WAR BRINGS NEW HEALTH PROBLEMS

All Parents Urged to Have Children Immunized Against Disease

The wartime industrial and military program in the United States has brought about marked dislocation and new concentrations of population. Children must be protected against the danger of epidemics that are more likely to occur with these shifts in population. Since the problems which confront the country in the conduct of the war may involve children from all areas of the state, every possible preventive public health measure should now be employed, not only to protect those who may move but also to safeguard the communities into which children may go.

The Children's Bureau of the U. S. Department of Labor in Washington has recommended that a major effort be made at this time to secure the immediate immunization of 100 per cent of all children over nine months of age against diphtheria and small pox.

Dr. Harold W. Self, acting director of District Health Unit Number Two, will be in Isosco county to conduct immunization clinics on the following days:

New Selective Service List Will Include Men From 45 to 65

The Isosco County Selective Service Board has been authorized by Col. E. M. Rosecrans, State Selective Service Director, to organize its plans for the conduct of the fourth registration, which will be conducted throughout the nation in accordance with the President's proclamation on Monday, April 27, between the hours of 7:00 a. m. and 9:00 p. m.

Persons required to be registered in the fourth registration will include all males residing in the continental United States or in the territories of Alaska, Hawaii, or in Porto Rico, who were born on or after April 28, 1897, and on or before February 16, 1897. With the registration of this group, there will remain to be registered only those males between the ages of 18 and 20. Registrants of the fourth registration will not be subject to military service under the Selective Service Act of 1940, as amended.

Col. Rosecrans estimated that 570,000 persons in Michigan will be subject to registration on April 27. Approximately 225,000 of these will be registered in Wayne county. More than one million Michigan residents are now registered with local boards in this state.

John Mielock, chairman of the Isosco County Selective Service Board, said yesterday that places for registration would be announced next week.

4-Hers to Mobilize For Victory Work

This week of April 5-11, has been designated as National 4-H Mobilization Week.

The young people of Isosco county will play an important part in the National Victory program and their services will assist in bringing our huge national conflict to a close. It is important that both adults as well as youngsters do everything possible to better clothe and feed our country during the next few critical months.

In an attempt to better this situation Isosco County 4-H club people are being asked, this week, to hold their organization meetings and plan their activities for the coming summer month. Besides pledging themselves to produce more food than ever before, these 4-H'ers are encouraging at least one other boy or girl within their own community to take part in the club program during 1942.

State and County 4-H club leaders are encouraging these groups to organize their clubs upon a full yearly basis rather than only for the summer months so that their contributions to National Victory will continue for the next 12 months.

The 4-H Victory Program has as its goals the re-enrolling of all former 4-H members into productive farm enterprises; the enrolling of more adult local leaders; the enrolling of more young people in meeting the labor shortage upon Isosco county farms; and an increase of foods through the Victory Garden program. The cooperation with other active groups, such as Red Cross, the Rural Fire Prevention program; the sale of Stamps and Bonds; the Farm Machinery Repair program; the Salvage of waste paper, scrap iron and rubber are all activities in which these rural young people are now actively engaged.

Let's all join this rural 4-H mobilization program and we will all ways enjoy living in America.

RURAL FIRE PREVENTION PLANS MADE

Owners Urged to Remove Fire Hazards From Premises

The Isosco County U. S. D. A. War board has recently completed a fire prevention program in the rural areas of the county. County Agent W. L. Finley has visited each rural school and solicited the assistance of rural youngsters in this program.

The State Association of Mutual Fire Insurance companies has contributed by supplying an illustrated copy of possible fire hazards which frequently exist around farm barns as well as in the farm dwellings. The co-operating youngsters have distributed these folders to rural homes and at the same time collected questionnaires as to what some of the fire hazards here in Isosco county actually are.

There are many things which we local people may do right at home to help win the war and the prevention of losses by fire is one of these many home duties. Rural fire prevention is more important this year than during the past few years because of the discontinuation of the local CCC camp. Rural fires could easily expand into forest fires and forest fires might even envelope nearby farmsteads and crops causing unnecessary loss and destruction.

Most fires are caused by some type of carelessness. In Michigan last year more than 250 lives were lost in farm fires. In the United States during the same period farm property valued at more than $100,000,000 was destroyed by fire. In the nation one farm building burns every 15 minutes of the year. It is therefore important that we, here in Isosco county, contribute to the reduction of these unbelievable losses which may well be prevented.

A few of the frequently found hazards within dwellings include: a defective chimney, improperly grounded radio, accumulation of useless articles in the attic, bridged electric fuses, matches within reach of the children, flat irons and toasters disconnected at the unit rather than at the wall, gas and oil stored in the house, combustible articles left too close to the stove or furnace, electric cords hung on nails, and fires kindled with oil, as well as many others. While at the barn fires may easily be started by careless smoking, carrying of matches in pockets, improperly cured hay, dropping or tipping over the lantern, knotted electric cord, dust laden cobwebs, broken lightning rods, tractor or engine backfire, the improper storage of dynamite, and many others.

Now that spring cleanup time is here let's not be guilty of starting a grass fire—rake the grass and plow it under—we need all of the available plant food. We can all help grow more food—let's all help save it too. Be sure your fire extinguishers are accessible and filled, have an available water supply at hand and if you did not get one of the above mentioned charts call County Agent Finley's office, he has one for you.

Notice

Uncle Sam expects you to work harder and produce more, as a patriotic duty. But you must keep physically and mentally fit to keep on producing at top capacity. That calls for relaxation, diversion, entertainment—and that is where the movies come in. Beyond a doubt, the movies are America's most popular national pastime. They are conveniently located, priced within reach of all and offer variety suited to every mood. In these times of stress, go to the movies frequently, and relax.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Merchant Vessel Losses in Atlantic Cause Shortage of Shipping Crews; India Dissatisfied With Cripps' Plan; Observers Ponder New Jap Strategy

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

BATAAN: Defense Vigorous

Most serious attack against General Wainwright's Bataan defense had been launched in the form of a land attack ordered by General Yamashita, whose men had remained quiescent altogether too long to satisfy Tokyo, who soon might have ordered another hara kiri to be carried out.

But the Japs found that the men who had served MacArthur so well were the same ones working under General Wainwright, who proceeded to make a quick shift in his front, to get reinforcements to the beleaguered spot and to meet the Japs with the bayonet.

So vigorous was the hand-to-hand fighting that Japanese dead had littered the battlefield, but the American line had held firm, and was not reported pierced at any point.

Wainwright had admitted to the loss of a few advance positions, that was all.

WAR AT SEA: Whittling Away

The German U-boats, perhaps with some Italians working with them, were the only sea force of the Axis which was causing any lasting concern to the Allies, as the Japanese fleet was rapidly and constantly being whittled down to American size, while our fleet was growing larger by about two warships daily. Best news was the navy's announcement that a total of 28 Axis submarines have been sunk by U. S. military and naval forces up to April 1.

The Japanese air fleets were suffering losses of five to one. Pearl Harbor was already twice avenged in ship and plane losses, and the general outlook of the battle against the Nipponese was more favorable looking as time went on despite the map-showing of conquered territories.

The U-boats were continuing their ratio of sinkings along the Atlantic coast for a wide area, but some hopes had been expressed that the loss of the port of Saint Nazaire might be a costly blow to the Nazis, and that the arrest of a spy ring in Brazil might make it more difficult for the U-boat skippers to find targets.

The sinkings by U-boats still was not exceeding our commissioning of new merchant vessels, but it was making it constantly more difficult to get skippers and crews. Congress had before it a bill to award sailors hero medals for bravery at sea in torpedoings of the same type as those awarded to navy heroes.

While many seamen were brave enough in newspaper interviews, it was getting increasingly hard to man ships with survivors of torpedoings, and the shortage created by those who had died at sea had to be filled by new trainees, for the most part.

It was one of the worst war bottle-necks, and the army and navy were combining in a coastal patrol to which small boats were to be added in an effort to sweep the subs out of America's shore lanes.

One plan brought forward was to haul oil and sugar up the East coast by the inland waterway in boats of 80 to 300 tons, and in shallow-draft barges.

This traffic could be carried out safely and profitably, surveys had showed.

LABOR:

Both the American Federation of Labor and the C.I.O. had sent messages to General MacArthur in complete support of his command there, and this was held in most circles to mean general support for the war effort.

In the meantime the senate had backed up the administration's antagonism to tampering with the 40-hour-week law, and it seemed that this effort to take away from labor its chief gain since the last war was doomed to defeat.

OFFENSIVE: Expect Drive In Two Directions

London's "listening posts" on the European continent apparently had been able to confirm that Germany's spring offensive was, as had been thought, to be directed against Russia, with 100 new divisions, many of them from conquered or "annexed" countries.

At the same time the clamor had been renewed in England for a "spring offensive" on the part of Britain that would include a major land offensive as well as the air blitz which already had got under way.

A new front in Europe had been urged right along in many quarters and now Lord Beaverbrook himself had broken with Churchill, at least to that extent, and from Miami, Fla., had joined the ranks of those who believed the time had come for Britain's large land army to break out of the islands and go across to some occupied country and start for Berlin.

Victory in 1942 was the slogan of those who believed the time was ripe to strike ashore as well as in the air, and they pointed out that Russia had 7,000,000 fighting men on the eastern front against Hitler's 4,500,000 even with the 100 new divisions, and that a new front on the west would spell ruin to Adolf.

Even the Bulgars, traditional blood relatives and friends of the Russians, had been forced to contribute 200,000 men to the new German armies, the reports had it.

Italy, instead of sending a million men, as had been demanded by Berlin, had sent half this number, and had tried to get out of that, it had been reported. The Italian losses on the east front last winter had been frightful.

The direction of the probable offensive was seen as two-fold, one major series of drives to be headed toward the Crimea and the territory south of the Donets basin.

The other major objective was to be the far north, the port of Murmansk, through which most of the American and British lease-lend aid had been going.

BURMA: Air Power Gone

Once again the British, according to their own reports, had found themselves on a fairly major battlefield with no air support at all.

The Japs, the British wired to New Delhi, "have complete control in the air."

The Chinese, under General Stillwell, an American, and the British and Indian forces had divided the Burmese front between them, and were fighting a brave, though apparently losing battle against combined Japs and Burmese, the latter having gone over to the Nipponese soon after the invasion started.

The British, themselves unable to arm the Indians to defend their homeland, had found the Japs in no such difficulty when it came to giving arms to natives willing to join their fighting forces.

Thus the defenders were finding themselves battling, as they did in Malaya, with a force well equipped with native guides and native fighters, in the anomalous position of defending Burma from the Burmese as well as the Japs.

MISCELLANY:

Chungking: Chinese sources said that infected material dropped deliberately from Japanese planes had caused an outbreak of the bubonic plague.

Cairo: Nine persons were killed in a rush for shelter during an air raid, the casualty lists showed. Two thousand ran for a shelter built for 100.

Vichy: The Vichy government, believed by many in the United Nations to be secretly making munitions for the Axis, had requisitioned all hotel and restaurant fixtures containing aluminum or brass.

Washington: It had been considered significant in some quarters that the new Pacific Council of Defense included neither India nor Britain. The report followed statements that the British had wanted returning Aussies to go to India, not to their homeland.

Detroit: The auto industry was divided on the merits of the Reuther plan, brought forward by a labor leader to speed up the conversion of auto plants into factories to make tanks and planes. Some held it foolish, others praised it, and the plan was being debated.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON
(Consolidated Features—WNU Service.)

NEW YORK.—A business man from Ann Arbor, Mich., has been spending a lot of time lately deep down in the pits of English coal mines, quite literally saving civilization. He is Eugene Power, who has developed the microphotograph process, by which a person can carry a liberal education around with him in his upper vest pocket.

In the safety and privacy of the coal mines, Mr. Power is condensing into a few cubic yards, a documented civilization, the historic archives of the "Sceptred Isle," for deep and secret underground storage, until the day when England lives happily again in the sun. Copies go to our Library of Congress which hasn't yet gone underground.

In its 1941 review, just published, the Rockefeller Foundation features the filming project, for which it appropriated grants totaling $170,000. Raymond B. Fosdick, president of the foundation, who writes the review, describes the microfilm as a process by which "the whole of the New York public library's 3,000,000 books could be compressed into the space of its card catalogue." The film reduces a printed page to around one two-hundredth of its area. A projector blows the microphotograph up to normal size with an apparatus for easy, lounging chair reading.

We had news of Eugene Power from a friendly business competitor, Albert Boni, the publisher, who has brought through the Readex Microprint system, comparable to Mr. Power's, and widely used in universities, libraries and research projects.

"Mr. Power has done an extremely effective job, both commercially and technically," said Mr. Boni, "and deserves great credit for his co-operation in filming the British records. His firm was given a first grant of $30,000 by the foundation and results were so satisfactory that this was increased to allow the present extensive work. He is a technically trained alumnus of the University of Michigan who is quite aware of the wide social implications of his commercial project, and who has co-operated with historical and research societies."

ON ONE day he was a space-grabbing sports writer in London, eating warily at beaneries and sleeping in a hall bedroom, and the next day he had many palaces, jewels and gold plate, elephants, peacocks, servants and race horses.

The maharajah could have given all mere sports writers the merry ha-ha, but he stayed likeable and clubby and thereafter contributed much to world unity and understanding. The summons to his throne came suddenly, with the death of his father.

This, positively no sports writer's dream, is the tale of the august Maharajah Jam Sahib of Nawanagar, today helping unify India against Japanese attack. As chancellor of the chamber of princes, he warns the other thrones, powers and dominions that they will be laid low if they don't get together, but he asks them to rally to the empire within the framework of dominion status for India. He insists that this involves no recorence either to the people of their principalities, or to the empire.

As a friendly and democratic sovereign, the maharajah has been a good will builder for the empire. This is highly important just now, as the Indian get-together, aside from the split between Hindus and Moslems, depends much on team work between the princes and their subjects.

When the maharajah was a student at Cambridge, his Oriental titles were somehow corrupted into "rum, gin and whiskey." Through some misunderstanding at home, he lost his status as heir apparent to the Nawanagar throne. He had been amateur cricket champion of Great Britain, and had played in matches in many countries, including the United States. He caught on easily as a sports writer, piecing out his income by tutoring in Sanskrit. It was said that he could whip out a good yarn in a hurry, on almost anything in the sports field.

TO YOUR GOOD HEALTH

By Dr. Jas. W. Barton

(Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

FIRST AID ERRORS

One of the jokes of 20 years ago was the expression "the patient has had all his teeth removed but he still has his rheumatism." This "joke" died a natural death because while the removal of infected teeth sometimes stirred up the poisons around the teeth and these poisons increased the rheumatic pain, nevertheless within six weeks to six months in the majority of cases, there was actually complete or partial relief from pain. As this has occurred in so many cases, jokes about the teeth going but not the rheumatism are now seldom heard.

Dr. Barton

It would appear that some of our jokesmiths are now making fun of those who are taking courses in first aid to the injured. Thus a recent newspaper item recounted the experience of a group of first aid students who set a supposed fractured leg. After the leg was splinted, in attempting to place the victim in an ambulance, he fell off the stretcher and did break his leg. In placing him inside the ambulance, his head was outside the ambulance door a couple of inches and in closing the ambulance door his head received a concussion. He thus arrived at the hospital with a fractured leg and a head concussion. The item ended with the remark that "with a little more training this group could be sent against the enemy."

What Should Be Done.
While most of us know how to splint a broken bone, stop bleeding, and treat shock, there is sometimes a lack of knowledge shown in handling head injuries. As almost 50 per cent of fatal traffic accidents show concussion—blow on head which shocks or shakes the brain without fracturing the skull—just what should or should not be done is important.

Dr. C. J. Potthoff, Minneapolis, in the Journal of the American Medical Association states that whether there is concussion or a stroke of apoplexy the care should be: 1. Keep the victim quiet. 2. Raise the head somewhat if the face is red; keep it level if the face is pale. 3. Give the victim no stimulants. 4. Apply an ice cap if available to his head.

We should try to remember these simple rules regarding head injuries.

Anxiety Is Cause Of Many Symptoms

A patient consulting a physician for the first time had a rapid heart beat, complained of indigestion and inability to sleep, had lost weight and was extremely nervous. The physician had the patient rest for a few minutes and gave him a magazine to read. However, when a second examination was made the patient still had the rapid heart beat and nervousness. The physician naturally suspected early goiter, but a metabolism test showed that while the body processes were working at a higher rate than normal, they were almost within the normal limits.

The physician then asked the straight question, "Have you anything on your mind; are you worrying about anything?"

The patient admitted that he was in a constant state of worry.

The physician then explained to him that the tenseness caused by worry and anxiety could cause all the symptoms present. The heart rate would increase, the stomach movements would be irregular and perhaps stop for minutes at a time, the nerves would be on edge, and spastic constipation or diarrhoea could result.

It would be well to recall the findings in 10 cases of Dr. Gilbert M. Beck, Buffalo General hospital, as recorded some months ago in the New York State Journal of Medicine. There is not a typical symptom or combination of symptoms of goiter that has not been observed in typical anxiety neurosis. It is caused by guilt, fear, or feeling of insecurity in the nervous or emotional type of individual. For instance, after a nervous or emotional upset such as a disturbing dream, the heart pounds, misses beats, and there is breathlessness, stomach and intestine disturbances, sweats, trembling, head noises, weakness and feelings of warmth and cold.

QUESTION BOX

Q.—I have had two X-rays of my chest and nothing showed, but I get so many head colds that I keep worrying about getting tuberculosis of the lungs.

A.—As X-ray shows no sign of tuberculosis you should not worry. However, if you have the "other" signs—gradual loss of weight, tiredness, rise in temperature—get examination by your physician and dentist as some infection may be present.

Making Martial Millinery

For today's lesson we take you to the Detroit plant of the McCord Radiator company where steel helmets for our bigger, better army are being turned out at the rate of 12,000 a day. The new model is pot-shaped. It comes down over the forehead and covers the back of the neck, giving added protection to the entire head and sides of the face. Note how the martial millinery rolls off the assembly line.

Picture Parade

SEWING... What sewing can there be on a steel helmet? The chin-strap. Strap-hooks have already been welded to the steel shell, and the women shown in this picture are sewing on the straps.

EDGING... The brim of a steel helmet is practically non-existent, but there's a tiny turned-up edge, and you see that edge put on here. The machine that does the job is called a spank press.

WEIGHING... Here's something different in government inspectors—pretty Marjorie Thompson, who checks finished helmets for weight. Nothing goes over 2 pounds, 7 3/4 ounces.

QUADRUPLE CHECK... Finished helmets pass on a conveyor belt before the critical eyes of no less than four government inspectors. Flaws don't get by.

HAT RACK... In this store room at the McCord plant are some of the thousands of helmets that await shipment to various army centers.

ON THE MARCH... And here are some of the new helmets in use.

THE MISSION OF THE SEVENTY

LESSON TEXT—Luke 10:1-7, 17, 21-24.
GOLDEN TEXT—The harvest truly is great, but the laborers are few; pray ye therefore the Lord of the harvest, that he would send forth laborers into his harvest.—Luke 10:2.

Working with Christ for the salvation of men has been the privilege of believers since the time He chose the twelve. We learn today that there were at least seventy more whom He considered dependable and worthy to be sent forth. Knowing how brief was the time before His death, the Saviour called, commissioned, and cared for them as they went two by two, personally to evangelize "in every city and place."

I. Sent to Serve Christ (vv. 1-3).
Prayer is back of the calling of laborers for Christ. God waits for His people to lay before Him the need, and to enlist His grace in moving upon the one who can best serve Him. There is mystery here which we cannot fully understand, but it is perfectly clear that prayer is the power which has been given to the church with which to "move" the hand of God. The reason the laborers are so few, even in our days is evidently, then, because there has been so little prayer.

Observe that the Lord sent His servants "two by two" so that they could encourage and assist each other. Christian work is best done in Christian fellowship. The "star performer" or the "lone wolf" may be acceptable in business or social life, but he has no place in Christ's program, unless by His special call and guidance for some particular task, such as pioneer work.

He sent them to go "before His face"—what a glorious place to be! That means that He was watching over them, expecting them really to "labor" for Him. But notice also that in loving thoughtfulness they were—

II. Sustained by Christ (vv. 4-7).

It is well when workers go out that they have proper backing. We speak of the "board" which is behind our missionaries. That is right and proper, but above all there must be the assurance of the provision and protection of Christ. They were not to be concerned about money. Christ had already moved upon the hearts of His people to see that the laborer had "his hire"—which was food and shelter (v. 7).

Time is what life is made of, and the servants of Christ were not to waste it in lengthy oriental salutations (v. 4), or going from house to house to be entertained, thus losing much time and strength.

Nor was he to strive or become angry if some one did not receive him and his greeting of "peace" (v. 6). In any case his word would return in blessing upon himself (v. 6), and he could go on to another house. The point of all this is that the expectation of the Christian servant is from his Master, Christ, whose business requires diligence and haste (I Sam. 21:8b).

The outcome of such service is revealed in our third point.

III. Successful Through Christ (vv. 17, 21-24).

The seventy returned rejoicing that even the demons were subject to them in Jesus' name. He still has power over the demons of our day. Would that the church wielded that power more effectively!

While it is a great thing thus to see the power of God at work, Jesus told them in verse 20 that an even greater thing is to have one's name written in heaven. That means that we ought to be much concerned not only about having our own names written there, but the names of all those whose lives we touch—at home, at work, anywhere.

The secret of the disciples' victory is found in the statements which Christ in all humility and honesty made about Himself (vv. 22-24). He is the one to whom "all things are delivered"—unlimited in authority and power. The mystery of His person and work is not something man can think out or fully comprehend (how foolish have been the attempts to do it!) for He is God. The fact that the Father had revealed these things to the seventy humble, ordinary men caused Christ to magnify His Father's name in praise and prayer. Spiritual insight (vv. 21, 24) is something only God can give, and often He can give it in full measure only to humble and lowly men. "Men like D. L. Moody, who became spiritual giants, were usually humble men from lowly walks who gave themselves wholly to God" (B. L. Olmstead).

Need to Slow Up

The world is going too fast! Even the Church needs to slow up for it is attempting too much in social programs and is losing spiritual poise in many places. Paul said to the Church, "Put on the whole armor of God." The whole armor takes time to put on, yet it is dangerous to leave off any part of it.—Rev. A. E. Gregory.

Origin of Dumdum Bullet

A dumdum bullet is a partially steel-cased bullet with a soft core that expands as it tears through flesh, says Pathfinder. Because of the mushrooming of the core it aggravates the injury of the wound.

Use of dumdum bullets was officially condemned by the International Peace conference of 1899. Their name derives from Dum Dum, a town near Calcutta, India, where they were first manufactured by the British for use against fanatical native tribesmen who refused to be stopped by ordinary steel-jacketed bullets.

All those who love Nature she loves in turn, and will richly reward, not perhaps with the good things, as they are commonly called, but with the best things, of this world—not with money and titles, horses and carriages, but with bright and happy thoughts, contentment and peace of mind.—John Lubbock.

Pigeons Fly Coup
An Akron, Ohio, officer testified he knew his prisoner was drunk because his eyes were bloodshot, whereupon the prisoner calmly removed his glass eye and the judge said "case dismissed." The Messrs. Kurwoski and Stawdohr of Chicago, each claiming ownership of three pigeons, suggested that the judge release the birds which then would wing home to their rightful cotes. A window was opened, the doves flew forth—whither no man knoweth to this day.

What To Save and Not To Save
Tin cans: Not unless a local dealer wants them; bottle tops: not now, later on, perhaps; razor blades, not now; street car or railroad rails, empirically yes; rubber heels, no; crepe rubber soles, yes; tubes: toothpaste and delicate cosmetics come in tubes 98 per cent tin and these tubes should be saved, but shaving cream tubes (they contain lead) should not be saved; fats and greases: a national campaign will be started later on to save them, but they need not be preserved for the present; ornamental railings, etc.: no need to junk these until the need is much greater than now.

NEW IDEAS For Home-makers

LONG before we were threatened with the necessity of blackout window draperies were hung well over walls to give rooms a sunny spacious effect. The same idea may now be used to keep light in at night. A cornice taking the place of a picture moulding is smart for both modern and traditional rooms and gives anchorage near the ceiling for rod, or pole. This sketch shows how one homemaker made cheerful, soft green sateen blackout draperies, repeating a tone in the chintz of the new slip covers. They are edged with cotton cord fringe in a darker tone.

NOTE: Use your head and your hands to keep up morale on the home front. Mrs. Spears' new BOOK 8 will help you. It contains 32 pages of step-by-step directions for novel economical things to make from things you have on hand or from inexpensive new materials. Send your order to:

Nothing much gets by Old Judge Wiggins' "Fuller," he says to me, "just about the only thing that can keep on growing without nourishment is some folks' conceit." And speakin' o' nourishment reminds me that you got to get all your vitamins. That's why I keep tellin' folks about KELLOGG'S PEP. Course PEP hasn't all the vitamins. But it's extra-rich in the two most likely to be short in ordinary meals—vitamins B1 and D. And PEP's a jim-dandy tastin' cereal, too. Why not try it tomorrow? Kellogg's Pep A delicious cereal that supplies per 1-ounce serving: 1/2 daily need of vitamin D; 4/5 to 1/3 minimum daily need of vitamin B1.

BUREAU OF STANDARDS
A BUSINESS organization which wants to get the most for the money sets up standards by which to judge what is offered to it, just as in Washington the government maintains a Bureau of Standards. You can have your own Bureau of Standards, too. Just consult the advertising columns of your newspaper. They safeguard your purchasing power every day of every year.

That Nagging Backache
May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action
Modern life with its hurry and worry; irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood. You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination. Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor! DOAN'S PILLS

Tawas City School Notes

SECOND GRADE

Last week we dyed Easter eggs. We brought hard-boiled eggs from home and had a good time putting transfers on them and coloring them. Mrs. Myles and Mrs. Brown visited us on Thursday afternoon. We are sorry to lose Walter Long, who has moved to Bay City, and Paul Miller, who has gone back to Detroit. We are keeping a list of spring birds we see. We are going to draw and color the birds on our list. We have seen robins, red-winged blackbirds, bluebirds and a cardinal.

THIRD AND FOURTH GRADES
A few more of our group are out, ill with the measles, and some are back again after having them last week. Rev. Metcalf talked to the students in the auditorium last Thursday afternoon. He told about the meaning of Easter. We enjoyed hearing him very much. He told about some of the stories and pictures we had been using in our grades. We colored Easter pictures and made Easter baskets last week Thursday afternoon. The Easter Bunny must have been in to see them for we found candy bunnies on our desks after recess.

HOME ECONOMICS
The home economics girls are making good progress in their sewing. A schedule has been made to take care of fittings and so forth. Very few are behind schedule while many are far ahead. Results are at last being seen. A new program has been introduced this week. Hereafter, two girls each week are supposed to arrange a "Beauty Spot" in the room. Spring flowers, pictures, and various other beautifying articles will furnish the material for these "beauty spots." It will help immensely to make our room attractive.

FORENSIC CONTEST
The winners in the school forensic contest will go to the district contest at St. Michaels in Pinconning on April 15.

"SPOOKY TAVERN"
The Junior class will give their play "Spooky Tavern" on Thursday and Friday, April 16 and 17, at eight o'clock, providing the cast can recover from the measles.

The cast is as follows:
Lon Hacker Clifford Anschuetz.
Ghost Woman Ella Witzke.
Lucy Hacker Helen Krumm.
Joyce Wingate Ruth Giddings.
Florabel Audrey Bell.
Bedelia (colored mammy) June Van Sickle.
Ralph Channing Philip Mark.
Terry Tanner Phil Ross.
Willie Wergle Lyle Hughes.
Blackie Simms Kenneth Rollin.
Farone Reg Bublitz.

Time: A dark, stormy evening, at a northern university town. If life has become dull and spend an evening among haunts, bloody hatchets, dope fiends and murders. Dick Shover and Bill Rollin are building the stage setting and doing their best to thrill you.

Eight of the teachers attended the M. E. A. meeting held at Oscoda on Tuesday evening.

Do You Know?

(By Dorothy Scott)
We have talked about what to grow, now let us think about how much we need to grow. We want plenty to eat fresh from the garden over as long a period as possible, and in addition plenty to can, store, dry, or freeze for winter use. Budgeting our garden will make this possible.

Vegetables are considered these days in four groups: (1) green or yellow; (2) potatoes; (3) tomatoes; (4) any other. In these groups the family of five needs each year (1) 600 pounds; (2) 1000 pounds; (3) 500 pounds; (4) 125 quarts, (3) 150 quarts, (4) 60 quarts is canned, and (1) 400 pounds, (2) 600 pounds, (4) 275 pounds are stored.

Fruits are provided in about this proportion: 500 pounds fresh or dried, and 250 quarts canned. Of course all fruits are not grown in the garden itself, but strawberries, raspberries, etc., currants, gooseberries, grapes, rhubarb, and melons are some which can be made a part of it.

To produce these amounts of food the family of five needs a half-acre garden. This plot is best located near the house, with soil well-drained, fertile, and free from weeds. A long narrow garden, with rows far enough apart to permit horse or power cultivation cuts down on tedious hand labor.

The soil will be in condition to produce vegetables and fruits of higher quality (food contents and appearance) if it receives annual applications of manure and commercial fertilizer high in phosphorus and gives a neutral rather than an acid soil test. After all, the product can be no better than the soil that produces it, because the soil cannot give to the plant what it does not have. If the soil is poor, the vegetable or fruit is low in minerals and vitamins, and we do not receive a sufficient supply of them when we eat to keep us in the "pink of condition," even though they have been included in our meals every day.

In planting the garden, plant for an early garden, a canning garden, and a storage garden. Plant to make use of every square foot of space during the entire growing season.

When to plant is determined through the frost dates. There are three classes of vegetable crops—hardy (plant 2-4 weeks before last killing spring frost), half-hardy (plant at time of last killing frost), and tender (plant 10 days to two weeks after the last killing frost). It is possible to have a number of vegetables extra early by starting them in the house, or in cold frames, and transplanting to the garden when danger from frost is past. Tomatoes, cabbage, cauliflower and peppers are the more common ones planted in this way. Others that may be given the same kind of a start are broccoli, chinese cabbage, cucumbers, beets, melons, eggplant, kohlrabi and celery. Statistics show that in this area the usual date for the last killing frost is from May 12-19.

Repeat plantings of some vegetables (radishes, lettuce, spinach, beets, turnips, kohlrabi, endive) usually grown early in the spring may be made in August in rows where the harvest is completed, and will give a fresh supply until the end of October.
Succession crops (a later crop space used by an earlier one) is a good garden practice. Bush string beans, late turnips, late beets, and winter radishes may follow early potatoes, onions kohlrabi, lettuce, cabbage and the like.
Parsnips, salsify and horseradish may be left in the ground over winter, and give great pleasure in the early spring.

For a bit of something fresh-grown in dead of winter, try forcing some rhubarb in your cellar, and growing some chives and parsley in your kitchen.
