Britt, Moffatt, Jacques Win Nominations

1350 COUNTY VOTERS GO TO POLL TUESDAY

Republican Ticket Had 4 Contests; Democrat Had One

Iosco county Republicans nominated Elmer Britt, well known Burleigh township farmer, for the second term as county road commissioner. Three candidates contested Britt for the nomination, Louis Phelan of Tawas City, Earl Herriman of Grant township and Gordon A. Welcome of Oscoda. With a vote of 402, Phelan gave Britt a very close race. Britt received 450 votes. The other two candidates, Herriman and Welcome received 252 and 127 votes respectively.

The board of county road commissioners received considerable criticism in last year's labor controversy when all of the county road employees were laid off. CIO representatives were called in by the workers in the wage disagreement, and the controversy was finally settled by a committee appointed by the supervisors. One phase of the opposition to Britt was from this source.

E. John Moffatt or East Tawas and E. D. (Ted) Jacques of Tawas City received the coroner nominations. Six hundred forty-one citizens voted for Moffatt and 640 for Jacques. D. Arthur Evans of East Tawas, losing candidate in the three cornered fight, received 531 votes.

With only four live contests on the ballots, and many of Iosco county's voters either in the army or busy (Turn to No. 1 Back Page)

Four Iosco 4-H Boys At Higgins Lake Camp

Four Iosco County 4-H Conservation boys are attending the sixth annual conservation camp at the Department of conservation Training school on Higgins Lake near Roscommon this week, Sept. 14 to 19.

The boys at camp are Richard Rickett, Robert Rheames and Ralph Kendall from the Oscoda school and Waldo Gordon from East Tawas.

The camp is made possible by the State Conservation Department and the 4-H club Department of Michigan State College. A group of some 100 boys are gathered at the camp this week from 50 counties of the state. The camp delegates come from 4-H clubs in Forestry, Forest Fire study, Deer yard study, Stream Improvement and Pheasant raising. However the Iosco boys won themselves this free week of study and recreation through their careful work and keen interest in the Deer Yard study project which was completed last April.

The Oscoda boys were selected from the Oscoda Longhorn club which was lead last year by R. K. Mead, while the East Tawas delegate was selected from the "Cedar Swamp Deer Study Club," which was lead last year by E. A. Mathias, High School Agricultural instructor who is now in the air corps of the U. S. army.

The boys while at camp are under the direction of District 4-H leader, L. H. Rhodes. The group will return home Saturday noon.

War Savings Stamps

September War Savings Stamp and Bond quota for the retailers of Iosco County is $3000.00, it was announced today by C. L. McLean, County Retail Chairman. Quota for the month for Michigan is $5,217,610.

This compares with a $4,080,000 retail quota for August. The report of actual sales for August is not yet available. "The larger quota for September is due to the fact that retail sales in September are normally greater than in August," said Mr. McLean. "Our monthly quotas are based on retail sales volume, because the actual opportunities we have to sell War Savings Bonds and Stamps depend upon the number of retail transactions which take place in a given month."

Auction Sales

Alton Durant of Grant township will hold an auction sale of live stock and farm implements, Saturday afternoon, September 26. John O. Harris, auctioneer.

Otto Berg, having been called to the army, will sell his stock and personal property Tuesday afternoon, September 22, at his farm in Tawas township. David Houck, auctioneer. p1

Metcalfe-Tower

Before an altar beautifully decorated with white and pink gladioli, Miss Anne Metcalfe became the bride of Lieutenant Arthur R. Tower of Shaw Field, in a ceremony performed by Captain Frank K. Brasington, Post Chaplain, in the Shaw Field Chapel, Monday morning.

The wedding music was rendered by Clem Deffner, organist, who prior to the ceremony played "Liebestraum," and Chet Gregory, who sang "Because." The traditional wedding marches from "Lohengrin" by Wagner and "A Midsummer Night's Dream" by Mendelssohn were used.

The bride wore a gown of Victory Blue, and a small "halo" and veil of the same shade. Her only ornament was a small gold bar pin which had belonged to her maternal grandmother. Her accessories were white, and she carried a large bouquet of pink rosebuds and tuberoses.

Miss Abbie Law of Sumter, S. C., was maid-of-honor and only attendant of the bride. She wore a dress of delicate pink and a leghorn picture hat. She carried a small nosegay of mixed flowers.

The groom chose as his best man Lt. William C. Boyd of Shaw Field.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Annie R. Metcalfe of Tawas City, and the late Rev. Frank Metcalfe. Mrs. Tower was educated in the public schools of Tawas City and is a graduate of Central Michigan College of Education, Mt. Pleasant, where she received her A. B. degree. Since graduation, she has been teaching in the Clio Public Schools.

Lt. Tower is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph E. Tower of Custer, Michigan. He attended Central Michigan College of Education, and Alfred University in New York, where he was a member of Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity. He has been stationed at Shaw Field since April, 1942, and serves as flying instructor and tactical officer in the Cadet Detachment.

FARM PROGRAM ELECTIONS HELD TONIGHT

County Convention Will Follow Tomorrow (Saturday)

Meetings will be held on Friday evening, September 18, 1942 at 8:00 o'clock for the purpose of electing county committee members to administer the Agricultural Conservation Program in Iosco County for the year 1943. Also at this meeting delegates will be elected, who will in turn elect the county committee at a county convention to be held on Saturday, September 19.

Following is a list of places at which the election meetings will be held on Friday evening:

- Alabaster, Alabaster School
- Baldwin, Baldwin School
- Burleigh, Burleigh Township School
- Grant, Grant Township school
- Plainfield, Hale Township Hall
- Reno, Reno Township Hall
- Sherman, Sherman Township Hall
- Tawas, Tawas Township Hall
- Wilber, Wilber Township Hall

Any farmer who is participating or cooperating in any program developed under any act of Congress and administered during the current calendar year (1942) through the Agricultural Conservation Administration and who has received or will receive a payment for compliance or grant of Conservation materials with such program shall be a member of the association and shall have a right to vote at the community election meeting upon signing form NCR-705, Register of members.

The articles of association are being amended this year to provide that the wife of any person otherwise eligible to vote and hold office, is also eligible to vote and hold office. We would like to see some farm women elected on the community committees. Right now with our manpower going into the armed services, they can help tremendously. Not only in working on farms as they are doing more than ever before, but also in helping run our farm program.

Hitler, if he could, would pay all of us very well to stay at home and keep away from all elections. Triple A and all others. Hitler doesn't like elections. He knows that free people would not vote for him or his crowd.

Iosco 4-H Clubs Exhibit At East Lansing Meet

In order to make way for the continuation of the war program the Michigan State Fair was abandoned for the duration of the war, however 4-H club people assembled their exhibits at Michigan State College last week to compete among themselves for state honor.

Exhibits were assembled from 70 of Michigan's 83 counties and produced competition comparable to that which usually gathers at the Detroit Fair Grounds during the same week each year.

The East Tawas "Cedar Swamp Deer Study Club" which was lead last year by E. A. Mathias presented a club exhibit consisting of five panels. Two of the panels received first place rating in their respective classes while the other three were given second places in each of their respective classes among similar exhibits from all parts of the state.

The club members who prepared their panels which presented a story of deer feeding, deer concentration, and deer cover, were: Bobby Klenow, Jerry Lonsbury, Betty Jean Dense, Dorothy Krumm and Waldo Gordon all from the East Tawas High school.

Two other exhibits from Iosco county which caused the state judges to adjust their glasses were prepared in Reno township. Wilma Bueschen now a junior in the Whittemore High school entered her 4th year canning exhibit which consisted of five cans of fruit and received third place among other 4th year canners of Michigan.

A county first year canning exhibit consisting of eight cans, mustered its way through competition to second position. Four first year canners made this exhibit possible. Annie Bentley's contribution consisted of peaches and appleauce, Margaret Wall's of cherries, tomatoes and blueberries; Dorothy Robinson of raspberries and tomato juice, while Beverly Robinson added the eight quart of blackberries.

These five club members belong to the Taft Junior Farmers Club and worked under the leadership of Miss Ella Bueschen.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

FDR Plans Nationwide Gas Rationing With 35-Mile Speed Limit for U. S.; Double-Time Pay Banned for Duration; British Renew Madagascar Occupation

EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper. Released by Western Newspaper Union.

When the U. S. marines accomplished their history-making offensive in the Solomon islands, amphibian tractors churned South Seas water to carry them to their first attack to win back Jap-held territory since the start of the war. The tractor is in the background as these marines dug in at the beach soon after the battle's opening. The area was soon cleared of the enemy.

GAS RATIONING: President Acts

For weeks silvery-haired Bernard M. Baruch and co-members of the President's special rubber committee had labored over the problem of what to do about the nation's steadily diminishing rubber supply.

When the committee handed Mr. Roosevelt its report, the President was ready for action.

First, he announced that "as rapidly as arrangements can be made" he would put into effect a set of recommendations submitted by the committee, including nationwide gasoline rationing and drastic restrictions on civilian motoring.

Made public in the President's announcement were additional steps recommended by the committee which included:

A 35-mile speed limit for passenger cars and trucks; an average annual mileage of 5,000 miles per car, permitted only for "necessary driving"; release of more rubber to the public for recapping old tires to maintain necessary civilian driving; imposition of gasoline rationing nationally on the basis of 5,000 miles per year per car; compulsory periodic tire inspections; voluntary tire conservation pending establishment of gas rationing.

Submitted with the committee's recommendations was the blunt declaration that rubber conservation was now a matter of "discomfort or defeat."

MADAGASCAR: 'Full Occupation'

Even as communiques revealed that the British had opened a general offensive against the west coast of Vichy-held Madagascar, the state department in Washington announced that Great Britain with the full approval of the United States had decided to undertake "further military operations" in the Madagascar area.

British action was taken to eliminate reported refueling of Jap submarines in secret harbors and Nazi espionage in connivance with Vichy agents.

Significant of the close military collaboration between Britain and the United States and their indifference to Vichy France opposition, the state department announcement declared:

"The full military occupation of Madagascar by British forces will not only contribute to the successful conduct of the war against the Axis forces, but will be in the interest of the United Nations."

DOUBLE-TIME PAY: Curbed by FDR

"Penalty double time" pay for millions of industrial workers was abolished for the duration of the war when President Roosevelt signed an executive order banning the practice for Sundays, Saturdays and holidays.

The President's action thus invalidated contracts in which employers were required to pay workers double time for work on Saturdays or holidays, even though these days fell within the regular five-day work week.

Mr. Roosevelt said he had taken the step in line with an understanding previously arrived at with William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, and Philip Murray, president of the CIO.

The order was signed at almost the final hour of a deadline set by the United Automobile Workers union, of the CIO. The UAW which had voluntarily surrendered such double time had protested that rival organizations had not made the same sacrifice. Enactment of the order thus eliminated a possible labor conflict.

LUXEMBOURG: Defies the Nazis

Plucky Luxembourgers gave the lie to Nazi propaganda that they were voluntarily acquiring German citizenship and entering the enemy armed forces, by staging a general strike—the first in a German-occupied country.

The pint-sized duchy, which has a population of but 269,913, is nevertheless one of the world's most important steel producing regions. The exiled Luxembourg ministry in London reported that German authorities had declared a state of emergency and threatened striking workers with death.

Repressive measures were imposed throughout Luxembourg when the strike which started at Schifflingen, spread to other towns. Sabotage against railroads in the tiny country was reported widespread, with workers putting equipment out of order.

TRUCKS AND TAXIS: Face U. S. Control

The operation of 5,000,000 commercial motor trucks, 150,000 busses and 50,000 taxi cabs will be placed under government control by November 15 as a measure to conserve transportation facilities for war purposes, it was announced by Joseph B. Eastman, director of the Office of Defense Transportation. Passenger cars and motorcycles were exempted from the new regulations.

The ODT's order directed operators of commercial vehicles to obtain a "certificate of war necessity" to obtain fuel, tires, tubes and accessories.

Mr. Eastman said the certificates for commercial vehicles would require a tire check every 5,000 miles, or every 60 days, whichever occurs first, to assure proper inflation and repairs. Certificates, he indicated, will be issued to all types of trucks, vehicles built primarily for transporting property and passengers and others available for public rental, such as ambulances and hearses.

The objective, he said, is to limit their use to operations necessary to the war effort, or to the essential domestic economy.

FRANCE: Petain Is Warned

Edouard Herriot is one Frenchman not afraid to raise his voice in blunt opposition to Vichy. Jules Jeanneney is another. Both command respect in Unoccupied France, for Herriot is mayor of Lyons and a former premier and Jeanneney a former cabinet member. Both were leaders of the last parliament of the Third Republic.

Thus Frenchmen everywhere listened when these two delivered a solemn warning to Marshal Petain and Pierre Laval that France may suffer "convulsions" if the Vichy government attempts to draw the nation "into war against our Allies."

In an unprecedented letter indicting the present regime, Herriot and Jeanneney implied that despite the French defeat in June, 1940, and the armistice with Germany and despite the rise of Petain and Laval, they still consider France bound by the treaties of alliance with which she entered the war.

TANKS VS. PLANES: U. S. Passes Axis

Robert P. Patterson, undersecretary of war, had good news for the nation when he announced in Cleveland that American tank production had reached "an impressive figure" and that Uncle Sam was now turning out more planes than Germany, Japan and Italy combined.

Answering criticism of American war material, Patterson said that in speed, range, toughness of armor and hitting power, the U. S. medium tank, either the M-3 or the M-4, "is superior to the best German tank," as "proved in combat in Egypt."

Combat records, he declared, also had proved the Curtiss P-40 better than the Jap Zero planes.

SEA SAGA: Wakefield Rescue

A grim drama of the sea, abounding in tales of heroism was unfolded when survivors of the burned naval transport Wakefield were landed at an Atlantic coast port.

Formerly known as the liner Manhattan, one-time queen of the U. S. merchant fleet, the Wakefield had been severely damaged by fire, but more than 1,600 passengers and crew members had been removed without loss of life.

Jiggers, Japs! Here Come the Marines!

Above photos were taken immediately before and after the U. S. marines blasted the Japs from at least six of the Solomon islands. The amphibious tractor at top carries marines approaching the entrance to the first Jap army camp on Guadalcanal islands. Lower left: A deserted Jap machine gun emplacement is inspected by marines. The U. S. invaders tossed dynamite sticks down the holes to quiet the defenders. Right: Yanks set up emergency radio outfits for communication with advancing patrol forces of Leathernecks and ships of the fleet.

The Well-Dressed Commando—From Stem to Stern

The camera got real close to this hard-bitten Commando trooper as he and his buddies returned from the raid on Dieppe, and succeeded in getting the lowdown on what the well-dressed Commando wears. And it's plenty! At left is a rear view, showing the pack and tools. (Center, front view.) Notice the brass knuckles and dagger in belt. The tube across the man's chest is attached to a life preserver. Tube is used to inflate the preserver if the Commando goes into the water. Right: An extra dagger carried in the scabbard in the Commando's gaiter. Note boots, armored for cliff climbing or high jumping.

New Troop-Carrying Glider for U. S. Army

Shown above in the air and on the ground is the army's 15-place troop-carrying glider, the CG-4A, now in quantity production at Wichita, Kans. In the hands of a skilled pilot the glider can be landed in almost any small field or pasture. The glider has a wing span of 83 feet and 8 inches, and weighs only 3,000 pounds. Note troops boarding glider in lower picture. Gliders of this type may be used against Axis when invasion time comes.

Milk Delivery on Pacific Isle Base

Here you see USAAF officers sampling local coconut milk delivery on a South Pacific island airbase. The coconuts are a far cry from the containers in which their milk once was delivered "back in the states."

Built in 24 Days

Henry J. Kaiser handed to his government a 10,000-ton Liberty ship, the John Fitch, shown above, which was built in only 24 days. This shattered all records. By assembling the engine that went into the ship in just 30 hours another record was broken. Photo shows the launching from the Richmond, Calif., yards.

Pudding Bomb!

The "pudding bomb," used with good effect in the Egyptian desert, is said to be more potent than the "Molotov cocktail" for rendering German tanks hors de combat. Thrown at a tank, the "pudding" sticks to the side until it explodes.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON Consolidated Features.—WNU Release.

NEW YORK.—The Boilermakers' union of Oakland now admits women to full fraternal membership. It wasn't our fault, but our Women With Nice timing was bad in heading into this war, this observation being not altogether a non sequitur. There's a news paragraph today about a pretty chorus girl working in a defense factory. She's a slender, pretty little thing, and when you contrast her with the chorus girls of other days, you realize that our entrance cue for a war was back in the time of Billy Watson's "Beef Trust," when every girl on the stage looked as if she could shoot dice with anvils. That was the time to open the Boilermakers' union to the ladies—not now, when no girl is happy unless she has the running gear of a katydid.

The chorus girl is Dora Salvina, 22, blonde, running a big "clicker" machine for I. Spiewak & Sons, North Bergen, N. J. She juggles 24 dies and shifts a lot of levers, for a full eight-hour stretch, bringing through laskinlamb suits for army and navy pilots and bombardiers. She recently received the Award of Merit of the Laskinlamb institute for turning out 50 flying suits in one day, a record to date for any one person.

Miss Salvina was decorating the front line of "Crazy With the Heat" not so long ago, and before that she was in the World's fair patriotic spectacle, "American Jubilee." With the war on, she sidestepped USO engagements and found her factory job, figuring flying suits were more important than entertainment. Chorus girls are traditionally realistic and she says she works for "pay and patriotism."

There is a cadence in machine operations in which the conditioned rhythms of music and dancing would fit nicely. This no doubt was one of Dora's assets in winning the production award. She's good box-office for I. Spiewak & Sons. They recently "doubled" their production.

IN THE Bible phrase, one would have to go to and fro on the earth to find a team like Henry J. Kaiser, the demon ship-builder, and Two Go-Getters Howard R. Hughes, the flier, tool-maker, air-plane designer and picture-producer. They get together to get those 500 cargo planes out of the suspense file and over to the war front. They indicate a short-cut to action.

At the age of 18, young Mr. Hughes, now 37, inherited $17,000,000, along with the Hughes Tool company of Houston, Texas. His money took wings, in the form of his first moving picture, "Hell's Angels," a World war aviation opus. But it landed with a net increment of $3,000,000 and ever since he has been this country's most interesting blend of romance and business.

He kept right on with his tool-making, but in July, 1938, he hightailed it around the world in a plane in less than four days. His uncle, Rupert Hughes, the novelist, first lured him to Hollywood, where he made more pictures, taking time out to build his own plane plant and duplicate many of the hazardous feats of the movie fliers. After his world flight, the Federated Advertising club of Chicago voted him fourth in its list of the 11 outstanding men of the year.

Born and brought up in Houston he attended the fashionable Fessenden school of Boston, the Thatcher school of Ojai, Calif., and Rice institute of Houston. Yes, he has no diplomas. Craving action on something or other, he always walked out on school before they could tap him for Class day.

He is six feet, three, loose-gear and lanky, with dark, stringy hair, and he is an absent-minded dresser who never worries about the crease in his pants. He has the biggest yacht on the Pacific coast—or did have—but he gets his big thrill out of pitching horseshoes. Hollywood gossip columnists have had quite a romp, getting him engaged to this actress or that, but he is still unmarried.

We noted here recently Donald Roebing, up to his knees in folding money, who hid out in the Florida swamps for seven years and brought through the marvelous amphibian tank for the marines. His grandfather built the Brooklyn bridge and his father is a builder and inventor. Mr. Hughes' forbears were the same kind of people. His father's revolutionary pipe drill built the family fortune. There's a mother lode of this kind of genius in America and naturally it's going to yield cargo planes, or anything else needed to win this war.

Heap High the Cookie Jar!
(See Recipes Below.)

That Sweet Tooth

"Mom, may we have some cookies, please?"

That question asked in a childish voice with real pleading is going to be as daily as the sunrise and sunset these days as your younger members of the family feel the snap of fall in the air. School days with their demand on youthful energies will perk up summer's lagging appetite too!

Very few of you can say "no" to a request for cookies. Far from spoiling the appetite for dinner, a cookie or two with a glass of milk will help the child get gracefully through the late afternoon hours until dinner time.

Keeping the cookie jar full may have been your major problem in former years. This year it will be that plus making cookies with a ration of sugar. But you'll do it, I know, and these recipes will help you:

Oatmeal Crispies.

(Makes 4 dozen)

- 1 cup shortening
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 cup dark corn syrup
- 2 eggs, beaten
- 1/2 cup sour milk
- 2 1/2 cups sifted flour
- 3/4 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon soda
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 2 cups oatmeal
- 2 cups raisins

Cream sugar and shortening. Add corn syrup. Blend. Add beaten eggs. Sift together dry ingredients. Add alternately with sour milk. Stir in oatmeal and raisins. Drop by spoonfuls on an oiled baking sheet. Bake in a moderate (350-degree) oven for 15 minutes.

Ginger Snaps.

- 1 cup molasses
- 3/4 cups sifted flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup butter
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- 1/2 teaspoon soda
- 1 1/2 tablespoons ginger

Heat molasses to boiling point and pour over fat. Add sifted dry ingredients to molasses and fat. Mix well and shape dough into a long, thin roll. Wrap in waxed paper and place in refrigerator to chill overnight. Cut into thin slices with sharp knife and bake in a moderate oven until lightly browned. Remove from pan while hot and store in tightly covered container to keep crisp.

That son of yours may be grown-up now and in the service, but my guess is that some of those good,

Lynn Says:

Preserving Food: Eat and can whatever you can from your Victory garden. But you still may have some left, you say?

There are several methods to take care of the surplus. First, investigate to see whether your community has one of those storage lockers where you can rent space in the freezing locker. Cleanliness and speed are important factors in this type of storage. Food must be well selected to warrant the expense of this type of preserving.

Drying at home is another excellent way and one of the oldest methods available. Driers can be bought for a reasonable sum and used to advantage for drying and storing fruits and vegetables.

Other foods such as root vegetables, pumpkins and squash have good keeping qualities if stored in their natural state under well regulated temperatures such as in attic or cellar. Dried beans, peas and cured onions may be stored in an attic. Squash and pumpkins require a relatively warm place with free circulation of air.

homemade cookies of yours will be mighty welcome to him at camp:

Honey Fruit Bars.

(Makes 3 dozen)

- 2 eggs
- 1/2 cup honey
- 1/2 cup sifted flour
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/2 pound pitted dates, sliced
- 6 ounces mixed, candied fruits

Beat eggs and honey to blend. Add sifted dry ingredients and fruits and mix well. Turn into a greased, wax-paper lined pan. Bake in a moderate-to-slow (325-degree) oven for 45 minutes. Remove paper. Cool and cut into bars. Roll in powdered sugar if desired. Store in covered jar for several days to mellow.

Chocolate Chip Cookies.

(Makes 3 1/2 dozen)

- 1/2 cup butter
- 1/2 cup honey
- 1 small egg
- 1 cup sifted flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup semi-sweet chocolate chips
- 1/4 cup nutmeats
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Cream butter and honey until light and fluffy. Add egg and beat well. Sift dry ingredients twice, and add to butter mixture. Add vanilla and blend well. Fold in chocolate chips and nuts. Chill, then drop by spoonfuls on a greased cookie sheet. Bake at 375 degrees for 12 minutes.

Can you spare a cup and a quarter of sugar? I think you can if you know that you will spread that sugar over eight dozen cookies as in the following:

Vanilla Nut Ice Box Cookies.

(Makes 8 dozen cookies)

- 2 cups sifted cake flour
- 1 1/2 teaspoons double-acting baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 6 tablespoons butter or shortening
- 1/4 cup brown sugar, firmly packed
- 1 cup granulated sugar
- 1 egg, well beaten
- 1 cup chopped nuts
- 1 1/2 teaspoons vanilla

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt. Sift again. Cream butter and sugars gradually, creaming thoroughly. Add egg, nuts, vanilla and mix well. Add flour gradually, mixing well after each addition. Shape into rolls, 1 1/2 inches in diameter and roll in waxed paper. Chill overnight or until firm enough to slice. Cut in 1/8-inch slices. Bake on ungreased baking sheet in a hot oven (425 degrees) 5 minutes or until light, golden brown.

A fruity, unusual pie is this one combining prunes and bananas with cornflakes and coconut. A sugar-saver, too:

*American Prune Pie.

(Serves 6 to 8)

- 2 cups cooked prunes
- 1 1/2 cups whipping cream
- 1/2 cup honey
- 1 cup sliced bananas
- Few grains salt
- 2 cups uncrushed corn flakes
- 1/2 cup shredded coconut
- Baked pastry shell (9-inch)

Cut prunes from pits in small pieces. Whip cream. Measure one cup and blend with honey. Add fruit and salt and stir to blend. Add cornflakes and blend lightly but thoroughly. Pour into baked pie shell and sprinkle with coconut. Top with remaining cream and serve soon after preparation.

On Second Thought—What Does It Matter?

"Darling," he asked, as he drew his fiancée closer to him, "am I the first man you have ever kissed?"

"William," replied the girl, somewhat testily, "before we go any farther I would like to ask you a few questions. You are aware that my father is a millionaire something like ten times over, aren't you?"

"Y-yes."
"You understand that when he dies his fortune will be left to me?"

"Y-yes."
"You know that I have a quarter of a million in my name at the bank?"

"Y-yes."
"And own two and a half millions' worth of property?"

"Y-yes."
"That my diamonds are insured for a quarter of a million?"

"Y-yes."
"Then, for goodness' sake, talk sense! What difference would it make to you if I had been kissed by a thousand men before I met you?"

Hope or Regret

Do not anxiously hope for what is not yet come; do not vainly regret what is already past.—Chinese Proverb.

The Touch of a Friendly Hand

A gentleman went into a jeweler's shop and asked to be shown some precious stones. He was shown a tray containing, among other stones, an opal. As it lay beside the others it appeared dull and altogether of little value.

Then the jeweler took it in his hand and held it for some moments, and again showed it to his customer. Now it shone and flashed with all the hues of the rainbow. It needed the warm touch of a human hand to bring out its color and beauty. There are human lives about us that seem cold and dull and lusterless. Perhaps because they need a helping hand from some of us!

In conferring this award the Army and Navy will present a flag to be flown above the plant, and will give every member of that organization a pin which they may wear as a symbol of their permanent contribution to human freedom. This Is a 'Corker'

Here's a story that may well be termed a "corker." Recently Robert E. Adams of Shreveport, La., mourned the disappearance of $40—his whole week's pay. He considered himself a "hard-luck guy." A happy ending came later, however, when he found the money—in his cork leg. Adams said he apparently had put the money in his trousers pocket in which there was a hole, and the money fell through into the artificial limb.

Fabric Gloves

Gloves made of fabric wash clean in a twinkling, provided that the washing is done as soon as they look wilted. Lukewarm soapsuds for the washing and clear, lukewarm water for the rinsing, are all that they need to look like new. Pat the moisture out with a towel to make them dry more quickly, then stretch the gloves lengthwise, and hang them over a towel bar in the bathroom or dry flat on a clean turkish towel.

Stool Pigeons

Recently a crippled holdup man made a desperate attempt to escape from the custody of a deputy by felling him with a crutch outside of Tombs prison.

Alfalfa Demands

Autumn Vacation

When the month of September arrives most vacations are over, however this is not true in 100% of the cases.

There is a fellow who works for nearly every farmer in Isosco county who demands his vacation during September and October. This fellow's name is "Alfalfa" and he is a special friend of every dairyman in the county.

This chap "Alfalfa" may live through alright if he is given no vacation and then upon the other hand he may not survive. If he does survive but with no vacation he will produce less efficiently next year and every ounce of high protein roughage available is needed in the production of foods that our war may be ended at the earliest possible date.

According to authorities from Michigan State College, alfalfa goes through a chemical change during September in which sugars are stored in the root system and prevent the plant from winter killing.

In order to store these sugars the plant must have an abundant top growth. Therefore, farmers are encouraged to withhold cutting and pasturing alfalfa fields during September and the first part of October unless growth is automatically halted by a severe frost. After growth stops the fields may be safely cut or pastured.

For substitute feeds during this alfalfa vacation period the cows may be stable fed, hay and a little extra grain, or green corn, or they may even be permitted to graze on an all falfa field that is to be plowed up yet this fall or next spring. If these precautionary measures are followed, farm incomes will be increased and the nation may enjoy a better balanced diet.

Urge to Kick Cop

The Very Rev. Edmund J. Reilly of a Brooklyn church found a note on the collection plate signed "Patrick Gunn," inviting the good man to step outside after mass for a fist fight. In Minneapolis a pretty woman walked up to a policeman and without ado kicked him smartly on the shin. He said "ouch," and she let him have another. Her explanation for such quaint conduct was simple. "All my life," she told the judge, "I've wanted to kick a cop."

Money Divorce Cause

Money, or rather the lack of it, is the most common cause of marital troubles, according to Circuit Judge Paul D. Barnes of Miami, and he should know, for last year he handled 4,000 divorce cases. "Willingness to live within income is the most important thing I can say to young married couples," Judge Barnes said. "The tendency to exceed income seems to be a fashion of the times, but it's probably the most disastrous habit married couples can fall into."

Urge to Kick Cop

The Very Rev. Edmund J. Reilly of a Brooklyn church found a note on the collection plate signed "Patrick Gunn," inviting the good man to step outside after mass for a fist fight. In Minneapolis a pretty woman walked up to a policeman and without ado kicked him smartly on the shin. He said "ouch," and she let him have another. Her explanation for such quaint conduct was simple. "All my life," she told the judge, "I've wanted to kick a cop."

Dangerous Firewood

Mrs. L. Marais of Cyferkuil, Western Transvaal, picked up a piece of firewood while lighting her kitchen fire and found to her horror that she had seized a deadly night adder. With great presence of mind, the housewife struck it against the floor and battered it to death.

Tung Oil From China

U. S. imports of tung oil from China have been seriously curtailed by the war. The oil is used as a waterproofing and drying agent in paints and varnishes.

Avoid "cheap" insurance. Like anything else, in buying an insurance policy you get just what you pay for. When you have an accident, that extra dollar or two you paid for Complete Protection may save you thousands of dollars.

We're Busy Helping Uncle Sam

... - V - ...

LAST YEAR, America's railroads moved 475 billion ton-miles of freight, history's greatest traffic job. (We'd like to tell you how many millions of soldiers and sailors we carried, but . . .)

This year the railroads may haul 50 million carloads of freight—10% to 15% more than in 1941.

We did the 1941 job pretty easily because freight shippers and receivers and the public cooperated. We can do this year's bigger job if we again get that cooperation.

This all-out war requires all-out transportation. Uncle Sam is depending on the railroads for that. We're handling 70% of his military freight. To let him down would be tragic.

So "the tall man in the high hat" comes first.

At any time now there may be one, even two or three fewer cars in your passenger train. You'll excuse it, won't you? Uncle Sam will be using them.

Or your freight may move out, or come to you, a little later than you had hoped. We're certain you'll overlook that, too. We'll be moving important things for Uncle Sam.

We knew you would. And you'll be helping him, too.

Abnormal Tire Wear
 If tires show abnormal wear the trouble may be caused by under-inflation or misaligned wheels, according to the California State Automobile association. Another cause of uneven tire wear is unbalanced wheels. At high speed a wheel only slightly out of balance develops a powerful centrifugal force. This force jerks the wheel up and down as it rotates. In addition to abnormal up and down motion there also may be side motion as the heavy spot moves fore and aft. Unbalanced wheels frequently cause shimmy, abnormal wear in steering mechanism, as well as cupped spots in the tire tread.
 Collects 286 Rare Odors
 Collecting rare odors is the hobby of Dr. Ralph Bienfang of the University of Oklahoma school of pharmacy. He has 286 of them from far corners of the earth, such as oil of rose from Baghdad; hyssop from central Asia and zdravetza from Bulgaria. Dr. Bienfang preserves the odor in oil and transfers it to a card. The card holds the odor for as long as two years and is filed in a card index.

 Hepplewhite gained prominence by his well-designed commodes and chests. Characteristic of his pieces are the curved front, the band-sawed base and the gracefully curved and tapered legs. He used only mahogany and some satin-wood.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS
 These huge 60-ton heavy tanks cost $120,000, and America's automotive and locomotive plants are turning them out on a never-ending assembly line. Our army uses light tanks, weighing 14 tons, and medium tanks of 28 tons also, but we favor the medium tank over the other two.

These heavy tanks are needed for certain phases of modern warfare, and with their thick armor and heavy-gauge guns they are almost unstoppable. They are considered superior in gun power, in maneuverability and in the power of their huge tractor motors to Axis tanks. Americans everywhere are helping to pay for these monsters of war through their purchase of War Bonds. Invest at least ten percent of your income in War Bonds every pay day.

Navy Has Foot Trouble
 Even the navy has its foot trouble. The United States Naval Reserve corps has decided that among the specialists eligible for appointment are chiropodists, or podiatrists. Action of the navy in appointing chiropodists follows the report of the Council of the American Medical Association that "chiropody is a department of the healing service and it has its basis in scientific and demonstrated knowledge and satisfies a gap that general medicine has failed to fill."

GHOST PLANE

By ARTHUR STRINGER W.N.U. SERVICE

"Yes, it's Lynn," she told him. "I've found you."

THE STORY SO FAR: Although he suspects him of being up to something, Alan Slade agrees to fly a "scientist" named Frayne and his assistant, Karnell, to the Anawotto river in search of the trumpeter swan. Frayne pays them the trumpeter swan. Frayne pays them in Norland Airways, to buy a Lockheed plane. But while Slade is away the plane is stolen. When he starts out to find it, Slade is aided by an eskimo named Umanak and by two old prospectors, Zeke and Minty. He returns to Frayne's camp, where he learns that Frayne has the Lockheed and that an outcast pilot named Slim Tumstead is flying something out of the country for him. But when Slade attempts to examine the plane's cargo he is knocked unconscious by Karnell. Tumstead saves him but abandons him later on a deserted island. Umanak, the eskimo, succeeds in getting a sample of Frayne's cargo, which turns out to be picblende, a valuable source of power. Now Zeke and Minty, who found Frayne's plane and are guarding it, have been joined by the "flying Padre" and his daughter, Lynn. Knowing that Slade would not have left his plane unguarded, they realize that something has happened to him. Lynn has gone off alone in her father's plane to find him.

Now continue with the story.

CHAPTER XVII

A lowering sun and a quick glance at her gas gauge told Lynn that her cruising had carried her farther afield than she had first intended. Tired and dispirited, she set her ship down on a many-armed lake that met a series of limestone ridges on one side and merged into scattered islets and muskeg on the other. And after eating and noting the thinning light about her she decided that enough flying had been done for one day.

So she slept that night in the plane cabin, as she had done often enough before. Her sleep, for all her weariness, was both broken and troubled. When she awakened, in the gray light of morning, it was oddly like awakening to a call. She sat up and looked about, wondering as to the source of that ghostly summons. She smiled when she heard it repeated. For what had come to her over the lake water draped with its morning mists was the echoing call of a trumpeter swan.

Lynn quietly opened the cabin-hatch and studied the lake's surface. A moment later her eyes caught the nearer shoreline and through the scrub spruce she saw a bear crawl down to the water's edge and drink.

She thought, at first, that it was wounded, its movements were so slow and uncertain. Then the bear, with an effort, stood up on its hind legs. And the staring girl saw it was not a bear, but a man.

Lynn clambered down from the plane and hurried ashore. She coursed over gravel beds and gullies and pushed her way through a tangle of briars, her breath coming in shorter and shorter gasps as she ran. She did not call out. But gladness and anxiety swept through her in interlocking waves as she hurried on. For even before she confronted that squatting figure she knew it was Slade.

She dropped to her knees, in front of him.

"Alan," she cried.

His gaze remained empty and unresponsive.

"It's not a dream, Alan," she panted as she crowded closer to him and brushed back the tangle of hair from his face. She could see a little of the vacancy go out of his eyes.

"Lynn?" he mumbled, still incredulous.

"Yes, it's Lynn," she told him, encircling his ragged body with her arms. "I've found you."

Lynn noticed, for the first time, the gauntness of his tremulous body. She supported him as he sank to the ground, where he sat staring at his worn and battered flyer's boots. "I lost my knife," he muttered. "That doesn't count now," she told him. "There's food and everything we need in the plane. But I'm wondering if you can walk that far."

He laughed again, less harshly.

"I guess I could still walk a hundred miles for a meal," he said as he once more got to his feet. "It's what I've been doing . . . walking . . . walking!"

She eased him to the ground, along a slope of moss-covered rock, when she reached the lake arm where the plane was resting. Then she hurriedly made a fire and brought canned milk and coffee from her cabin stores.

He remained as passive as a child in a hospital ward while she tugged and turned and rid him of his tattered clothes. She bathed his bruised body, noting the cuts and scratches, which she later anointed with witch hazel. Then she dressed him in the Padre's denim shirt, which was too small for him, and in the Padre's denim overalls, which were too wide in the waist.

"And now," she said, "we've got to get you looking less like a bear." He smiled a little as she lathered his face and bent over him with her razor.

"How'd you find me?" he asked as the razor blade scraped clean his hollowed cheek.

"The swans awakened me," she said as she scraped. "I might have slept on, if it hadn't been for them, and not seen you."

He blinked down at the plane wings in the lake cove, surrounded by its sheltering ridges.

"What is it?" asked Lynn. "I've got to go back," cried Slade, struggling to his feet.

"Back where?" asked Lynn, startled by the look of hate that darkened his face.

"To where they're hiding with that Lockheed. I've got to find Tumstead and Frayne." His voice shook with passion. "I've an account to settle with them."

He told her, briefly, of his capture and abduction, of his escape from the island, of his loss of strength as he tried to fight his way down to the coast.

"And if you hadn't come," he concluded, "I'd have gone out the way they wanted me to."

"Then you mustn't go back," she maintained. "You've faced danger enough. We know what those men are now. They'll stop at nothing. And I don't want you killed."

He shook off her hand and faced her.

"Who knows what those men are?" he demanded.

She told him of Umanak's discovery and of the Flying Padre's flight that brought him to the two embattled old sourdoughs from the Kasakana.

Slade's eyes narrowed as he listened.

"Then my hunch wasn't wrong," he cried out as his face darkened with a newer hostility. He looked at the spruce ridges that stretched away to the south. Then he looked at the faded blue wings of the plane. "Let's get going," he announced with a brusqueness that brought her gaze about to his face.

"Not yet," she said, realizing how remote from her he stood in his man's world of conflict.

"What is it?" he questioned, puzzled by the intentness with which she continued to study him.

"If you go back there," she told him, "it will be like going into battle. It will—"

But he cut her short.

"It'll be battle all right," was the bark that came from his dry lips.

"We can't tell what will happen," she went on. "We can't be sure of anything. But before we go I want to be sure of one thing."

"Of what?" he asked, his eyes on the plane.

But after another look at his gaunt face, she knew there was no room for life's subtler hungers in that tired and broken body of his. And pride, coming to her rescue, kept her from answering his question.

"Let's go," was all she said as she stooped to gather up her scattered possessions.

Slade, at the controls, arrowed southward with his throttle wide open. Lynn, from time to time, was conscious of the grimness of his face. Yet she smiled as she realized that a part of his grimness was due to the assiduousness with which he was chewing dried beef as he flew. He had been hungry, she remembered, for a long time.

Then he stopped chewing and scrutinized the country under his floats. The emptier rock ridges had given way to more closely watered terrain, to a region of lakes and streams interspersed with dolorous stretches of muskeg and marshland.

"We must be getting there," he called over his shoulder as a still larger lake floated under them and was left behind.

"There should be smoke," Lynn told him. "Father said a fire would be kept going."

"Where?" asked Slade.

"Where you left your ship," she explained, already searching the blue-misted ridges before her.

But Slade was the first to catch sight of the far-off plume of signal-smoke. He could see the gray drift above the furred darkness of the spruce slopes. His jaw hardened as he changed his course a point or two and droned down on the many-armed lake that more and more took on an aspect of familiarity. His memories of that district clearly were not palatable ones.

"Where's my plane?" he demanded as they dropped lower.

"It should be here," said Lynn, busy searching the shoreline.

But it was not there. All Slade could see, after drifting into the lake arm between the ridges, was a ragged old figure with a rifle, watching them as they came. Behind him burned a huge fire of spruce boles, sending a drift of smoke up the air.

"It's the Minty," cried Slade as their pontoons grounded on a gravel bar. Lynn was the first to clamber down and hurry ashore.

"Where's Father?" she questioned. But the ragged old sentinel with the rifle was watching the long-legged figure with the mooring gear in its hand.

"So they found you, Lindy," he exulted. "And you're back in the nick of time, son. For there's hell let loose in these hills."

"Where's Father?" persisted Lynn. Minty, finally conscious of her questioning, inspected her with a reproving eye.

"He's out scoutin' for you, lady. And he sure lost sleep wonderin' what'd happened to you. Where'd you find this puddle-jumper?"

"That can wait," said Slade. "What I want is that swan-hunter."

Minty spat and squared his shoulders.

"Then you've sure come to the right quarters, son," he asserted. "For he's barricaded over at that lake end o' his and he's slingin' lead at anything that comes within half a mile o' his hide-out."

"And that flyer of his, Tumstead?" questioned Slade.

"I ain't seen no flyer," answered Minty. "And I ain't seen no plane come and go. What he's tryin' to do, I'd say, is hold us off until a plane can swing in and pick him up."

Slade turned to his ragged old friend.

"Let me have that rifle," he said. But Minty promptly backed away. "Not on your life," he retorted. "I got use for this old girl."

He pointed toward the widening vista of muskeg country that stretched away into the north.

"Zeke's out there stalkin' that swan-hunter's side-kick. And I'm goin' to help him run down that human gorilla."

"You mean Karnell?" cried Slade. "That's jus' who I mean, Lindy. The slinkin' louse tried to outflank us in the night. But Zeke's got him cut off from his camp-mate out there, dodgin' lead like a coyote. And I'm goin' out to back up my bunkie."

Even as he spoke the sound of a repeated rifle shot, thinned by distance, came to them.

"I'll go with you," announced Slade.

Lynn could see his gaunt face once more darken with hate. Then he turned to her.

"Stay here with the plane," he told her. He pointed to the fire. "And you'd better keep smoke showing until the Padre gets back."

She was able to forgive the peremptory note in his voice as she moved closer to him. He stopped, for a moment, to study her face. But he failed to fathom the source of her anxiety.

"You'll be safe in the plane," he told her. "If you're in doubt, or there's any threat of danger, you can take off."

"I wasn't thinking about myself," she said with reproving quietness. "Then what's worrying you?" he asked matter-of-factly.

She caught at his sleeve.

"I don't want you to go, Alan." His eyes remained preoccupied as he freed himself.

"Don't worry about me," he said. "I've got to go."

"But what good will it do?" "I don't know yet," he retorted. "But Karnell tried to kill me. And I'm going to do what I can to round him up."

She knew enough of frontier life to realize there were times when women figured small in men's scheme of things. And this was another occasion, she remembered, when there was no room for tenderness in life.

"All right," she said, well-schooled in quick decisions from others. "I'll be here with the plane. When Father gets back I'll tell him which way you went."

She wanted to say more, but she knew it was useless.

JUDAH: AN EXAMPLE OF SELF-SACRIFICE

LESSON TEXT—Genesis 44:18-34. GOLDEN TEXT—Hereby perceive we the love of God, because he laid down his life for us: and we ought to lay down our lives for the brethren.—I John 3:16.

The family is still the fundamental unit of society, and is therefore of more importance than the church, the state, or the social order of which it is a vital part. Every force which encourages the breakdown of the sacred relationships of the home and family is set for the destruction of society itself.

Men have too often chosen to go the way of the flesh, and therefore they have disregarded God's plan and purpose. But marriage is just as sacred as ever in His sight; the home is to be kept for Him; and brotherly love still finds a high place among the virtues of real men.

Today's lesson is a continuation of the story of Joseph's life. As we study it we must bear in mind Joseph's dealings with his brethren, who as yet did not recognize him as the one they had sold into captivity. He was bringing them kindly but definitely to the point of real repentance, so that he could show himself gracious to them.

To do so he had brought disaster upon them. Being happily on their way homeward with a new supply of food, they were overtaken and proved to be thieves, and Benjamin, the beloved of their father Jacob, stood condemned by their own words, to death.

In that crisis the mouths of the others seemed closed, but Judah, who had really saved Joseph's life (Gen. 37:26, 27) and who had apparently come to himself as a man of essential goodness, pleaded for Benjamin's life. That plea presented a truly sacrificial brotherly love, as he manifested

I. Courage (v. 18). Easy rests the yoke of family life as long as all is joyful and prosperous. But when adversity strikes, when sorrow comes, or sickness, or sin, then the true test of devotion is at hand.

It was a brave and manly thing for Judah to stand before the one whom he knew only as the man who was "even as Pharaoh." The circumstances were all against him. He expected the flaming anger of the offended ruler. His brethren had collapsed in despair. It was one of those dark hours which come to every family when someone must demonstrate true love by being strong-hearted and steady.

II. Intelligence (vv. 19-29). Crises call for more than a cheerful smile or an encouraging word, much as they may mean in such an hour. We must be prepared by our close contact with our loved ones to speak and act with vigor and assurance.

Judah's plea is a masterpiece of argumentation and appeal, demonstrating that he was not only well-informed about his family and its problems, but ready to use his knowledge skillfully and effectively.

III. Self-Denial (vv. 30-33). One step deeper goes the devotion of this man to his father and his brother. He had done no wrong that merited punishment, but evidently his brother Benjamin had been guilty. Had he been of the spirit of Cain he would have said, "Am I my brother's keeper?" and let him answer for himself. Why should Judah suffer for another? Why should he allow himself to be imprisoned in a strange land to save his father from sorrow and his brother from what seemed to be the just reward for his deeds?

Thus reasons the man of the world, but such is not the language of the true brother, who says, "Let thy servant abide instead of the lad as a bondman."

IV. Love (v. 34). Love for father and brother underlies all of the courage, conviction and self-sacrifice of a man like Judah. In his younger years, and possibly under the influence of his brothers, he had failed in that respect, but now his real devotion to his brother was evident.

That affection was a real, powerful, and beautiful thing, and yet it is but a faint prefiguring of the affection of the One who "sticketh closer than a brother," who "though he was rich, yet for your sakes he became poor, that ye through his poverty might be rich" (Prov. 18:24; II Cor. 8:9).

Let us improve the opportunity to review our relations with our own family, to determine whether there is aught that we in intelligent and courageous self-sacrifice should do for our own.

Serviceman Took Words Out of Burrough's Mouth

While Firestone, Edison, Ford, and Burroughs were touring, a light bulb and a tire on the car went wrong. Mr. Ford went into a store and said to the proprietor: "What kind of lights do you have?" "Edison," was the reply. "And tires?" "Firestone."

"You may be interested to know that Mr. Edison and Mr. Firestone are in my car, and that I am Henry Ford."

As the man was putting on the tire, Mr. Burroughs, with long white whiskers, leaned out of the car, and the man, looking at him, said: "Yeah, I know, you're Santa Claus."

AROUND THE HOUSE

Don't store linens where there is heat which will dry the fibers and cause them to break. Avoid also damp places. Wrap them in tissue.

Do not cut the skins from apples when making applesauce. Remove blossom end, stem and parts that are not good. When thoroughly cooked, put through a coarse sieve. Made in this way the skins give the sauce a pink coloring.

Make an oilcloth cover for your ironing board, to use when brushing and sponging garments.

To help prevent peeled pears, apples and bananas from darkening when they're to be used in a fruit cup, cover them with grapefruit juice and chill.

To remove the shine from worsteds mix a small amount of vinegar with water, dip a pressing cloth in it, place the cloth on the right side of the fabric and press with a warm iron.

When making raisin breads, cookies, etc., cover the raisins with hot water and simmer them for about five minutes before using. They will be larger and softer.

In choosing an innerspring mattress, look for these: well-tempered steel wire coils, long-fibered cotton or curled hair padding top and bottom, sturdy borders, strong ticking that won't stretch and some provision for ventilation.

A good spice tip: Try putting cinnamon in lamb stew.

Potatoes?

A nourishing food, Mr. Hitler!

WE HAVE potatoes in America. We also have fruits, meats and green and yellow vegetables. For every crop you harvest with forced labor, we have a larger crop grown by men who work hard from dawn until dark because it's their land, their country. You've never met an American farmer—or his wife—have you, Mr. Hitler? Too bad. Otherwise you might have thought twice before you started this war.

Our cellars are used to store foods, not as bomb shelters. But our boys know the meaning of bombs. How did you like that first air raid, with not a single U. S. plane lost? Those boys didn't live on potatoes—they had meat, milk, fruits, vegetables . . . all the things we have at home. American food follows them to the corners of the earth.

How can we do it? American women are doing it—home-canning for the home front and saving money for War Bonds at the same time! Do you know how much of it they're doing? Well . . . what would you give for FOUR BILLION JARS of home-canned foods, Mr. Hitler?

MENTAL CASES

During the last war a medical officer, examining a recruit, reminded him that as he had had attacks of bronchitis, he would hardly be fit for overseas. The chest was clear but the physician pointed out that under stress and bad weather conditions the bronchitis might return and he would be a liability to the country. He was a superior type of individual and pleaded so hard that the medical officer talked the matter over with the captain of the unit he was joining. As it was thought that the outdoor life might "toughen" him, it was agreed to accept him as there was nothing against him but the "history" of the attacks.

The outdoor life at camp agreed with him, he had no attacks of bronchitis, and gained 15 pounds—the heaviest he had ever been. However, arriving in England the damp climate caused an acute attack of bronchitis and pneumonia and he had to be invalidated home without going to France.

Today every recruit has an X-ray film made of his chest before he receives the rest of his examination. Other tests are also made.

What about the mental condition of recruits? How can it be known how recruits will behave under the shock, danger, noise and surroundings of war?

This is going to be a difficult matter for the psychiatrist or mental specialist attached to the board of medical examiners. Thus Dr. Lauren H. Smith, physician-in-chief, department for mental and nervous diseases, Pennsylvania hospital, Philadelphia, says that the mental specialist ordinarily sees fully developed mental cases; we want him to use his skill to exclude, as far as possible, all those people who would be seriously damaged in their capacity for useful living by the circumstances of war.

However, as recruits are examined first at their own villages, towns or cities, the local physician is able to give information as to how the recruit conducts himself in the community and can advise whether the recruit is suitable for overseas or home service only, from the mental and emotional standpoint. Doubtful cases can always be sent on to the Medical Advisory board.

Exercise—Food—Blood Pressure

A mistake often made is in thinking that exercise should not be taken by middle-aged individuals as it will increase the blood pressure and enlarge the heart.

As a matter of fact, the blood pressure of athletes is slightly lower than those of the same age who take no exercise and the heart is, if anything, smaller.

Thus it can be seen that two individuals whose blood pressure is the same, can go for a holiday of two or three weeks and on their return the blood pressure of one is higher than the blood pressure of the other. Questioning brings out the fact that the one whose blood pressure is higher than when he went away has "rested" all the time while the other has been active. The one who rested all the time admits, however, that as he was outdoors all the time he had a great appetite and as the food was good he had eaten more than was his custom and his weight had increased several pounds.

That lack of exercise and increase in food intake increases the blood pressure is pointed out by Dr. H. O. Gunewardene in his book "Blood Pressure and Its Sequelae (results)", who states that physical inactivity—taking no work or exercise—plays an important part in high blood pressure conditions in India. High blood pressure rarely occurs among rickshaw runners who take violent exercise with long and exhausting hours, whereas high blood pressure is notably common among certain social groups who lead sedentary (sitting down most of the time) lives, with overeating.

The thought is that as we grow older, we have less desire to exercise and when the heart is affected or failing, too much exercise can put a strain on the heart and on the blood vessels. However, in the normal individual some exercise should be taken daily—a few bending exercises and a brisk walk—if the heart and blood vessels are to get their own needed exercise of their elastic tissues.

QUESTION BOX

Q. What would cause me to have a sharp pain in chest and a thumping in chest?

A. The pain may be due to gas, nervousness, or even to a heart condition. Consult your physician.

Q. Would an excessive flow of saliva following a meal be considered an indication that an abnormal thyroid condition is present?

A. An excess of saliva is more likely to be due to nervousness, or some stomach disturbance.

at defense work in the industrial centers, only about one-half of the usual September primary vote was cast at the Tuesday election. Republica voters cast 1251 votes. In the two contests for state and national offices, Iosco Republicans favored Dr. Eugene C. Keyes for lieutenant governor, and Judge Homer Ferguson for City for representative in the 10th congressional district. The district however nominated John F. Morrison, another Bay City man, as candidate for that office.

T. George Sternberg, not only had no opposition as a Democratic nominee for prosecuting attorney, but his was a lone name on the county's section of the Democratic ticket. The Republican nominee for that office, Graydon Withey, also unopposed announced last week that a change in administering his family's business affairs would force him to withdraw from the general election race.

Apparently voters in certain portions of Iosco county are short of tires and were impressed with Gerald L. K. Smith's "Tires for-Everybody" campaign for senator. Eight county precincts gave him majorities. They were Plainfield, Reno, Sherman, Grant, Wilber, Burleigh and Tawas townships and the second ward of Tawas City. He received 482 votes.

Less than 100 of Iosco county's Democrats came out Tuesday to nominate a candidate for congress and to endorse their non-contested candidates. The Democrats of the county supported William J. Kelly of Bay

Do You Know?

by Dorothy Scott
To utilize the supply of fresh fruits and vegetables on the market in greatest quantity, you no doubt find "specials" on certain of them nowadays.
Apples happen to be the fruit out-front just now, and there are many interesting things we can do to use up apple surpluses, taking advantage of both economy and health values. Apples are fair substitutes for citrus fruits and tomatoes, incidently.

How do you like your apples—"out of hand"? Certainly, but I'll bet you also like apple pie, apples in sauce, dumplings, baked apples, upside down cake and apples in salad combinations.
Here are a few tips on the selection of apples for the dish you are to make. To bake—an apple needs to hold its shape and yet bake thoroughly. Try Wagener, Jonathan, Wealthy. For sauce—apples slightly acid and juicy that give a smooth texture and a light clear color are best. This type is also good for pie. Jonathan, Northern Spy, Wealthy, Transparents and Duchess are in this class. For a general purpose apple get Baldwin, Jonathan, Wealthy, Northern Spy, and McIntosh. The Delicious apple is well known for it's eating quality, but is not a good buy for cooking purposes.

When you buy apples it may help to know there are three medium sized apples in a pound, and about 150 in a bushel, or 48 to 50 pounds.
In keeping apples remember that they will soften as much in one day at 70° F. as in two days at 50° F. The colder the storage space, above freezing, the more crisp apples will be.

APPLE CRUNCH—6 large tart apples, 2 c. toasted bread crumbs, 2 t. honey, ½ c. hot water, Pare apples and cut in generous slices. Into a buttered baking dish put a layer of toasted bread crumbs, then a layer of sliced apples and a top layer of crumbs. Add the hot water to the honey and pour it over the pudding. Bake twenty minutes.
BAKED APPLES—without sugar. Fill cored apples with 1 T. honey, corn syrup, chopped dates, raisins, marmalade, or chopped popcorn mixed with corn syrup in the proportion of 2 T. of syrup to a cup of corn. Put ¼ inch of water in pan. Bake until tender and serve in baking dish with syrup as sauce.
