

STANDISH HERE SUNDAY IN FIRST PLAYOFF

TAWAS CITY

LOCALS WIN FROM RHODES IN 3-2 GAME

Gackstetter's Home Run In Ninth Inning Breaks Tie

By virtue of a 3 to 2 win over the league leading Rhodes team, last Sunday, Tawas City gained themselves a position in the play-offs that begin this Sunday. In the first round of the play-offs that will begin Sunday, Standish will play at Tawas City and Gladwin will play at Tawas City. These games are some of the more important games of the year and should prove interesting to the fans. The Tawas diamond and grounds are being brought into shape for the event and the collapsible bleachers will be set up for a larger seating capacity. Come out Sunday and help Tawas win the first play-off game. The game will begin at 2:30. Admissions will be 25c and 10c.

In a very close and exciting game, Tawas City defeated Rhodes 3 to 2. It was an exceptionally well played game with high caliber pitching and fielding keeping the fans on "pins and needles" throughout the game.

The highlight of the day was a ninth inning home run by Rollie Gackstetter, breaking a 2 to 2 tie. Though McCoy struck out less men and allowed more hits, he was the most effective, bearing down in the pinches and making the opposing batsmen hit to the infield, with the infield making nineteen of the putouts.

Next Wednesday, September 9th, Tawas City will play the Alpena Merchants as one of the attractions of the Alpena County Fair.

Gackstetter was the only Tawas player able to hit safely twice, getting a home run and a single. Bontrager led Rhodes with three hits, two doubles and a single.

Rhodes took a one run lead in the first inning on a single by Dombrowski, a fielders choice and a single by Bontrager. In the fourth Tawas tied the score with a double and a single by Gackstetter.

Rhodes again took the lead in the sixth; Groat singled, stole second and scored on Bontrager's double. In the seventh Tawas tied up the score on Rapp's single and scored on consecutive errors by the short-stop.

The locals scored the winning run in the ninth, when after two were out, Gackstetter poled one of Haven's slants over the center field fence for the winning run. In Rhodes' half of the ninth, Wizner grounded out to short; H. Groat batting for Grant singled; Groat in trying to steal second was thrown out by Peterson with a perfect peg. Haven singled, and again Peterson threw out Haven with an identical peg as the first when Haven tried to pilfer second.

Score by Innings:
Rhodes 100 001 000-2
Tawas City 000 100 101-3

IOSCO COUNTY SCHOOLS OPEN NEXT TUESDAY

Tawas City

Tawas will welcome back that old familiar sound next Tuesday morning when the old school bell peals out over the city. Students are anxious to see what the new teachers will look like, and to see how the veterans have survived the summer.

There will be a number of changes in the high school faculty, Miss Benedict, Miss Ricker and Superintendent Carlson being all that remains of last year's staff. Mr. Carlson, who has been in the community all summer, will teach history and civics, in addition to taking care of his administrative duties.

Howard Malcolmson of Beaverton will teach science and mathematics, and act as coach. He is a graduate of Central Michigan and has had six years of experience, having taught at Standish and Johannesburg.

Chester Roberts will succeed Mr. Kreiger, who was called to the army last summer. Mr. Roberts received his training at the Michigan State Normal at Ypsilanti, and is anxious to greet the boys in the shop.

Miss Vera Senab, a graduate of Northern Michigan College, will direct the band and teach English. Miss Senab has had several years of experience having taught at Sterling and in Illinois.

Miss Benedict has been working in the community during the last two weeks checking summer projects of the Home Economics girls. From reports the girls have done a good job.

Miss Ricker has been working at the Bomber Plant at Ypsilanti this summer and should be able to tell us about "How to make a Bomber".

Miss Myles will again teach the fifth and sixth grades, after having been employed in the local gas mask factory all summer.

Miss Worden will teach the second and third grades and Miss Bradlock will be the primary teacher.

Our janitor, Walter Anschuetz, is very busy putting the finishing touches on a good summer's work. Folks will be surprised to see how the old building has been shined up. Floors have been resealed from top to bottom and all furniture has been given a good coat of varnish.

Edward Lemke is busy putting the ward school in shape for opening day. The ward school will again house the kindergarten, and first and second grades.

We expect that the enrollment will remain about the same as last year. We have lost several families, who have moved to the city, but others have moved in to take their places.

Tuesday morning will be spent in classifying students and in giving out textbooks. All textbooks will be free to children who reside within the district. A rental fee of one dollar a year will be charged non-resident pupils.

We sincerely hope that this will be a happy school year for everybody and are anxious to get underway.

Buch-Bublitz

The marriage of Mrs. Martha Buch and Carl Bublitz was solemnized at a quiet wedding Tuesday afternoon at Emmanuel Lutheran church. Rev. J. J. Roelke officiated. They were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Albert Buch.

The bride was attired in a street length navy blue dress and had a corsage of yellow tea roses. Mrs. Albert Buch wore a black and white street length dress and a corsage of pink tea roses and white carnations.

Following the ceremony a dinner was served at the Barnes hotel to the immediate relatives and friends. They left on a wedding trip to the Upper Peninsula.

Both, Mr. and Mrs. Bublitz, are well known in the community and their many friends wish them happiness. Mr. Bublitz is a prominent businessman here.

With the Servicemen

1st Lieut. Eugene A. Smith, following the receiving of his "Wings" in June, has been assigned to the Air Forces Flying Training Command at Fort Worth, Texas.

Lieut. Smith is well known here. He is the son of A. R. Smith of Glenie and is a graduate of Oscoda High school and Iosco county normal. His wife is the former Arlene Curry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Waldo Curry of the Hemlock road. Lieut. Smith was called to active duty in the Air Corps, April 11, 1942. He had considerable experience as a civilian flyer.

"All well and safe" cabled Pvt. Henry Luce on his arrival last week at some port in Great Britain.

The first V-Mail to arrive at Hale was from Pvt. Buster Shellenbarger who is now some place in Australia. Buster has been in the army 14 months and is having an interesting experience.

Pvt. Louis Bouchard is now located at Camp Bouchard, California.

Pvt. Edward Libka has been transferred from Fort Custer to Co. B, 6th Bn., Fort McCellan, Alabama.

Pvt. Francis Klingler of Camp Merced, California is enjoying a furlough at his home in East Tawas.

Red Cross Notes

Knitters Attention—all finished articles are to be returned to Mrs. Edward Stevens who will have charge of the Red Cross knitting division in Tawas City. A supply of yarn for either Navy or Army sweaters is on hand. Call 250. Mrs. Leo Hoshack will have charge of the Red Cross sewing division in Tawas City.

HOW PARCELS MAY BE SENT TO NEW A. E. F.

Christmas Packages May Be Mailed Between Oct. 1 and Nov. 1

"Christmas mail for members of our armed forces abroad must be mailed between October 1 and November 1, the earlier the better," states Postmaster Lydia Bing. "Enclose each parcel 'Christmas Parcel'."

Packages shall not exceed 11 pounds in weight or 18 inches in length. Length and girth combined must not be over 42 inches. The public is urged by the War Department to restrict the size of Christmas parcels to that of an ordinary shoe box and the weight of six pounds.

The department points out that the members of the armed forces are amply provided with food and clothing and the people are urged not to include such in gift packages. All articles must be packed in substantial boxes and covered with wrappings of sufficient strength to withstand heavy weight and hard usage.

Combination packages may be made up to include miscellaneous toilet articles, hard candies, soaps, etc. The contents of such packages should be tightly packaged.

Sharp pointed or sharp edged instruments, such as knives and razors must be carefully wrapped so that they cannot cut through the covering of the package and damage other packages or injure postal employees.

No perishable matter should be included.

Intoxicants, inflammable materials, including matches and lighting fluids or poisons or compositions which may kill or injure another, or damage the mail must not be mailed in these packages.

Addresses must be legible and the name and address of the sender should be placed on the package. The addresses should contain the name, rank, serial number, branch of service, organization, P. O. number of addressee and the postoffice through which the package is routed.

Iosco Farmers Start To Plan For 1943

With a definite labor shortage in view, farmers are encouraged by County Agricultural Agent W. L. Finley to begin at once in making plans for the year of 1943.

Under normal conditions Iosco county farmers plant approximately seven acres of spring grain such as oats and barley to every acre of fall planted grain which included wheat and rye. This county is unable to produce sufficient grain crops to supply our livestock feeding requirements and we each year import considerable quantities of grain for feeding purposes. Our conditions best suit us for the production of roughages and farmers, according to Finley are to be commended for producing these crops which are best suited to our locality, however Finley admits that there is a place upon nearly every farm for a few acres of small grain. The first objective of the crop should be, as a nurse crop for a new alfalfa seeding, and the second objective should be the feed grain which is produced.

In order to save every possible day next spring it is suggested that the fall sown grain acreage of Iosco county be increased, thus spreading the spring work over a longer period of time.

Wheat and rye should be sown as soon now as possible. These crops have one insect pest which can be largely be controlled by a slightly delayed planting date. This pest is the "Hessian Fly." Plantings made in Iosco county after September 7th, according to the College Entomology Department, should largely avoid this crop pest. The average seeding rate is one-half bushels per acre and this seed should be treated for smut control. The local druggist can help by recommending a dependable seed treatment.

At the present time every acre of ground should be used at its maximum. To verify this statement Finley suggests that each acre of ground planted to wheat and rye should also grow a cash crop of vetch. The vetch may be planted at the same time with the wheat or rye at the rate of fifteen pounds per acre. The vetch will in no way reduce the grain yield and may produce a cash crop of vetch seed worth from $5.00 to $30.00 per acre. Vetch seed is today worth about $9.00 per cwt. at the farm.

Commercial fertilizer may help also! The bushels of grain produced may not be greatly increased by us (Turn to No. 2 Back Page)

EAST TAWAS

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON
Consolidated Features.—WNU Release.

NEW YORK.—In 1924, a handsome young English society girl, daughter of an admiral, living in the suburbs of London, turned away from parties and dances. She told her friends that the failure of England to make a better life after the war, the "artificiality" of her social coterie, the "sterility" of a machine civilization, had made her customary life intolerable and that she was withdrawing. "To find peace within my own soul," she found jail and exile and jail again the other day, but, as she has always insisted, she also found the peace of mind and spirit which she sought.

She is Miss Madeleine Slade, somewhat inaccurately identified in the news as Mohandas K. Gandhi's secretary, arrested in Bombay with Gandhi and others in the government's drive against the civil disobedience campaign. As well as secretary, she has been Gandhi's cook, nurse, disciple, adviser, co-strategist, high priestess of his non-violence doctrine, and a faithful herald of the mahatma's "divine mission."

We talked to her a few moments, in a large company in New York in 1934, when, if we remember correctly, she was visiting the late Lillian Wald, of the Henry Street settlement. Her coarse robe of sackcloth and her shawl drawn tightly over her head, her olive skin, darkened by the tropical sun, her large, dark, placid eyes under highly arched brows gave her distinctly the look of an Oriental ascetic. She expounded the virtues of poverty and humility.

When she took up her cloistered life in England, she read Romain Rolland's life of Gandhi. She went to Switzerland, saw Rolland and told him she believed her pathway to peace lay in India. He put her in touch with the mahatma, but she was required to serve a year's novitiate before joining him. Rising at five o'clock, she pursued an unvarying routine of spinning and other handicraft, of set periods of contemplation and of intensive study of ancient Indian religion, poetry and philosophy—all this with a rigid regime of diet and practice of physical posture and proper breathing.

At the end of the year, she went to India, was received by Gandhi and admitted to the Ashram, his school for advanced novitiates of his faith. Her father, the late Admiral Sir Esmond Slade, had vehemently opposed her spiritual adventure. She had word from England that he had said she would be disinherited. She wrote her parents, insisting that by no means should she be mentioned in their wills, as "non-possession" was one of the first tenets of her religion. A considerable fortune was distributed in the two wills, but in neither one of them was she mentioned—to her great gratification, she said later.

Her Indian name is Mira, that of an ancient Indian princess. The people call her Mirabel, meaning "Lady Mira."

Her working day is now from four o'clock in the morning until ten o'clock at night, including, as well as her various services for the mahatma, a long walk each day, preaching and teaching among the poor. In many forms and from many texts, she expounds her belief that "in serving the poor, one serves God and that is the only essential happiness."

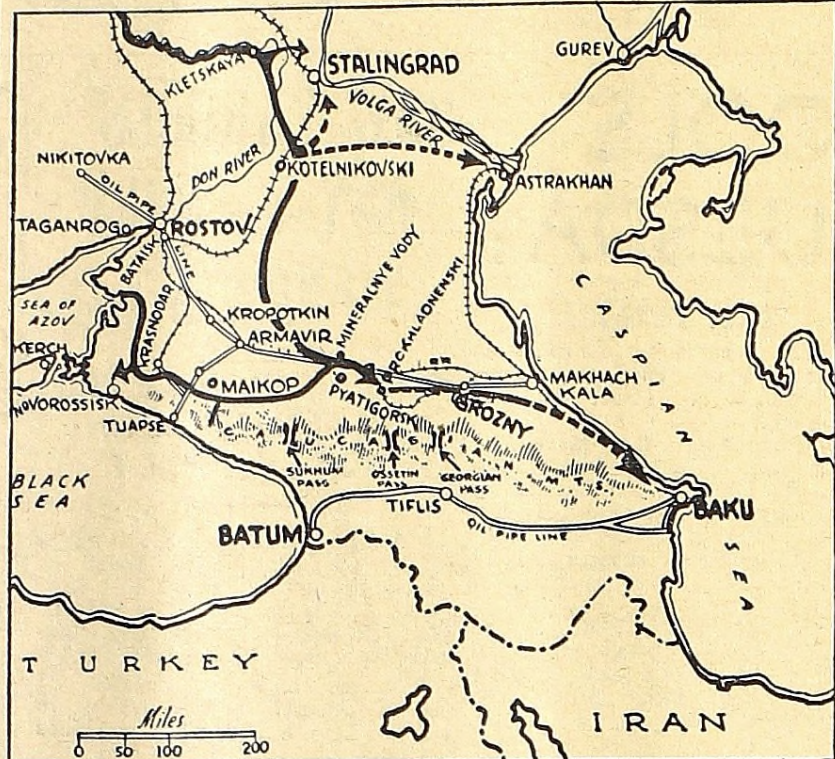

Marching by the side of Gandhi in his many civil disobedience campaigns, she has been arrested several times, serving an extended jail sentence in 1932. She accompanied Gandhi to London in 1931, when he participated in the governmental conferences on Indian self rule. Only casually and perhaps accidentally did she meet her old friends of her dancing and dining days. Never, she has definitely said, would she leave her quiet haven of peace for which she has sacrificed so much to attain.

THE bureau of public relations of the U. S. navy doesn't specially need a peacemaker, but it has one. Capt. Leland P. Lovette, succeeding Adm. Arthur J. Heppner, as director of the bureau, is a skilled specialist in allaying friction and getting on with everybody. While in command of the U. S. Gunboat Pampanga in the Canton (China) region in 1928, he was caught in a civil war, between the forces of Dr. Sun Yat Sen and the Kwangsi province invaders. He did a brilliant job of mediation, fixing everything nicely.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Savage Russ Counterattack in North Offsets Nazi Pressure in Volga Area; U. S. Upsets Jap Strategy in Pacific; Chinese Register Important Victories

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Map shows how Hitler's 1942 conquest of Russia nears the climax as his armies move into position in a pincer movement closing on Stalingrad. A million Nazi soldiers assaulted that vital city on the Volga river, closing in from two directions. By skirting the Caucasian mountains, Hitler's army can push on to the Caspian sea for a junction with the Japanese.

NEW GUINEA INVASION: Costly to Japs

Despite heavy Allied air action, which cost the enemy one transport, six landing barges and probably a cruiser, Japanese shock troops made another landing in Milne bay on the island of New Guinea, 240 miles east of Port Moresby and less than 500 miles from the Australian mainland.

However, "Our ground forces anticipated this movement and are in contact with the enemy," a spokesman from General MacArthur's headquarters in Australia said. United Nations medium bombers and fighters heavily bombed and strafed Jap barges which were heading toward shore and Jap troops which already had landed. The aerial attack was carried out despite adverse weather conditions, the communique said.

Spokesmen acknowledged that the Japanese had put into action the airdrome at Buna, 200 miles northwest from Milne Bay on the north coast of New Guinea. They established a beachhead at Buna in July, then pushed south to Kokoda, within 60 miles of Port Moresby.

Solomon Thrust

The violent sea-air battle in the Solomon islands saw the United States win the opening round. Land-based American dive bombers, torpedo planes and fighters were credited with forcing a battered Jap fleet to withdraw from Guadalcanal island in the southeast Solomons, less than a thousand miles from Australia, across the Coral sea.

In the original United States offensive in the Solomons, the American marine corps vanguard obtained beachheads on the island, overcoming enemy resistance and seizing an air field. Planes, bombs, torpedoes, ground crews and gasoline were brought in to repel a major invasion.

While a communique stated that results in the struggle for the strategic islands are "encouraging," it warned that a large scale sea battle still was in progress and that the outcome could not yet be determined. But one official expressed the opinion that "we are winning the second round of the battle of the Solomons."

ACTION IN EGYPT: Transport Blasted

Striking at Marshal Erwin Rommel's preparations for a new offensive in Egypt, Royal Air force fighters killed or disabled hundreds of enemy troops in a raid on transport columns west of El Alamein.

New Zealand troops saw fast action when they routed an Italian division on the same line, and United States bombers blasted Axis shipping in Suda bay, Crete and the Corinth canal in Greece.

Tension on the Egyptian front has mounted steadily. German tank movements were observed near the Qattara depression and Italian forces were attempting to concentrate their positions.

As the all-out battle of Egypt grew closer British newspapers described this front as equal in importance to Stalingrad. They pointed out that the smashing of Rommel's army would restore the Mediterranean command to the United Nations, whose forces then could start to close in on the enemy. According to the London Daily Mail, "The coming battle in Egypt may in the end reverse the fortunes of war in Russia." Indications are that Rommel will have the hardest fight in his life in the 80-mile stretch between El Alamein to Alexandria.

WAR RISK: Improving Situation?

Indication that the convoy system for Atlantic shipping was showing improvement was reflected in a 5 per cent reduction of cargo war risk rates charged on certain voyages. Marine underwriters revealed that this was the first important reduction war risk rates in many months.

Trends had been increasingly upward since the submarine activity of the enemy had been intensified off our Atlantic coast. Most important effect of the reduction would be in the trade between the United States and Brazil and Argentina where the previous rate has been cut from 25 to 20 per cent.

RED OFFENSIVE: For Stalingrad Relief

Even while clerks and factory hands joined Red troops in the defense of Stalingrad, Russia's Central front armies began a counterattack in the German-held area northwest of Moscow, killing 45,000 enemy troops in the first 15 days of a drive that pushed back a Nazi salient 25 to 30 miles.

As Soviet troops battled for footholds within the streets of Rzhev, the Germans were reported to have thrown fresh reserves into the battle but were compelled to retreat with heavy losses as Russian troops thrust westward. The Russians claimed the capture of 610 communities.

Despite the offensive action, which was intended to relieve pressure on Stalingrad, the situation in that industrial city was conceded to be critical. However, the Russians described it as "no worse."

CHINA: Counter-Attack

In the provinces of Chekiang and Kiangsi the Chinese were fighting a determined counteroffensive to dislodge the Japs from important bases whence the United Nations might launch air raids on Japan.

This offensive was meeting with considerable success as the Chinese troops pushed toward Chusien, site of the biggest airfield in China and drove hard on Lishui and Sungyang, both vital points. In addition the Chinese forces had recaptured over a hundred mile strip of the Chekiang-Kiangsi railway. At one time the Japs had controlled this railroad in its entirety.

Biggest questions in the minds of military experts was where the Japs were sending their troops now being diverted from this Chinese front. Some sources were inclined to believe that they had gone to the South Pacific for the battle of the Solomons and New Guinea, while unofficial reports told of mass movements of troops toward the Russian back door.

Chinese leaders were on the lookout for a strategic retreat by the Japs which might have as its purpose the setting of a large-scale trap.

DRAFT: A Forecast

Representative Sabath of Illinois, chairman of the house rules committee, believes that the waning months of the 77th congress will see the drafting of 18 and 19-year-old youths authorized by new legislation. This session of congress ends in January, 1943.

The congressman predicted that: "In all likelihood congress will be asked this session to permit the drafting of 18 and 19 year olds and will give its approval."

CEILINGS: For Hogs, Cattle

As the Office of Price Administration worked out its plans for price ceilings on hogs and cattle, J. K. Galbraith, deputy administrator, told a delegation of large stock producers in Washington that revisions of this system would eliminate inequalities between different regions and different classes of buyers.

Meanwhile concurrence with the OPA plan was being considered by the department of agriculture. Ceilings were worked out in conjunction with representative groups of producers and OPA before submission to Secretary of Agriculture Claude Wickard.

Beef producers were assured by OPA that this agency would take no steps to discourage normal feeding and marketing of livestock.

"While feeders must exercise normal caution and avoid paying high prices for their feeders," said Deputy OPA Administrator Galbraith, "the working out of ceilings will be undertaken in close consultation with producers and with a full and complete recognition of the market relationships involved."

He said further that "feeders who buy carefully may look forward to the coming year with confidence."

DUKE OF KENT: Dies in Action

The first casualty in England's royal family since the start of the war occurred in northern Scotland when a giant Sunderland flying boat crashed, bringing death to the duke of Kent, youngest brother of King George VI. With him died all but one of the crew, a tail gunner who was thrown clear of the wreck. The duke, fifth in succession to the throne, was 39 years old. On active military duty, he was the youngest of the four sons of Queen Mary and the late King George V. Married to Princess Marina of Greece in 1934, his three children were Prince Edward, 6; Princess Alexandra, 5; and Prince George, who was born last July 4. Prince George also bears the name of Franklin for President Roosevelt, his godfather.

BRAZIL: Good Neighbors Speak

Just a week after Brazil's declaration of war against Germany and Italy, the Uruguayan government announced that the two South American nations would co-operate in a "common defense against possible aggression."

Thus Uruguay forged ahead of her South American neighbors in a show of solidarity with Brazil. The country's national defense ministry had been authorized to "adopt, in agreement with military authorities of Brazil, all measures designed for better efficiency in the common defense against possible aggressions." Meanwhile, Foreign Minister Caracciolo Parra Perez of Venezuela expressed his nation's "sincere sympathy and solidarity" with Brazil and announced that Venezuela automatically will treat Brazil as a nonbelligerent under a decree affecting any American nation that goes to war against the Axis.

BRIEFS:

ADVANCE: Seven months in advance of schedule, the 45,000-ton battleship, Iowa, greatest warship ever built, slid down the ways of the New York navy yard.

RETURNS: After a summer's visit to the United States and Canada, Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands was back in London.

TYPEWRITERS: An OPA order was issued forbidding (after September 15) the rental, lease or loan of typewriters manufactured since January 1, 1935, and bans the sale of typewriters manufactured since January 1, 1915.

UNITY: Meeting at their 65th annual convention in Detroit, members of the American Bar association heard Associate Justice Stanley Reed of the Supreme court call on them for lawyers to promote U. S. unity and lead the way so that a unified America could march on to victory.

FREE-FOR-ALL: A tempestuous session of the Louisiana state senate featured fistfights among legislators and spectators after a floor argument over the merits of a sales tax proposal for financing welfare services in New Orleans.

Solomon Islands—Where Japs Were Driven Out

Map shows the Solomon islands archipelago and nearby war theaters in the southwest Pacific. The Jap-held Solomon islands were stormed by U. S. marines in the first major action undertaken by American forces. The action, in which naval, air and ground forces participated, continued for nearly two weeks. The islands of Tulagi, Florida and Guadalcanal, where the first successful landings were made, are indicated by arrow.

A notable organization in Britain is the Women's Auxiliary Air Force service, which is attached to the Royal Air force. They do all kinds of jobs short of piloting combat ships in action. ## 'Jungle Mudders' in Caribbean Outpost

This picture shows one of the phases in the life of U. S. troops stationed in the deep jungles of the Caribbean area. Stepping "out of character," these coast artillery "jungle mudders" now adopt the weapons and methods of the infantrymen, and are seen here charging through knee-deep mud. They take to mud and swampy terrain like ducks to water.

Riveting Champ

Pictured at work here is Carl Simon of the Los Angeles Shipbuilding company, who set what is believed to be a record by driving 1,346 7/8-inch rivets in an eight-hour working day.

Lights of New York

Subway Types: An ancient Chinese, wearing American clothes yet with his arms disappearing into the sleeves of his coat, his seamed countenance absolutely immobile and his bright, black eyes staring straight ahead. . . . A thin-faced man, with the corners of his mouth drawn down so sharply it makes him look as though he had taken a drink of vinegar before he boarded the train, staring at fellow passengers and then burying his face in a newspaper. . . . Three women, no longer young, yet all chewing gum vigorously as any school girl, their wagging jaws keeping time with the pounding of a flat wheel. . . . Six slim young sailors clinging to straps and one reading the ads aloud while others make comments that cause all to burst into laughter. . . . A drunk, surrounded by a strong stink of alcohol, sleeping in a car corner with his coat pockets turned inside out.

A thin, young priest, his hat pushed back from his high, white forehead, studying earnestly a small black book with gilt-edged pages. . . . A fat woman, her arms full of newspaper-wrapped bundles, slumping into a space not large enough for one one-quarter her size, and the man on either side jumping to his feet hastily. . . . A messenger boy with a floral horseshoe, almost as large as himself, hard put to protect his freight from the non-observing passers-by in the aisle. . . . A whiskered rabbi, his eyes moving from right to left, deeply engrossed in the inside pages of a Yiddish newspaper.

A poorly dressed woman with curiously gnarled and red hands which look as though they were not unaccustomed to a scrubbing brush, picking up a discarded newspaper and hurriedly turning to the society pages. . . . A guard, with a 30-block interval between stations, resting his tired feet by sinking into an empty seat. . . . An immaculate policeman, apparently just about to go on duty, looking the car over with professional curiosity before resting his broad back against an iron stanchion. . . . A woman discussing the sugar situation with her seat mate, her voice so penetrating that her words are clearly audible above the pound of wheels and all the assorted noises associated with a subway train moving at high speed through the long, dark hole in the ground.

A white-faced woman furtively wiping her eyes with a handkerchief and then, as a sob escapes her, hastily opening her hand bag and apparently busy herself with repairs to her make-up. . . . Musicians, evidently bound for rehearsal, holding various instruments, from fiddles to saxophones, in their arms as tenderly as if they were babies. . . . A woman with a funny little hair straggle down the center of her forehead ("When she was good, she was very, very good—") so interested in watching a hand-holding boy and girl that she is unaware of the fact that her hand bag is open and some bills are exposed to the gaze of all who care to look.

A graying mail carrier tenderly rubbing his ankles, then settling back and pawing through his big leather pouch. . . . A member of the fire department, his silver buttons dull and his shoes unshined, carrying with him an odor of smoke. . . . A mother trying to quiet a crying baby by holding it over her shoulder and patting its three-cornered pants. . . . A subway track walker, his overalls grease-spattered and his face grimy, placing two ill-smelling lanterns on the car platform, then hauling out a box and taking a pinch of snuff. . . . A major of artillery and a major of infantry having some kind of a low-voiced conference.

Three darkly pretty girls chattering in Spanish, their conversation occasionally interrupted by discreet giggles. . . . Two older women, of the house frau type, starting to converse in German, then looking about them and resuming in broken English. . . . A woman with a face like a Madonna, messing her baby to her and tenderly kissing its little, pink ears. . . . Whenever I ride underground, I wish I were a sketch artist.

In my ears as I write this, is the shrill of the whistles of Times Square traffic cops. Through the window I can see the tower of the Empire State building. But in my ears also is the gentle song of the old Scio as it slipped over the rifles and before my eyes is a great old tree, scarred by lightning, leaning out over brown waters. Off for the old days!

Worker Makes $46, Puts $37 in Bonds

VANCOUVER, WASH. — War bond records at the Kaiser Shipyard showed one worker whose salary was $46.15 had signed for $37.50 worth of bonds each week. "If I'd gotten into the army I'd be making 21 bucks a month. This way I've got 34 a month left. Besides, I had a kid brother on Bataan."

War's Tension Finds Kids O. K.

Best Way to Handle Them In Wartime Is Give Them Work, Says Expert.

NEW YORK.—Irene Wicker, who as radio's singing lady has entertained thousands of children in peacetime, said recently that the best way to handle youngsters in the excitement of war is to give them something to do.

Miss Wicker, who has been amusing children and grownups since she was 12 when she played in summer stock, recently augmented her experience in dealing with the young with courses in child psychology and day nursery routine.

"It has been shown through studies made on children in war areas that children rapidly mature in wartime," said Miss Wicker. "The best thing to do, to keep them from going to pieces from emotional strain, as many children did in England under the early bombings, is to give them small tasks to work at."

Prefer Learn First Aid.

Miss Wicker told of her work in a settlement house. The smallest child in the settlement was given some chore, even if it was nothing more than bringing a candle to blackout drill.

"One five-year-old boy was delighted to be a salvage worker," Miss Wicker related. "He collected twice as much rubber as some of the adults, and he insisted on being paid his penny for every pound of it."

"Children in wartime tire of their usual games. They don't want to play blindman's buff. They want to learn elementary first aid. The older ones enjoy learning how to help the younger ones."

Miss Wicker said she belongs to the school of thought that believes in explaining war dangers to children, but not in frightening them.

Teach Singing Games.

"Children can be given courses and taught to take care of themselves," she said, "if adults explain the dangers of war emergencies without frightening the wits out of the little ones."

"Many times the young are more dependable in an emergency than older people. They are nearly always clear thinkers because they are not inhibited by a lot of old thought patterns."

Miss Wicker taught a settlement house group a number of songs and stories to use in amusing younger children during raids or blackouts. "The children like best the familiar stories," she said, "such as Jack and the Beanstalk, Sleeping Beauty and Snow White. We also taught them many singing games."

Miss Wicker pointed out that the mistake made in England, of separating children from parents should be avoided. She said day nurseries which keep children near their parents, working in war industries, was the course being followed in England now and the one to be used here.

Nazis Are Worried by Speed of U. S. Production

LONDON.—Increasing speed of United States war production brings a gnawing conviction to the Nazis that time is working against them in the world struggle grinding toward its climax. Reports reaching London also indicate that the Germans are becoming increasingly worried by the wartime wear and tear on their machinery and men, not to mention their mounting losses.

The official German labor magazine, Der Frontarbeiter, has published revealing statements regarding the anxieties besetting the Reich and excerpts have reached the British capital via Stockholm. "We realize today," the magazine is quoted as saying, "that the character of this war now is being influenced by the time factor. That is why the Reich cannot allow itself as much time as it could earlier."

Just Plastic and Zinc—That's the New War Razor

WASHINGTON.—A safety razor made of plastics and zinc will be offered to the public shortly, the War Production board revealed recently.

It will have a plastic handle, a zinc cap and a zinc or plastic guard. Brass and copper will be eliminated. Production will begin within a few months and the new razor will go on sale when the present retail supply of razors is exhausted.

Town in Oregon Moved 15 Miles by Railroad

BEND, ORE.—Central Oregon's migratory town, Shevlin, is getting used to its new surroundings in Klamath county 15 miles from its old location, where it remained nearly 10 years. The 400 buildings and 600 residents of Shevlin, a logging town, were moved by railroad to new timber stands. The lumber company built a 12-mile spur track for the purpose.

How Long Will War Last? Answer Remains in Doubt

Successful American Offensive Result of Thorough Planning; Two Possibilities May Alter Picture in Russia.

By BAUKHAGE
News Analyst and Commentator.

WNU Features, 1343 H Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

How long will the war last? Two things have happened in the last weeks which have made people ask that question again even if the answer remains as deep in the mire of speculation as ever.

The first event is the significant passing of the first milestone on the road to Tokyo. On the little islands, and about Tulagi harbor which British Admiral Jellicoe in the last war said contained the finest natural harbor in the world, the marines landed and now have the situation well in hand.

The first American offensive in the war was accomplished, not without losses but with success and as a result of a plan worked out nearly five months ago. It was a surprise attack and yet there were many in Washington who guessed that something was about to pop in the Pacific. They did not know what. They didn't have any idea that it would be on the scale of the battle of the Solomons. But for a full week before it took place, I found great interest in certain quarters in the activities of the Japanese in those islands. The people I talked with probably didn't know what the navy was planning—they were not naval officers—but they did know that the Japs were busy as bees completing a fine airfield on Guadalcanal and getting ready to prepare other complete installations on the nearby islands, especially developing and protecting the Tulagi harbor for a submarine base.

Also, Japanese forces there would be too near the island of New Caledonia, on which American forces are stationed, for comfort. New Caledonia is much further south, opposite the western coast of Australia. I mentioned this activity of the Japanese in the Solomons on the air more than once, right up to the eve of the battle, and nobody questioned my script—I mean there was no question from the censor. Perhaps even the censor wasn't in on the secret! Anyhow the blow was just about to be struck. It was struck and it may mean the turning point in the battle of the Pacific. So much on the credit side.

Russian Picture

But in the same weeks which saw this achievement of American arms, the Russian picture began to unfold as darkly as the pessimists pictured it. The story of the campaign of the Caucasus is not over yet, but the Nazi armies have carried on so far at a tempo beyond that which even the pessimists did not calculate upon.

Two things may brighten the Russian picture: The sudden appearance on the northern fronts of a mysterious army of red reserves which some believe have been hidden in the long shadows that cloak all of Russia's war plans. Second, the revelation of much greater losses on the part of the Germans than are evident at this writing.

Based on developments to date, however, Washington "hopes for a short war," as one military man put it to me, "but is preparing for a long one." I suppose a short one would be defeat of Hitler by 1944—a long one, any longer than that, with the fighting in the Far East to continue still longer, and then the indefinite period when United Nations troops will have to patrol the world to keep a semblance of order.

The reasons for these prognostications are: first, the fact that Hitler now has food and oil in his grip; second, with a strong German army in control of the Caucasus and Russia's chief area of raw materials and war industries cut off, the Red army can be of no positive military assistance to the United Nations. (Unless those mythical reserves turn up.)

This means that Germany cannot be broken by blockade; that a powerful expeditionary force will have to defeat Hitler's armies.

More Predictions

Speaking of predictions there have been many of late concerning the war and a number have been gathered together in a very readable 150 page book called "Prophets and Portents" (Thomas Y. Crowell Company) by Rolfe Boswell. These somewhat vague prophecies do not intrigue me very much but they are interesting reading. One, however, which has been quoted considerably of late is more modern than most of the rest and is remarkable to me because it actually uses the word "fascism" although it was written in 1842, and so far as I know that word had never been used to describe a form of government. It is by Heinrich Heine, written after his self-exile to Paris.

This is what Heine wrote, just a hundred years ago: "When revolution starts spreading around the world, we shall witness the advent of the most frightful of all foemen who ever set out to fight against the established way of life. This opponent has not appeared as yet, but will arise under the name 'fascism,' and will be the most competent enemy who ever has counter-marched against the existing order."

"War will be only the first scene in the titanic drama and will be just a curtain-raiser. The second act will be the European revolution and world revolution, the gigantic conflict between those who have and those who lack."

"The future tells us of cruelties, of blood, of atheism and of vast intrigue and plotting. I warn our grandchildren to come into the world with shoulders and backs padded heavily. It will be that the ancient belief of absolutist tyranny will step out upon the world's stage once again, this time in new attire, with new war cries and shibboleths."

Where Men Are Men—And Women Are Absent

Just about the time that news came to Washington that the Japs had landed on Attu island in the Aleutians I received a copy of the Kodiak Bear. Now I have had a nodding, peanut-tossing acquaintance with a couple of Kodiak bears at the Washington zoo for many years but like most people I never connected their name with an American base off Alaska, where this journal is published.

The Bear is a six-page seven-column newspaper with a red-hot headwriter and some very peppery correspondents on its staff. I would not estimate or identify its circulation if I could, since it is printed for the American forces that is probably a military secret. But whoever the readers are they certainly are a lively lot according to the accounts of their doings. And they have a variety of tastes. That is clear from a two-column headline on a page one story. It reads:

Baseball, Fishing, Girls, Religion, Keep Outfit Busy

"Where men are men," the story reads, "and women just aren't, something must be done to take up idle moments. The men have constructed themselves ping-pong tables and tournaments are frequent."

But, gentle reader, don't let mention of that innocuous pastime of table-tennis mislead you. "The baseball has started to cleave the air," the reporter continues, "and many have taken up axe and knife throwing." (Not so innocuous, I would say.)

Fishing tackle is out, too, and the chronicler predicts that "it won't be long before the smell of fresh fish frying on the griddle will be a delight. The very idea is a delight right now."

"Twice a week" religious meetings are held. But as for the ladies, the last paragraph reveals the sad truth. The news on that score is limited to heart-breaking accounts of soldiers who don't get those letters from back home any more. It seems, the writer from far Kodiak concludes, "absence makes the heart grow fonder—for somebody else. Ask the man who no longer owns one."

To men there is real pathos in that. It's bad enough to be a soldier in a foreign land, but in the lonely domain which the Kodiak Bear reveals as its habitat, it must take a lot of ping-pong, knife throwing, etc., to make up for the things (inanimate and otherwise) these boys left behind them.

The department of agriculture says it's not shortages of coal or oil that are raising the question of what we'll burn for fuel next winter, but rather the pressure the war effort is putting on transportation facilities.

Basil Vance of Flint was a guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Vance, last week.

Dunking Old Idea

Dunking in your "bunchum" is a custom as ancient as Arabia. It was there where the world's first cup of coffee was made from some strange, bright red berries the Arabians called "bunn." The beverage became "bunchum" and was thick enough to scoop out of the bowl with bits of food. Result: Introduction of dunking to the world!

LOWER HEMLOCK

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Chambers of Detroit spent the week-end on the Hemlock and Alabaster with their parents.

Several people from the Hemlock attended the Baptist convention at Hale on Tuesday.

Mrs. Walter Kelchner left Friday for Pontiac. From there she and friends left Saturday for California to visit her son, Albert who is stationed there in an any camp.

On Sunday afternoon relatives and friends walked in and helped Betty McArdle celebrate her 18th birthday. She received many pretty gifts. About five-thirty her mother and grand mother served a delicious lunch. Were you surprised Betty?

Pvt. Irvin Shover of Camp Bragg, N. C. son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Shover was home on furlough for a few days. He returned to camp Thursday morning.

Harold Shover and Delbert Albertson left for Fort Custer Thursday morning. Good luck boys.

Walter Kelchner returned from Bay City on Saturday where he received medical attention.

But the real test occurs if raids come. Then the Air Raid Warden uses the telephone to call the Control Center about damage—so that it may summon fire, police, demolition, rescue or other emergency squads. Without fast telephone communication, the whole system of Citizens' Defense would be hampered. So, it's vitally necessary that the telephone system be kept clear for emergency use.

GHOST PLANE

By ARTHUR STRINGER W.N.U. SERVICE

THE STORY SO FAR: Because Norland Airways needs the money Alan Slade agrees to fly a "scientist" named Frayne and his partner, Karnell, to the Anawotto river in search of the trumpeter swan. With the proceeds Slade's partner, Cruger, buys a Lockheed plane, which is stolen while Slade is away. When he returns he starts out to recover the plane. He is being aided by an eskimo named Umanak and by two old prospectors, Zeke and Minty. Acting on a hunch Slade goes to Frayne's camp, where he discovers that the missing plane is being used by Frayne to take something out of the country. Slim Tumstead, an outcast pilot, is flying for him. When Slade attempts to examine the plane's cargo he is knocked unconscious by Karnell. He is "rescued" by Tumstead but later abandoned by him on a deserted island. Zeke and Minty and Slade's plane near Frayne's camp and, after a gun battle with Frayne's crew, return to guard it. Now Slade is making preparations for his escape to the mainland.

Now continue with the story.

For that gasping white body meant life; it meant hope.

CHAPTER XV

It was not long before he had firewood awaiting his lighter. And by the time he had gathered wood and dry moss and feathered his cave floor with spruce branches his joints felt rusty and his movements slowed down. He ate an inch of his chocolate, added wood to the fire, and crawled into his cave, where he nestled down in his bed of spruce needles and moss. There quick wave after wave of utter weariness wiped memory from his mind.

The fire was out and the sun was up when he awakened. He emerged from his smother of moss and sat up, refreshed by his sleep.

Having breakfasted with studious frugality, he realized that he must widen his margin of safety in the matter of food supplies for the future. His one possibility there, he felt, would be fish from the lake.

But his first tries were fruitless. Then it came home to him that in his haste he had resorted to water too shallow for his purposes. So he wound up his line and rounded the island until he came to a more promising pool.

In five minutes he had hooked a fish heavy enough to threaten his pole. He stood a little drunk when it finally lay on the rock ledge beside him.

For that gasping white body meant more than a meal to him. It meant life; it meant hope; it meant final deliverance from a prison of hunger.

For he had decided to effect his escape to the mainland. It was, he felt, his only hope.

While his first need would be a reserve of food, the one thing essential to his escape was a raft. As Tumstead must have figured out, his prisoner would be without strength for a three-mile swim in cold northern water. Even though he survived that swim, to land sodden and exhausted on an inhospitable shore, without fire and ample food, would be to invite disaster. On his island stood no timber of consequence. But, spinning as they were, he could collect and trim enough spruce boles to make a raft capable of carrying his provisions and keeping his lighter and his clothing dry. It would not be substantial enough to sustain his own weight. But he could strip and push it ahead of him as he swam.

That day and the next day and the day that followed were crowded with toil. The early morning hour of the day he gave to catching fish, which he later dressed and smoked and stowed away on his starchigan. He fished again in the evening, at an hour when his strikes proved most frequent. At mid-afternoon, when the sun had warmed the shallows, he dug and washed his bulrush roots. When that was done he gathered firewood. And when that was done he turned to digging spruce roots, which he patiently knotted and braided into lengths of wappap. From them, with equal patience, he wove a muskamootee, which could hang from his shoulders like a musette-bag and hold secure his possessions and a quantity of food.

The next morning Slade made ready for his trek. He had chosen mid-day as the best hour for pushing off, since the surface water by that time would have lost a little of its chill and plenty of daylight would remain, at the end of his journey, to find a suitable camp site and get settled for the night.

The water was colder than he had expected. This prompted him to throw more vigor into his arm strokes. But half a mile from shore he found an ache of fatigue creeping into his muscles. That frightened him a little. He leaned on the raft end and rested.

He looked about, to place his landmark, knowing that he must keep active, that he must keep blood coursing through his chilled limbs, that he must push on to the end. He was within a mile of his goal. He thought of a hot campfire, with flames bursting through spruce logs piled high.

Then all such thoughts abruptly ended. For out of the blue that arched above him he heard a far-off and familiar drone. It was a drone that grew louder as he listened and became shot through with a throb of power and mounted almost to a roar. High in the sky above the serrated ridge-tops he saw a plane.

Slade waved and shouted.

But the wings neither dipped nor banked.

Slade started swimming again, in a cold fury of defeat. Something not unlike indignation gave strength to his strokes as he fought his desperate way forward. He kept on, refusing to recognize the claws of pain that tore at his entrails or the weariness that made his breath come in quick and shuddering gasps. He kept on until his raft end grounded on a sandspit and he stumbled ashore and threw himself full length along a sun-warmed slope.

"I don't like this," said the Flying Padre, after he and his leather-clad daughter had dropped down on Iviuk Inlet to learn that Umanak had not returned from his overland trip to Echo Harbor.

"Umanak knows his way about," said Lynn. "What worries me is that we've had no word from Alan."

"Why should that worry you?" asked the Padre.

"Because he should have been back before this," protested the girl in dungarees. "I hate to think of him in country where he's so out of reach of help."

"Isn't he that way most of the time?"

"But this is different," maintained Lynn. "And we can't even get through to him by radio."

"So you've been worrying about Slade?"

"I'm afraid I have, Dad."

Some unexpected note of humility in that response prompted the Padre to glance over his shoulder and meet her gaze.

"When did you find that out?" he asked.

"Find what out?" parried Lynn. "That your bush hawk's worth worrying over. Or, to put it more plainly, that he's beginning to loom a little bigger in your mind than Barrett Walden."

"I didn't say that." She was able to laugh a little at the solemnity in his eyes. "But you must remember that I've still got you on my mind."

Lynn's father, turning to her, rested a hand on either slender shoulder.

"You're mighty loyal to me, aren't you?" he said.

"I love you, Dad," she said quite simply.

"What were you going to do now is pick up Umanak. And as soon as that's done we're going to see what's keeping Alan in the Anawotto country."

But that declaration failed to remove the line of worry from Lynn's brow as she stood staring across the low-lying horizon to the south.

"He's so careless and reckless," she complained. "He seems to love taking chances. He won't even carry a radio."

The Flying Padre smiled.

"When did women begin losing their liking for courage?" he demanded.

"They always like courage," answered Lynn, "but when you like the man who has it you rather want to know what's happening to him."

"All right," said the Padre, "let's start. And while the sun's still high we'll see what we can do about picking up old Umanak."

Picking up Umanak, however, proved less simple than it promised. A two-hour combing of the coastline showed no sign of him. Then Lynn, acting as observer, caught sight of what looked like smoke signals from an empty fishing village. The Flying Padre, informed of this, promptly circled back and swung low over the forlorn little huddle of huts.

In front of those huts Lynn made out a squat figure, gesticulating to them as they drifted over it. By the time they had nosed out a landing space, behind a saddle-bank island that broke the surf, Umanak was waiting for them on the beach. He was footsore and emaciated, but the seamed old face wore a smile of triumph.

"Me found um," he announced.

"Found what?" questioned the Padre.

"That devil-bird take to deep-water cave."

But Lynn at this point intervened. She came running from the plane with her coffee thermos and a generous portion of their emergency rations.

"He weak from hunger," she contended. "He must take some of this before he talks."

Umanak squatted on the shingle slope and ate like a hungry wolf. Then, grunting with satisfaction, he reached into the pouch of his worn and patched kooletah and produced a fragment of velvet-black mineral with a pitch-like luster.

"That um," he announced. The Flying Padre took the fragment and turned it over in his hands. He noted its heaviness and compactness, its suggestion of octahedron cleavage with faint tinges of brown and green.

"Why, this is pitchblende," he said. "It's what we're getting our radium from these days."

"But why should pitchblende be flown to Echo Harbor?" asked Lynn as she studied the lustrous mineral.

"Who'd want it for radium there?" "That's what I don't understand," said the man of medicine. He turned to question Umanak.

"Just where and how did you find this?"

"Me find um in cave," Umanak repeated. "In cave where water make deep harbor behind island. Heap big black stones piled there. Black stones like that," he insisted, pointing to the pitchblende.

"How big heap?" questioned the other.

"More big than two three black whale. Big heap hide there next to sea. Maybe ship come and take black stones away."

"But why?" demanded the puzzled Padre.

Umanak had no answer for that. He was more interested, at the moment, in reaching for another handful of Lynn's dried beef.

The Flying Padre suddenly turned to him.

"Did you see your ghost plane when you were out there?"

"No see," answered Umanak.

Lynn took her turn at once more inspecting the lustrous fragment of mineral.

"Is there any other use for pitchblende?" she inquired.

"Yes," was the meditative answer. "It's our best source of helium gas now. But what good would helium be to anyone in this wilderness?"

"What good is it in other parts of the world?"

The Flying Padre considered that question.

"The American Navy uses it in their dirigibles. And the Germans, when they could get it, used it in their Zepps. But the States refused to release a stock to Hitler's airmen when we couldn't get a guarantee it wasn't going to be used for war purposes. So our German friends fell back on hydrogen, you may remember. Helium, you see, isn't inflammable."

"But they're so far away from our pitchblende," Lynn objected. "They would have no way, now, of getting it to their chemical plants."

"Chemical plants," echoed the man of medicine as his brow creased with thought.

"Wait a minute," was the cry that came from the Padre's lips. "We're overlooking something." He took the black stone from Lynn. "You get more than helium from this stuff. You get more than radium. You get uranium, uranium that has a flow of atomic energy five million times greater than what you'd get by burning coal. And supposing Alan's right in his claim that this is going to be harnessed and controlled and his U-233 is going to be a new power, a power a billion times stronger than anything known? And supposing Hitler has ordered a blitzkrieg of research in his home laboratories and they're a jump or two ahead of us in splitting the uranium atom? That would give him an explosive three hundred times stronger than TNT and a battleship that would be independent of fuel as long as it floated. And pitchblende, remember, is the nut that holds that meat. And all around us here is the world's biggest and best pitchblende deposit."

"But still I don't understand," demurred Lynn.

"I don't, myself," agreed her father. "Not yet. But the light's coming to me. And the sooner we take Umanak home and get at the bottom of this the better."

Prepare for Week-Ends

Lazy days with first signs of fall in the air, wilted appetites and the whole family home for the week-end are a heavy drain on the homemaker.

If she expects to spend any time with her family, Madame Housewife must scurry around and plan a preparedness campaign which will stock her refrigerator with foods that can be pulled—like the traditional bunny out of the hat—and still keep her reputation as the "best cook around here."

It's a mistaken notion that the main dish has to be an elaborate hot and heavy affair that sends the hostess to the head of her table sweltering after hours of preparation. A much better idea would be to have a cool, tempting Chicken-Ham Mousse such as I've planned for you today.

Wash the vegetables and store them in the cold compartment and they're ready to toss together in a few minutes, crisp, and chewy, coated with a flavorful dressing, in a salad supreme. If the family really has its heart set on "something hot," bring out some bran muffins, all moist and tasty with blueberries. These take but a short time to bake.

Your table should be bright and gay with oranges and yellows, reds, rich browns to add warm notes to the porch supper or lunch—indoors or out. Let your imagination run riot with the dry leaves, bright berries, sprays from the wayside or fall's bountiful fruits.

Remember, you can do more for your table by arranging Concord grapes tastefully with a few golden pears, bluish red apples on rich brown leaves or in well polished pewter, copper or brass vessels than rare, expensive flowers that your family does not know how to appreciate. Then, of course, if you have a few yellow or deep red chrysanthemums in your fall garden, let them fall gracefully in and out among their own leaves in a burnished bowl, and you leave nothing to be desired.

Here's the mousse which you can have as a main dish. Make it the night before and it's already to serve just with unrolling:

*Chicken-Ham Mousse.
(Serves 6)
3 egg yolks, slightly beaten
¼ teaspoon salt
1½ cups chicken broth
1½ cups ground, cooked chicken
1½ cups ground, cooked ham
¼ cup salad dressing
1 minced scallion
¼ cup whipped cream
1 package lemon-flavored gelatin

Add salt to egg yolks, then broth. Cook over boiling water, stirring constantly until mixture coats a spoon.

*Chicken-Ham Mousse.
(Serves 6)
3 egg yolks, slightly beaten
¼ teaspoon salt
1½ cups chicken broth
1½ cups ground, cooked chicken
1½ cups ground, cooked ham
¼ cup salad dressing
1 minced scallion
¼ cup whipped cream
1 package lemon-flavored gelatin

Add salt to egg yolks, then broth. Cook over boiling water, stirring constantly until mixture coats a spoon.

*Whipped Cream Sugarless Cake.
2½ cups sifted cake flour
2½ teaspoons double acting baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup butter or shortening
1 cup light corn syrup
2 eggs, unbeaten
½ cup orange juice
2 teaspoons grated orange rind
1 cup cream, whipped

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift dry ingredients together three times. Cream shortening, add orange rind, and then syrup beating well after each addition. Add ½ of flour and beat until smooth and well blended. Add eggs one at a time, beating well after each. Add remaining flour in thirds alternately with orange juice, beating after each addition for best results; Bake in two greased 8-inch layer pans in a moderate (375-degree) oven 30 minutes. Cool. Spread whipped cream between and on top of layers.

*Julienne Salad Bowl.
(Serves 6)
1 cup cabbage
1 cup carrots
½ cup green pepper
¼ cup red radishes
Garlic
Curly endive or shredded lettuce

Shred all the vegetables fine. Arrange mounds of them in a bowl, and toss french dressing over them. Rub the bowl in which they are served with garlic.

A main dish that will go well with the Julienne Salad is this Baked Bean dish:

*All-Bran Blueberry Muffins.
(Makes 12 small muffins)
2 tablespoons shortening
¼ cup sugar
1 egg
1 cup all-bran
¾ cup milk
1 cup flour
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon baking powder
¾ cup fresh blueberries

Cream shortening and sugar until fluffy. Add egg and beat well. Stir in all-bran and milk and let soak until all moisture is taken up. Sift dry ingredients and add blueberries. Add to first mixture and stir just until flour disappears. Fill greased muffin tins until two-thirds full and bake in a moderately hot (400-degree) oven about 30 minutes.

Greens tossed together with mellow french dressing are attention-getters:

HOOKEK RUG 29"x52" CUT PATTERNS FROM FOLDED PAPER BLUE-GREEN-BLACK AND GREY USED TO REPEAT COLORS OF CHAIR COVER

THIS is another design in the series planned to use up odds and ends of woolen materials to make lasting floor coverings. The design is very old and was made by other women during other wars. Dimensions are given in the sketch for making your own patterns for the links and the fleur de lis. The shaded parts of the diagrams show a half and a quarter of the design drawn on folded paper. The dotted lines show how the pattern will appear when the paper has been cut. The design is outlined on the burlap by drawing around the cut-out pattern with wax crayon.

The rug colorings have been planned to repeat tones in the room color schemes.

NOTE: There are suggestions for preparing hooked rug materials and for making original designs in BOOK 5 of the series which Mrs. Spears has prepared for readers. Book 6 contains directions for a hooked rug that any beginner can make easily and quickly. Booklets are 10 cents each. If you order both booklets you will receive a pattern and directions for the Add-A-Square Rug. Be sure to request it with your order. Address:

ASK ME ? ANOTHER ?

A quiz with answers offering information on various subjects

The Questions

1. What mythical creature was half horse and half man?
2. In what city is Threadneedle street?
3. During a race, how much of the time has a horse all four feet off the ground?
4. Is it unlawful to destroy U. S. coins?
5. Who was the first and only President to be buried at Arlington National cemetery?
6. What is the percentage of silver in German silver?
7. In 1941, how much did the American public pay in tolls to cross rivers?
8. What was the fate of the first iron-clad battleship Monitor?
9. One state in the Union has been under six flags. Can you say which state and name the flags?
10. How much does a sponge increase its weight per day?

The Answers

1. The centaur.
2. London.
3. A race horse has all four feet off the ground one-fourth of the time during a race.
4. No. There is no law against it. The law is against mutilating, lightening or defacing.
5. William Howard Taft is the only President to be buried at Arlington National cemetery.
6. German silver is a white alloy of zinc, nickel and copper, and contains no silver.
7. In 1941 the American public paid in tolls, to cross rivers on ferries, through tunnels and over bridges, an average of about $250,000 every 24 hours.
8. On December 10, 1862, the Monitor founded during a heavy storm and sank with all hands in Diamond shoals off Cape Hatteras, North Carolina.

9. Texas — Spanish, Mexican, French, Confederate, Texas and United States.
10. As living animals, some species of sponges increase their weight 40 per cent a day; others pump water through themselves at the rate of a gallon an hour.

In the Navy a floor is a "deck," doors are "bulkheads," downstairs is "below," and a cigarette is a "Camel." At least, Camel is the favorite cigarette among Navy men as it is among men in the Army, Marines and Coast Guard. (Based on actual sales records from service men's stores.) And a carton of Camels is their favorite gift. Your local dealer is featuring Camel cartons for service men, now. And now is the time to send that carton.—Adv.

DIZZINESS

For many years the home treatment of dizziness was a dose of Epsom salts—magnesium sulphate. This dose was given because dizziness was thought due to a sluggish liver and gall bladder and constipation. As a matter of fact, many cases of dizziness are due to these conditions and the treatment by Epsom salts is considered correct.

There are, however, many cases of dizziness due to disturbance—swelling of the tissues—about the balancing canals of the inner ear. Any drug that will remove water from the system, as does Epsom salts, would be considered good treatment.

Treatment by Epsom salts is, however, not the method of treatment for dizziness now used by physicians. Dr. K. M. Simonton, in Proceedings Staff Meeting, Mayo Clinic, states that severe vertigo—dizziness—should be treated by (1) rest in bed; (2) avoidance of all movement, especially sudden movement; (3) avoidance of sudden sounds and light; (4) raising the head of the bed to prevent congestion in the inner ear; (5) moderate doses of atropine to open up blood vessels and a quieting drug; (6) a soft, light diet; and (7) magnesium sulphate—Epsom salts—taken by mouth.

If attacks of dizziness are accompanied by head noises and loss of hearing (Meniere's disease), the patient is instructed to take six 7½-grain tablets of ammonium chloride, three times daily with meals, for three days; no medicine is then taken for two days; and the tablets are repeated for three days. No salt is allowed at the table and very little is to be used in cooking. No baking soda—sodium bicarbonate—or other drug containing sodium should be used. To keep the patient free from dizziness, this treatment must be always kept up.

When there is dizziness only and the dizziness is "up and down" rather than "round and round," the liver and gall bladder are considered at fault and Epsom salts is used. When the dizziness is "round and round" and there are head noises, loss of hearing, nausea and vomiting, eating food low in salt and omitting salt with and in food may give relief without the ammonium chloride.

Relieving Pain By Means of Heat

When examining boxers at 2 p. m. for a boxing bout that night, I have often been annoyed by having a boxer step on the scales one or two pounds overweight. The manager of the boxer is sometimes fined for this neglect to have his boxer at the correct weight.

Being overweight means covering him up with heavy woolen sweaters, hard brisk exercise, and a Turkish or cabinet bath to get the one or two pounds off within an hour. This effort is both a mental and physical strain as the boxer feels that he is weakening himself and will not be at his best for the evening bout.

There is nothing wrong with increased heat of the body by means of exercise or baths, but the heat should be created gradually, not in such a rapid manner. A Turkish or cabinet bath, too hot and too prolonged, can cause weakness, shock, and collapse.

"The heat, whether it is dry or moist, should not be given for a longer than 30-minute period even where there is profuse sweating."

However, most individuals who undergo heat treatments by baths or other methods are not boxers or athletes but those with rheumatism or arthritis, soreness and stiffness due to accumulation of waste or fatigue products in the tissues. By means of heat these wastes are hurried out of the system in half the time or less than it would ordinarily take to remove them.

Those who are not well should not take heat treatments without supervision. Patients may feel a fullness and throbbing of the head, rapid beating of the heart, and a feeling of great weakness while undergoing heat treatment. For this reason the "steam" room of the Turkish bath establishment has a couch on which the individual should lie down. Sitting erect means more effort on the part of the heart as it is easier to pump blood on the level than up and down.

QUESTION BOX

Q.—What causes me to become breathless when I climb stairs or do too much housework? I have a chronic sinus drip.

A.—Pain in breast is not likely due to heart disease or physicians would have told you. It is more likely to be due to nervousness or gas pressure. For the sinus condition you might try eating more vegetables and cutting down on liquids as well as on table salt on food and in cooking.

Do You Know?

by Dorothy Scott

Another of Grandma's tricks that we can use this summer to help along our food preservation is the drying of sweet corn.
You have no doubt canned some corn, but if you are getting short of jars, dried corn is one more way of getting variety in your meal preparation this winter. Corn drying is a relatively simple process. Select any good table corn, husk and remove blemishes or darkened kernels. Dry cook, on cob, in boiling water 8 to 13 minutes to "set" the milk. If you can steam it, that is an even better method requiring about 10 minutes. Drain, cool, and cut kernels from the ears. Spread on trays 1/2 to 3/4 inches deep. Stir occasionally to separate kernels and break up masses. This makes the drying more even and prevents moldgrowth.
Drying temperatures range between 125° F and 160° F. It is wise to begin the drying at a low temperature, increase it during the middle of the period, and decrease again toward the end. This is because too rapid drying will dry the outside of the kernels while the centers are still moist. Corn kernels when completely dried will be hard, and break with a clean fracture.
Oven drying may require 5 to 6 hours or more. The oven door is left open to aid air circulation, and you may even find an electric fan at the door will hasten the drying by increasing the rate of circulation. Heat controlled ovens regulate the temperature more evenly.

When taken from the oven, dry the corn further in the open, being sure to keep it covered with cheesecloth or mosquito netting to keep out insects. To store, use glass jars, coffee cans, or stone crocks, and keep in a dry, dark or semi-dark place. A strip of muslin which has been dipped in hot paraffin helps seal the tops of cans or crocks.
Other vegetables that you can dry are lima beans, peas, string beans, and greens. Among fruits commonly dried are apples, peaches, and plums. We have a leaflet that you may ask for if you want more complete directions.

Maybe you are "stumped" for a drying rack. For small quantities, wire office baskets or dish drainers or pie tins will work. A tray of any size desired for your oven or top of stove may be made by using 1/2 inch mesh galvanized wire and strips of wood or lath. Tack screen to framework. You can put 2 1/2 or 3 inch legs on the corners to keep the surface away from the direct heat, or to make it possible to "stack" the trays, thus drying a greater quantity using the same heat.

ing fertilizer at seeding time, but the legume seeded next spring will show a very marked improvement if fertilizer is used, however the following year (1944) when the field is to produce alfalfa hay, results of the commercial fertilizer can be mistaken by no one. The fertilizer application may vary from 150 to 300 pounds per acre.
For the heavy clay loam soils an 18 or 20% superphosphate is suggested. With the lighter soils one should probably use 0-20-20 or 0-12-12. Winter and early spring top-dressing with stable manure is recommended especially upon the lighter types of soil.
If these above suggestions are followed these wheat and rye fields will be doing a three fold job—small grain for feed, vetch as a cash crop, and a legume for fall pasture in 1943 and hay in 1944. Who should ask more, even in war time.

T. B. X-Ray Unit In County Next Tuesday

Carrying on the tuberculosis fight in this county, the X-ray unit of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association will be at the East Tawas school September 8, according to Dr. Robert Strode, director of health department, Health district No. 2, who is cooperating in this clinic. This is the second Christmas-seal-supported clinic held in Isosco during the year... the other was on April 6.

To be X-rayed, persons must make arrangements with the county health unit in advance. Since tuberculosis has no symptoms in its early stages, Dr. Strode recommends that any one who has been around a tuberculous person, come in for a check up.
"The 5371 new cases of tuberculosis found in Michigan during 1941 show that we still have a big job to do before we conquer this contagious disease," he said.
Even with the magic eye of the X-ray to search out early tuberculosis, only about 20 per-cent of the patients are found when the disease is in an early stage. People who feel well do not believe that the tiny germs could have gotten in their lungs, and so they do not have chest X-rays in time.

Dr. Strode praised the work of the volunteers in this county who help in the Christmas seal sale each year, and so finance the work of searching for early tuberculosis.
