U.S. GYPSUM CO. STORE BURNS AT ALABASTER

Fire Occurs Early Monday Morning; Very Little Saved

A Saginaw bay landmark and one of Isosco county's oldest business buildings ceased to exist when fire destroyed the company store and plant offices at Alabaster early Monday morning. The loss sustained, in addition to the building, includes a large stock of merchandise, office equipment and records, and household furniture of three families on the second and third floors.

E. G. Proulx, manager of the store, who with his family occupied one of the apartments on the second floor, discovered flames shortly after one o'clock. The East Tawas fire department was called. The intake on the pumper did not fit the hydrants on the company waterworks system and so water was pumped from the bay. Every effort was made to keep the blaze under control and for a short time it was thought that the fire had been extinguished, but at about 5:30 flames broke through the roof and the building was soon leveled to the ground.

The 60 by 70 three story building contained the general plant offices of the United States Gypsum company, engineering department, plant laboratory, offices of the Erie & Michigan Railway and Navigation company, and the large general store. Apartments on the two upper floors were occupied by the families of E. G. Proulx and W. W. Wallace. The Wallace family were away from home visiting over the holidays. Furniture belonging to Mike King was stored in one of the apartments.

The building destroyed Monday morning was completed in 1861 for B. F. Smith and associates and became the general offices and company store for the Western Plaster company. Smith was a pioneer in the production of gypsum products in Michigan. In the early part of the present century the Western Plaster company plant at Alabaster became a part of the United States Gypsum company.

Temporary offices have been set up in one of the company houses.

COMMODITY COMMITTEE NAMED HERE

Auto Tires to be Rationed Through the Local Committee

The rationing of tires and tubes under Federal regulations to conserve the nation's limited supply of crude rubber takes effect in Michigan January 5. On and after that date, no tires may be sold except by official authorization. At the request of the Office of Price Administration, Gov. Van Wagener has directed the Michigan Council of Defense and its subsidiary county and local councils to administer the program.

The rationing plan will be administered locally by a Commodities Distribution Committee appointed by the Defense Council. Its duties will be to receive applications for the purchase of tires, to determine the validity of claims, to determine priorities in accordance with Federal regulations, and issue certificates to approved applicants, if available.

Dr. E. W. McKelvey, chairman of the Isosco County Civilian Defense Council announced the appointment of the following members on the Commodity Distribution Committee.

C. A. Pinkerton, chairman, East Tawas; Fred Brabant, Tawas City; Rev. Robt. McCleary, Whittemore; Hobart Brayman, Au Sable; Charles Hennigar, Oscoda. The committees will pass on the sale of tires and will open an office in the D. & M. General Office building on January 5.

The Michigan Council of Defense will regularly allocate to tire dealers throughout the state Michigan's share of available tires and tubes. It is estimated that there will be enough to meet the state's defense health and safety requirements, but not enough for private use.

"This means hardships for many people, but these hardships will have to be accepted in a spirit of patriotism until such times as the menace to our sources of crude rubber in the Pacific can be eliminated". Gov. Van Wagener said when he announced the rationing system.

Announcement has also been made that Russell Rollin, Tawas City, has been appointed Chairman of the committee for the collection of waste paper. Mr. Rollin will appoint committee members in each locality to arrange for the regular collection from the homes and have it taken to a central location where it will be baled.

Plans are in the making to form first aid classes and to make arrangement for securing blood donors. First aid classes will be under the direction of Merrill Polkard.

The Defense Board is also distributing cards free to be placed in business places which denote that place is supporting the Defense Council.

HAPPY NEW YEAR— Deer Hunters Asked to Report 1941 Results

Every party of deer hunters that bought a camp deer license in the recent season will be asked shortly to report by mail whether the license was filled by killing a buck, doe or fawn. The conservation department disclosed this week. The information is being gathered to get more facts on the controversial subject of doe killing legalized in the state in the recent season after 20 years of the one-buck law.

Camp deer permit sales records still are being collected from the hundreds of agents throughout the state. To one of the signers of each permit will be mailed a double postcard, one half having the address and instructions, the other for the report of the kill under the camp license, if any. The return cards will be stamped, and will cost the hunter nothing to mail.

Because of the intense interest in the doe-shooting question, prompt cooperation on the part of hunters is expected. No kill report was included in the camp license form because at the time of its preparation last summer the prospect that doe shooting would be allowed was far from certain, and continued so until the Legislature reconvened in October. Previously, under the one-buck law, camp deer permits accounted for a very small part of the kill. Only 700 permits were issued in 1940, where this season it is believed 25,000 or more may have been sold.

The postcard canvass of camp permit buyers is part of a survey of the actual working of the doe law which the conservation commission has ordered, so that authoritative facts and figures may be supplied for possible reconsideration of the law by the Legislature.

Signs of Zodiac Had Significance In Middle Ages

The peculiar figures constituting the signs of the Zodiac are generally looked upon merely as a curiosity today, but they once were credited with strange powers.

During the Middle ages the 12 signs were supposed to influence human life. As a result each sign was connected with a different part of the body in addition to being associated with various months of the year.

Because rams were sacrificed to the gods during this month, it was associated with Aries, the ram.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Hitler Takes Over Personal Command Of German Army as Russia Continues To Push Invaders Back on All Fronts; Far East Battle Centers in Philippines

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

HITLER:

Inner Voice

Explaining that he was answering an "inner call," Adolf Hitler took over sole command of the Nazi army because, he said, the Russian war had "exceeded all past notions." This meant that the former commander-in-chief, Field Marshal Walther von Brauchitsch, was out, as Hitler put it, because of "the vastness of the theater of war" and the manner in which military operations, economic and political war aims were linked.

Berlin circles discounted theories from other world capitals that Von Brauchitsch was dismissed because of the tie-up resulting from the Russian campaign. But Hitler did say that "the present war is now entering upon a new and favorable stage for us. We are now facing a decision of world-wide importance." Germany's task until spring, he pointed out, was to "hold and defend with fanaticism" what they had already gained.

ADOLF HITLER
An 'Inner Voice' Spoke.

EVIDENCE:

On Russian Front

Both returning American newspaper observers and dispatches from Berlin itself began to hurl the heavy weight of evidence back of the facts that Russia had been informing the world about the inroads the weather was making on German strength and ability to fight and as to the defeat the Nazi armies were suffering.

Two Berlin dispatches had told, first in the Volkischer Beobachter, Hitler's own newspaper, that the "Russians are equal to us as fighters and under some conditions superior"; and, second, that the German soldiers were suffering terribly from the cold.

The second instance was given to the world by Goebbels himself, in opening a campaign, "house to house and apartment to apartment" to collect warm clothing, particularly furs, for the men on the Russian front.

Goebbels had said, in part: "We have done all to equip the army for winter. But winter came too early. Our soldiers will still lack much."

"We must prevent German soldiers from suffering the winter in Norway, Russia or elsewhere."

"The front wants everything the Fatherland can give for defense against this winter which set in so early, earlier than usual."

The American newsmen told of watching the German retreat, of the abandonment of materials, including tanks and guns as the Nazis fled from their advanced Russian positions back over the snow-packed roads. There had seemed to be no diminution of the Russian claims as they added division after division to the list of "those annihilated."

LIBYA:

Bright Spot

Another bright spot in the war reports had been the British North African campaign, which had suddenly gone into high gear, and there began to be a repetition of the previous British campaign, which swept across Cyrenaica almost to the doors of Tripoli, and resulted in the taking of an estimated 100,000 prisoners.

This time it was not the Italians, but the Germans, who were fleeing across the desert North African plains along the coast, with the British in hot pursuit.

General Rommel's famous tank divisions, battered and broken, were jamming the roads toward Bengasi, chief German-Italian landing spot for supplies, having abandoned Derina and all the hard-fought-over territory close to the borders of Egypt.

MANILA:

Major Thrust

The good news from Russia and Libya had been rather offset by the discouragements and losses of the Far Eastern campaign, and it had become evident that the Japanese attack on the Philippines had been slowly but steadily growing in intensity.

Then came the report that 80 transports of Japanese troops had been sighted off the coast between the port of Lingayen and Manila. These thousands of soldiers meant that the long-expected invasion of the Philippines was under way. U. S. land, sea and air forces then began their defense against this major battle force of Japan.

Lingayen was called by military experts the "gateway to Manila" and because of this a strong defensive force was thrown into action to defend it. First reports told of the United States forces "holding their own." One unconfirmed report told of the sinking of at least one Japanese troop transport.

A landing on Davao made the fourth spot in the islands on which the Japanese had gained at least a temporary foothold.

The Davao landing became the potentially greatest menace against Manila, because it was on the nearby island of Mindanao, largely inhabited by Japanese and Japanese sympathizers.

A hotbed of fifth-columnist activity, Davao had been editorially called Davaochukuo before the outbreak of the war, because Luzon dwellers regarded it as the chief fifth-column threat.

The landing there was believed to have been engineered with the aid of treachery from within. The American troops gave battle to the invaders, but no claims of immediate victory were made, and the landing was said to have been "in considerable force."

AIRMAN:

Heads Navy

After a week which had seen rapid shifting about of the American naval and army high command in Hawaii, Washington had made a sudden move which made the supreme commander of the U. S. Navy Admiral Ernest J. King, an air officer.

Previously the command of the Pacific and Asiatic fleets had been placed in the hands of ship-minded officers, and the air arm had been believed to feel slightly "out of it."

ADMIRAL STARK
"On the Shelf?"

Jubilation reigned in the air force of the navy when Admiral King was placed in supreme command. The appointment had completed the shakeup and a rapid prosecution of the war in the Pacific under Admirals Hart and Nimitz was expected.

As a matter of fact, many observers wondered if the appointment did not place Chief of Operations Admiral Stark "on the shelf" for what duties remained to him were unspecified. Formerly he had been regarded as the navy's supreme commander.

New Pearl Harbor Chiefs

A shakeup in the high command of the navy and Hawaiian command of the army, because of the Pearl Harbor debacle, brought about promotion for these officers. They are Admiral Chester C. Nimitz (left), who will replace Admiral Husband E. Kimmell, who was in command of the Pacific fleet. Center: Lieut. Gen. Delos C. Emmons, replacing Lieut. Gen. Short, in command of the army Hawaiian department. Right: Brig. Gen. Clarence L. Tinker, assigned to the command of air forces, and who replaces Brig. Gen. Frederick L. Martin.

After Stab-in-the-Back by Japs

Yes, this shelter can accommodate 12 people. With air raid alerts on both coasts, interest in shelters is increasing. Some can be bought for as little as $200.

First Victim of Pacific Coast Blackout

Two members of an army beach patrol are shown looking at the stranded Matson line steamer, Mauna Ala, which ran aground near Astoria, Ore., while en route to Hawaii. The steamer was the first victim of the West coast blackout, having run aground when she lost her bearings because of darkening of lighthouses during an air alert.

German Baron Jailed

Ernest de Meyer, reputed German baron and alien, who was arrested in Los Angeles for a traffic violation. Police became suspicious of him when he attempted to change from an army jacket to a civilian coat. A short wave broadcasting set was found in his apartment, as well as data on coast defense.

INSTALLMENT EIGHTEEN—The Story So Far

Laura Maguire is wife of happy-go-lucky Mike, editor and mayor of Covington, whom banker Mays threatens to ruin for criticizing his banking methods. She is mother of four children, hard pressed by the depression: Tom, who had separated from his wife when he decided to move from a bigger city and she wouldn't give up her job as secretary. Laura patched that up, however, and divorce action halted. Alec, who fell in love with Lou Knight, the town drunk's daughter, and secretly married her. Shirley, engaged to Jaidr Newsom, also out of a job, who pawns her ring to help him buy a hamburger stand. Their marriage follows. Kathleen, who despise her father becomes interested in Ritchie Graham, also a newspaperman. She thinks her father and he carry the fight to Mays foolishly. She spurns his love. Mays offers Mike a $10,000 bribe.

CHAPTER XXVIII

Mr. Eugene Mays, his pompous face apoplectic with rage, stumbled through the outer office and slammed the door behind him. Mike stood in the doorway, grinning.

"The old so-and-so," he cried blithely. "Have I got him worried or have I got him worried?"

"If you ask me," laughed Ritchie, "he's on the ropes."

"Though he may drag me down with him," admitted Mike ruefully. He and Ritchie strolled arm in arm into the inner office. Two of a kind, Kathleen thought. Impractical idealists with a gay, almost flippant disregard for consequences, and thoroughly charming with it all.

"You think it's heroic to fling Mr. Mays' money back into his face," she told Mike in a thick jerky voice. "You think it's noble to bankrupt yourself in favor of a town full of people who show their gratitude by refusing to buy your paper or advertise in it. You are all puffed up because you can't be bribed or scared off. But has it ever occurred to you who really feels the bill while you do your Don Quixote stuff?"

Mike went quite white. But Kathleen could not stop.

"It's mother who bears the brunt, who has borne it for years," she said furiously. "It doesn't bother you if we haven't any money or a decent house to live in or if the car's falling to pieces under us and there aren't glasses enough to go around. You'd just as soon be penniless as not. You'd probably get a kick out of begging on the street corner with a tin cup. But Mother—"

"Do you realize she's putting up 60 jars of watermelon preserves today in this heat to get money toward the taxes? And she hasn't had a new dress in two years. She grew up with the best people in this town but she can't run around with them any more because she can't afford to. And it isn't fair. It isn't fair!"

Mike did not speak. But suddenly he looked almost old and his blue eyes stared at her with something stricken back of them. Kathleen realized abruptly that it was her father to whom she had been speaking. The father she had always adored. And her heart almost broke at the look in his face. But the bitterness had been accumulating inside her for months. She could not bite back the words, although they were such dreadful wounding things, the angry words she spat at Mike.

"I thought you were swell," she ended with a sob, "and I guess you are, but it's at her expense. I used to take it for granted she was happy. But she isn't. She's been short-changed. By life and love or the brain storm that passes for love. And it makes me sick. Thank God, I'll never make the same mistake!"

She whirled on her heel and walked out of the room. At her desk she dropped into her chair and stared blindly at her note pad. And she quivered with the agony of what she had done.

Ritchie stood beside her. He was very white. "How could you?" he asked.

She flung out her hands in a goaded gesture.

"Do you think I liked telling him those things? My daddy!" She sobbed once and then her face hardened. "I don't care what you think. Despise me if you like. It doesn't matter."

His long, slender fingers gripped her shoulders till she flinched at his fierceness.

"We do matter to each other, Kathleen. Whether we want it that way or not. We can't escape it. I love you. And you love me."

"If you still think I'm in love with you—" she cried in a choked voice and picked up her telephone.

She was several minutes securing her connection. "Gene, this is Kathleen," she cried into the receiver. "You know that little matter you've been trying to get me to consider? I've made up my mind at last. Surely you've won out. I'm telling you, I'll marry you. Whenever you say. Certainly I'll have lunch with you to celebrate. Until then, all of the best, dear heart."

CHAPTER XXIX

"I've got to go back to the office," Kathleen rose abruptly. "You shouldn't have enticed me away in the middle of the morning. At least while I'm on the payroll I can make a pretense of earning the old salary check."

"Six weeks from now," said Hot Shot Mays, "and the Clarion payroll will have gone up in smoke."

Kathleen's slim hands locked. "And that will tickle you and your father to pieces."

"We won't shed any tears," admitted Hot Shot Mays. Kathleen stared into his complacent eyes and her throat tightened under a revulsion of feeling that shook her from head to foot. Eugene Mays and his son did not deserve to triumph over Mike.

evening dresses nor had she been compelled to patch the living room curtains. But she had lived with tarnished standards and bedraggled illusions. Her children had grown up in an atmosphere that belittled integrity and made a mock of honor. No wonder her daughter had no shame. And her son's strongest attribute was cruelty. They had seen their mother humiliated from their cradles. They had lived intimately with luxury purchased by their mother's acquiescence in their father's degeneracy.

At least Laura had never known that particular hell.

She had drugged and economized and employed every ingenious artifice to manage on Mike's erratic earnings. But corruption had not brushed her or hers. Kathleen thought of her father. A quixotic egoist perhaps, but clean. As clean as a fierce wind from the poles. Mike had not swaddled his wife in sables. But neither had he taught her children to sneer at her.

THE SYNOPSIS GOSPELS: MATTHEW, MARK, LUKE

LESSON TEXT—Matthew 1:1, 17; Mark 1:1, 14, 15; Luke 1:1-4; Acts 1:1-5. GOLDEN TEXT—Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners.—1 Timothy 1:15.

A new year of God-given opportunity with the assurance of His grace and strength for our daily need. Such is the precious gift we hold in our hands as we enter on A. D. 1942.

With the new year, we enter upon a new course of study—carefully planned ahead through 1947, if the Lord tarries. We begin very appropriately with a study of the life of Christ as presented in the first three Gospels, known as the Synoptic Gospels.

"Synoptic" is a combination of two words, meaning "a view together," and refers to the fact that Matthew, Mark, and Luke give us the same general view of Christ, although differing somewhat in their emphasis.

Matthew, writing his Gospel especially to the Jews, presents Christ as King, Mark, for the Romans, presents the Servant. Luke presents to the Greeks the Son of Man—the perfect Man, and John, for the Christian church, reveals the Son of God. But note that all the Gospels are for us, and in them we find the fourfold picture which presents the many-sided glory and beauty of our Lord. Turning to our scriptures we see—

I. The King (Matt. 1:1, 17). These verses come at the beginning and end of the kingly genealogy of Jesus. It is important that the descent of a king be carefully recorded and studied, for it alone can prove his right to the throne.

We know that Israel rejected Jesus as King, but we also know what prophecy reveals that He will one day take the throne of David and reign. Does He have that right?

In Matthew 1:1-17, we have His national and royal descent. Being son of both David and Abraham, He is heir to both the promise and the throne. As King of Israel, there was no need to trace His lineage back further than Abraham through David, but we find that in Luke (2:23-28) the Son of Man is traced back to Adam. Mark has no genealogy for reasons noted below, and John also has none, for the Son of God is eternal, infinite, without need of genealogy.

Turning now to Mark, we find Him presented as

II. The Servant (Mark 1:1, 14, 15). A servant needs no genealogy, he needs only to be able and ready to work, and that is just what we find in Mark. The account plunges at once into the story of "the gospel of Jesus Christ, the Son of God," who is ready to serve—by life or by death—yes, even by the death of the cross.

The forerunner, John the Baptist, bears his witness. Jesus is baptized. John is imprisoned, and immediately Jesus begins to preach, "Repent ye, and believe the gospel." The key verse of Mark is 10:45: "For even the Son of man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister." The characteristic words are "straightway," "forthwith," and "immediately." The Greek word thus translated appears about 40 times in the book. The Servant of God went quickly about the Father's business. Christians, can we say the same for ourselves?

III. The Son of Man (Luke 1:1-4). Luke undertakes to write, under the control of the Holy Spirit, a careful account of the saving work of Christ, but he makes it doubly clear that he writes from firsthand knowledge. "Eyewitness" means those who made a personal investigation, hence, those who knew Christ as the Son of Man, the One who became flesh and dwelt among us. "Ministers" means literally those who served under Jesus, His personal assistants; again emphasizing His personal ministry as "the Son of man who is come to seek and to save that which was lost" (as Luke 19:10, the key verse of this Gospel, expresses it).

IV. The Risen and Ascended Lord (Acts 1:1-5). Christ who was crucified arose a Victor over death and the grave, and ascended to the Father, where He now appears as our Advocate. That does not mean that His work on earth terminated, for we have in Acts what Dr. Morgan fittingly calls "the book of the continued doing and teaching of the living Christ by the Holy Spirit through His body, which is the church."

The Gospels (Acts 1:1) told only that "Jesus began to do and to teach." Acts continues, but does not complete the story. Christ is working today in and through surrendered believers. Will He have liberty to work through you and through me this year of 1942? If so, it is sure to be a happy—yes, a blessed—New Year.

LYNN SAYS:

When planning your luncheon dessert parties, be sure to use this season's rich color schemes on your tables and favors and placecards. White with silver, gold, blue, red are tops right now. If you like three color combinations, there's green, white and gold, blue, white and gold, or white, red and green.

For an elaborate color scheme use the rich tones of violet, emerald, gold, blue and red. This is especially good in a centerpiece.

Bridge placecards may be made out of paper chrysanthemums in your favorite color with the card tilting out of the flower. The white cards may also be decorated with painted flowers, or candy-shaped flowers pasted in the corner. Evergreen, holly, mistletoe, bright berries, pine cones, used alone or with a silver ornament such as a bell on the place card are sure to bring delighted murmurs from your bridge guests.

INFORMATION FOR THOSE WHO ARE OVERWEIGHT

True obesity is a constitutional disorder in which there is a compulsory tendency to gain weight unless the intake of food and expenditure of energy are kept under control all of the time. In this condition, the body tissues have a greater tendency than normal to deposit fat.

Fortunately many people who are overweight do not have this abnormal condition. During childhood, adolescence and early adult life, a high calorie, high vitamin, high protein diet containing adequate minerals is necessary for normal growth. At this period of life people are most active physically and need more calories. Thus they become accustomed to eating large amounts of food, are not satisfied with smaller quantities. When they stop growing and go to work they are apt to be less active physically and require less food. But they continue their usual high calorie diet and the portion no longer needed for the production of heat and energy is converted into fat. Sometimes such a gain in weight does not come until the individual changes from hard manual labor to some less arduous type of work.

Gains During Pregnancy.

During pregnancy and while nursing their babies, women have to eat enough to nourish two and so eat much more than they did formerly. Then when the baby is weaned they continue on the high calorie diet. As they no longer require the extra nourishment, they gain weight and lose their lovely girlish figures.

The change of life in some 20 or 30 per cent of women so affects the balance between the various glands that their diet causes them to gain weight.

It is relatively easy for those who are overweight because they eat more calories than they require, to reduce. Those who have the hereditary abnormal tendency to accumulate fat, water and salt find it much more difficult. Many believe that exercise, even violent exercise, is necessary if weight is to be lost. Those who have never engaged in athletics or who are too old to engage in them, consider passive exercise or massage indispensable. While exercise is good if started gradually and not carried to extremes weight can often be lost more easily and rapidly without it. Exercise increases hunger and thirst and makes it more difficult to stick to a restricted diet and so harder to lose weight.

Low Calorie Diet.

A low calorie diet (1,000 to 1,200 calories) is absolutely necessary for weight reduction. Such a diet can often be best tolerated if a cracker, a glass of fruit juice, or of skim milk is taken between meals. Thus low blood sugars that cause ravenous hunger are avoided. Any reducing diet must contain enough vitamins, minerals and proteins to satisfy the body requirements. It should contain one pint of skim milk, one egg, two ounces of fish, meat or fowl, three servings of vegetables (one of them raw) including potatoes, two servings of fruit (one of them raw) and one and one-half patties of butter. It should contain a minimum of fats, sugars, sweets and starches and the fluid intake should be decreased. To make it quantitatively more satisfying, eat more meat, cheese and leafy vegetables may be taken.

When you have thus lost enough, add to your reducing diet just enough to enable you to maintain the desired weight. If you go back to your old diet, you will again rapidly put on the pounds.

"The constant drip will wear away the stone; the constant imperfection of nutrition, though this be relatively slight, will wear away the body."—Sir Robert McCarrison.

We Can All Be EXPERT BUYERS

● In bringing us buying information, as to prices that are being asked for what we intend to buy, and as to the quality we can expect, the advertising columns of this newspaper perform a worth while service which saves us many dollars a year.

● It is a good habit to form, the habit of consulting the advertisements every time we make a purchase, though we have already decided just what we want and where we are going to buy it. It gives us the most priceless feeling in the world: the feeling of being adequately prepared.

● When we go into a store, prepared beforehand with knowledge of what is offered and at what price, we go as an expert buyer, filled with self-confidence. It is a pleasant feeling to have, the feeling of adequacy. Most of the unhappiness in the world can be traced to a lack of this feeling. This advertising shows another of its manifold facets—shows itself as an aid toward making all our business relationships more secure and pleasant.
