LOCALS SPLIT DOUBLE HEADER WITH STANDISH

Tawas City Will Play at Rhodes Next Sunday

In two of the longest games of the season, Tawas City split a double-header with Standish, losing the first 11 to 10 and winning the second 13 to 11.

The play-off battle is still raging with Rhodes holding down first place with 11 wins and 2 losses, Twining, Standish and Gladwin all tied with 8 wins and 4 losses and Tawas City next with 8 wins and 5 losses. The play-off positions will be decided next Sunday when Tawas City plays at Rhodes; Two double headers, Standish at Gladwin and Roadside Zoo at Twining.

The first game looked like an easy win for Tawas when they scored four runs in the first inning and another in the third and fourth while Franks was holding the Standish bats still, allowing nary a hit. But in the fifth trouble began for Tawas when Franks weakened and five runs scored with the score standing at 6 to 5. In the sixth Tawas added two more runs on two hits and Standish scored one.

In the eighth Peterson added Tawas's ninth run by stealing home on Proulx. In Standish's half of the eighth, Standish combined five hits, two errors and a walk to push five runs across to give them a three run lead, 11 to 8. Tawas tried vainly to come back in the ninth but fell one run short, pushing two runs across, with Standish the victors 11 to 10.

Franks and Peterson paced the Tawas team with three hits each. Gulyas, Burnside and Greanva led Standish with two each.

Bob McPherson started on the mound for the locals in the second game while Artman opposed him for Standish. Standish took a two run lead in the first and added five more in the second while Tawas pushed four counters across in the second.

In the fourth Tawas took a four run lead by scoring eight runs. The locals added another in the sixth, with the score now 13 to 7. Standish got to McPherson for four runs in the seventh before fireman Dick Prescott took over the mound duties. He held Standish hitless in the seventh and eighth innings with Tawas the winner by a 13 to 11 score.

Katterman was the big gun of the Tawas attack getting three hits, two singles and a long triple. Burnside and Proulx each garnered two hits for Standish.

V-Mail May Now Be Used to Soldiers

The Post Office Department announced that the V-Mail Service inaugurated on June 15, 1942, is now past the experimental stage, with each week showing large increases in the number of letters mailed to American soldiers overseas.

The War Department has increased its facilities to handle promptly the volume expected in the future. The local post office has been furnished with a supply of the V-Mail letter paper.

Facilities for photographing and reproducing V-Mail to and from the United States and the British Isles, Australia, India, Hawaii and other points are now in operation. A similar service is being planned for Iceland and other points where the volume may warrant.

Pointing out that V-Mail provides a safe means of communication with members of our Armed Forces, the Post Office Department gave assurance that the film (upon which the communications are reproduced) are given the most expeditious dispatch available. Because of the small space taken by up by the rolls of film, they often can be carried on ferry planes or bombers.

Every pound of weight which can be saved on air transports overseas, said the Department, means that an equivalent amount of weight can be allotted vital military material.

In recognition of this, and in an effort to ensure delivery of mail to as many men as possible at overseas destinations when space is limited, the War and Navy Departments have directed that V-Mail be given priority in dispatch over all other classes—including air mail—when transportation facilities under control of those departments are used.

Private firms and individuals have also been permitted by the Post Office Department to reproduce the letter sheets. The sheets also will be available soon to all stores selling stationery.

V-Mail Service provides for the use by patrons of a special letter sheet form which is a combination letter and envelope of uniform size and design. The patron writes his message, completes the name and address of addressee and the return card in the space provided, folds, seals, and mails the letter in the usual manner.

Patrons are warned that only the inner or letter side of V-Mail letters are photographed, and should be careful to show the complete address of the person to whom the message is sent in the panel provided therefor above the space for the message. It is preferable to print the address in large block letters. Enclosures must not be placed in the letters.

V-Mail letters are photographed on micro-film by automatic machines at the rate of 2,000 to 2,500 per hour and the film rolls containing 1,500 letters each are transmitted to destinations. Reproductions are made by other automatic machines and delivered to the addressee in individual sealed window penalty envelopes.

In the Service

August Libka received a telegram yesterday announcing that his son, PFC Carl Libka, had arrived in Great Britain.

Corp. Herbert Zollweg, formerly stationed at Fort Ord, California, and brother, Richard, who is stationed at Great Lakes Naval Training were the guests of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Otto Zollweg over the week-end. Herbert has been transferred to Fort Benning Georgia, to attend the Officer candidate Infantry school.

Arthur Biggins of Great Lakes Training School visited friends in the city over the week-end.

William Roiter from the Great Lakes Training camp is enjoying a 9 day furlough with his parents at Alabaster.

Pvt. Edward Libka writes us that he is still at Camp Custer and his job at present is to meet the new servicemen at Battle Creek Depot.

Elmo C. Bellville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Belleville of Whittemore, who enlisted in the Merchant Marine, branch of the Navy March 15 1942 has been promoted to a commissioned officer, acting as purser on a merchant ship.

Pvt. Albert Blust, who has been in service several months is now at Camp Swift, Texas.

Gerald Roelke, son of Rev. and Mrs. J. J. Roelke left for Fort Custer, last Saturday.

Corporal Wendall Scofield of Hale is a member of Battery G, 18th Coast Artillery, Fort Stevens, Oregon. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. T. G. Scofield and the following are excerpts from a recent letter:

Dear Dad and Mother:

Well I have just written one letter, so will try and keep in the mood long enough to drop you a line.

Was on pass Saturday and Sunday in Portland and had a lot of fun. Got a ride in a '42 Chrysler from Seaside to Portland. That is about 80 miles. Real class, real service! On our way to camp from Seaside stopped and saw the world's champion trick shooter.

I have a new job again. My old job back. I am working in the supply room. They broke up our machine gun crew, so they could use them elsewhere. Our supply sergeant is going to officer's training school, so I will have to learn all about the game.

I have put in an application for officer's candidate school, but I doubt if I get it, although the battery commander kept asking me why I didn't do so. I named ordinance as my first choice, and if I don't get it, there isn't anything to lose.

I can imagine how busy you all are with threshing and everything. Grain must be turning out pretty good. The farmers are doing their harvesting out here. There is a lot of combining, but also quite a bit of threshing. It seems that there is a threshing machine and combine to every square mile.

Well, the charge of quarters just came in to turn out the lights. Hope this finds you all doing fine and getting along all right.

With love, Wendall.

22 Isosco County Boys Leave for Fort Custer

Twenty-two Isosco county boys left yesterday morning on the Detroit & Mackinac railroad for Fort Custer. Acting Corporal William Prescott was in charge. A large number of friends and relatives congregated at the station to bid them good bye and see them leave.

The boys to leave were: Peter Thompson, East Tawas; Lyle Goedecke, Hale; Truman Rutterbush, East Tawas; Harold Peterson, East Tawas; Arthur Dease, East Tawas; John Haney, AuSable; Gerald Marr, Hale; Lloyd Shellenbarger, Hale; Raymond Peters, Whittemore; Charles Jackson, Whittemore; Charles Malcolm, volunteer, Tawas City; Frederick Christian, East Tawas; Delbert Albertson, Whittemore; Arthur Denstedt, Hale; Burton McDougal, East Tawas; William Prescott, Tawas City; George Hyzer, East Tawas; Clarence Benson, Tawas City; Harold Shover, Tawas City; Lyle Crego, Whittemore; John Kariziski, Tawas City; Clara McGuire, East Tawas.

Members of the Ireland Auto Company's Foundation Class were Milton Darbee, Standish; Harold E. Schwab, Standish; Elwood P. Wyatt, Standish; Harry R. Hay and Evangeline Hay, Omer; and Howard Britt. The local dealer and the class advisors proclaim it pretty hard to judge the class as all figured close in the race. These pupils in turn become Junior Advisors for the members of the new fall course.

The objectives of the National Farm Youth Foundation is to give young men and women, who plan to stay on the farm, knowledge and training in what to grow, how to grow it profitably, how to conserve the resources of the soil, how to manage labor and machines, how to market farm products and how to finance the entire operation. Such education will prepare these men and women for becoming better farmers, more successful land owners and better citizens. Arenac Independent

Plainfield Schools to Open with 12 Grades

The Plainfield Township Schools will open, Tuesday September 8, 1942 with class rooms receiving final arrangements and conditioning for the opening date. The new Home Economic and grade rooms have been completed with the shop and science rooms near completion. A complete high school curriculum will be offered for the first time at the school, and the initial enrollment is expected to be approximately 265 in all grades.

Our Boy Scout Troop

Tawas City Troop, No. 73, B. S. A. will begin their 1942-43 year next Thursday evening, September 3rd, when they again take up their regular Thursday evening meetings in the Masonic Temple. The meetings will be held from 7 to 9 P. M.

The troop has been vacationing during August, and several of the members have taken the opportunity to attend scout camps. Some of the boys have been able to make considerable advancement in their rating and class and merit badges will soon be awarded to those entitled to them.

The troop now numbers 20 members and we are informed that others are ready to join in the near future. Our assistant scout master, has joined Uncle Sam's fighting forces and the troop committee is looking for a man to assist the scoutmaster in directing the troop.

It is hoped and expected that every member will be present next Thursday and be on time.

COUNTY BOY WINS IN STATE FARM CONTEST

Awarded $200 by the Fords and National Youth Foundation

An enthusiastic and hard-working farmer boy, with long and diligent hours of study, tops another first prize. This time he was paid $200 in war bonds and a chance now to try for the $1,000.00 scholarship offered by the Ferguson-Sherman Manufacturing Corporation. No more thrilled though was he than the Ireland Auto Company, local dealers for the Ford-Ferguson tractor and sponsors of the local National Farm Youth Foundation enrollment of the previous winter and spring classes.

The state contest, sponsored by the National Farm Youth Foundation, in cooperation with Henry Ford and Edsel Ford and the Ford-Ferguson tractor dealers, held August 20, gives Howard Britt, first prize which makes him a winner in the try-outs, three staged in all. Howard Britt is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Britt of Burleigh township, Isosco county.

Members of the Ireland Auto Company's Foundation Class were Milton Darbee, Standish; Harold E. Schwab, Standish; Elwood P. Wyatt, Standish; Harry R. Hay and Evangeline Hay, Omer; and Howard Britt. The local dealer and the class advisors proclaim it pretty hard to judge the class as all figured close in the race. Service Prices Must Be Filed by Sept. 10

Practically all consumer services are regulated by Maximum Price Regulation No. 165. This regulation governs the price to be charged for all consumer services and became effective July 1, 1942. The highest price charged for consumer services regulated by March price levels.

Every person selling consumer services, for which, upon sale by that person, maximum prices are established by Maximum Price Regulation No. 165, shall:

A. Preserve for examination by the Office of Price Administration all his existing records relating to the prices which he charged, or pricing method which he used for such of those consumer services as he supplied during March 1942, and his offering prices for supply for such consumer services during such month, and

B. Prepare on or before September 1, 1942, to the full extent of all available information and records, and thereafter keep for examination by any person during ordinary business hours, a statement showing:

1. The highest prices which he charged for consumer services supplied during March 1942, for which prices were regularly quoted in that month;

2. The pricing method, if any, regularly used during March 1942; and

3. All his customary allowances, discounts, and other price differentials.

A duplicate of this statement shall be filed on or before September 10, 1942, with the appropriate War Price and Rationing Board of the Office of Price Administration.

Retailers of consumer services may obtain a copy of Regulation No. 165 at their county War Price and Rationing Board or by applying at the district office of the Office of Price Administration, 135 N. Water Street, Saginaw. Such retailers commonly include laundries, garages, plumbers, electricians, household appliances, gasoline service stations, dry cleaners etc.

Allocate Primary Fund to Counties

The first installment of the primary school fund is now ready for distribution to the various counties of the state according to Vernon J. Brown, auditor general.

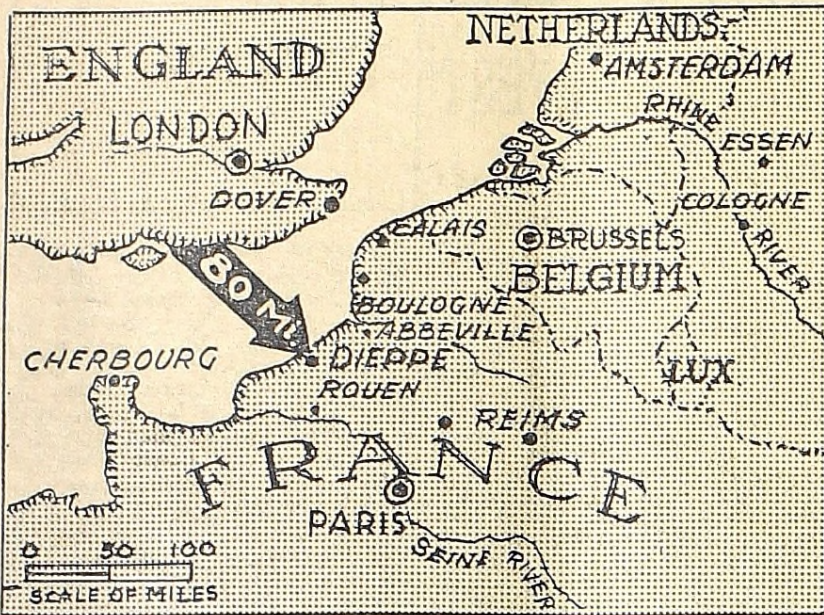

In Isosco county and adjacent counties the fund will be allotted as follows:

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Allies Demonstrate Growing Strength In 'Dress Rehearsal' Raid on Dieppe; Solomon Victory Forecast of Further Pacific Offensives by United States

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.) Released by Western Newspaper Union.

The English channel area which was the scene of the most daring and extensive daylight raid by Allied forces on the French coast thus far. British and Canadian Commandos, supported by American Rangers, took part in the nine-hour foray which ravaged the Nazi defenses at Dieppe, destroyed artillery batteries, ammunition dumps and radio stations and left Dieppe in flames.

COMMANDOS: In Dress Rehearsal

Adolf Hitler learned that no matter how deep into Russia his eastern armies might penetrate, his western flank was open to attack that might be costly.

That was evident when British and Canadian Commandos supported by American Rangers swept across the English channel and back again in a nine-hour daylight raid that was a dress rehearsal for the forthcoming Allied invasion of Europe.

The Nazi-fortified coastal defenses at Dieppe, midway between Calais and Le Havre were the target. Although German sources estimated the force at 15,000 men, its number remained an official Allied secret. The raiders carried tanks and artillery with them.

While losses on both sides were considerable, the raiders were reported to have destroyed a six-gun shore artillery battery, an ammunition dump, a vast anti-aircraft battery and a radio location station. Moreover, it was reported that the city of Dieppe had been left in flames.

A strategic feature of the assault was the vast aerial umbrella in the form of 1,000 Allied fighter planes shielding the raiders. This was reported as the greatest aircraft canopy yet sent aloft. While it protected the operations of Commandos below, it succeeded in downing or damaging 273 enemy planes.

The attack demonstrated that landings in force could be successfully made against the strongest Nazi-fortified points on the French coast. And as a reminder of the growing air strength of the Allies, American and British planes swept over France the day after the raid, striking out in the greatest force ever seen over western Europe. The air raiders, 500 strong, included fighter-escorted American Flying Fortresses and other bombers.

RUSSIA: Gloom Persists

Only in the northernmost area of the Russian fighting front—at Voronezh and Bryansk—were the Soviet forces able to report any success. At these points several towns had been taken and thousands of Germans had been killed.

But elsewhere the picture remained gloomy. Stalingrad, key industrial city on the Volga, was menaced by a Nazi pincer. Further to the south, Maikop, fertile center of the Kuban valley wheatfields and source of some of Russia's oil, had been taken and Russian communiques admitted the Germans were moving trainloads of foodstuffs out of this area.

The loss of Maikop opened the way for the capitulation of the strategic city of Krasnodar, a railroad and river in the northwest Caucasus, and gateway to the Red's naval base of Novorossick, less than 60 miles distant.

Although Prime Minister Churchill's visit to Moscow had roused hopes that strategic moves from western Europe or from the Middle East by the Allies might take some of the mortal pressure off Russia, the situation remained critical. The successful Commando raid on the French coast was at least a token in that direction.

SOLOMON ISLANDS: Important Victory

At last it could be told, for the news revealed in a laconic navy communique was that the offensive in the Solomon Islands had been completely successful. The enemy-held islands in the southeast Solomon chain were now firmly in the hands of United States marines. Only remnants of once strong Japanese forces remained on the islands and these were being mopped up.

The navy's communique announcing the victory said also that an enemy cruiser or destroyer was bombed and set afire by American planes in the area.

"United States marines are engaged in mopping up remnants of the Japanese forces on the islands which were recently captured in the Solomon archipelago," the communique said.

"Casual bombardments of our shore positions by enemy aircraft, destroyers and submarines have inflicted only minor damage. An enemy destroyer or cruiser was bombed and set afire by our aircraft."

The main offensive had been launched on the strategically important Tulagi harbor area on Florida island, 930 miles from Australia. The enveloping attack included landings on smaller islands nearby.

MARRIED MEN: Face Early Draft

Married men under the age of 45 with dependents faced the prospect of being called in the draft "in the not far distant future." This prediction was made by a spokesman for Brig. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey's national selective service board.

Speaking before the 52nd annual reunion of the Legion of Valor in Boston, Ted Luther, Hershey's aide, said "the nation's reservoir of 1-A men was practically exhausted" and that it would be necessary to obtain men from 1-B and 3-A classes.

"The selective service board is most anxious to avoid breaking up homes and families," he said, "but because of the few men in 1-B classification and the smaller number that can be obtained from among those reaching 20 years of age each month, it will be necessary to take those with dependents."

BRAZIL: Irked at Axis

Submarines which for weeks had persistently attacked Brazil's coastwise shipping roused that nation to fighting pitch when they sank five merchantmen within a few days' span, with a loss of more than 600.

Thus a tacit state of war existed between Brazil and the Axis, without benefit of a formal declaration. "Brazilians know how to fight decisively and with or without arms will know how to die for Brazil," Air Minister Joaquim Salgado declared, as the nation's warships and planes combed the sea for submarines and raiders.

RATIONING: Meat and Oil First

Two rationing programs loomed on the near horizon for American citizens with others in the background. These two were fuel oil in the East and meats generally throughout the nation.

The food branch of the War Production board had drafted a preliminary order embodying recommendations of Agriculture Secretary Wickard's food requirements committee. These included allocation of meat supplies to different sections of the country, adjustment of price ceilings to stimulate the flow of meats into shortage areas, allocation among packers of government purchases of meat for the armed forces—and finally, rationing.

Rationing of fuel oil for Eastern heating purposes appeared near as industrial establishments and homes using oil for heating were warned they would have to get along on less than normal supplies.

MIDDLE EAST: Command Is Changed

As Gen. Sir Claude Auchinleck had joined a growing list of ousted commanders of the precarious Middle East front, the infusion of new brains in the person of hard-hitting Gen. Sir Harold R. L. G. Alexander, focused attention on the importance of that sector. The visit of Prime Minister Churchill to Alexandria on his way to Moscow, too, had shown how vital the Egyptian sector loomed in Allied strategy.

Observers pointed out that because of its strategic possibilities, North Africa might become the United Nations' second front.

Biggest task confronting the United Nations before snow flies was halting Hitler's gigantic pincer drive against the Middle East by way of the Russian Caucasus from the north and via Marshal Rommel's Egyptian Nazi armies from the southwest.

WAR PRODUCTION: Nelson Gets Tough

Criticism of the War Production board's management of the war program had been mounting in recent weeks.

Thus when Donald M. Nelson, WPB chief, returned to his desk after a much-needed rest there was considerable speculation about the next move.

The usually quiet production chief made himself forcefully clear. Challenging his critics to a showdown, he indicated a new spirit of pugnacity by asserting: "From now on anyone who crosses my path is going to have his head taken off."

DONALD M. NELSON "... job will be done."

He underscored this declaration by immediately dismissing a $5,600 WPB employee. He declared he was "going to get tough enough to get this job done and the job will be done."

DIMOUT: For West Coast

Spurred by the ever-present danger of enemy air attack, the West coast dimmed out officially for the duration of the war.

Until peace comes night baseball will be only a memory. Automobiles will be driven with parking lights. Theater and store entrances will be dark. Movie companies in Hollywood will no longer use glaring lights for outdoor shots.

Residents up and down the Pacific coast will blackout their windows.

Dimout technique had been practiced for days before regulations became official.

LABOR PEACE: Green Urges Unity

Another olive branch was waved in the cause of labor peace when William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, called for an end to "the economic tug-of-war whereby each group seeks to get the best bargain it can from the other."

The economic fight "must be abandoned for the duration," he told the 50th annual convention of the Wisconsin State Federation of Labor.

Green termed the CIO-AFL split a "dangerous and wasteful civil war." Earlier he had disclosed that representatives of the two organizations would confer late in September on the proposed re-union of labor.

"I trust those participating in these conferences," he said, "are conscious of the fact that private interests are secondary to the national necessity."

Natives of India Turn Out to Fight Foe

In the Punjab region of India recruiting officers have no trouble in getting volunteers to fight against Hitler and Hirohito. As the war comes closer to India young men from far-flung districts are turning out to fight the common foe. In the recruiting center shown at the left the doctor, an Indian, vaccinates each recruit on the point of his left shoulder. Right: An Indian officer (captain) gives each recruit a small advance of pay on enrollment.

What's Cooking? Victory Vegetables!

Dress Rehearsal for Solomon Assault

Before the hard-hitting U. S. marines stormed the Solomon islands they went through maneuvers that shaped them for this particularly tough assignment. In picture at top a land mine huris mud and sea water high into the air as the marines land troops and stores after establishing a bridgehead in the South Sea Islands, where U. S. forces and the Japs have been exchanging heavy counter-blows. Below: Unloading a heavy gun, part of the equipment of a landing party in the South Sea islands.

'General' Coxe Leads New Army

Japanese Rule in Korea
By Younghill Kang

(WNU Feature—Through special arrangement with American Magazine.)

Korea today is an object lesson to the world of what can happen to a nation that is conquered by Japan. Koreans, during the years of Japanese occupation, have been enslaved as no other people in the modern world.

During the long years of peace since Japan conquered Korea, she has had every opportunity to show to this prostrate, disarmed and helpless people some glimmer of justice, fairness and common humanity. She has shown none. With every passing year of her rule of torture, she has ground the Korean people into a deeper humiliation.

Yet she has not broken the spirit of the Koreans, and she knows it. Japan knows that in Korea, at her very doorstep in Asia, she has 22,000,000 deadly enemies who would fight her tomorrow if they had arms in their hands.

Rule by Armed Force.

The Japanese government in Korea is an army-police dictatorship. The dictator is the Japanese governor-general, responsible to no one except to the emperor of Japan—which means, in practice, the military clique around the emperor. The governor-general rules through swarms of Jap police and secret police—spies—backed up by an army of occupation.

Under this rule the Korean has no rights which the Japanese must respect. Suppose you are a Korean living in Korea today. If you walk down the street you can be slapped, spat upon, or kicked by any Jap who does not happen to like your looks, or who thinks you did not jump off the sidewalk quickly enough as he approached. Technically, you can sue the Jap in court for redress. In practice, if you make any protest, the Jap police will mark you as a trouble maker and then you are in for it.

The police can search your home at any moment, without notice. They can arrest you without a warrant. Once arrested, you cannot see a lawyer, or even send word to your relatives where you are. You are presumed guilty. You can be flogged or tortured without trial and without appeal. You may be held for months or for years; you may be beaten to death or crippled for life. If, as occasionally happens, the police desire the formality of a trial, you are tortured with fire and the rack until you sign a fake confession.

"But surely," you may say, "such cruelties are unusual." They are not unusual, they are the rule. They happen to hundreds of ordinary people in Korea every day.

Every year tens of thousands of Koreans are flogged and tortured without trial. It can happen at any time to any Korean, man, woman or child.

Japan's Peace Terms.

What Japan has done in Korea she will do in the Philippines, in Burma, in the East Indies, in China and in India, if she wins this war. She will do it in the United States if she makes good the boast of the Jap admirals who say they will "dictate the peace terms in the White House in Washington."

Japan's most effective slogan in this war is that she is fighting for the freedom and prosperity of her Asiatic neighbors—"Asia for the Asiatics." Millions of people in India, Burma and the East Indies may have believed this slogan. I bid them look at Korea. Japan's true purpose is "Slavery for Asiatics Under Japanese Masters," and of that Korea is the living proof.

This will give some idea of how Koreans, of every class and business, exist under the brutal heel of Japanese rule.

Most Koreans are farmers. If you own a farm on land so barren that you can hardly scratch a miserable living off it, the Japs may let you keep it—though they will seize any crop at starvation prices for the Japanese army. If your farm has fertile land, the Japs grab it under legal pretext, then take you back on the land as a tenant or laborer, but actually as a slave.

America in Korea.

Today in Korea, key point of Asia, 22 million people stir again and dream of freedom. But when Korea is first set free, she will be almost as helpless as a man who has been bound up for many years in chains. That is what Jap rule has done.

Americans were their good friends in earlier days. Americans built the first railroad, the first electric light plant, the first water works in Korea. They constructed the first large Korean steamboats, and taught Koreans modern mining methods.

Army of School Children In Step With War Effort

Shortage of Teachers Is Most Serious Handicap Of New Academic Year.

Willard E. Givens, Executive Secretary
National Education Association of the United States.

The 30,000,000 school children who march back to school this month keep step with another army—an army burdened with the equipage of battle, whose units march in Australia, Ulster, South Carolina, Dutch Harbor, Colorado, Midway. Both armies are enlisted in the same "total war," both have the same objective—victory.

This is to be a story of the army that is answering the schoolbell, of the rebuffs it faces, of its part in the fight. The school army is not as large this autumn as it usually is; some of those who would have marched with it are in the other army, or stand beside assembly lines, or pore over drafting boards, or are busy in laboratories. The high school, especially, will have fewer students, fewer teachers; for the teachers, too, have gone to the fighting fronts, to the factories.

100,000 Fewer Teachers.

The most serious handicap which the schools face due to the war is the loss of teachers. It is estimated that up to 100,000 of them, a tenth of the total number, are not in their school-rooms this fall.

Many of the men teachers have joined the colors. Newly created auxiliary forces will take many of the women teachers, too. Many of those still with their school classes find that their incomes as teachers are not within reaching distance of the grocery basket. A teacher whose salary is $800 a year—the average salary paid to the teachers of a large midwestern state—accepts a war industry job that may net him three times as much money. He may not wish to leave his profession but he and his family must eat. There are many thousands of teachers whose salaries are not $800 a year, but $400 or $500 a year. A teacher who receives $500 a year will look longingly at a position in a government office paying $1,600 a year. She is quite likely to be qualified for it and quite likely to take it.

The shortage of teachers is naturally the most serious where the salary schedules are lowest, as in a southern state where the state average last year was $559 for all teachers and school officers, but there is a trek from schoolroom to factory all over the nation.

The most alarming phase of the teacher shortage is that it is greatest in the school subject areas that are most vital to the war effort. Teachers of physics, chemistry, mathematics, manual arts and certain of the biological sciences are in great demand in war industries and laboratories. When they leave the classroom for such work, they cease to train the thousands of students of mathematics and the sciences who are so urgently needed by the armed forces.

Between three and four million school children this fall will, therefore, find the school door closed when they arrive, or their educational opportunity considerably curtailed. Measures are being taken to minimize, as far as possible, the ill effects of the teacher shortage. Where students who have lost teachers are in the same school with those who still have teachers, classes are combined. This is usually not possible in rural areas where it may be many miles from a school which has one. Even where classes are combined, they often become so large and unwieldy that effective teaching is impossible. Former Teachers Urged to Return. Former teachers are being urged to return to the schoolroom. The ban against married women teachers is being removed in some communities.

All of these measures, however, offer only temporary relief, as was proved by the experience of World War I when the supply of teachers became so inadequate that the quality of education was greatly reduced. It is well worth considering, nevertheless, that efficient instruction depends largely upon the teacher and that fully trained teachers are now, and always will be, hard to get at a salary which will employ a clerical worker who can be prepared for her work in a few weeks.

The army of 30,000,000 is entering schools this year that are geared as fully as possible to the war effort. Whether or not there is a lack of teachers, the organization, administration and instructional methods employed will be adapted, within the limits of available staff and facilities, to war needs.

Effective Remedy

Only one remedy has much promise of being continuously effective. Teachers must be paid well enough to enable them to remain at teaching. This is impossible in some states unless the federal government participates in financial support of schools. Educators and friends of the schools are trying desperately to secure such aid. That, however, is another story.

In many communities the students of 1942-43 will find a whole new division of education—the nursery school. The Man Power commission of the federal government is thinking in terms of woman power as well as man power. It asks for 3,000,000 additional women in the war industries by January 1, 1943. A large percentage of them will be married women who have young children. The nursery school is being established to take care of these children while their mothers are in the factories and offices.

The nursery school is already a fixed educational level in many of the better school systems, and the necessities of war will likely increase the scope and efficiency of learning in the earlier years of childhood.

'Speed Up' School Army?

The school army will face the demand for speed made in every field of preparation for this war. The United Nations have until recently found themselves everywhere equipped too late with too little. Consequently the cry, "Hurry, hurry!" It is aimed at the assembly lines, the cantonments, and field operations. The urge has not missed the schools. Battles are fought by men who use machines; therefore

To carry on the war to a successful completion industry is requiring more and more youth with technical training. This young lady, intently studying an object through a high-powered microscope, will be well prepared to take one of the thousands of jobs which will be open to her when she leaves high school.

"hurry the preparation of men" is a logical demand. It has been proposed that high schools continue during the summer, on Saturdays and holidays, that the school terms be reduced in length in order to give those who will soon be under arms as much education as possible.

In general, educators have strongly opposed universal acceleration of high school pupils.

The attitude of the Wartime commission of the United States Office of Education may be taken as typical. Its recent report points out that hastening the progress of students through school will enable them to "go into defense jobs, defense training classes, non-defense jobs to replace persons who have left for defense jobs, or into the armed forces . . . or to enter college earlier." These purposes are commendable, but it rules against general acceleration in favor of stepping up the rate of progress only for pupils who are physically and intellectually able to speed up with profit to the war effort and no damage to the pupils themselves.

Because this opinion is so widely held by educators, there is little likelihood that the school year 1942-43 will be shorter than the years preceding it. Another policy will be followed by colleges and higher institutions where the maturity of students and the exigencies of war make acceleration feasible and profitable.

Different Courses Emphasized. The students who are entering school this month will find some outstanding shifts of emphasis in the courses of study since September, 1941. These do not represent radical changes.

Only a few of these changes can be offered by way of illustration. Geography is an excellent subject with which to begin since, unlike current events and history, it is usually thought of as not changing much from day to day.

The continents and oceans, the mountains and rivers are more or less constant in size and position. These physical facts, however, are not of great importance except as they affect the lives of men. The geography textbook, therefore, which includes a chapter on the rubber plantations of Sumatra and the Malay peninsula, is due for some revision. War has considerably altered the political status of great portions of the map, world commerce has found new trade routes, and trade itself is heavily in commodities little sought a few years ago.

Methods of travel are changing the character of the maps which today's students will use. Aviation has made the "flat map" or Mercator projection of secondary importance. The globe is taking its place.

Those of us who visualize Japan due west of the United States find it difficult to realize that airplanes on their shortest route from Tokyo to the Panama canal would first strike the United States somewhere on the Canadian border.

The Need for Mathematics. Mathematics, another study that is often thought of as fixed in nature since the same two numbers always add up to the same total, will see its change also. For many years the schools have been adjusting arithmetic to the daily needs of a people at peace. The textbook problems, therefore, have had to do with matters like life insurance, income taxes, budget making, home management and bookkeeping. Suddenly there comes a demand for skill in the use of the mathematics needed by the bombardier and gunner.

The reason for the lack of these skills is the same reason which prompted our government to sell scrap iron and gasoline to Japan. We were a peaceful people and hoped to remain so.

The mathematics of navigation and ballistics, the chemistry of the munitions worker, the physics of the military engineer will most certainly find their way into school and college curriculums and will stay there until the minds and hearts of men are set once more on the arts of peace.

JACOB SEEKS GOD'S HELP

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 32:2-12, 27-29.
GOLDEN TEXT—God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble.—Psalm 46:1.

"O God, our help in ages past,
Our hope for years to come,
Our shelter from the stormy blast,
And our eternal home."
—Isaac Watts.

How true it is that "God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble." Jacob found it so, even though his trouble came upon him because of his own misdeeds.

God had prospered him at Haran, but in due time he was led by circumstance and by direct guidance to return to his own land (Gen. 31:1-3). Hindrances arose, but Jacob pressed on. As he came toward home, however, he recalled the sin which had caused him to flee. He remembered now how he had defrauded Esau and this

I. Guilt Brought Fear (vv. 2-8). It always does. The sinful act of 20 years before now faced Jacob. He had left it behind and had all but forgotten it. He had hoped that the years would cover it, but they did not—and they never do.

"Be sure your sin will find you out" (Num. 32:23)—perhaps not this week or this year, or next; but until it is dealt with and forgiven it is there to rise up and plague you sooner or later.

Jacob's fear was increased by hearing that Esau came out to meet him with 400 men. He tried by his own devices to meet the situation, but ultimately realized that his predicament had reached the point where only God could help him.

How like us, trying everything else until we realize its futility, and then turning to God. How delightfully simplified life becomes when we turn to God first. Yet we are glad that Jacob's

II. Fear Brought Prayer (vv. 9-12).

It was real prayer, too, although, as W. H. Griffith Thomas suggests, it is strange that after his blessed personal experience with God he addressed Him only as the God of his fathers and not his own God (v. 9). Then, too, his faith seemed a bit weak, for it was coupled with great fear (v. 11).

We are told that fear is not a proper motive for turning men to God. Perhaps it is not the highest motive, but both in Scripture and in experience we find it to be true that fear often leads men to God in real repentance and faith. If the goodness and grace of God do not touch man's heart, it is assuredly far better that he should be saved through fear than to be eternally lost.

Jacob, however, needed a further experience of dependence upon God before he could be brought back in peace into the land. He was led to send everyone away so that he was alone when the Lord dealt with him and

III. Prayer Brought Blessing (vv. 27-29).

Jacob, who had by deceit taken the promise from Esau instead of awaiting God's time to give it to him, was now about to attempt another skillful scheme which would have won over Esau and sent Jacob into his land glorying in his own ability. In spite of all God's dealings with him, he was still Jacob the supplanter. So God had to deal with him.

We sometimes think of the grace of God only as that which brings us blessing and joy, but often God is being most gracious and considerate of our real need by sending opposition and hardship.

The divine visitor let Jacob struggle all night, giving him a chance to submit of his own will; but when it was evident that he would not, he was shown that his own strength would not do, for he was made lame (v. 25).

The very thing which made Jacob sure of his own strength became his weakest point at the touch of God. He was not the last one to learn that lesson.

The comment of F. B. Meyer on this entire scene is most helpful: "Note that Jacob did not lay hold of this visitor, but the visitor lay hold of him. This is not a picture of a man coming to God, to wrestle with God in prayer, but a record of God coming to man, to break the spirit of stubbornness and self-sufficiency which a particular man has for too long a time habitually manifested. All night these two wrestled, the one from heaven and the one of earth, and when, at the dawn of day, Jacob saw that he could not prevail against the man, in his exhaustion and weariness he suddenly felt the touch of the stranger's hand on his thigh. Immediately his thigh was out of joint, rendering him absolutely helpless. But now Jacob realized that the one with whom he had wrestled all night was a divine person; and, whereas early in the night he was held in the grip of the other, now he refused to release his grasp of the visitor until he received a blessing from him."

Public-Spirited Woman Encounters a Little Boy

Something about the appearance of the begrimed little chap on the street halted the lady, who inquired, "Little boy, haven't you any home?"

"Oh, yes'm, I've got a home." "I'm afraid you don't know what affection really is. Are your parents bringing you up to be a good and helpful citizen?" "Yes'm."

"Will you tell your mother to come and hear me talk on 'When a Mother's Duty to Her Child Begins' at two o'clock next Monday afternoon at Lyceum hall?"

"What's the matter with you, Ma," shouted the little fellow, "I'm your little boy."

When you hear a Marine called a "Leatherneck," it has nothing to do with the epidermis of his neck. Years ago the Marine uniform was equipped with a high stiff leather collar supposed to give a more military carriage. From that time on, "Leatherneck" has been the word for a Marine. The word for his favorite cigarette is "Camel"—the favorite cigarette also of men in the Army, Navy, and Coast Guard. (Based on actual sales records from service men's stores.) So if you want to make a hit with your friends or relatives in the service, send a carton of Camels. Your local dealer is featuring Camel cartons for service men.—Adv.

What Causes Your Constipation?

The super-refined foods we eat these days too often do not give us enough "bulk food." And medical science tells us that lack of sufficient "bulk" is one of the commonest causes of constipation.

If that is your trouble, harsh cathartics and violent purges are, at best, only temporary remedies. How much better to get at the cause and correct it! Why not make sure that you are getting the "bulk" you need by eating Kellogg's All-Bran? All-Bran is a delicious, crispy cereal that millions of folks rely on. Eat All-Bran yourself—eat it daily—and drink plenty of water—not only to get regular but to keep regular. All-Bran is made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. If your condition is not helped by this simple treatment, it's wise to see a doctor.

Now, throughout the land, such scenes as this one taken of the aviation technical course in a Brooklyn (N. Y.) high school are common. Reading, writing, and repairing is the theme today.

Direct War Work Enlists Student Aid

The boys and girls who constitute our school army this year will not only find their geography and mathematics and history and science adjusted to present needs, they will devote a great deal of time to direct war work. They will assist in the sale of war stamps and bonds, salvage for war purposes a great part of the metal and rubber and paper and fats that the American home supplies to the war factories. They will sew for the Red Cross and aid the nursing staffs of many hospitals. In their school organizations as well as in their classes they will try to understand the war, to maintain morale on the part of themselves and others, to prepare for their part in the peace that is the supreme objective of all free peoples of the world. Not a day will pass this year without reminding the student of his duties as a citizen, without putting him actively to work in the machinery of democracy at war.

This Is a 'Corker'

Here's a story that may well be termed a "corker." Recently Robert E. Adams of Shreveport, La., mourned the disappearance of $40, his whole week's pay. He considered himself a "hard-luck guy." A happy ending came later, however, when he found the money—in his cork leg. Adams said he apparently had put the money in his trousers pocket in which there was a hole, and the money fell through into the artificial limb.

And it is further ordered, that within forty days after the date hereof, the said Petitioner shall cause copy of this order to be published in the Tawas Herald, a newspaper printed, published and circulated in said County of Iosco, and that such publication be continued once in each week for six successive weeks, or that said Petitioner cause a copy of this order to be served on said Charles H. GHOST PLANE

By ARTHUR STRINGER

W.N.U. SERVICE

THE STORY SO FAR: To keep Norland Airways in business, Slade agrees to fly a so-called scientist named Frayne and his partner, Karnell, to the Anawotto river in search of the trumpeter swan. With the proceeds Slade's partner, Cruger, buys a Lockheed plane, which is stolen. When he returns from the Anawotto Slade starts out to recover the plane. In this he is being helped by an eskimo named Umanak and by his old prospector friends, Zeke and Minty. Acting on a hunch Slade has gone to Frayne's camp and has discovered that the missing plane is hidden there. Slim Tumstead, a flyer who has lost his license for drinking and is little more than an outlaw, has been flying it for Frayne. But when Slade attempts to examine the plane's cargo he is knocked unconscious by Karnell. Tumstead saves him from being killed by Karnell, only to abandon him later on a deserted island because he "knows too much." Tumstead has just taken off again, after leaving Slade with only a knife, a pound of German army chocolate, a can of "bully" beef and what looks like an empty tin.

Now continue with the story.

CHAPTER XIV

He placed the knife on the shore slope. Beside it he placed the pound of German chocolate, and beside that again the tin of bully-beef. After studying them for a long time he reached for the tobacco tin.

This, when he opened it, proved not to be entirely empty. In it, to his surprise, he found half a dozen steel fishhooks.

He stared at them for a full minute, remembering how more than one bush pilot had the habit of carrying such things in his emergency equipment. They gave a promise of food, in case of a forced landing in a wilderness threaded with waterways.

Then, with a gasp of apprehension, he crawled about the slope, carefully retrieving the scattered lengths of cord that had been cut from his wrists and ankles. The best of them were only a few feet in length. But he had proof enough of their strength. And when knotted together they would provide him with a fish line that might land anything from an inconnu to a five-pound whitefish.

That gave him the courage to climb the rocky ledge behind him and examine his island. There was growth enough about him, he saw, to make a shelter of some sort, growth enough for firewood and the smoking of fish. And along the westerly shore where the slopes ended in sedgy meadows his gaze came to rest on a wide field of bulrushes. That gave him new hope.

He was alone in an empty world. But as he stood straight on his lonely ridge of rock he told himself that he hadn't yet reached the end of his rope.

Two embattled and odd-looking figures groped their way northward between the muskies and the rocky hogbacks that stretched out to the skyline beyond Lake Avikaka. Each man carried a rifle and a cartridge belt that bristled with shells. Each was further burdened down with a blanket roll and a grub bag. From the waist of one dangled a belt-ax, from the waist of the other swung a skillet and tea pail.

They went on, stoically slapping at black-flies and mosquitoes, until weariness overtook them and a lowering sun told them it was time to call it a day. Then they made camp, cooked their bacon and flapjacks, adjusted their mosquito bars, and rolled up in their worn and smoke-stained four-pointers.

When morning came they broke camp and once more hit the trail. They saw the sun climb higher in the heavens and the muskies become fewer as they advanced into a country of bolder rock ridges with a scattering of tamarack along their southern slopes. They saw the shadows lengthen and the light once more thin out. And once more they made camp, and slept, and pushed on again.

"We're on the proper trail all right," observed Minty as he mounted a knoll and surveyed the surrounding landscape. "There's the black-water lake I skirted on my way back."

"There's been folks here before us," asserted Zeke, pointing to where scrub spruce had been cut along the hill slope.

"From the first crack out of the box," said Minty, "I had a queer feelin' about that two-eyed swan-hunter. I knew he wasn't edgin' up into this district of ours for any good."

"Then why's he here?"

"That's what I'm a-goin' to find out," retorted the grizzled old prospector, "before he gits another sneakin' shot at my carcass."

It was as they were circling cautiously along the westerly arm of the lake that Zeke stopped short on a ridge crest that ended in a deep-water bayou. For moored close in under a cliff there he saw the scarred and sun-bleached wings of a plane.

"That's the Snow-Ball Baby," was Minty's sudden exclamation.

"That's Lindy's old crate all right," agreed the perplexed Zeke. "But where's our puddle-jumper?"

They still hesitated in their approach. But curiosity finally overcame them. When they found no pilot there, after invading its cabin, they regarded each other for a moment of silence.

"If they want to do it Injin style," said Minty, "it's okay with me."

"I don't like the look o' this," Zeke finally asserted.

"Chances are he's scoutin' round on foot," maintained Minty as he clambered ashore. But Zeke, who remained to assess the cabin's contents, shook a dubious head.

"There's grub and extra gas in there," he reported when he rejoined his companion. "There's even blankets and fly nets and one o' them new-fangled air mattresses."

"Then you'll see him headin' back here pronto," Minty persisted.

But at the end of an hour's wait the azure of his optimism was shadowed by a cloud or two.

"Something's happened to that boy," averred Zeke as his old eyes once more swept the silent rock ridges.

"Then it's up to us to roost here and keep an eye on his plane," was Minty's suggestion.

"I don't like the idee o' that ship anchored close in here where any outsider could climb aboard," said Zeke. "Where she ought to be is out in the middle o' that lake with a quarter-mile o' water between her and shore."

"How'd you git her there?" asked Minty, as he studied the plane. "I always had a hankerin' for knowin' how to handle one o' them contraptions. And right now that hankerin' is stronger'n ever."

But Zeke had his own ideas about the matter.

"I could float her out and anchor her there with a couple o' rock-slabs tied to her moorin'-lines," he explained. "Then she'd be where no one could sneak up on her."

"And how'd you git back?" demanded Minty.

"I'd blow up that air mattress of Lindy's and paddle ashore. And when our bush hawk shows back he can sail out to her in the same way."

"S'posin' he don't show back?"

"Then it's up to us," said Zeke, "to find out what's keepin' him away from a ship he'd never desert of his own free will."

But the shifting of the Snow-Ball to its new berth was no easy matter. And even with the plane safely anchored in mid-lake Zeke's troubles were not over. The inflated air mattress, from the first, proved a precarious craft. When halfway to shore, in fact, Zeke lost his balance and went overboard, with Minty's anxious eyes watching his struggles as he floundered about and finally resumed his perch on the little raft of rubber.

Minty, standing guard on his rock point, knew what would be needed, and needed at once. He dropped his rifle and lost no time in gathering wood and starting a fire. The flames were roaring by the time the wet and bedraggled Zeke crawled up the shore slope. His teeth were chattering and his language was blasphemous.

"Quit cussin'," admonished Minty, "and git out o' them clothes before they chill you to the bone."

Zeke's shirt was dry by the time he was ready to drink his tea. And his ill temper had departed by the time the dignity of clothing was restored to his sinewy old body.

"We can't squat round these embers no longer," he announced.

"What we've got 'o do is sleuth out them white-skinned Comanches who're musclin' in on our domain."

"Lead me to 'em," said Minty as he shouldered his pack and took up his rifle.

But Zeke, at the moment, was busy mounting a near-by ridge. He stood scanning the blue-misted slopes between him and the lowering sun. He squinted long and closely at the wooded crest across a wide valley studded with glacial headheads. And as he looked he saw a puff of smoke bloom for a moment against the hill-top spruce gloom at the same time a bullet whined over his head.

His reaction to that was automatic.

He dropped to the far side of the ridge, where he lay shouting for Minty to get under cover. But Minty disregarded that advice. He stood with his rifle at half-arm, studying the wooded crest across the valley. But the whine of a second bullet sent him ducking behind the shelter of a hardhead.

"They want fightin', eh?" he cried as he leveled his rifle along the stone top. "Well, they'll git it a-plenty." But, after a two-man council of war, they realized that closing in on the enemy was not so simple as it might seem.

"If they want to do it Injin style," said Minty, "it's okay with me. There's no reason why two can't play at that game."

"But dodgin' round rock corners ain't goin' to find Alan," Zeke protested. "And our first job is to git trace o' that boy."

If they declined to retreat, however, they made their advance a more circuitous one. When night-fall came they quartered off at an angle, advancing craftily from rock shadow to rock shadow, their old eyes searching every ridge slope and hollow. But they encountered no sign of life. When weariness overtook them one would sleep for two hours while the other kept watch.

"I don't like this lull in things," observed Zeke as he blinked about the silent ridges. "Makes me suspicious them swan-hunters might be puttin' something over on us."

"Let 'em try it," barked Minty after a look into his cartridge chamber.

Zeke's weathered old face remained troubled.

"But while we're pirootin' through these empty pine woods and indulgin' our personal appetite for lead-singin' they might be back-trackin' to Alan's Snow-Ball Baby. And I don't want 'o see anything happen to that boy's ship."

"It won't," averred Minty, "while I've still got a trigger to pull."

"Then my vote," said Zeke, "goes to gittin' back to that plane and standin' watch there until Alan shows up."

Minty adjusted his blanket roll and tightened his belt.

"I reckon you're right for once," he conceded.

Seated on the barren shore of his sub-arctic island, Alan Slade knew a recurring pang of despair much sharper than any pain in his abused body.

His first task, he told himself, was to take in the circle of his world, the only world that remained to him. His steps grew steadier as he mounted the shore slope and worked his way up to one of the bolder ridge crests.

From that vantage point he carefully studied his island.

That island, he found, was not so large as it had first seemed. So far as he could see it was empty of animal life. And this seemed confirmed as he explored its irregular shoreline. Along the rockier shore to the east, where he had hoped to stumble on driftwood, he found nothing beyond a tangle of bleached boles and branches, the best of them little thicker than a caribou-prong. They were useful only as a reserve of firewood.

The thought of a fire reminded him that one of his first needs was a shelter of some kind. He knew the north too well to nurse much fear of marauding animals. More than wandering bear or wolf, his enemies there would be the voracious arctic mosquito and the black-fly that left a burning ring of poison about its bite.

Under one of the higher crests he found a rock-jut with an over-hanging lip that made a shallow cave. The floor of that cave, he saw, he could bed with dried moss and sedge grass. The face of it he could close in with loose rocks and a matrix of scrub-timber branches from the near-by slopes. It would not only protect him from wind and rain but with a smudge fire going in its entrance it would be a defense against mosquitoes and black-flies. It would, for the time being, be his home.

To it he carried his beef-tin and his chocolate, his sheath knife and his precious little can of fishhooks, together with every carefully salvaged foot of the equally precious cord that had been cut from his wrists and ankles. For on those strands of cord, he remembered, might yet hang his hope of deliverance. With the evening coolness deepening around him he felt the need of a fire. He regretted not having an ax.

Fresh-From-the-Vine Grapes Make Clear, Bright Jelly!
(See Recipes Below.)

Meals—With Zest

Does meal after meal slip by unnoticed, eaten only because it does away with hunger? Do your meals pull their punches so to speak—look good, have proper balance, contrast in texture, etc., but still seem to lack something vital?

A dinner, lunch or breakfast that lacks a sense of completeness is like a ham sandwich without mustard, meat without seasoning, fish without a tart sauce, a pie without a flaky crust. The small things that do big things for menus are the relishes, pickles, jams and jellies, which brings me to today's topic.

Relishes such as pickles, jellies, preserves and preserves can supply that sense of completeness to a meal if you use them with a thought to flavor affinity.

For chicken try strawberry or plum jam. Goose calls for spiced peach jam or apple jelly. Orange and cherry jam or relish are tops with bland duck. Spiced grape jam or gooseberry jams are "musts" with beef just as mint or crabapple jelly are musts with lamb. Pair off that golden brown ham with plum jelly or horseradish mixed with grape jelly. Veal needs currant or blackberry jam.

If you can't get quince jelly, try cranberry jelly with pork. Liver will be extra good with tomato relish.

Think of all the plate lunches and sandwiches you are going to serve the year 'round for lunches, snacks and pack-up boxes. You'll need these:

*Bread and Butter Pickles.

(Makes 8 pints)

12 large cucumbers

4 onions, sliced

4 cups sugar

1 quart vinegar

3 cups water

4 teaspoons celery seed

4 teaspoons mustard seed

2 teaspoons tumeric

Cut cucumbers in 1/4 inch slices. Soak with onions in strong salt water for 4 hours. Combine remaining ingredients and bring to a boil. Add strained cucumber and onion slices. Bring to a boil again and boil 5 minutes. Pack into hot, sterilized jars.

Concord grapes are plentiful in the fall and make delicious jelly. You can substitute corn syrup in this one:

*Concord Grape Jelly.

(Makes 11 medium glasses)

4 cups juice

7 1/2 cups sugar

1/2 bottle fruit pectin

You will need about 3 pounds of grapes for four cups of juice. Wash and stem grapes and crush grapes. Add just enough water to keep from scorching, bring to a boil and simmer 5 minutes. Strain juice through cheesecloth. Measure out 4 cups. Measure sugar and mix with juice. Bring to a boil over hottest fire, stirring constantly. Bring to a full, rolling boil and boil hard 1/2 minute. Remove from fire, skim, and pour into hot, sterilized jelly glasses. Paraffin at once.

Note: 2 cups of light corn syrup may be substituted in this recipe for two cups of sugar. Use 5 1/2 cups of sugar and 2 cups light corn syrup in the recipe for Concord Grape jelly.

*Peach and Plum Jam. (Makes 8 small glasses)

1 pound blue plums

1 1/2 pounds peaches

1 box powdered fruit pectin

4 1/2 cups sugar

Or

2 cups light corn syrup

2 1/2 cups sugar

Peel and pit peaches. Chop finely. Pit plums and chop until fine. Add powdered pectin (or pectin, sugar and corn syrup.) Mix well and bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Bring to a full rolling boil, and boil hard 1 minute. Remove from heat and skim. Pour into hot, sterilized glasses and seal.

Quinces come into their own in the fall and if you're fond of them, plan to put up some:

*Quince Honey.

(Makes 6 small glasses)

1 1/2 pounds quinces

2 1/2 cups water

2 tablespoons lemon juice

3 cups sugar

Wash, pare and core quinces. Add water to peelings and cook 30 minutes. Grate quinces very thin, or slice thinly. Weigh pulp and use 1 pound. Add lemon juice and strained liquid from peelings. Cook until tender, add sugar, and cook until two drops fall from spoon at same time, or when a drop jells easily on a saucer. Pour into sterile glasses and seal.

Nothing compares to the sweet, spicy, home-like smell of the making of chili sauce:

*Chili Sauce.

(Makes 5 quarts)

1 gallon chopped, peeled tomatoes

1 cup chopped onions

1 1/2 cups chopped green peppers

1 cup vinegar

1 cup sugar

3 tablespoons salt

1 1/2 teaspoons ground allspice

2 tablespoons cinnamon

1 1/2 teaspoons cloves

The spices loosely in cheesecloth. Boil with vegetables until mixture is reduced to half its original quantity, stirring all the while to prevent scorching. Add vinegar, salt, sugar and boil rapidly for 5 minutes. Pour into hot sterilized jars and seal immediately.

*Pickled Peaches. (Makes 8 pints)

3 cups honey

3 cups vinegar

2 cups water

1 teaspoon salt

1 tablespoon whole cloves

2 sticks cinnamon

5 quarts peaches

Heat honey, vinegar, water and salt. Scald peaches, remove skins and insert cloves. Place a few in the boiling syrup, add cinnamon and cook until peaches are tender, and acquire a slightly transparent look. Pack in sterilized jars, cover with boiling syrup and seal.

Varies Sports Records

Although gravity and the rotation of the earth differ sufficiently with latitude and altitude to make or break many sports records, no athlete or judge of athletic games has ever been known to take them into consideration, says Collier's. For example, a man can put the shot farther in Bombay than in Helsinki owing to the decrease in gravity, and he can also throw it farther east than west in any city, owing to the earth's rotation.

Household Hints

Waste paper baskets are easily made by pasting wall paper on a cardboard box or bucket.

When the sleeve of a sweater or of a silk or wool dress becomes worn, conceal any mended place with peasant embroidery made with wool thread.

Use lukewarm water and borax to wash out your refrigerator. This keeps it sweet and clean, also, a piece of charcoal kept on one of the shelves will absorb all odors.

Potatoes that are to be french fried should stand in cold water at least an hour before cooking.

To remove chewing gum from clothes, apply ice. This will harden the gum and it will peel off.

Fibers are broken in the backs of rugs and carpets when they are beaten. It is better to use a vacuum cleaner on rugs for short periods twice a week than for a longer period once a week.

EPILEPSY

Some years ago I expressed the personal thought that if I had been gifted with the qualities of a research physician, the investigation as to the cause of epilepsy would have been my first challenge, after cancer. Despite the fact that it is one of the oldest known diseases, the actual cause is unknown.

We know that too much liquid in the body brings on the attacks in some individuals. We know that some cases are due to injury. We know also that cutting down on starch foods and increasing fat foods is all that is necessary to prevent attacks in some individuals.

In addition to the knowledge now possessed by physicians everywhere there are many research physicians still patiently working on the problem of epilepsy. It might be well to speak of the Harvard Epilepsy commission where the original work of Drs. H. H. Merritt and T. J. Putnam on dilantin sodium outlined in the Journal of the American Medical Association four years ago, is being further investigated and results reported to physicians everywhere.

For years, successful treatment of epilepsy has, as outlined above, been (a) cutting down on liquids, (b) cutting down on starch foods, (c) increasing fat foods. The medical treatment has been phenobarbital or other of the barbitol drugs which replaced the bromides of former years.

A new drug in use for the past few years is dilantin sodium, the use of which has been reported by Drs. Merritt and Putnam in Boston, and Dr. C. P. Kimball among the children attending the Detroit board of education's special school for epileptics.

While physicians report still some unpleasant reactions from dilantin sodium and prefer phenobarbital, more and more dilantin sodium is coming into general use to prevent the epileptic convulsions.

Until, then, the cause of epilepsy is found, epileptics can, in most cases, live safely with none of the fears of attacks occurring in public or dangerous situations by following the diet suggestions mentioned above and the use of dilantin sodium or phenobarbital as prescribed by their physician.

Massage Relieves Pain and Stiffness

During and immediately following the war of 1914-18, the value of massage in quieting pain, loosening up stiff joints and muscles, aiding the circulation, helping to move the wastes along the large bowel was so well recognized that schools of massage, sometimes as a part of a course in physical therapy, were established, and, when connected with recognized colleges, diplomas were given.

Just before this present war started massage was not receiving as much attention as it deserved but now there is renewed interest therein in actual field operations and even in training camps.

Unfortunately it is only at war time that physicians as a whole give any attention to massage; even then it is left to non-physicians not only to give the actual massage but often to prescribe the type of massage that should be given in any particular case. Thus Dr. Ralph Pemberton, Philadelphia, in his "Handbook of Physical Therapy" states "There is probably no other measure of equal known value which is so little used and understood by the medical profession as a whole."

At one time it was thought that massage had just the same effect upon the muscles as exercise; in fact was a form of exercise but the benefit derived is now believed due to another cause.

Why is massage so helpful to stiff, painful joints and muscles? In the Journal of the American Medical Association, Dr. George Morris Piersol, Philadelphia, states that from direct observation on the circulation of the blood in the little blood vessels (capillaries) massage causes an increased rate of blood flow and changes in the vessel walls followed by an increased interchange of substances between the blood and tissue cells. That is, the blood takes away from the tissues the substances causing tiredness, stiffness and pain, and brings to these tissues fresh blood.

Q.—What is the difference between an oculist and an optometrist? My husband has recovered from a serious illness and though his appetite is good, he doesn't seem to gain weight. Can you suggest a cause for this?

A.—An optometrist is trained to measure the needs of the eyesight and prescribe glasses needed. The oculist is a physician and surgeon and has the knowledge to prescribe for vision also.

We Can All Be EXPERT BUYERS

● In bringing us buying information, as to prices that are being asked for what we intend to buy, and as to the quality we can expect, the advertising columns of this newspaper perform a worth while service which saves us many dollars a year.

● It is a good habit to form, the habit of consulting the advertisements every time we make a purchase, though we have already decided just what we want and where we are going to buy it. It gives us the most priceless feeling in the world: the feeling of being adequately prepared.

● When we go into a store, prepared beforehand with knowledge of what is offered and at what price, we go as an expert buyer, filled with self-confidence. It is a pleasant feeling to have, the feeling of adequacy. Most of the unhappiness in the world can be traced to a lack of this feeling. Thus advertising shows another of its manifold facets—shows itself as an aid toward making all our business relationships more secure and pleasant.

At the Library

During the past two weeks Miss Leonora Hass, Iosco County Librarian has culled, classified and directed the cataloging of the Hale Library. The library is now housed in the new High School building and will be ready for use by the time school opens. The Hale library will receive a supplementary book collection from the County Library.

One hundred and forty new books came this week from the Children's Fund of Michigan. In the collection is Walter Edmonds book of "Matchlocked Gun" which has been chosen by the American Library Association as the most distinguished contribution to literature for children, published in 1941. It is a stirring story of young American courage, written by a man who knows how to make history live. It is a straightforward deeply moving tale of a small boy, his smaller sister, their mother and an antique matchlock gun.

The story is a true one. The scene is laid in the Hudson Valley when New York State was still a British colony and the French and Indians were still raiding the Dutch homes all the way to Guelderland.

The Van Alstyne were real people. Teunis, the sturdy Dutch father, was summoned to watch for marauding Indians. Before leaving home, he took down from the wall the great Spanish gun and gave it to his son. Although the huge matchlock gun was too heavy for young Edward to hold up alone, he was proud that his father had handed it over to him—and with it the protection of his mother and sister. The Indians did come and Edward played his part in saving this typical American family.

And so Walter Edmonds shows American boys and girls the brave heritage which young VanAlstyne left behind for them to carry on.

There are many other lovely books in the collection. The little folks up to nine years old will enjoy the following books—"Make Way for the Ducklings" by McClosky, "Eiffel" "Peter Church Mouse" and Gabriel Church Kitten" by Mary Austin. "Chessie and her Kittens" by Ruth Carroll, "Lets go to the Seashore" by H. E. Huntington, Ambrose Kangaroo" by E. MacIntyre, "War Time Handbook for Young Americans" by Munre Leaf, "Three Smart Squirrels" by Margaret Friskey, "The Circus Parade" by Lydia Furbish, "Major and the Kittens" by Helen Hoke, "Nappy wanted a Dog" by Kurt Hoggan, "The Rabbits Revenge" by Hugh Weisse, "Fancy be Good" by Audry Chalmers.

Boys and girls from nine to twelve will enjoy reading this group of books: "Bells of Grass" by Water DeLaMere, "Greased Lightning" by Sterling North, "Jerry Foster, Salesman" by Elmer Ferris, "Stars to Steer by" by Louis Untermeyer, "Wings for the Smiths" by Alice Dagliesh, "Two children of Brazil" by Rose Brown, "Wings around South America" by Alice Dagliesh, "Timothy Turtle" by Alice Davis, "Franzi and Gizi" by Margery Bianco, "Winabogo" by James C. Bowman, "Little Lost Sioux" by Martha Rache, "Dhan of the Pearl Country" by Phyllis Sowers, "Flight of the Silver Bird" by R. L. Carroll.

Boys and girls from twelve to fifteen will enjoy the following titles: "Wings for Defense" by Captain B. Leyson, "Misset Lee" by Arthur Ransome, "Rifles for Washington" by Elsie Singmaster, "Call it Courage" by Armstrong Sperry, "Adam of the Road" by Elizabeth Gray, "Sentries of the Sea" by J. J. Floherty.

Do You Know?

by Dorothy Scott
Tomatoes are for breakfast, lunch and dinner—tomatoes fresh, canned, or cooked—tomatoes sliced, juiced, or souped—tomatoes plain or combined in any of a dozen ways. The once feared "poison love apples" are among our most popular and versatile foods, second only to potatoes.

And, well it is so, for they are attractive, tasty and full of valuable vitamins we need. Just a word of caution when you can tomatoes (and I hope you can quarts and quarts this year) work quickly with small batches and heat no more than absolutely necessary before they are safely in the can with the lid on. The reason is that the tricky C vitamin goes up in steam when heated in the presence of air. For greatest preservation of food value and fresh flavor, let's cold pack tomatoes, in their own juices, and make tomato juice by straining canned tomatoes when you open them.

Sliced or quartered, fresh tomatoes add sparkle to every meal—or served with combinations from cucumber slices, lettuce, green pepper strips, or celery, make a variety of grand salads. For special occasions make a tossed salad of shredded cabbage, chopped celery, green pepper and salad dressing. Place a spoonful of this mixture into hollowed out tomatoes, and served on lettuce.

If you want to fix some different tomatoes, try this favorite of our family. Select medium size, firm ripe tomatoes. Wash, cut in half crosswise and place cut side up, in a skillet in which butter is melted. Let them heat slowly for 10 minutes while you fix minced green pepper and onion and place one teaspoonful on each half. Set in moderate oven about 10 minutes, or until tender. Remove tomatoes to a hot platter, and make gravy with the juice in the skillet, using milk and pour over the tomatoes. We like lots of gravy and have baked potatoes when we fix this tomato dish.

I'll bet your family has a special favorite—won't you let us in on it?

Origin of 'Vaudeville'
The word "vaudeville" is derived from the gay French songs called "Voix-de-Ville"—voices of the city—which originated in Normandy, in the valley of the Vire (Vaux de Vire).

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

The mess kit is one of the most important items in the Soldier's equipment. It consists generally of a pan, a plastic canteen and cup, a fork, knife and spoon, all in a canvas pack cover. The total cost runs up to about $2.00.

Canteens and other items such as handles on knives and forks, formerly made of aluminum, are now plastic. Alloy has replaced stainless steel. You can buy many of these mess kits for our boys with your purchases of War Bonds and Stamps. Invest at least 10 percent of your income in War Bonds or Stamps every pay day and top the quota in your county. U. S. Treasury Department
