'Food for Freedom' Meeting at Hale

March is mobilization month for Michigan's agriculture. An army of 190,000 Michigan farmers swing into formation on a vast farm front along with six million other American farmers who are making zero hour plans and preparations for the gigantic spring offensive directed toward meeting the nation? ing the nation's urgent call for great-ly increased production of vital farm commodities. Farmers face the busiest and most important crop season in history, so it is necessary that everything possible be done before spring work gets underway in order to make the "Food for Freedom" program successful.

To further this cause there will be a public meeting at the Hale Community Hall, Monday evening, March 9, at 8:00. Pot luck lunch. A good pro-9, at 8:00. Pot luck lunch. A good program of music, dancing and valuable, information will be given by speakers who understand the problems confronting all of us whether we be farmers or otherwise. Everyone is welcome, load your car with your family and if there be room, bring your neighbors. Be sure and tell others about this meeting.

Java Defense Gains New Strength As Dutch Troops Get Reinforcements; Tanker Losses Indicate U-Boat Drive Against Eastern Petroleum Supplies

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

JAVA: Defense Impressive

Following the fall of Singapore, wailing women, many of them carrying babies, had arrived on rescue ships in Java, worried over the fate of their men who had been left between the state of their men who had been left behind. But all of them were highly impressed with the spirit and the defenses of Batavia.

There was every evidence that Java, whether it got sufficient reinforcements or not, would be adequately defended by the forces now on the island.

The Dutch not only were massing all their own man power, their ships and planes, but it was plain that they had some American reinforcements, largely believed in this country to be constituted of the very vital anti-aircraft guns and men to man them man them.

The fight that still had raged around Bali was a good curtain-raiser for what the Japs could expect when they moved in on Java itself, with its 40,000,000 population, and the concentrated strength of everything the Dutch and the other United Nations had which had been salvaged from other fronts.

Churchill had said that the total Japanese land strength in the Far Japanese land strength in the Far East was estimated at 26 divisions. There were many who believed that it would take half that number to conquer Java alone, provided it was properly defended, and many believed the Japs could not spare that many troops nor transport them to Java.

Some military authorities believed the Japs would not even try, but would content themselves with bombing military installations, and with surrounding the island with naval forces, thus rendering it incapable of taking part in East In-dian defense, while concentrating most of the Jap forces on an invasion of Australia.

The news of the day had not so far borne out this contention, however, for the Japanese landings on Sumatra to the west and Bali to the east had been in considerable

WASHINGTON:

Cleaning Up

The national capital, which was under fire ever since the Douglas-Chaney boondoggling fight started with the OCD as a central point, had started the job of self-cleaning with President Roosevelt "taking a leaf out of his own notebook" and finding that 16 agencies were engaged in housing activities alone.

The senate and house had not been idle in the self-cleaning matter, either, for they had repealed the pension bill, which already had been signed by the President.

The President had not signed it as such, but it had been a rider on another bill, and thus had become

But the national outcry had been terrific, and the congressional repeal had followed with but few congressmen of either house willing to put themselves on the spot as voting pensions for themselves-after the outcry.

Representative Reed of New York was perhaps most frank, for while most congressmen had said they had voted for the previous measure without considering it much, if at all, said: "I was not called away by a telephone call, I was not out eating a sandwich-I was not talking with a constituent at the time - I was in favor of the bill." He was not, however, recorded as voting against repeal.

The OCD still was the center of attack, Senator Byrd of Virginia having said that his investigation of jobs paying over $2,500 in the OCD included "actors, baseball players, football coaches, track men, tennis players, newspaper and magazine writers, social workers, army and navy officers, doctors, engineers, nurses, ex-public officials, lawyers and others in every walk of life."

Many had quit after Mrs. Roosevelt's resignation, but it was evident that the rest of them were under fire, with the senate on the firing line.

BATAAN:

Bomber Campaign

Perhaps a rather grisly humor had been shown in the dispatch from Bataan that the men of General MacArthur's command were planning to take up a collection from their own pay to have a bomber sent them.

It would have been a "one-day story" if the newsmen had not taken it up at President Roosevelt's conference. The President said:

"If anybody will tell me how, I'll see that they are sent."

And Torpedoes

Not only the German torpedoes, but a terrific Atlantic storm had taken a toll of American shipping. The fact that in 30-odd vessels torpedoed in our coastwise shipping, more than half had been tankers showed that the U-boats had their orders to prey on our coastal petroleum supply.

This attack, however, it was conceded, could do no worse than accentuate the oil shortage on the eastern seaboard, as the installations of oil refineries and tank farms had suffered no attacks, nor had the big petroleum producing fields.

But the storm, which cast two American naval vessels up on the rocky coast of Newfoundland took 189 lives, and provided the worst naval disaster of the kind in history.

The destroyer Truxton and the naval cargo auxiliary Pollux were lost, and by a quirk of fate they happened to go around where 450-foot cliffs jutted up straight from the

Though the Chinese were believed already to have developed another line of communication, partially if not completely ruining this objective for the Japs, it was proof of the fact that something drastic would have to be done about the reinforcement of the British defense of India, or more territory would fall into the Nipponese hands.

The Chinese were holding the northern sector, but the British, having been driven back from the Bilin river fortifications, had to fall back on Rangoon, and the work of destroying all military goods in the city which could not be moved was the signal for the closing of the port.

It was a tough 48 hours for the American military mission there, for it was their duty to see that the final shipments of thousands of tons of American lease-lend goods started on its rail journey up the Burma road to the Chinese before the Japs got in.

Some of this, it had been reported, faced destruction, and among what could not be moved were hundreds of American-made trucks which had not been assembled after shipping.

The British had made their last stand at the Sittang river, and there, in good positions, they covered the final removal of lease-lend goods and destruction of British materiel.

Cleveland: A labor-management dispute, according to reports, was crippling the output of a concern wholly engaged in making airplane and bomb parts.

Washington: Skyrocketing military demands for wool, caused by the imminent job of clothing several million more soldiers were said to be calling for sweeping reductions in the amount of wool available for civilian clothing.

Baltimore: The OPA said it would soon fix rent ceilings in this defense area, probably heralding similar action throughout large sections of the country.

Buenos Aires: Argentina, in a significant action, has informed Italy that she no longer can represent her in the Western hemisphere.

Increased dividends from the United States' good neighbor policy became increasingly evident when a new Brazilian aircraft engine factory signed an agreement with a U. activities of these same guerrillas.

Thousands of civilians, eyewitness reporters had cabled, had been slain by the Nazis, while other thousands had died of freezing or starvation, herded in forced marches often after their clothing had been pillaged. The guerrilla bands were able, by hiding in woods and mountains, to prey upon German communications, which by very necessity of temperature and topography had been chained to the few Russian roads.

The guerrillas were ambushing Germans, destroying not only trucks but tanks as well, and slaughtering such of them as fell into their hands.

One leader of such a band told a newsman that he and his fellows had blown up two large German trucks and that three members of the trucks' crews had been shot to death by their own superior officer for permitting the trucks to be destroyed.

The Russian guerrillas had ranged in age from 10 to 35.

LABOR:

Not So Quiet

Labor troubles, which had been almost nonexistent after Pearl Harbor had hurled the nation into war, began cropping up somewhat over the nation, though the federal government was not delaying to have them settled as rapidly and forcefully as possible.

Congress, too, was having its labor difficulties. A proposed wartime suspension of the 40-hour week caused heated debate with charges of "labor despotism" being hurled by Representative Cox of Georgia. Later, in answer, Sidney Hillman, labor chief of the war production board, said enactment of the proposal would "result in confusion and demoralization . . . '

Notable among the difficulties had been one in St. Louis, where power company employees had threatened a strike which would have crippled a whole defense industrial area.

An odd strike occurred at San Pedro, where the Bethlehem Steel company was building $81,000,000 worth of destroyers for the navy.

The men did not walk out, but they worked eight hours and then quit, going back to work again at the usual time, refusing to work 10hour shifts as they said the company demanded.

There also had been dispatches from the West coast that numbers of employees had refused to work on Washington's birthday, though specifically requested to. The day came on Sunday, but many factories reported large numbers of their workers stayed home on Monday.

The unions had demanded double pay for the holiday and employers had refused this demand. Hence the big holiday lay off.

Reports from Australia that the Aussies were digging in from one end of the eastern coast to the other seemed to make it dubious that any extensive aid for Java would be sent by Australia.

However, according to correspondents, the spirits of the Australians as they faced increasing evidence that they have a defense job of their own to consider, were uniformly

Cavalry Still Potent Military Factor

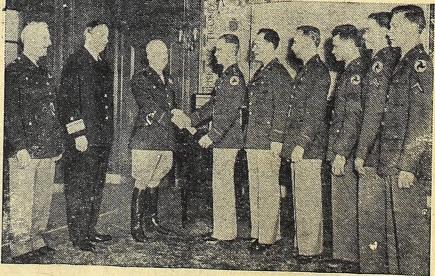

It was thought for awhile the horse in war was a back number. The U. S. army never acknowledged that theory, and events in Russia, where Cossack cavalry continued to counter-attack when snow and intense cold immobilized tanks, seem to indicate that cavalry is still to be reckoned with. Above you see part of a cavalryman's training at Fort Riley, Kan., "West Point" of the cavalry area. Lieut. Col. George Caldwell is instructing student officers in the external regions of the horse.

SCARLET FEVER

Scarlet fever is the most serious of the contagious diseases of childhood because it is often a severe infection and causes many deaths and cause heart or kidney disease. It is probably caused by a streptococcus even though unlike diseases caused by other organisms of that type, patients who have once had it are usually permanently immunized against the disease. It is such a serious disease that the utmost precautions should be taken to prevent its spread even though the local quarantine regulations do not contain such provisions.

It has been shown that the large majority of children who have not had scarlet fever or who have not been immunized against it by re-peated injections of the sterile tox-in, and a fairly large proportion of adults are susceptible to the dis-ease. Scarlet fever is primarily a throat infection with an organism, a streptococcus, that forms a toxin which causes the typical rash and the damage to the kidneys, which may enter the blood stream and infect the heart or may spread to infect the mastoid or other sinuses. In a recent study of a large series of cases, it was found that at the end of a 28-day quarantine period, 63 per cent of the patients were carriers of an "hemolytic streptococcus" which was probably the one causing the disease.

Modern methods for the control of scarlet fever should be adopted in all parts of the country. These in-

1. Isolation of the patient. 2. Dick tests on all contacts, including adults to determine their susceptibility to the disease. 3. Culturing of material from the nose and throat of all contacts on blood agar plates to determine whether or not they are carriers.

4. Take the temperature and inspect the throat and the upper part of the trunk of all contacts.

If the temperature and inspection lead one to suspect the imminence of scarlet fever, passive immunization may be produced by injecting at least 150,000 neutralizing units of scarlet fever antitoxin or of an adequate dose of convalescent serum (at least 40 cc.). One week after the passive immunization dose or as soon as a contact is found susceptible, active immunization with five graduated doses of scarlet fever toxin is begun. If the contact gives a negative skin test and a negative culture, he needs no treatment, All who are carriers, who have positive cultures, must be isolated and if also susceptible, must be immunized at once by the active method. A contact who is susceptible but who has a negative culture, need not be isolated. All patients and all carriers must be quarantined until cultures made from the nose and throat are negative for the hemolytic streptococcus.

When methods such as have been outlined were used in the care of scarlet fever patients in Evanston, Ill., the number of cases dropped from 188 in 1938 to 65 in 1939 and in a series of 117 consecutive cases there were no contact cases. Regulations similar to those adopted in Evanston on recommendation of Drs. Gladys R. H. and George Dick should be adopted by all local and state health departments that the number of cases of scarlet fever may be reduced at least proportionately in all parts of the United

Sharpening the Eyes of the Army and Navy With Lenses

Listen, my children, and you shall hear of a little cog in this great defense program machinery of ours that plays an unspectacular, but vital, role in the whole defense setup. It is the manufacture of optical instruments for our armed forces. It was thought that the U.S. would be up against it when the supply of German optical glass was cut off, but American glass manufacturers came through with a product every bit as good. The optical division at Frankford Arsenal in Philadelphia, where some of these photos were taken, now has a staff of 200 persons.

DISCOVERING WHY PEOPLE DRINK BEVERAGE ALCOHOL

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 43:34; Psalm 104:14, 15; Proverbs 31:4-7; Ecclesiastes 2:1-3, 10, 11; Isalah 56:12; I Corinthians 10:6, 7.

GOLDEN TEXT—Wine is a mocker, strong drink is raging; and whosoever is deceived thereby is not wise.—Proverbs 20:1.

The alcohol problem receives attention in four lessons of each year. This is the first one for 1942 and brings before us a number of scriptures not often used, in order to suggest the drinker's reasons for drinking. Other matters appear, but we shall limit ourselves to presenting these reasons, together with the Christian answer to each one.

Why do men drink? I. To Be Sociable (Gen. 43:34).

At the banquet prepared by Joseph the allowance for Benjamin was greatly increased, and they "drank and were merry." How often that has been the plea which has led into drinking and into drunkenness. The "social glass" has often led to the drunkard's grave.

Well, surely God wants us to be sociable. Yes, He does, and the perfect provision for man's social nature is found in Christian fellow-

II. To Be Happy (Ps. 104:14, 15) Wine is supposed to bring happiness, and we may admit that it does bring a temporary lift which some call happiness. But who is satisfied with happiness? It depends entirely on what "happens." If the wrong thing happens we are unhappy. We need a deep abiding joy, and only a right relationship to God can give that.

III. To Evade Responsibility (Prov. 31:4, 5).

When life's burdens become too much for him the weakling seeks relief and evades his responsibilities in the deadening power of alcohol. But that doesn't solve the problem. It is still there when sobriety returns, and usually more serious than ever. What can a man do? The answer is, turn to God. He gives wisdom, grace and strength.

IV. To Forget Sorrow (Prov. 31:

"Drown your sorrows" is the deceptive promise of liquor; but they stand right there beside man, and when his poor befuddled head begins to clear they present themselves more persistently than ever. What's the answer? The God of all comfort is ready to bear man's sorrows or to give him grace to bear them and to lead him out into a place of peace and victory.

V. To Forget Poverty (Prov. 31:

Heavy is the affliction of poverty in a world of plenty. Sometimes it tion of the World's fair of 1893? is the result of carelessness or of but often it is the lot of those for sailing around the world? who are innocently caught in its grip. Men have tried to forget, to 'drown" even this problem in drink, and have only made their poverty worse and more unbearable.

VI. To Find Satisfaction (Eccl.

2: 1-3, 10, 11). The book of Ecclesiastes gives the account of a man "under the sun," that is, apart from God's guidance and blessing, seeking to satisfy the cravings of his heart in many ways. All of them prove vain, including the effort to find it in wine and in pleasure.

Frustrated souls often seek release through intoxicants. They gain a measure of liberty and a sense of masterful power, but it is all as delusive as the dreams of grandeur of the insane. It is even worse, for it is a false condition, deliberately created and soon lost, togethe lost character and decency The morning after brings on deepened despair of greater of isfaction.

This war is being fought with resources as well as with men. Every pound of vital materials that can be conserved for weapons and munitions is another step on the road to Victory.

About the time the war began in Europe, Bell System engineers were starting to use the "K" carrier system—a new telephone development which now is saving large quantities of copper for use in implements of war.

In operation, the "K" carrier system enables two pairs of wires in parallel cables to carry as many as twelve separate conversations at the same time!

"K" carrier is helping Michigan Bell handle more Long Distance calls with fewer wires-making an important saving in copper.

Even with the help of research and invention, increasing shortages of materials make it difficult to satisfy service demands as promptly as in the past. But we are confidently determined that every war need will be met.

INSTALLMENT EIGHT
THE STORY SO FAR: Karen Waterson, convinced by her lawyer, John Colt, that she has a claim to the island estate of her grandfather, Garrett Waterson, has come to Honolulu to attempt getting the property. In an effort to find out something about the Wayne family, now In control of Alakoa, the island, she accepts a date to go sailing with Richard (Tonga Dick) Wayne. Against her wishes he takes her to Alakoa. Arriving there, they find James Wayne, Dick's uncle and manager of the property, very ill.

During the night of their visit he is found dead. Dick and Karen leave for Honolulu the next day. On the way back Dick tells Karen he loves her, but they quarrel over disposing of her claim to the Island. Later Dick meets John Colt and tells him he has news for him. Now continue with the story.

"Difficult to imagine," John Colt murmured.

"Many things that actually hap-pen are difficult to imagine. Who would have imagined, for example, that the granddaughter of Garrett Waterson would turn up on my boat wearing false whiskers? Yet I give you my word, John, that is exactly what she did.'

Neither Karen nor John Colt seemed entertained.

"I see the American ambassador to Japan," Dick said; "and some tobacco company boys, going out to their stations in China; and quite a sprinkling of movie stars from Hollywood; and a gentleman who cut a throat in Singapore, to my positive knowledge.'

"You are pretty well acquainted,"
John Colt inquired suavely, "among cutthroats?"

"Only among those indigenous to the Pacific. I also see here half a dozen gentlemen that I cannot quite place. A few years ago I would have said that they were American financiers of the hit-loot-and-run type. I had understood that conditions on the mainland were no longer favorable to those types." "You seem well informed."

"This is a crossroads," Dick said. "You get a perspective upon both sides of the Pacific from here. But I still can't make out those wandering financiers. Oh-I get it now. Since they have been smoked out of the mainland, naturally quite a few of them would come here, of course. Fugitive empire builders, by God! John, I see you are not-

"Naturally," Dick said pleasantly, "quite a few of your type are here already, looking around to see if anything is lying loose. I must say, John, that your plans seem better thought out than most. I'm afraid that you are the type that thinks things through. Your prospects look excellent, John, from the outside." "I'm inclined to think so myself,"

John Colt said. "Would you say that your chances are worth one hundred thousand dollars, John?' Only the faintest suggestion of contempt showed in John Colt's eyes as he smiled. "Have your brothers authorized you to make that offer?"

"I haven't seen them," Dick admitted: they have already gone back to Alakoa. However, I think you will find it necessary to deal with me. I'm afraid I can't let you dicker with my brothers. They're much too easy to cheat."

"And I am afraid," John Colt said, his voice so modulated that in the general din of the lanai Dick had almost to read his lips, "that I'm not interested in dickering with either you or your brothers."

"You definitely refuse one hundred thousand?"

"I'm sorry."

"Perhaps you'd care to make a counter offer?"

"I'm sorry," Colt said again. Tonga Dick Wayne looked at Kar-Waterson for a full minute, and his frivolous manner dropped away. Twice Karen met his eyes, but both times dropped hers again. Dick Wayne was looking at her with a real and unaffected regret.

"One proposition more, Colt," he said, "and this is my last. One hundred thousand dollars to you, and one-third share in Alakoa to Miss Waterson."

"Miss Waterson," Colt said, "is not interested in any proposition at

"Karen," Tonga Dick said, "you have just heard the end of your Pacific adventure."

John Colt's face was hard and serious, but there was a glint of intense satisfaction in his eyes which the could not repress.

"Don't let him worry you," he said softly to Karen. "He's shown his hand-and it's just as I said. The Waynes haven't a hope in the world. That's exactly why there has never been any reason for compromise, from the first. Unless they knew they were beaten, they would offer no compromise at all." Dick Wayne emptied his glass, snapped it down upon the table, and pushed back his chair. "I'll see you in a couple of days," he said to Karen, "on Alakoa." That surprised an answer out of her. "Alakoa? We're not coming to

"Oh, yes, you are. Or at least he is. He'll probably want to bring you along." He turned to John Colt. "The offers I made, I made on my own hook," he said. "They are now withdrawn. But I'll tell you why I made them-it may interest you very

"I imagine, Wayne," said John Colt smoothly, "that you are lying."

"Not particularly," John Colt "You have a lost case, drawled. Wayne.'

"I'm going to kill your case," Dick said tonelessly. "No, I'm going to do worse to you than that-I'm going to give my brothers the means with which to kill your case. To do that will cost me a great deal, in some very obscure ways. It will, in fact, cost me more than my share of Alakoa is worth. That is why I offered to settle with you. For Miss Waterson's sake, but principally for my own, I'm sorry that you refused. But you're finished, Colt-through-washed up-done."

"I get what you mean," John Colt smiled.

"If you think a little further," Tonga Dick said, "you'll see even more clearly what I mean. Your case has one hole in it. Ask your-self what that hole is."

Karen Waterson, watching John Colt's face, saw a curious thing happen then. The faint, tired smile on Colt's face lingered there still, but after a moment Karen saw that it was only the form of it that remained. Colt's eyes were fixed hard on Tonga Dick, and Karen thought she had never seen anything like the intensity of that unwinking stare. If ever a man tried to look into another man's mind and take it apart, Colt was trying it now.

Dick Wayne was filling his pipe. The very fact that he was smoking a pipe at all at a tea dansant made him look more at ease thereby, as if he alone, of all the people on that broad lanai, was completely at "You're thinking of exactly the same thing I am, John," Dick assured him softly. Once more the eyes of the two men met and held.

"I imagine, Wayne," said John Colt smoothly, "that you are lying." Steadily, unhurried, controlledthere was nothing in John Colt's voice to indicate that he knew what it was to doubt. Yet, somehow Karen knew with utter certainty that Colt was shaken-more deeply shaken perhaps than he would have admitted even to himself; and when Karen saw that, she was oppressed by a gray conviction that John Colt.

It was late in the evening when Dick dropped anchor in Alakoa's little bay, and immediately was driven up to the old house high in the gorges.

His brothers, as he might have expected, had already retired. It was surprising in how many superficial ways they imitated the virtues of James Wayne-without ever seeming to accomplish anything thereby. Dick did not cause them to be roused, at once. Instead he sent for Charles Wong, and with the assistance of the efficient Chinese set about a brief survey of the condition of Alakoa's books.

A careful audit would have been necessary in order to check through, with any accuracy, that great array of his uncle's books which recorded the financial transactions of Alakoa. Dick knew what he was looking for, however; he steamed rapidly through such of the summaries as interested him.

The story that those books told should have pleased anybody, but it did not please Dick Wayne. He was hunting for something else, the existence of which he only suspected, and to which he was perfectly certain his brothers had no clue at all. When he had hunted a long time without result it became apparent to him that Charles Wong, under guise of assistance, was in subtle ways managing to confuse his search, and bring it to nothing. As this became definitely evident, Dick Wayne went back and searched again, and this time found what he sought. It was an inconspicuous item for the year 1930, easily brushed over, and obscure in meaning when found. It consisted of nothing more than an entry, under miscellaneous operating expense: "Old debts, $25,000." The entry was posted where it did not belong-a practice untypical of either James Wayne or Charles a shadow of wicked mischief in his Wong, and Dick turned sharply upon the Chinese. "What debt was this?" "I don't know, sir." "You posted this entry?" "Yes, I did."

"Well, did you pay out this mon-

"No, sir; Mr. Wayne always handled that item himself."

"Always? What do you mean by Wong fell silent; but now Dick Wayne knew where to look for what he wanted. Hurriedly he checked back through the books for previous years. Every year for seventeen years that same vague item was to be found, sometimes small, sometimes enormous, according to the way the year had gone. Over that period of seventeen years almost $200,000 stood against that single vague phrase-"Old Debts." A curious thing in a way; for, as far as Dick's perfunctory survey of the records could make out, there had never been any old debts at all, other than those meticulously funded and otherwise disposed.

For the space of a minute Tonga Dick stared hard at Charles Wong; and was able to convince himself that the Chinese knew no more than he did-and perhaps considerably

Dick dismissed Wong and planted himself at his uncle's desk. He ordered coffee, and while Tsura was getting it for him he sat for a time thinking hard, his eyes covered by his hands. By the time his coffee appeared he had made up his mind. "Bring my brothers here," he told the Japanese girl. Tsura looked at him in a startled way. His brothers were his elders, and senior to him in the control of Alakoa; but he had commanded that utes. they appear in the same curt tone that he had ordered coffee. "Yes, Mister Dick." She whisked out of the room. Perhaps the Japanese girl was a little afraid of the room itself, since the death of James Wayne; judging it to be an appropriate hangout for devils.

Dick was finishing a second cup of coffee before his brothers came. "Good of you to show up," Ernest

Wayne said sardonically. "I understand," said Willard Wayne, "that through your generous courtesy, Miss Waterson has been a house guest here-in fact slept here the night Uncle Jim died."

"True," Tonga Dick agreed.
"Tsura, bring two more coffee

"We don't want any coffee," Ernest said for them both. "Bring them anyway. Sit down, bled.

Willard, who had started to lower himself into a chair, hesitated in some annoyance, but gave in. Somewhere, early in their childhood, there must have been a time when the two elder brothers had dominated Dick by main force of age and size; and although Dick could not even remember that time, Ernest and Willard had never been able to accustom themselves to the change in their relationship. He would always seem to them an unjustifiable rebel, scandalous in manner, and wrong-headed in his pursuits.

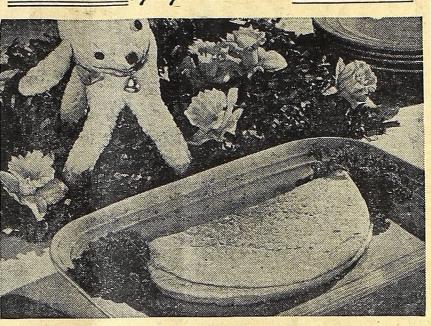

Ernest, who was shivering a little, maintained his self assertion by remaining on his feet. "I would certainly like to know," he said with asperity, "what your purpose was in bringing that-that woman here." "No purpose at all," Dick grum-

They looked at each other meaningfully, and Dick noticed again the extreme nervous irritability which he had seen in them whenever they had met since his return to Hawaii. That nervousness looked compatible enough in the tall, thin Ernest, who never seemed to feel entirely well; but it was incongruous in the thickset Willard Wayne, with his smooth, firmly padded cheeks and his slow moving eyes; for this nervousness was that of men haunted by an inescapable fear.

Dick knew that he had enough dynamite in his hands to blow their whole situation apart, and he had decided that he was willing to accept the cost to himself of using it. But there was something else he wanted to find out first. There was mood now as he set out to prod it out

This Golden, Fluffy Omelet Captures Interest (See Recipes Below)

Lenten Meals

Eggs, cheese, fish and vegetables these are the foods that will be popular with the market basket during the next few weeks. If you are going to form the bases for your menu from these dishes cook them just as carefully as you do the meat that you use year 'round, for you can't take chances and let mealtime become dull or unattractive.

Point up fish and vegetables with lemon or other attractive sauces and flavorings. Serve your egg and macaroni dishes in attractive settings, with some carefully thought out garnish. Play up fruit and dessert numbers to lend interest to meals. If you heed these simple rules, I'm sure they'll make Lent especially attractive for you and your family.

Now, for some concrete help, I've chosen foods to fit the season. They're vitamin, mineral and interest-laden.

Macaroni Cheese Custard. (Serves 6 to 8) 1 package macaroni, cooked 2 eggs, slightly beaten

2 cups grated cheese 2 tablespoons onion, chopped

tablespoons parsley, chopped 1 pimiento, chopped Salt and pepper

2 cups evaporated milk Combine ingredients and pour into buttered baking dish. Set in a pan of hot water and bake in a moderate (375-degree) oven for 45 min-

An appetite - satisfying omelet? You can't believe it? Well, this one is, because it's made with a cream cheese and chive mixture that makes the omelet heartier, it from shrinking discouragingly

Cream Cheese Omelet. (Serves 6) 1/4 pound cream cheese with chives

3 eggs 2 tablespoons milk Salt and pepper

Soften the chive cream cheese, blend in egg yolks one at a time. Add milk and seasonings. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into a well-buttered, heavy frying pan and cook over low heat until bottom begins to brown. Then place in a moderate (325-degree) oven until the top is dry and the mixture firm. Fold and serve.

The name is goldenrod because the dish bears a close resemblance to a flower of that name. Just combine the goldenrod eggs with a tempting green spinach ring and you have a real Lenten treat: Spinach Ring With Goldenrod Eggs.

(Serves 8) 4 pounds spinach ½ cup salad oil

Lynn Says:

Sauces that accent the best flavor in foods include these: Lemon Butter: 2 parts butter to 1 part lemon juice. This is good on the leafy vegetables, cabbage, broccoli, cauliflower, Brussels sprouts and artichokes. Vinegar Butter: Melt 1/2 cup and heat thoroughly. This is good on green beans. Mustard Butter: Add just a bit of dry mustard to melted butter before pouring on vegetables. With this, onions, greens or broc-butter, add 2 tablespoons vinegar

coli are indicated. Parsley Butter: Chop 3 to 4 tablespoons parsley fine, add to ½ cup melted butter.

Tart Sauce: (also good on fish) Put in double boiler 2 egg yolks, 1/4 cup cream, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons lemon juice, flick of nutmeg. Cook until thick and creamy, stirring constantly about 2 minutes. Be careful not to overcook. Stir in slowly, 2 tablespoons butter and serve at once.

> 1 tablespoon salt 1/4 cup lemon juice

Wash and pick over spinach carefully. Place in kettle without adding water. Pour oil over spinach and mix thoroughly. Add salt and cook 8 to 10 minutes. Stir occasionally. Drain and chop. Add lemon juice and pack into an oiled 9-inch ring mold. Unmold on serving platter and fill with:

Goldenrod Eggs. 1/4 cup melted butter 1/4 cup flour 1/2 teaspoon salt Pepper to taste 2 cups milk

4 hard-cooked eggs Blend butter and flour, salt and pepper. Heat mixture and add milk gradually. Stir after each addition of milk to make a smooth sauce. Separate egg yolks and whites. Slice whites and add to prepared sauce. Pour sauce into unmolded spinach ring. Press yolks through a sieve to top sauce. Garnish with paprika, parsley and lemon quarters.

*Carrot, Pineapple, Raisin Salad. Wash, scrape, and grate carrots finely, allow 2 carrots per person. Add cut pineapple, and either white cup of salt to one quart of water. or muscatel raisins and enough mayonnaise to hold mixture together.

A souffle is a properly dramatic Lenten dish, but one which must be baked carefully if it is to come to the dining room at the peak of goodness. Select a cheese that will cook readily and smoothly, a dish that is in good proportion to the souffle, and cook the mixture at a very low temperature so it can rise to its height

Cheese Souffle. (Serves 6)

4 tablespoons butter 4 tablespoons flour

11/2 cups milk 1 teaspoon salt Dash of cayenne

1/2 pound processed cheddar cheese 6 eggs

Make a sauce of the butter, flour, milk and seasonings. When thick and smooth, remove from fire and add sliced cheese. Stir until cheese is melted. Add beaten egg yolks and mix well. Cool mixture, fold in stiffly beaten whites. Pour into a 2-quart casserole, bake 11/4 hours in a slow (300-degree) oven. Serve at

Cookies spell cheer to menus, especially if there's fruit to go with them. Made in two layers, these are a delightful variation of drop and "cut-in-squares" cookies:

Cornflake Dream Bars. (Makes 40 bars) First part: 1/4 cup butter 1/2 cup brown sugar

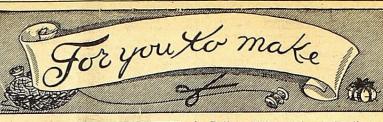

1 cup flour Second part: 1 cup brown sugar 2 eggs

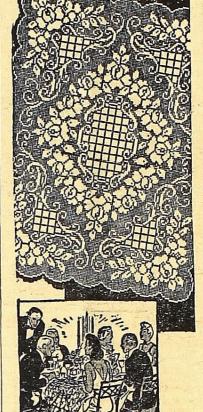

1 teaspoon vanilla 1/4 teaspoon salt 1 cup shredded coconut 1 cup cornflakes

1 cup chopped nutmeats Blend butter and sugar thoroughly. Add flour and blend with fork or dough blender. Press mixture evenly and firmly into bottom of a shallow pan (9 by 13-inch pan). Bake in a moderate (350-degree) oven about

15 minutes or until delicately browned. Beat eggs well, add sugar gradu-ally and beat until light and fluffy. Add remaining ingredients and mix well. Drop by spoonfuls on top of previously baked crust and spread evenly. Bake in a moderate (350degree) oven about 25 minutes. Cut into squares while still warm. (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Sailor Discovers That Appearances Deceive

The naval recruit was getting on very well with the blue-eyed and sweetly fragile damsel at the dance. Naturally he suggested having a bite to eat. She readily accepted, and they strolled into the dining room.

Presently, the sailor noticed that one waiter was staring at his partner rather too intently. At last he tackled the man. 'Don't you know it's very rude to stare at ladies?" he snapped. 'Sorry, sir," was the meek reply, "but it ain't rudeness-it's admiration, sir. This is the sixth time she's been down to supper to-

Married to a Tree

The Hindu believes it is unlucky to marry a third time. Therefore a man who has had two wives, and wants to marry again, first goes through the ceremony of being married to a tree, which becomes his third wife. Then he marries his chosen bride.

The tree is draped in yellow cotton and a sari (the principal robe of a Hindu woman) is placed beside it. Water is then poured round it three times. The customary screen is erected between the 'bride' and bridegroom, and the usual bridal necklace is placed round a branch of the tree.

Immediately after the ceremony the tree is cut down and burned, and the bridegroom marries the woman of his choice.

THIRD and FOURTH GRADES We have a new pupil with us. He is Paul Miller from Detroit. Several of our fourth grade pupils sold tags for the Starr Common-wealth. Alice Johnson and Bruce Myles sold the most and so received prizes for their work. We were sorry to have Mr. Fahselt, who has been our janitor, leave last Friday. We wish him good luck.

Our new janitor is Mr. Anschuet...
We will try to help him by keeping and when the whistle sounded to end our things picked up.

SEVENTH GRADE Thursday we had a test in history on the Industrial Revolution. We have been working on this for the past two weeks. Billy Galliker has had the best marks in arithmetic but the others are catching up with him. We have been studying how to find the rate, base and percentage of a problem. We sold over nineteen dollars worth of Defense Stamps this week. We are trying to get more than five than about tuberculosis in hygiene.

EIGHTH GRADE In arithmetric the "A" group is studying about geometric figures while the "B" group is studying about local, state and federal taxes. In civices we have finished our note books about the ten largest cities in Michigan and the five largest cities of the United States.

We have been studying about transitive and intransitve verbs n En-

NINTH GRADE Most of the English class is still studying their declamations. Some of the group have learned theirs and are waiting for the rest, of the group to learn theirs.

Circulation and respiration are the subjects of biology.

The home economic girls are learning about lines and colors for their spring and summer clothes. The algebra group is reducing fractions to their lowest terms.

TENTH GRADE

The sophomores planned and held a successful party out at Silver Valley Wednesday.

Those tenth graders in the geometry class are scratching their heads over polygons.
HOME ECONOMICS

The color bibs which the home economics girls have been looking for arrived Tuesday and the 8-12 and you can total your score.

AAA Notes

Our Field Woman, Mrs. Rose Lake, feels that farm women have a great responsibility in making farm production program successful. We have immediate and important responsibilities. It will soon be garden time, assumng most of us have our seeds now, if not, it is important that we get them, due to shortage of transportation we may not be able to obtain them. We already have been warned of a shortage of some very important body building vegetable seeds as carrots.

We play a very important part in civilian defense activities, as most women in the home know. If Johnny or Susie cut their finger as a rule it or Susie cut their finger, as a rule it is mother they run to for first aid. There are first aid courses being planned in local meeting houses all over the county. Everyone should take these courses. They are free of charge and are given by a local Red Cross instructor, and are beneficial to everyone. Anyone interested may contact any AAA Committeeman.
