TAWAS CITY

TAWAS CITY WINS FROM ROADSIDE ZOO

McCoy Allows Visitors One Hit During Game

Bill McCoy, pitching no-hit ball for eight and two-thirds innings and slugging out a double in his own behalf, Sunday gave Tawas City their second league win. The only Roadside Zoo hit came after two were out in the ninth, with two strikes on the batter, E. Wilczek, who hit a slow roller down the third base line, beating Peterson's throw by half a step. Bill McCoy zipped the third strike past fourteen enemy batters while Salois and Jasura struck out six.

Tawas City started punishing Roadside Zoo right from the start, scoring a run in the first inning on Peterson's single, Katterman's grounder to the first baseman, and Prescott's long single. They added three more in the fourth, with one out, Rollin and Gackstetter singled, the bases were loaded when Whyte muffed a Franks' grounder, Thornton then singled scoring Rollin, Wickert was safe at first on a fielders choice, Gackstetter being forced at the plate. Peterson then grounded out pitcher to first, ending the inning. Tawas added another tally in the eighth inning when Gackstetter tripled and scored on an error by the pitcher.

Tawas City rapped out nine hits with Gackstetter and Prescott setting the pace with two each. Gackstetter singled and tripled, keeping his batting average well above the .400 mark. Prescott's hits were both singles.

Three good games are in store for the local fans over the July 4th weekend at the Tawas City Athletic Field, with Tawas City playing a single game with the Bay City Police on Saturday, July 4, and a double header with Pinconning on Sunday, July 5.

Saturday's game with the Bay City Police should prove interesting as the Police, have a strong team and have won several games from top ranking teams in Saginaw Valley. The game begins at 2:30 sharp.

Sunday, July 5, Pinconning, last years NEM champs, will play Tawas in a double-header. Both games are official league games, the first game will begin at 1:30 sharp. Let's all come, fans and see three exciting games this weekend.

Our Boy Scout Troop

Tawas City Troop No. 73, B. S. A., had its first meeting of the new fiscal year last evening. The committee and members of the Troop feel that they have had a successful year and most of the members are enthusiastic about the year ahead.

Word was recently received from the Salvage Chairman of the State that there is no further paper shortage in Michigan, so that source of help in the defense effort will be discontinued with the exception of the gathering of newspapers. That class of paper is still needed and the scouts will soon have a pickup of newspapers and will be glad to take any metal or rubber scrap that residents of Tawas City would like taken off their hands.

The troop is under the same sponsorship, the Masonic Order, and the same Troop Committee and Scoutmaster. However, Harold Peterson, acting forest ranger, has been added as an assistant scoutmaster.

There is still room for more boys who would like to join the Scouts. The Defense Program and would like to have as many boys in that class of work as possible.

DeGrow-Crawford

Miss Audrienne DeGrow, of Bay City, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. DeGrow, of East Tawas became the bride of Hugh Maurice Crawford, of Bay City, Saturday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents with Rev. E. C. Stringer, pastor of the Methodist church, officiating.

The ceremony, which was observed by members of the immediate families, was held before a fireplace decorated with white peonies and other summer flowers and ferns.

The bride wore an aqua silk two piece dress of street length, accented with lace on collar and cuffs, pleated skirt and shoulder corsage of gardenias. Her accessories were white.

Her sister, Miss Beverly DeGrow, of Bay City, her only attendant, wore a rust tan silk suit with wheat tan accessories. James Vorhes, Jr., of Pontiac, cousin of the groom, acted as best man.

Immediately after the wedding service a reception was held at the Barnes Hotel, Tawas City, for 100 guests. The center piece for the bridal table was a bowl of white carnations and snapdragons and white tapers.

Following a short wedding trip through Northern Michigan they will make their home at 310 Trumbull street, Bay City.

Out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. James Vorhes, Sr., and Jeanne, of Pontiac. Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Beach, of Gagetown; Mrs. Susan Crawford and Vera, of Owendale; Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Smith and Delores, Miss Virginia Cooner, Mrs. Frank Hachtel, of Flint; Miss Eunice Crawford, Miss Esther Schluckbier, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Wellock, Mr. and Mrs. Max Cochran and Mr. and Mrs. Elmer W. Lange, of Bay City.

Byler-Popoli

Thirty relatives and friends gathered at the home of Rev. and Mrs. Wm. Byler, of Curtisville, Saturday, June 27, for the wedding of their daughter, Dorothy, to Mickey Popoli, of Cleveland, Ohio.

The house was beautifully decorated with spring blossoms and pink and white peonies, an evergreen, arch dotted with pink roses formed a background for the ceremony which was performed by the bride's father. The bride was beautiful in white satin with pearl necklace and embroidered veil which formed a train. She carried a bouquet of white lilies and baby mums. Arbutus Bell, as bridesmaid, wore blue marquisette, and Joy Bills wore pink silk. A cousin of the bride and Howard McMullen attended the groom.

The young couple left for Cleveland Monday where they will make their home while Mr. Popoli finishes his course of study for the ministry.

Park Dock Dedication Ceremonies Sunday

STATE HIGHWAY COMMISSIONER WILL SPEAK

Civilian Defense Parade To be Feature of Event

G. Donald Kennedy, state highway commissioner, will deliver the dedication address at the State Dock extension dedication ceremonies which will be held next Sunday afternoon at East Tawas. The new $50,000.00 extension has just been completed and will be a valuable asset to the Tawas bay region.

In addition to State Highway Commissioner Kennedy, others who will speak on the program are John T. Rogers, assistant in charge of the State Park division, who will represent the Department of Conservation; Ernest Leaf, former East Tawas mayor, and Hon. Miles Callaghan, former state senator. The last two named gentlemen were instrumental in securing the dock extension.

Plans are being made for a parade. This will include the several Civilian Defense units of the county, members of the Coast Guard, units from Camp Skeel, Boy Scout Troops and Girl Scout organizations. The committee in charge have secured the Harrisville High school Band, with John Frechette as director for the occasion. Arthur Dillon and W. A. DeGrow have been named marshals of the day and will organize the parade at 2:30 at the athletic field.

Constructed in 1929, the original dock was 300 feet long. The new portion extends 262 feet further out, and at an angle of 45 degrees another 262 feet. It was built by the Conservation Department and Work Progress Administration, with East Tawas cooperating, and required about two years in its construction.

With 12 to 15 feet of water, the dock will provide shelter for many types of boats. Many boat owners are now availing themselves of this splendid harbor.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Fresh Nazi Offensive Forces Red Army To Yield Key Ground Back of Kharkov; Rommel Drive Perils All Middle East; U. S. Names Leader for European Zone

(EDITOR'S NOTE—When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of the news analyst and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

The strategic importance of the Aleutian islands, off Southwest Alaska, is indicated by the above map. From Kiska, near the western end of the chain, to Tokyo the distance is less than 2,000 miles. Dutch Harbor lies 2,400 miles northwest of San Francisco. Jap landings in the fog-blanketed Aleutians have focused America's attention on that area.

RUSSIAN WAR: Nazis Pay Dearly

Marshal Timoshenko's Red army had sustained blow after blow on the Kharkov front as General von Bock's Nazi hordes tried a breakthrough to swing around Rostov, gateway to the Caucasus oil fields. Stubbornly resisting German forces numerically and mechanically superior to them, the Russians had been compelled to fall back to new lines. Here they had withstood heavy attacks of tanks, infantry and planes.

A Russian communique acknowledged the loss of the railway junction city of Kupyansk, 60 miles southeast of Kharkov.

The Reds were following a strategy that had served them well in last year's bloody campaigns—of fighting fiercely until forced to fall back, then withdrawing slowly to strongly prepared positions. Meanwhile they were taking an enormous toll in Nazi dead and slowing down Hitler's timetable.

Meanwhile, Britain brought additional grief to the Nazis with a world record raid on the German port city of Bremen. More than 1,000 planes raided Bremen, leaving it in flames. A British communique reported the loss of 52 planes.

TAX BILL: Biggest on Record

The average income taxpayer faced the prospect of paying about twice as much as he is now paying when the new federal revenue bill becomes operative.

As approved by the house ways and means committee, the new bill would provide a gross revenue estimated at $5,924,000,000—the largest tax ever collected in United States history. At that, it was a billion and a half short of the treasury department's original request for new levies to help finance war outlays.

Surprising to many fiscal experts was the house committee's action in striking out a provision making it mandatory for husbands and wives to file joint income tax returns.

The average wage-earner would be affected three ways under the new tax measure. The bill provides a normal income rate increase of from 4 to 6 per cent; exemptions for single men would be reduced from $750 to $500 and for married men from $1,500 to $1,200; surtaxes would be increased from 6 to 12 per cent on the first $1,000 of net taxable income.

U. S. INCOME: To Hit 117 Billion

Marriner S. Eccles, chairman of the Federal Reserve board told the nation that a new all-time record of 117 billion dollars for the annual national income would be reached during the war years.

Mr. Eccles warned Americans that this tremendous spending power will be far in excess of the consumer goods available to the buying public. Strict curtailment of all but necessary purchases, greater personal savings and steady buying of government war bonds, he said, will stop inflation.

The 1942 national income will be about 110 billion dollars, he said in a radio address. This will be about 30 billion more than it was in 1939.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

PRAGUE: The Nazi information service announced that 26 more Czechs had been shot in reprisal for the killing of Reinhard ("The Hangman") Heydrich.

WASHINGTON: The house ways and means committee voted to direct the post office department to increase third class mail rates to the point where the service pays for itself.

EUROPEAN FRONT: U. S. Takes Steps

A further step in the program to make the fighting efforts of the United States and Britain more effective and to pave the way for the second front was taken when the war department announced the establishment of a "European theater of operations for United States forces."

Director of this European theater was Maj. Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, recently assistant chief of staff of the war department general staff, who had already arrived in London when the announcement of his appointment was made.

Laconic was the statement issued by the new commanding general in which he said that "formal establishment of a European theater is a logical step in co-ordinating the efforts of Great Britain and the United States."

EGYPT: Tank Steeplechase

Sidi Barrani had fallen and Salum had been abandoned as the British strove by fierce rearguard actions to slow down the rush of Marshal Rommel's victory-flashed tank armies in engagements on which the fate of Egypt and Suez depended.

The serious plight of the British had been apparent following the surprise surrender of Tobruk in nearby Libya. Foxy General Rommel lost no time in following up his advantage by slicing into Egypt.

General Ritchie's battered forces had not made a stand at the Egyptian border because of the danger of encirclement, but had withdrawn to Mersa Matruh, 157 miles east of the Libyan frontier.

The British had been in possession of Sidi Barrani since December 11, 1940, when they drove out Italian troops which had occupied the town less than three months before and then launched a drive which swept 400 miles across the Libyan desert.

FAMILY MEN: Deferred by Draft

The departure of many a married draft inductee for training camp was halted when President Roosevelt signed legislation authorizing deferment of family men until the supply of single men is exhausted. This marked the first time in American military history that the policy of so preserving established families had been fixed by law.

Draft headquarters announced that married men with children would be the last to be called into service, but emphasized that they could count on no permanent deferment. The deferment clause applied only to men married before December 8, 1941.

Financial assistance to dependents of service men was provided in the measure, with the government furnishing the bulk of the monthly allowance check and the service men the balance. The allotments would go to army men up to and including the grade of line sergeants and navy men including third class petty officers.

Allowances include $50 a month for a childless wife of a service man, $62 for a wife with one child and $72 for a wife with two children.

ROME: Improvement in the health of Pope Pius was reported in a dispatch by the Vatican City press. Although the pope is giving no audiences, he is receiving his immediate collaborators, the dispatch disclosed. Doctors attending the pontiff were hopeful he could go to St. Peter's on the eve of St. Peter's day for the traditional visit to the apostle's tomb.

SUBMARINE WAR: Caribbean Casualties

While President Roosevelt and Prime Minister Churchill labored over the problem of finding ships with which to open and support a supreme front against the Axis, disquieting news of the increasing menace of enemy submarines in American waters was made public.

Soon after the navy had announced that a convoy system was protecting shipping along the Atlantic coast, came a communique disclosing that Axis subs had sunk 13 ships in the Caribbean in a 12-day period. The shift in Axis U-boat tactics from our immediate shores to the Caribbean sea lanes presented new problems to an already over-worked navy.

That these problems would receive prompt attention was intimated when it was announced that the navy had purchased two big airports in Miami, Fla. Establishment of air bases here would provide the navy with effective operating points from which to strike at submarines in southern waters.

CONSUMER SERVICE: OPA Takes Hand

Prices for shoe-shines and half-soles, for funerals, pants-pressing and permanent waving reverted to the level existing on March 1, when the Office of Price Administration established fixed ceilings for consumer services.

The new order affecting a million establishments doing a five billion dollar a year business, stabilized costs of important personal service items for every American citizen. It was a further step in the OPA's campaign to prevent inflation and runaway prices.

For example, the laundry that charged 12 cents for a shirt in March and raised the rate to 15 cents in April or June, had to cut its figure back to 12 cents on July 1.

Among the most common family budget items covered by the regulations were shoe repairing and shining; pressing, altering and repair of clothing; hat cleaning; laundry; electrical repairing; food locker service and rental; cleaning and dyeing; film developing and printing; watch and clock repairing; and undertaker's services.

ARGENTINA: 'Neutrality's End?'

While Argentina's policy of "prudent neutrality" had floundered with the sinking by a Nazi submarine of the freighter Rio Tercero, President Roberto M. Ortiz, supporter of President Roosevelt's policies, formally submitted his resignation. Inactive for nearly two years because of near-blindness, Ortiz placed full responsibility for his country's administration upon Acting President Ramon S. Castillo, father of the "prudent neutrality" policy in dealing with the Axis.

The sinking of the Rio Tercero fanned a flame of popular resentment against Germany, for this was the third Argentine ship attacked and the second sunk in recent months. This resentment failed to calm down even when the government announced it had dispatched an "energetic" note of protest to Berlin. Sterner measures were demanded not only by the public but by the chamber of deputies.

AUSTRALIA: 100 New Airdromes

Steady progress in the task of strengthening Australia's defenses against Japanese invasion and providing offensive springboards for an eventual United Nations assault on Nippon was reported by Brig. Gen. Hugh Casey of the U. S. engineers corps.

At least 100 airdromes have been completed in the last few months, he said. In addition, war construction work embracing 1,500 major and minor projects is "well in hand" despite a scarcity of labor, plants and machinery.

General Casey reported that one airdrome costing $9,600,000 had been completed in 71 days.

ARMY BUDGET: 43 Billion for War

With grave news from the fighting fronts in Russia and the Middle East disturbing the nation, the house of representatives approved a bill appropriating nearly 43 billion dollars for the army for the next fiscal year.

This new army bill exceeds by more than a billion dollars the entire cost of World War I. It brings to more than 129 billion dollars the total provided for the army and navy since Pearl Harbor.

First Under-Water Photos of Life-Saving

A demonstration of life-saving is shown above, photographed for the first time under water, as staged by members of Boston chapter of the Red Cross. At left, three swimmers enact role of "victim," untrained rescuer and trained rescuer. Victim grabs would-be rescuer about neck; would-be rescuer gets panicky, grabs victim. Trained rescuer drops down on both and breaks their grips, prying both apart as shown in first and second photos. Right: Rescuer flexes knees for spring that will shoot both to surface.

Keep 'Em Loaded and Keep 'Em Flying

At an army air depot somewhere in the western part of the U. S., huge transport planes, "the flying box-cars" of the army air force, ship freight on wings to foreign battle fronts. At left the loading crew is transferring freight to waiting "flying box car." Inset: Poised for flight are these air freight planes, to any air field in case of an emergency call.

War Heroes—and Symbol of Their Purpose

Thirteen British and American war heroes visit Independence hall, Philadelphia, Pa., after being given a rousing welcome in New York. They are shown grouped around the Liberty Bell—the bell which is the symbol of that freedom in whose cause they performed their heroic deeds. The heroes then went to Washington to visit President Roosevelt.

Plead for Lives

Interrupted Day Dream

"I've never met a writer who can describe in words the sound of a bomb. It screams through the air and then it lands, and the sound is like nothing on earth. There were a lot of bombs. They landed over in the direction of my cottage!"

"I ran to my Spitfire. The boys turned the motor over. I'd never done any actual night fighting. What of it? There were Jerries up there, and for the moment I was on my own."

"It was a moonlight night. A bomb dropped on the airfield. I ran and fell into a ditch to get away from bomb fragments. We take cover when bombs fall. Only fools stick their chins up to get hit. I lay in the ditch with my ground crew, and the motor of my Spitfire was warming up all by itself. A Jerry bomber flew so low I could see its markings."

"I ran to the Spit and hopped in. I was off in a minute. I wasn't thinking this time. I was in a panic. Had any of those bombs hit my cottage?"

"Well, if you're a father you'll know how I felt. I followed that Jerry airplane. I let the Spitfire out, even though my machine was only half warmed up. I was full out and mad, which is a mistake."

"Just then, without warning, an airplane loomed ahead and without thinking I pressed the button and three thousand bullets hit that Jerry. I couldn't bank or slip away. I was on top of him. I pulled the stick back and just cleared him. The oil from his exploding plane covered my face and half filled my cockpit."

Hitting the Bull's Eye.
"He went down in flames and I followed him down. For the first time since war began I felt satisfaction that I'd killed someone who had been trying to kill my people."

Like Fighting in the Ring.
Malan has had about 200 fights. Each one has been different. Fighting in the air refuses to conform to a pattern. It's like fighting in the ring: A left jab; a right cross; your right hand held high—these are fundamentals you learn. But you can't learn how to guard against the unexpected blow.

In air fighting, pilots must likewise learn the fundamentals of attack and defense, but then a fight starts and it never goes according to plan. A good flier constantly thinks of new stunts.

Messerschmitt Flies Over U. S.

The first German Messerschmitt plane ever to fly in the U. S. took part in the Air Cavalcade—a joint army force and treasury department tour to boost sale of war bonds. The itinerary included 18 cities. The plane (shown above) was shot down over England. Included in the Cavalcade was a British Spitfire, famous fighter plane.

WAR ON ALL FRONTS
A SERIES OF SPECIAL ARTICLES BY THE LEADING WAR CORRESPONDENTS

Greatest Air Fighter
By Quentin Reynolds

(WNU Feature—Through special arrangement with Colliers Weekly)

ADOLPH MALAN, a South African flier in the British air force, is the greatest fighting pilot this war or perhaps any war has produced. He has more than 50 victories over German airplanes to his credit, and he is the idol of the RAF. Everybody calls him "The Sailor."

His cleverness in the air consists of always outguessing his opponents. Here's the way he does it, in his own words:

"When I'm up there and going into a fight, I say to myself: 'What does that guy think I'm going to do? What is the routine thing, the ordinary thing?' Then I answer that and try something else."

"In air warfare, you've got to think. You can't let your emotions rule you or you'll get killed very quickly."

"Sometimes you can't help it. A few months ago I was loafing around our airfield. I was king of the world. I was passing out cigars. That's right—you've guessed it! I'd been married a year and I'd just become a father. It was a boy."

"The christening was set for the next week, and Winston Churchill was going to be my boy's godfather. None of the thrills you get in the air are anything compared to the kick you get when the nurse comes and says: 'It's a boy!' Of course, only the fathers of boys will understand this. And then the man I admire above all others was to be my boy's godfather!"

"It was a nice night and my wife and boy were in a cottage only a few miles from the airfield. I looked over that way and could only think that I'd have to leave soon to attend the christening. I was sitting there making plans. I was wondering whether I'd make him a sailor or a pilot. I've been both and like both trades. Or maybe politics? A member of parliament and then, who knows, a cabinet minister, and after—"

Interrupted Day Dream

"I've never met a writer who can describe in words the sound of a bomb. It screams through the air and then it lands, and the sound is like nothing on earth. There were a lot of bombs. They landed over in the direction of my cottage!"

"I ran to my Spitfire. The boys turned the motor over. I'd never done any actual night fighting. What of it? There were Jerries up there, and for the moment I was on my own."

"It was a moonlight night. A bomb dropped on the airfield. I ran and fell into a ditch to get away from bomb fragments. We take cover when bombs fall. Only fools stick their chins up to get hit. I lay in the ditch with my ground crew, and the motor of my Spitfire was warming up all by itself. A Jerry bomber flew so low I could see its markings."

"I ran to the Spit and hopped in. I was off in a minute. I wasn't thinking this time. I was in a panic. Had any of those bombs hit my cottage?"

"Well, if you're a father you'll know how I felt. I followed that Jerry airplane. I let the Spitfire out, even though my machine was only half warmed up. I was full out and mad, which is a mistake."

"Just then, without warning, an airplane loomed ahead and without thinking I pressed the button and three thousand bullets hit that Jerry. I couldn't bank or slip away. I was on top of him. I pulled the stick back and just cleared him. The oil from his exploding plane covered my face and half filled my cockpit."

Hitting the Bull's Eye.
"He went down in flames and I followed him down. For the first time since war began I felt satisfaction that I'd killed someone who had been trying to kill my people."

"Then I cooled off. I was a fighting pilot again. I looked for more. I found one. I took my time now, and went to work on him. I saw him at 8,000 feet, a fat Junkers 88. I waited until I was within 150 yards and gave it to him. He exploded in midair and broke in a thousand pieces and I was glad!"

Arms and Girls: Gate crashers are common in New York. Every large party, and sometimes smaller ones, bring them out in such numbers that there must be careful checking of invitations as well as guards. In the past, however, the crashers usually have been all male. There has been a change lately. Those who give parties for service men—some of them at least—have discovered the female gate crasher. Maybe it's "something about a soldier" that has upset party conservatism, speaking socially, of course.

Matrimony: "There are some churches in the East where, if you wish to get married, it costs money before you start," reports one of this department's able scouts. "For example, the parents of a bride of a few days ago, being identified with a certain suburban community, naturally expected the ceremony to take place in the local church of their denomination. To their great surprise, they were informed that it would cost $20 'to open the church.' Not being persons of great means, they telephoned the rector of a church in a near-by town. He informed them that the wedding would be welcome and most certainly there would be no charge for 'opening the church' since it was open the entire day. So the wedding took place there to the satisfaction of all concerned and the financial benefit of the rector who co-operated."

Opportunity: Charles Martin tells of the Canadian prison camp for German and Italian soldiers. The prisoners needed exercise so he decided to teach them lacrosse. Having lined the Germans up on one side and the Italians on the other, he gave each player a lacrosse stick. Then he started to explain the rules of the game. Neither the Germans nor the Italians seemed to be much interested until he said, "Sometimes the players get hurt. A man goes for the ball, misses and hits his opponent on the head. Now I'll get a ball and we'll—"
 "Never mind the ball!" shouted an Italian brandishing his stick and glaring at the Nazi he'd picked out. "Let's start the game right now."

Prepared: Sou Chann is one Chinese restaurant man who is not worrying because war has stopped food imports from China. Out on Long Island he has a 38-acre farm on which seven of his fellow countrymen work all the year around. There he raises snow peas, which are eaten pod and all, bok ton, mustard greens, winter melons and other Oriental vegetables. In summer, the regular force is supplemented by as many assistants as can be found. Usually they are college women who want to work in the open air to earn money for the next semester. They are paid by the hour. He doesn't raise bamboo shoots or water chestnuts, the Long Island climate not being suitable. But those items are now being grown in Louisiana.

Roadster Rolls on Same Tires 10 Years
 MIDLAND, OHIO.—Tire and gasoline rationing didn't stop C. M. Vickers from buying the 28th set of new auto tags.
 The roadster, purchased in 1915 for $440, is running on tires ten years old—and the treads still are in excellent condition. Vickers has never driven the car more than 50 miles from home.

Summer Vacations—1942 Style As Gas Rationing Clamps Down

Faced with wartime gas and tire rations, vacation-minded America this year is fashioning a new vacation pattern. Gaieties popular at the turn of the century will be the order of the day for many of the 60 million Americans who annually spend about 7 billion dollars on vacation trips. Here are some of the nation's 1942 vacation styles.

Shown above is one happy solution to gasoline rations—sightseeing in the tradition of the Mauve decade. Yes, the horse and buggy days are just around the corner.

Meanwhile, as good Americans, many summer vacationists may have to say, "After you, soldier," while Uncle Sam's armed forces go Pullman. For example, in the period from December 7, 1941, through April, 1942, nearly 2,000,000 fighting men were transported in Pullman cars to all sections of the country.

Happily for all concerned, there are no Axis submarines in these blue waters. So, with old-time abandon we take to sailing.

"Ham and," cooked in this fashion, will make up many a vacation menu this year. Doesn't it remind you of the "good old days"?

If you can't go cruising on a luxury liner, the river steamboats will do.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson for July 5

GOD THE CREATOR

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 1:1-5, 24-31. 2:1. GOLDEN TEXT—In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth.—Genesis 1:1.

What is to become of this world? That is the question on the mind and lips of everyone as they see all mankind engaged in a struggle which bids fair to wipe out everything called civilization.

In such a time it is good to remind ourselves that man did not make this world, nor is it the product of natural forces. God made it.

God, who is eternal, infinite, knowing all from the beginning, is not moved by the impulses of the moment nor staggered by the catastrophes of a day. He made the world. He made man. He had a plan for them, and still has a plan which in due season He will work out for His own glory.

I. God Made the Heavens and Earth (vv. 1-5, 24-25).

The plain biblical account of creation—"In the beginning God"—stands as a dignified, satisfactory, intelligent explanation of the origin of things, and in bold contrast to the confusing and almost unbelievable theories of men.

The best of scientists admit that they know nothing of the origin of things, and some even confess that they never will know. The answer to the query with which every human philosophy opens is the affirmation with which the divine account in Genesis opens—"In the beginning God."

Space forbids full discussion of the account of creation, but a study of it will reveal its beautiful order, symmetry, and completeness. Science, when it gets beyond theories to facts, finds them confirmed by Scripture. Please do not reverse that and speak of science confirming Scripture. If my watch does not agree with the time of the stars, it is the watch that must be reset.

II. God Made Man in His Own Image (vv. 26-30).

Although man, under the control of Satan, does not give much ground for the observation, it is nevertheless true that he was made in the likeness and image of God. Because that is true, we never give up hope for him. That image, no matter how deeply defaced by sin, still may be touched by redeeming grace and restored to fellowship with God.

The likeness and image of God in man undoubtedly refers to a moral and spiritual likeness. Man is a living soul with intelligence, feeling, and will power. He is a moral being, knowing the difference between right and wrong. He is a self-conscious, personal being.

To man God gave dominion over the earth and all its potential powers. Sometimes one has been hopeful that man was making good progress in the development of the earth's resources for his own good and the glory of God. But one is almost tempted to conclude now that he has used this great God-given opportunity only for destruction and death. Only a revival of real Christianity can bring him back to his senses. Let us pray and work for it.

Observe that the family was established as the center of man's life on earth, as God gave him a "help meet unto him." Woman was taken "out of man's head that she should rule over him; nor out of his feet to be trampled upon; but out of his side to be equal with him, under his arm to be protected by him, and near his heart to be loved by him" (Matthew Henry).

The decay of family life and the substitution of social or civic units as the basis of life have led to disastrous results. Not only do we need a revival of religion, we also need a revival of the home life of the nation.

III. God's Creation Was Complete and Good (1:31; 2:1).

When men do recognize the hand of God in creation they all too often seem to feel that what He made was very limited and defective. It would almost seem that God ought to be grateful that man has been so clever about perfecting His work, developing it and making it useful. As a matter of fact, God who had all knowledge and whose standards are higher than man's standards could possibly be, looked over His creation and "behold, it was very good" (v. 31). It was a "finished" job (2:1).

Man has destroyed much of its beauty. Sin came in and marred the whole creation. What man's inventive cleverness has developed of the possibilities of this world is only a minute fraction of what is yet available. Instead of boasting, man might well be ashamed of the pathetic slowness with which he has "thought God's thoughts after Him."

Instead of fighting and destroying, he ought to give his energies to building, developing, and above all, to loving God with all his heart and his neighbor as himself (Matt. 22:37-40). This is God's first and great commandment to you and to me.

PATTERNS SEWING CIRCLE

A FLOUNCING skirt, fitted "long torso" top and kimono sleeves are the leading features of the pretty pinafore frock for girls offered in Pattern No. 1602-B. It buttons down the back—and at the shoulders and is as cool and comfortable to wear on a hot day as a romper suit would be.

Run ric-rac edging around the edges of the kimono sleeves, the neckline and shoulders—and use ric-rac in rows around the full, flaring skirt—the result will be a decorative frock which will call for ohs and ahs from all who see it. There are panties to match, too—which may also be edged with ric-rac braid.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1602-B is designed for 3, 4, 5, 6 and 8 years. Size 4 dress and panties require 2 1/4 yards 35-inch material. 6 yards ric-rac.

Weight-Concealing Frock.
 END your search for a dress which will fit you becomingly even though you have gained unwanted weight with the effectively slimming style offered in Pattern No. 1588-B. First of all, long straight lines from shoulder to hem make the most of your height, minimize your weight. Second, a low neckline reduces bulkiness at the top and furthermore flatters

Oldest National Flag

The Netherlands' flag of red, white and blue is said to be the oldest of all national flags. It dates back to 1354, when the colors of Holland and Bavaria were combined. That flag is still the official ensign for both the Dutch navy and the merchant fleet.

More than 20 nations are said to have gotten their flag ideas from the Netherlands' emblem. And the city of New York, first settled by the Dutch, just changed the red to yellow before adopting the ensign completely.

One thing a soldier is afraid of is a display of emotion. That's why his slang so often sounds derogatory. For example, he refers to the silver eagles on his colonel's shoulder straps as "buzzards." But when he speaks of his favorite cigarette, he says: "Camels." They're first with men in the Army as well as with Sailors, Marines, and Coast Guardsmen. (According to actual sales records in service men's stores.) A gift of a carton of Camels is always well received. Local tobacco dealers are featuring Camel cartons to send to any member of our armed forces. Hint for the day: Send "him" a carton of Camels.—Adv.

One Truck Driver Who Could Follow Instructions

Business being cut by priorities, the boss of the trucking company found it necessary to lay off one truck driver. But that driver was both big and tough. So the boss decided to fire him by mail.

And the following day the driver didn't show up. Four days went by and then he was back.

"Didn't you get my letter?" asked the surprised boss.

"I did."

"Well, didn't you read it?"

"Sure. First I read it inside and then I read it outside. Inside it said that I was fired. On the outside it said, 'Return in five days to the Consolidated Trucking company.' So, here I am."

Here's a Gentler Way to Treat Constipation!

Do you think you have to take harsh cathartics or purge every time constipation makes you miserable? You don't—if you are one of those people with normal intestines who suffer from constipation due to lack of "bulk" in the diet. There is a pleasanter and gentler way.

All you do is eat KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN regularly and drink plenty of water. ALL-BRAN is a crisp, delicious cereal. It works quite differently from many medicinal laxatives. They work by prodding the intestines into action or by drawing moisture into them from other parts of the body. But ALL-BRAN acts principally on the contents of the colon, helping you to have easy and normal elimination. ALL-BRAN is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is not helped by this simple treatment, see a doctor.

GHOST PLANE

By ARTHUR STRINGER

W. N. U. SERVICE

THE STORY SO FAR: To keep Norland Airways in business, Alan Slade has agreed to fly a so-called scientist named Frayne and his assistant, Karnell, to the wild Anawotto country of northern Canada, where Frayne expects to find the breeding ground of the trumpeter swan. Slade suspects Frayne of having other plans than swan-hunting, but he has paid them enough to enable Slade's partner, Cruger, to buy a Lockheed while Alan goes with Lynn Morlock, daughter of the local doctor, to give first aid treatment to a flyer named Slim Tumstead, who has been hurt in a fight. He learns that Tumstead knows about the new plane and about Frayne. While Slade is on his way north with Frayne and Karnell, someone holds up Cassidy, night watchman for Norland Airways, and steals the Lockheed. All Cassidy can tell Cruger is that the thief wore a mask and that he headed north in the plane. Now Slade and his passengers are flying into a head wind, and Frayne has just complained that they are not making good time.

Now continue with the story.

Two ragged old figures emerged from the shack door and ran about.

CHAPTER VI

"It is very empty country," the swan-hunter observed.

"Fine and empty," said Karnell, who looked up slightly startled by an admonishing elbow dig from his companion.

"It'll be better in an hour or two," Slade told them. "We'll be coming out on scrub timber and heavier ridges. Then you'll see your last mine camp or two along the Ashibik."

He went on for half an hour of silence, conscious of the two heads bent over the chart, the mumble of voices, and the repeated studious peering through the poised binoculars.

"Weather's clearing," he cried out, half an hour later, when he sighted blue through the torn wisps of gray. "That means less wind to buck."

But a glance at his fuel-gauge suddenly lowered his spirits.

"We can't make the Anawotto," he announced as he retarded his throttle to conserve fuel. "We'll have to land at Lake Avikaka and fill up."

Slade, pointing to his gauge, could see Frayne's face tighten a little with annoyance.

"What is at Lake Avikaka?" questioned his passenger.

"Just two old sourdoughs who have a camp there on the fringe of Nowhere."

"Sourdoughs? What are they?"

"Just two funny old birds who happen to be friends of mine. I keep a gas cache in their back yard."

He could hear the two voices conferring. It gave him the feeling of being excluded from something that might be of importance to him.

"That's the Kasakana there, just ahead of us," Slade explained, "the stream that looks like a twisted wire. We'll have about sixty miles of it. Then we'll land just where it empties into Lake Avikaka."

Frayne, tight-lipped, inspected his chart.

"Who are these—these old sourdoughs as you term them?" he asked.

"Just two old lone-fire prospectors who've panned gold and staked claims all the way from Arizona up to the Circle," Slade explained. "With an itch," he added, "to be always pushing out to what seems like the last frontier. They're pretty good old scouts. You'll like 'em."

Frayne's expression failed to confirm that claim.

"For what do they prospect?" he asked.

"Gold, of course," answered Slade. "They won't interfere with your swan-hunting."

Frayne's side-glance seemed in search of possible second meanings.

Slade looked for some sign of life from the cabin between its sheltering rock shoulders. All he saw, as he nosed cautiously down to the lake end, was a gray plume of smoke from the shack chimney. It impressed him, in the midst of the gloomy ridges furred with stunted timber, as a sort of pennon of valor, a flag defying the forces of nature.

It was a brave little outpost, the flyer repeated as he swung lower. But he could catch no glimpse of either Minty Buckman or Zeke Pratt. And it was seldom he found them far from that cockeyed old windlass and hoist of theirs.

Then his heart lightened. They must have heard him, after all.

For two ragged old figures emerged from the shack door and ran about the rock slope in small circles, waving arms as they went.

One figure wore an apron of butcher's linen which he tore from his shoulders and whirled in the air while the other executed a creaky dance step about him.

"Those old wilderness waifs are sure glad to see us," Slade observed as his ship landed and lost headway. Frayne did not share in his excitement.

"We go on to the Anawotto," he suggested, "as soon as you have refueled?"

Slade, stiff and tired, rose from his seat.

"Not on your life. We bunk with these bushwhackers tonight. I want a hot meal and seven hours of sleep."

"But your friends," said Frayne, "are not my friends."

"But come and meet 'em," said Slade, leaping ashore with his mooring line. He was halfway up the bank when the two old sourdoughs descended on him. They circled about him and slapped his shoulders, shouting with shrill and childlike excitement at the unlooked-for break in their solitude.

"How are you, puddle-jumper! By crickets, it's Lindy!"

Slade knew, even before he felt their hearty handclaps, that he was among friends. They may have looked uncouth in their patched and ragged Mackinaws. But in the crow-footed old eyes above the grizzled whiskers he could see open affection.

"Bring me them darnin' needles, son?" questioned Zeke when the body-slapping was over.

"Sure thing," said Slade, producing a package from his jacket pocket. "And that oilstone you've been hankering for." Then he lowered his voice. "How's the color been showing?"

"Swell," said Minty. "We struck a vein that'll make your eyes bug out. But keep it under your hat, son."

Slade glanced toward his plane. "I've got a couple of visitors for you," he announced.

The two old faces promptly hardened.

"What're they after?" was Minty's quick inquiry.

"They're after swans' eggs," announced Slade.

"Swans' eggs?" said Zeke. "That don't sound natural."

"I know it, Zeke, but we've got to take their word for it. They're headed for the Anawotto to dig out the breeding ground of the trumpeter."

Zeke, from under his shaggy brows, inspected the strangers.

"How'd you know they ain't field scouts?"

Slade smiled at the concern on the seamed old face.

"I'll bring 'em up," said Slade. Solitude, he had long since learned, always left a bush-worker morosely suspicious of unidentified intruders. He had even known some of those lone-fire gold-seekers to greet the casual prowler with a flurry of buckshot.

Yet he himself was a little puzzled, when he reached the landing stage, to find that Frayne had decided to have his man Karnell remain in the plane cabin.

"You're the captain," said Slade. But his meditative eye passed casually over the gas drums that stood on the spruce rack which made them so easy to roll aboard. And it was always better to be safe than sorry.

He was whistling as he climbed into the cabin and busied himself for a minute or two with his instrument board. Then, as his two passengers conferred at the water's edge, he quietly abstracted the motor's breaker assembly and slipped it into his pocket. He felt that it was as well, all things considered, to know that his Snow-Ball Baby was definitely bedded down for the night.

"You'll like these two old codgers," Slade persisted as he followed the reluctant-footed Frayne up the shore slope.

Frayne, however, remained silent and abstracted as he entered the shack where the smell of frying bacon mingled with the aroma of three sourdough bread-loaves just turned out of their baking pans. He noted the glowing cookstove and the orderly dish shelves, the spring traps and the shooting irons in the shack corner, the wall bunks with their abraded Hudson Bay blankets, the floor rugs of wolfskin, the home-made table and chairs darkened by time and smoke. Everything bore an air of frontier roughness, of ingenious expediences in a land of strictly limited resources. But the general result was one of craftily-won comfort, of security obtained through toil and persistence. Even the meal the two old-timers prepared for their guests was an ample one.

But as the meal was made away with an odd constraint hung over the men seated about the rough table.

"I see you have a radio," Frayne observed as he sipped at his second cup of coffee.

Minty's saddened eye regarded the instrument.

"She's been dead for seven months now. Battery's plumb gone. And this-here air-rober's freight-charges 're so high we jus' can't see our way to a new one."

Frayne, Slade thought, looked relieved.

"You are very much alone here," he observed.

"You're tellin' me," said Minty. "But we don't reckon that as a drawback," amended Zeke, "seein' the two of us have kind of a hankerin' for elbow room. Only time I feel right lonesome is when there's folks around. Then I git a feelin' o' bein' hemmed in."

Frayne's eye wandered to the shelf that held a pestle and mortar, a long-handled quartz-roaster, a dust-scales under a cracked canopy of glass, an assortment of variously mineralized rock of all colors and shapes.

"How long," he inquired, "have you been here?"

"Well over two years now," acknowledged Minty.

"Have your labors been rewarded?" was the next casually put question.

Slade could see the two pair of crafty old eyes suddenly become expressionless.

"Not by a long shot," protested Zeke. "I natcherally git a little out o' my winter trappin', and this shorthorn mate o' mine brings in enough game meat to keep us goin'. But we ain't had what you'd call a strike."

"Reckon we never will," said Minty.

"It's been hard goin'," chimed in his bunkhouse mate.

"How do you do your mining," asked the man of science, "without power and machinery?"

The two old sourdoughs exchanged glances again.

"Oh, you'd scarce call it minin'," ventured Zeke. "Most we do is strip a bit along the back slopes or hawk a speck o' float gold from the Kasakana sandbars."

"Then it's gold alone you are interested in?" was the next question.

"That's right, stranger. And we've been that way for forty-odd years now," Zeke conceded.

"All the way from the old Rio Grande up to the Porcupine," added the dreamy-eyed Minty, "not omittin' the Klondike. Now your main interest, this young cloud-clipper tells me, is swans' nests."

"My only interest," amended Frayne as he pushed back his chair. "I am an ornithologist."

The word seemed to puzzle Minty.

"Why, I seen a black-billed swan on the lake here three days ago," Zeke announced. "He sure was a beauty."

"It is the trumpeter I am in search of," said the ornithologist. Zeke scratched his head.

"And what'll you do with him when you git him?"

"It is my wish to obtain their eggs," said the other, "before they are extinct."

Minty got up and crossed to his ore shelf.

"Speakin' of eggs," he said, "could you be spottin' the bird laid this one?"

His cackle was slightly derisive as he produced an ellipsoid mass of black and burnished material almost as big as an ostrich egg. The luster of the oblate spheroid with the feathering of light streaks made it look as if it had been polished by hand.

"It looks like tar," Frayne casually observed.

"Tar my eye!" croaked Minty as he placed the burnished spheroid on the scarred table end. "You're missin' it by a mile."

"Then what does it happen to be?" inquired the swan-seeker.

"If you was more of a minin' man," Minty was saying, "you'd know it was pitchblende."

Frayne shrugged and let his wavering glance come to rest on the pictured bathing beauties tacked above the wall bunks.

"The eggs I am in search of," he finally observed, "are of another color."

"But they won't hatch what this'll hatch," averred Zeke, bent over the table end.

Frayne, almost reluctantly, let his gaze return to the black spheroid.

Household Hints

These Babecued Hamburgers Are Appetite-Tempting! (See Recipes Below.)

Outdoor Fun

The delicious aroma of meat cooking over a crackling fire, toasted buns, and freshly roasted corn or potatoes in the embers—all these make for plenty of summer fun.

Toss together your outdoor cooking equipment, bright, gay colored cloths, napkins, and gather some wood for your picnic. Plan to have lots of hearty, nourishing food to give your picknickers so they will have plenty of that up-and-at-them spirit.

Crunchy green salads packed in jelly glasses or paper containers, steaming hot coffee, baked beans, or macaroni and cheese, and barbecued meat. Dispel the chilliness of cool nights with your picnic outdoors.

Hamburgers are old favorites, but you can make them extra delicious by drizzling a tasty barbecue sauce over them while they cook.

Barbecued Hamburgers. (Serves 8)

2 pounds ground beef
1½ teaspoons salt
Pepper to taste
2 tablespoons vinegar
1 tablespoon flour
1 teaspoon chili powder
2 teaspoons brown sugar
2 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
1 medium-sized onion, chopped
1½ tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
½ cup catsup
1 tablespoon hot water

Have any of the thrifter cuts of beef ground—such as chuck, flank, shank, neck, or heel of round. If meat is quite lean, ask your butcher to grind in some suet. Mix meat thoroughly with salt and pepper. Cook on a greased griddle-grill with thick slices of onion.

Mix rest of ingredients well and drizzle over hamburgers as they cook. This sauce is also excellent over frankfurters which have been pricked with a fork.

To make a new kind of "cheeseburger," add ½ cup grated cheese to each pound of hamburger, mixing lightly.

Hamburger Puffs. (Serves 8)

2 pounds chuck steak, ground
2 cups grated raw potato
4 tablespoons grated onion
2 teaspoons salt
½ teaspoon pepper
½ peeled clove of garlic, minced
4 tablespoons milk
4 tablespoons fat

Combine all ingredients except fat. Form into 16 patties. Cook in fat on a greased grill or skillet over medium heat until brown on both

Lynn Says:

For best results in outdoor cooking use a small fire. Be sure you have a deep bed of coals before you start broiling or frying your food.

To start the fire, use a soft quick burning wood like pine, spruce, hemlock, laurel, poplar, or aspen. For a good bed of coals, use a hard wood such as maple, oak, ash, beech, birch, hickory, or any available hard wood in your community.

Seasoned wood which has not lain on the ground long enough to become wet or rotted, but long enough to dry out, is best for fires. Wood without bark makes the best kind of fire, as bark will cause a fire to smoulder. To start a fire more easily, use split wood, as it burns more easily than round logs.

You won't be a sissy if you kneel when using a hand axe for chopping or splitting wood. If you use seasoned wood, it can easily be broken into convenient chunks for the fire.

Barbecue Supper
*Barbecued Hamburgers
Weinies Toasted Buns
Mustard Chili Sauce Relish
*Roast Corn or *Roast Potatoes
Fresh Fruit or Berries or
*Marshmallow Dessert
Coffee or Honey Lemonade
*Recipe Given

Have a hot fire and let it burn down until there is a good pile of red embers. Soak the ears of corn in their husks until good and wet and lay them, still in the husks, in the hot ashes. Bake for 30 minutes or until corn is tender. Turn the ears occasionally.

Roast Potatoes.
Bury potatoes in hot ashes and roast as you do the corn, until they are tender. They take longer to roast than the corn. Serve with lots of butter, salt, and pepper.

Marshmallow Dessert. (Serves 6)

Small bars of plain chocolate
12 graham crackers
12 marshmallows

Toast 2 marshmallows over the coals to a crisp, gooey state, and then put them inside a graham cracker and chocolate bar sandwich. The heat of the marshmallow between the halves of chocolate bar will melt the chocolate just enough, and the graham crackers on the outside are nice to hold.

Do you like to go primitive and roast meat over a forked stick or long-handled fork? Then, you'll like:

Kabobs.

For each person, allow ¼ pound round steak, ½ of a medium-sized onion, and a few slices of bacon. Cut the meat in 1-inch squares, cut the onion lengthwise, from top to bottom. Cut the slices of bacon into thirds. Place beef, onion, and bacon on a fork or stick, alternately, and broil over coals until done.

A salad that is both health-cramped and delicious for a picnic is this one made with plenty of vegetables and cottage cheese:

Vitamin Salad. (Serves 6)

1 cup celery, diced
2 cups cottage cheese
½ green pepper, diced
1 cup carrots, shredded (cooked)
2 cups cabbage, shredded fine
½ cup mayonnaise
Salt

Toss together all ingredients and serve on crisp lettuce leaves.

A cookie treat to take with you on your picnic is this sugar-saving one:

Fruit Treats. (Makes 12 Treats)

2 cups sifted, enriched flour
3 tablespoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
2 to 4 tablespoons shortening
½ cup milk (about)
1 tablespoon honey or corn syrup
2 eggs
12 cooked apricots or prunes

Sift flour, baking powder and salt together. Cut in shortening. Beat 1 whole egg and 1 egg yolk, reserving white for tops. Add milk and honey to beaten eggs and add flour to mixture. Stir in only enough to hold flour together. Turn on lightly floured board and knead together ½ minute. Roll ½ inch thick, cut with doughnut cutter. Place on baking sheet and place an apricot or prune in the "hole" on each one. Brush with egg white and sprinkle biscuits with cinnamon sugar. Bake in a moderately hot oven 12 to 15 minutes. Cinnamon sugar: Mix 3 tablespoons sugar with ½ teaspoon cinnamon.

Easy-to-peel oranges

perfect as 'dessert'

Box lunches are tastier and more healthful when you include oranges.

They're delicious and the best way to be sure of your vitamin C! Few foods have much. It's easily lost in cooking. Yet needed daily, since you do not store it.

Oranges also have vitamins A, B1 and G; calcium, and other minerals.

TO YOUR Good Health DR. JAMES W. BARTON

PROPER FOOD At the Chicago World's fair, in the medical building, was the preserved digestive tract of a cow, of a man, and of a dog.

The length of the small intestine (where food is digested and absorbed into the blood) was about 40 feet in the cow, 20 feet in man, and five feet in a dog. This means that in the cow the foods partly digested in the stomach and in the first part of the small intestine, have a long distance to travel while being absorbed into the blood through the lining surface of the small intestine.

In man, food, with just 20 feet of small intestine, through which to pass, must be absorbed in less time. In the dog, with only five feet of small intestine through which to pass, even less time is given for the food to be digested and absorbed into the blood.

What do we learn from a study of the intestine in man, the cow and the dog?

As the cow has such a long intestine it can eat bulky, hard, cellulose food, because the stomach, small and large intestine are able to handle this type of food such as grass, hay and raw vegetables with roughage.

The dog, not being equipped with a large and long digestive tract, cannot handle bulky, rough or cellulose foods and so must eat a rich or concentrated food such as meat.

What about man? Should he eat the rough, hard to digest food of the cow, or the concentrated, more easily digested food of the dog? His small intestine, far shorter than that of the cow and longer than that of the dog, gives us the answer. He must eat less of the food eaten by the cow, and more of the food eaten in proportion to his size and weight, as compared with the cow and the dog.

As a matter of fact, man has worked out this food question correctly in that the food recommended for man is one part meat to two parts fats to four parts starches vegetables and fruits.

Persistent Cough May Be Sinusitis

As a youngster in the lower grades in school I can remember certain students in the class who always seemed to have a head cold with running nose. The discharge was not watery but thick mucous and sometimes what I now know must have been "yellow" pus.

No effort was made in those days to send the child home or to separate him from the rest of us, because a cold was considered a harmless condition as far as the child or others were concerned.

Today we know that these youngsters who "always" have a cold, have, in most cases, an infection in one or more of the sinuses and the condition is really sinusitis.

When a youngster has an acute cold it is often just in the nose and throat itself with little or no disturbance of any sinus. There is usually some watery or mucous discharge from the nose and throat and some cough present.

However, "coughs lasting more than two weeks are due to sinus infection unless proved otherwise." The acute cold usually lasts about a week—two days onset, two days acute symptoms, and about two days clearing up. The child or adult with an acute cold does not "suffer" much but must be careful as to rest, diet, and exposure to cold and drafts, so that a simple cold will not develop into pneumonia or bronchopneumonia.

Sinusitis, on the other hand, gets the patient down, physically and mentally. There is weakness, persistent cough, lack of appetite with loss of weight.

How can it be known if there is a chronic sinus condition present?

In the New York State Journal of Medicine, Dr. G. M. Coates states that the usual symptoms are frequent nose colds, with discharge of mucous into the back of the throat. The lining membranes of the nose are inflamed and X-rays show a thickening of the lining of the sinuses.

QUESTION BOX

Q.—1. Can an ulcer of the nose become cancerous? 2. How do the symptoms of each differ? 3. Why is there a recurring scab over the surface?

A.—1. Ulcer of the nose can become cancer in one of cancer age. 2. There is little or no difference. In cancer the sore persists, whereas in a simple ulcer it clears up in a short time. 3. The new scab forms due to the constant irritation of the sore.

Do You Know?

by Dorothy Scott

Lettuce, one of springs first fresh-from-the-garden vegetables, is always welcome at every table, and well it may be, too.

We like lettuce for its delicate flavor, its note of color and its crispness. Besides all these reasons why lettuce pleases our palate, there are some, just as good, that explain its importance as a vegetable for replanting to insure a fresh supply all summer, and even into late fall.

Green lettuce is a good source of the substance carotene which our bodies change into vitamin A that is so good for our eyes. In addition it supplies some vitamin B, C, and riboflavin, also iron and calcium that are so important for body growth and health.

You need more than a leaf of lettuce to contribute much food value—a portion should consist of at least one-fourth of a four-inch head, or 16 leaves.

NOTE—A mimeographed sheet of sugar saver recipes is available at our office.

kind of income, and about half of those are participating to some extent on the payroll deduction plan. The other half cannot be feasibly reached on the payroll deduction basis, and therefore must be contacted in some other manner. Those people come to our stores every day to buy food, clothing, furniture and merchandise and services of all kinds. Farmers, professional people, and many others are included in this classification. We accept part of their change in War Savings Stamps, can turn over to Uncle Sam millions of dimes and quarters and half dollars for providing more ships, planes, tanks, guns, and bullets for our boys who are fighting at the front. We want people to know that a twenty-five cent War Savings Stamp buys a dozen bullets—that twenty twenty-five cent stamps will buy a steel helmet for a soldier. When people begin to realize what these War Stamps will actually buy, they will want more and more of them.

"People should always remember that War Savings Stamps and Bonds are an investment," said Mr. McLean. "We are not asking anyone to give anything. In fact, they will get back every dime, with interest, at a time when they will undoubtedly be more in need of that money than they are now. I feel that we should thank Uncle Sam for giving us the opportunity to put some of our excess money into this grill-edge investment, and save it for a rainy day. That is the thought we want to get across to the people of Iosco county. I am sure that we are going to meet with the wholehearted cooperation of the public, and that this community can be counted upon to be well over its quota when the last shot has been fired."
