

TAWAS CITY

REV. METCALF PASSED AWAY LAST MONDAY

Funeral Rites for Veteran Baptist Pastor Held Wednesday

Rev. Francis S. Metcalf, Ph. D., pastor of the Tawas City, Reno and Hemlock Road Baptist churches for the past fifteen years and highly esteemed resident of this city, died early Monday morning at the Community Hospital, Battle Creek. Rev. Metcalf had taken ill May 17 while visiting his daughter, Mrs. George D. Seifert, in that city. Coronary thrombosis was the cause of death.

Francis Swales Metcalf was born May 17, 1878, at Chewton, in the gold mining district of Australia. He was the son of Thomas and Mary (Ellery) Metcalf. In 1909 he was united in marriage to Miss Annie Roberts, of Victoria, Australia. Mr. and Mrs. Metcalf came to the United States in 1910 where Mr. Metcalf entered the Baptist Seminary at Louisville, Kentucky. Following his graduation in 1913, he served as pastor of a church at Bradford, Illinois, for several years. The family then returned to Australia where he was a pastor four years. Following this he returned to his Bradford church. Fifteen years ago he was called to the Tawas City field where he and his family have since remained. During these years his fine friendly nature established a large circle of friends who are grieved at his passing and deeply sympathize with the bereaved family.

He is survived by the widow; three daughters, Mrs. George D. Seifert, of Battle Creek, Miss Elizabeth Metcalf, of Waukegon, Illinois, Miss Anne Metcalf, of Clio; two sons, Thomas Metcalf, air cadet stationed at San Antonio, Texas, and Melbourne Metcalf, at home.

Funeral services were held Wednesday afternoon at the Tawas City Baptist church where a large number of his friends gathered to pay last tribute. Rev. Ralph T. Andem, of Lansing, secretary of the Michigan Baptist Convention, officiated. He was assisted by Rev. Drury Martin, of Lansing, secretary of Michigan Rural Baptist churches. Interment was in the Tawas City cemetery.

The pall bearers, deacons of his three churches, were: James Chambers, A. W. Colby, Will Waters, Victor Herriman, L. H. Braddock and Fred Latter.

Isoco's 12,000 Sheep Ready for Shearing

Some eleven or twelve thousand sheep in Isoco county are about to receive their annual barbering. With this job already completed upon many farms and one of the next jobs to be done upon others, the two hundred flockmasters are actually becoming puzzled as to what their seventy to eighty thousand pounds of wool is worth upon the market today.

Wool grading, price ceilings, and the present market outlook are all confusing. Wool prices are quoted upon a clean basis at Boston and this leads to still greater confusion.

County Agent W. L. Finley admits that wool marketing and grading is a trade all of its own, but was, this week, willing to go as far as to say that farmers should be receiving about forty-eight cents to fifty cents per pound for their wool right here in that city. Coronary thrombosis was the cause of death.

"If farmers have kept their sheep in a thrifty condition all winter by feeding some grain or good quality hay and treated for internal parasites and ticks, that will help. They should be careful that the fleeces were not packed full of hay chaff and dirt. Another very important thing is to be sure and tie all fleeces with paper twine. By all means do not let anyone sell you anything else, sisal or jute twine may cause you a four cents to six cents dock in price per pound of wool and it is not worth taking this chance. A buyer does not have to pay top ceiling price unless he feels that the wool, when it reaches the Boston Wool Market, will sell at top ceiling price and it is therefore important that the farmer produce the best quality wool possible.

"Most of the wool grown here in Isoco county will grade three-eighths to one-quarter staple. This would be good average wool from Oxford, Hampshire and Shropshire sheep. Ceiling prices upon a clean basis (after all grease and dirt have been scoured out) at Boston are one dollar and eight (1.08) and ninety-eight cents ($.98) per pound, respectively upon these two grades. The three-eighths blood wool will scour away about 45 to 46% making it worth about 58c per pound, grease basis, at Boston. Allowing the dealer eight to ten cents for freight, handling, insurance, etc., should return the farmer the above mentioned 48c to 50c per pound. The one-quarter blood wool will scour away 40 to 42% making it worth about 57 or 58c per pound, grease basis, at Boston, which is approximately the same value at the farm as the three-eighths blood wool."

Paul Finnegan representing the National Wool Marketing Association, who spoke last week at two sheep shearing schools held here in Isoco county, suggested that farmers submit samples of wool to their dealers so that grade and appraisal could be made before the wool even leaves the farm. Finnegan said these wool prices are good but it was his opinion that wool prices would not recede.

Consumption of wool in 1941 has been estimated at 900,000,000 pounds, of which about 50% came from wool clipped from sheep in the United States.

County Agent Finley suggests that farmers should start, right now, in planning the 1942 wool crop which will be worth about $40,000.00 to Isoco county sheepmen.

Lickfelt-Anderson

The Methodist church at East Tawas was the scene of a pretty wedding Sunday afternoon when Miss Marian Jennie Lickfelt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Lickfelt, became the bride of Thurman Paul Anderson, son of Mrs. Frances Anderson of Charles City, Iowa. Rev. E. C. Stringer officiated at the rites, witnessed by 150 guests, before an altar banked with white and orchid colored lilies, interspersing tall cathedral candelabra.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, wore a gown of embroidered French organza fashioned with a fitted bodice with a square neckline, and a full skirt. Her shoulder length veil was held by a tira of baby chrysanthemums, and she carried a bouquet of white carnations. Her sister, Miss Nina Lickfelt, who was the bride's only attendant, wore a maize colored organza gown and carried a bouquet of pink carnations. Eugene Lickfelt, brother of the bride, was best man and Marshall and Luther Lickfelt of Detroit were ushers.

A reception was held at the church following the ceremony and among those there were Mr. and Mrs. Luther Lickfelt and son, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Lickfelt, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lickfelt and family of Detroit; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Lickfelt and family of Port Huron; Mr. and Mrs. Guy Lickfelt and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Morley and family of Tawas City; and Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Anderson of Crowswell.

George Sternberg, prosecuting attorney. Both addresses were splendid and were well received by the large audience in attendance.

Ernest Burtzloff, past commander of Tawas City Post, American Legion, acted as master of ceremonies. The Legion Rites were given by the Tawas City Legion with Capt. Fred Marsh in command. Music for the parade and program was furnished by the Tawas City High School band.

TRIPLE-A MEET HELD THURSDAY IN PLAINFIELD

Spring Check-Up Discussed By Committeemen At Hale

The AAA War production check-up meeting last Thursday at Hale proved very successful. Twenty-one committeemen, including members of the county committee, and their wives were present. The meeting began at 10:30 a. m. with Harry A. Goodale, chairman, reading a message from Maurice A. Doan, state chairman. A short talk by the County Fieldwoman Mrs. Rose Lake on the origin of AAA and relationship of the Triple-A to the war effort and the place agriculture must have in solving the peace, followed Mr. Doan's message. "How much weight we carry for agriculture after the war depends on how much we do for it during the war," so says Mrs. Lake.

A few instructions were given to the committeemen on how to accomplish their spring check-up. At 12:30 Secretary Wickard and Director Harry N. Schoeler broadcast a message to farmers over the Farm and Home hour reminding farmers that they are running their own program now. This was followed by comments of committeemen from Colorado and Washington, D. C., and a committeeman's wife from Connecticut. A delicious lunch was served in the dining room of the Community Building by the Hale Dorcas society.

At 2:00 p. m. the meeting was again resumed with instructions and plans for the check-up. Committeemen feel they are better able to do a good job and know it is up to them to help the farmers in his own locality to do his part in the slogan "Food will win the war and write the Peace."

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

U. S.-British War Strategy Meeting
Forecasts Opening of Second Front;
Job Freeze Ends Pirating Practice;
Mexico and Brazil Fight Axis Subs

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

For outstanding service to the nation, two of the navy's current heroes were honored by Secretary Frank Knox (center). Lieut. John D. Bulkeley (right) received the Navy Cross, in addition to the Army Distinguished Service Cross he held previously. Lieut. Comm. Richard E. Hawes was awarded a gold star to accompany Navy Cross he had already received.

U. S. AIR MISSION: Bad News for Reich

First body blows by the United States against Nazi Germany will be delivered from the air, it was forecast when Lieut. Gen. Henry H. Arnold, head of the U. S. army air forces and Rear Adm. John H. Towers, chief of naval aeronautics, arrived in London to "consult with British officials on details of Anglo-American military co-operation."

Air raids of a magnitude and destructiveness such as the world has never before seen will eventually be the sequel to plans perfected at the conferences, observers declared. In creating a second front against Germany, American planes and fighters operating with the British to bomb German factories, defenses and communications would be under their own command.

The "softening up" process forecast by joint American and British air offensives over the Reich would, it was believed, be a prelude to invasion by United Nations' land forces of the continent of Europe later on. This was confirmed by a statement of Lieut. Gen. Somerville that "America is ready to supply men and materials on a large scale to a European front."

The American air mission in Britain was regarded as a logical corollary to Gen. George C. Marshall's London conference on strategy recently. The U. S. army chief of staff's talks with Prime Minister Churchill and British chiefs of staff were known to have covered every war zone including Russia.

600 MILLION: Fund for Housing

The appropriation of an additional $600,000,000 to provide living quarters for 1,600,000 war workers who will migrate to munitions producing centers was asked by President Roosevelt in a message to congress. Congress had previously appropriated $1,020,000,000 for war housing to provide shelter for workers producing essential munitions.

Mr. Roosevelt said in his message that while workers are being obtained locally as far as possible and new sources of labor supply are being called on, it will be necessary for at least 1,600,000 to move to centers of war activity during the coming year. Existing structures are being counted on to absorb a large percentage of the workers, he said, but many workers will have to be cared for through new public construction, "largely temporary in nature and designed to serve the lower-income brackets of war workers."

LYBIAN FRONT: Active Again

Although the weather timetable said it was too late in the season, active warfare flamed again in the Lybian desert when Nazi Gen. Erwin Rommel's armored units opened an offensive against British forces south of Tobruk.

In the opening phases of what was regarded as Rommel's long-awaited general attack, the British held the upper hand and repulsed and inflicted heavy losses on the Nazis in a series of fierce tank battles.

British tank units were strongly supported by squadrons of Royal Air force planes, according to communiques from Middle East headquarters. The German army was reported operating with stronger air forces.

Observers speculated about what foxy General Rommel had up his sleeve. A master of "feinting" tactics, the Nazi leader was believed by some experts to be making a token thrust against the British southern flank in order to screen a general advance eastward along the coast toward Egypt.

TWO NEW ALLIES:
Mexico and Brazil

More effective measures against the submarine menace along the Atlantic seaboard and in Latin-American waters were forecast through the co-operative action of Brazil and Mexico in joining the United Nations' warfare against the Axis.

Operating under "shoot on sight" orders, Brazilian airmen were reported to have sunk three U-boats lurking off their northern coast. Brazil had to send her armed forces into action, said an air ministry communique, "to safeguard our sovereignty and the lives of our undefended sailors." Seven Brazilian ships had been torpedoed.

Mexico's action likewise came after the sinking of two of her ships. "We recognize the limits of our military resources," said President Camacho, "but we shall respond to the aggression of our adversaries, collaborating energetically in safeguarding America."

JOB FREEZE: Aids War Output

In answer to the growing practice of "pirating" war workers from one industry to the other by inducements of higher wages and other incentives, the War Manpower commission moved drastically to hold "essential" workers in critical war industries and agriculture in their present jobs.

Primary purpose of the action was to step up war production hampered by shifts of workers.

Officials said the United States Employment service would be designated as the sole hiring agent for vital war industries. It was indicated that the service would be empowered to prevent any employed from leaving one job for another, except in cases where his skills were needed for a particular task and where there was a shortage of skilled labor.

Men in key positions would not be subject to military service under the draft deferment provisions of the proposal.

WAR WIVES' AID:
U. S. Is Generous

Substantial financial aid for the families and dependents of enlisted men in Uncle Sam's armed forces was approved by the senate military affairs committee, when members voted an allowance scale beginning at $50 a month for wives.

The benefit system worked out by the committee included a much more liberal war risk insurance plan than in World War No. 1.

The program's provisions would start with a government allowance of $28 per month for a wife with no child, to which would be added $22 from the monthly pay of her husband. A wife with one child would receive $40 from the government, plus the $22 allotted from the soldier's pay and $10 for each additional child.

In case of a soldier with parents, brothers, sisters or grandchildren dependent on him, an additional scale of benefits was provided, including $15 for one parent, $25 for two and $5 for additional B class dependents.

MISCELLANY:

Washington: Senator David I. Walsh of Massachusetts, chairman of the naval affairs committee, predicted the Atlantic coast submarine menace will be "increasingly checked" through new plans being put into effect by the navy.

New Delhi: Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell, British commander for Burma and India, disclosed that 80 per cent of the Imperial troops sent into Burma had been safely returned to the Indian frontier.

LEND-LEASE: More for Russ

The basis for closer economic co-operation between the United States, Soviet Russia and Great Britain both during and after the war was laid in a proposal for a master lend-lease agreement presented by the state department to the Russian government.

President Roosevelt described the proposal as similar to other master lend-lease agreements already signed by Great Britain.

In effect, the acceptance of the agreement by Russia would make the Soviet a party to attaining the economic principles of the Atlantic Charter sponsored by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill.

The foundation principles of the master agreements already existing between the U. S. and Britain, include "national and international measures to expand production, employment and the exchange and consumption of goods," and elimination of "all forms of discriminatory treatment in international commerce, to reduce tariffs and other trade barriers and generally to attain the economic objectives of the Atlantic Charter."

The significance of this latest move is that a victorious America, Britain and Russia, working in close economic collaboration, would compose an economic bloc that would dominate the entire world.

DE GAULLE: Warrior Only

Hopes of Gen. Charles de Gaulle that the United Nations would recognize him as the political leader of France as well as the military symbol around which Free Frenchmen have rallied, were dimmed by reactions from both Washington and London.

In a statement to the world, De Gaulle had demanded that the Allies treat his organization as a full-fledged government and war partner instead of an agency for recruiting French fighters. The Free French leader used the American negotiations for demilitarizing the French Caribbean as an example of the inadequacies of his representation in the family of United Nations.

GEN. CHARLES DE GAULLE

Official Washington made it clear that while the United States is continuing to give the De Gaulleists every aid possible, it prefers to wait for an eventually liberated France to designate its own political leader.

TOJO BOASTS:
China Performs

Boasting that Japan would stay in the war "until the influence of Britain and America and their dreams of world domination were wiped out," Premier Hideki Tojo reaffirmed his country's determination to "contribute to the utmost her share as the partner of Germany and Italy."

Describing Australia as the "orphan in the Pacific, helplessly expecting Japan's attack," the Nipponese tried again the war of nerve technique by warning the Commonwealth it must reconsider its attitude toward Japan.

But while Tojo was making brave talk, disquieting news for his people came in Chinese reports that the Japanese army of 100,000 which had launched the offensive in Chekian province had been decimated. Of casualties totaling 10,000, the Japs lost 1,500 in killed through the explosion of land mines near the key city of Kinzha.

RUSS-NAZIS: Tanks Take Toll

As drier ground and warmer weather permitted greater movement, the tempo of war on the Russian-Nazi fronts was stepped up. While German sources made claims of strategic flanking attacks, Red army communiques reported advances along the 150-mile Kharkov front.

Mechanized units were poured into the conflict. One report told of phalanxes of 52-ton Russian tanks lumbering through German lines.

In addition to successes reported at Kharkov, the Russians claimed advances near Barvenkova.

RAIL TRAVEL:

With "rubberneck" sightseeing busses already banned and drastic curtailment of airline service in effect, the next step would be elimination in the near future of all "non-essential" railroad passenger service, federal transportation officials declared.

One step already taken was the rearrangement of streamlined train schedules to make such service available for local traffic, ODT, representatives pointed out.

Trainees Learn What Makes a Ship 'Tick'

From the mountains and the plains young Americans come down to the sea at Port Huene, Calif., to answer the call for immediate expansion of the U. S. merchant marine. Here at the new, spacious Maritime Service Training station nearly 300 trainees are going through the streamlined three-months process of becoming seamen. At left they are shown learning to operate a 5-inch gun. Right: Lieut. Jr. Grade G. A. Painter instructs his class in boat engineering.

Oil That Feeds Russian War Machine

Two Russian workers (left) stand on a hill at Baku, U.S.S.R., and look over a vast panorama of oil fields with the derricks resembling pins placed at random in some gigantic pin cushion. From this rich oil land in the Caucasus comes most of the fuel to feed the Red army fighting machines. It has been Hitler's most wished-for goal. Picture at the right shows an oil-cracking plant in Baku.

Jews Prepare to Defend Homeland

This photo, released in London, shows what the Jews are doing to guard the traditional homeland against attack by the Axis. A gun post in a crusader castle on the island of Cyprus is manned by Jews from Poland, Rumania, Czechoslovakia and other countries that are temporarily under the Nazi heel. They have already seen service in Greece, Crete and Libya.

Queen Among Britain's Tin Miners

Queen Elizabeth is shown chatting with Cornish tin miners during her visit to the tin-mining district in Cornwall, England. Her majesty holds a piece of ore presented to her by one of the miners. This industry, neglected for many years, has been revitalized since the loss of Malaya and the East Indies on which Britain depended for tin.

Fish Story?

Maybe he isn't telling his stooge, Colonel Engel, about the big one that got away, but you can bet that whatever Adolf is recounting here is just as fishy as the tallest tales. The photo was made on the Eastern front, where the Russian army has been engaged in hacking highways through Adolf's invincibles.

NEWS
THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON
Consolidated Features—WNU Features.

NEW YORK—Henry J. Kaiser, breaking all shipbuilding records at his West coast shipyards, used to be a photographer in Canoharie, N. Y. It was inevitable, of course, that a genius in the mass production of ships would appear when needed. Here he is, in the business less than three years, and now outstripping all others.

He is quoted today as having said he could build 9,000,000 tons of shipping next year. Contracts for 674 out of the 1,073 ships ordered by the maritime commission under the Liberty program up to February 1, 1942, went to his firm.

Mr. Kaiser was a demon road, bridge and dam builder who turned to shipbuilding as a sideline at the age of 58. Taking on some big contracts for the long over-due fortification of Pearl Harbor and Guam, he bought two old freighters to carry bulk cement. He towed them to the Todd shipyards for repairs and there combined his organization and working forces with the Todd shipbuilding interests. The combine swelled quickly into seven big West coast plants, with an array of tributary companies, rising to a tremendous momentum at this moment and still on the uptake.

He devised, among other new techniques, the Kaiser process, by which ships are built in a concrete chamber, allowing men to work both above and below. Completing the ship, they flood the drydock and the ship is floated out.

Two years ago when 6,000 tons of magnesium were being produced each year under patents held by a German cartel, Mr. Kaiser heard of an Austrian scientist, Dr. F. J. Hansgirg, who had a novel process, and he also learned of large deposits of low grade ore in Nevada. He brought the scientist and the ore together, built a big plant near San Jose, Calif., and in a short time was producing magnesium at the rate of 20,000 tons a year.

He is a whirlwind of energy on the job, frequently on the airways between his vast plants at Richmond, Calif., Los Angeles and Portland, Ore.

FAITH BALDWIN was busy a while back bringing up two sets of twins, running the school they attended, turning out novels like lunch-counter short-orders and keeping up a steady run of magazine serials and verse. She is now ready to go to press with her 50th novel, "The Breath of Life," a record better than one novel for each year of her life, and, apparently an ambidextrous writer, she's doing a lot of straightline production for Archibald MacLeish's big wartime word mill.

In the first World war, women gave pie and doughnuts to departing soldiers, danced with them at benefit balls, and helped brighten up the YMCA. Miss Baldwin has been dubious about such wartime activities for busy women and has indicated that things are different, and should be, in this war. In view of the current urgency and interest in women's war effort, we told Miss Baldwin she could have space here for her views on this subject. She writes:

"Everyone wants to help in the war effort. Everyone is trying and sometimes chaos and confusion reign, often, I think, because people try to do things for which they are not fitted. Some of us won't ever qualify as first-aiders and air raid wardens.

"It seems to me that it is a good idea to find out what you can do best and then do it. I believe that the function of a writer in wartime is to write—those of us who cannot carry guns or man ships. Writing is easily adapted to the war effort, to propaganda and the selling of war bonds, the supporting of our various relief organizations. And to entertain. Reading is entertainment and escape and it is no aspersion on one's patriotism if it is indulged in, now and then."

In private life, Miss Baldwin is Mrs. Hugh Cuthrell, a resident of Brooklyn for many years, until her purchase of a colonial homestead near New Canaan, Conn., several years ago. Several of her books have found screen versions and her earnings have run as high as $300,000 a year. She is small, big-eyed, smart and alert and, working in her "boiler factory" as she calls her home workshop always seems to have time to do a little bit more. With all her added war work, she manages to get about a lot and keep humming with an "A" gas card.

Bossy Meets War Production Challenge As Dairy Industry Supplies Vital Foods

Industry Observes Sixth Annual June Campaign.

CHICAGO.—June dairy month brings a picture of 26,000,000 cows on nearly 5,000,000 farms in the United States, each performing an important function in winning the war. Quietly at work in the barns and on the pastures from Maine to California and from the Canadian border to the Gulf, these 26,000,000 animals are daily producing a third of a billion pounds of milk.

That means an average production of 166,666 tons of milk every day in the year. If placed in ten gallon cans, 3,921,569 cans would be required to hold an average day's milk production in the United States. This is enough milk to fill 6,666 big 25-ton tank cars. If these were all put together in one big milk train, we would have each morning a train of 25-ton milk tank cars 57 miles long.

The flow of this life-giving stream of food rated by nutritionists as the No. 1 protective food is of vital importance to our nation at all times, but especially so this year. The Allied nations and the soldiers of the United States must have milk and its products. Factory and munition workers have greater need than ever for milk and milk products. Office workers, housewives, school children and all other classes of the American population are coming to realize, as never before, their need for greater quantities of these vital foods in order to keep America strong by making Americans stronger.

Dairy Program.

Today the National Dairy Council program, which the industry has sponsored for 23 years, is finding new recognition and new support. A national nutrition program is expanding and materially strengthening the realization of the fact that good nutrition is necessary to optimum health, vigor and vitality. This national nutrition program has been in operation for more than a year.

Just how are these 26 million cows and those responsible for the product meeting this challenge and this opportunity?

We need not wait for that answer. Those "bossies" and their masters are meeting the challenge. Starting with an average production of 104 billion pounds of milk during the years 1935 to 1939; there was 111 billion pounds of milk produced in 1940; 115 billion 500 million pounds of milk in 1941, and the production for 1942 is estimated at not less than 120 billion pounds of milk to be produced in the United States. In other words, for each and every day of the year, including Sundays and holidays, there is being produced more than 44,000,000 pounds of milk over that of five years ago. That is the equivalent of a fully loaded milk train of 50,000 pound capacity cars, 7½ miles long over and above their normal production.

Terrific Handling Problem.

Stated in terms of ten gallon milk cans, if these were filled and placed side by side, we would find that we had every month a line of filled milk cans 3,150 miles long over and above the amount of milk that was produced in this country in the same period during the preceding five-year period. Producing such a vol-

A dairy cow weighing 1,000 pounds (providing she maintains her weight and produces 7,605 pounds of milk a year) eats approximately the following amounts of feed in one year: two acres of rich pasturage in five months of summer; 6,300 pounds of silage and 2,730 pounds of alfalfa hay during the seven remaining months; and 1,700 pounds of grain throughout the entire 12 months.

Ice Cream Consumption More Than Doubled

Long regarded as the "all American" dessert, ice cream is rapidly coming to be recognized not only as an economical food, but since it also contains all of the ingredients of milk, as one of the best protective foods. Within the past eight years, consumption has risen from about 4½ quarts per person per year to over 10½ quarts per person per year in 1941. That figure is rising rapidly. Ice cream takes the output of nearly

15 MILLION more CANS OF MILK produced every month

Source—U.S. Department of Agriculture

As its contribution to feeding the democracies, the dairy industry of the United States has increased its production from 1935 to 1939 by nearly 15,000,000 ten-gallon cans of milk—enough cans to make a row from Los Angeles to New York.

ume of milk in addition to the regular supply is no easy task. Just the job of hauling milk to fill 7½ miles of 50,000 pound capacity tank cars from the farm to the milk station or dairy plant each morning, is enough to stagger the imagination of the average individual, but that is simply a little "before breakfast chore" as compared with the extra effort necessary to raise the feed, do the additional milking and cool and care for that extra 7½-mile milk train load of milk each morning.

Dry Milk Solids.

For many years, the cream from about 45 billion pounds of milk each year has been used for the manufacture of butter, including both the factory and the farm-made product.

Milk made the difference—both dogs had the same food, but the larger one received a daily milk ration.

Of this, about 30 billion pounds of milk have been farm separated with the remaining skimmed milk being kept on the farms for feed for calves, pigs and chickens. One of the severe re-adjustments which the industry has been called upon to make in order to furnish sufficient dry milk powder to the United States has been to shift from farm separation of much of this milk to the delivery of whole milk.

Manufacture of dry milk solids is gaining rapidly and in March reached an all-time high of 49,800,000 pounds. While the speeding up of the manufacture of dry milk solids has necessarily been delayed longer than seemed desirable on account of the vast amount of changes in practice necessary, both on the farms and in the plants; yet, it is now gaining momentum rapidly. Production today is approximately 120 per cent of 1941.

The three states of Wisconsin, New York and California produce more than one-half of all the dry milk solids in the country at the present time. Other states important in the manufacture of dry milk solids are Minnesota, Michigan, Ohio, Missouri, Pennsylvania, Idaho and Vermont, in the order named.

The increase in the manufacture of dry milk solids has forced severe changes in both farm management practice and in the operation of butter factories. Farmers have had to adjust their operations to new methods of feeding. Creameries have been obliged to put in new equipment, to train new personnel and to re-vamp their operating and merchandising plans. This is in addition to another difficult problem which the butter making industry must face every year and that is, the varying seasonal production.

During the year 1940 to 1941 butter manufacture varied by months from a low of 115 million 700 thousand pounds in November to a high of 205 million 300 thousand pounds in June.

North Central States.

Most of these changes have been brought about in the North Central states where butter production is the heaviest—Minnesota, Iowa and Wisconsin rank first, second and third in the order named as the "big three" in the butter industry in the United States. After that come Michigan, Nebraska, Missouri, Illinois, Ohio, Kansas, Indiana, California, North Dakota, Oklahoma, South Dakota and Washington. These 15 states produce more than 85 per cent of all the butter made in the United States.

Cheese is another important dairy product, the manufacture of which has been materially affected by current conditions. Largely as the result of the war and the demand for American cheese abroad, production of this product has been stepped up enormously. The government request in March, 1941, for 250 million pounds of cheese amounted to an urging, on its part, for almost 50 per cent increase in production. The industry has met that request and more. Nearly 300 million pounds of cheese had been provided for "lend-lease" purchases from March 15, 1941, to April 1, 1942. Cheese production is now running about 150 per cent as much as a year ago.

Cheese is a product containing practically all the ingredients of fluid milk, and as such, it is one of the first on the protective list of foods. Its value and its importance are gaining recognition rapidly. In the production of cheese, Wisconsin alone produces more than half of all the cheese in the United States. Following Wisconsin are New York, Illinois, Indiana, Oregon, Ohio, Missouri, Texas, Michigan and Minnesota in the order of their importance.

Evaporated Milk Industry.

War conditions have had an equally important bearing on the evaporated milk industry. To fill the demand for a concentrated milk product for the United Nations, the government asked for a step-up in production sufficient to supply 25 million additional cases of evaporated milk. This called for an increase of more than 50 per cent in manufacture. It called for changes in farm management plans, for adjustments in evaporating plant operations, for the training of personnel and for shifts of merchandising methods fully equal to those the cheese industry met. Here again the goal was equalled and more. Approximately 30 million cases of evaporated milk has been furnished for "lend-lease" operations. In this industry, too, Wisconsin leads with almost 30 per cent of all the evaporated milk production in the United States. Ohio, California, New York, Illinois, Michigan, Missouri, Indiana, Washington and Pennsylvania follow in the order named.

During June hundreds of thousands of dollars' worth of publicity in newspapers and trade publications, in food and drug stores, radio programs, publicity stunts, advertising material at point-of-sale, soda fountains, as well as educational programs, combine under the leadership of the National Dairy Council with the efforts of nutritional authorities to make of this the most gigantic effort to bring home to all people the realization of the need of better health and the place of milk and its products in achieving that goal.

FRIDAY: THE DAY OF SUFFERING (II)

LESSON TEXT—Luke 23:33-46; Mark 15:33, 34.
GOLDEN TEXT—But he was wounded for our transgressions, he was bruised for our iniquities; the chastisement of our peace was upon him; and with his stripes we are healed.—Isaiah 53:5.

Dark and distressing days have often come upon the earth, but the darkest day of all history was that day when cruel men with wicked hearts laid unholy hands upon the Son of God and crucified Him. And yet, by the grace of God, it was a day of bright hope for the sinful sons of men, for on that day complete redemption was wrought out. The veil was rent and the new and living way into the holy presence of God (Heb. 10:20) was opened for you and for me.

The cross is popular as an ornament on a church or on a golden chain, but it is far more than that. It speaks of the black hour of the Saviour's cry, "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?" and it also tells us of the One who became sin for us that we might know the righteousness of God (II Cor. 5:21).

Three thoughts emerge from our lesson.

I. Crucifixion—Bringing Life (Luke 23:33, 34a).

"There they crucified him"—four words summing up the almost unbelievable thing that took place on Calvary. He died; but in that death life and immortality were brought to light (II Tim. 1:10).

As believers in Christ, we are interested in all that took place at the crucifixion, for we know that as we contemplate Him on the cross we can say with Luther, "For me, for me!" And yet it was not for us alone that He died—it was for all mankind. So we turn to our unconverted friends and direct them to "the Lamb of God which taketh away the sin of the world" (John 1:29). He was crucified that they might live eternally. He who had only a plea for the forgiveness of His persecutors (v. 34a) tenderly offers His forgiveness to men today.

II. Rejection—Bringing Acceptance (Luke 23:34b-43).

Those who appear around the cross afford an interesting and striking picture of humanity. There were the indifferent ones, those not interested at all in who was being crucified, but only eager to share in the division of His garments.

There stood the people "beholding"—perplexed, unable to believe that the miracle-working Christ was about to die. Verily, they were as sheep without a shepherd.

Then we see those who scoffed. They knew His claim to be the Son of God and hated Him for it. Now at last they had their chance to rail at Him, to ridicule and taunt. More ignorant and yet equally derisive, we see the mocking soldiers.

Even one of the thieves by His side "railed on him" (v. 39), ridiculing His claim. But here is the marvelous thing—the other thief, rough and wicked person that he was, saw in Christ a Saviour to whom he turned in faith, which was quickly and fully honored (vv. 42, 43).

The picture is thus complete. The Rejected One is "the way" to acceptance for all who believe (John 14:6). He said, "I am the door; by me if any man enter in, he shall be saved" (John 10:9).

III. Darkness—Bringing Light (Luke 23:44, 45; Mark 15:33, 34).

Physical darkness fell over the scene at the cross, as though all nature would go into mourning, or sought to shield the suffering Saviour from the curious and hateful eyes of men. Then, too, it was God's sign that this was not the death of any ordinary man, even as it spoke of the judgment of those who had laid violent, sinful hands on His Son.

But deeper yet was the spiritual darkness into which Jesus went, as bearing the horrible load of the sins of the world He "was made sin for us" (II Cor. 5:21), and God the Father turned away from Him. We cannot fathom the full meaning of that hour, and we dare not attempt to explain it. We can only accept it and thank God that because He was made sin for us we may by faith be "made the righteousness of God in him."

Out of the darkness of that hour shone forth the one light which nothing in time or eternity can dim.

Route to Happiness

The truest and happiest of earthly lives, proven over and over again by hard actual experience, is that life which accepts and observes most nearly St. Paul's great postulate, "Here have we no continuing city, but we seek one to come." Rightfully pursued, it in no way interferes with the intensest enjoyment of our time here on earth. We have but to see that we do God's will in everything.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Violent boiling destroys most vitamins. Control heat carefully while boiling food.

Put sugar in the cup before adding tea or coffee and you can use a smaller amount for the same degree of sweetness. The hot beverage immediately melts the sugar and no undissolved grains are left in the cup for the housewife to wash down the drain.

To help preserve the color of beets and red cabbage when cooking, use a tablespoon of vinegar to each quart of water.

To protect posts against termites, soak them (the posts, of course) in fuel oil before putting into the ground.

A fruit jar, tightly capped, can be used effectively for mixing fruit or milk shakes.

When cotton sheets begin to wear out in the center, rather than sew the outside hems together, make two pillow slips of the two good ends.

NOTICE TO Water Consumers
The Water Board wishes to inform their customers that the ordinance regulating the use of outside taps is still in effect. The ordinance forbids the use of outside taps during a fire and the use on lawns or gardens is restricted to the hours of 6 to 9 p. m. The reason for the ordinance is to keep the consumption of water within the capacity of the small well and supply the softest water available. If it becomes necessary to use the large well the water will be twice as hard which requires more soap when used for washing.
At the next regular meeting of the Water Board, which will be June 22, the rates for the coming year will be set.

If repairs aren't quite as fast BLAME THE AXIS
CONSERVATION of trucks and rubber is vitally important to American Victory. In order to save automotive equipment and tires, Michigan Bell now groups orders for repairs and installations, so that as many as possible can be handled on one trip.
Most people will notice no difference in the quality of their service. But if you find it takes a little longer to have a telephone installed, a cord replaced, or repairs made, you will understand.
In so far as war restrictions and material shortages permit, we shall continue to provide the best service possible. We look forward to the day when we again can give the kind of service wanted, "when and where wanted." But now, and for the duration, war needs come first.

GHOST PLANE

By ARTHUR STRINGER
W.N.U. SERVICE

THE STORY SO FAR: Just when it looks as though Norland Airways is through, Cruger finds a "scientist" named Frayne, who offers to pay well to be flown to the Anawotto, a river in Canada's barren North Country, where he hopes to find the breeding ground of the trumpeter swan. This good news helps to soften the blow when Cruger has to tell his partner and ace flyer, Alan Slade, that his application for overseas service with the army air corps has been turned down. Slade explains that he signed up because he thought they would lose the business. Cruger says he has bought a new Lockheed that will keep them going for a while. He and Alan are discussing their new client, who is apparently not inexperienced, having recently returned from an expedition to the Himalayas.

Now continue with the story.

CHAPTER II

"What was this man Frayne after in the Himalayas?" Slade asked. "The Great Tibetan Sheep, Karnell, he explained, was his shikari on both occasions. But Karnell doesn't count. All he does, apparently, is supply the brawn. It's our man of science who supplies the brain in that outfit."

"Wasn't your nature-lover shooting wide of the mark when he went looking for sheep in winter? It's in spring and summer sheep come down, anywhere. Every hunter knows that."

Cruger's chair-shift was one of impatience.

"Don't worry about your passengers. Your business, Lindy, is flying. And if you feel that dreamy-eyed ornithologist is after gold, like all the rest of them, you'll think along another line when you've seen him. He's different. And before summer's over, you may be sure, he'll be calling for supplies."

"Should he go in there to starve?" questioned Slade. "He won't starve," retorted the other. "He's well heeled, his papers are in order, and the Royal Mounted have okayed his excursion. He's carrying a lot of equipment." Cruger's glance went to the window. "They'll be bringing over their stuff from the terminal any time now."

"Themselves?" Cruger nodded. "It's too precious, apparently, for our port boys to handle. Before sundown they'll be stowing it aboard your ship, and when they do you'd better stand by and check up on their kit."

"Why?" Cruger shrugged. "Well, let's say it's to make sure he doesn't give you an over-load." Slade rebutted his flyer's coat. "I'll be back from McMurray in two hours," he proclaimed. "And I'll check and double-check on that swan-stalker."

Cruger glanced up at the route map on the wall. "An early start tomorrow should give you light for landing. It won't be easy flying, remember."

"I'll fly baby elephants to the Pole," Slade announced, "if it's going to keep this outfit on its feet." Cruger's quiet smile was that of a man with a trump card still in his hand.

"But the important point," he pursued, "is that you're not the only one who didn't get to the Front this time." He paused for a moment as though to give timing to a message too important to be lightly uttered. "I thought you'd like to know that Doctor Morlock's daughter didn't swing in with that Red Cross unit."

Slade turned away and looked at the wall map. It was taking time, apparently, for information so unexpected to be absorbed. "How do you know that?" Slade demanded with just a trace of a tremor in his voice.

The older man's half-smile was quickly smothered. "It came from Morlock himself. He'd the offer of a chair in medicine at the University of Manitoba and that girl of his was set on him getting out of frontier-life flying. I guess she felt he'd weaken if she stepped out and went over-seas. But the old boy stuck to his guns. He said he was needed in the North and would die with his boots on. And that meant only one thing for a girl like that. It meant she had to stick to her dad."

Even Cruger could smile a little at the newer light that crept into the Viking eyes. "So she's not going to England," Slade repeated. "No, she's flying to Coronation with her father tomorrow," Cruger said, as he picked up the envelope. Slade's glance remained preoccupied. He had the look of a tired swimmer who had unexpectedly found solid ground under his feet. Even the sunlight outside, when he swung open the door, seemed a little brighter. For there wasn't, after all, to be a wide Atlantic between him and Lynn Morlock.

He drew a deep breath and turned back to Cruger. "You're right about this outfit," he said. "We're going to keep her going." He swung the door shut on Cruger's smile.

Alan Slade, jolting over the three-mile trail between McMurray and Waterways, sat back in Cassie Olin's taxi and let the road and Cassie do their worst. But Cassie, he saw, knew how to handle her dust-covered old jalopy, probably the most northerly taxicab, omitting Alaska, on the continent. For Cassie, who had driven an Arctic dog team in her time, was both stalwart of body and resolute of spirit. "Where'll I be droppin' you?" asked Cassie, as they rolled into the town's wooden-fronted main street.

"Buyin' diamonds for your girl friend down the Basin?"

"At Dillon, the jeweler's," Slade told her. "Buyin' diamonds for your girl friend down the Basin?" Slade laughed.

"There's no such animal," he said, as he waved her good-by. But he was wondering, at the moment, if Lynn Morlock would be paying her customary visit to St. Gabriel's. She'd be wanting supplies, before heading north. For the North was empty of much that was needed there. His present mission was evidence enough of that. It involved, he remembered, a wedding ring for a love-lorn mine-worker at El Dorado, a mine-worker impatient to travel in double-harness with a full-bodied Swede waitress who answered to the name of Atlin Olga.

For five years now, Slade also remembered, he had been an unattached shopping agent for the exiles along the new frontier. He had taken in Christmas turkeys and radio sets, dancing slippers and tobacco, compasses and clock-keys. He had swapped their beaver and muskrat pelts for layettes and cotton-flannel, and exchanged white foxskins for baby food and safety pins. He had matched yarn and learned how to spot service-weight silk stockings and select slips of the right tea-rose tint. He had sleuthed out needed machine parts and bought cough medicine and kidney pills.

So the purchase of a wedding ring, and even a wedding ring of the massiveness and diameter designated by the impatient groom, seemed merely an incident in the day's work. He laughed a little as he inspected the big ring in its velvet box.

His smile faded as he looked at his watch. His plane, he remembered, was awaiting his attention. He turned and looked about for Cassie's taxi. He was still diffidently searching the dusty street ends when he heard his name called. "Alan!"

It quickened his pulse. For he knew that calling voice belonged to Lynn Morlock, even before he caught sight of her between the loungers fringing the shop fronts.

She was, he saw, almost running along the none too even sidewalk. Her hair, close-clipped and boy-like, shone mahogany-brown in the sunlight and she carried her familiar first-aid bag. There was neither alarm nor excitement on her face. But there was resolution in her stride.

"Alan, come with me, quick," she called over her shoulder, without slackening her pace. "What's happened?" Alan asked as he swung in beside her.

"There's been a fight," she said, between breaths. "There's a man bleeding to death. At least that's the word they sent."

"Where is he?" asked Slade. They turned up a side street, where the idlers, both Indian and white, could no longer gape after them.

"At the Blue Goose," was Lynn's answer. "It sounds like a severed artery."

Slade knew enough of frontier-town gambling joints and gin mills disguised as dance halls to realize what they might have to face.

"That's no place for a girl," he contended.

"I've been in worse," was Lynn's quick reply. "And you may have to help me."

"Why isn't the Padre attending to this?" he asked as he hurried on beside her.

A shadow crossed the girl's face. "You know how Father feels about drinking."

"But even a drunken man can die," protested Slade.

"I'm afraid Father would let him," was the girl's answer to that. "He's no longer a doctor, where alcoholics are concerned. He's washed his hands of them. And nothing will ever change him."

Slade remembered something about that. It tied up, he recalled, with the hazy story of the Flying Padre's abrupt migration from a once-opulent city practice to the outposts of the Mackenzie Basin. Lawrence Morlock, he remembered, had his reasons for hating drunkenness. For as Slade was able to piece the story together, Lynn's father had been one of New York's most successful surgeons. He had flown high and flown fast, until the tragic death of his wife brought him up short. The enemy he was fighting on a well-fortified front line dropped like a parachutist in his own home. Bewildered and stunned, but refusing to give ground, he had sought relief in over-work and alcohol. But one night when called from a night club for an emergency operation his hand had failed him and his patient, a pillar of Wall Street, had died on the table. That death, the surgeon always felt, was due to his own drunkenness. It rang the curtain down on all his earlier feverish scramble for wealth. He cabled his daughter Lynn, then in Switzerland, that he was giving up his practice and selling his city home. He quietly dropped out of his old life and, a year later, reappeared as a relief-worker when a flu epidemic was decimating the northern camps of Canada. His field broadened as he learned the need for medical service along the outer fringes of the New Frontier, and he equipped himself with a plane which was used in many a mercy flight.

His daughter Lynn was proving herself a chip of the old block. For when she realized her father was somberly happy in that work and definitely committed to what she accepted as a life of expiation, she quietly went in training as a nurse, equipped herself as a co-worker with the Padre, and joined him in his silent yet stoic campaign of redemption. She had stuck to him with a tender loyalty.

"If this is going to be a murder case," he contended, "why not notify the police?"

"It mustn't be murder," cried Lynn. To the man following her she looked reassuringly fearless in the slanting northern sunlight.

They must have been waiting for her in the Blue Goose. The door opened, expectantly, even before she reached it.

"Where is he?" the girl asked of the pock-marked man in his shirt sleeves. He closed and locked the door before answering.

"In here," he said with a side glance of hostility as Slade pushed in after the girl. The sound of a phonograph blaring out dance music in some outer room suddenly came to a stop. A bold-eyed woman, heavily rouged, backed away at the peremptory hand wave of the proprietor, who opened a second door and pointed inside, without advancing.

His first impression of the room, as he entered, was one of blood. There was blood on the cover of an overturned table, on the floor and on the summer parka worn by a figure half-lying and half-crouching along a stained wicker couch splashed with red.

Slade couldn't tell whether the man in the parka was being held up or held down by an aproned and yellow-faced bartender who sat with one arm about the wounded man and looked up at them with the round eyes of a bewildered rabbit as the girl with the bag ran to his side. It wasn't until she pushed the aproned man away that Slade recognized the face above the parka.

It was the parka that he recognized first. He promptly identified it as the garment that had been given to Slim Tumstead by Air-Commander Rollins-Benson on the occasion of a bush-fire fight in which Slim had proved both his flying ability and his fearlessness.

It was Slim Tumstead looking up at him with a one-sided and slightly sardonic smile.

"I'm all right," he stubbornly protested. But his voice was thin with weakness.

"Let's see," challenged Lynn, with her bag already open. Each movement was quick and decisive as she examined her patient. "Get me water," she commanded, without turning her head, "water that's been boiled."

Bridal Showers

Pretty, but practical—that's the cue for this year's bridal showers. Chances are this year's bride will be an army or navy bride with but a whirlwind wedding with her husband on a short leave, so there won't be much time for the frills and fuss of other years.

Her plans will be sketchy, most probably, and very often they will not include a permanent home or bungalow. That means that bridal showers will be simple and inexpensive and gifts for the bride-to-be will include only things which are not too elaborate, and which can be packed in a small space in case she is to travel or take a small apartment by herself.

What kind of showers, then? Well, there are always the personal showers in which you give her lingerie or other personal toilet items that you know she needs or wants.

Another practical shower is the Kitchen Gadget shower. Get small items like dish mops, kitchen knives, forks, mixing spoons, dish cloths, soap flakes, clothes pins and a few sets of bowls. Glass sets are popular, coming three in a set, fitting together in a nest so they don't take up much room. They're practical plus, too, because they can be used for baking dishes if you get the heat-resistant kind.

Include measuring cups and spoons, custard cups and small skillets and pots in the kitchen gadget shower. A new bride will appreciate your thoughtfulness in getting necessities like these for her.

The Kitchen shower is extra nice because you can carry out table decorations in the theme of the shower. Make a bouquet of some of the items for a centerpiece and use the dishcloths for doilies or place mats.

Sewing Shower. Spools of thread in a riot of bright colors tumbling out of an attractive sewing basket can make the centerpiece for this party both novel and economical.

There's a variety of things to give the bride in this kind of shower and none of them will strain the pocket-book—needles, hooks, snaps, darning thread, thimbles, etc.—all these are "musts" on the bride's list.

Recipe Showers. Is the bride-to-be interested in cooking? Most of them are, and if they are not, they will be soon. That's why recipe showers get "most popular" rating often. For this shower you and your friends can gather together your most popular and favorite recipes on cards or in notebooks, or collect several cookbooks to give the guest of honor.

Decorations. Pretty up your table with pastel and white colors. This is the time to use your nicest linen and most fragile china to lend daintiness to the occasion. Color combinations may be white used plentifully with pink, green or pale yellow. Fresh sprays of garden flowers, even in small quantity add charm.

Lynn Says:

The Score Card: Egg production has been upped 15 to 20 per cent to take care of national and allied needs, so there will be no shortage of this staple item.

Although there have been rumors of a tea shortage, tea will be rationed on a 50 per cent basis to assure plenty for summer, thirst-quenching use. There is enough tea in the country to last eight months, and in spite of the war, shipments are still coming in from India and Ceylon.

The War Production board has allotted enough tin to the pineapple industry for this year's pack and operations for production in Hawaii have been hiked to the maximum. It is expected that supplies will be somewhat curtailed because the government has reserved about 26 per cent of the pack for its own purchase.

This Week's Menu

- Bride's Shower
- *Salad Luncheon Plate or
- *Asparagus Loaf
- Tiny Hot Rolls Preserves
- *Ice Cream With Green Gage Plums
- *Recipes Given

A light, dainty luncheon platter can be served by way of refreshment. Accompany this with tiny hot rolls or muffins and no shower guests could desire more:

- *Salad Luncheon Plate. (For One Serving)
- ½ cup cottage cheese
- 2 deviled egg halves
- 2 to 3 slices of tomato
- 2 to 3 slices of cucumber
- 2 finger strips of sliced cheese
- 2 crabapple pickles

- Miscellaneous:
- 2 olives
- Slices of hard-cooked eggs
- Salad dressing
- Paprika

Heap cottage cheese in crisp lettuce cup arranged in center of chilled salad plate. Then around this center, arrange the remaining foods in neat, symmetrical fashion—the deviled eggs opposite the crabapple pickles, the overlapping slice of cucumber next to the apples and opposite the overlapping slices of tomato on the opposite side of the plate, bread triangles topped with a slice of egg, opposite each other, 2 slices of cheese opposite each of the 2 olives. Garnish the cottage cheese with paprika, and pass french dressing with the salad.

If you prefer to serve a hot dish in place of the salad plate, you'll like this asparagus loaf in this versatile combination with cheese and white sauce:

*Asparagus Loaf. (Serves 6)

- 2 eggs, slightly beaten
- 2 tablespoons butter
- 4 tablespoons flour
- 1 cup milk
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ½ teaspoon pepper
- 2 cups grated American cheese
- 1½ cups fine, soft bread crumbs
- 1 (1-pound) can asparagus tips
- Pimiento strips

Drain asparagus, reserve liquid. Line bottom of buttered loaf pan with half the asparagus tips. Place strips of pimiento between tips. Melt butter, blend in flour and mix well. Add milk and ¼ cup of the asparagus liquid and cook until thick, stirring constantly. Add salt, pepper and cheese and stir until cheese is melted. Fold in crumbs. Add gradually to eggs and fold in remaining asparagus tips, cut into one-inch pieces. Pour into loaf pan, place into a pan of hot water and bake 1 hour in a moderate (350-degree) oven. Serve on a platter surrounded with watercress and overlapping slices of tomatoes which have been marinated in french dressing.

Your figure-conscious young guests will appreciate the good news about ice cream. Recent tests show that ice cream has much less calories than other favorite desserts such as cake and pie, but nutritionally it is excellent.

*Ice Cream With Green Gage Plums (Serves 6)

- 1 quart of vanilla ice cream
- 1 No. 2½ can green gage plums

Drain syrup from green gage plums. Arrange big spoonfuls of vanilla ice cream in center of a large glass bowl. Garnish or surround with plums. Serve immediately, with a jug of syrup, drained from the can of plums.

Plums may be rolled in shredded almonds or finely chopped nuts, if desired.

Cleanliness First Rule For Farm Creamery

Lasting Care by Farmers Brings Profitable Results

By PROF W. H. E. REID, (Dairy Department, Missouri College of Agriculture.)

After all is said, the fact remains that the kind of cream a farmer produces depends entirely on the care it receives on the farm and the frequency with which it is delivered to the butter-maker.

Cleanliness is the first commandment in the decalogue of the cow-keeping farmer. Every precaution should be taken to prevent the entry of dust or other foreign matter into milk at the source. If surroundings are unclean when milking is done, dirt is likely to get into the milk. A clean barn and air free from dust are imperative.

Clipping the cow's flanks and udder is fine, but wiping with a clean, damp cloth helps a lot too in getting rid of loose hair, dust and dirt.

Scrap that old-fashioned, rusty, open-faced pail with the open seams that harbor dirt and bacteria. Get a modern, well-tinned pail, one with a minimum of exposed surface to catch dirt. Keep that pail clean!

Sanitation Comes First.

Always strain the milk before separating. Use a filter type of strainer with cotton filter pads. Don't use a pad more than once. Cheesecloth does an unsatisfactory job, and when used more than once is downright dangerous.

A well-kept mechanical separator will guard cream against contamination and yield the maximum amount of butterfat. Water separators should never be used.

Run milk through the separator immediately after milking. Be sure the separator is thoroughly clean. It can't really be clean unless it is washed after each use.

Just rinsing or flushing is not enough. All utensils should first be rinsed with cold water—that makes the whole job easier—and then washed in hot water with washing powder and a brush. Do not use soap, and never use a dishrag. Then flood all utensils with briskly boiling water, right out of the teakettle. Just "hot" water won't do the job. Do not wipe utensils. Invert and place on a rack or table in a sunny place.

Cooling Very Important.

Cooling is highly important. Germs and mold don't grow readily in cool cream. Cool cream immediately and keep it cool until it is sold. A simple cooling tank which provides a flow of cold water around the cream is the most satisfactory.

Even keeping the cream covered with a clean, wet burlap sack tucked under the lid handle will do a fair job.

Never mix warm cream with cooled cream. This not only causes a bitter flavor but also hastens deterioration.

It is also important to get cream to market quickly. The quicker you get the cream to market the less time there is for germs and mold to multiply. Deliver or ship cream at least twice a week in winter and three times in summer.

Tainted Dairy Products

Wild onions, garlic and other milk-tainting weeds cost American dairymen thousands of dollars loss each year. Those obnoxious pasture weeds impart undesirable flavors and odors to milk and cream. Tainted butter, milk and cream are strongly objected to by customers everywhere. No matter how good the quality otherwise, butter made from such cream is poor, offensive to the taste, and is almost unsalable.

Since wild onion is one of the first green things to appear in pasture, this particular perennial is especially bothersome in early grazing season. The best solution of the problem is to avoid pasturing milk cows on pastures with an abundance of onion in the spring and to handle the pasture so as to give grasses opportunity to grow by keeping cows off until grass has a good start. Heavy grass provides less opportunity for onions to get started.

If only weedy pasture is available the best plan to prevent weedy-flavored cream is to keep cows in milk off the weedy pasture for three to five hours before milking.

Fertilizer Suggestions In Case There Isn't Manure Available

Manure has no substitute as a general garden fertilizer. However, if the manure is not available, then it will be necessary to furnish plant nutrients in the form of chemical fertilizers. On soils of average fertility, complete fertilizers may be used safely at the rate of one ton per acre, if applied broadcast. If applied in the furrow, the applications should not be greater than 1,000 pounds per acre.

The slide-trombone dates from church orchestras of about 1620 or earlier. In a ceiling picture of the Renaissance period an angel is shown playing a slide-trombone, and in an early replica of Veronese's famous painting, "a Negro is represented playing on the same instrument."

TO ALL ELECTRIC CUSTOMERS

Conservation of materials and manpower make it necessary to change certain operating methods, including meter reading. Beginning in June,

METERS WILL BE READ EVERY 2 MONTHS
Instead of MONTHLY

This applies to residential meters and certain commercial meters. It does not apply to generally to industrial customers. The plan will be started on June 1, 1942, and the new scheduling of meter reading provides for one-half of the meters to be read in June, and the balance in July, thereafter bimonthly.
