United Nations Rush Reinforcements To Far East Battle Fronts in Effort To Check Spreading of Jap Attacks; Nazis Again Take Offensive in Afica

LUZON:

Epic Battle

Hailed as an epic of warfare that would live in all history, the defense of Bataan peninsula and of the fortresses holding the entrance to Ma-nila bay had been diverting large Jap forces needed elsewhere than in the Philippines.

The adding to MacArthur's embattled and smoke-begrimed army of a battalion of bluejackets and marines was welcome news and showed that perhaps not all of the men of Cavite and Olongapo had been withdrawn, but that they had been given a post of honor with the defenders.

Up on the Mariveles mountains they were entrenched, and no matter what strength the Japs hurled against them they were holding firm. On one moonlit night a whole regiment of small boats moved down the coast, using the same tactics that had hurled the British back on Malaya.

The effort was to get in on Mac-Arthur's flank and confuse the defenders, at the same time signalling for an offensive on the central front. But the shore defenders and artillery opened up on the Jap invad-ers, left scores of them struggling in the water, and the few that made shore were quickly mopped up by the Filipinos.

There was apparently at least one Japanese warship which managed to run through the eight-mile strip of water between the fortresses at the entrance of Manila bay.

One of the United States' intrepid torpedo boat skippers, piloting his tiny craft at close to 80 miles an hour, swept down on her in the moonlight, and launched two torpedoes which

GERMANS:

Not Out Yet Reading endless stories of Russian successes in battles on the east front, and the continuous hammer-ing back of Rommel's forces in north Africa had brought many over-optimistic souls to feel that the war was over, and that all which remained was some sort of mopping up process. The turning of the tide in north Africa, and the success of German counterattacks in the Crimea showed that with favorable weather conditions the Nazis were still very much to be reckoned with. The Crimea was a much warmer battlefield than the 40 below zero northern sectors, where the Russians, undiscouraged by the cold, and more at home in such weather, were able to hurl the Nazis back constantly on a wide front.

But the minute the weather moderated in the Crimea, they found themselves more or less up against a stone wall.

On the British and American forces was falling the brunt of the Japanese blitz, and its successes on Malaya and in the Philippines showed that this was no minor war, but an effort against powerful antagonists.

Therefore events generally pointed to what Washington had assured the people was coming-a long and bloody war, not to be lightly won. Though, generally speaking, the news was not as unfavorable as it might have been, there was much less to be cheering about than there was to be worrying about, and the seriousness of the situation was apparently keenly appreciated by all

SINKINGS:

Continue Heavy The U-boat raids on the North Atlantic continued heavy, with a total of 16 ships attacked of which two escaped and 14 went to the bottom, with about an average loss of life

Since our entrance into the war, two navy tankers had been torpedoed, the first managing to reach Iceland under her own power, but the second one, the Neches, going down with a reported estimated loss of 56 men, with 126 men escaping to fight again. The location of the Neches' torpedoing was not immediately announced by the navy, but ship losses had been small in the Pacific after Pearl Harbor, more than equalled two to one by Allied sinkings of Jap ships.

There were growing reports of Allied naval strength in the Pacific, showing that increasing numbers of ships were active in those waters, and in one case having carried the attack to the Japanese-held Marshall and Gilbert islands, generally in the Australia defense zone, with terrific results.

In this action, though no strictly war vessels of Nippon were sunk, the navy reported several auxiliaries were sunk and damaged, which might include tankers, transports, supply ships used for naval purposes That our forces lost 11 planes but no ships showed that probably one of our aircraft carriers was in the neighborhood, and that a vessel of this size was being used in a task force offensive action demonstrated that Admiral Nimitz was keen on getting even with Japan for Pearl hey come. Their score is more than 60 Japanese planes downed, including 24 bombers, with a possible score of around 100, taking into account the enemy planes hit but not downed on the spot. They're doing all this with antiquated planes, and so far they've lost only 10 of them.

Six years ago, Colonel Chen-nault headed the army team of precision acrobats which spread heart-failure among the crowds attending the Seventh Annual Army Air races at Miami. He and his mates, Lieut. J. H. Wil-liams and Lieut. William Mc-Donald, put on probably the dizziest air show ever seen and at the same time a demonstration of the amazing maneuverability of airplanes under highly expert control.

The colonel, a lean, dark, quiet, wiry man, was 45 years old when the above air show came off. He retired from the army and holed up in a neat little house at Waterproof, La. He had his books and his dog and he was going to enjoy life with his friends. However, he kept up his studies of air tactics and strategy, having written two authoritative text books on these subjects.

In 1937, he was approached by a representative of the Chinese government who proposed that he become air adviser to the Chinese government. This led to his four years' service in China in which he organized and commanded the present A.V.G., or American Volunteer group, which is now outfighting the Japanese along the Burma road.

When he was here in January, 1940, he said that the Chinese planes were liquid-cooled and at a great disadvantage against any up-to-date machine. A quiet, reserved officer, with no dash of the swashbuckler in his make-up, he says that he and his boys can hold the road if they can just get a few more fairly fash-ionable planes.

WAVELL:

And Reinforcements

The statement by General Wavell that "great reinforcements" were to arrive, and calling on the Singapore defenders to "defend the city as Tobruk was defended" was more than a little significant.

Tobruk was the bastion that held out for months despite being surrounded on three sides by Axis forces anxious to wipe it out, and finally was relieved by the allied winter drive.

Wavell's statement to the Singapore army smacked of a situation which might see sufficient reinforcements sent to Malaya to do the same thing, not only to relieve the garrison, but send the Japanese on the run again.

Whether this reinforcement was going to be sent to Singapore itself, or whether a method was to be found of striking at the Japanese rear, which might be lightly held, was not revealed. but either method, it was pointed out, might work.

No British commentators felt that the war in the South Pacific would be lost utterly if Singapore was to fall, but the ability to hold the East Indies would immeasurably be weakened if this was to happen, hence Wavell's strong appeal to the city's defenders to hold out at all costs.

Although tire rationing was apparently here to stay, the rubber situation was relieved somewhat when it was announced that shipments from the East Indies were continuing at almost a normal pace.

A glance at the map showed that considerable areas of the Dutch East Indies were still technically out of the active war zone, and the defeat of the Japanese armada in the Macassar straits halted a Jap threat which might have halted much of the rubber shipping summarily.

Jesse Jones, secretary of commerce and Federal Loan administrator, was author of the statement that rubber shipments continued to be received. He said enough had come in materially to increase the United States' reserve supply. For in-stance, since the war started, on December 7, he asserted that 114,000 tons of raw rubber had been received, truly a considerably amount. He said:

'We are unloading some every day, and rubber is being shipped every day from the Dutch East Indies. We will continue to get it as long as we can keep the lanes open, and as long as they can load it. "Some rubber is still coming out of Singapore." This was even after the city had gone under siege. The Japs had launched an air attack on Sourabaya, which was the only major Javanese port to undergo such a war blow, but it was recalled that it would take more than an air blitz to put a huge port like this out of normal action.

Some observers, including Senator Tydings, in addresses had warned that the Germans had some 100 divisions of soldiers that they had been holding out of action, just for the spring offensive against Russia. The Red armies were not, however, believed to be losing anywhere nearly as heavily on the whole front as were the Germans, so this taste of victory, even though temporary, was expected to stand them in good stead when the time comes to hang on after May 1.

Experience of 1940 and 1941 was that the Russian winter would not break until about that time, to any appreciable degree, and at that point the Germans might be expected to launch another all-out attack.

The Red armies were well into Smolensk province, reporting that the Germans, instead of fighting holding actions, were now hastily moving back to better fortified lines, and trying at all costs to save as much material and as many men as possible. It was considered probable that the Russians would be able, before the coming of spring, to shove the Ger-mans at least back to Smolensk, thus giving the Nazis 230 miles to cover in reaching Moscow again, a distance that the Russians had already fought over twice, once going and once coming, and which they would defend even more stubbornly than the first time.

And they would, it was pointed out, be able this time to get an ever-increasing amount of Allied aid, and not be subject to the same quality of surprise which gave the Germans so much advantage the last time.

The battle-lines now being so well drawn, it would be impossible for the Nazis to gain much momentum.

INSURANCE: On War Damage

The senate, by passing a bill giving owners of property free insurance up to $15,000 for war damage, showed that it is willing still further to commit the public credit to eventual victory in the war. Some senators brought up the point during the debate that if property owners are to be given insurance without paying premiums, why should not the congress also give free insurance to civilians killed as the result of the war.

Its anchor, globe and eagle em-blem and its "Semper Fidelis" have been pretty nearly everywhere, and, historically speaking, it will be old stuff to the marines, wherever they land.

Just now it has its highest ranking commandant in history, with the President's elevation of Commandant Thomas Holcomb from the rank of major general to lieutenant general. General Holcomb, 42 years with the corps, is a quiet-spoken, heavy-set, business-like officer who, like his "Leathernecks," has been around a lot and has a way of making himself of here are of making himself at home under inhospitable conditions.

His World war honors, won in France, include a citation by Gen-eral Pershing, the Navy Cross, the Silver Star, the Purple Heart and the Legion of Honor ribbon.

He entered the marine corps as a civilian. His rough-and-ready military education later was supplemented by a course in the command and general staff school in 1925. He saw service in China and the Philip-pines, back in the dawn days of "manifest destiny," and in the World war he commanded the Second battalion of the Sixth marines in the St. Mihiel and Meuse-Argonne offensives. He was assigned to Cuba in the post-war years and, by 1935, had attained the rank of brigadier general. In 1936 he was made a major general and commandant of the marine corps.

The Continental congress set up the marines, the oldest branch of the American armed forces. Away back in 1802 they took Derna, in Libya, recently taken by the British. They were fighting pirates in the Dutch East Indies in 1835; in Tripoli in 1840 and Formosa in 1867. urine which had long been known to be sweet to the taste, contained sugar. It is one of the oldest known diseases, having been mentioned in the Ebers Papyrus which was writ-ten about 1500 B. C. Its name is from either the Greek word for "sy-phon" or from one meaning "to go through." Yet it was not until some 50 years ago that it became known that diabetes mellitus was due to disease of the pancreas. While it had been suggested in 1916, it was not until 1921 when Banting and Best working in the laboratory of Prof. J. J. R. Macleod in Toronto, discovered insulin that it was proven to be due to a decreased formation of the internal secretion of that gland.

Prior to that time, there had been some success in treating the disease by diets low in carbohydrate, that is, in sugar and starches. But, in the more severe cases, restriction of the diet was so great that the patient suffered from starvation almost as much as from the uncontrolled disease. In the more mild cases, the management by dietary restriction of sugars and starches continues to be the best but can only be used when the patient can tolerate enough carbohydrate to permit a diet containing his caloric requirements. With the discovery of insulin and, more recently, of its modifications with more enduring effects, it became possible with the aid of large enough doses of these drugs which must be administered hypodermatically, for any diabetic to utilize the amount of sugar and starch in a normal diet.

Before the advent of insulin, diabetics lived for only a few years and usually died of acidosis or coma caused by the disease or as a result of pus infections that spread rapidly. Today these complications are unusual and relatively few die as a result of the disease itself. Now the deaths are most often due to the formation of clots in the hardened arteries of the heart, brain, legs or feet. Such hardening of the arteries is more common and develops earlier in diabetics. It interferes with the circulation and often causes extensive clots and gangrene after a slight injury to a toe, foot or ankle or after an insignificant infection on these parts.

Diabetes mellitus is a disease, the management of which requires the fullest co-operation of the patient. His tolerance for starches and sugars is determined; a proper diet plus such insulin as may be required is prescribed and its efficacy tested. Then the patient is taught all about the disease, its complications and how to avoid or treat them as the case may be; is taught how to figure and weigh his diet that it may contain a maximum variety of foods and yet have the same amounts of carbohydrate, protein and fat; to test the urine for sugar, and for ketone bodies.

"The poor, of course, do not suffer more from disease than the rich because they have less cash in their pockets but only in so far as they are deprived of the necessities of life."

Abnormal Tire Wear

If tires show abnormal wear the trouble may be caused by underinflation or misaligned wheels, according to the California State Automobile association. Another cause of uneven tire wear is unbalanced wheels. At high speed a wheel only slightly out of balance develops a powerful centrifugal force. This force jerks the wheel up and down as it rotates. In addition to abnormal up and down motion there also may be side motion as the heavy spot moves fore and aft. Unbalanced wheels frequently cause shimmy, abnormal wear in steering mechanism, as well as cupped spots in the tire tread.

Dunking Old Idea

Dunking in your "bunchum" is a custom as ancient as Arabia. It was there where the world's first cup of coffee was made from some strange, bright red berries the Arabians called "bunn." The beverage became "bunchum" and was thick enough to scoop out of the bowl with bits of food. Result: Introduction of dunking to the world!

Money, or rather the lack of it, is the most common cause of marital troubles, according to Circuit Judge Paul D. Barnes of Miami, and he should know, for last year he han-dled 4,000 divorce cases. "Willingness to live within income is the most important thing I can say to young married coaples," Judge Barnos said. "The tendency to exceed income seems to be a fashion of the times, but it's probably the most disastrous habit married couples can fall into."

It has been the food habits of we who eat that set the pattern for the family diet, and also the pattern for the menus at our public eating places -hotels, cafes, lunch rooms, roadside INSTALLMENT FIVE THE STORY SO FAR: Karen Water son, convinced by her lawyer, John Colt, that she has a claim to the island estate and fortune of her grandfather, Garrett Waterson, arrives in Honolulu to attempt to gain control of the property. Here she meets Richard Wayne, or Tonga Dick, as he is known throughout the South Pacific. He is a member of the Wayne family that has been in control of her grandfather's Island, Alakoa, since the old man's disappearance. Although Tonga Dick knows who she is, Karen attempts to conceal her identity from him. Dick offers to take her sailing and she accepts. Dick, himself has not taken much of an interest in the island estate, but his half-brothers, Ernest and Willard, are very worried lest Karen's claims be valid. Next day as Dick takes Karen sailing she learns that he knows who she is and that he is taking her to Alakoa. She wants to go back to Honolulu but he refuses to take her. Although she is thrilled by the sight of the deep water island, Alakoa, Karen is afraid of what awaits her here. Dick finds that his uncle, James Wayne, is very ill. When Dick sees him, James Wayne is upset over the pending suit for the is-land and tells Dick he will under no circumstances come to a settlement. Now continue with the story.

CHAPTER V

A slim Hawaiian girl called Lilua had shown Karen her room; and now this girl was back again tapping at the door panel. "Yes?"

"Mister Dick wants to know if you would like to have coffee with him.' Uncertain, Karen Waterson opened the door. Tonga Dick was surely the last person in the world she wanted to see.

As she hesitated Lilua moved across the room and closed a casement that Karen had opened, and Karen experienced a sharp annoyance. There was no air of service in the Hawaiian girl's movement or in her face; rather there was a faint irony in Lilua's eyes, as if she condescended to assist a helpless per-son who didn't know how to take care of herself.

Karen put a cigarette into an ebo-ny holder, lighted it, and studied Lilua impersonally. Lilua had the creamy brown skin of the pure Hawaiian; her softly waved hair, black as any night, was drawn back over her ears, brushed severely.

"How old are you?" Karen asked suddenly.

Lilua's unwavering eyes seemed amused. "Eighteen. How old are you?' If Karen had conceived Lilua to be in any way less than her equal, that idea was evidently not shared by Lilua. Karen turned away. "Somewhat older," she said shortly. "Tell Mr. Wayne 1 with "Lilua" "I'll show you where he is," Lilua

Karen turned to look at her, impelled by that steady gaze. "You're glad to see him back, aren't you?" Karen said Lilua hesitated perceptibly, but her quiet voice did not change as she answered. "I haven't seen him for two years.' Karen, her annoyance unaccountably increased, followed Lilua through the house.

"I don't believe," Karen offered, "that that girl has had her eyes off of you one moment since you've been in this house."

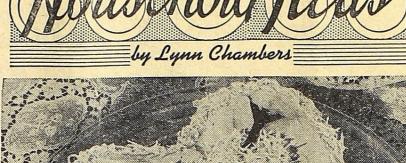

Dick Wayne looked startled. 'Huh?" "You don't mean to tell me that you didn't notice that?" For a moment Dick looked worried. "Bunch of nonsense," he said. "Can it be possible," Karen asked,

'that she believes all that-that stuff?"

"Of course. Different races have different ways of talking about the factors that make things happen." "Well-" Dick hesitated, and visibly shifted ground. "Well, it seems to me extremely remarkable that you and I are sitting here tonight, together by this fire."

A heavy lei of golden ginger blos-soms hung on the foot of the bed; the blossoms filled the whole room with "It is through no wish of mine," Karen said.

Cupid's Day

Hearts are king for a day and with these magic little symbols you can do up some pink-and-white color schemes in just serving refreshments. The idea is to be festive and just gay enough to put you and your family in a good mood. So plan to be on speaking terms with Valentine's day with the star selections I'm including in today's recipes. If you're really planning a party, any number of ideas offer themselves as a gracious part of the entertainment. For instance, if you're far enough north to have ice, an ice carnival is fun. A masquerade in which the guests come dressed as some of Cupid's famous victims goes over well. A card party featuring games such as "Hearts" or "Old Maid" might answer your needs, or perhaps a dance with heart and cu-

Free Switzerland

The Swiss Confederation was formed August 1, 1291, when Valley Uri, the Valley of Schwyz and the lower Valley of Unterwald combined in an "Everlasting League." By 1499 the Swiss league had practically won its independence from the Hapsburg empire, and in 1648 that status was formally recognized.

Swiss custom is to celebrate the independence as dating from the formation of the confederation and on August 1, last, Swiss all over the world observed the 650th anniversary of their freedom.

Dick Wayne was stretched out before the fire in the big room whose immense doors opened upon the valley and the fog; Lilua immediately crossed the room to close those doors. Dick rose, looking apologetic. "I hope you'll make yourself comfortable here. I'm sorry if you feel I've made things awkward for you. I think I'll be able to take you back tomorrow." "Good."

In the stiff silence between them, Lilua came and stood in front of Dick's chair, looking at him steadily.

"Dick, you must be careful of this night. I don't like this night at all. E makani auanei, ke kau mai la ke kakai o Kakaipali-'

"That's rude, Lilu'," Dick stopped her. "You know she can't understand that."

Lilua cast a contemptuous glance at Karen, and she did not translate; but she went on in English.

"Pretty soon the clouds are going to rise higher, and the wind is going to blow through. And then it is going to rain, and even the rain is going to be a bad rain."

Dick pulled at his cold pipe, his eyes morose upon the fire. "Don't think much of it myself," he admitted.

"The wrong gods are walking," Lilua said now. "The right gods never walk here any more. Remember how we used to hear them walking? But they haven't walked here for a long time. Something else is here instead. Sometimes I can feel it coming near. And tonight it is very close, terribly close; and even the dog is afraid."

Dick Wayne stirred restively. Perhaps he thought he knew what it was that was near; but he didn't want to look at it, yet. "You'd better go get some sleep, Lilu'."

"Dick, this is a wrong time." "Wrong time for what?" Dick snapped at her.

Lilua glanced at Karen, but what she said next was unintelligible. "Dick," Lilua said, "Kai-Ale-Ale has been seen again. He hasn't been seen-Dick, he hasn't been seensince my grandmother died."

Dick Wayne took time to explain this to Karen. "There's a big shark," he put in, in aside, "that the

'I'm sorry. I still can't understand why you're not interested. For one thing, this might very well have been the house in which you were born. The room you are to sleep in tonight might have been the very room.

"I thought of that."

"There's a lot of history in this old house," Dick went on. "Of course the most interesting part of it, or at least the most highly colored, goes back to your grandfather's day, before you were born at all-before the Waynes came in. In his day the house was never silent and empty, as it is now." "You Waynes have certainly turned it into a tomb."

"I'm sorry, sometimes," he said, 'that those old days are gone. There are things that are rigid, and dull too, about the Wayne regime."

She looked at him and the shared moment broke up. "How do you know all this?"

"The Waynes were very close friends of Garrett Waterson." "To the profit of the Waynes,"

Karen said with repressed bitterness. Tonga Dick shook his head, not in denial, but in objection. "Your grandfather ended up utterly broke. You see, he was the last of the great old catch-as-catch-can traders. Island trading was a tough game after the sandalwood gave out, but Garrett Waterson had a tremendous robust energy, and he made himself two or three fortunes. But all that was over a good many years before he sold Alakoa. I doubt if he had made a cent for at least a decade. He had no business judgment; even his ownership of this island was an accident. He won Alakoa in a poker game with the native king-and even that was partly by mistake, because he thought he was gambling for just the fishing rights. He was actually astounded when he found out he had won it all." "I suppose it amuses you," Karen said, "to make out that my grandfather was a great fool.' "You shouldn't mind," Dick smiled. "You and John Colt are trying to establish that he was an imbecile.'

Karen bit her lip; she was silent for a full minute, and when she natives think is a god. I've never | spoke she took an entirely new tone.

a spicy fragrance, heavy and gent. Instantly Dick knew who had made that lei, and put them there; and for a moment he was troubled. Then, on an impulse, he picked up the lei and went walking through the house. He recognized Karen's room when he came to it by the crack of light under the door.

He knocked and the door was opened.

"Here," he said, pressing the lei into her hands. He was unable to keep a shade of irony out of his voice. "Aloha." He turned and went back to his room. He half expected to hear her door slam behind him, but it did not.

Dick stripped to his shorts and put out the lights. As he flung himself between the cool sheets the manyvoiced wind was drowned by the swift rush of rain-first a whisper, then a drumming roar as water beat against walls and casements by sheets and buckets.

The rain was still coming down in torrent upon torrent as he went to sleep. He was awakened by the touch of a hand upon his shoulder; and, though it was a gentle hand, it was so dripping wet with cold rain that the shock brought him bolt upright. The fire still burned, its slim flames twisting and hissing from the spatter of rain in the chimney, and by its light he saw that Lilua was there

"What the devil is this?" "Dick," Lilua said, "you have to get up."

"What's happened? Is there any thing wrong?'

"Something is terribly wrong," Lilua said. "Something has happened It's happened just now-within the last ten minutes."

"Oh, Lord!" He got up then, and turned on the lights.

"I'm sorry to wake you up, Dickbut I tell you, I know."

Dick, pulling on his flannels, looked at her curiously. She had dropped to the floor the huge ti leaf with which she had sheltered her head as she came running through the rain, and her hair bushed wildly about her shoulders. Her eyes were no longer quiet, but alive with a terror she was helpless to control.

In another moment there was a quick fluttery tapping at the door and a thin little voice outside was calling, "Mister Dick! Mister Dick!" (TO BE CONTINUED)

Lynn Says:

Valentine ideas are practical for the celebration of anniversaries even after St. Valentine's day is past.

Recently I saw an anniversary celebration at which a cranberry mold was used. Cranberry jelly cut in heart shapes was placed around the big mold. The number of small hearts corresponded to the number of years the couple had been married.

The heart-shaped cakes and molds of ice cream are much in use for anniversary celebrations and carry out the idea effectively. Heart-shaped candies may also be used to decorate whipped cream or desserts.

add chicken, bread crumbs, chicken broth, milk, stiffly beaten egg whites and seasonings. Butter a loaf pan and dredge with extra bread crumbs. Lay strips of pimiento all along bottom of pan diagonally. Add chicken mixture. Bake in a moderate (350-degree) oven 11/2 hours in a pan of hot water. Allow to stand 1/2 hour in pan after taking from oven before attempting to unmold. For mushroom sauce, canned mushroom soup may be used. Flavor with the juice of a half lemon and a dash of nutmeg. If you desire to make a mushroom sauce, make 2 cups of medium white sauce, add 1 cup sauteed, chopped, canned or fresh cooked mushrooms. Season this with lemon juice and nutmeg. Meringues, crisp and chewy, are unexcelled for desserts when main courses are on the hearty side. They lend themselves to all types of decorations and in this instance, you can serve them filled with strawberry ice cream or one of the red ices.

*Meringues. (Makes 10 shells) 6 egg whites 3/4 cup granulated sugar 1/4 teaspoon salt ½ teaspoon vinegar

1/2 teaspoon vanilla

Add salt and vinegar to egg whites, then beat until foamy. Add vanilla, then add sugar, two tablespoonfuls at a time, beating steadily all the while until whites are very stiff. Spoon onto ungreased sheet and hollow out centers. Bake in a slow oven (250-degree) on an ungreased cookie sheet for 1 hour. Cool.

*Heart-Shaped Sandwiches.

Use whichever kind of bread you prefer, and cut into heart shapes with a large heart cutter. Butter and fill with desired filling.

Two choice fillings which carry out the Valentine theme are these: Ham put through the grinder or chopped fine and mixed with finely chopped celery and pickle, moistened with mayonnaise. Jellies or jams in red blended with cream cheese are also attractive.
