LOCAL BOYS TAKE 5-3 GAME FROM STERLING

Rollin Pitches Winning Baseball In Spite of Twisted Ankle

Tawas City, by defeating Sterling last Sunday, elevated to second place in the Northern Division standings. Gladwin being at the top with a clean slate, having won five games without a defeat. Sunday's game was the postponed game of May 11 which was called off in the third inning when Bill Mellon was beamed with a pitched by Jerry Daniels of Sterling.

"Smiling" Bob Rollin did the pitching for Tawas City and hurled a masterful game. Although he allowed 10 hits, six in the first two innings when all the Sterling runs were scored, he was tough in the pinches and pitched himself out of several bad spots. And too, he was handicapped with a twisted ankle which occurred while trying to field a slow grounder to his right in the first inning.

Sterling scored two runs in the first inning. Swartz, the lead-off man, fanned. Walters hit a slow roller to the third base side of mound and was credited with a hit when Rollin turned his ankle in an attempt to field the ball. Templin was out Thornton unassisted, Walters taking second. Koelsch singled to right scoring Walters. Prescott's throw to the plate was cut-off by Rollin who threw to second to get Koelsch who was trying for an extra base on the throw-in and was safe when Mallon dropped the throw. Bootz scored Koelsch with a single to center and took second when Rollin's relay throw to the plate hit Koelsch on the rump and Bootz took second on the error. Hasty lined to Musolf for the third out.

Tawas City scored two of their own in their turn at bat. Smith lined a single to left and was sacrificed to second by Gackstetter. Mallon hit to short, Smith scored and Marv took second when Walters threw wild to first. McPherson singled to right scoring Mallon. Thornton struck out, Rollin singled to right. Both runners advanced on a passed ball. Moeller grounded out Averil unassisted ending the inning.

Sterling scored their final run in the second after two were out. Douglas, first batter in the inning, was out short to first. Averil hit back to the box and was out Rollin to Thornton. (Turn to No. 1 Back Page)

CHANGES IN SCHOOL POLICY CONTEMPLATED

Supt. E. C. Carlson Outlines Plans for Coming Year

Plans for the coming school year are progressing very well under the direction of E. C. Carlson with the cooperation of the board of education.

Some of the contemplated changes are as follows: We hope to have a kindergarten for all youngsters who are at least 4 1/2 years of age.

The seventh and eighth grades will be moved up with the high school and organized on the 6-6 plan, six grades of elementary school and six grades in the high school.

It is believed that this plan will work much better in a small community. There will be no break between the eighth grade and high school. Students entering our school during the seventh or eighth year from other districts will have ample opportunity to get acquainted and to become adjusted to the high school program.

The awe or fear which the country youngster has of attending high school will be eliminated.

The high school course of study will be altered to make provision for vocational training. Home Economics will be offered for girls both in junior and senior high school.

There will be general shop for boys so that they may learn the elements of woodworking, metal working, electricity, mechanical drawing, wood turning. Machinery is being ordered for a modern shop.

The gymnasium has been cleaned and is ready for another coat of floor seal. Tawas City can well be proud (Turn to No. 2 Back Page)

SAGINAW PEOPLE BUY HOTEL IOSCO

One of the important business changes in Tawas City was made Saturday when Mr. and Mrs. Carl Peters, of Saginaw, purchased the Hotel Iosco. They took immediate possession.

Mr. Peters has been with the Banting Company, of Toledo, Ohio, for many years, and Mrs. Peters has been with the Hotel Franklin at Saginaw for the past six years. Mr. and Mrs. Peters plan to make extensive improvements to the hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Martin, who are retiring from the hotel business, purchased the Hotel Iosco thirteen years ago from Willard J. Robinson, who is now at Detroit. The hotel during their ownership has been remodelled and enlarged and many improvements made. Mr. and Mrs. Martin have not decided what their future plans will be.

Burkes-Allen

Miss Barbara Claudine Burkes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben A. Burkes, of Marlow, Oklahoma, became the bride of Jack A. Allen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Austin Allen, of McIvor, Saturday, June 28. The ceremony was performed at the Baptist parsonage by Rev. Frank Metcalfe at five o'clock before a group of relatives and friends.

The bride wore a street length dress of white with white accessories. Her corsage consisted of pink and white carnations.

Her attendant, Miss Floy Belle Allen, also wore a street length dress of powder blue crepe with white accessories. Her corsage was also of pink carnations.

The groom was attended by Hazen Durant.

The wedding supper was served at the home of the groom to immediate relatives and friends. The young couple will spend a week here after which they will return to Detroit where they will make their home.

Weddings, like other ceremonies, often have a humorous incident. In this case it was an old friend of the groom mistaking the attendants car for that of the newlyweds car and loading it with tin cans and rice.

Grunden-Butler

In a ceremony read at Christ Episcopal church Sunday afternoon at four o'clock, Miss Betty Grunden, daughter of Mrs. Sadie Grunden, of East Tawas, became the bride of Forest Oliver Butler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman N. Butler, of East Tawas, with the Rev. J. R. Colby officiating.

George Sedgeman, of Oberlin, Ohio, gave the bride in marriage, and the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. H. Maaska, of Washington, D. C., sang "The Lord's Prayer" in the service. The bride wore a gown of white lace over satin, and a full-length veil. Her arm bouquet held white roses. Miss Rosemary Haglund, as maid-of-honor, wore a white lace over blue costume, and carried an arm bouquet of pink roses. George Lomas, of Detroit, was best man, and little Gary and Joan Maaska, nephew and niece of the groom, were ring-bearer and flower girl, respectively.

A reception at the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Sedgeman, on Lake Shore Drive, followed the rites. White flowers and fern accented the decorations for the event.

Mr. and Mrs. Butler will make their home in Bay City, where the bridegroom is employed.

Among the guests at the rites were Mrs. Ella Clever and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sedgeman, of Saginaw; Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Butler and Mrs. Iva Butler, of Ohio; Mrs. Maaska and family, of Washington.

THREATENING LEGISLATION DEFEATED BY STATE FISHERMEN

Drastic changes in regulations that threatened the existence of the Michigan commercial fishing industry in some sections of the state were successfully defeated in the Legislature by the Michigan Fish Producers Association representing the bulk of the Michigan fishermen. Many bills sponsored by sportsmen and ultra conservationists kept the fishermen busy throughout the legislative session as the passage of almost any one of the numerous proposals listed would have meant a loss of hundreds of dollars in revenue to producers in some part of the state.

Among the most drastic proposals made was a suggested strict five year closed season on whitefish in all the waters of the Great lakes under Michigan. (Turn to No. 3, Back Page)

Annual School Meeting

MYLES, Secretary.

U. S. GYPSUM WORKERS CALL WALK-OUT

Company States Its Side Of Controversy With CIO

A strike was called last Thursday at the United States Gypsum plant at Alabaster. About 60 men are employed at the local plant. The walk-out at Alabaster is a part of a general strike called by the C. I. O. at 14 United States Gypsum plants in various sections of the country.

The following is a statement to the public made by the United States Gypsum company:

C. I. O. demanded that the company agree to system or centralized bargaining for all of its plants or at least the plants they represent. The company believes that system bargaining is unfair to both its employees and the company, and is difficult and impractical, since its plants manufacture the products of eight separate industries in 42 locations over the country with varying conditions in each.

The specific plants claimed to be represented by the C. I. O. manufacture asphalt roofing, building lime, gypsum plasters, gypsum lath and wall board, and include East Chicago and South Bend, Indiana; Fort Dodge, Iowa; Jersey City, New Jersey; Oakfield and Staten Island, New York; Philadelphia, Pennsylvania; Boston and Farnams, Massachusetts; South Gate, California Alabaster and River Rouge, Michigan; Gypsum and Genoa, Ohio.

The C. I. O. petitioned the National Labor Relations Board on March 6 to designate the C. I. O. as the system bargaining agent for plants and employees of the company. The company opposed this petition, and on June 20, after investigation, the National Labor Relations Board dismissed this petition.

The C. I. O. called the strike after demanding that the company grant, without further discussion, a flat 10c per hour increase, compulsory arbitration and a revised vacation plan for all of the 14 plants.

As the company follows it, the C. I. O. called the strike simply to force the United States Gypsum company into system bargaining in spite of the fact that the National Labor Relations Board has decided against the union's petition.

Wages paid by the company are comparable to those paid in such industries and working conditions are excellent.

The company stands ready as always to negotiate at any time with the qualified representatives of the employees of any individual plant on matters pertaining to that plant.

The plants affected are loaded with orders for large quantities of building materials for use in Army camps, Naval bases, munitions plants and defense housing projects, as well as private construction.

Anschuetz-Dirker

The Anschuetz-Dirker families reunion was held Sunday at Silver Valley. One hundred eleven grown ups, in addition a large number of young people attended. The reunion this year was very much enjoyed, and those present were pleased with Silver Valley.

The young people spent the day in various games, and a tug-of-war and ball game featured the entertainment for the men. A splendid lunch was served at noon. The day was so well enjoyed that they voted to hold their reunion at Silver Valley again next year.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

By Edward C. Wayne

Extending of Material Aid to Russia Poses Difficult Problem for British; U. S. Also Studies Soviet Aid Question; Early Reports on Fighting Are Vague

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Total National Production (in millions of tons): Coal (1940), 164.6; Oil and Gas (1940), 34.2; Pig Iron (1940), 14.9; Steel (1940), 18.4; Sugar (1937, 1938), 3.5.

Drawn from an authoritative source, the above chart indicates the total amounts of strategic resources produced in the entire Soviet Union. These items come from the Ukraine and Caucasus in the following percentages: Coal, 62; oil, 83; iron ore, 64; pig iron, 63; steel, 47; and sugar, 74. Thus loss of the area represents a tremendous blow to Russia and an important gain for the Nazis. This chart was released by the University of Chicago Round Table.

AID: To Reds?

As Nazi Germany and Red Russia hurled their armies into the most far-flung battle-line of all human history, the question of just what aid would be sent to the Soviet forces was a moot point on both sides of the Atlantic.

The governments of both Britain and the United States declared themselves on successive days as having solved the question as to the aid principle by boiling it down to a very simple equation—

"Anybody that is fighting Nazis is on our side in this fight."

Britain announced it would send "economic and military aid," and the United States said the same, but it was not immediately clear just how much of the latter there would be.

England's first move was to increase the effectiveness of her bombing raids on occupied France and German cities, raiding both by day and by night, and reportedly downing many Nazi airplanes.

In fact, the RAF reported the dropping of as many bombs by weight in two weeks of the Russian warfare as they had in a whole month previously.

Heavy American bombers were constantly arriving on the scene in England, and these, presumably, permitted the British to regard planes as slightly more "expedient" than they had viewed them previously.

There did not seem to be any question of "ferrying" airplanes to Russia. Rather, the only serious question of a changed policy on the part of England was the suggestion in some quarters that it might be a good thing for Britain to cross the channel with soldiers and tanks now that Hitler's "back was turned."

That Britain was watching the Russo-German war with her fingers crossed was evident in the military answer to this suggestion. The first objection was that the channel ports had been so blasted that they would not be suitable for landings of large numbers of troops, and that, if the Germans should win a sudden and swift victory over the Russians, then limited forces of British on the continent might find themselves in a very precarious position.

Therefore the question of British aid to Russia seemed to be largely one of sending an advisory military mission, which was done at once, and the extension of more liberal trading credits.

In the United States, aside from the fact that the question of any aid at all became a matter of vitriolic debate, the actual aid to the Reds boiled itself down to the same thing. President Roosevelt said:

"Even if Russia were to send us a list of her needs, it is not possible to fill the order as one would go to a store. Our munitions factories, including the airplane plants, are completely busy filling our own needs and those of Britain."

The question of time was important, for the United States did not want to send planes and other equipment to Vladivostok, thence to start the long trek across Siberia, and then to arrive just in time to fall into Nazi hands.

Yet this government did unfreeze Russian credits in this country undoing an action it had taken just 10 days before. Messages of sympathy and encouragement were sent by Sumner Welles, although he plainly stipulated, as Churchill had, that American aims and ideals were utterly foreign to those of Stalin.

Anthony Eden was the official spokesman for Britain and his words had the same portent.

And so history in the gross was being written, with an estimated 4,000,000 men in action on two sides of a 2,000-mile battletline.

FIGHTING: Clouded

The Russo-German war was odd in that it was being carried on without the benefit of war correspondents.

Of little value as they are in modern warfare, where they are scarcely able to keep up with the swiftness of events, and where they are just as apt as civilians of other types to become casualties themselves, they were badly missed in this, the greatest battle from point of numbers and power of all history.

It would have taken an army of them to cover a 2,000-mile front, to begin with, and in the second place, the Nazis barred all correspondents from the front, and the Russians did likewise. The Nazis were using "soldier correspondents," but the feeling among readers of communiques was that they were more than usually uncommunicative.

It was impossible to do more on a war map than to draw hazy lines, with arrows pointed at the districts where one side or the other claimed that the action was taking place.

Estimates of the number of men and machines in action were of the haziest conjecture, running all the way from 100 divisions on a side to 200, and the plane guesses from 2,000 on a side to 4,000.

There were even skeptics on the street who asked "who knows whether there's any fighting at all."

The answer to that was to be found on the Western Front, where bombing of England had been abandoned, and virtually German defense of the air. Hitler, said wiser observers, would not have permitted that unless the "real McCoy" in the way of a war blitz were going on at the Eastern front.

Both sides made the most optimistic claims. The Germans claimed "uncounted" planes shot down and destroyed on the ground; the Russians said the count in the first week was 387 for them, 382 for Germany.

The Germans claimed that they'd wiped out a whole division and that their blitz was moving forward on schedule and that a great victory would be announced momentarily.

The Russians countered with the statement that at no place had the Nazis moved into actual pre-war Russian territory, and that at some points their own troops were on the offensive.

One instance of the difficulty of getting facts from the communiques came in the battle of the Prut river, which the Germans first claimed to have crossed without difficulty; later said they had "established by hard fighting a bridgehead across the Prut," two days after they had previously announced an easy and swift crossing.

As to the Prut, the Russians said "10 barges of the enemy crossed a wide river under cover of a fog, but were hurled back later with terrible losses"—and this river was supposed to be the same Prut.

The Russians claimed Warsaw and Constanta, important cities in Nazi-occupied territory in flames, and heavy damage on Helsinki and Danzig. The Germans said they were burning up Leningrad, Russia's second most populous city.

MISCELLANY:

BROOKLYN, N. Y.: Public school children were given an emergency air raid drill, getting them "in on the ground floor" in case of air attacks on the metropolis.

LONDON: The RAF has 500 young pilots who were born in the United States, according to an official report. Most of them enlisted in Canada.

DAYTON, OHIO: Fred Snite, the "iron lung" daddy, is practicing with a portable outfit that will permit him to walk about.

'Hitler' Aids British

Muddled as the international situation is, here is another incident to add to the confusion. Pictured above is Mrs. Brigid Elizabeth Hitler, wife of Chancellor Adolf Hitler's step-brother, shown at her desk at her first day's work for the British War Relief society in New York. Mrs. Hitler points proudly to Aid Britain pin. Her work with the society is voluntary.

Chungking, China,—Most Bombed City in World

This photo of a 5½-hour bombing of Chungking, China, by Japanese planes, was released by United China Relief, New York, now conducting a $5,000,000 campaign for relief work among the Chinese. Dennis McEvoy, one of the best-informed newspaper men in Chungking, says: "Chungking looks as if a huge hammer from the heavens had struck, wildly, with crushing effect. But the sounds of hammering could be heard almost immediately after the all-clear signal. If the Japanese can dish it out the Chinese can take it."

LEASE-LEND:

The Picture

The veil of secrecy surrounding the whole question of lease-learn aid to Britain, which had not been pierced very satisfactorily from the readers' point of view by President Roosevelt's 90-day statement, was pulled aside enough to give a more promising picture.

The disclosure came before the senate's commerce committee. It came in the form of a general survey by a number of shipping lines as to the increase in Red sea cargoes, which, presumably, were mostly of the lease-learn variety.

This was in a discussion of a house-approved bill that would place virtually all merchant ships operating from the U. S. under the control of the Maritime commission.

Ship operators appeared before the committee asking for "just compensation" for themselves and that this be included in the measure.

Then came the reports. One said that a large part of its 32-ship fleet was now in the Red sea business; another reported three ships now en route there; still a third said he had sent four ships there, and that he had 16 others in the same trade.

The attorney of the Maritime commission, testifying for the ship-operators, said the amount of lease-learn cargoes to the Red sea was "enormous."

ANY PANS?

Asks LaGuardia

"Little Flower" LaGuardia got under way his OCD, or civilian defense director, and made his first nation-wide appeal a plan to start a collection of scrap aluminum.

His broadcast appeal called for citizens to contribute everything from pots and pans to washing machines, and he set a goal for the nation of 20,000,000 pounds.

Reception depots will be maintained without charge, LaGuardia said. He asked not only housewives, but all hotels and restaurants to give. He wants everybody to make an inventory of all the aluminum utensils they can spare.

His list included "golf clubs, pots, pans, vacuum cleaners, picture frames, ice trays, measuring cups, kettles, double boilers, jar caps, refrigerator plates, toys and all things like that."

LABOR:

Not at Ease

Despite the final removal of all troops from the plant of North American Aviation, first and only factory to be taken over by the army in order to break a strike, labor was far from at ease, though there were many factors tending to improve the situation.

In the first place, assuming that the Communists actually were in back of some of the labor troubles, they now found themselves fighting for their lives (in Russia) against the Nazis, and as America was pledged to do likewise in the "all-out-aid" program, the Communists changed their front and were less likely to participate in defense strikes.

But, on the other hand, the basic desire of labor for a 75-cent an hour minimum wage as a sort of level at which they'd be willing to work hard and faithfully at most any sort of defense task, seemed not at all reduced, and this was sure to cause outbreaks in the future.

Example

For instance, 5,000 employees of the Sperry Gyroscope company voted to strike. Whether they would carry it out or not was problematical, but the specter of labor trouble was rearing its head in this concern, which makes the all-important bomb-sight.

These workers wanted a blanket 20 per cent wage increase. The company offered an unspecified compromise, then added the words, "take it or leave it."

The workers voted to leave it.

What to Do For Relief Of Fatigue

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

THE drug, benzedrine sulfate, is being used by some students to "brighten them up" during the writing of examinations. It is also being used to relieve tiredness or fatigue in those who find they must be bright and alert for some special occasion.

TODAY'S HEALTH COLUMN

Now, we all get tired at times and the best way to relieve fatigue and get back our energy is to lie down and rest when this is possible. The taking of a drug to "pep us up" should not be done as a regular thing. Anything that pep us up and gives us false energy must be paid for later because Nature pays all her debts.

The tiredness or fatigue that some individuals feel at 11 o'clock in the morning is not due to any hard physical or mental work but to eating a "small" breakfast, because they have no appetite in the morning or do not get up early enough to have time to sit down to a proper breakfast. This same "hurry," prevents them from taking time to establish a regular bowel or intestinal habit. They are thus in a constipated condition with large amount of waste constantly lying in the lower bowel. This large amount of waste constantly presses against the little nerve endings of the bowel causing tiredness in the brain.

Others feel tired at four o'clock in the afternoon because they eat a very light lunch. It is lack of food which causes the tired feeling.

Benefit of Small Meals.
Drs. Haggard and Greenburg of Yale were able to prove that the same amount of food given in five servings instead of three prevented the midmorning and midafternoon fatigue. Workers were able to do 15 per cent more work by simply eating "part" of their lunch at 10:30 a. m. and part of their evening meal at 4 p. m.

The thought, then, is that when we feel tired, instead of taking medicine to stimulate us, we should rest, lie down if possible. If unable to rest, then eating a little food—candy, banana, orange, some crackers—should give us relief from fatigue.

We should not be ashamed to lie down and rest for five to fifteen minutes any time we feel tired.

Use of Insulin To Prevent Itching

THE reason that insulin is proving so helpful is that the various glands of the body depend upon one another to some extent for their best work or use in the body. Therefore if one gland is not working properly, not producing enough of the right kind of juice, some of the other organs and tissues are going to suffer. And so we find that a lack of insulin in the blood, by upsetting the work of other glands and their juices, allows certain ailments and symptoms to occur.

One of the mean or distressing symptoms common to man is pruritis—itching. It is known that insects and parasites cause itching and also the eating of certain foods and the use of certain drugs. There are, however, many cases of pruritis where the cause is difficult to find.

Dr. C. G. Vervloet, Amsterdam, in investigating the use of insulin in pruritis, observed that several patients with hepatic (liver) disease in whom insulin gave good results, were relieved also of the severe itching of the skin. He found that twice 10 units, or twice 15 units, to which sugar was added, was usually sufficient to relieve the itching.

How was the itching relieved by insulin? Dr. Vervloet believes that the insulin relieved the itching because of its effect upon the liver and kidneys. As you know, the liver and kidneys are the great filters of the body, removing from the blood materials which, if left in the blood, could cause chronic illness or death. When the liver and kidneys are not getting the normal amount of insulin from the pancreas to help them to filter out harmful substances, they allow enough of these harmful substances to remain in the blood to cause pruritis or itching. By receiving insulin daily, the cells of the liver and kidneys do a better job of filtering the blood.

THE BRIDE LEARNS TO COOK
(See Recipes Below.)

EASY AS PIE

No sooner are you back from your honeymoon than the business of planning menus, marketing and cooking for two begins!

In your capacity as chief cook, you're sure to find the task of preparing three meals a day a real challenge. Of course if you've had little past experience in the culinary field, there'll undoubtedly be at least one batch of "heavy" biscuits, a "fallen" cake or two, and even burnt toast . . . but don't let mistakes bother you too much . . . and he'll soon be "crowing" about your So-o-o Good Meals!

Because I'm convinced that the ability to make really good pie is a highly desirable quality for any young woman to possess, especially a new wife, I'm presenting a few pie recipes for you to try in your leisure moments.

If he likes desserts at all (most men adore them), try your luck with lemon-chiffon, chocolate, rhubarb or even Spanish cream pie . . . And, if you're careful to follow the foregoing suggestions, he won't be able to resist that second piece!

I've captioned the column Easy As Pie . . . which perhaps gives an erroneous impression. Easy to eat, yes, but not always easy to make. Pastry is tricky, but once the technique of making it has been acquired, it isn't easily lost.

In making pastry remember these points: (1) unless you are making hot water pastry, have the ingredients for making pie crust cold; (2) cut shortening into the flour, using a pastry blender or fork; or, if you're an experienced cook, and work quickly, blending in the shortening with fingers is permissible; (3) add water sparingly, using only enough to hold the ingredients together; handle dough as little and as lightly as possible after adding water; (4) roll out the dough on a lightly floured board or on a heavy canvas; (5) cover the rolling pin with a child's white cotton stocking—with the foot cut off—and flour it lightly; and (6) place the dough loosely in the pan to help prevent shrinking.

Plain Pastry.

2 cups flour
½ teaspoon salt
¾ cup shortening
Ice water (about 6 or 7 tablespoons)
Sift flour once before measuring. Sift together flour and salt. Cut in shortening with two knives or pastry blender, making coarse pieces. Add as little water as possible to make dough stay together. Divide into parts large enough to make one crust and roll out on a well-floured board with as little handling as possible.

*Chocolate Pie.

Plain pastry
2 squares unsweetened chocolate
3 eggs
1 cup cream
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons soft bread crumbs
½ cup chopped walnuts
Line a pie pan with plain pastry and pinch with fingers to make a

Tin or aluminum frying pans will wear better if cold water is not poured into them while they're hot.

Boiling a new rope clothes line for a few minutes in soapy water softens it and lengthens its life.

A round whisk broom serves as an excellent clothes sprinkler. It gives a fine spray, sprinkles evenly, and saves time.

Grease spots may sometimes be removed from wallpaper with a piece of blotting paper held against the spots with a warm iron.

In planning meals, bacon should be considered as fat rather than meat, because it contains so little protein.

fancy edge. Cut chocolate in pieces and melt over hot water. Beat eggs well, and add sugar, bread crumbs and melted chocolate. Mix well. Pour into the pie pan. Bake in a hot oven (375 degrees F.) for 20 minutes, or until filling is firm. When cold, sprinkle with chopped nuts. Spread with whipped cream and decorate with whole walnut kernels.

Just because it's summer, don't stop pie baking . . . merely change the kind of pie you serve. Spanish Cream pie has everything for a successful summer dessert—it's quivery, cool, delicately flavored.

To make the filling and pastry really boon companions, substitute orange juice for the water in the pastry. A half teaspoon of grated orange rind added to the flour for the pastry will give a special fragrance to it.

Spanish Cream Pie.

1 tablespoon unflavored gelatin
½ cup cold milk
1½ cups scalded milk
2 egg yolks
½ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
2 egg whites
1 baked pastry shell
Soften the gelatin in the cold milk 5 to 10 minutes. Dissolve over hot water, stirring constantly. Meanwhile, prepare a soft custard of the scalded milk, yolks, sugar and salt. Combine hot custard and hot dissolved gelatin. Cool slightly, add vanilla, then fold in the stiffly beaten whites. Chill until quite syrupy. Pour into pastry shell. Let set before serving. Yield: 6 servings.

Sometimes it is fun to change the flavor of pastry by adding an extra ingredient or two to the recipe. Cheese pastry, for example, is wonderful for apple pie. Grated cheese is mixed with the flour. A half cup of grated yellow cheese is enough for the standard recipe.

Spiced pastry is excellent for fruit pies, particularly peach, apple and apricot. Cinnamon and nutmeg, and perhaps a touch of cloves, are the spices to use. A teaspoon each of sugar and cinnamon and a fourth teaspoon of cloves will spice a batch of pastry. A little sugar also may be added.

Crumb Pastry.

2 cups crumbs, rolled fine or ground
½ cup melted butter
Blend butter and crumbs. Line pie pan by firmly pressing in mixture about one-fourth inch thick. Be sure to have it extra thick where sides of pan join. Bake in a 375- to 400-degree oven for 10 minutes. This pastry may be made of graham crackers, vanilla or chocolate wafers or ginger snaps.

And last but not least here's a recipe for the pie that still leads other meal sign-offs by a wide margin.

Apple Pie.

4½ cups apples
¼ teaspoon nutmeg or cinnamon
1 teaspoon butter
¾ teaspoon salt
1 cup sugar

Line plate with pastry. Pare, core and slice apples. Mix sugar, salt and spice; put part of sugar in bottom of plate filled with apples. Cover with remaining sugar. Dot over top with bits of butter.

Moisten edges of lower crusts; put on upper crust and press edges firmly together. Place pie on bottom shelf or rack in oven and bake in hot oven, 450 degrees F., for 10 minutes, then reduce heat to 325 degrees and bake until fruit is tender and juice begins to boil through perforations in crust.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D.
Dean of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for July 6

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

THE GOSPEL IS TAKEN INTO EUROPE

LESSON TEXT—Acts 16:1-15.
GOLDEN TEXT—Come over into Macedonia and help us.—Acts 16:9.

America is coming to the fore in the thinking of a confused world as the final hope of democracy and religious freedom. Europe, or at least most of Europe, represents in our thinking dictatorship, a totalitarian disregard for the personal rights of man, including his freedom to worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience.

It is therefore very appropriate that on this "Fourth of July" Sunday, when patriotism has been much in our thoughts, that we remind ourselves in the study of our Sunday school lesson that the roots of American life, both cultural and religious, reach back into the European soil on which our forefathers dwelt. Much of that which we as Christians count precious has come to us because Paul, the missionary, was responsive to the leading of the Holy Spirit and carried the gospel into the heathendom of Europe, from whence, in due time, it came to our own land.

It was a crucial point in the history of Christianity; yes, and of the world, when the gospel came to Europe.

I. By Providential Hindrance (vv. 6-8).

Not only are "the steps of a good man ordered by the Lord" (Ps. 37:23), but his steps as well. That is not an easy lesson to learn. Let us remember that we may be as much in the will of the Lord when all our efforts are thwarted as when they prosper.

Paul had set out on a second journey to carry out a follow-up campaign in the cities where he had already preached. This was a good plan and had God's blessing (see v. 5). But soon we find that word "forbidden" (v. 6) and then "suffered not" (v. 7). The Holy Spirit began to close doors to the gospel preacher. Now what? Shall he go on in determined self-will? Or shall he become discouraged and embittered in his soul? No, let him wait, for God is guiding him by providential hindrance, which is soon to be followed.

II. By Divine Guidance (vv. 9, 10).

The Spirit spoke to Paul in a vision, revealing the divine purpose that the gospel should go over into Macedonia. The Spirit leads in our day, possibly not by visions, but by impelling inward prompting complemented and checked by the teaching of Scripture and by providential circumstances, and thus a man may know what is the will of God for him.

A word of caution is needed at this point. Some earnest Christian people go astray by projecting their own desires and purposes into the place where they seem to be the will of God, and thus do themselves and others, and Christianity itself, much harm. The three things should agree—(1) the inner prompting of the Spirit, (2) the teaching of God's Word, and (3) God's hand in our outward circumstances.

If these three do not agree, the Christian does well to wait, prayerfully, expectantly, for the Lord's further guidance.

III. Through a Faithful Witness (vv. 11-14a).

The gospel came to Europe because Paul and his fellow workers were faithful to their calling. When God led, they went to Macedonia (vv. 11, 12), where they sought out those who were in the place of prayer (v. 13). Paul spoke to them about Christ (v. 14). There he met the man of Macedonia who turned out to be a woman. For some reason the men were absent from the place of prayer on that all-important Sabbath morning. They were undoubtedly the ancient counterpart of our present day men who are "brothers-in-law" to the church, these foolish men who seem to assume that a bit of "religion" second hand through the wife or children will suffice.

IV. Through a Receptive Heart (vv. 14b-15).

God sent an obedient messenger to the place where He had a prepared heart. Lydia was a woman of distinction, business ability, and high moral character. But she knew, and Paul knew, that even good people need to be saved. We do well to keep that fact before us.

Paul spoke the truth of God, who opened Lydia's heart. Observe that she not only received the Word of God into her own heart, but at once gave herself to the task of passing it on. The first thing she could do was to give aid and comfort to the messenger of the truth, and she did that at once. Be assured that from that day on she did all she could to prosper the gospel on its way through Europe and to the ends of the earth. Have we done likewise?

The wooded half of Michigan

MICHIKTIEST of all Michigan's resources was once its virgin timber. In Southern Michigan the hardwood was cut to clear farms. And to the north, the vast pine woods were turned into lumber for building the nation's cities.

Today, under wise methods of reforestation, the woods are growing up again. About 20,000,000 acres—over half Michigan's land area—are wooded. By scientific cutting, these forests produce more than 400,000,000 board feet of lumber a year, besides firewood, pulpwood for paper, tanbark, veneers and other products.

Legend has it that when the mythical Paul Bunyan was lumbering Michigan, his shout could be heard from Menominee to Saginaw if the wind was right. Modern lumbermen and forest rangers don't have such voices. But by telephone they keep in touch with woods operations, market their products, and control forest fires, far more efficiently than the old-timers ever could.

The Lamp in the Valley

BY ARTHUR STRINGER

W. N. U. Service

Sidney Lander rescued Carol Coburn from the annoyances of Eric (the Red) Ericson. She is returning to her native Alaska to teach. Her father, a sourdough, died with an unproven mine claim. Lander, an engineer for the Trumbull Co., which is fighting the Coburn claim, breaks with Trumbull. But he remains engaged to Trumbull's daughter, Barbara. Carol tells Barbara she is not after Lander. Salaria Bryson, an outdoors girl, is also in love with Lander. Trumbull invites Carol to fly

THE STORY SO FAR

But his voice, when he spoke, was both suave and controlled.

"Don't run away with the idea this Chakitana claim is my only trouble," he said. "I've got mine interests that take me from the Circle right down to Mexico. And I like to clear things up as I go along."

Once again I recognized the deep rumble of big business. But the thought of my father's lone grave somewhere out along the tangled trails of the Chakitana confirmed me in my own blind course of opposition.

"We turn in here," I explained, indicating the oozy path that led to my shack front.

"Do you mean you're satisfied with this sort of thing?" he demanded, his contemptuous gaze on my littered dooryard, left so unlively by the spring thaw.

"I'd like it better if I had a school," I said.

John Trumbull sat watching me as I climbed down from the car seat.

"What would you say if I put a few thousand into a school for you," he said with what impressed me as a purely achieved matter-of-factness "as good a school as they've got anywhere in this Territory?"

It was my turn to remain silent as I looked up into those glacier-eyes of his. And I remembered my old school maxim about fearing the Greeks when they come bearing gifts.

"Does my claim impress you as worth that much?" I found the courage to demand.

His color deepened, apparently with the embarrassment of a contestant who has underestimated the power of his opponent.

"What it's worth won't be decided by either you or me," he said in an unexpectedly sharpened voice. "But I was hoping we could get together on it in some friendlier way."

"I happen to be Klondike Coburn's daughter," I reminded him.

That brought a steelier look into his averted eyes.

"I was trying to forget that," he retorted, almost in a bark. "But hate and stupidity, you'll find, won't get you far."

"I'll get along," I said, forcing a smile of assurance. And as I stood confronting him I began to nurse a new and sharper fellow feeling for Sidney Lander. He too had refused to be crushed by that human car of Juggernaut.

John Trumbull started his engine and threw in his clutch.

"You may not last here as long as you imagine," he asserted as he swung about my dooryard and headed for the road.

CHAPTER XIII

Saturday, of course, meant a day off for the valley chalk-wranglers.

But a day off didn't mean idleness. I had my mending and darning to do, my sourdough sponge to work into loaves, and my house to put in order after six days of neglect. I'd baked my bread, and finished my washing and ironing, and with the fortitude of the true frontiersman was just filling my big woodbox with neatly split spruce boles when a truck rumbled up to my door.

It was a rather official-looking truck of battleship-gray, similar to those I'd seen of late about the Administration Camp at Palmer. And it startled me a little when Lander swung down from the driver's seat. He looked tired and a trifle solemn.

"I suppose you know what that means?" he said as I continued to stare at the truck. He laughed, rather curtly, when I told him I was entirely in the dark. "It means I'm field manager for the Matanuska Valley Project."

From my silence he seemed to reap some final impression of disappointment.

"I suppose you think I've failed you?" he said, more solemn than ever.

"In what?" I asked, resenting his power to interfere with my heart action.

"In marking time this way about your Chakitana claim," he observed as he followed me into the shack.

"I can live without that mine," I found myself saying.

"But nobody likes to be robbed," Lander observed as he thrust some papers into my hand. One of those papers, I noticed, was my father's dog-eared certificate of citizenship. And as I glanced down at the faded portrait appended to it I realized I was looking at the face of a fighter. It made me stiffen my shoulders.

"We can't, of course, pick our ground for this particular fight," Lander was saying. "We have to know our enemy's line of attack. And in this case he seems to be playing safe and turning to court procedure and trying to make everything look legal."

"Then what can we do?" I asked.

"I have Canby working for us at Juneau," Lander explained. "He's both dependable and resourceful. But you can't, of course, hurry those Record Office chair-warmers. And we'll have to depend on Canby."

"Trumbull's going to lose out, remember, on his first round," Lander was explaining. "That report shows your father's naturalization papers can be confirmed. It'll leave the issue hinging on the question of clear or clouded title definition. And that issue may have to be decided out on the Chakitana."

He then turned to the task in Matanuska.

"Things are going to be different around here," he confidently affirmed. "They've got to, or there'll be hell to pay. And it'll be a man's size job, making this muddle ready for those two hundred families."

"Isn't it a trifle late for that?" I asked as I filled my two crockery cups with hot tea.

Lander admitted that it was. But that, he contended, was just why we had to pitch in and help.

"You'll get a school, of course," he went on as he abstractedly stirred his tea. "And we'll have to have a hospital of some sort. And a Red Cross nurse. And a marshal to keep order in those transient-camps. And someone to speed up the building-gangs and stop all this bungling about supplies and the eternal buck-passing that's mainly responsible for the mess they're in."

"I want to help," I said. Something in my voice brought an approving smile from the man across the bald pine table.

"In two weeks," he said, "we'll have a radio station here, to link us up with the outside world. That'll take us out of the wilderness, at one jump. And before winter we'll have electric lights and telephones and cold storage and a cannery and snug homes for every one of those two hundred families."

"You'll get a school, of course."

I thought of the undug wells and the unfinished roads and the carloads of cement that had been left to harden along the railway siding.

"You know, of course, that your friend Ericson is in the transient-camp here?" Lander asked.

I disclaimed any friendship between Eric the Red and myself.

"That's just the point," proceeded my visitor. "He's as yellow as they make them. And two days ago he had a talk with John Trumbull up at the Happy Day."

"What's that to me?" I asked with what was only a pretense of indifference.

"Trumbull," he explained, "is pretty ruthless. There are mighty few road rules left when he starts steamrolling toward his own selfish ends."

"I've been talking with Colonel Hart," he added. "And he agrees with me we've got to have a medical man here. There's a chance he'll bring Doctor Ruddock over from Toklutna. And I've put in a word for your friend Katie O'Connell. There's no reason she couldn't swing in as a Red Cross nurse."

A wave of joy went through me. Katie, I realized, would be an answer to prayer.

Just then Salaria appeared at my door, brown and wind-blown. In the crook of her arm she carried a rifle and over one shoulder swung a full game bag. Her dusky eyes rested rather hungrily on the silent Lander.

"You goin' my way, old-timer?" she inquired, indicating the truck in the dooryard.

Lander's gaze met mine for a moment. I could see the heat-lightning smile that hovered about his lips.

"Right to your door, S'lary," Lander answered her, with a hand-wave toward his truck.

It was while the Artemis of his faint smile was still frowning over some right tinge of mockery in his voice that Lander turned back to me.

"How about coming to Wasilla tonight?" he asked. "They have a roadhouse dance there, every Satur-with him to the scene to see that her father had no real claim. She declines, however, and her manner nettles the mine king. He is used to having things his own way. Father and daughter were both rather imperious.

day night, for our relief-roll toilers. And I want to get a line on the bad actors in that bunch."

"I'll be seeing you," I acquiesced in the offhanded note of the frontier. "Fine," said Lander as he waited for Salaria to climb into the truck.

It was many a year since I'd seen an Alaska jamboree of that kind, and it left me wondering if life hadn't rather spoiled me for such affairs. For along with the dancing was much brawling and lovmaking and the imbibing of a local brand of hooch known as moose-milk. The orchestra was merely a tiny old piano helped out by a fiddle and accordion. Even as we pushed our way into that crowded roadhouse with its open bar I wondered if the natives weren't doing the best to revive the old Klondike days. Men in flannel shirts and high-tops gyrated about with gum-chewing white women in slacks or held well-rouged and sloe-eyed half-breed girls in calico close to their Mack-nawed bosoms.

Lander danced with a smooth sedateness that left us almost conspicuous in that swarm of jiggling bodies and flying heels. And I felt oddly small and passive in that strong arm of his. The sense of his nearness, I suppose, should have made me happy.

But I couldn't drum up any enthusiasm for that falsetto and loose-jointed hilarity born of bad music and worse whisky.

I tried to tell my partner that there was something pathetic in such childlike efforts to escape the isolation of wilderness life. But Lander only laughed.

"This is easy," he said. "There'll be a broken head or two before the night's over." There'd even been a stabbing, the week before.

But I had no craving to see fist-fights and knifeplay.

"I want to go home," I said at the end of our dance. For along the line that crowded the bar I'd caught sight of Eric the Red, surrounded by a circle of transients. He was too busy drinking and talking to give any thought to dancing. But his sardonic smile as we passed within six paces of him confirmed my distaste for the place.

"All right," said Lander. Yet I knew by the way his gaze lingered on the flushed and bleary-eyed faces all about him that he would have preferred to stay.

The air outside was sweet with a small wind that blew down from the Talkeetnas.

"I guess this is better," he said as he tucked a blanket about my knees and climbed in beside me. He was silent for a while, tooling the truck along the spectral ribbon of a road.

"I'm afraid I took you away from your work," I ventured.

Lander laughed as that none-too-even road kept our swaying bodies in rough but friendly contact.

"That's about the best I can ask of life," he said. "To be next to you like this."

My answering laugh, I suppose, was largely defensive.

"While we both remember to keep to the center of the road," I suggested.

"It'll be a better road before we're through with it," the resonant low voice beside me announced. He was speaking in riddles, of course. Yet I knew well enough what he meant.

"But where will it lead to?" I asked.

"I don't know, yet," he answered after a moment's silence. "But I don't want it to lead me from you."

"Hasn't it already done that?" I questioned.

It may have sounded a bit cruel. He turned and made an effort to study my face in the none-too-certain light.

"I thought we meant something to each other," he said with a quick and boylike candor that was more disarming than all the earlier riddles. "I rather thought you liked me."

"I do," I said in an effort to match casualness with casualness. But that, plainly, didn't solve his problem. He drove on in silence until he came to the narrower trail that led in to my shack.

"I suppose there's somebody else?" he finally ventured, coming to a stop in the cabin clearing.

"There's nobody else," I was honest enough to acknowledge.

"That's all I wanted to know," he said with a new resoluteness in his voice.

I was more afraid of myself, I think, than I was of him. I didn't like the way my heart was pounding as he got down from his seat and crossed to my side of the truck.

"With me there is nobody else," I compelled myself to say.

I knew, by the way he stiffened, that my shot had hit its mark.

"You're right," he quietly acknowledged. Then he laughed his curt laugh. "I guess I'm running a little ahead of the game."

I felt like calling after him, as he backed and turned and went lurching out to the highway.

Fanaticus Americanus

The word "fan" comes from fanatic, which means, roughly, a guy who is frantically enthusiastic about something or other. As an enthusiast the American fan is second to none. The fan's act is as much a part of the game as anything which goes on inside the playing field. We introduce to you here some of the more rabid of the breed that happened to catch the eye of the camera during various contests.

NEW IDEAS

for Home-makers

By RUTH WYETH SPEARS

HAVE you considered covering your out-of-door cushions with water-resistant artificial leather? It may be cut and sewn the same as any heavy fabric. The colors are all so fresh and gay that you will be inspired to try striking combinations. Use a coarse machine needle; a No. 5 hand needle; No. 20 or 24 sewing thread and regulate the machine to about 12 stitches to the inch.

The cushions shown here are green with seam cords covered in red. The sketch shows how they are made. The cotton seam cord should be about 1/4-inch in diameter. It is covered with a straight strip 1 1/4 inches wide stitched with the machine cording foot to allow the sewing to come up close to the cord. The raw edges of the cord covering are basted around the top and bottom of the cover on the right side, as shown, and are then stitched in with the seam.

If you like variety in your cushions, there is an idea for sturdy ones made of burlap and silk stockings on page 23 of SEWING, Book 5.

NOTE: Book 7, in the series of Home-makers' Booklets by Mrs. Spears, is the latest and contains directions for more than thirty things which you will want for your own home or for gifts. Included are working drawings for reconditioning old chairs and other furniture; directions for a spool whatnot; an unusual braided rag rug; and many things to make with needle and thread. The seven booklets now available contain a total of more than two hundred of Mrs. Spears' NEW IDEAS for Homemakers. Booklets are 10 cents each. Send your order to:

Dear Mom:

Well, here it is another weekend and I'm not a General yet. But give me time.

The nearest village is 5 miles away. All you find there is a general store, a garage and a canning factory—nowhere to go for any good clean fun, unless you drop in at a smoke-filled juke joint on the way.

Well, Mom, there's a big favor you can do me. The U. S. O. is trying to raise $10,765,000 to run clubs for us, outside of camp. Places with lounge rooms, dance floors, games, writing rooms. Places you can get a bite to eat without paying a king's ransom.

I know you don't have an idle million lying around, but if you could get the family interested and some of the neighbors, and if that happened all over the country, the U. S. O. could raise $10,765,000 overnight.

I'd appreciate it a lot, Mom, and so would every other mother's son in the U. S. Army and Navy.

Love,
Bill

Hartman singled to center and took second on a passed ball. Swartz singled scoring Hartman. Swartz stole second. Walters singled, Swartz stopping at third. Templin grounded out short to first.

The locals again evened up the score in their turn at bat. Prescott flied to center, Hasty made a grandstand catch of Musolf's high foul. Smith, Gackstetter and Mallon each singled to center, Smith scoring on the third hit. McPherson ended the inning with a fly to Hartman in right.

Tawas City went into the lead in the third. Thornton opened the inning by taking one of Bootz's slants in the ribs. Templin replaced Bootz on the mound at this stage of the game. Bootz went to center and Douglas to second base. Rollin, the first batter to face Templin, was hit by a pitched ball. Moeller struck out, Dick Prescott then doubled to right scoring Thornton. Musolf struck out and Smith grounded to third. Walters took over the pitching duties in the sixth, Templin finishing the game at short. The final run was scored in the seventh. Mallon got a life when Douglas fumbled his grounder. McPherson struck out, Rollin singled, Thornton struck out, Rollin singled to right, Moeller was hit by a pitched ball, Prescott lined a single to right scoring Mallon, and Rollin was caught at the plate for the third out.

Besides pitching a whale of a game, Bob Rollin had a perfect day with the stick, getting two hits in as many official times at bat. He was hit by a pitched ball and drew a base on balls his other trips to the plate. He is now boasting a .600 batting average for the season. Dick Prescott hit two out of four, one a two base hit. Kenny Smith's contribution was three singles out of five trips to the plate. Junior Musolf played his first game with the city team last Sunday and held down the "hot corner" in good style.

The Tawas City infield pulled a snappy double play in the third inning. Koelsch singled, Bootz flied to Mallon in short left field. Hasty hit a slow roller to Musolf at third who threw to Thornton for the put out, Koelsch tried to take third on the play but a perfect peg from Thornton to Mallon nailed him at third on a close play.

Bob Rollin pitched himself out of a tough spot in the fifth. Walters drew a base on balls to open the inning. Templin singled to right, Walters going to third and Templin ran to second on the throw to third. Bob then settled down and fanned Koelsch, Bootz popped to Thornton, and Hasty struck out.

Next Sunday Tawas City will again play Sterling at Sterling to start the second half of the season. The boys are up there in the running, lets accompany them to Sterling Sunday and keep them in the running. They have been playing a good brand of ball and merit your support.

We hope to make our bus available to all folks in our area who believe in higher education.

Transportation will be provided on a cost basis, reimbursable in full by the state if the district votes to close one of its upper grades. In other words it will cost your school nothing to send children to the Tawas City School, if you vote to close a grade. In many districts this means only one or two children sent in from the local school. Closing the eighth grade will relieve the country teacher of preparing a student for eighth grade examinations and will give her much more time to devote to the other children.

There will be a meeting in the Tawas High School Gymnasium on Thursday, July 10 at 8 p. m. a representative of the State Department of Public Instruction will be here to answer any questions you may have in regard to the problem of transportation at that time. All interested persons are welcome.

igan's jurisdiction. Sportsmen advocating this measure failed to take into consideration that producers in neighboring states would continue to take whitefish while the Michigan men were forced to suspend operations. There was no true conservation in such a suggestion and would only tend to further jeopardize the Michigan producers who for years have been operating under the highest standard of fishery regulations on the five lakes.

Suggested lengthening of closed seasons on trout for Lakes Superior, Michigan and Huron also drew sharp criticisms of the fishermen as here again Michigan men would be forced to suspend operations for a longer period than producers in neighboring states where either a shorter closed season or no closed season at all, are the general order.

The question of deep trap or submarine nets for the taking of whitefish and trout again came in for its share of juggling. Several bills designed to abolish these nets in northern Lake Huron, the Straits of Mackinac and northern Lake Michigan failed to get the necessary votes to make them effective. A proposal in another bill to abolish all deep trap nets in the state, failed to receive any consideration when the entire bill was pigeonholed.

The Michigan fishermen were fortunate in being able to retard the passage of many detrimental bills. Unfortunately many good measures that might have helped the industry were lost, as they were incorporated in the bad bills which through necessity had to be fought.
