U. S. Destroyer Is Torpedoed and Sunk While on Convoy Duty West of Iceland; Strike in 'Captive' Coal Mines Ended; 34 Are Killed as Two Airliners Crash

EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Myron C. Taylor, left, former board chairman of U. S. Steel, William H. Davis of national mediation board, and John L. Lewis of United Mine Workers are shown as they left the White House after conferring with President Roosevelt on the strike of 53,000 miners of nation's "captive" coal mines. It was shortly following this conference that Lewis announced that the miners had accepted the President's proposal for opening the mines and would go back to work pending further consideration of the issues under dispute.

SHOWDOWN: The Lewis Affair

The captive coal mine strike, in which 53,000 men engaged in digging coal out of the ground to supply the defense-laden steel companies laid down their tools, approached a showdown in the fight between John L. Lewis and President Roosevelt. It has been an odd chain of events that had brought Lewis, once a close ally and supporter of the President and his labor policy, to the point where he had become, for the moment, Administration Enemy No. 1.

After a four-day tie-up of the mines there came a truce. Lewis, with Myron Taylor, former U. S. Steel chief and William H. Davis of the National Mediation board were called to the White House for a conference with President Roosevelt. Following this meeting Lewis called his district mine labor chiefs into a parley and then came the announcement that the miners would go back to work pending mediation proceedings of the dispute. It was decided that arrangement called for a 15-day truce with signs pointing toward a complete settlement. The issue in the strike was a particularly interesting one, for it had nothing to do with collective bargaining rights, with wages or hours, but a flat demand for the closed shop.

TRANSPORTATION: Tragedies

After five months without a fatal crash the commercial airlines had a tragic 24 hours in which two airliners crashed to the earth with a death toll of 34. First accident was that of a plane which crashed and burned in the fog and mist within a short distance of the Fargo, N. D., airport where it was preparing to land. Fourteen persons were killed with the pilot being the lone survivor. He suffered minor injuries and severe shock. Unofficial investigators indicated that ice had formed rapidly on the wings of his plane as he descended for the landing but a complete official investigation was immediately launched to find all the facts. Twenty persons, all those aboard, were killed in the other crack-up when a plane bound from New York to Chicago plunged to earth and burst into flames near St. Thomas, Ontario. This plane too had been flying low in a heavy fog. No explanation of the cause of the crash was immediately determined.

WEATHER: In Moscow

The military miracle needed to save Moscow from almost certain conquest by the Nazi mechanized hordes occurred, and came in the form of a heavy rain which turned a sea of snow into mud and slush, and bogged the Germans down. Prior to this the defending Russians had reported the pep gone from the invading forces, and that the presence among the prisoners of one-eyed men, soldiers with limping legs and other basic physical defects had been significant. Most confirmatory evidence that something serious had happened to the German drive just when it was on the threshold of success came from the pen of Goebbels, ace Nazi propagandist, when he warned that hard weeks were ahead. The rain was the crux of the situation, however, the Nazi official pronouncements admitting that roads had disappeared, blending into fields; that motor transportation had been utterly halted, and that the problem of supplying German troops at the front had become paramount.

U. S. NAVY: Loses a Warship

First warship of the U. S. navy to be lost in the current European war was the U. S. destroyer Reuben James, which was torpedoed and sunk while on convoy duty west of Iceland.

Its sinking marked the first loss of a U. S. naval vessel since President Roosevelt commanded the navy to "shoot on sight" any foreign raiders entering what have been defined as U. S. defensive waters. This sinking came just two weeks after the Kearny incident in which that destroyer survived a torpedo blast and made port after the loss of 11 lives.

The Reuben James was under the command of Lieut. Comdr. H. L. Edwards and was an old type, flush deck destroyer commissioned in 1929.

MAP: Of South America

Though there was much fodder for comment in the President's Navy day address, it was the map of South America which had drawn the most attention in the press of the Western hemisphere. The story had been that Hitler had employed 200 geographers and map-makers at Koenigsberg to redraw the map of South America, giving certain countries there and in Central America the status of vassal states of the Axis.

There were 14 countries involved, and they would have been divided up and consolidated into five vassal countries, two of them under the control of Italy, one enormous section under the direct guardianship of Hitler and the others to go to Japan. Argentina and Uruguay were to be Il Duce's vassals; Peru, Chile and Paraguay would be under control of Japan, and all the territory from Brazil north to the Panama canal would be Hitler's "lebensraum."

IRE: Shown by Group

The isolationists had shown their ire against the President's speech as an exposition of his own policy, and, led by Wheeler and Taft in the senate had fired shot and shell into Senator Pepper of Florida, a backer of the President's foreign policy. Not far behind them was Walsh of Massachusetts, who flatly charged that the President sought to lead the country into actual war without submission of the question to the judgment of the country or of congress.

Taft was more bitter. He said: "President Roosevelt has admitted that he has tricked the American people. While talking of peace, he has admitted that he has already done what he can to plunge the nation into a shooting war." And Wheeler said that he had always believed that the President had been opposed to our involvement in the war, and had sought to keep us out, but that in view of the Navy day address he was convinced that he would have to change his mind.

EXECUTIONS: Halt by Hitler

A sudden halt in the execution of Frenchmen in reprisals for attacks on German officers of the army of occupation had been accompanied by the report which was said to have "leaked out" that two German officers had been killed in the Lille sector. Hitler had ordered a halt in the executions in France "to give the French a last opportunity to cooperate."

'Port Is Reached' . . .

LIFE: In Germany

Through a pronouncement by Paul Joseph Goebbels, Nazi propaganda minister, one had received a partial picture of what the Royal Air force had been doing to Germany and how life was changing there as compared with that before the bombing of the Reich started in earnest. He said "I know you have it hard today. You must all work as never before. Your wives must sometimes stand for hours before stores in order to buy some vegetables. Your children frequently are sent into the country and separated from you for months. Sometimes you have to go without a glass of beer, sometimes without cigarettes. Then, because necessary hands are not available, you have to shovel coal. Then, at nights, go into air-raid protection cellars and after two hours' sleep go back to hard work."

"That is the way it is in many cities of the Reich, and in some even worse."

JAPAN: More Restive

Nippon, chafing under the terms of American-British peace with Japan under her present policy was evidently becoming more restive. The newspaper Yomiuri, writing of President Roosevelt's promise of full aid to the Chungking government, said:

"American aid to the Soviets and Britain is reasonable and acceptable, but support to Chungking, which is not at war with Germany, is inconsistent in view of the United States' aim of destroying Hitlerism."

"This promise of all-out aid may be taken as a direct challenge to Japan." In the meantime it was reported from Shanghai that Japan, despairing of ever being able to build a real government under the regime of Wang Ching-Wei in occupied China, was now turning to a new plan.

The Japanese were seeking, it was said, to establish small new local governments. The first of these was to be set up at Kukiang with jurisdiction over three occupied provinces and part of a fourth.

LABOR: General View

Generally speaking the labor front in the United States was troublous, with several defense plants involved, and others threatened. A machine-gun factory in Detroit was silenced by a walkout, with wages at the bottom of the controversy. There were 1,500 workers and they were asking a five-cent minimum raise.

There was a fear that three other plants of the same company in the Detroit area would suffer a sympathy strike. The wages were $1 an hour for men on machines, and 85 cents for women. One of the union issues was the removal of the lower-paid women from the factory.

The OPM office demanded that striking welders in a Seattle shipyard return to work, and were met by the defiant retort that the request should come from the White House direct. The welders' organization, an A. F. of L. union, stated that it had appealed three times to the President, and that the OPM had let them down. This was an odd strike, because the basic point was said to be a charge by the welders that under existing union arrangements, they had to pay dues in several unions at the same time in order to ply their trade.

These were instances, but Washington was fearful that the whole labor situation was growingly touchy.

'Hornets' for Uncle Sam—and Hornet's Nest

A view of the U.S.S. Hornet, the navy's newest aircraft carrier, is shown at left. The Hornet displaces 20,000 tons and has a speed in excess of 30 knots. Right: In the biggest single delivery of military planes in aviation history, 123 Vultee Valiants, basic training planes, roared over Los Angeles en route to army and navy training stations. Some of them are shown, just before the takeoff at Downey, Calif.

Scenes From Russo-German Front

Night Attack in Mediterranean

This photograph, one of the most striking of its kind ever taken, shows a battleship of the British Mediterranean fleet in action as an Axis air attack is repelled. Tremendous flashes from anti-aircraft guns firing simultaneously to port and starboard outline the superstructure of the battleship in lurid flame.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON

NEW YORK.—It was last August that Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby of Houston, Texas, became head of the women's division of the army's bureau of public relations. She said she would organize the division to tell women what they wanted to know about the army. Her success has been such that today her achievement is being nationally recognized as a bang-up score for women in the defense effort.

Mrs. Hobby is executive vice president of the Houston Post, and hence a specialist in telling people what they want to know. Newspaper women are happy in finding a government public relations bureau which offers some thing more than hand-outs in press co-operation. The post is important as a liaison between soldiers and wives and mothers. She is 35 years old, pretty, slender, stylish, brisk and businesslike, the wife of William Pettus Hobby, twice governor of Texas. Her achievements in the above few years are such that they may only be briefed in the space available here: In addition to running the Houston Post, she is the active executive of radio station KPRC; director of a national bank; director of the Southern Newspaper publishers' association; a member of the board of regents of the Texas State Teachers' college, of the Junior League, the Houston Symphonic society and the National Association of Parliamentarians.

She studied law, was admitted to the bar, codified the state banking laws, was parliamentarian for the Texas assembly for several years, was assistant city attorney of Houston, wrote a book on parliamentary law called "Mr. Chairman," which is used as a text book in the schools of Louisiana and Texas, syndicated a column on parliamentary law and served as research editor, literary editor, assistant editor and, since 1938, executive editor of the Houston Post.

In 1939, Mrs. Hobby was awarded the annual certificate of merit of the National Federation of Women's Press Clubs, for outstanding work in journalism. She was born in Temple, Texas, the daughter of an attorney of the town. With all the above activities, she says she has had ample time for her children, a boy of nine and girl of five. EIGHTY-year-old Rep. Joseph Jefferson Mansfield of Texas has made a career of planned river and harbor development and control. It goes back to his boyhood days in Virginia when he was riding a horse to the grist mill, with sacks of corn stowed fore and aft. When he forded an angry stream, corn and horse were swept away and he had a hard time making shore, with no end of trouble thereafter. Then and there he became a flood-battler, ready to take on any undisciplined waterway, for its own good and the well-being of the commonwealth. So, naturally, in his 25 years in congress he has been chairman of the rivers and harbors committee. He's in form and in his stride today, as he contends that only river and harbor projects qualify as bona fide defense undertakings, and rate advancement in the "immediate construction" file.

He has been 54 years in politics, a resident of Texas since 1881, when he settled in Eagle Lake—city attorney, mayor, county attorney, county judge for 10 terms, and congressman. In 1926 he suffered a malady which cost him the use of his legs. He campaigned and won in a wheel chair and carried on in congress from his special wheel chair stance to the right of the speaker's dais. His father, a Confederate soldier, was killed in battle six months after his son was born. He battles valiantly for a sea-level Panama canal and for transportation of Texas oil eastward on inland waterways.

JUST before the war started, Vladimir Kyrillovitch, a son of the late Grand Duke Cyril, and pretender to the throne of czarist Russia, was working in a Diesel engine factory in England. He said he would learn and impart to his following of 2,000,000 White Russians the skills necessary to reclaim their homeland. He was soon back to his Britanny estate and now news of his repeated visits to Paris follow several reports that the Nazis are encouraging him to believe that he might yet stage a Romanoff comeback.

HERE'S TO BUTTERY FINGERS AND A TAFFY PULL (See Recipes Below)

CHILDREN'S DELIGHT

If you want your children and their friends to give you a rating of "super," then give just one party for children alone, and make that party a good, old-fashioned taffy pull.

This party is exciting fun because the children have a chance to help in the making of refreshments. Yes, pulling taffy with their fingers all buttered, and watching the dark candy mixture get lighter and lighter each time it's pulled.

Unlike many foods which are iron sources, molasses when cooked does not lose its iron content. If possible use a candy thermometer to test the candy so it will be cooked just right, neither too stiff nor too messy to handle.

Molasses Taffy. 2 cups pure New Orleans molasses 1 cup granulated sugar 2 tablespoons butter 1 tablespoon vinegar 1/4 teaspoon vanilla, if desired 1/2 cup water

Refreshments can be simple for a taffy party, for children will be so excited about the taffy, they won't give their best attention to elaborate dishes.

Millionaire Gold. (Serves 8) 2 egg yolks 1/2 cup flour 1/4 teaspoon mustard 1 1/2 teaspoons salt 1 1/2 teaspoons paprika 3 cups milk 1/2 pound American cheese 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

LYNN SAYS:

Stop food wastes. Not only is this a matter of thrift but also a vital step in conserving this country's resources. It is estimated that tiny food wastes total up to a tremendous amount.

THIS WEEK'S MENU

- *Chop Suey, Rice or Noodles Bean Sprouts Apricot-Cream Cheese Salad Bran Bread Orange Chiffon Pie Milk Tea Coffee

1 pound mushrooms 4 tablespoons butter 8 slices buttered toast 16 slices crisp bacon Beat egg yolks, add flour, mustard, salt and paprika. Mix well. Add 1/2 cup milk gradually and stir until smooth.

Although the taffy pull will be the main event of the party be sure to have games planned to fill out the evening. Quiz games are popular and lists for these can be made up beforehand using questions on slogans, famous personalities, historical events, interesting facts, and riddles as questions.

Children will want some lively fun too, and for this you can have a sack race. The leaders of two lines of players are given two large paper sacks. They place the sacks on their feet and at a signal run to the opposite goal and back, take off the sack and give it to the person next to them.

Speaking of children, are you having a time with their school lunches? Variety is the big problem for packing a complete meal in one small box is hard to vary and doesn't have as many possibilities as the table at home.

Sandwiches are a standby, but don't get into a rut with these. Don't have soggy fillings. Wrap each one separately in wax paper. Favorite fillings include: Peanut butter and jelly Chopped meat mixed with mayonnaise and relish Chopped hard-cooked eggs with bacon

*Chop Suey or Chow Mein. (Serves 6) 1/2 cup butter or shortening 2 3/4 cups cooked meat, cut in strips 1 1/4 cup onions, cut fine 1 teaspoon salt 1/4 teaspoon pepper 1 can bean sprouts, drained 2 1/4 cups celery, cut fine 1 cup hot water

Melt butter, add onions, fry for 3 minutes. Add celery, salt, pepper, hot water, cover and cook for 5 minutes. Add bean sprouts and meat, mix and bring to a boil. Combine thickening and flavoring ingredients, add to first mixture. Cook 5 minutes. Serve hot with Chinese noodles for Chow Mein, or with steaming rice for Chop suey.

MILK MAID STOPS SMALL POX SPREAD

Vaccination has been so successful in eliminating small pox that people are apt to become careless and fail to make sure that they and their children are immune to that dread disease.

It is said that during the Eighteenth century in England 995 out of every 1,000 inhabitants had small pox; that one out of four who had it died. Nearly all were disfigured by the resulting scars.

About 1790, Dr. Edward Jenner, a country doctor in England, was impressed by the chance remark of a milk maid who said that those who acquired cowpox lesions from sores on the udders of cows did not get small pox.

Dr. Benjamin Waterhouse of Boston soon obtained some of the cow-pox material and introduced vaccination into this country. He too met with opposition and to prove his case had to publicly expose his children, whom he had vaccinated, to those confined with small pox in the Pest House.

As a result of this epoch-making advance in preventive medicine, small pox has been entirely eliminated in areas in which all are vaccinated regularly.

Victor Heiser in "An American Doctor's Odyssey" shows what might happen if such laxity should spread and if the advice of the anti-vaccinationists were followed.

Remember too that vaccination may render anyone immune for only seven years. Recently a father, a mother and four sons, aged 10, 12, 14 and 16, were vaccinated.

Have you done your duty to your country and been revaccinated?

Today's popularity of Doan's Pills, after many years of world-wide use, surely must be accepted as evidence of satisfactory use. And favorable public opinion, supported by the able physicians who test the value of Doan's under exacting laboratory conditions. These physicians, too, approve every word of advertising you read, the objective of which is only to recommend Doan's Pills as a good diuretic treatment for disorder of the kidney function and for relief of the pain and worry it causes.
If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove waste that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole body suffers when kidneys lag, and diuretic medication would be more often employed.
Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warn of disturbed kidney function. You may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel weak, nervous, all played out.
Use Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide acclaim than on something less favorably known. Ask your neighbor!
