off. How many young fellows are left around there yet?
Your loving son,
Allen

Governor's Proclamation

Forty-nine persons died on Michigan highways over the Memorial day week-end. That was 49 too many.
As Governor of the State of Michigan, I call upon all citizens, all state, county and municipal officials, to join in a great effort to prevent a repetition of this tragedy over the Fourth of July week-end.
Celebration of our Independence Day will bring peak of traffic volume such as we have never seen before on a state-wide basis. We can prevent a repetition of 49 too many deaths.
We can do this if all Michigan citizens will cooperate by driving safely over the Fourth of July week-end and every week-end thereafter during the summer.
I am asking the state departments to take the lead in this safe driving campaign. All governments, city and county, are sincerely requested to cooperate. Public and private organizations alike can do their part by bending every effort toward spreading the word for safe and sober driving over the Fourth.
Forty-nine fatalities due to motor car crashes over the Memorial Day week-end were too many. We need not have a repetition. Sensible driving and walking on streets and highways will prevent it.
I hereby proclaim the period from Thursday, July 3 to Monday, July 7 as Michigan safe driving days to call attention to the need for extreme caution on the part of motorists and pedestrians.

No. 3 (Continued from the First Page)

son-in-law of one who has been ever since the defendant's arrest, and to the present time, active in assisting her in her defense. Before and during the trial the case was undoubtedly discussed in his presence. It cannot be overlooked that the circumstances surrounding the boy's death naturally aroused much and long continued public excitement and indignation. An inquest was held at which testimony was taken from everyone who claimed to have, or were suspected of having, any knowledge of material facts. Aside from everything else, the failure of the affiants to disclose what is now set up in the affidavits, then or at the trial, would in all probability induce a jury to hesitate very much in accepting it at its face value.
The second proposition set up in the petition for a new trial was the complaint that the defense counsel, Howard Bowman, was incompetent and lax. As to the defense counsel's competency, Judge Dehnke pointed out that Mr. Bowman had been a practicing lawyer for many years, an assistant prosecuting attorney of Wayne county, and an assistant attorney general for the State of Michigan. Far from being lax and inactive, Mr. Bowman had gone to unusual lengths in protecting the defendant's interest. He procured her release on bail pending trial. He argued the case from her point of view through one of the newspapers of the county. He arranged for the attendance and placed on the stand a large number of witnesses, very often to find the favorable effect of their direct testimony destroyed in cross examination, of explanatory facts, and by disclosures which had been withheld by those who should have been completely frank with him. Failing to win a verdict is no proof of incompetency or neglect. In this very case, Judge Dehnke said, it may be that the defendant should gratefully acknowledge that her trial counsel is entitled to some credit for the fact that the verdict was not one of first or second degree murder, but of manslaughter.
