COUNTY TIRE BOARD WILL MEET WEEKLY

Inspectors Named in Each Community of County

The first meeting of the Iosco County Tire Rationing Board was held Saturday morning with County Clerk Russell McKenzie, county tire administrator, Chas. A. Pinkerton, of East Tawas, and Hobart Brayman, of Au Sable, as members. Regular meetings of this board will be held every Saturday morning at the county clerk's office.

County Clerk McKenzie said yesterday that applicants for new tires should fill out the first two pages of application blank and take to their local inspector for tire inspection. Tire inspectors named by this board to date are: Charles Bellville, Whittemore; Fred Rempert, Tawas City; Thomas White, East Tawas; Oscoda Garage, Oscoda; Howard Atkinson, Hale. Application blanks may be secured from the county clerk, local tire inspectors, postoffices or police officers.

After old tires are inspected by the local inspector, the application must be presented in person by the applicant at a regular meeting of the Tire Rationing Board for approval. If the application is approved and a certificate authorizing purchase of tires is issued, the tires may be purchased from any dealer.

Certificates for the purchase of new tires for general use cannot be secured. Information on eligibility for the purchase of new tires may be secured from the county clerk.

Victory Book Campaign Launched in County

Miss Leonora Hass, Iosco county librarian, has been named director for the local Victory Book Campaign which has been launched in Michigan under the leadership of Mrs. Leola D. Fyan, Michigan state librarian.

The campaign has been planned to provide books for men in the armed services in camps, aboard ships and on foreign duty and is a joint project of the USO, American Red Cross and the American Library Association.

The Army and Navy have excellent libraries in charge of trained librarians in every large camp but they cannot meet the needs of such an expanded armed force as is now underway. Millions of books are needed in our camps and recreation centers near the camps, in posts from the East Indies to Alaska and in our ships at sea.

They are asking for books that will interest men and cover a wide range of reading. Books must be in good condition and not too old. Subjects asked for are current affairs, military publications and up-to-date technical books (copyright date 1935 or later), grammars, mathematics, shorthand, photography, music, sports, poetry, geography, recent travel and biography, history (particularly European, North and South America), foreign languages; also adventure and westerns, aviation, historical, humor and mystery. Magazines are not wanted.

Books may be left at the libraries in Tawas City, East Tawas and Whittemore. Places where contributors may leave books in Hale and Alabaster will be announced later or they may be left at any of the above mentioned libraries.

With the Servicemen

Five Iosco men left yesterday (Thursday) for military service. They are: Roland R. Buch, Gordon Greene, Erwin Shover, Leonard Hosbach and Joseph Hennigar.

Willard Wright is on the U. S. S. Saratoga according to a recent letter.

Harvey Rempert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Rempert of this city, has been promoted to sergeant and is now stationed at Camp Haan, California. Harvey is in the Motor Transport service and says that their slogan is "Keep 'em rolling."

James Phillips, son of Mrs. Frank Blust of Tawas township, left Monday to enter Great Lakes Training station for Naval training. His brother, John Phillips, is in training at Camp Berkeley, Texas.

Martin J. McCormick and twin sons, Alvin and Melvin, of Turner, have joined the United States Navy. The McCormick family are former Tawas City residents. The father, Martin McCormick, enlisted as Machinist Mate, second class, and his son, Alvin, are now stationed at Great Lakes, Illinois. Melvin is at Saginaw for examination.

Francis Murray returned Monday to Grand Rapids after spending the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Murray. Francis attends the St. Joseph seminary.

Behning-McCourt

Frank A. McCourt, formerly of Tawas City, and Miss Wilma Behning, of Ossineke, were united in marriage on Saturday, January 10, at two o'clock at the First Methodist church, Bay City with Rev. Wolfe officiating.

The bride was attired in a Heaven Blue gown with black and blue accessories, complimented with orchids. Her attendant, Mrs. Robert Newman, wore a similar gown in pink with a corsage of red roses. Lyle McCourt, a cousin, attended the groom.

Mrs. McCourt and Mrs. Behning, both chose black crepe with shoulder bouquets of roses and sweetpeas. The altar was banked with gladioli, fern and palms. Mrs. Lyle McCourt played Wendellson's wedding march. Jasper Price, of Fontaine, brother-in-law of the groom, and Charles Price, Jr., cousin, sang "I Love You Truly."

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McCourt of 211 N. Leon, Bay City, in honor of their son and his bride. Buffet luncheon was served on an attractive fillet lace table cloth, centered with a huge wedding cake. Mrs. Anthony Millitello poured from a silver coffee service at one end of the table, while the opposite end was laid with crystal. Tall candelabra with long tapering candles were the only source of light.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Price, Mrs. Chas. Price, Sr. and Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Price, Jr. of Pontiac, Mrs. A. E. Lindener, of Detroit, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Behning, Mr. and Mrs. A. Behning and Mr. and Mrs. Gurke, of Ossineke.

With best wishes and congratulations, Mr. and Mrs. McCourt left for a short motor trip. Upon their return they will be at home to their friends and relatives in Ossineke.

New Hot Lunch Program Launched in County

A new idea in hot lunch programs for rural schools will be tried out in Iosco county this winter according to County School Commissioner Russell Rollin. The new method will be to employ NYA girls for preparing the lunches in the schools.

A meeting was held Monday evening at the Greenwood school to discuss the new method. The meeting was held under the direction of School Commissioner Rollin and Miss Dorothy Scott, county home extension agent. Nine schools were represented with the teachers and NYA girl cooks present. The girl cooks will receive instructions in hot lunch preparation at a class which will be held next Wednesday evening in the home economics room at the Tawas City High school. Workshop methods of instruction will be used.

The idea is new and its first try-out will be in Iosco county. Other sections of the state will adopt the method if it proves practical. The sponsors here are enthusiastic.

Under the sponsorship of the Silver Valley committee, Queen Leta will participate for honors in the contest for Queen of the Northland at Alpena.

About 300 people were in attendance on "Iosco County Day," last Saturday, at Silver Valley. During the milder weather the attendance Sunday jumped to 1700, with many from Bay City, Saginaw and other sections of the state enjoying the sport.

Indications are that this week-end will bring out a larger number of people. Among those who plan to be here are the Huron Forest Ski Club, and Waltham League of Bethlehem Lutheran church, Saginaw.

The Waltham League members were here last year and were enthusiastic about Silver Valley. About 60 of these young people are expected next Sunday. They will attend Zion church in the morning, and enjoy the activities at Silver Valley in the afternoon. The use of the Zion parish hall has been given the young people for a place in which to serve their dinners and supper.

Some of the older members of this party plan to take part in a rabbit hunting expedition.

Income Tax Information

Forms for filing returns of income for 1941 have been sent to persons who filed returns last year. Failure to receive a form, however, does not relieve a taxpayer of his obligation to file his return and pay the tax on time—on or before March 16 if the return is made on the calendar year basis, as is the case with most individuals.

Forms may be obtained upon request, written or personal, from the office of collectors and from deputy collectors of internal revenue in the larger cities and towns.

A person should file his return on Form 1040, unless his gross income for 1941 does not exceed $3,000 and consists wholly of salary, wages, or other compensation for personal services, dividends, interest, rent, annuities, or royalties, in which event he may elect to file it on Form 1040A, a simplified form on which the tax may readily be ascertained by reference to a table contained in the form.

The return must be filed with the collector of internal revenue for the district in which the taxpayer has his legal residence or principal place of business on or before midnight of March 16, 1942. The tax may be paid in full at the time of filing the return or in four equal installments, due on or before March 16, June 15, September 15, and December 15.

In making out your income tax return read carefully the instructions that accompany the form. If you need more information, it may be obtained at the office of the collector of internal revenue, deputy collector, or an internal revenue agent in charge.

Remember that single persons or married persons not living with husband or wife, who earn as much as $14.43 a week for the 52 weeks of the year, and married persons living together who have aggregate earnings of as much as $28.85 a week for the year, are required to file returns.

DEEP WATER ISLAND

by ALAN LEMAY

CHAPTER I

The weathered, one-eyed little pilot who called himself Captain Ramey was an unfamiliar figure on the terraces of Honolulu's luxury hotels; he was here now, at the same table with Karen Waterson and John Colt, only because he was trying to persuade Colt to charter his Diesel boat. In this connection he was telling a rambling story concerned with reefs and shoals, and the tricky currents of the South Seas; but now he stopped abruptly in mid-sentence. His single eye was looking across the lanai of the Royal Hawaiian, across the dimly lighted little tables, to the steps which led onto the open air terrace where they sat.

"There he is," he said after a moment. His voice dropped from its narrative sing-song to a tone of reality. "That man, there on the steps, is Tonga Dick."

Karen Waterson, her lashes veiling her sharp curiosity, moved her head a little, slowly, so that she could look at the white-clad figure Ramey pointed out.

"The one with the tray of dishes? Oh, excuse me, I was looking at the wrong door."

The man designated as Tonga Dick moved down to the lanai with a loose leisure. The lights of the hotel lounge were behind him, so that the girl could not see his face; but she saw that he was slim as a slat, and that his slow stroll almost slouched and almost swaggered, while denying both. Watching him, Karen gathered a suggestion of easy-going arrogance which she found faintly intimidating—perhaps because she had too often tried to imagine what this man was like.

A table captain led Tonga Dick to a place at one side, under a wine palm. Karen saw a match flare in the shadows as he lit a cigarette; then she turned back to the two men at her table.

A shiver had run across Karen's shoulders as she turned from her inspection of Tonga Dick, but she was not cold. No one could be cold in that mild, blossom-fragrant air. The truth was that she was disturbed by a sense of utter unreality. Honolulu itself seemed unreal, and the night lanai of the hotel seemed the most unreal thing in it.

Mostly that illusion was in the texture of the night itself. It was in the mild caress of the soft air, and in the strangely quieting, strangely exciting odor of many blossoms. The half-darkness of the starlight seemed full of the ghosts of long forgotten things, crowding close in the warmth of a night that could not turn cold.

Karen supposed she would have felt differently if she had been here as a tourist, to relax and to enjoy, but she was not. For the first time in her life Karen found herself in a position of attack instead of defense—gambling for stakes that a year ago would have been beyond her belief.

Ramey, the little one-eyed sea-tramp, was talking to Colt about Tonga Dick. Like a hundred others who odd-jobbed in the Islands, the weather-faced Ramey contained a vast store of Island information—mostly unusable—and very little else.

"This here Dick Wayne—Tonga Dick—he's what you might call the black sheep of the Waynes."

"He don't figure much, around Hawaii," Ramey explained—"nothing like his uncle does, not even like his two brothers. Generally speaking, you can leave him out of the picture."

"My experience," John Colt said, "is that to leave any factor out of a picture is like leaving a plank out of a ship." John Colt's pleasant, deeply suave voice carried the reassurance of actuality and of the things which John Colt knew how to control. "Black sheep or not, he can't be insignificant, because he is one of the Waynes."

"In some ways," Ramey admitted, twirling his whiskey soda, "Tonga Dick has been the most talked about of all the Waynes."

"Talked about?" Colt prompted.

"He was always the wild one," Ramey remembered, "even when he was a kid. He pulled out on his own when he was eighteen."

"How is it he's talked about," John Colt suggested, "if he's never there?"

"People keep wondering what his racket is," Ramey said. "After Tonga Dick broke off from his uncle, people always wondered what he was up to, and how he got by, so well. He's got him a good fast schooner, carrying both power and sail, and he goes whacking around the South Pacific, all over, from Viti Levu to the Tuamotus. Used to be, people thought he was in the copra trade; and even after the price of copra went to nothing, some still figured he was trading shell. But that boat of his can't carry any cargo—ain't built for it. And there's always been others that said—well you know how people talk."

"They said—?"

"Oh, of course there was always a lot of wild stories," said Ramey deprecatorily, but with relish. "I've heard it said he was in the opium trade. And then again I heard it said he was trading Chinese girls; and if any authorities took to overhaul him—why, he just drowned 'em."

"Do you happen," Colt asked Ramey, "to know of anything that Richard Wayne actually did?"

Ramey, who hated to have his stories winnowed out, put forward his next offering with some heat. "Well—everybody knows about the time he threw the U. S. Revenue officer overboard. I don't know why they never hooked him for it, but I got my suspicions. And everybody knows he was the one who shot old Chief Tahili, and the only reason he never come to trial, the natives wouldn't let the French authorities take him, and the whole business got lost in the files. And then there was the time he boarded the British merchant sloop, and took the captain off, at sea; and nothing came of that because nobody on the sloop, not even the captain himself, would testify. All such phoney stuff, like that . . ."

"But what does he do, to make money?" John Colt asked.

Ramey looked sulky. Karen Waterson saw a hopeful flicker pass across his features, and she knew it represented Ramey's impulse to make up an answer to suit. But the flicker died. Something hard and watchful was always waiting behind Colt's habitually genial eyes. After men had known him for a little while they did not offer him home-made stories about anything.

"I don't know," Ramey said sullenly. Suddenly he flared up. "Give me a few weeks below the line," he almost snarled. "If you think there's anything in the everlasting Pacific that I can't find out—"

Karen Waterson was amazed at the ferocity of the little man. Very evidently, Ramey's pride was touched. If an odd-job man in the Pacific did not possess a futile omniscience, presumably he possessed nothing at all.

But now John Colt sat back; his candid air of interest withdrew itself, gracefully, not too fast.

"I'll see you later, Ramey. Let me hear from you in a week."

For a moment Ramey was motionless, reluctant to leave a scene which he could seldom afford; but he tossed off his drink and rose. "Okay," he said. "Good night, Miss Waterson."

When he was gone John Colt rested his folded arms upon the table and leaned across it toward Karen.

"Frightened?" he asked sympathetically.

She met his steady gaze with eyes that were clear and cool under dark brows. "Wherever I am," she said, "there will always be a little of the spirit of fresh country butter, unconscious and unsubdued. No, I'll be honest. I do feel a little lost, I think."

"You'll be over that in a few days. After all, aren't you practically a native daughter? You mustn't forget that you came within an ace of being born in the Islands yourself, child."

"There's nothing here," Karen murmured, "that doesn't seem strange. Even all these people from the Pacific coast look strange, as if they didn't belong here. Like snow on a straw hat. I don't feel as if I belonged here either."

He operated his reassuring smile. "But, you see, you do belong here. These islands were your grandfather's stamping ground before any of these people were born. If he had lived he would have made part of these islands yours, Karen."

"We don't know that," Karen said. "I don't believe he ever even heard I was alive. Oh, what a shocking deprivation!"

"He undoubtedly did not know you were alive," Colt agreed. "If he had known it, he would never have let them get his island away from him. He would have saved it for you. A lonely old man, with no kin left so far as he knew—it's reasonable that he should be reckless with his property; and undoubtedly he was very hard beset when he sold Alakoa. But if Garrett Waterson had known he had a granddaughter, things would be different now."

She looked at him gratefully. It was hard to imagine John Colt failing in anything; and this, rather than his smile, with its easy, superficial warmth, conveyed a certain reassurance to Karen.

"I have been very fortunate in finding out what we needed to know," John Colt said now. "Some of it has cost a little money, but not too much. I'm glad to say that all reports are extremely favorable. We have dug up more witnesses, and more conclusive testimony that we could possibly have hoped. And when it comes to the present condition of your island—"

"It isn't my island yet."

"You simply have to hold in mind that it is rightfully yours. And it's going to be yours in actuality. Your claim has a wealth of legal precedent here, principally because of the white man's habit of separating the natives from their things. What I started to say is that the Alakoa plantations are in wonderful shape—I don't see how they can possibly net less than forty or fifty thousand a year. There will be no trouble at all in financing a continuance of activity, without any hitch, as soon as you take over. Old James Wayne has evidently been an excellent manager. After you have taken possession, it may prove wise to employ him as such. That would be feasible with some men—I don't know whether or not it will be possible with James Wayne."

The driving energy behind John Colt never caused him to hurry, nor to stumble. He knew how to attack swiftly, but his plan of attack was always thorough to the last detail.

"I have not the least doubt," he told Karen, "that we'll win your case. Of course there will be several appeals. But I am now convinced that in the end Alakoa will be yours, just as inevitably as sunrise. Very little is left to be done."

Karen drew a deep breath, trying to contemplate rationally this incredible dream in which she, unaccountably, found herself playing a living part.

"The one thing I would like to know now is just what this Richard Wayne, this so-called Tonga Dick, is doing here."

"He's one of the brothers, isn't he? Isn't it natural that he should come back under the—the circumstances?"

"Possibly; but not necessarily. Richard Wayne may or may not expect to inherit a part interest in the island of Alakoa. Certainly he has been at outs with his whole family for some time. I would like to know exactly why he is here."

"But if our case is complete—"

"One thing could beat us, and break our case completely, and lose you Alakoa forever. One thing, and only one thing."

"And that?"

"If you don't mind, I'd rather not discuss that angle of it, even with you."

His eyes did not avoid her as he said that; his practiced air of candor remained imperturbable. Nevertheless, a small unwelcome chill touched Karen. A shadow of something very like unpleasant mystery was beginning to creep into a situation that was already disturbing.

"It must be something pretty poisonous," she said.

"On the contrary, it is a contingency that I think improbable in the extreme. I think it is impossible that we lose. But I still would like to know more about Richard Wayne."

"Why wouldn't it be a dandy idea," Karen said hopefully, "for me to talk it over with Tonga Richard himself?"

"For you to—what?"

"Ask him why he's here."

"Are you being funny?"

"Well, isn't he the only one who knows?"

"Ha-ha," said John Colt dutifully, mistaking his cue.

"I mean it, John," Karen said. "I suppose Richard Wayne's brothers know what I look like, by this time. But Tonga Dick has just arrived; it's very possible that neither you nor I have been pointed out to him. If not—why can't Mr. Wayne and I have a clubby little chat?"

John Colt looked at her acutely; undoubtedly she had surprised him. "Just what is it you want to do?"

"Well—for instance, if you will leave the table, I'll have him come and sit in your place."

Partly, Karen knew, the suggestion was born of an irrepressible curiosity to know more about Tonga Dick. But partly also it was the result of a desire to take part in action—any kind of action—that would relieve for a little while her intolerable drifting in currents which she could not control.

John Colt slowly sipped the remainder of his Scotch before he replied. Almost visibly she saw him conclude that, after all, Karen knew little that could prove helpful to the Waynes.

Clever invitations can be sent out by using a miniature plan of the house, a rough drawing or silhouette of the house and writing the invitation inside or out as it best fits.

First war poster of the new World War, painted by the distinguished artist James Montgomery Flagg, carries an appeal for a $50,000,000 war fund to aid the victims of aggression upon the United States and its island possessions.

To aid the victims of warfare being waged upon America and her island possessions, the American Red Cross has issued an appeal for a $50,000,000 war fund. Chairman Norman H. Davis announced from the national headquarters in Washington.

Mr. Davis urged men, women and children to give to this mercy fund through their local Red Cross Chapters. These funds will support the Chapter's war work with the families of men in the military services, as well as the broad relief program of the national Red Cross.

President Roosevelt, who is president of the American Red Cross, issued a proclamation urging all citizens to give to the Red Cross war fund.

Money Divorce Cause

Money, or rather the lack of it, is the most common cause of marital troubles, according to Circuit Judge Paul D. Barnes of Miami, and he should know, for last year he handled 4,000 divorce cases. "Willingness to live within income is the most important thing I can say to young married couples," Judge Barnes said. "The tendency to exceed income seems to be a fashion of the times, but it's probably the most disastrous habit married couples can fall into."

This is a 'Corker'

Here's a story that may well be termed a "corker." Recently Robert E. Adams of Shreveport, La., mourned the disappearance of $40—his whole week's pay. He considered himself a "hard-luck guy." A happy ending came later, however, when he found the money—in his cork leg. Adams said he apparently had put the money in his trousers pocket in which there was a hole, and the money fell through into the artificial limb.

Pigeons Fly Coop

An Akron, Ohio, officer testified he knew his prisoner was drunk because his eyes were bloodshot, whereupon the prisoner calmly removed his glass eye and the judge said "case dismissed." The Messrs. Kurwoski and Stawdohr of Chicago, each claiming ownership of three pigeons, suggested that the judge release the birds which then would wing home to their rightful cotes. A window was opened, the doves flew forth—whither no man knoweth to this day.

Money Divorce Cause

Money, or rather the lack of it, is the most common cause of marital troubles, according to Circuit Judge Paul D. Barnes of Miami, and he should know, for last year he handled 4,000 divorce cases. "Willingness to live within income is the most important thing I can say to young married couples," Judge Barnes said. "The tendency to exceed income seems to be a fashion of the times, but it's probably the most disastrous habit married couples can fall into."

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

By Edward C. Wayne

'Biggest Budget in World's History' For Expanding of U. S. War Program Will Cost Nation 56 Billion Dollars; Russians Continue to Push Back Nazis

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

SOMEWHERE IN CHINA.—Veteran Chinese soldiers of this type, pictured at a railway station "Somewhere in China," are advancing toward Malaya to aid the hard-pressed forces of the British against the Japs. It was reported that veterans of this type took part in the slaughter of Jap troops in the Changsha, China, this year.

TAXES: Billions on Billions

Americans who had been given grim satisfaction by the President's stirring message to congress faced with what courage they could muster the huge bill that will have to be paid, 56 billions of dollars.

Congress, to a man, had told the President "we will give you the money." OPM had said, "We can and will do it," and labor said, "we will not stop working." And the country, with surprisingly little grumbling, but with no small measure of worrying, decided to dig down into its earnings to foot half the bill this year.

Twenty-seven billions of dollars, taxes of nine billions on top of 18 billions were to be levied to meet as much as possible of the due bill as it is spent.

On the basis of 130,000,000 people, the expenditure in taxes for the federal war program, added to whatever local and state taxes might be levied, would be $204 for each person, man, woman or child; $813 for a family of four. That of course was an average, with those better able to pay shouldering the larger portion of the burden.

The "overall" war expenditure estimate was thus brought to 131 billions, or three times the total cost to this country of World War No. 1.

Mr. Roosevelt frankly had told newsmen it was the biggest budget in the history of the world. Government authorities said it was twice the estimated annual war expenditure of Germany.

On top of the taxes, it would be necessary to borrow 32 billions. The national debt, therefore, would skyrocket to $110,000,000,000, or about three times the huge figure of June, 1940.

The nine extra billions, the President said, would be divided into seven billions in direct taxes of various types, though he said he opposed a general sales tax. The other two billions would be in the form of new social security taxes.

Existing taxes of all descriptions would be continued, and they have been estimated as due to produce 18 billions.

The war allocations had been split as follows: 18½ billions for the army; 17 billions for supplemental but unspecified items; seven billions to the navy; 7½ billions for the lease-lend program; 1½ billions for the ship program, the rest for miscellaneous purposes.

Perhaps a billion can be lopped off of non-defense government activities, the President said—that is all.

REACTION: Local and World

Britain was exultant over the program, believed it adequate for the swiftest possible victory, and praised the administration to the skies for the stand it was taking, and the X-Y-Z or all-out plan to win the war.

One London headline had been typical—"The Yanks Are Coming," which was the British answer to President Roosevelt's promise to send to the British Isles a large A.E.F.

Australian premier, John Curtin, said the President's plan was one for "working and fighting."

Italy called the plan "sensational and spectacular" and was not to be believed. Nevertheless, the Italian censors did not permit the newspapers to publish the figure—185,000 planes, 120,000 tanks in 1943.

Germans also were not allowed to discover what the American production plans were, and the Reich sources were belittling, calling the program a "warm-over" of previous utterances by the President.

Italians went further and said that these armaments were all in the future, a future that would come too late.

Cause for Study

Senator Walter F. George of Georgia, chairman of the Senate Finance committee, is pictured looking over the 1,172 pages of the 1943 fiscal year budget. His chief interest in the budget would be a study of it with a view of planning new tax measures. The war budget calls for $56,000,000,000.

FARMER: Has Prospects

President Roosevelt was seen by senate leaders as opposed to the proposal of the farm bloc to have secretary of agriculture given the authority to exercise veto power on wartime controls of farm products.

Senator Brown of Michigan said that the President approves having a single price administrator handle all price questions, including those of farm products.

Brown, however, conceded that the farm bloc had powerful support and that the vote on such a measure, if it came to that, would be close indeed.

Secretary Wickard is getting support for the post of farm price czar from both parties. The dispute, of course, is between him and Leon Henderson, the price administrator.

Under the present bill, Brown pointed out, $1.40 wheat would be a possibility. The average market price on December 15 was $1.02.

Cotton similarly could be purchased for 16.2 cents a pound, and could go to 19.65 cents before the law would take over control.

Beef, however, had currently been selling higher than it would under the bill, he added.

Also getting considerable support was a Senator Taft proposal that neither Wickard nor Henderson be given farm price control, but that it be vested in a board of five members. This Taft proposal might form the test of sentiment on the other two proposals.

CHINA: Changsha Victory

The Chinese victory over the Japs at Changsha was termed by Chiang Kai-shek as a possible turning point of the war. It was the third successive setback for the Japanese at this city, and the most disastrous.

Some Chinese newspapers were urging that the Chinese armies now strike into Thailand and Indo-China direct to menace the Jap rear and relieve the pressure on Malaya.

The Chinese said that in addition to the 30,000 Japs killed in the battle, they got 7,000 more as the fleeing Nipponese attempted to cross a nearby river, with Chinese lying ambushed on the far bank.

A Jap force of 40,000 was said to be trapped in one locality. The total estimated Japanese strength of the drive on Changsha was 100,000 men. Few of them, according to Chungking, were able to get away to the north.

ZEPPELINS: Raid the East?

Army authorities in Washington said it definitely "was in the cards" that Germany might try to get their two huge dirigibles into the air for token raids on the east coast of the United States.

It was revealed after the last war that the big transatlantic Zeppelin of those days was being groomed for just such a trip, but which never came off.

The sister ship of the Von Hindenburg, which was destroyed by flames in New Jersey was said to be still in existence, together with another Zeppelin of the L-Z type, capable of flying the Atlantic.

Each of them, army men said, could be loaded with 10 bombing planes, could drop them to take-offs within easy flying distance of east-coast cities.

Or, they pointed out, it would be possible for the airships themselves to be loaded with an enormous quantity of bombs and to make a "suicide" flight over one or more eastern cities, dropping their deadly cargoes before planes could shoot them down.

MISCELLANY:

London: Terrific raids on occupied countries in Europe were believed the definite forerunner of an invasion attempt on Europe by the Allies, it was said in informed quarters. The invasion is set for springtime.

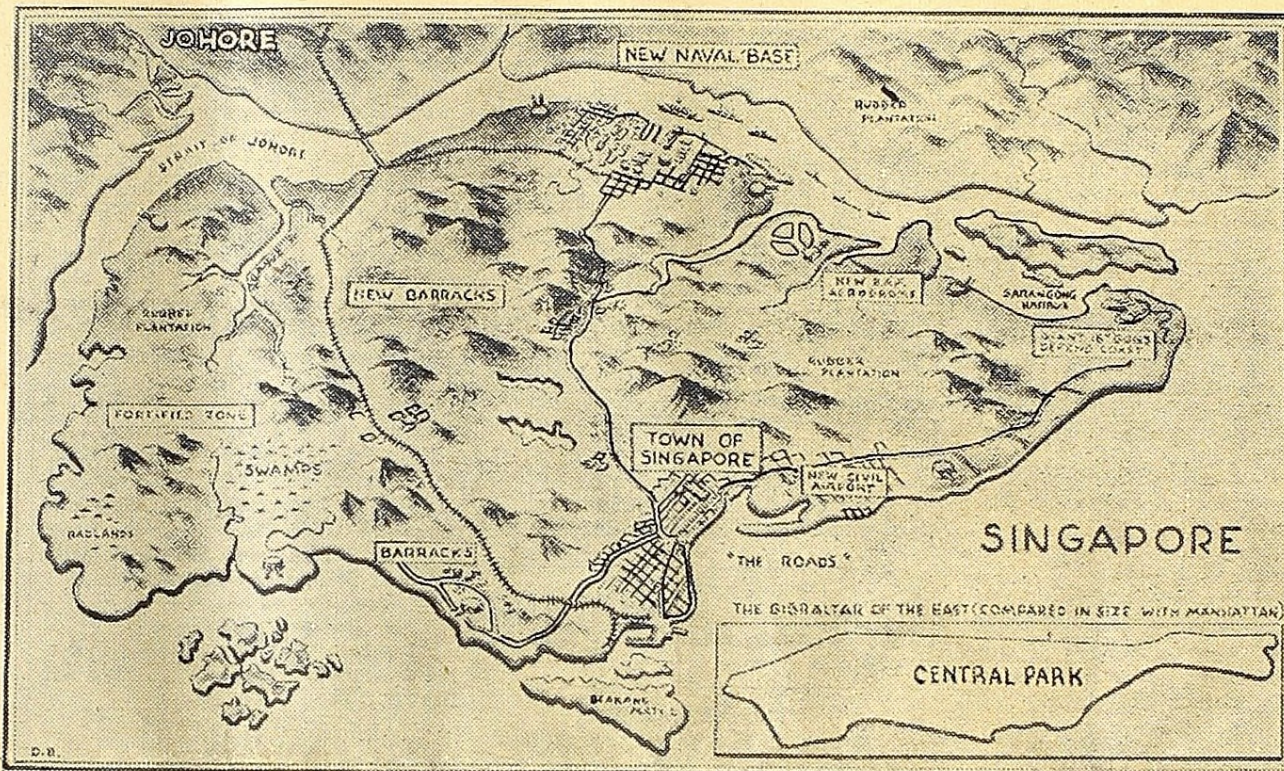

Ottawa: Canada's production for war will be nearly doubled, in line with the President's plans for the United States.

A Couple of Good Cracks at Herr Hitler

Singapore, Gibraltar of East, Is Rich Prize

The defenses of Singapore, the Gibraltar of the East, are, naturally, military secrets, but this map of the British island fortress gives some idea of the city's size, its resources and harbor facilities. Raid-free in the first days of the Pacific war, Singapore was attacked repeatedly by Jap bombers but valiantly defended. Martial law was declared in the Singapore area shortly after the first attack by Japanese invaders.

Putting Extra Stretch in Rubber

We will all have to do without new automobile tires for the present. Next best thing is a re-treading job on your old ones, if they are too smooth for safety. At left you see a re-treading operation in progress. A "camel back," or new rubber top, is vulcanized to the old casing to give a new gripping tread. At the right is shown how a worn-out tire compares with one that has just been given a face lift, or a new tread. The recapped tire is at left; the old "smoothy" beside it.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON
(Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK.—People who send questions to radio quiz programs have been missing a chance to collect on "Who is the president of China?" The usual answer, as we try out the question, is Chiang Kai-shek—the generalissimo and not the president.

Lin Sen, serene and venerated patriarch, has been president of China for 10 years. He could be called doctor, and he has many honorary titles, but he likes to be called Mr. Lin Sen. Just now, he is casually and obscurely in the news, with word of powerful generals making pilgrimages to his peaceful retreat, not to talk war, but to visit him as they might a priest or physician.

He is a benign old gentleman, bespectacled, with a snow-white goatee, a scholar and an artist, wise and humorous and, above all, serene. He is one of the most famous chirographers of China and, so that he may quietly practice his art, he made a studio in a ruined garrison, with walls 10 feet thick. There, on bamboo paper, faced with silk, he copies the classics in swift, beautiful brush strokes, schooling himself in their wisdom. Sun Fo, president of the executive yuan, takes care of the merely temporal and practical details of the presidency. Mr. Lin Sen is free to practice wisdom and virtue and impart it to his people in beautiful characters.

Mr. Lin Sen was a missionary student in San Francisco's Chinatown, studied western civilization diligently and, returning to China, preached a careful distinction between a civilization and a culture. He said China must be modernized, and joined Dr. Sun Yat Sen, to that end, but insisted that China would lose its soul if it took only guns and machines from the west—that force alone always failed, even when it seemed to be triumphant. He maintained that true morality would in the end prevail even over bombs and bullets. But the latter, he believed, were all right in their place and in 1931 he became president, as the advocate of vigorous resistance against the Japanese aggression. His gods have generously answered for him an ancient Chinese prayer: "May your writing writ be as limber as a willow-wythe."

JOSEPH B. EASTMAN used to be a social settlement worker in his young days. It has been apparent that in this he experienced a certain disillusionment as to the grand solution, for in his later years he has been a pragmatic liberal and it is as such that he tackles one of the most important jobs of the war, as chairman of the new office of defense transportation. All he will have to do will be to gear all transport into a working unit, to keep things moving on railroads, air lines, truck lines, inland waterways, coastwise and inter-coastwise shipping lines and pipelines.

It was a much simpler job when William G. McAdoo took it over in the first World war, with plane and motor transport negligible. Mr. Eastman, through his long service as chairman of the Interstate Commerce commission and as former co-ordinator of the railroads, has grown into it.

Socially minded from his Amherst and Phi Beta Kappa days, he became a hard-working "good neighbor" at the South End house of Boston, then counsel for the Boston Street Railway employees and later a member of the Massachusetts Public Service commission. When Woodrow Wilson named him to the ICC, he wrote a regretful letter saying he would like to serve, but there was a bar sinister in his career—he was a Republican. Mr. Wilson laughed that off and Mr. Eastman has served under five Presidents. Supreme Court Justice Brandeis had recommended his original appointment. Railroad moguls like him personally and denounce his ideas.

He threw a switch on the first Van Sweringen merger proposal in 1927, later on L. F. Loree's proposed merger of the Katy and the Cotton Belt with his own Kansas City Southern, and in valuation, rate rise cases, receiverships, recaptures, mergers and the like he has been sharply at odds with the rail barons and definitely aligned with the drive toward firmer governmental control. Senate Progressives got themselves into a great lather in 1929, preparing to fight and die for their demand that he be reappointed. But President Hoover fooled them by doing just that.

Lights of New York

by L. L. STEVENSON

Seems queer to think of American soldiers in Dutch Guiana, especially in Paramaribo, the capital and principal city. When we were there, war clouds had not even begun to darken the sky. So no soldiers were on the streets and white-faced buildings stared peacefully at the river down which flowed sugar, rice, bananas, coffee, cacao and other products some of which had come from far into the interior and some of which were transported in canoes hollowed out of great logs. In addition, there were boats carrying bauxite, that hard, clay-like deposit which is the source of aluminum; and aluminum of course is the reason why the United States is interested in the Dutch colony which is a pocket in the shoulder of the upper East coast of South America. We recall also the sugar warehouses on the water front since raw sugar, under a tropic sun, makes its presence known in a way unpleasant to the nose.

New York was in the grip of snow and ice, but in Paramaribo, the temperature was 126 degrees. That may account for the fact that not a vehicle was to be seen on the main street and only a few casual strollers, all with black faces which were not to be wondered at since the entire white population of the colony is only about 2,000. But Paramaribo's main street was of much interest to us not only because of its picturesqueness, but because we had been told that the British, in long-ago days, had traded Paramaribo to the Dutch for New York. Therefore the main street of Paramaribo was the Broadway of the city. We had never seen Broadway when the temperature was more than 100 degrees and it looked pretty well melted at that. Nevertheless there were still crowds and some were in a hurry.

We arose early and visited the market. Paramaribo was busy then. Through the nights, meats, fish and vegetables had been brought in by canoe, oxcart and other primitive conveyances. There were great heaps of dried fish which were handled much as one handles laundry. Also there were flies. But what attracted us were bush Negroes who had come in to do their trading. Descendants of slaves who escaped from their masters, they live in the jungle much as did their forefathers in Africa. A piece of calico, worn toga fashion, was enough for a costume. To me, they looked like bronze statues that had become animated—the finest physical specimens I have ever seen. Certainly much finer than ever appear on Broadway.

Wonder if the pilot who met our ship as we neared the mouth of the river is still on the job. He came out in a motor boat with a flour-sack clad lad as his companion. The boat was hoisted to the deck by means of ropes. Because the tide was out we couldn't get over the bar. Might have conversed with the pilot except for the fact that though he was shiny black, he spoke mostly Dutch. Did learn that he had a wife and 16 children. Noted efficiency strange in the tropics. When we were in the harbor and his boat was being lowered, his assistant started the motor so it was running when they hit the water. Maybe he was in a hurry to get home.

A recent report showed that New York city—quick trip up from Paramaribo, eh what?—cleared about a quarter of a million dollars in 12 months through dimes paid to visit the observation deck at La Guardia field, parking lot fees, etc. The observation deck is popular with New Yorkers because celebs are always arriving by airplane and New Yorkers certainly like to goggle at celebs. There is also a chance to show off by naming them as they land. Celebs are easy to spot since there are always camera men on hand to greet them with flashing bulbs.

Food for Freedom

We all know the vital part that food plays in any war, and food can be expected to play the same role in our war with the Axis powers that it has played in all the wars of the world. Your farm can help, says Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard to more than six million U. S. farmers in urging them to produce more national defense foods such as milk, meat, eggs and vegetables, as part of our new Food for Freedom campaign.

Here is Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard. He practices what he preaches by making out an AAA farm plan for his own Indiana farm, showing how he will expand production of these foods in 1942.

Perry Thompson gives his hogs extra rations of corn to help provide plenty of pork, drawing on the huge reservoir of feed on hand in the nation's "Ever-Normal Granary."

Farm boys pitch in and help with milking and similar chores all over the nation, as their fathers strive to increase dairy production.

JOHN THE BAPTIST AND JESUS

LESSON TEXT—Luke 3:1-6, 15-17, 21, 22. GOLDEN TEXT—Thou art my beloved Son; in thee I am well pleased.—Luke 3:22.

"A reed shaken with the wind?" No. "A man clothed in soft raiment?" No. "A prophet?" Yea, I say unto you, and more than a prophet. For this is he, of whom it is written, Behold, I send my messenger before thy face. . . . Verily I say unto you, Among them that are born of women there hath not risen a greater than John the Baptist." Such was the testimony of Jesus (Matt. 11:7-11) about the man who in our lesson of today bears his testimony concerning Jesus.

I. John: the Preacher of Repentance (vv. 1-3).

The times in which a man lives will often make or break him. If times are dark and difficult most men submit to the burden of the day without protest or effort. But not so with John. The period in which he lived is graphically brought before us as we consider the names of civil and religious leaders mentioned in verses 1 and 2. Tiberius Caesar, the emperor, was virtual dictator, "talented, ambitious, cruel, licentious, infamous, inhuman" (Van Doren). Pilate was the governor of Judea, who later condemned Jesus to the cross. Herod was a seducer and murderer. Annas and Caiaphas shared the infamy into which the priesthood had fallen.

God needed a man with a flaming message of judgment, and He had him ready out in the wilderness, far from decadent Rome and spiritually dead Jerusalem. Upon this man John came the message, a word from God—"Repent"—which stirred the whole countryside. But he had even a greater mission.

II. John—the Forerunner of Jesus (vv. 4-6).

He humbly identifies himself as the voice in the wilderness prophesied by Isaiah. His was the important duty of preparing the way for the coming of the Lord Jesus.

The picture is that of the preparation for the coming of an oriental monarch. When he "was about to make a journey, a servant was sent before him to prepare the highway. Valleys needed to be filled, hills lowered, crooked places made straight, rough ways made smooth. Thus, before men would be ready to receive Christ, moral obstacles must be removed, men must repent of their sins and turn from them" (Erdman).

Isaiah says that "all flesh shall see the salvation of God," something which God has made possible, but which we have not even yet fully carried out. The gospel is universal in its character—for all mankind. This prophetic word will, of course, have its complete fulfillment when the King comes to reign. Then "they shall teach no more every man his neighbor, and every man his brother, saying, Know the Lord; for they shall all know me, from the least of them to the greatest of them" (Jer. 31:34).

III. John—the Follower of Jesus (vv. 15-17).

The humility of the man, his recognition of true greatness in Christ, his willingness to efface self, is seen in the words of these verses and in such other passages as John 1:29-30, where he directed his disciples to Jesus, whom they followed, and John 3:26-30, where in response to the effort to make him jealous of Jesus because his (John's) disciples followed Him, John replied, "He must increase, but I must decrease." He was glad to be the friend of the Bridegroom who rejoiced when the bridegroom came (John 3:29). He declared himself unworthy to loose the latchet of Christ's shoe (Luke 3:16).

The Christian virtue of humility is evil spoken of by a world of force and hatred, but it is still precious in the sight of God, and the ornament par excellence of Christian character. "Be clothed with humility; for God resisteth the proud and giveth grace to the humble" (1 Pet. 5:5).

As he put himself in the background, John put Christ forward as the one whose baptism would not be a material element, water, indicating the inward change of repentance, but would be with Holy Ghost fire, cleansing and transforming life.

However, the Christ who comes as a Saviour to the repentant one, comes also as the flaming fire of judgment upon the impenitent. There is wheat and chaff in the world of men, and the fan of Christ will soon separate the wheat which goes into His eternal garner from the chaff which He will burn with unquenchable fire.

Our God is a God of unfathomable grace, but He is also a God of severest judgment upon those "that obey not the gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ." Read the solemn words of II Thessalonians 1:7-9. It is an awful thing to reject the Saviour, and thus to make Him our Judge.

THIRD and FOURTH GRADES

We are glad that Junior McDonald is over the mumps and back with us again.

Melva Jean Brown has left our third grade because she had to move away. We are sorry she had to leave. We have a new pupil in the fourth grade. His name is Howard Shotwell. He came from Detroit.

At the regular meeting of the secret club last Friday afternoon we elected our officers for this month. They are: Donna Bublitz, president; James Smith, vice president; Bruce Myles, secretary.

Carolyn Galliker is visiting relatives in Detroit.

SEVENTH GRADE

We had an arithmetic test Friday. There were 54 problems to do. Tuesday we had a history test.

Rhea Ulman and Phyllis LaReau are absent because of illness.

We are buying defense stamps. Mr. Carlson gave us a booklet to put our stamps in.

EIGHTH GRADE

The eighth graders are not fooling around this week as we are studying for our semester exams. We have had a history test, a general science and arithmetic test.

The eighth grade girls put on a skit in home economics. One group had to portray a dirty and unkempt kitchen while the other group portrayed a clean and orderly kitchen. Both skits turned out very well and so did the taffy.

NINTH GRADE

Friday, the ninth graders found they were to entertain the Assembly on January 30. They weren't very happy about it.

The home economics class is talking about kitchen planning and how the home economics room could be made into a more convenient kitchen.

The biology class is studying about reforestation and how to improve the state parks.

Miss Sutton couldn't decide if she should give up or not when she looked at the test the ninth graders handed in January 9. It wasn't so good.

SHOP NEWS

Since the boys have returned from their Christmas vacation they are very ambitious. Herbert Blust has his book rack nearly completed. Raymond Simons has made a paper towel roller. Our shop teacher put a guard on the electric saw and shifted the motor so it is under the table. Olen Herriman has an end table well under way. A few shop boys participated in making blackout frames for the auditorium so that we can have moving pictures. (Olen and Don Herriman turned in a splendid piece of work on this project). Richard Prescott is making a medicine cabinet for the barn. Wade Montgomery is making a gun rack while Richard Shover is making a book case.

P-T-A MEETING

Twenty-two people braved the sub-zero temperatures to attend the third P-T-A. on Thursday evening, January 8.

Mr. Carlson again requested that all waste paper be saved and brought to the school. He also announced, "Scrap Week," and outlined the school's plans for selling defense stamps.

After some discussion about refreshments, Mr. Babcock appointed Mrs. James Leslie and Mrs. Frank Moore as a permanent refreshment committee.

Mr. Meyer, state sanitarian, and Miss Arnold, county nurse, showed movies and gave a brief talk depicting the health work that has been carried on throughout this district. The people can well be proud of the cooperation they have given their health unit. It has received special national honors for the work.

Mrs. Chubb and Mrs. Carlson were responsible for getting this worthwhile program.

DEBATING

Our debating team continues to bring us honors. Last Friday they met the Chesaning team and won the debate by a unanimous decision. Phil. Helen and Ruth must have given their usual good performances for the team to win every point.

Lady Luck travels with our debaters, on the following day Helen became ill with the mumps and has been out of school ever since.

By winning this debate, the team earned the right to compete in the elimination series.

Will Hold Further Sales Of Tax-Reverted Property

Responding to increased wartime demand for housing, the conservation department's land division is speeding preparations for further sales of tax-reverted platted lots with houses on them.

In a little more than a year the department has sold 5,350 pieces of platted property, most of them in cities where land use plans were developed by local officials and approved by the conservation commission. Lots in unincorporated villages are now figuring more prominently in the northern land sales.

Revert permits granted occupants of reverted properties while sales were pending expire on the sale date. After the sales, unsold properties go on the department's market list, available immediately to the first purchaser paying the appraised price at Lansing.

Besides lots having houses on them, lots suitable for home sites also are in demand.

Next sales in the northern counties where the conservation department administers state-owned land will be held February 2-6 for lots and acreage in Isabella, Clare, Mecosta, Osceola, Newaygo, Lake, Mason, Oceana and Manistee counties, and February 16-20 for lots and acreage in Midland, Gladwin, Ogemaw, Arenac, Iosco, Alcona, Roscommon, Osceola, Crawford and Wexford counties.
