If approved by congress, the new taxes proposed by the treasury, added to the present total, would yield approximately 23 billion 487 million dollars in 1942. This would be an average of slightly more than $175 for every man, woman and child in the nation.

TAXES:

War Not Cheap

The job of digging $23,000,000,000 increasingly important in the dicin tax money out of the pockets of the people of the United States had tionary of the Allied Nations. In Washington Chief of Staff Gen-eral Marshall had struck the keybeen placed squarely before Secre-tary Morgenthau of the treasury, note, and when the Japs came into and he had placed a plan before the congress to accomplish this.

He had prefaced his announcement of the plan with the statement that it was a "victory program" and that "war was not cheap, but a million times cheaper to win than to lose.

The plan had called for a general doubling of income taxes between the bottom limit and $10,000, increases of corporate taxes, increase of excise taxes, and a raising of the social security payment rates.

One innovation was the secretary's suggestion that at least a portion of the tax be raised at the source, employers withholding weekly amounts from their workers' pay and turning it over to the treasury monthly.

Secretary Morgenthau admitted this might mean paying on two years' taxes at the same time after about July 1, but pointed out that it would reduce the burden the following March, and also would prevent taxpayers from spending in inflationary avenues to purchase goods that could not be produced, in sufficient quantity to meet the demand. The first reactions of congressmen in general had been favorable. It was doubtful if the eventual tax bill

General Reybold is the famous flood battler, who has won more flood battler, who has won more decisions over rampaging riv-ers than any man in or out of uniform. Getting a half-nelson on the Mississippi, in 1937, he didn't figure the cost, plus or minus, but he licked the flood. His system always has been to beat the river to the punch, by a spillway, blowing up a dam. a spillway, blowing up a dam, flooding lowlands or by any pos-sible device or stratagem in his lore of flood-fighting. He knows them all.

In these encounters, particularly in 1937, he met difficulties comparable to those of the "scorched earth" tactics of modern warfare. Farmers and planters frequently opposed his drastic measures, but he carried on tactfully and won their co-operation.

He became chief of the engineers in September of last year, succeed-ing Maj. Gen. Julian L. Schley. He knows rivers and river towns like an old time steamboat captain, also lakes and harbors, and any old settlers in Memphis, Little Rock or Buffalo is apt to know all about him. From 1927 to 1932, he was stationed in Buffalo as assistant and district engineer on river, harbor and dredge operations. He was the U.S. representative on the International Niagara River Control board from 1925 to 1932, later district engineer at Wilmington, N. C., and was engaged in river control work at Memphis when he was chosen to lead the engineers.

AS AN air force officer, sounding sharp warnings against a day of doom and begging for bigger and better planes, Maj. Gen. Frank Gen. Frank M Andrews His Urgings Now gained dis-Commonplaces in tinction as the man who Sphere of Planes never was afraid to stick out his neck. There is a hopeful augury in the fact that Lieutenant General Andrews, which he has since become, is supreme commander of the Caribbean fenses. The Caribbean command, one of the most critical of defense areas because of the Panama canal, was assigned to General Andrews last July. Two months later, the general made a survey of the entire area and thereafter there were reports that he had insisted on a completely consolidated army and navy authority. This authority was established late last month, as a result of the Roberts report on Pearl Harbor, according to guarded reports from Washington. It might have been assumed, in the light of past performance, that the general would not accept divided authority. The general did not fly with the A.E.F. in the First World war, but was in the air over Germany, from 1920 to 1923, and in the succeeding years gained army fame by a series of brilliant aerial exploits. In 1934, riding a Martin B-12 bombardment plane, he established a world record for 1,000 kilometers. Becoming commander of the general headquarters air force in 1935, he vehemently urged a technological shakeup in plane design and equipment and campaigned for many innovations which later came through. He was one of the first to urge airplane cannons and also one of the first to prophesy that planes soon would be useless without armor plate, and to demand this protection. He also was out early demanding large scale civilian training for the air forces. He was born in Nashville, Tenn., and graduated from West Point in 1906. He threw away canned speeches which had been prepared for him and said his own say so effectively that he became known as one of the best talkers in the army-always talking up intelligent and co-ordinated defense. He fought with the cav-alry on the Mexican border before he found his wings, in 1917. He frequently has been called "the handsomest man in the army," although he is a bit on the rough-and-ready side and his somewhat unco-ordinated hair is never slicked down. If there is a swivel-chair officer in the army, he isn't the man thau, but that something substan-tially like it would be adopted was considered certain.

Samples of the Morgenthau schedules called for single persons making a net of $2,000, now paying $117, to pay $230; for married persons making $2,200 with no dependents, now paying $61, to pay $118; for married persons with two dependents (average family) making a net of $2,700, to pay $64 instead of the present $29.

RUSSIANS:

Increase Pace

It had been expected that as the spring thaws began to set in the Russians would find the going more difficult, especially as Hitler made ready for his "spring offensive."

Some wonder had been caused when the Germans began issuing bulletins telling of enormous numbers of Red troops being shoved up toward the front, reports which were more or less confirmed from Red sources.

There were two possible solutions to this-either the Germans were preparing their people for the expected report of the loss of the Sixteenth field army, which had been trapped in the Staraya Russa district, or they were trying to convince the United States and Britain that Russia did not need and could not use additional lease-lend aid.

However this might be, observers had considered it more likely that Stalin, having placed a large group of generals in the background posts of training new armies, was putting these into the fight in order to halt the "spring offensive" before it could get going. To the westward the Russian army has captured large quantities of war materials.

It recalled statements of Napoleon and of the Germans themselves during the last war, that conquering the Russians was impossible because of their tremendous manpower, for countless thousands of new troops always appeared on all fronts, just when one thought them well beaten.

There were many who had expressed the belief that Germany, instead of driving the Russians back this spring, might, if forced to a heavy battle on two fronts, even be knocked rapidly out of the war altogether. Validity of this belief will be determined in the next few weeks.

The battle for Java marked the closing phase of the beginning of the Southwest Pacific war. Japanese successes in that area, won at a huge cost of man power, were largely the result of overwhelming air superiority.

RIOM: 'Inside Story' More of the "inside story" of the fall of France and the reasons for it had been aired by outspoken Eduard Daladier, ex-premier who had been placed on trial.

At the same time ex-Generalissi-mo Maurice Gamelin had stood stiffly at attention, refusing to answer a single question hurled at him by Pierre Caius, the prosecutor. But Daladier, giving still more import to the reports of dissension and Decided Upon lack of co-operation within the na-concerns which had been ap-Eduard Daladier proached by the government long before the war to take part in a government-private industry combine which would have set up huge armament works in northern Africa. There, Daladier had testified, the government would have been able to have strengthened her armed forces. But the industrialists approached refused to consider the plan until France was at war with Germany, when it was too late, he had said.

NELSON: How to Spend

Donald Nelson, WPB head, charged with the job of spending an apparently unending succession of billions of dollars, had issued a document called Directive No. 2 which outlined to the world his theories of how it should be done. In the first place, he has ended competitive bidding on war work. He is trying, he had announced, to get the small plant, not now engaged in war work, into the war pic-

"So close was it" the navy had ported, "that he was shot down by point-blank anti-aircraft fire when less than 100 yards from his objective.'

O'Hare got six of the enemy planes all by himself. The other pursuit fliers got the other ten. Two returned to the Jap base unscathed, apparently. Two American planes had been shot down, but the pilot of one was rescued. It was a dramatic affair and one which showed the American pilots were being tried in combat and not found wanting, also that the Jap losses, if they continued at five to one or better, soon were bound to be reflected in a loss of momentum for their drive.

STRATEGY:

While there had been litte question that the Atlantic Charter and a possible spring offensive on the European front, plus the keeping of supply lines open to Britain and Russia were the primary American military objectives, a significant strategy had been decided upon in the Pacific theater.

This strategy called for the use of Australia as a basing-ground and a hop-off point for the eventual winning offensive against the Japanese. There had been numbers of "token" bombing raids on Port Darwin and other points of importance to Australia, and the Aussies believed that these were laying the groundwork for an eventual all-out assault. But it was with the offensive, not the defensive thought in mind that Australia was planning with the United States for supplies, men and munitions with which to make the continent a springboard for attack rather than defense.

MISCELLANY:

Puerto Rico: American soil on the Atlantic side had felt the impact of German shells. The tiny island of Mona off Puerto Rico which houses a CCC camp, had been shelled by a submarine.

New York: The Vatican radio had announced that food supplies, sent by the Pope to starving Greece, had arrived there safely and were being distributed.

War Bonnet for 'Big Joe' Stalin

The head of the Russian Reds has been named honorary chief of the Red Indians, as outstanding warrior for 1941, although the Indians associated with the Indian Confederation admit that Gen. Douglas MacArthur is a sure candidate for honors in 1942. A fine war bonnet, which will go to Stalin, is being presented to Edward Carter, president of the Russian war relief, by Chief Falling Trees at the Indian Confederation pow wow in New York.

Paraski Troops Ready for Action

After a hard training grind, ski troopers of the 503rd parachute battalion are now seasoned paraski soldiers. A group of the jumping snow-birds are pictured inside their transport plane en route to their jump-off place near Alta, Utah. Their skis and other equipment will be dropped to them by large parachutes after they have leaped.

An Igorot warrior of the Philippines. Thousands like him are now fighting with American comrades on Bataan peninsula. Gen. MacArthur reports that Igorots rode on top of U. S. tanks, guiding them through the jungle in an annihilating attack.

A diet lacking in one or more of the elements necessary to health, if it is not great, reduces the resistance to disease and may be the cause when continued over a long time of some of the degenerative diseases of advancing years; if it is great, it causes diseases such as scurvy, rickets, beriberi or pellagra. Most of the men now being found unfit for military service are disqualified for diseases or conditions that are directly or indirectly due to the nutrition they have received during the past ten years or so. The deficient diets that have been responsible for this state of affairs are in part due to poverty and the inability to buy the necessary foods; in part to the methods used in milling, canning, and otherwise treating or preserving foods; in part to the methods used in cooking them; in part to the effect of fads, fancies,

Others must learn how to mill, can, process and preserve foods so that they will retain more of their nutritional value.

Lynn Says:

As fish gains prominence in menus, are you wondering how you can make it appetite-tempting? Here is a guide:

Nice to dip in egg and bread crumbs and fry in shallow fat: perch, pike, haddock, halibut, cod, sole, lake trout, salmon, in steak or fillet form.

Good for baking with or without a stuffing: the large fish, like whitefish, haddock, halibut, walleyed pike, salmon steaks, lake trout.

First class for deep-fat frying: oysters, shrimp, scallops. Dip these in beaten egg and crumbs and fry in deep, hot fat. Baked in loaves or timbales: haddock, salmon, tuna, cod. Stuffings that go well with baked fish: bread stuffing (the same kind you make for your fowl!); celery stuffing, or rice stuffing (try this with pike!). For rice stuffing, combine 1 cup cooked rice with 1/2 pound sauteed mushrooms, 2 tablespoons of chopped onion, 2 beaten eggs, 1/4 cup celery, all cooked with 1/3 cup butter. This makes enough for a 3 to 4-pound fish.

nutmeats. Add to first mixture and stir only until flour disappears. Bake in a greased loaf pan in a moderate (325-degree) oven, 1 hour and 20 minutes.

The orange flavoring gives a delightful touch to the squash which is colorful served in orange cups. *Orange Squash.

(Serves 6) 3 cups cooked Hubbard squash 1/3 cup orange juice 3 tablespoons butter 1/2 teaspoon salt Pepper 1/4 cup chopped almonds

Bake or steam squash until tender (1½ to 2 hours). Mash or rice. Add orange juice, butter, salt and pepper. Fill 6 orange shells with squash mixture, piling it in lightly. Top with chopped almonds. Bake until lightly browned in a hot (450degree) oven. For best results use oranges that have clean, smooth skins which separate from the orange easily. *Tartar Sauce.

Popular and fitting accompaniment to fish is this sauce: Combine 1 cup mayonnaise, ½ teaspoon onion juice or 1 tablespoon chopped chives, 2 tablespoons chopped sweet pickle or green relish, lemon juice to thin to desired consistency.

THE TAWAS HERALD

INSTALLMENT NINE THE STORY SO FAR: Karen Waterson, convinced by her lawyer, John Colt, that she has a claim to the island estate of her grandfather, Garrett Waterson, has come to Honolulu to attempt getting the property. In an effort to find out something about the Wayne family, now in control of Alakoa, the island, she accepts a date to go sailing with Richard (Tonga Dick) Wayne. Against her wishes he takes her to Alakoa. While there, James Wayne, Dick's uncle and manager of the property, is found dead from overwork. Next day on the way back to Honolulu Dick tells Karen he loves her, but they quarrel over her claim to the estate. Dick later tries to work out a compromise settlement with John Colt and when he fails he tells Karen and Colt that their adventure is to end soon. He goes back to Alakoa and is in the midst of a conference with his two half-brothers, Willard and Ernest Wayne.

Now continue with the story.

"You see," Dick said, "as this contest for Alakoa sifts down, all the original aspects of the case are going to have to be investigated with the utmost thoroughness-and made public. You understand that, I suppose?"

Willard Wayne said with an un-mecessary intensity, "Just what do you mean by that?"

"I mean that it is very likelyeven inevitable-that a lot of things are going to be brought to light that nobody's thought about for a long time. Isn't that so?" "Don't know what you're driving

"How well, for instance," Dick Wayne asked them, "do you think that you knew James Wayne?"

"We've worked with him all our lives," Willard said impatiently.

"And yet, did it ever occur to you he might know some things you never suspected at all?"

"Nonsense!"

"For example," Dick went on, his woice lazy, "take the exact circumstances under which old Garrett Waterson left here-just at the time the Waynes bought this island."

"That has nothing to do with it," Ernest declared. "The entire trans-action was closed before Garrett Waterson-disappeared."

"This disappearance," Dick prodded them; "the tradition has been that he set sail southwest, in his own schooner, and was never seen again-wasn't that it?"

'Well? Can we be expected to naled to Ernest with his eyes. Toaccount for-" gether, after a moment's hesitation, they left the room.

"Didn't you happen to know," Dick Wayne asked them, "that when Garrett Waterson sailed, our father was with him?"

They were not looking at him now; but their eyes were fixed upon each other, and an unspoken question passed between them.

Tonga Dick leaned forward, his face hardening. "The old rumor is that Garrett Waterson must have been lost at sea," he bore down on them. "And yet-and yet, our father came back-"

Dick saw Willard Wayne's heavy neck redden; the color rose and rose until Willard's eyes, no longer slow and mild, stared bleakly out of a "Nobody but you," Ernest accused him, "could have had that radio er, turned a sickly green, and behind his glasses his eyes could not be seen. Dick's own eyes turned ugly. "So you did know that?" he said. "You've known it for a long time, haven't you?"

A faint flicker of self assertion reappeared in Ernest Wayne. "You can't order us-"

"What on earth," Ernest asked The eyes of the two brothers snapped sharply to Dick's face. Probably they did not believe him; Willard in a bewildered way, "are we supposed to do now?" but they were grasping at straws. "You hold something over John Tonga Dick kicked out of bed with a movement of exasperation, and Colt?" Willard asked.

Ernest and Willard Wayne mo-rosely watched Tonga Dick as he ate his breakfast. He was able to enjoy that, in a way. Uncertain as he was about what this new turn of the wheel might mean, the confusion of his brothers was so much greater his temper broke, and he could not bring himself to tell them anything ment.

Even when they had abandoned the presumption that Dick was lying, they could not get over their suspicion that the man who had signed himself Garrett Waterson was an impostor.

"I ran into Garrett Waterson while I was knocking around the South Seas," Dick explained. "Later, Uncle Jim found it convenient to have me carry certain messages to Garrett Waterson. That's all

THE MIGHTY WORKS OF JESUS

LESSON TEXT-Matthew 8:23-34. GOLDEN TEXT-What manner of man is this, that even the winds and the sea obey him!-Matthew 8:27.

The mighty works of Jesus declared Him to be the Son of Godyes, very God Himself. Unbeliev-ing men who would discredit the Word of God and deny the Godhood of the Son are at much labor and trouble to explain away the miracles, but without any success.

In our lesson for today we have Christ showing His divine power over the forces of nature, and over the demons of the evil spirit world. We find the disciples in the storm-

I. Fearful-but Not in Danger (vv. 23-27).

The Son of God-who had become Son of man-showed His true humanity by that weariness which made Him sleep through a tempestuous storm such as often came upon Lake Galilee. "Like a general in time of war Jesus slept when He could.'

As He calmly slept, fear of de-struction laid its deadly grip upon the hearts of the disciples. For the moment they saw only the angry waves, the smallness of their craft, the hopelessness of their situation, apparently forgetting that with Christ in the boat they were in no danger, in spite of the fearfulness of their surroundings and circumstances.

Is this not clearly a lesson for us in this day so full of alarms and fears? If we think of circumstances and conditions round about us we shall be overcome with fear-and well we may, if we do not have Christ with us in the boat of life. But if He is there-if we are His in the kinship of regenerating grace -we are in no danger. Shall we not accept the tender rebuke, "Why are ye fearful, O ye of little faith?" Vattern No. 1502-B which makes it (v. 26).

The majestic scene of Christ stillwant! ing the tempest, reminds us not only that He can control any force ininity, too, expressed in an atof nature, but also that there is no tractive open neckline, a full storm of heart or mind or life to which He cannot authoritatively ly over the bustline, a skirt which say, "Peace, be still" (Mark 4:39). flares to a wide hem and perky, Will you trust Him with your prob-

"Stop," said Willard Wayne thick-"You don't know what you're ly. saying!"

"I take it," Dick said, "that I was not supposed to know about that little circumstance."

Willard's voice rose. "I object to your tone," he blustered. "I object to the whole line you've taken. It isn't up to us to go raking through the dead ashes of the past!"

"You've told me what I wanted to know," Dick said. "You put me in mind of a couple of tide pools full of octopi-easy to see to the bottom of, but not pretty to look at. I can understand now why James Wayne never trusted either one of you!"

"What-what-" The edge of Ernest Wayne's voice sounded frayed out, raveled. "What do you mean?" he finally got out.

'How long," Tonga Dick asked them, "have you two supposed yourselves to be the sons of a murderer?'

Ernest Wayne stood up violently, both hands gripping the edge of the desk. "That's a lie!" he shouted. Willard Wayne sat motionless. "Well?" he said at last.

"I don't wonder that John Colt scares you out of your wits," Dick said. "I should think he would!"

There was a silence then, raw and uncomfortable. Willard Wayne spoke to Ernest, his voice heavy and dead. "You see, I was right. We have to go back to Honolulu-at once -tomorrow. Some way, somehow, we've got to settle out of court with John Colt, at any cost."

"Yes," Ernest said.

Dick could see the man visibly twisted between a cupidity that could not face loss and a cowardice which was afraid of something else. It was not a pretty sight.

"You won't have to go to Honolulu," Dick said sardonically; "you can save yourselves the trip. John Colt will be here within twenty-four hours."

"Colt? Here? What could make him come here?" "I make him come here," Tonga message sent." Dick picked up the paper, and by the poor but increasing light read what was typed upon it. Instantly he was more wide awake than as if he had never slept at all. "When did this come in?"

"Just a few minutes ago," Wil-lard told him. "You ought to know. There isn't anybody else that could.'

Tonga Dick looked at the message again. It read: MAKE NO SETTLEMENT UNTIL ARRIVE GARRETT WATERSON Dick's first reaction was, for special reasons of his own, one of immense relief. But his next thought, which followed immediately brought him a new uncertainty. The new turn of events relieved him of certain necessities; but it also took the game out of his own hands in a way that he did not like.

Ernest Wayne's nervousness did not permit him to wait Dick out. 'Well-what have you got to say?' "This message is genuine," Dick told them.

"This is incredible-this is fantastic," Ernest said unsteadily. "Some kind of a hoax," Willard added. "There's no hoax about it," Tonga Dick assured them. "How do you know this?" Willard demanded. "I work for him," Tonga Dick said.

"You what?" Ernest Wayne bleated.

"He's lying," Willard expressed himself.

"And just why," Dick asked with elaborate patience, "should I be lying?"

"Willard," Ernest said, "do you suppose this thing could possibly be true? Because if Garrett Waterson is alive, and we can produce himdo you see what that means? John Colt's case is absolutely exploded." "Is it?" Dick said. They were stopped once more. Ernest and Willard were both deathly pale, overwhelmed by more unforeseen uncertainties than they were able to handle. "You mean," Willard said at last, "that Garrett Waterson really is incompetent?"

"I mean," Dick said, "that the whole situation is going to be just exactly what old Garrett Waterson chooses to make it."

Dick told them. "I believe I know now."

They failed to catch him up on that, and the oversight emphasized their bewilderment. "But why on earth," Ernest de-manded, "should he have wished to hide himself? That's the mystery here."

"There's no mystery about it," Dick declared. "The only reasons his actions look mysterious to you is that they were perfectly simple. Garrett Waterson was always a man of violent temperament. Everything he did was in terms of violent extremes; the projects he attempted, the fights he got into-even his eating and drinking-everything was always on a spectacular scale with him. When he was overtaken by ultimate ruin, his reaction to that was violent too. He left Alakoa, and Hawaii, in a tremendously bitter state of mind. He wanted to get away from the past, and from the part of the Pacific that he knew, and never again see anyone who had known him."

"It's fantastic," Ernest declared. "It's completely unreasonable. J never heard of anything like it." "Dropping from view. is one thing," Willard said heavily, "and going to extraordinary lengths to hide yourself, and conceal who you are, is something else." "Waterson went to extraordinary lengths in everything he ever did," Dick retorted. "The Pacific is a big place and there are more than twenty-five thousand islands in it; but only a few of them have any white inhabitants, and I suppose Garrett Waterson knew half the people in the Pacific. He couldn't imagine leaving the Pacific any more than he could imagine living inland, so of course it was pretty hard for him to evade the people that he knew. When a man is trying to drop out of sight, and fails at it for a while, it's apt to become an obsession with him. He gets to thinking that everybody he sees is talking about him, secretly. So he draws apart more and more, until at last_' "It's completely unreasonable," Ernest Wayne said again. "Human nature always seems unreasonable to people who don't know anything about it. Unreasonable is what it is; you just have to get used to it.' (TO BE CONTINUED)

This was not insanity or a sickness of the body, but devil domination.

These two men (Mark and Luke speak only of one-perhaps the more violent of the two) were so strong and wicked because of the demon in them, that their relatives and friends had given them up as hopeless and had sent them out to live in the wilderness.

How horrible is the power of the devil in the life of any man or woman. But let us never forget that while no man can control such a situation (Mark 5:4), God is able. "With God all things are possible" (Matt. 19:26). We have not done all we can for our devil dominated friends and relatives until we have brought them to Jesus.

Notice that the demons recognized Christ as the Son of God (v. 29). They knew that He had the power to control them and that the day was to come when He would judge them.

The men were completely cured (Mark 5:15) as the demons were permitted to enter the herd of swine. Those poor beasts, apparently not content to harbor the evil spirits, cast themselves into the sea. When the people of the land heard what had taken place they asked Jesus to leave. They evidently weighed the relative value of two men in their right mind over against a herd of swine and decided that they could not afford to have men delivered from the devil at such expense.

Unfortunately the "descendants" of those people seem to be in some of our churches today. They can afford anything in the way of luxury for themselves, but they are sure it costs too much to keep the church open - or to provide a preacher-or suitable equipment for the Lord's work. How unspeakably sad!

Perseverance

Soldiers must break step in marching over a bridge, for the vibration caused by their marching in step would shake down the most solid structure. And so it is with the spiritual obstacle you may meet: steady tramping, the plodding doing of your duty day after day, will in time tumbie it over. In any task to which God sets you perseverance is all the power you need.

supplied by thoroughly mixing onehalf ounce of potassium iodide crys-tals in each 50 pounds of loose salt. Three or four weeks before the lambs are due the ewes should re-ceive from one-half to a pound of grain per day and, unless they are receiving legume hay, they should get an additional third pound daily of high protein concentrate. This will insure a supply of milk when the lambs arrive. After the lambs have arrived, however, the grain should be reduced for several days, and then gradually increased. When the lambs are two weeks old they will be able to eat grain and fine leafy hay. They should be given all they will eat. At lambing time the ewe should be separated from the main flock where she may remain quiet and undis-turbed. Two four foot gates hinged together and set up in one corner of the barn works well.
