C. T. PRESCOTT SPEAKS AT FARM MEET

Tells Part District Should Have in Defense Program

The part the Northeastern Michigan Hereford Calf association should have in the defense program was strongly emphasized in an address given by C. T. Prescott, Sr., at the annual meeting of the association held last Thursday afternoon. Mr. Prescott, who is president of the association, said "We, as farmers and Hereford cattle growers, the same as every other loyal American group or organization, will be called upon to play our part in the National Defense Program.

"What our various opinions may have been a few weeks or months ago regarding our entrance into the war, is past history. Today we stand united with one thought only—WIN THE WAR! It is an all-out effort from now on, and as our President has said, 'It must, and will be won.' We all know, however, that this war cannot be won by conservation and scenery. Talk will not scare the Axis powers. From now on it is a case of results, not excuses.

"Sacrifices and changes in our mode of living will have to be made. 'Business as usual' will not continue for the duration of the war. WIN THE WAR will be before us first, last and all the time.

"We will not be in this war as Hereford breeders, doctors, lawyers, merchants, chiefs or what have you, but as one united people, good, loyal Americans—Americans realizing their many past blessings, Americans wishing to continue their high standard of living, and possible the greater thought, Americans appreciating that there is no such thing as something for nothing.

"Freedom is not cheap. The cost is terrific and the sacrifices extreme. But we, are more than equal to the sacrifices that lie ahead of us to guard and keep this priceless possession, Freedom.

"The program as outlined by our Government is enormous, the appropriations that have been made are staggering. We speak of billions of dollars for this and billions of dollars for that. We speak in terms of thousands and thousands of planes and tanks, great numbers of destroyers and battleships, quantities of guns and munitions, we speak of increased production, and more and more production.

"How will this production be increased? We are told by industrial plant expansion, seven days a week and twenty-four hours a day. This is the plan that is set up for industry.

"With this plan in mind there will be a much greater pull of man power from agriculture to industry. The Army and Navy enlistment and the draft will also take their toll from agriculture. The high wages paid by industry will make it harder and harder for us to solve our problems on the land. Seven days a week and twenty-four hours a day may be something new for the unions, but seven days a week on the farm is an old story. The farmer knows nothing about eight hour shifts, he just takes fourteen to sixteen hours a day for granted and says 'Where do we go from here.' He is used to it, he can take it and how he has taken it in the past. Even this has its compensations, he at least will not have to readjust himself to longer hours.

"So with the following picture in mind, let us try and get our bearings. The whole world is at war. General Sherman said 'War is Hell.' War means sacrifice and suffering. It means bombs and planes in the air, tanks and guns on the ground and submarines and torpedoes in the sea. It means tearful eyes and broken hearts, the demand for sailors, soldiers and airmen and an ever increasing demand for man power for the production of war materials. It also means increased taxes. It means the overlapping of committees, which in turn means a lack of definitely placed responsibility and authority, in fact it is appalling. Regardless of these conditions, there are certain things that cannot be changed by man or war. There will always be sunshine and rain, seedtime and harvest, but we know right now that we cannot have 'Business as Usual'.

"Where do we enter this Defense Program as cattlemen and farmers? "There will be an endless amount of production of everything needed to prosecute a war. Our part may not directly come in a major way regarding money and war materials, but it will most assuredly come in the increased food production that will have to be provided for the soldiers, sailors and factory workers, and possibly before the war is over to feed most of the world. It has been said that 'an army travels on its stomach' and that 'food will win the war.' These are true statements as past history has proven.

"Who then is much more important as a factor in winning the war than (Turn to No. 1 Back Page)

Secretary of State Praises Mrs. Lickfelt

Mrs. Marjorie Lickfelt, manager of the Secretary of State's Branch office in Tawas City, was highly praised in Lansing last week by Harry F. Kelly, Secretary of State, when annual reports brought to his attention revealed that Mrs. Lickfelt had made such fine accounting of her stewardship of state's affairs and money in Isosco county.

The Branch Office is located in the Courthouse, Tawas City. At this branch office all types of public assistance is rendered without charge, such as license plate and title transfers, replacing lost titles, etc. The branch issues license plates and collects the sales tax on automobile sales at a very nominal fee. The branch manager does not receive a salary for his work. During 1941 Mrs. Lickfelt issued 4,159 sets of automobile license plates including passenger commercial, farm commercial, trailer coach, trailer and hearse and ambulance plates, proving that 4,159 citizens of Isosco county had utilized the "extension" service of the Department of State, in addition to hundreds more who were given public assistance with titles and transfers when no license plate sales were involved.

Completing her third year as manager of the Secretary of State's Branch in Tawas City under Mr. Kelly's administration, Mrs. Lickfelt has handled $107,703.53 of the taxpayers' money and has accounted for it to the last penny.

Isosco county is directly coordinated into the activities of the Department of State through the Branch Office and through the Bureau of Investigation. A Department of State Investigator, Jesse McKenna, who resides at West Branch, conducts the investigations in Isosco, Alcona, Ogemaw, Osceola and Arenac counties.

The allocation of personnel in out-state counties is in line with the policy of Harry F. Kelly, secretary of state, to decentralize all activities which will increase the efficiency and decrease the cost of the work necessary to be done.

The duties of the Bureau of Investigation investigator are many and varied. During the calendar year of 1941 Mr. McKenna handled 360 separate investigations which required interviews with 1,082 persons.

In Isosco county there are 13 automobile dealers, three wholesale gasoline dealers, 136 retail gasoline dealers, all licensed, regulated and supervised by the Department of State.

One of the major duties of a Department of State investigator is the inspection of the above named licensees, doing business under the gasoline tax and motor vehicle laws of the State of Michigan, at frequent intervals.

Investigation of violations of the Motor Vehicle and Gasoline Tax laws, and the apprehension of the violator ranks high in importance among the duties of an investigator.

In Memoriam

In memory of our father, Charles Grabow, who passed away one year ago, January 28, 1941. He bade no one a last farewell, He said good-bye to none. His loving heart had ceased to beat, Before we knew it he was gone. Every day we sadly miss him, Deeply we feel our loss. Lonely is our home without him Help us, Oh God, to bear our cross. Mr. and Mrs. Toney Lorenz, Arthur Grabow, Mr. and Mrs. George Grabow and family.

To Crown Queen Leta Saturday Evening

BANQUET WILL BE HELD AT HOTEL HOLLAND

Major Jimmie Stevenson Will Officiate at Ceremony

Miss Leta Clement, of Hale, attended by her court of honor, will be crowned Queen of Silver Valley tomorrow evening (Saturday) at the Community building. The coronation ceremonies will follow a banquet that evening at the Hotel Holland.

Miss Clement, who is the 17 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Clement, of Hale, will be attended by Miss Beverly Freel, of East Tawas, Miss Jean Randall, of Osceola, and Miss Lucille Bowen, of Tawas City. Major Jimmie Stevenson, well known WJR announcer and veteran Silver Valley fan, will crown Queen Leta. He will be assisted by Charlie Gehring and Barney McCosky, Detroit Tiger stars. Both men are Silver Valley enthusiasts. A dance will follow the coronation ceremonies.

Facilities available at Silver Valley during the three-day carnival will include three 2,000 foot toboggan slides, and skating rink. The slides are iced and in excellent condition. With a little snow there will be bobled runs and skiing. Electric lights have been installed in the shelter house, on the toboggan slides and at the skating rink.

For the fishermen there is perch and smelt fishing through the ice of Tawas Bay, and pike fishing on both the bay and Tawas lake. Iceboating on the smooth surface of Tawas bay is also included among the winter sports available.

Twentieth Century Club

Gentlemen's night again proved to be an outstanding event of the club year. Fifty-two club members and guests gathered at the club rooms for a delicious pot luck dinner. The tables were decorated in patriotic colors and candles. After dinner a most enjoyable program was presented with Mrs. J. A. Campbell, as chairman of the program committee. Toasts and talks by members and guests brought many hearty laughs from everyone, and the final, Men's Beauty contest with lady judges, won by Rev. Metcalf, brought to a close an evening of fun.

The Twentieth Century club will hold a Patriotic Tea at the home of Mrs. James H. Leslie on Saturday afternoon, February 7. A good program has been arranged and a cordial invitation is extended to all.

AAA Notes

Our County AAA Chairman has been advised by the Office of Price Administration that farmers are eligible for tires or tubes for farm tractors or other farm implements for which they are essential, or for trucks which carry farm products and foods to market. Tires or tubes may not be obtained for trucks which transport such products to the ultimate consumer. Tires or tubes may not be obtained for any purpose unless they are to be mounted immediately.

Get an application from your local rationing board. Take it to one of the board's inspectors and obtain a statement that the tire or tube to be replaced cannot be repaired, recapped, retreaded, or otherwise made usable. If the tire or tube can be repaired, the farmer will be so advised by the inspector and, of course, he will then be unable to secure new products. If he meets the standards of the local tire rationing board, then a certificate will be issued allowing the applicant to purchase from any dealer, providing the board has not already reached the monthly total of certificates which at present is five tires per month.

County office records show that 140 tons of 0-2-0 and 20 tons of 0-20-0 fertilizer have been delivered to 7 farmers of Isosco county to date. We have both kinds on hand now and it may be had by signing an application at the office. A very limited supply of the 0120-0 is to be had, but plenty of 0-20-20 can be obtained. Ask about this when you call at the office.

Community committeemen canvassing the county on a machine repair and scrap iron collector have nearly completed their survey. Lists of 6 names will be turned over to implement dealers who will be calling to list necessary parts needed.

Our Fieldwoman, Mrs. Rose Lake, of Hale, showed pictures and gave a talk on Food for Defense and aims to be accomplished by farmers, through the AAA, at Hale P.T.A. Thursday evening and expects to meet with Hal school children this week.

Federal Tax Man Here February 2-3-4

A Deputy collector of Internal Revenue will be at the Post Office in East Tawas on February 2, 3 and 4, to assist tax payers in preparing their returns. No charge will be made for this service. The office hours will be from 9:00 a. m. to 4:00 p. m.

Murry Chambers

In a quiet ceremony, at the home of her sister, Mrs. Magnus Duncan, in Detroit, Edythe Davey Murry, daughter of George Davey, formerly of East Tawas, and Chelsea Chambers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Chambers, of Tawas township, were united in marriage on Friday evening, January 16, at eight o'clock. Rev. Carl E. Kircher, of Eastminister Presbyterian church officiating.

The bride wore a coral wool street length dress with corsage of white rosebuds. She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Magnus Duncan, James Chambers, brother of the groom, was best man.

Following the ceremony a buffet supper was served to a few immediate friends.

They are well and favorably known in this community and have a host of friends who join in wishing them many years of happiness. They will make their home in Detroit.

Red Cross War Fund Drive Closes Saturday

E. John Moffatt, chairman of the Isosco County Chapter of the American Red Cross, announced this week that the Red Cross War Fund drive would close Saturday. He urged the chairman of the several districts to send their final reports to Miss Ruby Evans, secretary, so that the books can be closed.

Isosco county made an excellent response in this drive, and more than made its quota of $1400.00 during the first three days. More than $1,900.00 has been given by the people of Isosco county to date.

Isosco County Library

The second in the series of book reviews sponsored by the Isosco County Library will be given next Friday evening, February 6, at the Tawas City Library. Mrs. Archie Ruckle will review "Big Family," by Belamy Partridge. You are cordially invited to attend, there is no charge.

Twin-City Garden Club

The regular business meeting of the Twin Cities Garden club will be held next Monday afternoon, February 2, at the County garage. The meeting will begin at 2:30, at which time Dr. Bloesing will show his moving pictures on "Gardens." Dr. Bloesing has some scenes of the Dow Gardens among his collection.

An Ultimatum

Masons Will Sponsor Park Benefit Supper

The Tawas City Lodge, F. & A. M., and Tawas City Businessmen are sponsoring a pan-cake supper for Thursday evening, February 19. The proceeds will be added to the park fund.

Each group of the Park Drive is requested to turn in their report to Mrs. Jos. Stepanik, treasurer, this week. A report of finances will be published next week. The groups are continuing their parties and several novel ideas have been used.

Sale of State Owned Lands Here Feb. 18

A sale of state owned lands in Isosco county will be held at the court house, February 18, according to County Treasurer Grace Miller. The sale will commence at ten o'clock.

BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT MARCH 5-6-7

Will Be Held in Tawas City High School Gym

According to an announcement made yesterday (Thursday) by E. C. Carlon, superintendent of the Tawas City Public schools, the District Class D Basketball Tournament will be held March 5, 6 and 7, at the Tawas City Gymnasium. This is the second year that the basketball tournament has been held in this city.

School teams of the district that will participate in the event are Alabaster, St. Ann and St. Bernard of Alpena, Au Gres, East Tawas, St. Joseph of Tawas City, Whittemore and Tawas City.

Raymond J. Templin, of Sterling, will be head official of the tournament. Sterling J. Ammond, of West Branch, will assist.

$5,380 Highway Funds Received by County

The State Highway Department this week submitted vouchers to the Auditor-General for the return of $1,576,910.15 in weight and gasoline tax revenues to Michigan counties.

The current returns include the fourth quarter allotment of 1941 revenues from the weight tax and the second half payment of the annual appropriation to the counties of gasoline tax revenues. The gas tax refund totals $1,275,000. Weight tax refunds total $301,910.15.

Isosco county's share of the returns amounted to $5,380.32. The returns to other counties in this area were: Alcona, $3,783.97; Alpena, $8,025.94; Arenac, $5,364.59; Ogemaw, $6,134.75; Osceola, 3,329.24.

The three incorporated cities of East Tawas, Tawas City and Whittemore will receive, this week, the fourth and final payments due on the 1941 gas and weight tax. Checks being mailed by the county treasurer are East Tawas $524.83, Tawas City $337.84, and Whittemore $132.00. This makes a total of $9,156.34 paid to the three incorporated cities from the 1941 Isosco County weight tax and represents the cities' portion of those funds credited to the Isosco County Road Commission.

Red Cross Activities

The Zion Lutheran Ladies Aid sponsored a Red Cross card party at the Zion school hall last Friday evening. About 90 people enjoyed an evening of cards after which a delicious lunch was served. Hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Charles Moeller and Mrs. Orville Westcott. Prizes were donated by members of the Aid. The gross proceeds of $25.50 were turned over to the American Red Cross.

While waiting for the shipment of yarn and dress material the Tawas City unit has completed this week nine baby quilts and two heavy shelter robes, all were made from remnants of lacyettes and dresses.

Knitting will be taught at the city hall by Mrs. Colby or Mrs. Atlee Mark and several women have planned to attend and receive instructions. Bring size 3 needles for purling and size 5 to 7 for knitting.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS By Edward C. Wayne

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON
(Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK.—Encouraging news is that we may keep our rubber heels, and if we have to travel on them, instead of on rubber tires, it won't be the fault of Small, Still Voice Of Scientists Now More Audible Dr. Elmer W. Brandes, head of the bureau of plant industry of the department of agriculture.

For many years, Dr. Brandes has been exploring rubber jungles, wherever he can find them, studying rubber-yielding plants and staking out for the government useful data and techniques. Currently, he tells the house agriculture committee about the urgency of planting large areas of the guayule shrub. This time, the committee is listening more intently. Germany is far ahead of us in synthetic rubber production.

On occasion, Dr. Brandes has worked up a pleasant friendship with head-hunters, and should be able to get on friendly terms with congressmen. It was in August, 1928, that he landed his hydroplane in a jungle river in New Guinea. It scared the wits out of the pygmy head-hunters, but the genial and conspicuously unarmed Dr. Brandes lured them into his camp by friendly gestures and they became friends and co-operators. He has flown many thousands of lone jungle air leagues on many research expeditions to Central and South America, Asia and the Pacific islands. In July, 1940, congress provided $500,000 for a study of crude rubber in the Western hemisphere. Dr. Brandes flew to Brazil and is now offering to congress the result of his researches there.

He was born in Washington in 1891, was educated in science at Michigan State college, Cornell and the University of Michigan, taught at Michigan State and entered the government service as a plant pathologist at the Puerto Rico agricultural experiment station in 1914. He served in the World war, as a second lieutenant, in France.

THERE is one section of the populace which won't be bothered much by all this rationing of food, clothes, automobile tires and household goods. It is the group which is, for the most part, a stranger to such luxuries. One of them asked me for a dime today. "We gotta work fast," he said, "before the government gets all the loose dimes."

If, as reported, morale is good among people who are hungry and cold, the Salvation Army has helped, and will help, greatly to this end. And rating many new stars in his crown, or cap, is Col. John J. Allan, just now becoming the Army's lieutenant commissioner for 11 central states, with headquarters at Chicago.

When, as a young man, getting a start as a jeweler, John James Allan decided to give his life to the Salvation Army, he disguised himself as a derelict, when he went down into New York's Bowery. He shared their flop-houses, wore ragged clothes and took his hand-out where he found it. "Condescending to men of low estate," in the scriptural phrase, he found reciprocal understanding when he shared their troubles. That was the start of his career of kindly and aggressive friendliness as an evangelist, and champion of the down-but-never-outs, and as a cornetist for the Bowery and for King George of England—at a command performance in 1904. He was for three years a soloist with Reeves American band of Providence, R. I.

He is the father of the United Service Organizations. It was on October 11, 1940, that he met with executives of the Y.M.C.A., the Knights of Columbus and the Jewish Welfare organization for united effort among the soldiers, and out of this meeting came the U.S.O.

He is married, the father of five children. He was born in Hazelton, Pa., in 1887, his mother having been born near Nottingham, England, a stone's throw from the home of General Booth.

In the World war, he was senior chaplain of the Seventy-seventh division in France, the first Salvation Army chaplain in the American armed forces. He won the French Croix de Guerre and later received the rank of major chaplain of the U. S. army. In 1925, he entered the army reserve corps, and his "Colonel" is a military title. He was in Salvation Army work in Newark from 1923 to 1925 and thereafter in Columbus, Ohio, for eight years, managing the Greenwood Lake Camp for Children. He never trumpets himself, but the Army does.

President Sketches World Strategy; Australia Is Periled by Japanese Army Invasion of Its Key Island Outposts; Nelson Speeds Up U. S. War Production

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Sumner Welles, undersecretary of state and head of the U. S. delegation to the Pan-American conference at Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, is cheered by spectators as he waves his hat from the Tiradentes palace, scene of the historic meeting.

BLUEPRINT: Of World Battle

While the nation girded itself for victory production on a scale never hitherto dreamed of, and while American soldiers were arriving on foreign fields ready to do battle until victory, while still others were filling the news with their heroic exploits, President Roosevelt gave newsmen a hint of the "blueprint of battle."

The President, following the close of the Churchill conferences, and the safe return of the British premier to London by airplane from Bermuda, had told little to newsmen save that there was a complete accord among the united nations.

Now he had begun to give them the picture, a portrait of battle carried on simultaneously in every part of the globe by the soldiers of all nationalities working in concert with each other.

Thus were found American aviators fighting in the Singapore area, with the Dutch in the East Indies, in the Philippines, over the Seven Seas, and most lately arriving in Britain and other points for service.

The President said one could look at the map of the world and assume that the anti-Axis group was doing something at almost every strategic point.

He said that joint technical committees were busy, covering the subjects of production, of transportation of produced supplies to every part of the globe, also to the assignment of fighting men and machines to points where they were most needed.

While all of his information had been of a general nature, the nearest he came to giving out details was when he said that excellent progress was being made in strengthening the Allied forces in the Pacific.

This latter statement was taken by the press to be an attempt by the President to allay Chinese fears that the Allies were not going to make a vigorous enough battle against the Japs.

The President had finished a conference with Dr. Hubertus Van Mook, lieutenant governor general of the Netherlands Indies. Dr. Van Mook came out of the conference room beaming.

JAPS: Extend Fronts

The Japs, far from being licked or even stopped, were constantly extending their front, and with reports of their continued advances spreading out with attacks on all fronts, came dispatches telling of two new ventures. These were the invasion of New Guinea and the Solomon island area; and an invasion of Burma by the Siamese as a measure to aid Japan.

Indicating a threat to Australia itself, the New Guinea invasion was paced by air attacks and a movement of naval forces. The Solomon islands lie in a chain northeast of Australia and east of New Guinea.

The Burma invasion had started at Myawaddie on the Burma-Thai frontier. This lies at the northern end of the Burmese panhandle bordering the puppet country.

It had not been unexpected, and General Wavell's headquarters some time before had told of Chinese reinforcements to the Burmese troops, apparently sent there for just such a contingency.

The invaders also seized the port of Tavoy, which bisects the panhandle and gave the Jap-assisters a good advantage in opening the fighting.

Jap fliers were reported to have occupied a flying field at Tavoy, and roared out to attack with bombs the important cities and ports of Moulmein and Rangoon.

PRODUCTION: OPM Finally Dies

The OPM, over which William S. Knudsen and Sidney Hillman had presided as twin geni for many hard-working, hard-fighting months prior to American entry into the war, finally died, Production Chief Donald Nelson supplanting it entirely with his new War Production board, probably to be known as WPB.

Mr. Nelson, however, had "portfolios" in his new series of divisions for most of the key men in OPM—for it was not so much a junking of an old organization as a revamping of it on a streamlined basis.

The placing of one man, Nelson, at the head of the war production effort, also necessarily called for a change in organization.

This was undertaken fearlessly by Nelson, who created five primary divisions, most of them utilizing as heads former members of the organization of OPM, SPAB and other groups.

Leon Henderson still was in charge of civilian supply; Hillman still had the labor job; Stacy May was "progress reporter," and so on down the line.

Probably the first and most vital job, almost coincidental with the naming of Nelson himself, went to Knudsen. The big motor man became a Lieutenant General, in direct charge of the speeding up of factory production in general, that is, as far as Army procurement was concerned.

But the man who was to be most in the public eye for the next few weeks was Ernest Kanzler, a new figure in the picture, who was named automobile production czar—not of automobiles, but of what the auto factories are going to make.

MAC ARTHUR: Resistance

As if to prove that the defeat of his army had been prematurely predicted, General MacArthur sprang a distinct surprise on Washington and the country's newspapers when he reported that American-Filipino resistance was continuing on the island of Mindanao in the vicinity of Davao.

An all-out Japanese effort to turn the Luzon defenders' right flank had earlier been turned back with heaviest Jap losses, and yet the danger was far from over, for the Japanese were reported returning to the attack again with vigor.

It was reported that an entire Japanese army—estimated by some as many as 300,000 men—had been thrown into the battle for Luzon and the whole Bataan peninsula front blazed into action in a renewal of the Japanese attempt to crush the defenders.

But the word from MacArthur's headquarters that fighting was continuing in Mindanao came long after official Washington had given up Mindanao for lost, and simply showed how difficult communications were in the area.

It was believed possible that MacArthur himself had thought Mindanao gone until he received belated word from the southern island that the battle was still in progress.

CRITIQUE:

A dual report on profiteering came before the legislative bodies of the congress, the Truman report and the Vinson report—named for their committee chairmen, the former rushing into print and into the press a few days ahead of the latter.

That congress, aware of the huge character of the hurling of 56 billions into war production in two short years, and of what this might mean if profits were allowed to go beyond certain limits, intended to clamp the lid down was evident.

'March of Dimes'

Alma F. Borgmeyer, clerk in the mail room at the White House, opens mail bags jammed with "March of Dimes" letters addressed to President Roosevelt and designed to aid in the fight against infantile paralysis. The mail was reaching its peak just before the President's Diamond Jubilee Celebration on January 30.

SUB ATTACKS: Intensified

Submarines, probably German U-boats, were pressing their attacks along the East coast of the United States, but the Navy department had reported that strong counter measures were being taken.

The whereabouts of the navy's chief strength was being kept a closely guarded secret, but all authorities from the President down continued to insist that the navy was extremely active, and was disposed in such a manner as best to meet present threats.

The sinking of a Japanese cruiser by navy bombing planes was announced, and there had been a number of sinkings of supply ships, some of them close to Japan.

Most dramatic had been the exploit of PT-boat division commander Lieutenant Bulkeley, who shot his own boat at 80 miles an hour into the Bay of Olongapo, sent a 5,000-ton Japanese vessel to the bottom and escaped unscathed.

Bulkeley's boat, a 77-foot speedster, carries heavy machine-guns and 18-inch torpedoes. He was being hailed as a hero almost on a par with Colin Kelly.

The cruiser sinking lacked details, but the navy said it was sent to the bottom 100 miles off the island of Jolo, one of the nearly 8,000 isles of the Philippine group.

Where the American bombers which did this trick and achieved other victories were based was a closely guarded secret, but there were many possible bases in territory within reach of the location where the sinking occurred.

PRICE CONTROL: 'Joker'

The price control bill, sulking in the house and senate conference under the baleful displeasure of the President, continued to bog down as prices continued to soar.

The farm relief "joker" in the bill had met with condemnation, not only from the White House, but from many leading agricultural centers, and this remained the main point of controversy in the bill.

In the meantime, Secretary of Agriculture Wickard came out with a statement that there probably would be a shortage of sugar, just after all the refinery men had gone out on a limb with the opposite prediction.

Sugar hoarders, and other purchasers of foodstuffs were continuing to storm grocery stores and cartoons were published under the caption "this little pig went to market" showing hoarders at their deadly work at the grocery counters.

Administration circles were at their gloomiest over the situation, one source saying "we had hoped to get an improvement over the house bill when we got to the senate, but the senate bill was worse than the house bill, and now most of us would be calling it a victory if we could get the house bill enacted."

MISCELLANY:

Bern: German rationing has cut men down from five cigarettes a day to three. Women are allowed no tobacco ration whatever.

Vichy: A German soldier was shot and killed outside a Paris night club. Police were able to arrest a young girl said to have been a witness. She was confronted with a dozen suspects and ordered to pick out the man who fired the shot.

Batavia: The Dutch admitted the loss of Minahassa, the northern portion of the Island of Celebes. It was the second severe loss of oil-important islands in the N.E.I.

London: Already work was in progress reviving the "scorched areas" of Soviet Russia retaken by the Red army. It was announced that Sir John Russell had been named advisor to the board, and would go to Russia with American, Canadian and British help to put Russian production back into being.

Auto Plants Are Geared for War Production

Machine guns sprout where auto parts once grew in the Brown-Lipe Chapin division of General Motors in Syracuse, N. Y. Above at left you see an inspector putting the final Okay on a bevy of Browning machine guns before they are taken to the test range for inspection. At right, machine gun slide plates are carefully checked to .002 of an inch. There are about 300 parts in each machine gun turned out here.

Singapore, Crossroads of Far East Sea Lanes

Above is shown a view of Raffles square in Singapore, famed British bastion that is the meeting place of numerous important sea routes, and the main objective of the Jap drive through the jungles of Malaya. Inset: Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell, allied commander in chief in the Far East, shown making a tour of inspection at the formidable British fortress at the tip of the Malayan peninsula.

Nazi Bumper Plane Gets the Bumps

The strange device affixed to the leading edges of this Heinkel bomber's wings is a bumper to help prevent it from entangling with the cables of balloon barrages which protect all of Britain's larger towns. The device leads the cables past the wing tips.

By L. L. STEVENSON

Kathleen Howard, who has the humor of other grand dames of the screen without the acidity, declared during a recent New York visit that for years she has been wondering why she is always being cast as a brittle, forbidding old lady.

"Imagine anyone wanting to be a shrewish wife to W. C. Fields!" she exploded. "Well, I had to do that three times." Miss Howard's lady-like voice registered shock and her turquoise snood shook so with indignation that her gray curls fell loose from their mooring. "Really I don't feel a bit vile and you can tell by one look at me that I could not carry out a threat if I wanted to. But I've been the villainess in so many movies, including the prim, hateful housekeeper in "Ball of Fire," that the fans are writing in and asking if I'm secretly married to Frankenstein in private life."

Actually, the reluctant villainess is not married to anyone in private life. Instead, she lives pretty much alone—except for visits from brothers and sisters—just outside Hollywood which she regards as Valhalla on earth. Her abundant love for her fellowman, which has never been given a chance to show itself on the screen, is pretty well distributed among all professions and types. But the electricians and the prop men on the sets are her private discovery.

"They live in a world of their own," she explained, "and they know more about every little plane in your face than the most observing painter or other artist. They know when wrong lighting will make you look grotesque, insipid or just plain dull. Of course, in my case, they've never had occasion to dwell on the beautiful. But when they do, I'll have fun because I know they'll treat me right."

Experience: When "Best Foot Forward," the George Abbott musical in which just about all the players are juveniles, opened, Joan Edwards had only one criticism—the situation in which Rosemary Lane's gown is torn off by over-enthusiastic autograph hounds. Such a thing just couldn't happen, she averred. Miss Edwards has changed her mind. Accompanied by Jimmy Dorsey, she made a guest appearance at a high school dance near Paterson, N. J. And it was a lucky thing indeed for Miss Edwards that Dorsey had a spare overcoat with him. Not only did she lose her dress, but her sport coat as well in the rush of boys and girls eager to get free autographed phonograph records.

Snacks, II

"What shall I serve to guests who drop in for an evening of bridge or for a chat?" This is a question I've heard many hostesses ask, especially often during colder weather when visiting time really comes into favor again. The answer is simple, for a delectable cake with steaming coffee or hot drink turns the trick.

Your guests will have finished their supper only a short time before, and since snacks do not come late in the evening, it is best to serve something not too heavy. Light cakes, preferably those with a touch of piquancy and tartness, fill the bill perfectly. These cakes may be baked in one of your not-so-busy moments to have on hand for just such an occasion.

Hot drinks are favorites in the chilling weather. If you like coffee, be sure to have quantities of the steaming beverage on hand. If you're on the lookout for new ideas, there are the hot fruit juice combinations which hit the spot. Either type of drink goes well with these dessert-like cakes.

Here's the first cake on our list. It's like spun gold in color with just the right tartness. You'll find that the navel oranges which peel and separate easily into sections will be perfect for decorating the cake as pictured above:

Orange Sponge Cake.

- 5 egg yolks
 - 1 1/4 cups sugar
 - 1/2 cup orange juice
 - 1/2 cup water
 - 2 cups sifted flour
 - 2 teaspoons baking powder
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 1 tablespoon grated orange peel
 - 5 egg whites
- Beat egg yolks, sugar and orange juice until light. Add water and beat 2 minutes. Add flour sifted with baking powder and salt. Beat 1 minute or until thoroughly blended into egg mixture, fold in grated orange peel and egg whites beaten stiff but not dry. Bake in 9-inch ungreased tube-pan in a moderate (350-degree) oven 70 minutes. Invert pan until cake is cold. Remove. Cut in three cross-wise layers.

Gold Topping.

- 3/4 cup cold water
- 1 tablespoon gelatin
- 4 egg yolks
- 3/4 cup sugar
- 1 cup orange juice
- 1 teaspoon grated orange peel
- 4 egg whites
- 1/4 cup sugar

Orange sections
Soften gelatin in water. Cook egg yolks, sugar and orange juice in top of double boiler until thick. Add gelatin and stir until dissolved. Add grated peel and cool mixture. Beat egg whites stiff, adding 1/4 cup sugar and fold into cooked orange mixture. Spread between layers and

Lynn Says:

Hot mulled fruit juices lend tang to winter evening snacks. You can have hot mulled cider by heating the cider and adding 1 teaspoon whole cloves and 1 stick of cinnamon (tied in a bag) while the cider is heating.

Here's another mulled fruit juice served piping hot: Tie in a bag, 12 whole cloves, 1 3-inch stick of cinnamon, and 1 whole nutmeg. Empty a large can of apple juice and a 12-ounce can of cherry juice in the saucepan and add spices. Heat, remove spices and serve. This recipe takes care of eight people

Hot spiced lemon tea has lots of pick-up. Make it by pouring 5 cups boiling water over 6 teaspoons of black tea. Steep 5 minutes, then strain. Dissolve 1/4 cup sugar in 1/4 cup boiling water. Combine 6 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 teaspoon grated lemon peel, 1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon and 1/2 teaspoon ground cloves, and add to hot tea. Serve at once, garnished with lemon slices. Serves 6.

Evening Snack Ideas

- *Orange Sponge Cake
- Coffee Mints
- *Gingerbread With Whipped Cream
- Hot Spiced Tea Salted Nuts
- *Orange Pumpkin Pie
- Hot Mulled Cider
- Chocolate-Covered Nuts
- *Lemon Cake-Pie
- *Mulled Fruit Juice
- Mixed Hard Candy

top of cake. Chill in refrigerator. Decorate with fresh orange sections just before serving.

Gleaned from an excellent chef, this Lemon Cake-Pie is a good combination of a cream pie and cake. Because of the delicate lemon flavor it will prove interesting to serve for those evenings when friends just drop in for a bit. Made just according to directions, it's guaranteed to bring plenty of encores!

Lemon Cake-Pie.

- 1 cup sugar
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 2 eggs
- 1 cup milk
- 1 lemon

Blend the sugar and butter, add beaten egg yolks, milk, flour and the juice and rind of the lemon. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites and pour into an unbaked pie-crust. Bake in a slow (325-degree) oven 35 to 40 minutes. The top will be like a sponge cake and underneath there's a soft, firm custard.

Pumpkin pie will never wear out its welcome if you serve it this way. It has extra zest because of the addition of orange juice:

Pumpkin Pie.

- 3 eggs, slightly beaten
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg
- 1/4 teaspoon ginger
- 1/4 teaspoon cloves
- 2 cups cooked canned pumpkin
- 1 cup cream, rich milk or undiluted evaporated milk
- 1 cup orange juice

Mix sugar, spices, salt. Add slightly beaten eggs, pumpkin, cream or milk, and orange juice. Pour into an unbaked 10-inch pie shell. Bake at (450 degree) for 10 minutes, and then in a moderate (350-degree) oven for about 50 minutes or until knife comes out clean when inserted in filling. Serve with whipped cream garnished with grated orange peel.

Gingerbread is a favorite for after-dinner bridge type of entertaining. Gingerbread made with boiling water gives the cake a special kind of feathery texture which is certain to charm. Most of the time you like to serve gingerbread with whipped cream, but you can vary this if you add crushed peppermints to the cream before serving.

Old-Fashioned Gingerbread.

- 1/2 cup boiling water
- 1/2 cup shortening
- 1/2 cup brown sugar
- 1/2 cup molasses
- 1 beaten egg
- 1 1/2 cups flour
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 3/4 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/4 teaspoon soda
- 3/4 teaspoon ginger
- 1/4 teaspoon allspice
- 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon

Pour water over the shortening and add sugar, molasses and egg. Add sifted dry ingredients and beat until smooth. Bake in a waxed-paper lined square pan in a moderate (350-degree) oven for 35 minutes. Cool before turning out from pan. For variation, 1 package of semi-sweet chocolate pieces may be added with the dry ingredients if a chocolate-flecked cake is desired.

1,500,000 Held In Nazi Camps

French War Prisoners Work In German Factories And in Fields.

NEW YORK.—More than a million and a half French prisoners of war, informed French circles report, still wait impatiently for release from behind barbed wire barriers in camps scattered from the Rhineland to central Poland.

Most of them are working in German factories—both civilian and military—or in the fields from which the Reich supplies its armies with food.

Some of them, they say themselves in letters to the folks at home, are earning more money than they formerly did in civil life in France.

Nearly all of them, judging from a cross section of their letters, are living only for one day—the day when they can go home to their country and their families. Many of them have not seen their wives or children since early in 1940, when French army leaves were cancelled or postponed prior to the German attack which resulted in France's defeat.

Sources close to Georges Scapini, French ambassador to Berlin, charged with negotiating for prisoners' welfare, have estimated the total number of released prisoners at "not more than 100,000."

However, one of Scapini's assistants, in private conversation recently, said this figure "could be cut in half without materially upsetting the truth of what's already happened."

Get Severe Setbacks.

Scapini's organization, it has become known in political circles, suffered a severe setback in its negotiations with the Germans after Admiral Francois Darlans conference with Adolf Hitler at Berchtesgaden the middle of last May.

Darlan came back to Paris and Vichy, these sources assert, and "talked too much." He said then that the Germans had agreed to negotiate the release of about 200,000 French prisoners. As it later turned out—and is still true today—what German officials gave Darlan to understand was that they would consider favorably conversations pointing toward negotiations to release that number of men.

The difference is subtle—but when Darlan made a public statement, the French took it for granted that soon 200,000 of their men were coming home. An immense number of letters flowed into Scapini's office asking for information about what classes might be included in the new contingent, what procedure would be followed, and how certain specific prisoners could obtain their release papers.

Special Classes Released.

Up to the present time, Vichy reports, the only actual classes which have returned home are the veterans of the World war and those men who have families of four or more children or who have had near relatives, such as a father or a brother, killed in action. Some individual prisoners also have gained their freedom because of wounds or illness.

Scapini, a World war veteran with an almost 100 per cent disability rating, works tirelessly for what he calls "My Youngsters."

Scapini, totally blind, crippled and in need of constant attendance, also has a nervous disorder which prevents him from sleeping.

Scapini's mail reads like spinsters' letters to an "Advice to the Love-Lorn" columnist. A mother wants Jean, head of a fatherless family, released so he can go back to his job in the town bakery, but cannot supply proof that there still is a job for him if he returns.

The wife of a high French officer writes in to seek the release of a nephew, whose wife is going to have a baby and adds: "It has been the custom in our family for several hundred years that the father must be present when any child is born."

Sunshine Declared to Be Needed for Measles

KANSAS CITY, MO.—The idea of keeping Junior in the dark when he has the measles is just an "old-fashioned bugaboo," according to Miss Eleanor W. Mumford, a nurse associated with the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness. Miss Mumford conducted a clinic for school and public health department nurses here.

"Sunshine is essential to health," Miss Mumford said, "and children who are recovering from the measles need the benefit of the sun as much as anyone else."

However, she warned that eyes of children recovering from the measles are generally weak and it is frequently advisable for them to wear dark glasses.

California Doctors to Study the Common Cold

SAN FRANCISCO.—A comprehensive effort to determine what causes the common cold has been started by the University of California medical school. Ten research doctors will collaborate two years on the problem in the hope of finding a solution.

Whether the weather has anything to do with causing colds will be one of the first problems tackled by the medical school.

Upon call to order at 12:00 noon, Supervisor Brabant read the following report of the County Officers' Salaries committee:

Tawas City Michigan, Jan. 6, 1942
To the Honorable Board of Supervisors of Iosco County:
Gentlemen:

We the undersigned members of your committee on County Officers Salaries have had under consideration the request of the County Prosecuting Attorney, that the Board authorize the appointment of an Assistant County Prosecuting Attorney and also fix the amount of compensation for the services of this office. This request being due to an illness of the Prosecuting Attorney making it necessary for him to spend several months in a change of climate.

In consideration of the above we therefore recommend that the Board authorize the appointment of an assistant County Prosecuting Attorney and that the compensation for the services of this office be fixed at $100.00 per month. This compensation to be effective on the date of appointment and to continue for three months.

Respectfully submitted; F. L. Brabant, H. Brayman, Harry Van Patten, Frank Schneider.
Moved by Brabant, seconded by Brayman that the report of the County Officers' Salaries committee be accepted and adopted. The motion prevailed unanimously upon roll call.

W.N.U. RELEASE

INSTALLMENT THREE
THE STORY SO FAR: Karen Waterson, San Francisco girl, convinced by her lawyer, John Colt, that she has a claim to the island estate of her grandfather, Garrett Waterson, arrives in Honolulu to attempt to gain control of the property. One evening while she and Colt are dining and discussing plans for pressing her claims, Richard Wayne, or Tonga Dick, as he is known, enters their dining room. He is a member of the Wayne family that has been in control of her grandfather's island, Alakoa, since the old man's disappearance. Karen meets him, and believing that he is unaware of her identity she accepts an offer to go sailing with him the next day, hoping she can get some information from him. Later that night Dick goes to the home of his half-brothers, Willard and Ernest, and a conference is being held regarding the validity of Karen's claim.

Now continue with the story.

"I always heard," Tonga Dick said, "that Garrett Waterson was a great old boy—quite a character."

"Character be damned," Willard fumed. "He had no character at all. He was an outrageous old brawler, always at the center of every disturbance of any kind. He was always doing incredible, outlandish things."

"And he sold Alakoa for fifteen thousand dollars," Tonga Dick commented. "What's it worth today? Three million?"

"Ridiculous," Ernest snapped. "The assets, as we carry them on the book—"

"Maybe," Dick said, "after all, Garrett Waterson was a little fuzzy at the edges, when he did that!"

"Right there," Willard said morosely, "is the whole point. If they can show that Garrett Waterson was incompetent, it follows that his granddaughter was left destitute by this single incompetent act."

Tonga Dick considered; and presently allowed himself a slow grin. "You know, it's just possible that the girl really has you!"

Ernest flared up. "You have just as much interest in Alakoa as we have—or ought to have!"

"I guess," Dick said speculatively, "I'd better have a talk with this Waterson girl."

"Ridiculous!" "Can't see how it can hurt anything."

"She won't talk to you," Willard said shortly. "She won't do anything at all without consulting John Colt."

"Oh, yes, she will. Tomorrow, I'm going to take her on a cruise up the coast—sight-seeing, you know."

"She won't even see you," Willard said again.

"She already has. I talked with her nearly an hour tonight."

"You what?" "I said, I've been talking to her all night. Can't you understand plain—"

"Did she know who you were?" "Naturally. Do you think she's a dummy?"

His two brothers stared at him for a little while in inarticulate outrage. "I absolutely forbid this sailing trip," Willard got out at last.

"And so do I," Ernest echoed. "Any parley that is made with that adventuress will be in full consultation with us and our attorneys. I absolutely forbid you to see this girl again without the full concordance of—"

"Go ahead and forbid," Tonga Dick encouraged him. "After all there isn't a thing in the world you can do."

John Colt came to take breakfast with Karen Waterson next morning.

Their brightly silvered breakfast table overlooked the beach, where the warm sea was breaking in emerald combers shot through with the early sun. Looking out at the lazy sea, Karen Waterson knew that she was afraid.

The exultant assurance of victory which she had felt the night before was gone, suddenly unable to live in all this sunlight.

She could hardly remember what had persuaded her to make an in-cognito date to sail with the one man who had most reason to be her enemy. In spite of the evening, Tonga Dick remained a shadowy and mysterious figure—an unaccountable stranger whose very name was outlandish according to any standards she knew.

In this mood she found it pleasant to sit across a breakfast table from John Colt. It did not happen very often, and was the more helpful because it did not.

Some day, she knew, John Colt would make love to her; whether they won or lost, that time would come as inevitably as the falling of Hawaiian rain. Often she speculated curiously as to whether this would happen before or after their fight with the Waynes was closed, and amused herself by imagining what she would do about it when it came.

"I am very much at a loss to imagine," he said now, "why you have committed yourself to this peculiar arrangement."

On an impulse Karen said, "I'll tell you why I have to go. I have to go because I'm afraid of those Waynes."

"They're people," Karen said, "from whom we are about to take everything they have."

"What you're taking is yours," John Colt said.

"Sometimes I wonder if it really is."

On an impulse Karen said, "I'll tell you why I have to go. I have to go because I'm afraid of those Waynes."

John Colt looked at her curiously. To this man, this watchful and restless planner, honesty was a rigid thing; rights of property were matters decided only in courts, and no other rights existed.

"Listen to me," he said. "Everything they have is based upon the fact that they took the island of Alakoa from your grandfather after he had become incompetent—as we shall prove. Thus everything they have is literally stolen from you." Something of John Colt's own spirit of conquest came back into Karen Waterson. "Yes," she said; "and I'm not wavering, John. You can be perfectly sure of this—I'll never turn back now."

CHAPTER III

Lying full length on a deck chair, Karen drank a pre-lunch Martini, and watched the stunning blue and white of the sea stream past the low foredeck of Richard Wayne's schooner. Here, out upon the slowly breathing Pacific, John Colt himself seemed as far away as San Francisco had seemed from the lagoon of the Royal Hawaiian.

At first, sheering away from Barber's Point, Karen had experienced a sharp sinking of spirits.

But during the morning hours on the sea a new vitality had come into her, as if from the long swells of the open sea itself; and after lunch she sought a way to push ahead with her self-elected task of studying Tonga Dick. The Holokai was a two-masted schooner of 110 feet; Dick Wayne called her a trading schooner, with auxiliary power, but very definitely she was something else. Her racing-schooner hull, astonishingly loaded by her great Diesel, had hardly any cargo space at all, other than that needed for her own stores. Karen put out a tentative feeler.

"I was wondering how your schooner came by her name."

"Holokai means 'sea-rider,'" he told her.

"That's peculiarly poetic."

"Oh, I didn't name her myself. She was named by the man from whom she came to me."

"Who?" Karen asked innocently.

Tonga Dick shrugged. "There are all manner of boats knocking about the Pacific. You can always get hold of a boat."

She studied Tonga Dick Wayne, covertly. In the bright reflected light of the cloudless sea he still seemed young, even younger than she had believed the night before.

She thought now that she detected something faintly ironic in his gaze. It was as if the darkness that was under the blue of the sea had come nearer behind his eyes.

Karen turned uneasy. She said, "Dick—what is it?"

"You're very lovely," he said.

"It's only fair to tell you this: in every way that I can imagine, you're the loveliest thing I've ever seen on the earth or the face of the sea."

"Well, really, are you making love to me now?" It was a flimsy defense; in contradiction to his words, she knew that he was not making love.

"No man of any sense pretends to know anything about women," Tonga Dick was saying. "The old island people drew deadlines past which no woman could come, and those lines were drawn by darkness, and fear. They knew the truth—that it is not possible for a man to know what things govern a woman. Yet I'll tell you this: it would be easy for anyone to believe in you, even without understanding you at all."

He was speaking as if from behind a wall. Suddenly Karen Waterson knew what he had meant, and it accounted for the flat sound of words that should have been love-making. A sharp and immediate panic swept her as she understood, all at once and completely, that Richard Wayne knew who she was.

She jerked her eyes from his face and stood up, bracing herself against the reel of the little schooner. A glance across the face of the sea told her a startling thing, before unconsidered. All that day, since early morning, they had been striking straight out from Honolulu into the open Pacific.

"I think," she said, "we'd better go back, hadn't we?"

There was defeat and admission of defeat in that; but, knowing what she now knew, she could hope for nothing in the world here, except a means of return. "We'll be very late into Honolulu."

"A little," Dick said. "But if you'll turn now—"

"The funny thing about it," he said oddly, "is that we can't turn back. At least not yet."

"You mean—you mean—"

"Don't worry," Dick said: "there isn't anything to worry about. Meanwhile—if you'll look across the starboard bow, you'll see Alakoa—Karen."

Alakoa, as seen from this approach, rose steeply from the water; the folds of her hills were of a shadowy and unearthly blue, but the rays of the sun, slanting low now, struck her tall up-thrusting ridges with traceries of red gold. There was something terribly appealing about Alakoa as Karen saw it then. In one way it seemed so little in that vast expanse of salt water, the very intensity of whose deep blue seemed to speak of a vital strength, a vast living will which nothing could withstand nor deny. Yet Alakoa rose bravely from the heart of the sea, so tall that it seemed slenderly tall.

Tonga Dick stood up, rising lightly on one heel instead of two, and reached for her hand. When she did not give it he took her wrist, and pulled her to the forward rail, beside the reaching bowsprit.

"Of course," he said, "you don't see much of it from here. There's four thousand feet of rise in those highest hills. The cane fields, the rice paddies, and the little fishing villages are all on the other side."

"And now what?" she asked.

"We'll land in another hour," he told her.

"In another hour? But Honolulu is—"

"I mean, on Alakoa."

When Karen was certain of what he had said, angry tears sprang into her eyes. "You mean you're not going to turn back?"

"I'm afraid I can't."

"You can't what?"

"I can't turn back. You see, I have received an extremely urgent radio from Alakoa. It will be necessary for us to land. I think, Karen, you had better plan to spend the night as Alakoa's guest."

"This is preposterous," Karen said. "I certainly shall do nothing of the kind."

"Now, now," Dick said soothingly. "I was hoping you would enjoy it."

"This is kidnap," Karen said. Her voice was steady now; the anger was still there, but leveled now by something very like a calculating hate.

Tonga Dick smiled. "Shanghai," he corrected her. "We call it shanghai, at sea."

"I can't imagine," Karen said, "what you can possibly expect to gain by this."

"I'm very much surprised that you're not more interested," Dick said. "Inasmuch as you have set out to take possession of Alakoa, I should think you'd like to see what it looks like."

"I can see it perfectly plainly from here."

"You see a rock sticking out of the sea," he admitted. "There are a good many thousands of them in the Pacific. But you can't see from here any of the things that make Alakoa desirable to you and to your friend John Colt. What is really interesting, from a financial standpoint, is the development that the Waynes have made—the flumes that make the cane fields possible, and the mills. Those things have taken a good many years to build; without them Alakoa would still support only a handful of fishermen, and would certainly never have come to the attention of Mr. Colt."

Karen cried out, with a passion strange to herself, "If you've brought me out here to preach at me—"

"Be sure of this," he said crisply. "I preach to no one. I brought you here for the same reason that you came. I wanted to know what you were like. Isn't that what you wanted of me?"

"Yes," Karen Waterson said. Her voice was suddenly quiet.

JESUS CALLS FOUR DISCIPLES

LESSON TEXT—Luke 5:1-11.
 GOLDEN TEXT—Come ye after me, and I will make you to become fishers of men.—Mark 1:17.

Followers of Christ are those who have not counted their goods nor their persons their own, but have willingly yielded all to Him. Obviously many who profess to follow Him have only done so in that measure which will not interfere with their own plans and interests. They need to study this lesson with care.

The call of Christ is one which demands willing and wholehearted obedience.

I. Yielded Possessions (vv. 1-3).

These disciples had already responded to the ministry of Jesus and had followed Him for a time (see John 1:35-4:54), but they did not yet know the fullness of surrender to Christ and had now gone back to their old work of fishing. May they not be typical of many in our day who know the Lord and have for a time followed Him closely, but have again become engrossed in their daily vocation, perhaps just making money?

Jesus was now ready to call them out into a lifetime of service, and the first thing He did was to ask the use of their chief possession, their boat. That was first yielded to Him.

It was not by chance that it was Peter's boat which was just at hand when the Master needed it. Such things do not "just happen." The destinies of men are in the hands of God, and with His children the simplest happening is known to and controlled by Him. He who numbers the hairs on our heads, He who observes the fall of the sparrow, knows about everything that happens to us.

II. Yielded Service (vv. 4-7).

Having completed His teaching by word, Jesus had a special object lesson for Peter and the others concerning the fruitlessness of service apart from His guidance and control, and the blessed results which come from obedience to Him.

Taking them where he found them, He showed the disciples that He was the Master even of their secular vocation of fishing. He is the One who knows more about your business than you do, who can give or withhold His blessing. All that we have has come to us from His hand, and it is all within His control.

This Almighty One was ready to call these fishermen out into the greater business of fishing for men by revealing to them His mighty power to bless and prosper the fisherman—who becomes a fisher of men.

III. Yielded Lives (vv. 8-11).

The giving of their possessions, the yielding of their work into His hands in obedience, led up to His call for the yielding of their lives.

Often we speak of God's claims upon the life of the Christian as though it were the fiat of an autocrat, one who demands his rights. God might well do so, for He has full authority and power over all of us, but He is a gracious God and gently leads His children along to the place where they make their own decision to leave all and follow Him.

The work of God in the world is carried on by men. The joy of proclaiming the gospel was not given to the angels, but to redeemed men and women. Knowing the regenerating grace of God in their own lives, they have been called during all this Christian era to go out to tell others.

In preparation for that ministry our Lord needed yielded lives, which He sought and found in these humble fishermen. They were "not visionaries or dreamers, but were practical men with common sense. They had been disciplined in the school of common toil. . . . Though unlearned so far as formal theological training was concerned, these men were teachable. Under the tutelage of the Son of God Himself they received matchless informal training. . . . leading to a record of service which the world will never forget. It is that sort of teaching that counts. We, too, may learn in the school of Christ, through a study of His Word, assisted by His Spirit, and through the yielding of our lives to His control" (B. L. Olmstead).

Christ no longer walks this earth to seek and call out disciples as He did these men, but the blessed succession of those of whom it may be said, "They forsook all and followed Him" (v. 11), continues to this day.

We repeat what we have said before, that one of the thrilling things about teaching Sunday school is that somewhere, in some class this next Sunday, God is going to touch the heart of some boy or girl who will be a leader for Him for the next generation.

Household Hints

Fruit cake makes a delicious pudding served with either hard or hot sauce. Steam the fruit cake before serving.

Always store baking powder in a tightly covered container. If it is exposed to the air some of the strength will be lost.

Water should never be poured on burning fat. It will spread the blaze. Flour will extinguish the blaze.

A raw potato put in soup that has too much salt in it and boiled for 10 minutes will remove the salty taste.

Always cut toast in small squares when making cream toast. It is much easier served cut in this way.

The unsightly ring left by cleaning fluids, when used to remove spots, may be avoided by placing under the spot a pad made of thick absorbent cotton.

HAY FEVER AND ROSE COLD NEED TREATMENTS

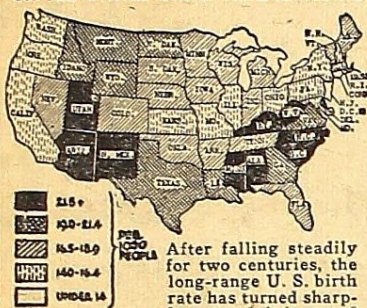

The running nose and weeping eyes that cause sleepless nights and uncomfortable days to all who are sensitive to the rag weed pollen, who have hay fever, are known to all. The difficult asthmatic breathing that causes the sufferer to sit up gasping for air which complicates some of the cases is not so widely appreciated.

Many also know of the similar though usually milder symptoms suffered in the late spring and early summer that are due to sensitivity to the pollens of trees and grasses. Just as "hay fever" is not due to sensitivity to hay pollen nor to the golden rod that in many places blossoms when the rag weed does, the milder early summer disturbance is known as "rose cold" though it is not due to rose pollen but because it comes when roses are in bloom.

Few know that in some parts of the country that are free from rag weed in August and September, people who are sensitive to it, have hay fever at other seasons, as in those regions the rag weed blooms

UNITED STATES BIRTH RATE IS RISING

After falling steadily for two centuries, the long-range U.S. birth rate has turned sharply upward. It is stated by the U. S. Bureau of the Census. The low point was reached in 1923, and since then the birth rate has risen. It is estimated to be 18.5 per 1,000 population in 1941.

at other times during the year. This same thing occurs in the case of those who have rose cold because the trees and grasses to whose pollens they are sensitive bloom earlier in the South than in the North.

Indoor Plants.

It is also not widely known that some of the plants frequently grown indoors in the cold months may cause the allergic reaction found in those who have hay fever or rose cold. Such plants sometimes cause another type of allergic reaction, hives, with its red wheals and intense itching. The primrose is a plant to which many are sensitive.

It is possible to successfully immunize many of the sufferers from these distressing diseases by injecting under their skins gradually increasing doses of the pollen or pollens to which they are sensitive. To obtain the best results, this treatment must be carried on over a long period so that, when the plants to which they are sensitive, pollenate, the patients will be able to tolerate large doses of the pollens under the skin. Before the treatment starts, the patients must be tested to determine the pollens to which they are sensitive. Then these pollens must be mixed in proper proportions to fit each individual's particular sensitivities. It is now almost too late for the sufferers from rose cold to be greatly benefited in 1942. Hay fever sufferers who start the testing and treatment at once can obtain some benefit but not as much as if the start had been made in October.

Start Treatment Now.

If you have rose cold or hay fever and wish to benefit by this type of preventive treatment, get your tests made at once and start the treatment as soon as possible. If you are not much better next summer don't be discouraged. Repeat the treatment next year but begin it almost as soon as the plants to whose pollens you are sensitive, have gone to seed. You may have to continue the treatment for several years but after the first year or two will not have to start it as early or take as many injections. This type of treatment does not cure in every case, but it gives much relief.

"The publicizing of a biological discovery before the matter has been fought out in expert conclave is not only stupid but in many cases is cruel by reason of the false hopes it arouses and the vain expenditures of money and effort it imposes on those who may be misled." — Hans Zinsser in "As I Remember Him."

BASKET BALL NEWS

Last Friday evening the Tawas City High school varsity basketball team received their worst setback of this season, 34 to 13, by a strong Harrisville team which scored at will. The game was played at Harrisville. Matuzak, with five field goals, was the high scorer of the game, followed closely by Townsend who sank four free throws for six points.

The only bright spot of the evening was Tawas City's Reserves defeating the Harrisville reserves in a hard fought battle. Tawas City trailed until the third quarter when Musolf and Blust put on a scoring spree and pulled ahead 17 to 10. In the final quarter Tawas City added another point and Harrisville shot a field goal and sank a free toss. At the final whistle the Tawas City team were enjoying a five point lead, 18 to 13. Willard Musolf set the pace for Tawas City with five field goals and a foul shot for eleven points, Blust's donation to the cause was three field goals. The other point was a foul shot by Clark.

Dehnke and Johnson shared scoring honors for Harrisville with four points each.

Tawas City School Notes

The New Semester, like the New Year, bring forth resolutions and determination to improve, sometimes self-motivator, other the momentous decision is reached only after a small heart to heart talk with an instructor. Be that as it may, this is felt throughout the school this week. Our first graders and kindergartners express it in these words. "This is our room. We will keep it clean. We will pick up paper. We will take care of books. We will be on time. We will take care of ourselves. We will be clean. We will be polite. We will speak when spoken to. We will speak one at a time. We will keep our lips closed at the right time. We will tell the truth. We will be quiet at work time. We will not be noisy at play time. We will walk up and down stairs. We will keep to the right. We will not take what belongs to other people. We will not waste paper. We will help each other." And the mere scope of that leaves our older students with a feeling of awe.

The second graders express this desire for improvement by actions. They list nine students with perfect records in spelling: Betty Jean Lossing, Shirley Allen, Lillian Pfeiffer, Nancy Rollin, Margaret Mark, Rosalin Gackstetter, James Minard, James Perior and Norman Westcott. Six more students purchased defense stamps last week. In the library corner of their room, they have placed three orange crates on their sides, on top of each other. They are using this as a book case to hold their supplementary readers, and they have finished their number books and are ready to start the new ones as soon as they come. Joan Rogers from Detroit is the new student who will help them carry out their plans for the new term.

Among the things the second graders don't like to remember about the old term are these. Eleven pupils had the mumps during the semester and no one had a perfect attendance record, not even Miss Braddock.

Perhaps one of the most perfect lessons was taught during a recess period some time ago in Miss Worden's room. A flock of Evening Grosbeaks stopped in their flight long enough to pick up a bit of food from under the maples. Miss Worden called the children to the window. In her quiet way, she called their attention to the beauty of the birds, answered their questions, explained he birds' habits and why they had thick, short beaks. The children talked among themselves, some questioning, some exclaiming over the beauty and wonder of the flock. One or two of the children expressed a desire to shoot, thinking only of the sport. The others immediately expressed their almost unanimous disapproval, thus bringing the offenders to accept the codes of good conduct, and Miss Worden was on in her quiet way.

Miss Worden's people express what many of us feel but seldom say, that is, Mrs. Blust is doing a good job. "Those of us who bring our lunches and eat in the basement enjoy the food that Mrs. Blust and her helpers serve. A hot dish with our lunch is much better than just a cold lunch. The fifth and sixth graders are beginning the new term by doing what most good Americans are doing, collecting scrap. They are concentrating on paper. To make it more interesting, they have initiated a contest between the two grades. At the present time the sixth graders are ahead with 48 papers to their credit against the fifth graders 13. A secret, George Mielock brought in 33. The sixth grade made posters pertaining to the sale of defense stamps and bonds. They are in red, white and blue, most attractive. Sixty-five percent of the pupils in this room have purchased defense stamps. And perhaps the idea of being a Good Neighbor inspired the products map of Australia that graces the back bulletin board.

The sixth graders like to remember these things about this semester: Joan Perior received all "A's" in her semester tests, while Elizabeth Westcott, Joyce Montgomery, Corrie Lee Rutterbush and Virginia Sims were neither absent nor tardy during the first semester.

At the end of the third week the tenth graders continue to lead in the sale of defense stamps. The members of this class have purchased $54.45 worth of defense stamps in the last three weeks. Neil Libka says he is quite sure they will do it again this coming week.

In the spring, and these are spring like days, a young man's fancy turns to BIRD HOUSES, at least that is what the boys from Mr. Kreiger's shop classes tell me. But as usual, there are large projects going on in this department. The boys are painting the shop and turning the old commercial room into a library. This is going to be a real improvement. Others continue on their end tables and magazine racks while Herbie Blust is making a bookcase and Hugh Prescott carries around the plans for a $100,000 house on his drafting board. We can all dream, can't we? We must for it is getting its share of attention.

Ruth Herriman leads the Honor Roll students for the semester with an all "A's" average. Those with a "B" average or better for the first semester are:
 Seventh grade—None.
 Eighth grade—Lillian Anschuetz, Beverly Bigelow, John Carlson, Gloria Farley, Eugenia Klemish, Betty LaReau, Rhea Pfahl, Ruth Westcott.
 Ninth grade—Marion Bing, Donald Herriman, Ardith Lake, Jeanette Montgomery, Donna Moore, Eunice Ross, Betty Roach.
 Tenth grade—None.
 Eleventh grade—Ruth Giddings, Helen Krumm, Philip Ross, June Van Sickle.
 Twelfth grade—Elna Herman, Dorothy Herman, Ruth Herriman all A's, Leona Ziehl.

the food producers of the Nation? It is true we may not be subjected to the hardships and dangers of active fighting forces, but those that produce food are very important for ultimate victory.

"We must therefore, because of its great importance, put forth every effort to increase this production not with the thought of how much will we make, not what it will profit me by longer hours, rigid economy, tireless effort and by being constantly on the job to take advantage of changing conditions, but rather with this thought in mind. This is my duty—this is my part in helping to win the war.

"We farmers and stockmen of Northeastern Michigan and we members of the Northeastern Michigan Hereford Calf Association perform. There is no excuse for our not doing our part to help on this defense plan.

"We have all the natural resources at our command for extra beef production. The money is available to enlarge our operations. We live in the greatest grazing section of Michigan. Duty calls us. Let us then produce more and better beef. Let us as a group take an active part in the promotion, development and production of one of the greatest enterprises of all time—more and better beef. This means more and better Herefords for Northeastern Michigan.

"In conclusion, if we will do this we will have a very definite sense of satisfaction. We know we have done our duty and have had a part in helping to win the war. And a further satisfaction, after the war is won and the smoke of battle cleared away, and the adjustments that follow the aftermath of war are taking place, we will be aware that we have helped in the permanent development of Northeastern Michigan, have made it a better place to live in and we did this by helping to put a good Hereford cow and calf on many acres of unused land in Northeastern Michigan."

- NOTICE -

Because of rising costs all around us and constant increases in the price of supplies which in some cases are almost double that of two years ago, we are faced with making a decision. Either we must raise prices or cut costs. In fairness to the majority of our customers who bring their garments into our store and call for them when finished and in cooperation with government economy request we have decided at this time that rather than raise prices we will eliminate our pick up and delivery service which has always been a large item of expense. This will enable us to maintain our prices at the present level and will also help speed up our service.

We respectfully ask the cooperation of our customers in this matter. Thank you.
