WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON Consolidated Features—WNU Features.

NEW YORK. — After the first World war, the war department picked Brig. Gen. Hanson E. Ely, as he was then, to "read, mark,

'One Who Can learn and in-wardly di-Digest Failures gest'' our And Successes' war experience. This he did, as president of the army war college, and his documented and formulated findings of what our army learned in this short, preliminary bout have been worked into our military heritage and are now being used in the main event.

Major General Ely rates any casual, off-hand optimist when he says we're doing all right in this war, that we're get-ting plenty of fighting tools, and that officers and men have what it takes. One feels a bit offside if he gets too much this way or that, but in this corner we can't help being bucked up when anyone of General Ely's profession-al detachment says we're coming through. He is 75 years old, having retired from active duty in November, 1931, when he reached the statutory retirement age. He didn't "shoulder his crutch and tell how battles were won." He continued as an instructor in the war college in Washington, lecturing on "the psychology of the battlefield." And it is interesting to find an old - timer hoping instead of croaking, and telling how much better they used to do things in his day.

He is a huge man, supercharged with physical and mental energy, and hit his later years with a tremendous momentum. They call him "Ely of Cantigny." That goes back to 1918, when he commanded and led the 28th infantry when it captured Cantigny in one of our most brilliantly executed victories of the war. This and other such exploits brought him the Distinguished Service Cross, the Distinguished Service medal and five awards of the Croix de Guerre.

He was born in Independence, Iowa, and, after his graduation from West Point, taught military science at the University of Iowa. He was in the Philippines, fighting and hacking his way through the jungles with Gen. Frederick Funston, from 1898 to 1904, back again in 1907, to remain five years and make the first complete map of the Philippines. He is one of the nation's leading authorities on tactics and battle leadthorities on tactics and battle lead-ership—with a mind flexible enough to turn from tactics to the improvi-sations of strategy, if that is what is needed.

A LEAN and academic but tough bachelor of the science of education, in the army after winning scholastic laurels, is in command

Here's a Scientist of our new parachute Busy Conditioning force, poised

Our Sky Hoppers in Ireland for a leap to the mainland. He is Brig. Gen. William C. Lee, Colonel Lee until a few weeks ago, a native of North Carolina, born with an insatiable desire both to get and to impart information. He was an early special pleader and experimenter in parachute jumping, as well as mechanized preparedness in general.

The parachute army numbers about 8,000 men and one wonders how lads not long out of a classroom or a soft job on the ground, with no practice war for a workout, will take to this ultra-modern rough-and-tumble of sky and land.

General Lee figured all that. He formulated the science of physical, sensory emotional conditioning of human raw material, with a view to reducing nerve and reflex variables to a calculable minimum. To do this, he wanted to know more about communicating precise knowledge, so he knocked off from active service and, in 1936, after 19 years in the army, took his degree in the science of education, at the University of North Carolina. He works the theory of plastic endowment, the conditioning reflex, and the transmission of the social heritage into teaching rookies to take a dive, pull the rip-cord at the right split-second, unlimber their guns and score passing marks there-

General Lee was born in 1895 and entered the army from the University of North Carolina in 1917. An incurable bookworm, but always craving action, he wolfed all available army courses, including the officers course of the infantry school, the full table d'hote of the tank school, from which he was graduated in 1930, the general staff school, and then back to Chapel Hill for coaching in telling what he knew. He was appointed to his present command last March "to formulate tactical and training doctrine for airborne troops."

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

U. S.-Russ Pact Means 'Second Front' And Co-Operation for Lasting Peace; Yank Warships Join British Blockade; New Pipeline to Supply Oil for East

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

How the United States can help Greece, now starving and prostrate under Nazi rule was among things discussed when King George II of Greece conferred with President Roosevelt during the Greek monarch's flying visit to Washington. Above, the President is shown with King George on the White House lawn.

U. S.-RUSS PACT: 'Second Front'

In triphammer succession came three moves by the United States, Russia and Great Britain that promised momentous consequences for the prosecution of the war and the safeguarding of the peace after-

First, President Roosevelt announced that the United States and Russia had reached a "full understanding with regard to the urgent tasks of creating a second front in Europe in 1942." Second, British Foreign Minister Anthony Eden announced that Britain and Russia had signed a 20-year military and political alliance pledging peace and re-nouncing territorial greed. Third, the United States and Russia signed a mutual assistance agreement for prosecution of the war against the Axis, pledging increased lend-lease aid and post-war economic co-

Central figure in negotiating the three-way understanding was Soviet Foreign Commissar V. M. Molotov. The Russian statesman flew first to London and then hopped the Atlantic to Washington, where under the incognito of "Mr. Brown" he was a White House guest for a week. Not until Molotov was safely back in Moscow was the curtain of secrecy about his visit lifted.

Significance of this latest diplomatic coup for the United Nations is that war activities will be greatly speeded and the framework for a durable peace based on economic fair play provided.

OIL FOR EAST: New Pipeline

Acting to avert a threatened fuel oil famine in the East, the War Production board authorized immediate construction of a 24-inch pipe line from Longview, Texas, to the Salem, Ill., area.

The new pipeline will cut in half the distance Texas oil has to travel at present by rail and inland waterway to reach the Atlantic seaboard.

While it will have a capacity of 250,000 barrels a day, the pipeline will not supply enough oil to lift gasoline rationing restrictions in the East, WPB officials declared. They pointed out that shipments of oil and oil products to the East have not been meeting essential demands, despite rigid rationing and that stocks have fallen dangerously below safety levels.

RUSSIAN WAR: Nazis Speed Drive

Stepping up the tempo of their Russian offensive, Nazi armies and air forces pressed attacks on three major fronts. These included a push from Kharkov in the Ukraine, a drive against besieged Sevastopol in the Crimea and an air attack on Murmansk north of the Finnish sec-

With completion expected by December 1, the 550-mile pipeline will require 125,000 tons of finished

The size of the force directed at Sevastopol suggested that the Nazis were at last getting their summer campaign under way. More than ten German divisions numbering 150,000 men were reported striking at the strategic Black sea city. The importance of this city is that it opens a gateway to the rich Caucasus oil fields.

From Moscow came a cheering communique announcing that "despite the intensity and stubbornness of the attacks, the enemy failed to break the resistance of the Sevastopol defenders."

YANK WARSHIPS: Join British Fleet

As land and air warfare in Europe and Africa approached a critical stage, the Atlantic ocean battle theater crowded into the forefront with the announcement that a powerful task force of U. S. warships had joined the British home fleet.

Commanded by Rear Admiral Robert C. Giffen, the American naval force will help the British blockade German-controlled Europe, guard Allied convoys and hunt Axis sub-

News that the Yank sea reinforcement had joined the British became public in connection with a threeday visit to an English port by King George VI, who boarded a U. S. battleship and saw other warships of the task force.

With British seapower scattered in the Atlantic, the Mediterranean and Pacific oceans, the arrival of substantial help from the American navy in the Atlantic area had signavy in the Atlantic area had sig-nificant implications. Important among these was that the stronger United Nations naval squadron now would be able to keep closer watch on the powerful Nazi warships lurk-ing in Norwegian waters.

NAZI TERROR: In Czechoslovakia

In a reign of terror following the death of Reinhard ("The Hang-man") Heydrich at the hands of Czech patriots, Nazi Gestapo executioners slaughtered the entire male population of the Czech village of Liditz, banished its women and children to concentration camps and burned it to the ground.

The Axis-controlled Prague radio charged that the village had harbored Heydrich's killers. The town's population was estimated at 483, indicating that upward of 150 men were shot. Liditz was located a few miles west of Prague and not far from where "The Hangman" was fatally wounded by patriots while driving along a winding road.

ALEUTIAN ISLANDS: Jap Footholds?

While the navy department denied Axis claims that Japanese navy and army units had established footholds on the inhabited areas of the Aleutian island chain stretching 1,500 miles across the north Pacific from Alaska, further reports of the extent of the American air and naval victory at Midway island came from Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, com-mander in chief of the Pacific fleet.

Admiral Nimitz intimated that of a Jap invasion fleet of more than 30 vessels engaged in the battle, probably half were casualties. Besides heavy loss in warships and transports, the enemy's toll of manpower ran into thousands.

That the Tokyo government was preparing the Nipponese public for news of the sea reverse was indicated by reports that an official spokesman had warned a radio audience not to expect that "all battle news could always be favorable."

MISCELLANY:

Omaha: Rich, high quality beef steaks will probably disappear from American tables this fall, because of present price ceiling regulations, according to Guy Scudder, secretary of the National Live Stock Advisory council. Because feed prices are not regulated, cannot feed animals up to a good market quality and must throw them on the market after short feeding, Scudder said.

FOOD VS. ARMS: Anglo-U. S. Pool

The announcement by President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Winston Churchill of the establishment of two combined boards to integrate Anglo-American arms production and plan the most effective use of food resources of the United Nations had a two-fold significance:

1. It meant that the United National Actions the United National Actions the United National Action III meant that the United National II me

1. It meant that the United Na tions' war effort would be speeded up tremendously by quicker production of essential materials and a more efficient use of shipping

2. It meant that careful plans for the post-war world were being laid, for the organization of the vast resources of the United States carried into peace-time operations could help solve international problems of distribution, eliminate cutthroat competition and raise living standards. standards.

That both the arms production board and the food board would have the benefit of the best Anglo-American planning brains was evident from their personnel. Donald M. Nelson, war production chief-tain, and Oliver Lyttleton, British minister of production, comprised the production board. Claude R. Wickard, secretary of agriculture, was named American representative on the food board, working with the Hon. R. H. Brand, head of the British Food mission.

Reduction of American food surpluses might become necessary, President Roosevelt warned, as a means of alleviating hardships abroad. One of the objectives of the food board, he said, is to distribute foodstuffs on a fair basis among all United Nations.

BUMPER CROPS:

For U.S. Farms

Progress in the battle for all-out food production was reported by the department of agriculture which predicted that all previous records of United States farm production may be "considerably exceeded" if weather conditions remain favor-

The department said most crops were in better condition than at the corresponding time last year when the nation had one of the most boun-tiful harvests in its history.

A winter wheat production of 646,931,000 bushels was forecast. The department, likewise, predicted a spring wheat crop of 221,128,000 bushels. If harvested, a crop of this size once more would far exceed domestic requirements of about 700,000,000 bushels of wheat a year and add substantially to the nation's food stockpile for war purposes and peace-time planning.

WAR PRODUCTION: Ahead of Schedule

Donald M. Nelson told the world that America is "doing the impossible" with war production exceeding all estimates.

The chairman of the War Production board in an address before the graduating class of the University of Missouri confidently declared:

"This year we shall make 60,000 airplanes and by the end of the year

Impossible is accomplished.'

we shall be picking up speed for an even greater production. We have found our total production of war goods is higher than we had any reason to suppose it could be when blue prints were first prepared for war plants."

But it was of the post-war period of opportunity as well as the conflict itself that the round-faced production boss spoke.

"If this war is costing us a fearful price," he said, "it is also developing for us new technique and new abilities. It is placing at our disposal an industrial plant-a set of developed resources-that will be beyond price.

'Poverty is not inevitable any more. The sum total of the world's greatest possible output of goods, divided by the sum total of the world's inhabitants, no longer means a little less than enough for everybody."

USING CARBIDE RESIDUE FROM ACETYLENE BURNERS

HAVE a quantity of carbide residue from an acetylene welding outfit," writes a correspondent, "and have heard that I can make whitewash with it. How should I mix it?" Carbide residue is pure lime in a finely divided form, and can be used as a substitute for lime for many uses. As a whitewash it is excellent and can be substituted for hydrated lime in practically all of the formulas, using perhaps 50 per cent more. One excellent formula for weatherproof whitewash is made by mixing 60 pounds of carbide residue with water to form a of 1 pound of common salt and 1/2 pound of zinc sulphate in 1 gallon of boiling water, to which is added 1 gallon of skimmed milk. This solution is added to the carbide residue cream and stirred well.

Cracking Plaster

Question: In several houses that I have inspected lately, there are large cracks in the plaster walls or ceilings. How can I prevent this in building a new house with a cement block basement?

Answer: The usual cause of plaster cracking is settlement, which may be from the sinking of the foundations into the ground, or the shrinkage of the wood frame. Sinking of the foundation can be prevented by providing footings of a sufficient size to carry the weight. Settlement from the shrinkage of the timbers that might cause plaster cracking can be guarded against by the design of the framework. You can get information on this from the National Lumber Manufacturers association, Washington, D. C.

Smelly Containers

Question: I have received a very handsome kitchen utensil set, but cannot use the containers because of the odor picked up by sugar, coffee, etc. Washing does no good, nor baking soda in warm water, or airing. What can you suggest?

Answer: Try the effect of enclosing in each container a can of charcoal, such as is made for deodorizing refrigerators. These can be had at dime and hardware stores. Charcoal is an excellent absorber of odors, and should work well.

Burning Wood.

Question: We have steam heat. During the cool fall days, before the nace when heat is needed?

Answer: I do not advise it; for soot and other products of combustion might cause a serious clogging of the flues in the boiler and the chimney also. You would have to burn a great deal of wood to bring the water up to the boiling point. You will do much better to run a low coal fire.

Cleaning Drainboard Question: How can I clean the drainboard of my kitchen sink? The dirt seems to stick in the grooves. Answer: It may be that your drainboard is not acid-proof and that the enamel has been damaged by acidity or the incorrect use of a strong drain cleaner. Try bleaching with a mild solution of Javelle water or something similar, or apply a paste made of household ammonia and a scratchless cleaning powder, allowing it to stand for several hours.

Refinishing a Floor

Question: I have removed the varnish from my floor, but find that after using a bleach it remains spotted.

What should I do now? Answer: Your best move will be to have the floor gone over with an electric floor machine which will remove all the spotted wood and will expose new wood, which will be easy to refinish. The floor can then be refinished with any one of the new and effective floor seals, finished, if you desire, by waxing.

Leaded Glass Question: Can you give me the name of anything better than putty for leaded glass? The putty falls out so frequently. Answer: Plastic roofing cement stiffened with dry portland cement can be used. This is black. For a white cement, use a half-and-half mixture of linseed oil and spar varnish, with a little japan drier, made into a stiff paste by the addition of powdered whiting. Or use white basement flat? Answer: Summer heat will not do any great harm to books, but moisture will be most injurious. Storage of anything in a basement is never safe because the atmosphere is like ly to be damp.

Fruit Plate Enhances the Bride's First Dinner (See Recipes Below.)

Cooking for Two

Now that the honeymoon is over, the serious business of housekeeping begins. Most brides manage well with the general cleaning routines, cream. To this is added a solution but marketing and cooking presents some problems.

No bride need feel alarmed, however, about cooking or marketing for two, for it is often just as much of a problem to market and feed two people as it is a dozen. To help out this year's bride, I've formulated a few rules by which she can start guiding her culinary adventures.

First, the marketing. How, exactly does one use the food dollar? It's done by fifths: one-fifth of the money should go for purchasing fruits and vegetables; the next fifth for milk and cheese, and the bride should remember to provide a pint of milk for her brand new husband and herself, every day, in drinking or cooking. Another fifth goes for meat, eggs and fish, and still another fifth provides the bread and cereals. The last fifth is used for purchasing fats like butter or enriched margarine, sugars and accessories.

The above yardstick will help the bride plan her well-balanced meals. Purchasing fruits, vegetables, milk, butter and cheese will be simple if she follows the guide.

The wise bride will buy carefully, planning menus in advance so there will be no waste and all leftovers will be used in menus.

Before she markets, she makes a list, looks through the advertisements to decide where she can get the most for her money. After making sure her list is complete, she goes to the grocers to do her buying. In this way she does not have fire is started for the winter, will it to make too many trips and she be all right to burn wood in the fur- can save her own time and that of her grocer. She knows there is a premium on time in wartime.

> The bride also deplores waste, especially in buying meats. To aid her in making out the meat list for two, I have made out the following: Beef:

Lynn Says:

Here are the rules by which to substitute honey and corn syrup for sugar in your recipes.

In using honey, substitute 34 to 1 cup of honey for each cup of granulated sugar, but reduce the liquid in the recipe 1/4 cup for each cup of honey used.

In using corn syrup, substitute 2 cups of corn syrup for each cup of granulated sugar. Reduce the liquid in the recipe by one-fourth. If you wish to substitute corn syrup for only part of the sugar you may substitute 1 cup of corn syrup for each 1/2 cup of sugar and reduce your liquid one-eighth.

Because of the difference in flavors of substitute products, be prepared to have a slight change of flavor in the food you prepare with them. Honey cakes and cookies, if allowed to ripen, will have better

The dentist today is able to swab a "surface" anesthetic on the gum and in two or three minutes the needle containing the novocain may be inserted without any pain.

Dr. Smith advises the patient to allow the dentist to make an X-ray of the teeth before extraction since if the teeth are diseased the X-ray will show the exact position of the infection. Another suggestion is that the pa-

The different forms of genista have the common name of broom. They are spoken of as the brooms in Europe, while in America we hardly hear the name. They enjoy a sandy loam, but in every case the drainage must be good.

W. F. CHOLGER RAINBOW SERVICE JOHN LANSKY BUBLITZ BROS. HARRY ROLLIN FRED REMPERT

THE STORY SO FAR: Alan Slade has agreed to fly a "scientist" named Frayne to the Anawotto river to look for the breeding ground of the trumpeter swan. It is bleak country, and Alan suspects Frayne of having something up his sleeve, but Norland Airways needs the job. Slade and his partner, Cruger, have been having trouble competing with the larger companies, and Frayne has paid enough to enable Cruger to buy the plane they need. When he thought Norland was going to have to quit, Slade applied for overseas service with the army air corps. His application was rejected, but his disappointment has been lessened considerably by the brighter outlook for the business and by the fact that Lynn Morlock, the local doctor's daughter, has decided not to go to England with her Red Cross unit. Now he has gone with Lynn while she gives first aid treatment to an outcast flyer named Slim Tumstead, who has been hurt in a fight. They learn that Tumstead knows about Frayne and about the new Lockheed. It is a few minutes later, and they are talking about their plans for the future. Lynn feels that she must think first of her father's happiness.

Now continue with the story.

CHAPTER IV

"But you mustn't forget," Slade contended, "that you have your own life to live.

"That's what I'm trying to remember," was Lynn's vibrantvoiced reply. They came to a stop in front of the hospital steps. "Some day," he said with a wave of recklessness, "I'll make you see it my way.' If it sounded like a threat it brought no touch of concern to the hazel eyes searching his face. A smile even hovered about her lip

"You've got a harder job than that," she retorted, "if you're flying in to the Anawotto tomorrow." Then the smile disappeared. "By the way, I saw that ornithologist who's flying in with you. He was asking me what I knew about the country north of the Kasakana."

"Is he as screwy as he sounds?" asked Slade.

"He's far from screwy," was Lynn's slightly retarded answer. "He struck me as being cold and hard and shrewd. And I can't figure out what he's after. It rather makes me wish someone else was piloting him into that wilderness." Slade was able to laugh, as they shook hands. "Don't lose sleep over that," he proclaimed. Then he laughed again. 'I've flown some queer nuts into the North.'

Slade, hurrying down to the air harbor, could see his moored plane being warped in to the landing dock. On the dock itself he could make out Cassidy, of the Norland staff, and two strange figures, one more massive than the other. But what held his eye was the amount of duffel piled along the dock's edge.

As Cruger had told him, they were giving him a load all right. Even Cassidy's broad face broke into a smile as he handed him the scalesslip. For Slade's glance, at the moment, was directed toward the two men already interested in getting their equipment aboard. He resented the offhand way in which the bigger of the two strangers was clambering about his ship. The worn wolfskin coat that covered the wide shoulders of this stranger made him look shabby and subordinate.

When the pilot turned to his second passenger he experienced a sense of disappointment touched with shame. For there seemed nothing sinister about the straitened and scholarly figure confronting him. That figure even failed to look foolish. Slade saw a man considerably less aged than he had expected, a man with sloping and narrow shoulders and an abstracted gaze that looked out on the world from behind bifocal glasses.

Slade stepped closer.

"Quite a load you're giving me," he ventured as the man in the bifocal glasses continued to divide his attention between the duffel pile and a checklist in his hand.

The abstracted eyes lifted and regarded him for a moment of silence. It was the glasses more than anything else, Slade decided, that gave the stranger his look of delibera-

"Why does that interest you?" the stranger inquired. His tone was mild and without hostility. But the voice, low-toned and remote, seemed marked by an exotic precision of intonation. It persuaded Slade that he was neither an Englishman nor an American.

"This happens to be my ship," the pilot explained as he rested a fraternal hand on the sun-faded fuselage.

"Ah, then we shall see much of each other," said the other. His smile was friendly but abstracted. "I am Doctor Frayne. And this is my camp-mate, my good man Fri-day, Caspar Karnell."

No responsive word came from the big-bodied man in the wolfskin coat. He merely stood above the cabin hatch, his eyes expression-

"Caspar is not-shall I say?-voluble," observed the Doctor. A mild and forebearing smile wrinkled the scholarly face behind the glasses. "And that, I might also explain, is why we travel together." Slade, after an inspection of the bland emptiness of Karnell's face, nodded his understanding.

"Quite an arsenal you're taking in," he observed.

"Prospecting?" questioned Slade. "I am not interested in prospecting," was the deliberated answer. 'I am a naturalist."

As though in confirmation of that statement he lifted a case of mounted bird bodies up to his waiting companion. Then again the forced smile showed itself.

"It may impress you as a foolish profession. But for many years now I have given my time to the study of bird life."

Slade glanced down at the Mannlicher-Schoenauer, the two holstered Lugers, the pair of shotguns of different gauges and weight that rested between a scattering of cartridge

THE TASK COMMITTED TO THE DISCIPLES

LESSON TEXT-Matthew 28:16-20; Mark 16:14-20; Luke 24:49-53.
GOLDEN TEXT—Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature.— Mark 16:15.

Witnesses of the resurrectionthat privilege of the disciples carried with it the responsibility of declaring the good news of completed redemption to all the nations of the earth. In doing so they were des-tined to meet opposition and unbelief, to feel weariness and to know discouragement. So the Lord, before leaving this world for His present ministry at the Father's right hand (Mark 16:19; Heb. 7:25), prepared them by giving them a divine commission, which they accepted and acted upon with the assurance of His power and blessing. The lesson is summarized in the words, "Go ye" (Matt. 28:19); "They went forth" (Mark 16:20); "And He . . . blessed them" (Luke 24:50).

I. "Go Ye" (Matt. 28:16-20).

God's plans are never small plans. World evangelization, nothing less, was the goal He had in mind, and to which Christ commissioned this little group of humble folk who were His disciples. It was not only a great commission, but a daring one.

Back of such marching orders there must be authority and power -and Christ had them (v. 18)-all power and all authority. No need to measure or compare, for His is the ultimate and complete authority. This is the One who said, "Come unto me"; then, "Follow me, and I will make you fishers of men," and who now says, "Go." If we heed one command, should we not absolutely obey the others?

The message is His message, the gospel (Mark 16:15). It is the only message! The witnesses of Christ are not called to educate and civilize the heathen without winning them to Christ. To do so is only to prepare stronger and more skillful enemies of all that we count holy.

But a great program means nothing if it is not carried out; a great commission is only words unless it is accepted and obeyed. We read of the disciples that-

II. "They Went Forth" (Mark 16: 14-20).

The call and command are given in this passage. The power is made clear and somewhat in detail, but the significant thing is that they actually went forth to preach. The response of these early Chris-

Would that such a spirit had that the man in the bifocal glasses characterized the church through all the generations since then, for if it "An attractive ship," the scientist had, the commission would long observed. "It was my intention to since have been carried out. Dr. own her. But in that I was fore-R. A. Torrey has estimated that if everyone in a church of 2,000 were Slade smiled at the sharpened to win one soul a year, and each convert win one soul each year, the "You have to scramble for 'em, world would be evangelized in less nowadays," observed Cruger's bushthan 35 years.

But while on the whole the church has failed, there have been valiant souls all down through its history who have given themselves to the speaker's voice made Slade think of business of soul-winning. With them, gun pit smothered in tree as with these of the first century, the secret is ever "The Lord working with them." We read that as The brief northern night was at its darkest when Cassidy, newly He was leaving this earth and His made watchman for Norland Airdisciples, He lifted up His hands-

III. "And He . . . Blessed Them" (Luke 24:49-53).

God has always honored those who in faith have obeyed His command. The whole history of missionary endeavor bears eloquent testimony to that fact.

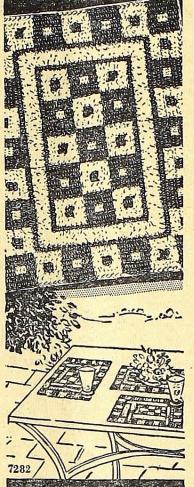

Sometimes we marvel at the success of a great movement, such as that founded by John Wesley. The answer is that God found a man, or a little group of men or women, willing to take Him at His word and step out in earnest purpose to obey Him. "For forty years John Wesley carried on his mission of canvassing for Christ 'as a parliamentary candidate canvasses for votes in his constituency in the strenuous three weeks before an election'" (Arnold's Commentary). Little wonder that with the blessing of Christ upon his work brings joy to many even to this day.

Note that the disciples who had been made sad and despondent by their parting with Christ at Calvary now went away in joy. The joy of the Lord is the strength of the Christian worker. It gives him abundant grace and power in the hour of need and makes him a fruitful servant.

A Warm Soul

I saw once lying side by side in a great workshop, two heads made of metal. The one was perfect; all the features of a noble, manly face came out clear and distinct in their lines of strength and beauty; in the other, scarcely a single feature could be recognized; it was all marred and spoiled. "The metal had been let grow a little too cool, sir," said the man who was showing it to me. I could not help thinking how true that was of many a form more precious than metal. - Canon Teignmouth

A tramp, coming down a country road in England, stopped a moment in meditation before a sign on which was written: "George and the Dragon." He then entered the tavern to which the sign was affixed and asked for the land-

"Noble lady," he began, "have you a meal and some old clothes to spare for a poor, hungry man?' "Not for the likes of you. Now go!" she said sternly. Then, see-

Our Object Now

Our object now, as then, is to vindicate the principles of peace and justice in the life of the world as against selfish and autocratic power, and to set up among the really free and self-governed peoples of the world such a concert of purposes and of action as will henceforth insure the observance of those principles.-Woodrow Wil-

The War isn't fought in Fox Holes alone

T'S fought in the mind. It's fought with a will to win. It's fought with a belief in a cause worth dying for.

That will, that belief, is known as morale.

Our enemies have had years of indoctrination. They have been conditioned to believe themselves part of a "new order" . . . to which the contribution of their lives is small but all-important. They believe themselves cogs in a vast machine.

Our soldiers do not fight that way-because they do not live that way. Theirs is the belief in the sanctity of the individual.

To maintain their morale in the American way, the USO has devoted all its time and energy since practically the beginning of conscription.

It has done this by staffing and maintaining club houses near all training camps and in our outlying possessions from Alaska to the Caribbean.

Today its work is far greater than ever, its need for funds to carry on more than doubled.

The USO needs your help more than ever before!

High government and military officials-including General MacArthur-have praised the work done by the USO and recognized its importance in the war

But it needs recognition from you-recognition in the way of dollars and cents. For the six national agencies which comprise the USO are publicly sup-

EVERY kind of cotton goods from dainty chintz to bold plaid gingham is being used for bedspreads. Most of these materials are about 36 inches wide and you will need 111/2 yards for a bed 54 inches wide. See diagrams for cutting dimensions.

Cut the center portions first; then the 18-inch side sections for the pillow cover; then the 10-inch strips for the pillow cover and spread. This leaves a 26-inch-wide strip for the side ruffles of the spread. If you make your own seam welting, cover cord with bias strips basted, as at A, and stitched with the cording foot, as at B.

Iosco Farmers Would Pool Transportation

The Josco County U. S. D. A. War Board received word this week that every effort should be employed to inform rural people that a transpor-AB R H O A E tation shortage is absolutely sure to come and may be one of our most 5 1 2 2 0 0 serious problems if the "All-Out War 5 0 1 2 0 0 Production Program" is to move 0 along in a smooth orderly way.

The "Food For Freedom" program and the attainment of agricultural production goals will be meaningless if we do not have the transportation available to take these vital farm products off the farm to processing, storage and consumption centers. The rubber shortage, the limited supply of new cars and trucks, the scarcity of repair parts, and the possibility of gasoline rationing all combine to make the coming transporation shortage

We read in the newspapers nearly every day that one-half of the world's rubber output has been used in our own country and now to realize that more than 90% of the rubber supply is cut off makes the problem of transmendrous gap.

Let's not wait until all present transportation faciltities are exhausted but rather let us resolve today to conserve our farm transportation facilities in every way possible. The "Pooling" of transportation is just another name for neighborly cooperation to save mileage upon motors and tires. This will also save gas and expense and will make cars and trucks last longer by having one trip serve several errands. While vehicles and tires last, "Pooling" will simply be a good neighborly war act; however, later it may become a necessity. Neighborhood War Clubs were recently organized in each rural township. Perhaps these war club leaders will sooner or later will be asked to supersooner or later will be asked to supervise their neighborhood transportations. so let's "jump the gun" and with the rating of Aviation Metalask our neighbors if we can not bring smith, third class, has reported for something from town which they need training at the U. S. Naval Training something from town which they need. These neighborly cooperations should not only include trips to the grocery but also to town with the cream, to the feed mill, to church, and even to the school meeting. A car or truck with four tires is much more conven-ient than one with only two or three, so let's all help conserve the four or five we now have.

The President has asked that we help collect old rubber and other scrap—there is no better time than now to do it. Let's cover the gas stations of Iosco county with our old scrap rubber and old tires! These same stations join the County U. S. D. A. War board in encouraging you to: firstcheck your car or truck motor frequently, make the repairs while it is -save the anti-freeze for next winter; fourth-check tire pressure frequently; fifth-rotate the tires and home jobs just as efficient as the truck, car or tractor.
