Hereford Growers Will Meet Tuesday Afternoon-Evening

NOTED LIVE STOCK MEN WILL SPEAK

Banquet at Hotel Barnes; Meeting at Prescott Farm

Robert Martin, of the Buffalo Producers Marketing Association of Buffalo, New York, and Professor G. A. Brown of Michigan State college will be the principal speakers of the second annual meeting of the Northeastern Michigan Hereford Calf Association which is to be held Tuesday, October 7.

The association is a five-county organization consisting of Arenac, Ogemaw, Iosco, Alcona and Oscoda counties. The purpose of the association is to encourage the production of Hereford feeder calves to be sold into Southern Michigan counties where concentrates and grain can be produced more economically than is possible in this portion of the state.

According to president of the association C. T. Prescott this part of Michigan stands second to none in the production of pasture and roughage and these big Hereford cows will utilize these feeds to good advantage and approximately 90 per cent of the cows will have feeder calves upon November 1, of each year weighing from 350 to 450 pounds each.

If the calves produced are to bring top market price they must be of proper conformation and quality. Many of the individuals, when placed upon the feeder market should grade good to choice and officials of the association along with local County Agricultural Agents have planned the annual meeting in such a way that market grades and corresponding market values may be studied.

All interested calf producers and cattlemen in this area are encouraged to attend the annual meeting next Tuesday afternoon and evening. The meeting will begin at one o'clock in the afternoon at the Prescott Ranch six miles west of the Whittemore High school. Robert Martin, noted cattle judge and salesman for the Buffalo Producers Association at Buffalo, New York, will be present to discuss market grades and will actually grade some 70 calves into their proper market classes explaining why the individuals are so classified. Head of the Michigan State College Animal Husbandry Department Professor G. A. Brown will also be present to assist with the grading.

Other features at the grading demonstration which local farm people should be interested in will be the dams of these 70 calves, a group of Shorthorn calves and a lot of two year old breed heifers that will be in the breeding herd next summer.

Immediately following the afternoon session the group will tour to the Hotel Barnes at Tawas City for their annual Hereford banquet at six o'clock. The program following the dinner will be in charge of President C. T. Prescott, of Tawas City, and Vice president W. A. Crandall, of West Branch. "The Present Cattle Situation" will be discussed by Robert Martin. "The Place the Beef Cow Should Take Upon a Northeastern Michigan Farm" will be summarized by Professor Brown, while Extension Specialist E. L. Benton, from the college, will outline "The Feeder Calf Situation." James P. Mielock, secretary of the association will give the secretary's report.

Let's all join these cattlemen next Tuesday afternoon and evening and help boost the Northeastern Michigan Hereford cattle business to the same high plane as the tourist business in this locality.

Fire Destroys Mrs. James Brown's Home

Fire last Sunday evening damaged the home of Mrs. James Brown in this city to such an extent that the building cannot be repaired. The fire is thought to have been caused from the explosion of a kitchen oil stove. Mrs. Brown was making up beds in her overnight cabins at the time and the fire was not discovered until the flames and intense heat had nearly destroyed the interior of the house.

After extinguishing the flames with water from the 300 gallon booster tank, firemen proved the efficacy of the new smoke masks by entering smoldering building and finishing their work.

Mrs. Brown states that the building will be torn down and cabins built on the site.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Povish and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Povish, of Alpena, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Peter Povish.

Mr. and Mrs. Burton Pappal and daughter, Lucene, of Flint, made a short visit with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Boudler last week.

County Library Meet Held Wednesday

A citizens meeting to inspire interest in the county libraries was held Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Elmer Kunze, chairman of the County Library Board. Representatives were present from Tawas City, Whittemore, Alabaster and East Tawas.

Miss Constance Bement, of the Extension Division of the Michigan State Library, outlined a program for the extension of the county library activities. She stressed the advisability of a book truck to service areas, including the rural schools.

At present Miss Leonora Hass, of the WPA Library project, has been assigned to promote this library development. Nearly 2000 volumes have already been added to the county libraries and 500 more will be added in the very near future. The WPA will furnish the book truck.

About two years ago, the Iosco County Board of Supervisors appropriated $500.00 to the library fund which entitled the county to $1100.00 from state aid. The supervisors will from state aid members of the County Library Board to appropriate $600.00 for library purposes. If the appropriation is made, it will entitle the county to receive $3,000.00 from the State Establishment Grant Fund, $313.00 from the state general fund and $417.00 from the State Equalization Fund, under state aid to libraries.

Park Benefit Party Next Friday Night

Plans for the Tawas City Community Party to be held next Friday evening at the Tawas City Auditorium are well under way and a most hearty response is being displayed by everyone. The purpose of the party is to raise funds to improve the Tawas City park. The park will be landscaped, a new bathroom and gravel drives planned.

Local residents, friends in nearby communities and former Tawas City people are expressing their interest by making contributions for the proposed improvements.

Increased Activities For Iosco Red Cross

During the past few months Iosco county is taking an ever increasing part in the activities of the American Red Cross according to officials of the chapter. A large amount of worthwhile work is being accomplished.

At the present time Mrs. D. A. Evans, in charge of all sewing groups, is assisted by Mrs. R. Grossmeyer. A new committee concerned with the job of cutting has been appointed with Mrs. Leona Klestrom as chairman, and Mrs. Allie Cecil and Mrs. Jones to assist with typing.

Three new groups have joined the ranks this fall to help the older workers. The Rebekahs are taking over a major share of all cutting for the county, the Wilber Ladies Aid will assist in sewing, and the Zion Lutheran group will help with both cutting and sewing.

A list of articles to be completed this winter are as follows: 16 men's sweaters, 30 women's sweaters, 64 children's sweaters, 20 children's knitted suits, 12 mufflers, 12 pair of socks for children, 8 pairs for men, 8 shawls for women.

Sewed garments will include: 48 hospital shirts, 40 layettes, 80 cotton dresses for girls, 100 boys' shirts. These articles will be completed as soon as possible and shipped to the general warehouse at Jersey City, New Jersey, to be redistributed.

To meet the greater call for finished products many workers are needed to support those now contributing so generously of their time and labor. Mrs. Evans wishes to extend her personal invitation to everyone and ask for your interest and cooperation in furthering the worthy cause of the American Red Cross.

Twentieth Century Club

The Twentieth Century club will open the club year with their first meeting at the Horton cottage at Sand Lake next Wednesday after the program for the day is as follows: Roll Call—Club Memories. President's Message—Mrs. W. A. Davidson. In Memoriam—Mrs. James Nesbit. Report of Delegate to District Convention—Mrs. W. C. Davidson. A pot luck lunch will be served following the meeting.

Card of Thanks

We wish to take this opportunity to thank the many friends and neighbors for their many acts of sympathy and beautiful floral tributes and to Rev. Dolphing for his comforting words. Also to those who so kindly loaned their cars and especially to the Whittemore F. & A. M. for the use of their dining hall. The Thompson relatives and families.

IOSCO ROAD MEN RETURN TO THEIR JOBS EAST TAWAS

Committee Report Gets Supervisors' OK Friday

Monday morning employees of the Iosco County Road Commission went back to work under recommendations set up in a report made by the Supervisors' Committee. The report made by the committee of disinterested citizens, was approved in a seven to ten vote at a special session of the Board of Supervisors held last Friday at the Tawas City hall.

John Henry of East Tawas and Victor St. James of Whittemore were named district road foreman by the Road Commission.

The following were members of the five-man committee: James McDonnell, chairman, Frank Dorcey, Rev. Robert McCleary, George Waters and Thomas Oliver.

The text of the report as approved by the supervisors is as follows: Mr. Chairman and members of the Board of Supervisors

The committee appointed by this board, for the purpose ascertaining to the disagreement between the Road Commission and the county road employees, on Friday, September 12, 1941, begs to submit the following facts and recommendations:

Your committee has found, after careful investigation, that the responsibility of the general lay-off of all employees of the Iosco County Commission, August 25, 1941, rests with the Iosco County Road Commission.

From careful investigation, your committee, in so far as they have been able to ascertain, has found that the purpose of the layoff was for the purpose of a general reorganization of all departments of the County Road Commission.

The reasons we have reached the above conclusions are: we find that the commissioners have from time to time promised their employees an increase in pay and such raises have not been forthcoming, which no doubt caused considerable dissatisfaction among the employees resulting in inefficiency. In the opinion of your committee the commissioners acted in bad faith by not fulfilling their promises to the employees.

It has been known for some time that the county was not getting the proper results for the moneys being expended. Your committee has found that a considerable amount of money has been spent for maintenance of the equipment. We find that ten thousand, nine hundred and ninety-nine dollars and thirty-eight cents ($10,999.38) was spent in the fiscal year 1940 for repair parts, not taking into consideration the cost of labor to repair such parts which would probably bring the total cost of repairs to approximately sixteen thousand dollars ($16,000.00). The approximate value of all highway equipment is seventy-five thousand dollars ($75,000.00). Thus the average percentage for repairs on this amount of equipment would be twenty percent. We consider this an exorbitant rate.

We also have found that the present resources of revenue does not provide sufficient funds to maintain our system of highways in the condition that they should be maintained, and no new projects can be undertaken until additional funds are provided.

$20,048 McNitt Money Received by County

County Treasurer Grace Miller announced this week that $20,048.95 had been received from the auditor general in Holbeck-McNitt road funds.

During the past few weeks a large amount of work has been transacted in the county treasurer's office, according to Mrs. Miller. Taxpayers have been hurrying in to pay up their delinquent taxes before the tax sale list for 1939 and prior taxes is prepared.

Preparation of the list will soon be underway, listing delinquent 1939 tax and delinquent 1935 and prior installments of taxes which are being paid on the Ten Year Plan, states Mrs. Miller.

Repeal of United States Neutrality Law And Arming of Merchant Shipping Cited as Administration Objectives In Battle to Keep Sea Lanes Open

ARM SHIPS: Asks Roosevelt

The revision of the Neutrality act to permit the arming of U. S. merchant ships had followed in order of the presidential requests after the sinking of the Pink Star, another taken over Danish vessel, near the spot where the Sessa and the Montana went down.

This vessel, first actually to be sunk since the President's shoot first message, was taken as Hitler's reply to this country's attitude on freedom of the seas.

Shortly thereafter the White House campaign to get the neutrality law changed began, with many statements by members of congress that it was believed congressional consent would be given.

Observers in the national capital remembered that the arming of U. S. merchant vessels in World War I was followed by actual entry into the war in less than a month. It was deemed certain that anti-interventionists would fight to the last ditch against the proposal.

The immediate Berlin reaction to the new Washington move had been that the sinking of the Pink Star was entirely in accord with international law, that the vessel was armed, was convoyed by enemy craft and was carrying the flag of Panama, not of the United States.

But Rome had come forward with this statement: "Axis ships will defend themselves against any armed U. S. merchantmen they meet on their courses." That was written by Virginia Gayda, chief Fascist editor.

CUT PROFITS:

Says Morgenthau

One step to insure an "all-out" American effort in behalf of the national defense, will be to cut all corporate profits to not more than 6 per cent of invested capital, declared Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau in a statement to congress.

Treasury Secretary Morgenthau is shown as he told congress that a tax law should be written to take away all business profits above six per cent of invested capital.

This drastic recommendation had been made by the secretary before the house banking and currency committee, when he urged speedy approval of the price control bill.

Here was the way the secretary had expressed himself: "The only way that can be done is through another tax bill. We feel that during this emergency a corporation should be satisfied to earn 6 per cent of its capital, and that everything above that should go to pay for defense expenditures."

Expressing his disapproval of a wage ceiling, Mr. Morgenthau had said:

"In free countries labor is not a commodity, human beings are not property, and they should not be treated as such."

This stand was opposed to that of Bernard Baruch, who regarded labor simply as an item of cost, and who declared it would be impossible to set ceilings on prices and not set ceilings on labor costs which went to make up those prices.

FARMERS:

Asked to Produce

Secretary of Agriculture Wickard had called on the American farmer not only to produce more food to satisfy expanding demands in the United States, but also to provide enough for England to defeat Hitler.

He was urging farm workers to seek deferment from military service to that end, even if they had to appeal from the rulings of local draft boards.

He disclosed that officials of this country had promised to send the British a vast supply of food by the end of next June that would require a billion out of the six billions required for lease-lend aid in the next bill to go before congress.

He said that while it was true that farm prices showed big percentage increases, that was because for so long farm prices had been bargain prices.

He also pointed out that increases in retail food prices were not altogether to be blamed on farm increases.

RUSSIANS: Backs to Wall

Discounting any resistance the Russians might have put up in the center, and disregarding the Red estimates of the cost of German attacks, it had become evident that the Nazis, finally, were gaining two of their three major objectives—Kiev and Leningrad—and that the Red forces had their backs to the wall.

The Kiev disaster in the south was finally admitted by Moscow, which had issued statements declaring the leadership of Marshal Budenny to have been "incompetent." In the south the Russians had faced a heterogeneous opposition, troops from Hungary, Rumania and Italy joining with the Nazi blitzkriegers in the early battle.

There were many who believed, however, that the Russian severe reverses in the south did not occur until the Nazis removed some of their best troops from the central sector, giving back in that area, and bolstering up their drives in the Ukraine and on the north.

At Leningrad the Germans had reached the point of claiming that street-fighting had started, while the Finns, by no means admitting themselves out of the battle, told of the capture of an important power source for the Soviet's second city.

Actual support of the Russian war effort by members of the Royal Air force finally had been reported, however, the R.A.F. fighters having managed to get their planes to the Russian front at an unannounced point, and going into action, reporting the destruction of seven Messerschmitts with the loss of only one British fighter plane.

This was the first actual fighting force placed at the Russian assistance since the start of the German invasion about 100 days previously.

WINDSORS: Visiting U. S.

On the way to Canada to see his 4,000-acre ranch he hadn't visited in 14 years was the duke of Windsor, former king of England, and his American wife, the former Wallis Warfield of Baltimore.

They came over from the Bahamas in a specially chartered airliner, and spent the first night at Miami, and then had gone to Washington to lunch with the President, and enjoy the hospitality of the capital, and 212 personal bodyguards while in Washington.

Their itinerary included Chicago, Alberta, back to New York, and

On his trip to the United States, the duke of Windsor visits the Pan-American Airways base near Miami, Fla., where a group of students of the R.A.F. get practical training. Here he examines a plane propeller in one of the shops at the base. With him is W. Overton Snyder, eastern division manager of Pan-American.

thence to Baltimore, the duchess' former home, and thence to York, Harrisburg and Pittsburgh, before returning to the Bahamas.

HURRICANE:

Season Here

The season of tropical storms arrived with a bang, a heavy storm striking Houston, Texas, head on, just three days after the equinox.

Millions of dollars' damage was done—the weather bureau, having charted many hurricanes correctly, making a mistake on this one, and informing the Texas metropolis of half a million souls that it was safe just 24 hours before the storm hit it right in the center.

SHIPS FREED:

Strikers Back Down

Strikers among the seamen of the A. F. of L. "Seafarers Union" had called membership meetings to discuss the "sensible thing to do" with regard to 25 strike-bound ships.

The immediate action was to free three of them at once. Also the unions voted to accept governmental mediation with regard to the rest. The government had taken possession of three other ships and had sent them to sea with Maritime Commission crews.

SCHENCK: Entertainer

The great movie probe in Washington took an amusing turn when Nicholas Schenck, MGM president, was called to the stand for two days of questioning, kept the spectators in stitches, and confused many of his inquisitors by his answers.

Schenck, maintaining that there was no "eight-company" trust in Hollywood, admitted several instances of family ties between rival companies—and then, just when the attorneys thought they had him—he blandly said that was just the trouble—that members of these families wouldn't do business with each other.

The film magnates had maintained that there was no "get into war" propaganda, but that pictures were made strictly with entertainment value in mind, and in accordance with the feelings of the majority of the nation about the dictators and aggressions.

The committee had tried to show that the big companies could assure the financial success of a picture, whatever its entertainment value might be, and that the entertaining picture brought in by an outsider could not succeed if the big companies didn't want it to.

This Schenck flatly denied. He said: "I might wish it were true—but it isn't."

JAPAN:

Watching Reds

What Nippon finally would decide to do about the far eastern situation would finally be decided by the position of the Russo-German war after winter sets in, had been the view expressed by observers in India.

They had held that if Russia was to continue her defense and if there was nothing resembling a wholesale collapse, then the Japanese are not likely to risk an assault on Vladivostok.

The Japanese imperialists were pictured as bluffing, watching and waiting from week to week to see which way the war car would jump on the Russian front.

Japan already had been pictured as embarrassed no end by the lack of credit, and frightened at the prospect of a complete shut down on vital raw materials such as rubber and oil.

Also Japan, it had been held, was realizing that the British were growing stronger and stronger in the Pacific, that the United States was turning a stern face in that direction, both of these making Nippon's position more precarious.

ARGENTINE:

Cracks Down

Argentina, following a long period of "cracking down" on Nazi infiltration, moved still more strongly in occupying all military airports of the country with regular detachments of army troops.

The congress was investigating Nazi activities in the country and it had been the feeling that the troop occupation might have been the result of revelations of a Nazi plot.

A lieutenant-colonel, a captain and a lieutenant, all in the army air corps, were arrested summarily, and the committee conducting the investigation admitted that they were held because of their alleged involvement in a gigantic air plot.

An attack by the German press on Argentina, it was believed, hastened the drastic action.

MISCELLANY:

Washington—Thousands of Americans have been stocking up so heavily on liquor that the new excises won't touch them for months to come, it was learned.

New Smyrna Beach, Fla.—Forteen survivors of the burned British freighter Ararak made their way ashore, beating a storm—with an 11-year-old girl giving the men courage by calmly reading a book in the lifeboat as they battled the waves.

Washington—Cigarette factories got cheering news when they heard that priorities won't rob them of cigarette paper. During the last war most of such paper was imported from France. Now it's made of flax straw from American farms.

FIRST-AID to the AILING HOUSE

Heat Pipe Underground QUESTION: My property consists of two parts, front and rear. Oil burner has to furnish heat for the two. Heating plant is in front and connected to rear by two pipes, two inches in diameter. The pipes are sunk 3 1/2 feet deep and run 24 feet to the rear. These pipes were insulated with plain asbestos covering when they were laid four years ago. I was told if I insulated the underground pipe correctly there would be less oil consumption. How can I do this correctly?

Answer: Ordinary asbestos pipe covering should not be used for underground work unless it is placed in a waterproof box, or covered with a heavy asphalt-saturated felt, over which a heavy coat of liquid tar or asphalt is applied. Most of the well-known manufacturers of insulating pipe covering make one that is suitable for underground work. Your local heating contractor should be able to get information for you on this type of covering.

Cold House QUESTION: My six-room house is heated with warm air. I get no heat in the upstairs rooms; can barely feel heat coming out of the register with my hand. Other rooms are no better. Furnace is in good condition, and I always run a good fire. What is wrong?

Answer: Warm air cannot flow into a room unless the cool air ahead of it is permitted to escape. There should be means by which cool air from the rooms can get back to the furnace for re-heating. Cool air intake of the furnace jacket should be connected to a large register in the floor of the downstairs hall, or some other central location, so that the furnace is supplied with air from the house instead of cold outdoor air. Any good heating contractor can do what is necessary. There should be at least an inch of space under all inside doors through which room air can flow out and back to the furnace.

Damp Walls QUESTION: My sun-porch was built last summer with bricks on cinder block and plastered inside. It was finished with wallpaper. These walls are always wet. Can you help me out?

Answer: The moisture on the walls is from condensation. If you will put your hands on those walls you will find that they are very cold, compared to the inside walls of the sun porch. Condensation takes place when the damp house air is cooled by contact with them. The only remedy is to cover the walls with something that will not be cold; insulating board, for example, or plaster on lath on furring strips. Condensation will continue as long as those walls remain cold.

Noisy Oil Burner QUESTION: How can I lessen the noise made by my oil burner? The cellar floor is concrete.

Answer: Your first move should be to have the burner examined by the people who installed it to locate the cause of the noise, which may be worn and loose parts, or something that is set in vibration when the burner is in action. Rubber or cork supports under the burner may reduce the noise. In some cases stiff insulating board on the cellar ceiling will absorb the sound. But this can be determined only when you have learned where the noise originates.

Cold Rooms QUESTION: Last summer I replaced my furnace with a larger one, but a large hall and an upstairs room are still cold. Heat begins to come when we open the living-room door downstairs. What can you suggest?

Answer: It may be that the cold air return to the furnace is in the living-room, and does not act when the living-room door is closed. You should have the installation inspected by the company that put in the furnace, for it is evident that something is wrong with the layout of the piping. If the company cannot figure out what is wrong get someone who is more expert.

Sticking Zipper QUESTION: The zippers on my arctic stick so badly that I can hardly move them. Is there any way to loosen them up so that they will run easily? S.O.S!

Answer: You can loosen up those zippers with graphite. I rubbed powdered graphite on mine, and now they work almost with one finger. If you have no graphite, rub the zippers with the lead of a soft pencil.

Dust-Cloth QUESTION: How can I make a dustless dust-cloth?

Answer: Soak flannel or thick flannel in a mixture of 2 parts paraffine oil and 1 part turpentine; wring out, and hang up to dry.

AROUND THE HOUSE

Sliced apples browned in bacon fat, slightly sweetened and spiced make a delicious topping for a browned slice of ham.

A serve yourself center piece for the table is a time saver. Gaily decorate a large platter of cold meat, salads and hard cooked eggs, with relishes, buttered bread slices and dabs of jelly or jam.

Pongee must be dry when ironed. It will spot and streak if ironed when damp.

Put a drop or two of oil or some soap on those squeaky door hinges.

Half a teaspoonful of soda added to boiling frosting will keep it from being runny.

To get the best service from felt hats, brush them frequently with a soft brush (not a stiff whisk broom) with the grain of the felt.

If your family likes variety, add a little spice to your picnests. A quarter teaspoon each of cinnamon and cloves will be enough for each 1 1/2 cups of flour. It is very good with fresh fruit or berry pies.

Lights of New York

by L. L. STEVENSON

Despite the number of times I've seen it, to me, the Battery, down at the foot of Manhattan, is still New York's best free show. For one thing, there is the setting. Looking down the bay to the left is the East river ending its short journey from Long Island sound. To the right, the Hudson, having flowed from far upstate, reaches the bay. Beyond the East river is the busy Brooklyn water front. Beyond the Hudson is the Jersey shore with huge oil refineries sending skyward heavy clouds of black smoke. In the immediate foreground are three small bodies of land, Governors' island, headquarters of the second corps area of the army; Ellis island with its red brick buildings familiar to thousands of immigrants and Bedloe's island on which stands the Statue of Liberty. Five miles in the distance, is Staten island. Beyond that, the lower bay and then the Atlantic ocean.

The setting of course does not change. Yet what goes on at the Battery does change with each passing hour. In fact, it is never the same. It is like a motion picture film with neither beginning nor end. The life and action are continuous. Tugs push barges here and there, sometimes their cargoes are merely sand or bricks, sometimes bawling cattle and then again freight cars; and it still seems queer to me to see freight cars sailing about the bay. At this season there are picnic barges and that trim white hospital ship goes up and down the bay. There are excursion boats. Sound boats and river boats. Trim yachts may have as companions grotesque derricks and grain elevators. In former days, there were great liners putting majestically out to sea or just as majestically coming into port. But now there is war.

Warships bound for or from the Brooklyn navy yard may also be seen along with many other government craft. The funny little ferry that plies between Governors' island and the mainland. The somewhat somber Ellis island ferry. Clumsy-looking cutters that take customs men, public health officers and newspaper men out to meet ships. Lean government patrol boats that slip in and out silently and the crews of which are singularly uncommunicative. The cutters and the patrol boats as well as various other government craft, tie up in the shadow of the Barge office, that big granite building, which, seen from the deck of an incoming ship, looks very much like an oversized firehouse.

At the Battery is a small basin where the boatmen may tie up their craft. In the summer, many tenement youngsters use it as a swimming pool though the water is polluted. The boat basin is really a monument. It was built by the city and turned over to the boatmen in recognition of their heroic conduct July 30, 1871, when the State island ferry, the Westfield, blew up at her pier. The boatmen saved many lives. The boatmen of today carry on the tradition. Those who fall into the bay from the sea wall or who would seek a remedy for their troubles by leaping, usually are rescued by men of the Battery.

Battery park also interests me. Near the tall flagstaff is a tablet which marks the spot where the famous Liberty pole stood in the Revolution. When the British evacuated the city in 1783, they left their flag flying from the Liberty pole. Furthermore they greased it thinking it couldn't be climbed. An American soldier, David Van Arsdale, climbed the pole, took down the British emblem and hoisted Old Glory. From that day to this at dawn on Evacuation day, November 25, some Van Arsdale descendant has raised the United States flag to the top of the staff.

White ties and tails seem to be on their way to join the walking stick in oblivion. At least, the present trend is away from formality. A dinner jacket is now acceptable in many places where it was barred in the past. Invitations state either white or black tie if the affair is formal. Many a man goes directly from business to a dinner party and doesn't feel out of place because there are so many others who are not formally dressed. Also, soft collars and soft-bosomed shirts are worn with tuxedos. So far as I can learn, there are no mourners for the formal days of the past.

There are still places that insist on formal attire in the evening during the winter months. It's different in summer, however. The bars are let down at many smart places.

What to Do In Cases of Hammer Toe

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

ONE of the deformities that military physicians meet in examining recruits is what is called hammer toe. Usually the second toe, instead of lying flat alongside the other toes, has a hump like a buffalo due to the growing together of the ends of two of the toe bones forming a joint. The cause of this humping of the toes is wearing of shoes that are too short.

TODAY'S HEALTH COLUMN

It is true that some children are born with one or more hammer toes; in fact, hammer toe seems to run in some families. However, most cases, as seen in adults, are due to wearing short shoes or shoes with high heels that push toes into the toe of the shoe. As there is not room for all the toes the second toe gets pushed up and being kept in that position for hours at a time the ligaments holding the two bones together become hardened and finally become stiff or rigid.

Longer, Wider Shoes Indicated.

As this condition of hammer toe comes on gradually there is no reason why it cannot be prevented if treatment is given before the joint becomes rigid. The wearing of longer and wider shoes, and during the night having the toe straightened out and splinted with a wooden splint or wooden tongue depressor, will prevent hammer toe. However, while most of these patients are quite willing to splint the toe at night they are quite unwilling to wear the necessary wide large shoes during the day, so that the condition goes on to rigidity and a hammer toe results.

During the last war if a recruit were willing to undergo operation this second toe was removed. This was later found to be the wrong treatment, as the upper end of the big toe was pushed toward the outer side of the foot, taking the place made vacant by removal of the second toe and the lower end swung to the inner side, a bunion at the inner side of the big toe occurred.

The treatment in use since the last war is to remove the ends of the two bones forming the hard joint, lay them flat end to end, and let them grow together. The toe can thus lie always flat in its proper place.

Breathlessness Cause Of Unnecessary Alarm

WHILE it is agreed that the first sign of failing heart is shortness of breath—getting out of breath easily—it should not be forgotten that a blocked nose can cause shortness of breath as can also the eating of too much acid food which requires so much oxygen to burn it.

Heart disease can be present, and no real shortness of breath present, because the heart, despite the disease, is still so strong (compensated, as it is called) that it can pump the necessary blood.

However, when shortness of breath is present and tests—exercise, fluoroscope (X-rays) and the electrocardiogram—show that the heart is beginning to fail, there is one method of treatment that is used throughout the entire world. That method is rest.

If you take your pulse rate lying down, it may be 70, if sitting down 72, if standing 76, if walking slowly 84, if walking rapidly 96, right up to 144 or 160 if running or working hard physically. It is not hard to understand, therefore, that a heart that has only to beat 70 times a minute to pump all the blood needed when you are lying down, will have to do much more work when you stand, walk or run.

When the heart begins to fail, complete rest, not working part of the time, is absolutely necessary to prevent its losing its reserve power. Thus in speaking of the failing heart, Dr. Samuel E. Levine, Boston, in the Journal of the American Medical Association, says it often proves to be a waste of time to compromise with half measures or to send the patient away for a vacation which is likely to be both expensive and worthless. Bed rest is the best treatment for shortness of breath due to a failing heart.

QUESTION BOX

Q.—Could enlarged tonsils cause an enlarged heart, and would the removal of the tonsils result in the heart returning to normal?

A.—Tonsils are not removed now unless for definite reasons such as attacks of tonsillitis or rheumatism (often followed by a heart condition). If tonsils are infected they should be removed. I suggest that you get the opinion of the school physician.

Kathleen Maguire is peeved. Her mother is giving a dinner for the Newsums, whose son Laird is engaged to Shirley, her sister. Mrs. Newsum, however, would like him to marry Connie Mays, daughter of the town's richest

"Father's here," Kathleen whispered to her mother. "And—hang on for dear life—he brought a guest." Laura looked as if she were going to faint, so Kathleen added hastily, "But it's not so bad as it sounds. Alec isn't coming to dinner. He got caught with a flat tire or something and can't make it."

Laura did not say a word. But it seemed to Kathleen that for a moment her mother's face looked stricken. It was too bad of Alec. Kathleen's hands itched to get at her brother. She hadn't been sure that Laura knew how he was wasting his time. But mothers have an instinct. At least Laura had.

"Hello, everybody."
Mike stood on the threshold. He had changed into the white linen suit Laura had laid out for him and he looked as exuberant as a cowboy at his first rodeo. Kathleen was torn between resentment and admiration at the way he captured the citadel without even trying. No one could resist Mike's charm when it was hitting on all twelve cylinders.

He flattered Belle Newsum until her pudgy face lost its sour look. He gave Laura a grin that chased the little pucker which Alec had left between her eyes. He told Tom that business was undoubtedly on the upswing and for the first time Tom's thin brown face lost its strained grimace. Even Mary Etta's bristles relaxed when Mike assured her that she looked more like a black and white etching than ever.

He slipped his arm around Shirley while he talked to Laird, and Shirley leaned against her father gratefully as if she needed steadying. He complimented Blake Newsum on being one of the few men who had known when to come in out of the economic rain. Furious as she was with him, Kathleen had to grin at the way Mike simply wound them all up and made them dance to his tune.

"Isn't he priceless?" whispered Laura.
Kathleen nodded helplessly.
Mike regarded her with a cocked eyebrow. He was perfectly well aware of her displeasure. But he also felt entirely equal to it. Kathleen never had been able to nurse a grievance against her father, and he knew it. Nevertheless she did not return the debonair grin with which he approached her.

"Still sore, Kits?"
She looked away because it was difficult to glower when Mike didn't want you to.
"Yes," she said shortly.
He chuckled. "He's a little bit of all right, that Graham."

"Says you!" snapped Kathleen, glaring across the room where Tom and Ritchie were enthusiastically condemning any big city as the most awful place on earth to live, while Mary Etta looked scornful.
"Personally," she observed, "I'd rather die of frazzled nerves from traffic jams than rust to death in a poky country town."

"Yes," said Tom, "you would. You and nine hundred thousand other speed and jazz maniacs."
Ritchie glanced from one to the other. "I could bear it if I never heard another street car," he admitted. "But then I just happen to prefer crickets to night club crooners. And I'm fed up with being elbowed. I'd even like to watch the moon rise once without being told by some flat-footed policeman to step on it."

And then Hulda announced that dinner was served. And Mike presented his arm to Mrs. Newsum with a flourish that brought a pleased frown to her pursed mouth. Kathleen realized that she was practically forced on Ritchie Graham for a dinner partner. He had until then ignored her. And even after they were seated at the table he continued his heated argument with Mary Etta. Kathleen had been prepared to squelch him the moment he opened his mouth. But it was a little unsettling when he appeared to have forgotten her existence.

She talked elaborately to Blake Newsum and fumed inwardly and wished she were less naggingly aware of the arrogant black head of the man to her left. It didn't help her temper any that the rest obviously found him attractive. Even Laura smiled when he told about being ordered to move on by a dumb traffic cop the day he stopped in St. Louis to view the Sphinx on the top of the civil courts building which he had driven four hundred miles to see.

"I tell you," he insisted, "the big city is death to individuality or initiative. Kids grow up warned to keep off the grass, forbidden to touch the flowers in the park, herded like cattle in pens on the way to the slaughterhouse. And at twenty or younger they develop into first class gangsters and thugs. My God, how can they help it?"

"Sixteen years ago," said Mike, "I told the editor of a Chicago newspaper he could take his old job and jump into the lake with it because I was done with being pulled about like a monkey on a chain."
Ritchie gave him a frankly envious glance. "Do you know the last

INSTALLMENT FIVE—The Story So Far

man. Kathleen had been kissed by a young stranger who fixed a flat tire for her. He is a newspaper man out of a job. Her father is a happy-go-lucky editor and mayor of Covington. Tom, her brother, and his wife, Mary Etta, newspaper assignment I had? The one that made me finally decide to cut all holds. They wanted me, me as had thought I was a red-blooded, he-man's reporter, to go out to a society horse show and report on the sort of riding breeches the local debutantes were wearing. Riding breeches! I ask you. Especially those belonging to the knock-kneed daughter of the local beer baron. He spends a million a year advertising. Get the picture? I wrote up the damned show. And I put in the beer baron's daughter, knock-knees and all. And I slipped it by the city editor's desk and got it printed just the way I wrote it. I called her the Pretzel-legged Princess of Suda. And then I jumped town before the earthquake."

Mike roared. It was exactly the sort of thing he might have done. Mike's laughter was always contagious. Everybody shared in his mirth. Everybody but Kathleen. She surveyed the young man beside her with disdainful eyes that were as red-brown as her rebellious curls.

"And so now you're touring the wide open spaces where a man can and the Newsums arrive. Another brother, Alec, out of a job because of the depression, phones he won't come. Then, to cap the climax, the father brings the stranger, Ritchie Graham to the dinner. Kathleen is annoyed.

and something new in the curve of her mouth. Something shy and uncertain of itself. Laura's heart gave an odd knock. And she leaned a little forward for a better view of the young man whom Mike had brought to dinner.

At first Laura had been inclined to think him too handsome, if anything. It had not been her experience that beauty in the male is always an asset. But on closer inspection she decided that Ritchie Graham did not take his good looks very seriously. He had a trick of drawing down the corners of his wide mouth in a derisive grin which no man ever acquired from practice before a mirror. She suspected he was vain of his principles than of his disturbing gray eyes. But they were disturbing. Laura glanced again at Kathleen. It came to the mother with a pang that her baby was growing up.

"It's only that she's so vulnerable," Laura excused herself. Such an intense, inflammable, impulsive young thing. So completely at the mercy of her emotions.

"You work, don't you, Mrs. Maguire?"
Laura came to herself with a start. Belle Newsum had flung the question at Mary Etta with a supercilious smile. Laura suppressed a groan. It was like Belle Newsum to discover something to be hoity toity about. Tom went a little white. But Mary Etta accepted the challenge with enthusiasm. She always carried a chip on her shoulder and welcomed any opportunity to defend it.

"Yes, Mrs. Newsum," she said in her clear, high-strung voice, "I'm one of these working wives you hear so much about. My mother thought a woman's place was in the home. So she bore five children and washed and cooked and scrubbed and died at thirty-one because she was too tired to go on living. And my father married again, a young woman who hated us kids. So he let her push us out to take care of ourselves as soon as possible. I made up my mind then I'd never be submerged by any man."

Tom stared fixedly at his plate.
"Of course," bridled Mrs. Newsum, "I've always said a man has no right to a wife he cannot afford."
She looked at Laird, who was gazing at Shirley. But Shirley's lovely reserved face did not change in expression.

Tom was looking at Mary Etta almost as if he hated her. Good heavens, thought Laura with a constricted heart, they mustn't say things like that to each other. Words leave wounds. Wounds which Laura feared neither of them would ever get over.

"I can understand a woman demanding more out of life than just a share in some man's possible failure," put in Laird suddenly. He smiled wryly. "I guess we men have a crust to expect women to hang around the edges of things, waiting for a guy who will probably in the end turn out to be just another crumb."

His mother gave him a fond smile. "Darling," she said indulgently, "if you are referring to the fact you haven't as yet made any startling progress toward a future, you must remember how young you are."
Jaird's clean-cut profile sharpened and his blue eyes looked a little haggard. "I'm old enough to hate being wetnursed," he muttered under his breath.

But Shirley heard. She did not lift her eyes. She could, however, see Laird's clenched hand quiver on the edge of the table beside her. It was no news to Shirley that Laird was goaded almost to the breaking point.

"It seems to me," announced Kathleen in dogmatic tones, "that if a woman has any sense she will pick her a desirable husband first and fall in love with him afterward."
Mike sniggered and Kathleen scowled at him.
"Is that how you intend to do it?" inquired Ritchie Graham with an amused laugh.
"Yes," said Kathleen thickly. "If you ask me, it's all phooey, this love racket and letting it make a screaming idiot of you. I'm sure I'd hate being some man's domestic slave. Just for the sake of a few kisses. They always seem to dry up after the honeymoon. Haven't you noticed? And then where are you? Sold! For a job of romance. Only the romance has gone to seed or petered out or something. But you've got to go on slaving for friend husband, because it's a life sentence."
"Not necessarily," remarked Tom dryly, and looked at Mary Etta. "There's always Reno."
Laura felt as if the words had bruised her. But Mary Etta merely shrugged.
"Thank heaven," chuckled Mike, "I couldn't pay for a divorce if Laura wanted one. It's just another one of these newfangled gadgets you'll have to do without, old lady."

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D.
Dean of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for October 5

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.
GOD OUR HEAVENLY FATHER

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 1:26-28; Matthew 6:24-33.
GOLDEN TEXT—Our Father which art in heaven, Hallowed be thy name.—Matthew 6:9.

Without God man has no hope in this world. This is the teaching of Scripture, which is confirmed by experience and admitted by the philosophies of men. "Having no hope and without God in the world," says Paul (Eph. 2:12), and every godless philosophy paints the same dark picture. Says one, "It cannot be doubted that the theistic belief is a comfort to those that hold it and that the loss of it is a very painful loss. We have seen the spring sun shine out of an empty heaven to light up a soulless earth; we have felt with utter loneliness that the Great Companion is dead" (Clifford).

That desolate and despairing conclusion need not be the lot of any man, for we have in God's own Word a clear revelation of Himself as our Creator and our loving Father. Why not accept it?

I. God Our Creator (Gen. 1:26-28).
Both of our Scripture passages tell us much about man, but in doing so they reveal God.

1. How He Made Man (vv. 26, 27). "God created man in his own image" (v. 27). This does not refer to any physical likeness, although it is abundantly evident that man's body is far above the animal level and perfectly adapted to be the dwelling place of the soul and the instrument of its activity; in a physical world. Even the Son of God took upon Himself the body of a man and, in its glorified state, still bears that body in heaven. This means that man's body is worthy of honor and considerate care and use.

The real image of God in man is a moral and spiritual likeness. Man is a moral being, knowing the difference between right and wrong. He has all the characteristics of personality, self-consciousness, intelligence, feeling and will. That image has been marred and defaced by sin, but it is still there. Even in the lowest man or woman it is capable of being reached and transformed by the grace of God.

2. How He Blessed Man (v. 28). He gave man "a help meet for him" (Gen. 2:18); that is, a completely suitable companion and helper. He gave him dominion over the entire earth, and his restless, pioneering spirit still presses toward the complete realization of that promise. He provided for every need of man, not only physical and social, but also spiritual, for we read that He walked with him "in the cool of the day" (Gen. 3:8), until man by his own sin broke that fellowship. God's love toward His creation is shown by His provision for man's complete joy and full usefulness.

II. God Our Heavenly Father (Matt. 6:24-33).
Two things harass the mind and heart of man—anxiety for today and fear for tomorrow. He must have what he and his family needs for today, and it is a constant struggle for most men to meet that need. Then, as though that were not enough, there is always the morrow's new and possibly greater needs. Even those who have all they need today live in dread (and well they may if they do not trust God) that tomorrow or next week or next year they too may be in need. Our text meets both problems, for it tells us

1. Why We Need Not Be Anxious Today (vv. 24-31). The answer is simple—look at the birds. They cannot work, they are not even able to pray, yet God feeds them. Consider the glory of the flowers. Even a king cannot dress in such beauty—God provided it for them. "Are ye not much better than they?" (v. 26).
No bird ever worried because it did not have a meal laid by for tomorrow, and no flower has fretted itself lest its blossom failed to come forth in its accustomed beauty. Why should we be anxious?

Intelligent forethought is good and proper, but anxiety about our daily needs is always dishonoring to God. He is ready and able to meet our daily need.
2. Why We Need Not Fear Tomorrow (vv. 32, 33). "Your heavenly Father knoweth that ye have need" (v. 32). Does not that settle the whole future? It is in God's hands, and even if it were in our hands, what could we do about it? Tomorrow with its joys and sorrows is not yet here, and when it does come God will be here as a loving Father to graciously provide for every moment of it.

What then shall we do? Verse 33 tells us, "Seek ye first the kingdom of God and his righteousness." Give God first place in your life and He will see that all "these things" are added. Simple, isn't it? and blessedly true. Let's trust Him!

NEW WAYS FOR YOUR BAKING DAYS
(See Recipes Below)

HOT BREADS—QUICKLY

Crisp, hot rolls? Cinnamon filled and twisted full of nuts, sugar and raisins? Muffins golden and plump standing high in peaks? Scones spread with jam or jelly? Why, of course, they're yummy, and what's better, they can all be made in a jiffy. With the cooler weather setting in, you homemakers can return the hot breads and their baking into your schedules.

Or is there a bake sale or a bazaar included in the fall and winter schedule of your church or club activities? Nothing will fill the bill quite so nicely as a few trays of freshly baked biscuits, rolls, and bread.

Although cakes and pies can be baked at home by individual members, these hot breads can be made, oh, so quickly right in the church kitchen because they need only a few supplies and a few minutes to bake. They'll give your display a more complete array of baked goods and will also be a good substantial contrast to the fancier displays. To make things easy, serve them in pans (if you can spare them) to save time in making displays.

If you're planning a sale of bakery goods, have one section of a table set aside for selling individual pieces of cakes, pie, cookies, or a roll. When people realize how delicious a mouthful is, they can hardly resist buying a bagful.

As a good starter, consider the possibilities of the humble baking-powder biscuit.

Baking Powder Biscuits.

(Makes 12 biscuits)

2 cups flour
2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons butter or shortening
Milk to mix
Sift the flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, then cut in shortening. Add milk and mix just enough to hold together in large flakes. Pat to 1/4 of an inch thickness on a floured board and cut with a biscuit cutter. Bake in a hot oven (450 degrees) 12 to 15 minutes.

*Butterscotch Rolls.

Make baking-powder biscuits as given in the recipe above and pat on floured board. Brush with melted butter, sprinkle generously with brown sugar and cinnamon. Roll as for jelly roll and cut in 1/2-inch pieces. Put 1/2 teaspoon of butter and 1 teaspoon of brown sugar in each muffin pan and lay the pieces of rolled dough on top of them. Bake 20 to 25 minutes in a hot oven (400 degrees.)

Pecan Rolls.

Make as for butterscotch rolls, except add chopped pecans before rolling as jelly roll. Place broken pecan nutmeats in muffin tins with butter and sugar before putting in rolled dough. Bake in a hot oven about 20 minutes.

Plain Muffins.

(Makes 1 dozen)

2 cups sifted flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
3/4 cup sugar
1 egg, beaten
3/4 cup milk
4 tablespoons melted shortening

Mix the dry ingredients. Add the milk to the egg and mix with the dry ingredients.

To this add the shortening. Stir till just mixed. Fill greased muffin tins quickly with two tablespoons to each pan. Bake in a hot oven (425 degrees) for 25 minutes.

The muffin recipe may also be baked in a square pan and topped with the following: 2 tablespoons sugar rubbed with 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 2 tablespoons flour and 2 tablespoons butter. Rub until crumbled in appearance and sprinkle over the top of batter before baking.

Do your meals need toning up or do you want to make your bakery goods sale a smash hit? Either way, these scones will do the trick:

Holiday Fruit Scones.

(Makes 2 dozen scones)

2 cups flour
2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
4 tablespoons butter or shortening
1 1/2 teaspoons grated orange rind
1/2 cup finely cut, seedless raisins
2 eggs
1/2 cup light cream.

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, salt, sugar, and sift again. Cut in shortening, add orange rind and raisins. Reserve about 1/2 of one egg white for glaze. Beat remaining eggs well, add cream, and then add to flour mixture. Stir the whole mixture vigorously until it forms a soft dough and follows the spoon around the bowl. Turn out immediately on a floured board and knead 30 seconds. Roll 1/2 inch thick and cut in small triangles. Place on ungreased baking sheet. Brush tops lightly with reserved egg white, slightly beaten, sprinkle with additional sugar. Bake in a hot oven (450 degrees) 10 minutes or until browned. Serve with jam or jelly.

This bread was inspired by corn on the cob, and pleasantly simulates that favorite vegetable because of the use of cornmeal in the recipe:

Corn Sticks or Muffins.

(Makes 12)

1 1/2 cups sifted flour
2 1/4 teaspoons baking powder
3/4 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons sugar
3/4 cup cornmeal
2 eggs, well beaten
1 cup milk
4 tablespoons melted butter or shortening

Mix flour, baking powder, salt, sugar, and sift. Add corn meal and mix well. Combine eggs, milk, shortening; add to flour mixture, beating only enough to dampen all flour. Bake in greased muffin pans or corn-shaped pans in hot oven (425 degrees) 25 minutes.

*Oranges in Syrup.

(For 6 people)

Peel 6 oranges, remove all skin and membrane with knife, but leave orange whole. Make a syrup by boiling the following ingredients 10 minutes: 1 cup orange juice, 1/2 cup pineapple juice, 1/2 cup lemon juice, 1 cup sugar. Place oranges in this, boil for 1 minute. Remove to serving dish. Chill thoroughly, sprinkle with coconut before serving.

Coal Was Used in the Bronze Age

The popular legend is that coal was discovered by Joseph of Arimathea who, near Glastonbury in A. D. 67, found a black lump and took it to the monastery where it was thought to be a stone and thrown on the fire. It became known as "seacoles," and was first used generally as fuel in 1228. It is now established that coal was used in Great Britain much earlier. Sir Cyril Fox, director of the National Museum of Wales, while excavating in the neighborhood of Bridgend, England, came across two cairns, both of the Bronze age. One had buried in it two adults and a child, and fragments of coal found with each set of remains show that coal was used in these cremation burials. It was also established that the burials took place about 1600 B. C.

'Trials by Touch'

As late as the Seventeenth century, America held "trials by touch," in which the defendant in a murder case was made to touch the corpse to see if it would give some indication that he was the guilty person, says Collier's. In one such trial in Virginia in 1663, several members of a family had to touch the body of a former Negro servant. But they were acquitted because Uncle Joe "gave no sign."

An Important Statement About Rubber in National Defense

AND WHAT YOU AS A CAR OWNER AND A LOYAL AMERICAN CAN DO ABOUT IT

Among the strategic raw materials so vital to national defense, rubber is one of the most indispensable.

Airplanes, scout cars, tanks and trucks — as well as thousands of vehicles necessary for transportation in defense industries — require tires, tubes, and hundreds of other products made from rubber.

And while no other nation in the world has such vast natural resources as the United States, all of our rubber must be imported across thousands of miles of ocean.

Map showing routes that rubber travels to the U.S.

With world conditions as they are today, we must face the growing possibility that this country may be cut off from its principal sources of rubber supply.

Realizing the dangers of a single source of supply, Harvey S. Firestone began years ago the development of a huge million-acre tract of land in Liberia for growing rubber. Today, an ever-increasing amount of highest-quality rubber is being shipped to Firestone from these plantations.

At present, this country has on hand or in transit only enough crude rubber and finished products to last 13 months at present rate of consumption.

Comparison of rubber supply on hand and amount needed for one year at present rate of consumption.

Every month part of the rubber imported is used by the government to build up a reserve. The remainder is allotted to the rubber companies who must FIRST manufacture products needed for defense. They then use the rest to make the thousands of rubber products needed by automobile and other manufacturers and by the public.

New Firestone synthetic rubber factory

Fully aware of these serious conditions, Firestone has taken many steps to conserve and increase America's supply of rubber. In cooperation with the government, Firestone is now building another factory for the manufacture of synthetic rubber. This will greatly increase present capacity.

As a further step in conserving rubber, Firestone scientists and engineers recently developed the new wear-resisting Vitamic rubber compound, which enables car owners to get much greater mileage from their tires and thus save more rubber.

HOW EVERY CAR OWNER CAN HELP CONSERVE RUBBER

Today's conditions stand as a challenge to the loyalty and patriotism of American motorists. Here are a few common-sense rules of tire care which will save millions of pounds of rubber annually for your country — and save money for you.

UNDERINFLATED TIRES WASTE RUBBER

Look at this chart — if a tire with 30 pounds of recommended air pressure is run at 25 pounds, 32% of normal mileage is sacrificed! Save money and save rubber by having your tires checked every week.

SPEED WASTES RUBBER

Chart shows excessive speed is the greatest thief of tire mileage. An increase in speed of 50% may mean a 50% increase in the cost of operating your car.

QUICK STARTS AND SUDDEN STOPS ARE COSTLY

In quick getaways, wheels spin against the pavement, wasting rubber. Sudden stops cause your wheels to slide. Save rubber by starting and stopping slowly.

CHECK WHEEL ALIGNMENT AND HAVE BRAKES BALANCED

A wheel only 1/2-inch out of line is dragged sideways 87 feet per mile, scraping off tread rubber. Unbalanced brakes are equally wasteful of tire mileage. Save rubber by having your wheel alignment and brakes checked regularly.

CHANGE TIRES FROM WHEEL TO WHEEL EVERY 5,000 MILES

The diagram at the right shows how the tires on your car should be changed from one wheel to another every 5,000 miles. This plan of inter-changing tires saves rubber by eliminating uneven tire wear.

SAVES YOUR TIRES... SAVES YOUR CAR SAVES YOUR MONEY!

In every community there is a Firestone Dealer or Store that will gladly perform these services without one cent of cost to you.

INSPECT YOUR TIRES AND CHECK THEM FOR CORRECT INFLATION

Your tires will be properly inflated free at any time. Nails, glass or other objects are removed from the tread. Breaks in the tire body are located so that they may be repaired before damage occurs. These simple precautions increase tire mileage.

TEST YOUR BRAKES WITH THE MOST ACCURATE MACHINES

Balanced brakes prolong tire life. Firestone electric brake machines scientifically balance each wheel. Your Firestone Dealer or Store will gladly test your brakes free.

CHECK YOUR WHEEL ALIGNMENT WITH MOST MODERN EQUIPMENT

Pigeon-toed wheels that waste so much rubber and gasoline can be quickly aligned. Your car should be checked regularly for alignment — another free Firestone Service.

INSPECT AND TEST YOUR BATTERY

Your Firestone Dealer or Store will gladly test the battery free upon request. And their efficient equipment will tell the exact condition of each cell so that you may avoid annoying road delays.

TEST YOUR SPARK PLUGS

Unless your spark plugs have full firing power they waste gasoline. Your motor will fire unevenly and cause increased wear on running parts. Have your Firestone Dealer or Store test your plugs every 4,000 miles. There is no charge!

SAVE RUBBER BY RETREADING YOUR SMOOTH, WORN TIRES

If your smooth tire has a safe body, a rugged, tough, long-wearing, non-skid Firestone New-Tread can be applied at amazingly low cost, which will give up to 80% of the mileage built into the original tread. This is one of the best ways to save rubber.

WHEN YOU NEED NEW TIRES... IT'S ALWAYS GOOD JUDGMENT TO BUY THE BEST

One of the most effective ways to save rubber — and at the same time save money and save precious human lives — is to equip your present tires with Firestone Life Protectors, the new-type tubes that out-wear three sets of ordinary tubes.

With Firestone Life Protectors on your car you can drive your present tires safely thousands of extra miles without fear of blowouts, because these tubes make a blowout as harmless as a slow leak. And after your present tires are worn out, replace them with the safest, longest-wearing tires that money can buy — the new Safi-Sured Firestone DeLuxe Champion Tires — the only tires made that are safety-proved on the speedway for your protection on the highway.

You are invited to listen to the Voice of Firestone with Richard Crooks, Margaret Speaks and the Firestone Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of Alfred Wallenstein, Monday evenings, over N. B. C. Red Network

DEBATING
Tawas City High school is organizing a debating team which will take part in the contests sponsored by the Michigan High School Forensic association. All schools in the league participate in a preliminary series of four debates. Those schools which win at least three of these contests are entered in the elimination series which culminates in the State Championship Debate which is held at Ann Arbor.

This school has not had a debating team since 1937, so the members of the team will all be inexperienced. However, we are hoping that ability will make up for the lack of experience.

The first debate on the subject of "Resolved—That every able-bodied male citizen in the United States should be required to have one year of full-time military training before attending the present draft age" will be held about November 7.

BASEBALL

Tawas City Loses
Thriller to Alabaster
On Friday, September 19, Tawas City High school played a baseball game with Alabaster. The game was played in the cold and rain, but both teams played well. Tawas City lost by the close score of 2 to 1.

Peterson and Erickson formed the battery for Alabaster. Peterson allowed five hits, struck out ten, and walked three. Prescott and Marks were the battery for Tawas City. Prescott allowed five hits, struck out ten and walked five.

BASKETBALL
Northeastern "7" League
This year the Tawas City basketball teams will be members of the Northeastern "7" League. The girls' team which wins the championship will this year be given a trophy as well as the boys.

HOT LUNCHEAS
We plan to start serving hot lunches on Monday, October 6. Mrs. Blust and Edward Lemke will prepare and serve the meals. Each student who expects to participate should bring a cup, spoon and soup plate to leave at the kitchen during the year.

The people of Iosco county are fortunate in having an engineer with the qualifications and recommendations of J. N. Sloan.

In all of our investigations we have not found any acts of dishonesty on the part of any member of the Iosco County Road Commission.

This committee offers the following recommendations:
First, that the county employees be paid every second Friday instead of every second Monday as now done.

Second, that in transferring the employees from one class of employment to another, the employees be given sufficient notice of any reduction in rate of pay.

Third, that the Commission dispose of the old equipment and replace it with new or more efficient equipment as soon as possible.

Fourth, that the Road Commission call back without prejudice all former employees who so desire to return to work. However if it becomes necessary to curtail expenses, such men as are laid off be done so according to seniority.

Fifth, we are of the opinion that if the Road Commission would divide the work into two districts the public would be greatly benefited thereby. In order to establish this new system we recommend that two competent general foremen be hired to supervise the work in the two districts, and that these two general foremen working under the orders and the supervision of the county engineer be given complete charge of all employees in their district, and so far as practicable the employees be given employment in the district in which they reside.

Sixth, we recommend that a wage increase of five cents per hour be granted to all employees whose wages are now 35, 40, 45, 50 cents per hour.
