With the Servicemen

Camp Croft, S. C.
Oct. 19, 1941.

Dear Percy:

I wish to thank you for sending me The Tawas Herald which I have been receiving and surely enjoy reading.

We have been having wonderful weather down here the past few weeks. It feels good not to have it so warm for once. The grass is starting to turn but outside of that there is nothing to remind me of fall. It surely reminds me of a nice fall day out in the woods in Michigan.

We have our new class in now so will start school again on Monday. We give them three weeks' instruction in the chassis section and three in the motor section and one week driver training. There's 350 in a class, 250 white and 100 colored, and we have a new class coming in to the Post Motor school about every eight weeks.

We have the largest battalion in the camp, consisting of six companies and 1400 men instead of four companies and 1000 men. They receive their basic training in some other camp and are sent here for specialist training. Here they are trained to be mechanics, truck drivers, engineers, cooks, clerks, telephone, telegraph, radio, buglers and intelligence operators.

I am an instructor in the Post Motor school and platoon sergeant in charge of the Second Platoon Co. A 27th, which consists of 54 men.

As it is getting near chow time I better close and thank you again for The Tawas Herald.

Sincerely
Walter K. Becker.

Emil Cholger Has Record Potato Crop

Three hundred bushels of potatoes per acre is a mark reached by few Michigan farmers. Those few who have succeeded in producing such a crop are located in the state's most favored potato growing sections. Emil Cholger, of Wilber township, notwithstanding the unfavorable season, has just harvested a crop of potatoes which averaged 316 bushels per acre. He had a field of three and one-half acres which produced 1106 bushels of fine potatoes.

EMERGENCY ENLISTMENTS FOR U.S. NAVY

Secretary Knox Points Out Opportunities for Young Men

At the suggestion of Secretary of Navy Knox, The Tawas Herald has been appointed to help the Navy in giving ambitious local young men information about the opportunities the Two-Ocean Navy offers them for technical training and advancement as they serve their country in its emergency.

According to an announcement made public in Washington, a limited number of additional men between the ages of 17 and 50 will be given a chance, by enlistment in the Navy or Naval Reserves to get to the top, with big pay, in jobs which by their aptitude and as a result of examination they show themselves fitted for nearly 50 different trades and vocations. These include such callings as aviation machinist, dental technician, photographer, diesel engineer, radio technician, electrician, welder, storekeeper, and baker. Enlisted men may also qualify for commissions as officers.

Beginning this week, the Navy plans for a limited time to accept new qualified men for training. These men will be sent to one of four naval training stations and have a chance to go to a Navy Trade school even before assignment to a fleet. During this period they will be given regular Navy pay and the Navy's free schooling is valued at hundreds of dollars.

"Never in the history of the United States has there been greater opportunity for loyal young Americans to serve their country and build their futures than right now," said Secretary Knox.

It is possible for a bright young man to increase his pay seven times during his first enlistment and he can earn as much as $126 a month. This monthly figure is actually worth much more when it is remembered that the man has few living expenses and is provided with the finest medical and dental care.

The Annual Guest Day of the Twentieth Century club will be observed next Wednesday afternoon. The meeting will be held at the Tawas City High School auditorium.

Mrs. John E. Siddles, of Flint, Director of Michigan State Federation of Women's clubs, will give the address. A splendid program has been arranged.

The women's clubs of East Tawas and Whittemore and the Rural Study club have been invited to attend. Tea will be served.

BUCK OR DOE MAY BE SHOT FOR CAMP USE

New Law Given Immediate Effect by State Law Makers

This fall for the first time in 20 years the killing of doe deer will be legal in Michigan, as the Legislature in a surprise move on its return from a three-month recess gave immediate effect to an act amending the general game law.

Under the new law each party of four hunters is entitled to take "one deer"—either a buck or doe—for camp use. Regulations for taking deer of either sex by bow and arrow and antlerless deer only in a special season was scheduled for conservation commission approval at a special meeting at Marquette October 21.

Hunting of antlerless deer had been recommended by the conservation department only in a special season, and only in certain areas where loss from starvation is high because herds are too large for the winter food supply.

Troublesome excess deer of the Allegan county herd that grew from 10 does and 11 bucks imported in 1932 to number about 500 head will be harvested this fall in the county's first deer hunting of any consequence since the turn of the century.

Introduced by local organizations for their "aesthetic value," the deer prospered so well in the "oak-grub" lands of Allegan state forest, from which they made nightly forays into farmers' fields. Cereals farms suffered especially heavy damage, and neither fencing nor granting of shooting permits gave relief. By giving immediate effect to the authorizing act when it reconvened after the recess, the Legislature made hunting possible this season.

Under proposed regulations awaiting the official conservation commission O. K., hunting will be limited area of about 20,000 acres in the central part of the county, and will be for deer of either sex in the bow and arrow season November 1-14 and for antlerless deer only in a special gun season December 1-10. During the regular deer season, November 15-20, the area will be closed.

Hunters in the December gun season will be limited to 500, and hunters' application to the conservation department, made on blanks obtainable at conservation department district headquarters, must be sent to Lansing with the license fee and post-marked not later than October 31. If more than 500 apply, the lucky ones will be chosen by lottery.

Permits to hunt in the December season will be mailed by November 10, and will be voided if the hunter gets his buck during the regular season in some other part of the state.

Principal difference for the small game hunter produced by the immediate effect action is the reduction of the cottontail rabbit limit from five to three in one day and from ten to six in possession. All hunters, however, are now urged to turn over their digests of game laws issued with all licenses and "read the black." Until the Legislature acted, digest regulations printed in red were controlling.

The period for keeping small game has been extended from 10 to 30 days, except in the case of migratory fowl, where the 20-day federal limit applies. Deer and bear may be kept 60 days without permit, and both small and big game may be kept up to six months longer under special conservation department permit in freezer lockers.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Removal of Consulates From Moscow And Torpedoing of U. S. Destroyer Mark Important New Phase of War; Crisis Seen as Japan's Cabinet Falls

EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

When the British and Free French took over mandated Syria from the Vichy French, they also took over the job of providing food for needy Syrians. Here is a typical scene at a food distribution center. Pails, pots and even wash basins are held aloft for offerings.

WAR: New Phase

Evacuation of the foreign consulates from Moscow and the torpedoing of the U. S. S. Destroyer Kearney off Iceland, occurring as they did about the same time, were looked upon as two major events marking the entrance into a new phase of the war.

Immediate reaction to these reports was noticeable in their effect upon the congressional voting on changes being considered for the U. S. neutrality law. Effect of the news was also reflected in the progress of the "aid for Russia" program in which the United States, Great Britain and Russia were engaged.

'On Patrol'

First news of the Kearney incident came from Washington when the navy announced that the destroyer (one of the newest types) had been torpedoed while on patrol duty off the coast of Iceland. This report indicated that the ship was able to proceed under its own power.

President Roosevelt on the same day issued a statement saying that the torpedoing was clearly in the American defense zone.

Removal of the consulates from Moscow took place as the Germans, with their long range guns, began their "all out" campaign against the city.

JAPAN:

A Cabinet Falls

When news came from Tokyo reporting the fall of the Japanese cabinet headed by Prince Fumimaro Konohe it looked like prelude to an Axis move in the Pacific.

Immediate speculation was that the fallen cabinet would be replaced by one more "warlike" and it was indicated that this change meant the collapse of the so-called "peace talks" between Japan and the United States.

President Roosevelt conferred for two hours with top military and state department heads just following the announcement of the cabinet's fall. White House sources did not at once discuss the conference or issue a statement on the new threat in the Far East. Other informed quarters, however, viewed the situation as grave and some forecast that the change in government in Japan came at a logical time for that country to strike a blow against Russia to aid Germany.

RUSSIA:

Soviet Scene

As the German troops admittedly had smashed back the Russian defenders many miles from Smolensk, past Bryansk and past Vyazma, the picture became one in which the Russians admitted setbacks but always spoke of "heavy losses" to the enemy. The Germans issued optimistic statements so fast that the wires could hardly carry them.

Admitting many of the Nazi claims, Russian sources were asserting that "fresh legions" were entering the fight, that the Nazi advances had been made in spite of terrific losses, that the invader had been slowed, even halted and turned back at some points.

The British, including Churchill, took a rather gloomy view of the Russian situation.

As to American aid, President Roosevelt said it was going forward in heavy quantities—but gave no details. Lozovsky said "the Americans are sending us 5,000 planes a month," but that was nearly twice total American production.

While the Russian statements, many of them, sounded somewhat like "whistling to keep up one's courage," still it was certain that the German all-out attack in the center, by Hitler's own statement a battle effort unequalled in the history of warfare, was not meeting the the walkovers of the past.

Warmth in Iceland

Newly arrived U. S. soldiers are shown in their "homes" in Reykjavik, Iceland, warming chilled hands. In co-operation with armed forces of Great Britain these troops are "on the alert" for the protection of what has been defined as a Western Hemisphere defense outpost.

DRY DOCK: News Stories

What had been, by navy censorship, mystery yarns, and very nearly resulted fatally for one newspaper cameraman and a plane pilot, now has become regulation news stories, since the navy reversed itself and permitted the press to have access to British warships in drydock.

At one time or another docks in almost every sizeable port had been occupied, and the Warspite, a big battleship, was at Bremerton, Wash., and a 24,000-ton aircraft carrier was at Philadelphia.

And the skippers of these ships were giving out hair-raising interviews and pictures of combat, and the press cameramen were running wild with feature pictures taken on board.

The change in policy probably had been engineered by the President, who was leaning over backward to preserve press freedom, and a general feeling that this sort of story was the type of thing that would bring home the reality of the war to fun-loving Americans.

NORRIS:

Has His Say

Senator Norris, the only man living and now in the senate who voted against American entry into the last war, spoke his piece about the Russian situation, and had this to say:

If Russia loses to Germany, then Japan will become so bold that we are sure to become embroiled in war with her.

"Not that it would be so bad for us," he said, "in some ways it might be a very good thing."

The senator coolly and dispassionately revealed that navy men had informed him that the Japanese fleet couldn't hold out two weeks against the American navy. He also pointed out that in a bombing war against Japan, Japan was particularly vulnerable, as most of her cities were built largely of wooden structures, which would go like tinder on a windy day, set off by a few incendiaries.

GOODWILL:

Visit to U. S.

The duke and duchess of Windsor, in paying their visit to Baltimore, the duchess' former home town, received an ovation which dwarfed anything seen in the United States surrounding any British visitor.

As a good-will ambassador, former King Edward had no rivals. A crowd estimated at 250,000 persons, one-fourth of Baltimore's defense-swollen population.

The duke played golf, and it took an army of Scotland Yarders, G-men, even diplomatic corps representatives to keep the gallery away.

The duke and duchess went to a reception to which 800 were invited, while an estimated 80,000 gnashed their teeth because they were left out. Finally 1,200 jammed into the club, gaped, cheered, were won by the charm of the couple, and went home happy.

MISCELLANY:

New York: For the second time it had been testified by Nicholas Schenck, movie magnate, that Bi-Off, leader, had demanded a "shakedown" price of $2,000,000 not to wreck the movie industry by strikes.

New York: The B.B.C. radio stated that German losses (not giving the authority) since the start of the central offensive against Moscow, had been 160,000 killed and 450,000 wounded.

London: A second Eagle Squadron of American fliers has been formed and put into immediate action. Most of its work thus far had been in convoy patrols.

Kansas City: The police force was losing men to defense jobs, so police pay raises of $15,000 were given. They still went to defense jobs. A second pay raise of $20,000 was advised.

Berlin: It was announced that 12 more Czechs had been executed in Bohemia-Moravia protectorate for economic sabotage or possessing weapons.

First Army Goes Into 'Action' in South Carolina

For weeks to come, the country made famous by Stonewall Jackson will see thousands of troops engaged in simulated warfare, during maneuvers of the First Army near Camden, S. C. At left, troops of the 13th infantry charge over a haystack. Center: Planes of the "enemy" swoop down with machine guns wide open. Right: First assault boats arrive on "enemy" shore after crossing the Wateree river.

Wind and Rain Divide 'Honors' in Southwest

U. S. Repairs H.M.S. 'Warspite'

A general deck scene from the bow of the British battleship, Warspite, hero-ship of many naval battles of the present war, as she was put in ship-shape at the Bremerton navy yard, near Seattle, Wash., before venturing on the high seas again. 'Baby' Legislators Honored

A delegation from the United Youth for Defense organization presented Sen. Joseph Ball of Minnesota and Rep. William Stratton of Illinois, two of the youngest legislators in congress, with medallions of the organization. Photo shows No. 1 New York debutante, Miss Betty Gordon, pinning a medal on Senator Ball, who is 34. Representative Stratton (shown) is 27.

'Seeing' London

Pretty Kathleen Harriman, daughter of W. Averell Harriman, head of the U. S. lend-lease war mission in Moscow, is being shown the sights of London by a steel-helmeted policeman, who seems to be enjoying the "job" to the utmost.

Plea for Charity

President Roosevelt called upon every American citizen to contribute to his local Community Chest. He is shown as he made his plea for charity to the nation.

Witness Finally Admitted Stronger Force's Influence

Cross-examining a witness on the other side, an attorney tried by every means possible to discredit him.

"You tell us you came to the city in search of work," he said meaningly. "I put to you that there was another, a stronger, motive which brought you all that distance. Isn't that so?"

The witness hesitated a time, then slowly replied, "Well, yes, there was."

"Ah!" exclaimed the barrister triumphantly. "Now tell the court what it was."

"A locomotive," replied the witness blandly.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

BEACONS of SAFETY

TO YOUR Good Health

by DR. NATHAN S. DAVIS, III

COLD 'BUG' MEANS DANGER FOR MANY

"I've got a bug." How often have you heard that said followed usually in a moment or two by a sneeze which, because of your nearness, may cause you to inhale not one "bug," but thousands of poisonous germs.

And as a result before long you have a "bug" and are sneezing. If you are fortunate, it will be as simple as that. But beware. Because of the virulence and type of the infection, through poor physical condition, or because you may be over-tired, have an intestinal upset or other minor ailment that lowers your resistance, you may develop complications, such as sinus trouble, ear-ache, bronchitis, or pneumonia.

The "bug" may even be one that means rheumatic fever, heart trouble, a kidney disease, or "blood poisoning."

The common cold, sore throats, and epidemic influenza are highly contagious. If one member of a family is stricken by one of these upper-respiratory throat infections it usually spreads to all the rest. If a child with one of these "colds" goes to school, hardly one in the classroom will escape.

Some persons will have many colds every year while another will not have more than one or two a year. "Colds" differ from season to season and from year to year. At one time, there will be little fever and the disturbance will be mostly in the nose. Another time, or even at the same time in another year, there will be fever and a sore throat.

"Colds" tend to increase as the sun moves farther south, the days become shorter and the ultra-violet rays fewer in the North Temperate Zone it seems, at least. So, also, there are not as many "colds" when the days become longer and the ultra-violet rays more numerous.

During the fall, winter and spring months, people are indoors most of the time and for food depend more on varieties that have been processed and preserved. So it would seem that a generally lowered resistance due to a combination of causes rather than to any special weakness accounts for the seasonal variation.

How can we avoid catching cold? A diet containing enough vitamins, minerals and proteins and a proper amount of carbohydrates is of great importance in keeping up resistance. Plenty of rest and exercise are also necessary.

It is most important also that we avoid crowds in street cars, stores and movies, in so far as possible, as it lessens the chance for exposure. Above all do not feel that you must visit every sick friend or relative. If you must visit those sick with a cold or if you have to care for them, wear a gauze mask over your nose and mouth, at least, so that you may inhale fewer of the "bugs" which have been scattered about by the patient sneezing and coughing. Sterilize the dishes and eating objects used by the patient and let him use paper handkerchiefs which may be burned. Put the patient in a room alone so the cold won't be spread to others.

If you have the cold, don't leave the house and, if you can, stay in bed. Keep other members of the family, especially the older ones and the children, out of your room.

Don't go out and spread the "cold" to fellow employees, or to those near you in busses, street cars or trains! Don't go to the movies!

A little knowledge is a dangerous thing.

Q.—All the advertisements tell you about alkali in oranges, but when I drink much orange juice, I get an acid feeling. Could it be possible that I am allergic to citrus fruits? J. N.

A.—Orange juice contains an acid which is converted into an alkali in the body. It may stimulate too much acid secretion or it is quite possible that you may be allergic to oranges.

HALLOWEEN TRICKS FOR OCTOBER'S FAVORITE PARTY

(See Recipes Below)

WITCHES' NIGHT OUT

Spooks and fun while the goblins, black cats and ghosts make merry—isn't that an inspiration to have one grand, merry party before the winter sets in? Come, let's plan stew and brew a witches' cauldron boiling and bubbling!

You'll need hearty sandwiches, plentiful and hot since the weather's slightly nipped with frost. Of course you'll have cider and doughnuts because they're wedded together and traditional. To top it off, have a witches' cake, a chocolaty, honest-to-goodness devil's food, moist and crumbly, and perhaps one of those pumpkin shaped molds of ice cream, or at least orange ice, to carry out October's orange and black color scheme.

The party starts as soon as the invitations are sent out. These can be pumpkin, black cat or cauldron shaped, made double with the invitation written on the inside. Send them early so your guests won't make other plans. The more, the merrier.

Twirl some streamers of orange and black crepe paper around the room, bring out the frayed straw hats, checked shirts, and grandmother's costumes from that trunk in the attic. All set? Here we go:

Sandwiches.

These can be made on the buffet or at the table if you have a sandwich toaster. If made in the kitchen use the broiler. Have assorted bread, butter, place cheese on first layer, then another slice of buttered bread, then a slice of ham, and top with a slice of bread. Toast, cut in three, and fasten with toothpicks.

To bewitch your family and guests completely serve them a cake with that agreeable melt-in-your-mouth quality. Measure the ingredients carefully so you'll attain that feathery lightness so essential to a good cake. After the icing is spread on the cake, make decorations with melted chocolate.

Witches' Cake. (Devil's Food)

- 2 cups sifted cake flour
- 2 teaspoons double acting baking powder
- ½ teaspoon soda
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ¾ cup butter or shortening
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 egg yolks, well beaten
- 3 squares unsweetened chocolate, melted
- 1½ cups milk
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 2 egg whites, stiffly beaten

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder, salt and soda. Sift together three times. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar, and cream

LYNN SAYS:

A Halloween party can be a success without the least fuss. First of all, decorations and table settings don't have to be letter perfect, for you can have the most fun in the midst of the basement or barn decorated with sheaves of cornstalk, pumpkin faces, rakes, hoes and goblins made of sheets.

For your table use a large piece of burlap or cotton sacks sewed together and dyed scarlet or gold. A centerpiece of pumpkin with candles inside the hollow or fruit and burnished autumn leaves will bring cheers.

Write fortunes and place them in apples or nuts. Play pin the tail on the cat. Bob for apples. Have target practice with bean shooters. Dance the Virginia Reel and other square dances if your floor can stand it—all amid plenty of black and orange crepe paper. Halloween's the time for all this noisy fun.

together until light. Add egg yolks, beat well, then chocolate and blend well. Add flour alternately with milk and beat well each time. Beat until smooth, add vanilla, and fold in egg whites. Bake in two greased 9-inch layer pans in a moderate (350 degrees) oven. Ice with:

Seven Minute Frosting.

- 2 egg whites
 - 1¼ cups sugar
 - 4 tablespoons water
 - 1½ teaspoons vanilla
 - ¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
- Put egg whites, water, sugar, in top of double boiler and set over boiling water. Beat constantly for seven minutes with rotary beater then remove from fire. Add vanilla and cream of tartar and beat until consistency to spread. Marshmallows (about 12 to 15) cut in pieces may be added.

Speaking of luscious cakes, there's another type of cake which will be just as much of a success either at your Halloween party or cake sale. As different from a chocolate cake as night from day, is this light, tender Silver Moon cake. Its velvety texture is no trick if you use a good shortening and cream it well:

Silver Moon Cake.

- ½ cup shortening
- 1¼ cups granulated sugar
- 2 cups sifted cake flour
- 2½ teaspoons baking powder
- ¾ teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon almond extract
- ¾ cup milk
- 5 egg whites

Cream shortening and sugar until light, then add milk and sifted dry ingredients alternately, beating after each addition until smooth. Fold in stiffly beaten whites and flavoring last. Bake in three layers in a moderate (375 degrees) oven, 25 minutes. Frost with a butter frosting:

Uncooked Butter Icing.

- ¾ cup butter
- 2 cups powdered sugar
- 2 tablespoons hot milk
- 1 teaspoon lemon or almond flavoring

Cream butter and shortening, add milk and blend until smooth. Add flavoring. For variation, add 2½ squares semi-sweet chocolate melted before blending in milk. Flavor chocolate icing with vanilla.

A cake that wins a place in the Hall of Fame is this spice cake without which no cake sale is complete. But it isn't just an ordinary spice cake for it has the subtle flavor of bananas combined with the spices:

Spice Cake.

- (Makes three 9-inch layers)
 - ¾ cup butter
 - 2 cups brown sugar
 - 4 eggs
 - 1 cup milk
 - 1 teaspoon each, cinnamon, nutmeg
 - ½ teaspoon each, allspice, cloves
 - 2½ cups flour
 - 3 teaspoons baking powder
 - 2 bananas, mashed fine
- Cream together the butter and sugar until light and fluffy. Add beaten egg yolks and bananas and blend well. Sift together the dry ingredients twice. Add them alternately with the milk, beating smooth after each addition. Last, fold in egg whites. Bake in three layer pans, in a moderate (350 degrees) oven, for 35 to 40 minutes. Ice between layers with a double recipe of the Seven minute icing or Chocolate flavored uncooked icing. For a fruity spice cake, ½ cup raisins and ½ cup nuts may be added with the flour.

FIRST-AID to the AILING HOUSE

Fuel Saving.

QUESTION: I own a two-family semi-detached brick house, 15 years old. I think I'm using too much oil for heating my home and furnishing hot water. Would the installation of the following result in a saving large enough to compensate for their cost: 1. Vacuum valves on my present heating system? 2. Storm windows? 3. Insulating the floor of my attic, which is not being used? Which type of insulation is preferable—the blown or laid flat?

ANSWER: 1. Replace all defective valves; but it may not be necessary to replace all of them. 2. Tight fitting storm sash will reduce the loss of heat through the windows. 3. Insulating the floor of the attic will also help. A large percentage of heat is lost through the attic. The efficiency of insulation is not altered whether it is "blown" in or "laid" in. All of the above should effect a substantial saving in the consumption of fuel. Another important point is to examine all windows on the outside, and caulk all open joints between window frames and walls. This should be done with a caulking compound, forced in with a caulking gun.

Odor in a Drawer

A friendly correspondent writes of having bought an antique chest of drawers. One of the drawers had so strong an odor of disinfectant that table linen kept in it could not be used. "Now, about twice a year, I put a shallow pan of boiling water in the drawer with a little lavender oil poured into it, close the drawer quickly, and leave it there overnight. For two successive days I bring the water again to a boil with a cover on the saucepan, quickly put it back into the drawer, and again leave it overnight. The drawer is just as sweet-smelling as one could wish, and the linens smell only of lavender."

I am very glad to have that suggestion, and appreciate the thought of my correspondent in sending it to me.

Frosted Basement Wall

QUESTION: The inside of our basement walls, two feet above ground level, are white with frost, and the woodwork resting on them is wet. Everything in the basement is mouldy. There is no concrete floor, and our furnace is not in yet. How can I dry things out?

ANSWER: The dampness is due to the drying out of the concrete walls, and much dampness gets into the basement through the dirt floor. Until your furnace goes in, nothing can be done to dry things out. The moisture will dry out naturally with the coming of warmer weather. I do not think that your woodwork will suffer in the meantime; but a concrete floor in the basement, and the bringing in of heat will be advantageous.

Radiator Air Valves

QUESTION: What are adjustable port air valves? You have mentioned them. Is it necessary to put this type of valve on all radiators, or just those that do not heat quickly?

ANSWER: The ordinary air valve has but one hole or vent through which air in the radiator is exhausted. The adjustable port valve has several different sized holes, and can be set at any point depending upon the speed and the amount of air to be exhausted in a particular radiator. Radiators on the far end of the line should be equipped with valves of this type, set at the largest opening for a quick escape of air from the radiator.

Air Filter

QUESTION: A friend suggested heating my house with filtered hot air, but could not explain what he meant. Where could I get some information about it?

ANSWER: Air filtering units for hot air systems consist of a cabinet containing a blower and filters. The cabinet is attached to the furnace. The blower draws the air from the rooms above and forces it through the filter. The dust in the air is extracted by the filters. You can get the names of manufacturers from the Architects Samples Corporation at 101 Park avenue, New York city.

Hot Air Heat

QUESTION: In my four-story brick building I have a hot air heating system only four years old. I intend putting a blower type oil burner into the furnace. Will an oil burner cause the hot air to smell? Will it cause dirt to go up to the rooms?

ANSWER: Neither the smell of oil nor soot will get up into the rooms, if the sections of the furnace are properly cemented and there are no cracks in any part of the furnace.

Flag of Christian Church

It is an international flag, signifying the internationalism of Christianity, and may be flown by any Christian church anywhere in the world.

For many years church members abroad wanted an emblem to symbolize Christianity. So, in 1897, an American, Charles Carlton Overton, created a flag with a red cross on a deep field of blue, surrounded by a white background. This flag has been adopted by the major Christian faiths.

INSTALLMENT EIGHT—The Story So Far

Kathleen Maguire goes to a dance with Gene Mays, wealthy scamp, whom she does not like, because she is irritated for many reasons. Mrs. Newsum wants Jaidr, her son, to marry Connie Mays, though he is in love and engaged to Shirley, Kathleen's sister, Tom.

Alec had a healthy fear of ridicule because he was awfully good at it himself. He made plenty of sport of other people and he imagined they were always looking for a chance to return the compliment. If he caught a pal in a comic position, he rode the life out of him. He knew that by morning everybody in town would have heard about his new girl friend and he had a good idea of the kind of hurrah he was in for. But he had no comeback. That was what hurt. He would just have to take it and like it. The girl beside him said nothing at all. She sat as far away as possible, huddled in her seat, her eyes fastened on the screen. But the small hands clenched in her lap were white at the knuckles and Alec had an idea she didn't see any more of the picture than he did.

Butch Henderson and Henny Baxter, a couple of pool-room cowboys whom Alec wouldn't have introduced to his sisters, but with whom he sometimes shot a few craps when he had nothing else to do, came in and sat down directly behind him. Occasionally one of them sniggered and the back of Alec's neck felt scalded. They hung around outside the theater when the show was over to hand Alec a discreet raspberry. They weren't even very discreet about it. Had Lou noticed? Alec glanced at her sidewise. Her little pointed face was very white, but she stared straight ahead.

It is an unwritten law in small towns that a fellow asks a girl to have a drink after he's taken her to a movie. But Alec just did not believe he could walk into Henderson's Drug Store and sit at a table with Lou Knight while the village comedians lined up on stools at the soda fountain and exercised their wit at his expense. So he marched her home straight as he could go, trying desperately to make conversation to which she answered only in choked, frightened monosyllables.

It was just midnight of a warm May night. On Main Street a good deal was still stirring. But down near the shops the streets were dimly lighted and almost deserted. It was the longest ten blocks Alec ever traversed. He could have shouted when the ordeal ended at the foot of the steep staircase that went up to Lou's sorry home. Only all at once his elation collapsed. What on earth was he going to say to the poor kid?

"It was nice of you to go out with me," he stammered. She was staring at him with big miserable eyes and her under-lip quivered. He didn't want to lie but it seemed kinder than to let her down flat. "Maybe we'll do it again some day."

His heart sank as he realized that she was crying. Very softly. As shyly as she did everything else.

"You don't have to pretend so as not to hurt my feelings," she said in a little smothered voice. "I know you won't ask me again. Because I've just bored you. Ever since you called this afternoon I've tried to think of things to say. Interesting things so you'd want to come back. But I couldn't. Say anything, I mean."

Alec stared at her dumbly. "You see," whispered Lou Knight, "nothing as lovely as this has ever happened to me before and I guess it never will again."

Alex Maguire swallowed hard but he could not speak. And after a minute she went on, so low he could barely distinguish the words.

"I've always thought you were wonderful. At school I used to watch you although you never noticed me. You were always taking prizes. And every time you did, I felt as proud as if it had happened to me. And you're the only person who ever did anything about Pop when kids treated him mean. I could have kissed the ground you walked on for that. But I never thought you'd ask me for a date. Not really. I used to dream sometimes that you would. Dreams help when you haven't anything else. Only I always knew anybody as marvelous as you could never bother about me."

Alec felt as if someone was pouring salt on a fresh wound in his side. "I'm not marvelous, Lou," he said humbly.

pranks. But Shirley knew that Connie was neither a child nor innocent. But did Jaidr know or care?

It was enough to turn any man's head, the way Connie had been pursuing Jaidr for months. It did not seem possible that she could have gone on and on without a fraction of encouragement on his part. And yet Shirley suspected that where Connie Mays was concerned, anything was possible. It was certain, however, that others by no means gave Jaidr the benefit of the doubt. For weeks Shirley's friends had been going out of their way to be sweet to her. And she knew what that meant. They believed Jaidr intended to jilt her for Connie Mays.

After all, thought Shirley with a bitterness that dismayed her, Jaidr could not be blamed if he yielded to the inevitable. Eugene Mays' son-in-law would not long remain in the ranks of the unemployed. Once married to Connie, Jaidr's economic problems would dissolve like mist in the blaze of his wife's powerful family connections. Of course if Jaidr chose Connie as a way out, he lost Shirley. But did that any longer mean a loss to him?

"What's become of Janet's friend who had such a crush on you earlier in the evening, Shirley?" asked Bob when the music ended.

"What always happens when a new man looks at Shirley!" exclaimed Nell Cotter with indignation. "Somebody told him she was engaged. And that was that."

Jaidr had come up behind them. He flushed darkly.

"That's what Mother means when she says long engagements are unfair," he said when he and Shirley were dancing a little later.

Doubts stabbed her. Was Jaidr hinting that he agreed with his mother?

"I guess you'll be a withered old maid before I can afford to marry you, Shirley," he went on and his voice rasped. "God knows, I'd think you'd hate me for the fiasco I've made. After I promised you everything. If I were half a man I'd set you free for some other man who can afford a wife."

She wished that she could read his mind. He might mean exactly what he said. Or he might be offering her a graceful exit. Hoping she'd break their engagement and set them both free to find happiness elsewhere since together they had reached an impasse.

"You're so beautiful, Shirley," groaned Jaidr. "And so sweet. And you're wasting the best years of your life waiting for a guy who can't even buy you a sack of peanuts unless his father does out the nickel."

She wanted dreadfully to tell him that she would wait forever if he wanted her to. Only she wasn't sure he wanted anything of the kind. So she couldn't say it. Not when possibly he hoped she would say something quite different.

"Maybe things will change," murmured Shirley, which might mean anything or nothing.

heaviness lay between them like a blight. It had not been present those first radiant months of their engagement. Shirley had been able to talk to Jaidr then—about anything. More intimately than she had ever talked to another person. Against his breast, her lips on his, her reticence had vanished. But somewhere in the past year they had receded from each other. A curtain dropped between them. Even their kisses were no longer sweet, but bitter. Terribly bitter with denial.

The wide front porch of the Maguire house was dark behind its tangle of wistaria and climbing roses. It was not late. But nothing stirred. Jaidr caught Shirley into his arms. Lately his caresses were always a little savage. As if he resented them because they never came to anything. Even his lips had lost the shy tenderness with which they had once kissed her. They were feverish, almost cruel. More desperate than anything. Shirley's lovely slender body quivered. Her heart beat a devil's tattoo in her ears.

"Shirley!" he cried in a thick unnatural voice. "It's hell to have you like this and then let you go."

"I know," she whispered.

"We never do anything any more but drive each other mad. Wanting what we can't have," he groaned. She shivered. It was true. To be together only aroused everything in them which they dared not release. "Shirley, we can't go on like this."

He was putting into words the thing she had shrunk from saying. "I want you, Shirley. All of you! Or nothing, Shirley, darling!" whispered Jaidr.

It was not the first time they had stood on the edge of an abyss. She couldn't lose Jaidr. She couldn't go on without him, thought Shirley with a sob. Unconsciously her defenses crumbled. She felt herself being washed out on the turbid sea from which there is no returning. Only suddenly Shirley thought of Laura. Laura, who would never condemn, but whose heart would break.

"You'll have to go, Jaidr," said Shirley and pushed his arms away. He went without a word. Almost as if he were at his heels. Poor Jaidr, who had never dreamed he might live to see the day when his love was a threat and a disaster, both to his own and Shirley's souls

CHAPTER XII

Tom Maguire glanced at his watch and groaned. It was ten minutes to two. His head ached. The Coal Scuttle, the city's newest tavern, was crowded to its rocco doors, the air heavy with stale cigar smoke, the tables littered with cigarette ashes, dreggy glasses and dead bottles. There had been many speeches. The same old hokey, thought Tom. Bombastic flowery eloquence, praising the new Highway Commissioner, to which he had replied with the usual inanities. And running the whole show although he kept in the background, was Harvey Cobb Leigh.

With tired embittered eyes Tom studied his wife's employer. Leigh was in his early fifties, a short paunchy man with a smooth unlined face and small bullet eyes under sleepy eyelids. But he was not sleepy. He was a human dynamo as Mary Etta often boasted. He never tired or took his hand off the throttle. Tom sighed. Mary Etta sat at her employer's left, the wife of the guest of honor at his right, a pudgy lady who looked as if she wished she were at home in bed.

But apparently Mary Etta was as fresh as she had been three hours earlier. Tom knew that she had not missed a trick in the evening's progress. That was what made her invaluable. She had a stenographic memory which on such occasions as these did not require a notebook. The next day when she filed her memoranda, nothing would be missing that might later be required. No wonder Harvey Cobb Leigh depended on her and paid her a commensurate amount.

Tom stared at the cigarette which he had lit from the butt of another. He hated all the loud talk. It made him want to chew his fingernails. It was just so much eyewash, as he very well knew. And at the back of his brain a hammer pounded.

The rent was due tomorrow and he could not pay it. Until now—thanks to the nest egg which he had accumulated in more prosperous times toward buying his own business—Tom had been able at least to pay for sheer necessities like rent and food. But the past year, when his earnings had dropped to an appalling low, had wiped out his savings at a rate that left him hanging on the ropes, dizzy for breath.

"Thank God!" he muttered when at last people began to push back from soiled and disorderly tables. Mary Etta gave him a stiletto glance. "You needn't make it quite so obvious that you've been bored to death," she said out of the corner of her mouth.

STAGE SCREEN RADIO

By VIRGINIA VALE
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

"PANAMA HATTIE," M-G-M's lavish version of the successful Broadway musical, is well under way. The initial set disclosed Ann Sothern in a night club, singing one of the show's best songs, and dancing while two hundred soldiers, sailors, marines and tourists served as a background.

An expert passed judgment on the set, uniforms, etc.—she is Mamie Kelly, for 25 years operator of the most famous night club in Central America, at Panama City. She declared that Rags Ragland looked more like a sailor than a sailor himself—and she's seen thousands of them!

For the eighteenth time in his life Richard Dix was made an honorary sheriff the other day; he's making "Tombstone," and his role is that of Wyatt Earp, the famous peace officer of Arizona in the state's wilder days.

Not since flame-haired Clara Bow took the movie world by storm has Hollywood seen a personality so vibrant as Frances Neal, according to Frank O'Connor, who directed the famous "It" girl in most of her films. He's playing an important role in RKO Radio's "Lady Scarface," in which she makes her film debut. Director Frank Woodruff dubbed her "Titian TNT," and O'Connor thinks it fits.

The job of doing the raucous, old-fashioned ring-master's voice for Walt Disney's "Dumbo" has been handed to Herman Bing. The task of recording voices for the part seemed endless—actual ring masters, rodeo and prize fight announcers and circus barkers were tried out for it, before Herman won by a throat full of r's.

Bob Hope and Jerry Colonna have acquired new honors, too. They are honorary members of the Salt Lake City police force; the award was made at the city's recent police show, with some 10,000 people looking on.

Rosalind Russell is right at home in M-G-M's "Her Honor," in which she's a woman judge. Her family's practically all lawyers on the male side—she can count seven without pausing to think. As a child she used to hide in her father's court room in Waterbury, Conn.—once she managed to do it when he was trying a thrilling murder case. She'd probably have been a lawyer if she hadn't had what it takes to be a movie star; as it is, she draws up her own contracts and lets it go at that.

Preston Foster, star of Paramount's "The Morning After," had a swell idea the other day. He bought two football tickets for every game to be played by the University of California at Los Angeles, and the University of Southern California, and sent them to the morale office at Camp San Luis Obispo; the office is to conduct hard luck contests, and the buck private who'd had the toughest luck each week will be given the tickets, put up at the best quarters in Los Angeles, and provided with a pretty girl as a companion at the game.

Joe Marshall has a bigger job than washing an elephant each day; he paints one every morning. Sprays a two-ton beast from ears to toenails with gray-white water color so that he won't blend into the background during Technicolor shots for "Malaya," the Dorothy Lamour jungle thriller.

ODDS AND ENDS—Constance Bennett sings a nice little duty in Warner Bros. "Wild Bill Hickok Rides"—it's called "The Lady Got a Shady Deal" . . . The famed University of Southern California Trojan band marches and plays in the big football rally scene in "The Male Animal" . . . Baseball's clown, Al Schacht, is still lamenting because he had to miss the World Series, for the first time in years; he was in Hollywood testing to play himself in Goldwyn's Lou Gehrig picture . . . Now the movies will again make the name of Smith famous—this time with Robert Young playing the title role in "Joe Smith, American."

WE ARE never too young to appreciate a pretty frock. Here is one of youthful lines, with its yoke top set off with ric rac braid and turn down white collar—and side sashes to tie in back. There's no reason why your own little daughter shouldn't be a proud possessor of two or three frocks like this one. A glance at the diagram will show you how utterly simple it is to make. It can also have an open square neck, as sketched.

DO THEY YOO HOO AT YOU?

Healthy, nice-looking girls rate that attention! Scrawny girls are seldom attractive. You can't put on curves if you haven't the appetite for proper foods. VINOL with its Vitamin B1 and Iron encourages appetite. Your druggist has pleasant-tasting VINOL.

Women's Coquetry

Coquetry is the essential characteristic, and the prevalent humor of women; but they do not all practice it, because the coquetry of some is restrained by fear or by reason.—La Rochefoucauld.

Beware Coughs That Hang On

Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm, and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender, inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. Tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.

THE SUNNY SIDE OF LIFE

Clean Comics That Will Amuse Both Old and Young

By L. L. STEVENSON

Thrill: All kinds of strange things happen on the sidewalks of New York. For instance, the other afternoon, Harry Gilbert was peacefully proceeding to a Times square jeweler's shop to have a new crystal put in his watch. At Forty-second street and Broadway he was stopped by a traffic light. As he stood waiting, paying no attention to those about him, he was almost lifted off his feet by a piercing scream right in his ear.

Whirling about in alarm, he discovered no damsel in distress, but a man, apparently about 40 years old, with his shirt collar open and his coat over his arm. Looking Harry in the eye, the man announced, "I've always wanted to do that." Then before any questions could be asked as to what satisfaction he obtained from such an action, the man ducked into a cigar store and was seen no more.

Logical: Ilka Chase drives in from her summer home at Lloyds Neck, Long Island, several times a week for rehearsals and broadcasts. Every time she does, she passes through an artists' colony the members of which are continually painting the landscape with the result that hardly an inch of ground has escaped being translated into water colors, oils, etc. Recently, as Miss Chase and a companion entered the colony, they saw a startling sight—amidst the luxuriant foliage, gaunt branches.

"A dead tree in an artists' colony!" exclaimed the companion. "How could that happen?" "Probably painted to death," responded Miss Chase.

Safety First: Carl Masson, catering manager of the restaurants at LaGuardia Field, recently returned from a trip to Canada. Arriving by train early one morning at a small junction point, where he was to make connections at 5 a. m., he wandered into a little lunchroom where the waiter-chef-bus boy-proprietor were one and the same, and ordered one hard boiled egg. After the usual wait, the proprietor came in with a plate on which were two eggs.

"But I ordered only one," protested Masson.

"Yes," answered the restaurateur, "but I thought I'd better bring two in case one was bad."

Pilot Yarn: "At Randolph Field in Texas, an American officer was assigned to a group of fledgling pilots," writes Jimmy Van Heusen. "As the instructor had been studying aerial tactics in England for years, he had somehow adapted himself to the use of a monocle—a symbol which marks many British officers. It was the first monocle the youngsters had encountered outside of fiction, but they caught on very quickly.

"The next morning the entire personnel appeared on parade ground with some sort of makeshift monocle adorning every face. The officer eyed them complacently. Then, standing squarely in front of them, he flipped his monocle in the air, caught it in his eye and roared, 'Do that you nitwits!' And that cowed the soldiers."

Matrimonial: Mrs. Sarah M. Pragnell, founder of the "Get-Together Club," an organization devoted to finding mates for lonely souls, is seeking a man six feet, nine inches tall who is willing to marry a young woman who stands six feet, six in her stocking feet. Mrs. Pragnell has received a heart-breaking letter from the tall young lady begging her to do something about a situation that can't be remedied. No one will take her out, the 29-year-old giantess avers, because her altitude embarrasses all the young men she has met so far. The result, she mourns, is that she hasn't had a date in the last nine years. So the appeal for aid.

End Piece: It's Sonny Tufts' story about the policeman who while making his rounds on the fashionable East Side in the early hours of the morning, discovered an elderly, top-hatted man crawling along the street on his hands and knees.

"What are you doing that for?" inquired the cop. "Surely it isn't necessary for you to go home in such a manner." "Well," said the fellow slowly lifting his head, "it isn't 'xactly necessary but it'sh a very wise precaution."

Bereaved Cat Mothers

HOME ECONOMICS NEWS
 The home economics classes have been learning how to set a table, and the different duties of the hostess, host and the waitress.
 All the classes have served their breakfast at one time or another. Doesn't it seem funny that some girls should eat their breakfast in the afternoon during the school week?
 The advanced classes, divided into four groups, served their luncheon on Tuesday October 21. Each group appointed one of its members as hostess, another as waitress, and invited one outside guest. The menu consisted of hot muffins, tuna fish salad, home made jelly, toll house cookies, fruit cocktail and milk. All the food had been prepared by the girls in the group. The tables were attractively set and decorated. The luncheon moved with gracious ease proving that our girls will make charming hostesses as well as good cooks.
 The beginning group served their luncheon on the afternoon of the same day. They chose a slightly different menu but their luncheon was equally as successful.
