1943 Farm Goals to Be Biggest Ever; U. S. Increases Strength in Pacific As Air-Naval Forces Blast Japanese; Nazis: 'No Need to Take Stalingrad'

EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper. Released by Western Newspaper Union.

A secret landing by American forces in the Andreanof group of the Aleutian islands made it possible to establish an airfield from which planes could blast Japanese positions on Kiska island. The above photo shows American troops in a "bucket brigade" passing supplies ashore from a small boat.

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC: Yank Power Grows

The Japs learned a lesson about American air and naval strength in the Pacific when five of their ships including a heavy cruiser were damaged by a U. S. aircraft carrier task force which pierced Nipponese defenses at Shortland island in the north Solomons. In addition, an air field was blasted at Bougainville, main Jap air base, and numerous aircraft destroyed.

A navy communique reported that the Japs were caught by surprise and the American operation was carried out without loss of men or equipment.

Besides the heavy cruiser, the American battle score against the Jap forces included one transport damaged by heavy bombs, one seaplane tender and two cargo ships damaged by light bombs.

In New Guinea, the advance of the tough Australian bush troops continued over the Owen Stanley mountains which the Japs had penetrated weeks before.

Although craggy trails had prevented swift movement, the Australians had cleared the enemy before them and had removed the threat of a Jap surge that once had pierced to within 32 miles of strategic Port Moresby.

A communique issued by Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters in Australia disclosed that the Allies' New Guinea advance had been made "with practically no loss."

"Information from native carriers who deserted the Jap forces plus reports from our own patrols, indicates the retreating Japs were exhausted, living on short rations and badly needing supplies," the communique reported.

Much of the Australian success was said to be due to a constant air attack on Japanese supply lines.

FARM GOALS:

Boosted for 1943

A nation-wide wartime plowup next spring, reminiscent of the days of 1918, loomed as the U. S. department of agriculture drew up tentative production goals calling for even greater acreages and output of most farm products than was requested under the record 1942 production.

The goals for all farm crops but three—wheat, short staple cotton and commercial vegetables—were set higher than for 1942. Corn and other feed grains, beans, peas, peanuts, potatoes, sugar beets, hemp and vegetables for processing were given the green light. So were production goals for cattle, hogs, dairy products, poultry and eggs.

With less manpower, machinery and other facilities to operate with, farmers had their work cut out for them. Moreover, the needs of the armed forces and the Allies, particularly Russia, were said to be much greater than had been expected a few weeks before.

If 1943 farm goals are not reached, civilian consumers will have to tighten their belts. Consumer rationing was to be inaugurated January 1, but civilians had already been asked to limit meat consumption to 2½ pounds weekly.

A possibility remained that sooner or later, butter, cheese, cooking fats, vegetable oils, eggs, poultry and canned fruits and vegetables would be placed in the same category as meat.

RUSSIA:

Stalingrad Checkmate

Unnoticed at the start, Marshal Timoshenko's counteroffensive, begun far up the northern arm of the Don river in the vicinity of Kletskaya, had moved forward. Its object was to draw off German striking power from the Stalingrad area.

Timoshenko had struck first, in a 50-mile area between the Don and Volga northwest of Stalingrad and had extended his forces southwest to the German flank.

That Timoshenko's strategy had worked was indicated by a significant statement on the Berlin radio which announced that the Germans would abandon frontal attacks on Stalingrad and destroy what was left of the city with heavy artillery. "It is no longer necessary to send German infantry and assault engineers into the battle," the announcement said. "The finishing touches will now be entrusted to heavy artillery and dive bombers."

Observers noted that the German announcement was reminiscent of propaganda covering the Nazi withdrawal a year ago from Rostov, when the Russians gained their first victory of the war.

Southward, in the Caucasus the Nazis had succeeded in advancing in the Mozdok area, while Rumanian reinforcements were reported pushing southward from the German-held Black sea base of Novorossik.

WAR COSTS:

210 Million Daily

War costs will exceed 210 million dollars a day by January 1, 1943, according to figures based on revised calculations by Budget Director Harold Smith. Mr. Smith's estimates placed total war spending at 78 billion dollars in the current fiscal year which will end June 30, 1943.

The budget director's upward estimate was about 25 billions more than President Roosevelt's figures last January and eight billions more than a previous calculation by Smith.

Increased expenditures for all war purposes would make it necessary for the treasury to borrow approximately $60,300,000,000 from the public during the current fiscal year.

LABOR:

Lewis Divorces CIO

Labor leaders and politicians had long awaited the formal secession of the United Mine Workers of America from the CIO. Bushy-browed UMW Chief John L. Lewis kept his own counsel, but chose a dramatic moment for the divorce. The occasion was the miners' annual convention at Cincinnati.

Brusquely warning the delegates that he would no longer remain the union's president if it remained in the CIO, Lewis obtained unanimous consent to withdraw. A committee report urging the separation charged the CIO with failure to pay a $1,650,000 debt to the UMW and denounced alleged attacks by CIO officers on Lewis.

The convention action merely gave public recognition to a situation that had existed for months. Lewis and Philip Murray, CIO president, were feuding after a friendship of years standing. Murray, a former miner and vice president of UMW, had been "read out" of the union, last spring.

ALEUTIANS:

Japs Fold Tents

As mysteriously as they first appeared, Japanese forces disappeared from the two westernmost Aleutian islands, a navy communique revealed. The two islands abandoned were Attu and Agattu, lying close together nearly 200 miles from Kiska.

Heavy bombing by American aircraft which destroyed most of the Japanese buildings on the two islands was cited as a reason for the withdrawal.

The Japs still held a foothold on Kiska island, but Yankee flyers made their tenure precarious. Army heavy bombers operating from the newly acquired American bases in the Andreanof islands in the Aleutians blasted Jap-held positions on Kiska in repeated raids.

The islands of Attu and Agattu were originally seized by the Japs shortly after the Aleutian campaign opened last June.

SCANDINAVIA:

Headache for Nazis

Germany's influence in the Scandinavian countries had been weakening. This was evident when a general election in Sweden had returned a record number of Communist, anti-Nazi delegates to the national assembly. It was evident, too, in frequent peace feelers from war-plagued Finland. Thus when rioting and disorders broke out against the Axis overlords in Norway and Denmark, few observers were surprised.

Swift was the Nazi action in countering with force the Scandinavian threat. The Germans proclaimed a state of emergency in central Norway from the seaport of Trondheim to the Swedish border. Reprisal executions followed. Reports from Copenhagen said tension had mounted to fever heat because of clashes resulting from the "overbearing and provocative" attitude of the volunteer pro-Nazi "Free Corps."

The Nazi radio gave official confirmation of Scandinavian unrest by announcing that the Norwegian emergency was proclaimed because of recent sabotage attempts "which if they had succeeded would have endangered Norway's supply system."

RUMOR MONGER:

Menace Described

Americans were called upon to beware of rumor mongers by Robert P. Patterson, undersecretary of war.

Speaking before the American Federation of Labor convention in Toronto, Mr. Patterson cited rumors assailing the quality and effectiveness of weapons made by American labor as evidence of Nazi propaganda. "Criticism of the Garand rifle, U. S. tanks and P-40 planes as inferior died away in the face of actual performance," he said.

"In the days to come Hitler will redouble his efforts to divide the nations now united against him. In this task he will make use of the rumor mongers among us."

"His agents will spread stories in the United States and Canada that will reflect on Britain. In Britain, his agents will spread the story that Americans are not doing their part in fighting, but are interested only in making money out of the war. And he will try to alienate us from Russia."

Mr. Patterson said that production of armaments for the Allied nations will cut deeper and deeper into production of civilian goods and require suspension of many peacetime standards of hours and working conditions.

SNUB VICHY:

Urges Ex-Envoy

Even as Pierre Laval imposed a labor draft to speed the delivery of 150,000 French workers for German war factories, Walter Edge, former American ambassador to France, urged withdrawal of U. S. recognition of the Vichy government. Such action, he said, would solidify 95 per cent of the French people behind the United Nations.

Emphasizing that he was speaking as a private citizen, Edge said it was "unfortunate that the government seems to feel it necessary to continue recognition of the Vichy regime."

"There may be many things that warrant continued recognition that I know nothing about," he declared, "but only a small percentage of the French people are in sympathy with the Vichy government. It must be discouraging to the majority to see their overlords recognized by this country."

Hundred Percent War Work

By Robert St. John

(WNU Feature—Through special arrangement with Collier's Weekly)

One day several months ago, in London, I got a letter from Chicago. A member of my family was missing in action in the Philippines. The same day, word came by grape vine from eastern Europe that a close friend of mine in Rumania had been executed by order of the Gestapo, and that a girl journalist I knew in the Balkans had been sent up to Poland, for the pleasure of Nazi soldiers on leave.

That night I wanted to volunteer in somebody's army or air force. That night I suddenly got disgusted with the soft life which some of us continue to lead in this, the most critical year of the most important war in all history.

When I say "us" I mean people in America as well as Britain. But a twinge in my right leg made me realize that the Nazis had limited my field of activity. The Messerschmitt which shot up a troop train I was on in Greece last year took care of that.

So the next morning I went around to the ministry of labor and begged for a job, without compensation, in a munitions factory. I explained that I do all my broadcasting to America in the early hours of the morning and that I could gather my news and do the rest of my regular work after I came home from a factory in the evening.

At Work on a War Job. Within a week I was at work in a vast shop full of machines that were grinding out vital instruments of war. I was given a job inspecting the minute parts of a gadget designed to save the lives of British, American, Russian and Chinese pilots when they go off on flights against the enemy.

Some of the parts are as delicate as the wheels inside a Swiss wrist watch. They have to be true to a fraction of a thousandth of an inch—an interesting job, and it seemed to me to be an important one.

So I joined up with that army of men and women who work eleven or twelve hours a day, sometimes seven days a week, and never get their pictures in the papers or any medals pinned on their chest—that army of unsung heroes who man the factories of Britain.

The first week at the factory left me tired of muscle and mighty weary when the day's work was done, but I soon got hardened to the new life.

In addition to this factory work I spend a full eight hours out of every twenty-four gathering news, attending press conferences, pounding a typewriter and talking into a microphone.

On Sundays I travel into the country to lecture to British troops in their camps and to wounded airmen in their hospitals, or I go into the tenement districts of London to talk to clubs of Cockney youngsters.

I mention these activities to show that I was as busy as the average man with a job before I took on the additional factory work.

What Is 100 Per Cent Production? Much is written about how Britain and America are now up to 60 or 70 or 80 per cent war production. I've often wondered what that means. What is the 100 per cent basis for the calculations?

In England as well as America there are millions of men who could do at least a part-time shift a few nights a week in war factories.

Only when all the people are working as many hours a week as they are physically able, can either Britain or America talk about approaching 100 per cent production.

There are still many people in our democracies who prefer to knit socks and sell government bonds, and let others do the dirty work of war. The conflict still hasn't come close enough to home, even here in Britain with its bombed buildings, to jar some people into making it a total war from their point of view.

Yet before these words get into print, the time may have arrived when the survival of our entire way of life will depend on whether enough people have been willing to forego the pleasant paths of normal existence and sacrifice every ounce of their energies to defeat enemies who long ago abandoned business-as-usual.

Excuse the preaching. But after you've felt Nazi bullets and seen Nazi savagery, it's difficult to remain "just a reporter."

My weeks in a munitions factory, close to the workers and their everyday problems, has given me a profound respect for the Little People of Britain.

Some of them haven't had a very good deal in the past. Between the two wars, their wages and working conditions were far from what they ought to have been. Most of the working class just took it during that quarter of a century.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

NEW YORK: Supplies of tea on hand in the United States are sufficient to meet present restricted demands for the next six or seven months, Benjamin Wood, managing director of the Tea bureau, declared. Wood said estimated stocks were 28 to 29 million pounds, enough to carry the nation well into 1943, under quota regulations restricting tea sales 50 per cent.

MELBOURNE: Australian chorus girls must be over 45 years of age, according to a recent government order. The age limit is one of the new "austerity" restrictions in force in the Australian commonwealth. Able-bodied women under 45 years of age should be in jobs "that contribute more directly to the war effort," the government feels. Hence the new theatrical restriction.

WHO'S NEWS THIS WEEK

By LEMUEL F. PARTON
Consolidated Features.—WNU Release.

NEW YORK.—We know a broker, a Harvard graduate, who didn't so much as scalp an eighth for over a year. He salvaged enough of his fortune to buy a pair of overalls, went to New Jersey and got a job with Bendix Aviation. He has had a raise in pay and says the house percentage against a man at a work bench is far less than in Wall Street. It is one of many instances of the infiltration of Harvard, and Ivy league associates, into the ranks of skilled labor.

It works both ways. At the suggestion of trade unions, Harvard opens a nine-months trade union fellowship course for labor organization men selected by their unions. They propose to build a bridge between labor and industry, in the seminar sponsored by the Harvard Business school, the Littauer School of Public Administration and the Harvard Department of Economics. Fifteen men begin the course.

Perhaps, under current stress and strain, everybody is working the other side of the street. But there are encouraging precedents. Toybee Hall of London, around the turn of the century, was comparable. While it flushed many doctrinaires and ephemeral dreams, it stirred much honest discussion and helped induce social responsibility both in British labor and industry.

Lucius N. Littauer, the glove magnate of Gloversville and New York city, who established the above school of business administration, was 83 years old last January. When he endowed the school with $2,250,000 in 1938, he said it was to be "administered in the cause of better understanding among all mankind." He was graduated from Harvard 63 years ago, picked up his father's glove business, and in practical business administration, learned much of the interdependent problems of labor and industry.

In congress, 1897 to 1907, he sponsored and established the United States bureau of standards. Somewhat pertinent to this is his bureau of human standards at Harvard.

FERENC VASARHELYI, distinguished Hungarian biochemist, reconditioned, and re-energized Benito Mussolini. We had lunch with him recently. We gathered that, in the case of Il Duce and certain other European careerists he wished he had just let nature take its course. He's against the dictators.

He came here three years ago and has been revitalizing and restimulating Greta Garbo, Alice Marble, Elisabeth Bergner, Antoine de Paris, Jessica Dragonette, Gabriel Pascal and other eminent persons who may safely be revived without any danger of their becoming Frankensteins. At luncheon, he extolled sauerkraut as an energy builder. The fact is that sauerkraut had a lot to do with upping Horthy and ousting Mr. Vassarhelyi.

When Horthy was a minor naval officer, the men in the fleet went on strike, saying they would rather be shot than eat another yard of sauerkraut. Disobeying the orders of his commander, Horthy seized a cruiser and made the sailors eat sauerkraut, days on end, at the point of a gun. Its inspiring effects were such that Horthy was rewarded by being made chief admiral of the fleet. He ate still more sauerkraut and reached out and grabbed the country.

Mr. Vassarhelyi's career is one of the most unique in the backwash of the first World war, lying as it does in the overlapping zone of politics and dietetics. He thinks food has a profound and determining effect on individual and collective human behavior and that scientists will some day read history in terms of starches and proteins. His political career came to a peak in a dramatic climax in 1917, when he helped ease out the monarchy and bring in the liberal Count Karolyi as premier.

Mr. Vassarhelyi is 70, trim and erect, clear-skinned and hard as nails. He ascribes this to the fact that he practices what he preaches. He thinks a democratized Danubian federation will shape up after the war, and that Europe will be reorganized on sound economic and biological fundamentals. Roughly, these two fields of interest have filled his life, but he puts the main stress on the latter. Much devastating human activity he thinks may be traced to food poisoning.

Marines Are Still Fighting Hard After 167 Years of Loyal Service

They Have Been 'Always Faithful' and Ever Present in Every War Since Early Colonial Days When They First Served Under George Washington.

Gallantry of the marines at Wake Island was the World War II chapter in continuance of 167 years of marine corps service that is wholly and actively embodied in the deserved motto "Semper Fidelis"—Always Faithful.

On November 10, 1775, the Continental Congress passed a resolution organizing a marine corps of two battalions. Intended mainly to be ships' gunnery and boarding squads, they soon performed illustrious and efficient service on land and sea.

While some marines fought with Washington, others played important roles in the victory of the Bon Homme Richard over the British Serapis. It was a marine aboard John Paul Jones' ship who threw a grenade into the hold of the Serapis and was responsible for its sinking.

Soon Distinguished Themselves. Soon after the ending of the Revolution the marine corps, like the army and navy, was disbanded. When, however, in 1799 this country came into conflict with France on the seas, the marine corps was re-established by President John Adams. In immediate service as boarding parties or as defense against enemy boarding, marines

The Marines Have Landed! That was the shout that again went around the world when the Leathernecks took the Solomon islands away from the Japs. This scene here shows just how thick the sky was with anti-aircraft shells to shoo away any Jap plane that might have wanted to get in on the "party."

soon distinguished themselves and earned the respect of the enemy for the deadly accuracy of their musket fire.

It was during these days that the term "Leatherneck" was applied to marines; in order to protect themselves during battle the marines in early days wore a heavy piece of leather around their necks, and hence the nickname.

In the early 19th century marines began to lay foundation for the outstanding reputation which the present corps has inherited. They fought in the War of 1812. They were in the thick of the successful campaign against the Barbary pirates. They were with Commodore Perry in the Far East.

Later marines be considered naval attachments solely, and though they were created as a component part of the naval service to "support the fleet," marines may in national emergency be detached for service with the army, as in France during World War I.

Marine Civil War Action.

In the Civil war the corps served on the blockading ships of the navy and participated in naval attacks on the coastal fortifications of the Confederacy. They also made many landings from ships patrolling the Mississippi river.

In the Spanish American war the marines landed at Guantanamo bay, Cuba, to secure after severe fighting the harbor as a base for the United States fleet in its operations against Santiago. Marine detachments took part in the naval battles off Santiago and in Manila bay.

During the latter half of the last century and the early years of the 20th century the marines saw much service in the West Indies and Central America, notably in Nicaragua and Haiti. Sent to forestall possible European intervention and to provide protection against bandits and other lawless elements, the marines achieved a notable record of governmental administration.

When America entered the last World war there were approximately 13,500 officers and men in the corps. More than half this number, however, were scattered over the face of the earth. Within five weeks marines "got into the battle." The Fifth regiment sailed for France

'Boots' Laundry Difficulties Cause Much Laughter

Every marine learns during his basic training days at "boot camp" how to do his household chores of all types.

The chuckles in "boot camp" generally generate from the doleful predicament of fresh young "boots" upon their introduction to the laundry tubs.

"But I don't know how to do laundry," wailed one apple-cheeked lad when his drill instructor gave the boy's platoon its first laundry detail shortly after breakfast. "Well, boy, I'll give you one minute to learn and half of that is gone," growled the bull-voiced instructor. "You don't pull freshly starched shirts out of a drawer in this outfit."

The boy learned—he had to learn with scrub brush, soap and pail. Marines must learn because there are no Chinese laundries where the Fighting Leathernecks go.

The recruits do their scrubbing and naval stations at home and in outlying possessions of the U. S.

(4) To provide forces for the protection of American lives and property abroad.

During its existence the strength of the corps has varied from its original two battalions to more than 120,000 at present.

There are many stories told among the old timers in the marine corps about the fighting that took place in Nicaragua and Haiti not so long ago.

There is the story that tells about a small group of marines surrounded by bandits were fighting desperately in the village of Quilali in January, 1928. Several of the marines had been killed, many were wounded. The chances of rescue or relief seemed remote.

Suddenly out of the skies a plane swooped down and landed in the rough and irregular streets of the town. The plane was piloted by Lieut. Christian F. Schilt and he had risked his life to make the landing. Quickly the more seriously wounded were placed in the plane and flown to a point of safety.

Lands 10 Times

Ten times Lieutenant Schilt made the dangerous trip. Each time he landed safely and got away with his precious cargo. Of course, parts of his plane were destroyed by the landings and bandits shot holes through the wings, but this did not prevent the daring marine from returning. Each time on the return flight the pilot brought much needed supplies.

Lieutenant Schilt's action won the praise of his grateful comrades and some months later he received the Congressional Medal of Honor.

One of the many famous stories involving the U. S. marines of the Fourth brigade is built around Corp. George F. Brautigam. After 10 days of bitter fighting when nearly every marine in the brigade was exhausted, Corporal Brautigam was captured by the Germans.

Slowly they led him back to the "Bull Pen." The Germans thought the battle-worn corporal would return quietly, rather than go back to his lines. But before they knew what had happened Corporal Brautigam had knocked one of his captors down with his fists and grasped the fallen man's bayonet and put an end to both his guards.

A week later he was still fighting in Belleau Wood, when he saw Lieut. George H. Yarborough of the marines badly wounded and surrounded by six Germans. He plunged into their midst with his bayonet. Two of the enemy fell and the others took flight. In the melee Brautigam was shot through the wrist; however, he succeeded in carrying the wounded officer one mile through shell fire to a hospital.

Later Brautigam fought at Soissons, St. Mihiel and Blanc Mont. In the latter engagement he suffered a fractured hip and was gassed. Eventually he came home from France with the Distinguished Service Cross and a Croix de Guerre as tokens of his bravery overseas.

These marines in training are ready to fight any kind of fight that the "Enemy" may decide to make. There isn't a technique of present-day warfare that these rough and ready, up-and-get-em two-fisted fighters haven't been acquainted with.

clad only in swimming trunks and pith helmets. With cold water—or a reasonable facsimile thereof—they can't scrub out all stains. So they use whitening agents and sometimes come to grief through inexperience.

Some discover to their grief that too generous application of the whiteners has eaten holes in their clothing. One lad, anxious to be clean as the marine corps demands, applied the bleaching agent to his cartridge belt and canteen cover. He was sadder and wiser after it turned white.

In Case They Do

As far as can be proved, no beligerent has yet used noxious gas in this war. If it seems expedient to the Axis boys they'll do it any time they think they can get away with it. So these marines shown here are getting ready by training under simulated gas attack to show the Axis boys that they can't get away with it.

Lesson for October 18

LESSON TEXT—Luke 2:40-52; II Peter 1:1-8.

GOLDEN TEXT—But grow in grace, and in the knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ.—II Peter 3:18.

Growth is a normal thing. We expect it of the child, and when it fails we know that something is wrong. Just so there is something very decidedly wrong in the life of the Christian who fails to grow in grace. If a child fails to grow we are alarmed, but if a Christian does not grow we hardly notice it, or at most only express our regret. We need a revival.

I. Normal Children Will Grow (Luke 2:40-52).

While Christ was God manifest in the flesh, He was at the same time true man, and as a boy He developed and grew in a normal way.

Unless we meet the tragedy of arrested development we need have no concern about the fact that a child will grow physically, mentally and spiritually. The Lord has placed in the babe in a mother's arms the potential qualities of the man or woman to come. Our chief responsibility is to provide the opportunity for the development of those abilities and qualities which the child has, and of guiding that growth in the right direction.

That is all a parent has to do, but it is enough to call for all the wisdom, judgment, patience and skill of the best of us. Yes, and even that is not enough, we need the wisdom of God and His grace upon our lives to do this vital work as we ought.

The qualities in a boy or girl which will count gloriously for God may be dreadfully effective for Satan if we permit him to get control of our children. May God help us to be alert and skillful in rearing our boys and girls.

While it is true that we can do more for the guidance of physical and mental growth than spiritual (because that is a matter of the grace of God), we can lead the steps of the little child to the house of God; we can teach him to pray and to trust God, and we can set an example of godly living before him. That is all we can do; but again we say, it is enough to demand our best effort and more.

II. Normal Christians Will Grow (II Pet. 1:1-8).

In Christ there are "all things that pertain unto life and godliness." There is no need of some added experience, or some new and striking edification, for all the unbelievably great possibilities of Christian grace and growth are in Him. We need only to recognize that fact and yield to Him, and there will be the full development of Christian life and experience.

We have, in practice, so far departed from the normal in Christian life that we can hardly believe that the above is true. In place of the normal Christian life according to God's standard, we have established a standard based on the average Christian life. If we equal it we are satisfied, and if perchance we surpass it we count ourselves among the "more spiritual" ones. And all the time the average standard is far below the normal Christian life which God not only expects, but is ready to enable and empower us to live.

Peter tells us in this passage that the great and precious promises of God in Christ are not only to enable us to escape the corruption of this sinful world, but to go on to a place where we will neither "be barren nor unfruitful." Christians. How will this come about? Verses 5-7 tell us.

Faith supplies in itself (rather than "add to," v. 5), if there is "diligence" (that is, true Christian devotion), a number of other splendid qualities. First comes "virtue"—really moral courage, or nobility of character. What a fine step forward! Then comes "knowledge," that is, a discernment which will give practical skill in effective daily living for Christ. Such spiritual discernment will naturally lead to "self-control"—something much needed by most Christians.

The self-controlled one will always have "patience," that is, the endurance to stand every hardship and trial. We need to be more patient not only with others, but also with ourselves, even in this matter of Christian growth of which we are speaking.

A life like that is a life of "godliness," which will blossom out into real "brotherly kindness." There isn't too much of that in the world today, even among Christians. Let's revive it! Then what? The one who loves his brother will love the whole world (charity, in v. 8, should read "love"). Why not? Are we not all brethren, who know Christ, regardless of race, position or creed?

Let such virtues "abound" (v. 8), and no Christian life will lack in rich fruitfulness for God in Christ. If Christian people would let the new life within them grow, it would surprise us and them what God would do through them for His own glory.

If a child fails to grow we are alarmed, but if a Christian does not grow we hardly notice it, or at most only express our regret. We need a revival.

I. Normal Children Will Grow (Luke 2:40-52).

While Christ was God manifest in the flesh, He was at the same time true man, and as a boy He developed and grew in a normal way.

Unless we meet the tragedy of arrested development we need have no concern about the fact that a child will grow physically, mentally and spiritually. The Lord has placed in the babe in a mother's arms the potential qualities of the man or woman to come. Our chief responsibility is to provide the opportunity for the development of those abilities and qualities which the child has, and of guiding that growth in the right direction.

That is all a parent has to do, but it is enough to call for all the wisdom, judgment, patience and skill of the best of us. Yes, and even that is not enough, we need the wisdom of God and His grace upon our lives to do this vital work as we ought.

The qualities in a boy or girl which will count gloriously for God may be dreadfully effective for Satan if we permit him to get control of our children. May God help us to be alert and skillful in rearing our boys and girls.

While it is true that we can do more for the guidance of physical and mental growth than spiritual (because that is a matter of the grace of God), we can lead the steps of the little child to the house of God; we can teach him to pray and to trust God, and we can set an example of godly living before him. That is all we can do; but again we say, it is enough to demand our best effort and more.

II. Normal Christians Will Grow (II Pet. 1:1-8).

In Christ there are "all things that pertain unto life and godliness." There is no need of some added experience, or some new and striking edification, for all the unbelievably great possibilities of Christian grace and growth are in Him. We need only to recognize that fact and yield to Him, and there will be the full development of Christian life and experience.

We have, in practice, so far departed from the normal in Christian life that we can hardly believe that the above is true. In place of the normal Christian life according to God's standard, we have established a standard based on the average Christian life. If we equal it we are satisfied, and if perchance we surpass it we count ourselves among the "more spiritual" ones. And all the time the average standard is far below the normal Christian life which God not only expects, but is ready to enable and empower us to live.

Peter tells us in this passage that the great and precious promises of God in Christ are not only to enable us to escape the corruption of this sinful world, but to go on to a place where we will neither "be barren nor unfruitful." Christians. How will this come about? Verses 5-7 tell us.

Faith supplies in itself (rather than "add to," v. 5), if there is "diligence" (that is, true Christian devotion), a number of other splendid qualities. First comes "virtue"—really moral courage, or nobility of character. What a fine step forward! Then comes "knowledge," that is, a discernment which will give practical skill in effective daily living for Christ. Such spiritual discernment will naturally lead to "self-control"—something much needed by most Christians.

The self-controlled one will always have "patience," that is, the endurance to stand every hardship and trial. We need to be more patient not only with others, but also with ourselves, even in this matter of Christian growth of which we are speaking.

A life like that is a life of "godliness," which will blossom out into real "brotherly kindness." There isn't too much of that in the world today, even among Christians. Let's revive it! Then what? The one who loves his brother will love the whole world (charity, in v. 8, should read "love"). Why not? Are we not all brethren, who know Christ, regardless of race, position or creed?

Let such virtues "abound" (v. 8), and no Christian life will lack in rich fruitfulness for God in Christ. If Christian people would let the new life within them grow, it would surprise us and them what God would do through them for His own glory.

The man was in a great hurry as he stepped aboard the moving staircase in the metropolis department store.

Thinking to gain time, he started to walk down the escalator when his foot slipped and he was off with some speed toward the bottom.

Halfway down he collided with a rather good-sized woman, laden with packages, and knocked her over. Together the two continued to the bottom.

When they arrived there, the woman, still in a somewhat dazed condition, continued to sit on the man's chest.

For a few minutes he looked up at her with an air of resignation. Then he said, politely, "Madam, I'm very sorry, but this is as far as I go."

PROPOSED AMENDMENTS

(Proposal No. 1)

Revision of the Constitution of the State of Michigan

No. 1 Article XVII, Sect. 4, of the Constitution provides that in 1926 and each sixteenth year after, the question of a general revision of the Constitution shall be submitted to the electors. If a majority of the electors voting thereon vote in favor of revision, a constitutional convention will be called to draft and propose to the electors a general revision of the Constitution.

(Proposal No. 2)

Proposed Amendment to the State Constitution Permitting Wayne County to Adopt a Charter

No. 2 Sufficient initiatory petitions have been filed requiring submission to the electors of an amendment to the Constitution to stand as Section 15b, of Article VIII, permitting Wayne County to adopt a charter.

(Proposal No. 3)

Referendum on Act 369, Public Acts of Michigan of 1941, Commonly known as the Milk Marketing Act.

No. 3 The question submitted to the electors is the approval of Act 369, Public Acts of 1941, commonly known as the Milk Marketing Act, creating a Milk Marketing Board, defining its powers and duties, authorizing the board to levy assessments on milk producers and dealers for administrative expenses and to provide penalties for violations of provisions of said Act and declare its effect, under Article V, Section 1, of the Constitution.

Relative to Opening and Closing of the Polls

Section 1. On the day of any election the polls shall be opened at seven o'clock in the forenoon, and shall be continued open until six o'clock in the afternoon and no longer: PROVIDED, That in townships the board of inspectors of election may, in its discretion, adjourn the polls at twelve o'clock noon, for one hour, and that the township board in townships and the legislative body in cities and villages may, by resolution, provide that the polls shall be opened at six o'clock in the forenoon and may also provide that the polls shall be kept open not later than eight o'clock in the evening of the same day. Every qualified elector present and in line at the polls at the hour prescribed for the closing thereof shall be allowed to vote.

The POLLS of said election will be open at 7 o'clock a. m. and will remain open until 6 o'clock p. m. of said day of Election.

HARRY F. KELLY
BROUGHT BUSINESS EFFICIENCY INTO THE DEPARTMENT OF STATE

When Harry F. Kelly first took office as Secretary of State, January 1, 1939, the department was obsolete in its methods, dilatory in its service, hog-tied with red tape! Before his first term was over, Harry F. Kelly had streamlined the entire department, upped its efficiency month after month, and brought its economy to a high point.

Today, the department, doing an annual business in excess of $80,000,000, is a model of ably directed operation. Its 9 divisions and 170 odd branches function with the precision of a fine watch. It operates 24 hours a day, 365 days a year, in its Registration and Title Division to benefit the police and public alike.

To Harry F. Kelly, and to him alone, goes the entire credit for this amazing transformation! You can depend on his achieving the same high degree of efficiency, in all state departments, when he is elected Governor of Michigan on November 3rd.

Registration Notice
For GENERAL ELECTION
Tuesday, November 3rd, 1942

To the Qualified Electors of the City of Tawas City, County of Iosco, Michigan.

Notice is hereby given that in conformity with the "Michigan Law," I, the undersigned City Clerk, will upon any day, except Sunday and a legal holiday, the day of any regular or special election or primary election, receive for registration the name of any legal voter in said City not already registered who may Apply to Me Personally for such registration. Provided, however, that I can receive no names for registration during the time intervening between the Twentieth Day before any regular, special or official primary election and the day of such election.

Notice is Hereby Given that I will be at my Office

Wednesday, October 14, 1942
The Twentieth Day Preceding Said Election

Last Day for General Registration by Personal Application for said Election

From 8 o'clock a. m. until 8 o'clock p. m. on said day for the purpose of Reviewing the Registration and Registering such of the qualified electors in said City as shall Properly Apply therefor.

The name of no person but an ACTUAL Resident of the city at the time of said registration, and entitled under the Constitution, if remaining such resident, to vote at the next election, shall be entered in the registration book.

Registration on Election Day
Sec. 9. If any person whose name is not registered shall offer and claim the right to vote at any election or primary election, and shall, under oath, state that he is a resident of such precinct and has resided in the township or city 20 days next preceding election, designating particularly the place of his residence, and that he possesses the other qualifications of an elector under the constitution, and that, owing to the sickness or bodily infirmity of himself or some member of his family, or owing to his absence from the township or city on public business or his own business, and without intent to avoid or delay his registration, he was unable to make application for registration on the last 2 days provided by law for the registering of electors preceding such election or primary election, then the name of such person shall be registered, and he shall then be permitted to vote at such election or primary election. If such applicant shall, in said matter, wilfully make any false statement, he shall be deemed guilty of perjury.

Provision in Case of Removal to Another Precinct

Any registered and qualified voter who has removed from one election precinct of a township or city to another election precinct of the same township or city, shall have the right, on any registration day, as in this act provided, on application to the township or city clerk, as the case may be, to have his name transferred from the registration of the precinct from which he has removed to the registration book of the precinct in which he then resides. Such elector shall have the right to have such transfer made on any election or primary election or primary election day by obtaining from the board of inspectors of such election or primary election of the precinct from which he has removed, a certificate of transfer, and presenting the said certificate to the board of election inspectors of the precinct in which he then resides. In every such case of transfer the township or city clerk or the board of inspectors issuing such certificates shall cause opposite the name of such elector, to be entered in the column headed "Remarks" in such registration book, the words "transferred to precinct number . . . (giving the number)," together with the initials of the said clerk or some member of the board of inspectors of election, as the case may be, and the date of the transfer: Provided, That any city may provide by its charter or by resolution duly approved by the majority of the members of its legislative body for the transfer of electors as herein provided on the last Saturday prior to any election or primary election at the several places of voting in the voting districts of such city instead of an election or official primary election day, and may in like manner further provide that no transfer of registration shall be received by the clerk of such city for a period not exceeding 10 days prior to any primary or election.

The 50-caliber Browning machine gun is one of the most efficient short range weapons used by U. S. Fighting forces. It is effective at ranges up to 2,000 yards and fires about 600 forty-five caliber bullets per minute.

One of these guns costs about $1,500, while a thirty-caliber machine gun costs approximately $800. Our fighting forces need thousands of these rapid-fire guns. Even a small town or community can buy many of them by uniting in the purchase of War Bonds. At least ten percent of your income in War Bonds every pay day will do the trick.

ANY dining room may be made fresh and smart with built-in cupboards, a little paint and inexpensive curtains. But what may be done to bring a set of out-moded chairs up-to-date? The one sketched at the upper right is typical of many that are substantial and sturdy though scarred by long use. All they need is an up-to-date frock to make them perfectly at home in a modern dining room. If your chairs do not have the supports shown at the sides of the seat they will be easier to slip-cover. This cover is of medium blue cotton rep with darker blue for the bias binding and the cotton fringe around the bottom. Large button moulds are covered with the slip cover material for the button-up-the-back opening. If you are not expert at making bound buttonholes, snaps may be used under the buttons. The narrow ties sewn to the corners of the inside of the seat cover hold it neatly in place.

NOTE: This chair cover is from Book 5 of the homemaking booklets available to readers at 10 cents each. Directions for other dining room chair transformations will be found in BOOK 7, together with an interesting array of conservation ideas which make use of materials around the home. CHAPTER I

Arriving at Cabeza de Negro was like coming home. Neither Curt nor Lee had ever visited the one-time small fishing port in the old days, but that was the way it hit them now as it rose up out of the sea. Once it had been only a collection of manaca shacks on stilts, cut off from inland by fever-ridden marshes. An unhealthy spot for white men. Today all that was changed—or fast changing.

They were up at dawn for the early docking and to watch the long, low blur on the horizon which slowly became the Tierra Libre coastline. Lee caught her breath as that blur took shape. Her memories of it were precious.

"True, she'd been happy since, and now she had the boys. But no happiness, not even the children, could ever erase from her mind those first years here with Curt. Hard working days for him, in a job for which he was born, romance and beauty in the tropic setting for her.

Unconsciously she snuggled closer under Curt's arm as they stood at the rail staring landward. Unconsciously, too, Curt was scowling, but Lee did not see this.

Meanwhile, Buddy and Chuck were clamoring and tugging unnoticed at the ends of their split leash—they couldn't be allowed free run of the deck.

"Anuvver dog wace, Daddy," begged Chuck in the fuzzy tones of a four-year old.

He didn't yet have Buddy's clarity of speech, for Buddy was all of six and quite a man.

Curt obligingly called, "One, two, three, go," and the children scampered down the deck on all fours, barking and pulling their leashes taut.

This play brought Curt and Lee to the vessel's stern where their eyes caught the flat black smudge in the distance. A lean, low gray vessel was cutting in toward the coast farther to the north.

"Headed for Soledad," Curt muttered, and the frown returned to his forehead.

Lee clutched his arm.

"It's a destroyer! One of ours, Jeff! Must be. And it's racing! Do you suppose . . . there wasn't any word on the bulletin board . . ."

Curt patted her hand and smiled down at her.

"Don't be getting any ideas," he said, and was immediately conscious he'd taken a second or so too long in replying. "There's no revolution here. Uncle Sam's just paying a courtesy call. We're doing more of that than we used to throughout the Caribbean."

"But it's speeding! See how the smoke lays flat from the funnels!"

"That's caused by the wind from around Punta Cauca, honey. Our smoke would look the same if we were in that position."

Once more, as he stood against the rail with Lee, Curt went over in his mind the string of events leading up to their presence here on the Pisces—as he'd done so many times these past several nights, lying awake in the dark.

He started with the proposition itself.

He and Lee had been dawdling over a late breakfast, while the children played on the lawn within range of the open windows. He had the morning paper folded to handy size and propped against the coffee urn, and was sunk in a roving reporter's column purporting to give the progress of bomb-proofing the Panama Canal.

It took Lee several efforts to break through to him. It was the final "Jeff Curtis!" that did it, and he looked up to discover she'd been running over the morning mail. There was a storm signal in her eyes and she was tapping the knuckles of one hand with a long, flat envelope.

"Who do I know in Cristobal?" he said easily. "Why, no one, I guess. There's old Jim Bragg over on the Pacific side. Letter? Gimme."

"Some day, my fine lad," she began promisingly, "when you bury yourself in the paper—oh, what's the use?"

She gave up and handed him the letter. He ripped it open, slid out the several sheets of enclosure.

"Only mailed from Cristobal." He read aloud the letterhead: "Compania Agricola Tropical, San Alejo, Tierra Libre. Port, Cabeza de Negro. Cable, CAT. Huh. Who do you suppose they are? Cabeza's that little fishing village down the coast from Soledad, but I never heard of San Alejo." He glanced at the end of the letter.

"Signed, Apolonio Montaya, President and General Manager. Never heard of him."

He ran his eye down the first page and looked up to exclaim:

"Why, honey, it's a new banana outfit! Opening up twenty thousand hectares between the rivers Masica and Negro. But that stuff's all swampland! You remember, Lee, that big stretch of swamp across the Negro, dotted with a few spots of jungle?"

"And the mosquitoes!"

Curt grinned and skimmed over the rest of the letter hurriedly. Lee saw his growing excitement as he straightened in his chair.

"Lee! They're offering me the job of Chief Engineer!" He took a deep breath and went on more slowly, soberly. "But they say the offer's contingent upon residence with family for term of contract. Three years. Of course, if I had the job I'd like to have you and the kids with me, but—"

Lee rose and went around to him, pushing back the table to sit on his knees and look him gravely, misgivingly, in the eyes. Here was a situation to be handled, one to be nipped in bud. It took her a moment to find the right words.

"You'd like that job, wouldn't you, darling?"

It was more statement than question.

He lowered his eyes. "Well, I'd—I'd—yes, sure I would! That'd be a real job! Just think, Lee. Drainage, levees, floodgates, railroad, power plants—all kinds of projects! And honey," his eyes flamed, "a chance to work on that overhead irrigation system I missed out on when we came north."

He broke off again and his eyes went blank to hide, or try to hide, how much this could mean to him.

"Well," he went on carefully, "it'd be something more than this kinder-about them. They're rivals, Lee."

"I have a feeling, I can't explain, but—"

She bit her lip. "No, that's a woman's trick, that's not fair."

Finally, with reluctance, she said, "Well, at least it wouldn't do any harm to find out more about these people."

"Sweetheart!" Curt shouted, and jumped for her.

Her next words were muffled against his shoulder: "Well, I hope I'm not a sugar-and-water wife."

He didn't see the tears in her eyes. And that was the first step that led to their being here on the Pisces.

The second?

Curt had put in a short-wave phone call for Jerry McInnis, his closest friend during the years he'd worked in the tropics. McInnis was now Chief Engineer for the Associated Fruit Growers at Puerto Soledad. The call came through later that morning. Greetings were quickly over. Then:

"Jerry, what do you know about the Compania Agricola Tropical? Claim to have that swamp between the Negro and the Masica—"

"Yeh, I know, only it won't be a swamp much longer. They're doing a swell job of reclamation, Curt. Well, I don't know much about them. Guy called Montaya heads the outfit. There's a whisper around here he was hooked up with Cedillo in Mexico and got out by the skin of his teeth when that revolt failed. But that's only gossip, take it for what it's worth. Seems to have plenty dough behind him, but I don't know where it comes from. Old Man Moore probably has the lowdown, but you know how tight-lipped he is."

Moore was General Manager in Tierra Libre for Associated Fruit Growers.

"Who's in with this Montaya?"

"Don't rightly know, Curt. Montaya seems the only top man so far's I can see. There's a couple of Swedes I don't know anything about—except they hold their liquor and don't talk. Youngish guys. And a Dutchman—Hollander. I mean—a chemical man. Panama disease has shown up over on our side and if they're going to raise bananas they'll have to find some means of combating—"

"Yes, sure. But how come Associated didn't have that piece tied up? Never heard of anyone getting ahead of Old Man Moore before."

"Well, we've already got plenty of good land, all we can handle now or in the reasonable future. And this piece'll cost real money to develop. Why all these questions, Curt?"

"Under your hat, Jerry, they've offered me the job of Chief Engineer. Wanted to know more about them. Think they're reliable?"

"Well, yes, Curt, they are, so far's I know. But I'd hate to have you make a decision on my say-so."

A wary, reluctant note had crept into McInnis' voice.

"Who's been handling the job?"

"Chigger Mitchell. He's a good man. What happened they need another?"

"Well, you know how Mitch was kind of tough on labor. A driver and all that. And he could sure find a guy's weak spot and dig under the skin. He didn't get the name 'Chigger' for nothing. Well, he must've made an enemy over there who wanted a souvenir. Anyway, his ears were missing when they found him—just a few days ago, it was—and they had to use a basket for the rest of him. These machetes are bad stuff, as you know well enough."

Early in the morning Curt wired his acceptance to the C. A. T. people's New Orleans office. Back came, overnight, a contract for signature. And things moved fast.

The freighter Pisces, one of a small fleet of Norwegian vessels chartered to the C. A. T. outfit, would be held over a day in New Orleans awaiting them. Loaded with rails, cement, lumber, machinery, it was bound for Cabeza de Negro, the new C. A. T. port at the mouth of the Rio Negro.

Curt had less than twenty-four hours to wind up all his affairs in the States, store the car, arrange for care and lease of the house through an agent, for forwarding of their mail.

Their mail! The first batch, re-addressed and sent by air to New Orleans, caught up with Curt just before they sailed. Busy with details of baggage and boarding ship, he hastily stuffed the handful of letters into his pocket.

It was hours before he thought of it and hauled it forth for inspection. The ship had reached the mouth of the Mississippi; they'd dropped the pilot and were headed out into the Gulf. One letter was a small plain envelope, postmarked Puerto Soledad, Tierra Libre.

Inside was a brief note.

"Mr. Curtis. Don't bring your family to San Alejo, don't come yourself. Don't come! Zora Mitchell."

(See Recipes Below.)

Vitamin Ways

Comes winter and fall when vegetables and fruits are more scarce than during summer and fall, and many a homemaker is apt to fall shy on serving her family these vital body regulating and protective foods.

Yet, this is the time when the body needs them most. These foods build up the body's resistance to disease—and keep you, to pick a common example, from having a cold as soon as warm weather and sun flee.

Minerals are busy building and repairing, replenishing body tissues that get torn down and used up, daily with every movement you make. Vitamins help you use the foods you eat.

Good-to-eat foods help the family take in all these vital minerals and vitamins. Drab, uninteresting dishes will send them off to eating other foods to take the edge off their hunger—wherever they can put their hands on something. I need not point out that in this way they may really be losing out on foods necessary to the body.

Cooking vegetables well, and doing pretty things to their appearance will help their consumption rating. A bit of sauce or extra seasoning will put an ordinary vegetable over and at the same time insure your family of what it needs most:

*Scalloped Peas and Onions. (Serves 6 to 6)

- 1 pound small white onions
- 1 No. 2 can peas
- 3 tablespoons butter
- 3 tablespoons flour
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup milk
- 3 tablespoons finely crushed bread crumbs

Parboil onions 25 minutes. Drain. Drain peas and reserve ½ cup pea liquor. Melt 2 tablespoons butter, blend in flour, salt and pepper. Add pea liquor and milk and cook until mixture thickens, stirring constantly. Pour into casserole. Melt remaining butter, stir in bread crumbs, sprinkle over casserole. Bake in a moderately hot (375-degree) oven for about 25 minutes.

and then drop into hot fat for frying. When they have cooked through and are brown, drain on brown paper and serve.

Festive Squash. (Serves 6)

- 3 small squashes
- 1 cup drained canned tomatoes
- 1 cup shredded, processed cheddar cheese
- 1 tablespoon chopped onion
- 2 cups soft bread crumbs
- Salt, pepper
- 3 tablespoons melted butter
- Parsley
- Broiled bacon

Wash the squashes and cut them in half, lengthwise and cook in boiling salted water until almost tender. Scoop out the centers, leaving a 4-inch shell. Cut the pulp into small pieces and drain thoroughly. Combine with tomatoes, cheese, onion, 1 cup bread crumbs and seasonings to taste. Pile this into the squash shells and sprinkle with remaining crumbs mixed with the melted butter. Bake in a moderate (350-degree) oven until the crumbs are brown. Arrange in a round platter and serve with parsley and crisp, broiled bacon.

A few green leaves of lettuce, romaine, watercress or other salad greens guarantee much of the important, but hard-to-get vitamin D. Perhaps, you like the greens plain, or perhaps with a bit of color such as:

*Cranberry-Pineapple Salad.

Cut slices of canned cranberry sauce and top with slices of pineapple. Arrange in lettuce nests. Soften cream cheese with milk and add a few chopped nuts. Shape into balls and place among lettuce leaves. Serve with mayonnaise.

*Apple Juice Mince Pie. (Makes 1 9-inch pie)

- 1 package orange flavored gelatin
- 2 cups apple juice
- ½ teaspoon lemon juice
- 1 cup mince-meat
- Cream cheese

Dissolve the gelatin in apple juice that has been heated to the boiling point. Add lemon juice and mince-meat. Cook until thick and creamy, then pour into a baked pie shell. Chill until firm, then decorate top with cream cheese put through a pastry tube.

Household Hints

For extra flavor in dark fruit cakes use cider or spiced fruit juices for the liquid.

For a flavorful top coating for meat loaves, spread with a thin layer of chili sauce the last 20 minutes of the cooking period.

Often a crust forms on rising dough. To avoid that, spread a little fat over the dough and cover it with a cloth.

When buttering sandwiches dip knife in hot water frequently and it will be much easier to spread the butter.

Squash are very tender and so easily injured by frost that care must be taken to cover them in the field against injury. They should be allowed to harden in the field and then should be removed from the vines without breaking the stems.

Grass stains usually come out when saturated with lard or other fat, then washed several hours later in warm soapy water.

To prevent windows sticking after house has been painted remember that for two or three days after the frames are painted each window should be opened and run up and down two or three times a day. Unless this is done the windows are almost certain to stick.

Sift spices with flour so they will be distributed properly throughout the batter or dough.

If pears have to stand a little while when you're canning them, it's best to keep them covered in salt water so they won't darken. Use two tablespoons of salt to a gallon of water. To help keep pears used in appetizers, salads or desserts from darkening, sprinkle them with a little orange, lemon, lime or grapefruit juice as soon as they are peeled and store in a cold place.

Don't Neglect Them!
Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood. If good health is to endure. When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out. Frequent, scanty or burning passages are sometimes further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance. The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. DOANS PILLS

TO YOUR Good Health

By DR. JAMES W. BARTON

THYROID GLANDS

When an individual has a rapid heart beat, is very nervous, is a poor sleeper, suffers with stomach and intestinal distress, and has also bulging of the eyeballs, he is said to be suffering with the severe type of goiter. A metabolism test is made which shows that his thyroid gland is manufacturing too much juice. Thyroid juice speeds up all the body processes—heart rate, muscular movements of the stomach and intestine, nervous system.

By more rest at night and during the day, some of these patients are able to live a normal life.

When there is so much thyroid juice being manufactured, part or all of the thyroid gland is removed by operation, radium or X-rays.

In other words many individuals whom we find to be too nervous and alert are suffering with an early or mild form of goiter.

Now, just as there is overactivity of the thyroid gland causing a speeding up of all the body processes with rapid heart beat, loss of weight, sleeplessness and other symptoms, so can there be a condition where the thyroid gland is not active enough—not manufacturing enough thyroid juice. And just as the very overactive thyroid gland caused the bulging eyes, rapid heart beat, extreme nervousness, that very underactive thyroid gland causes just the opposite symptoms—dullness of the eyes and whole expression of the face, coarse dry hair, dry skin, overweight and sleepiness. In women the monthly periods are not normal. By means of a metabolism test, it is found that the thyroid gland is underactive and thyroid extract is given to speed up the body processes to a normal rate.

Further, just as a slight or early case of overactive thyroid may not be recognized, so also may an early case of underactivity go unnoticed by the family, or even the physician, and the individual is thought to be lazy and to be below normal mentally.

Parents and even the patients themselves with these symptoms of sluggishness, mental and physical and overweight, with a dry skin (even if not waxy), should consult their physician regarding a metabolism test.

Treatment of Kidney Stones

For many years, where a patient had a heavy feeling in the upper right hand part of the abdomen and the X-rays showed stones in the gall bladder, it was considered advisable to remove the stones and drain or remove the gall bladder.

Today, as it is known that stones are present in a large percentage of individuals over 40 years of age, no attempt is made to remove the stones or have the patient undergo any form of operation unless he or she is having acute attacks of gall-stone colic. The majority of individuals with gallstones do not know they have them.

While kidney stones are less common, the fact that they are present is considered a more serious condition than having gallstones, nevertheless physicians and surgeons today are not having as large a percentage undergo operation as was the case a few years ago. Thus, in a series of 125 cases reported in the Journal of Urology, Drs. J. Hoy Sanford and Willard T. Barnhart, St. Louis, only 17 (13.6 per cent) underwent operation, the other 108 cases being successfully treated by use of sounds to stretch the small tubes carrying urine to the bladder, thus allowing stones to pass into bladder and then out of the body. Naturally if stones are very large, they must be removed by surgery.

"In the silent unilateral stone (stone in one kidney only) when no symptoms are present and the other kidney is normal, surgery is advisable."

Why must this "silent" stone, causing no pain, obstruction or other symptoms, be removed when gallstones are allowed to remain when they are causing no symptoms?

This stone is removed because it has been found that such a stone, if not removed, may quietly kill the kidney. If, however, the patient is over 60 years of age, the stone is not usually removed as long as it remains silent and no symptoms arise.

QUESTION BOX

Q.—Is there any particular test which I can take to determine the amount of iodine in my system? Is it possible for a patient with a duodenal ulcer to have a normal blood count?

A.—Your physician can arrange for a metabolism test which will answer the question regarding iodine. Yes, would be quite possible for a patient suffering from a duodenal ulcer to have normal blood count.

J. Fuller Pep

Sittin' down in Jed's General Store the other day, it was kinda impressed on me that the weaker a fellow's argument is, the stronger the words he uses!

Well, when I get to talkin' about KELLOGG'S PEP and vitamins I don't need any high-powered words. You see, to feel really good you got to eat right, which includes gettin' all your vitamins. And while PEP hasn't got 'em all, this swell-tastin' cereal is extra-long in the two that are oftenest extra-short in ordinary meals—B, and D. Try PEP, won't you?

Kellogg's Pep

A delicious cereal that supplies per serving (1 oz.): the full minimum daily need of vitamin D; 1/4 the daily need of vitamin B1.

Your Prosecuting Attorney Says ...

On January 8, 1942, my very good friend, the late John A. Stewart, then Prosecuting Attorney, asked me to pinch-hit for him as acting prosecutor while he took a leave of absence due to illness. My appointment as acting prosecutor was duly approved by Circuit Judge Herman Dehnke.

On February 25, 1942, three weeks after Mr. Stewart's death, Judge Dehnke appointed me Prosecuting Attorney to fill the vacancy for the rest of the term.

Today I am your Prosecuting Attorney and a candidate for re-election on the Democratic ticket. Many Republicans as well as Democrats favored my appointment. Many Republicans as well as Democrats endorse and support my election because they are satisfied with my record of performance in office.

Recently, one Republican candidate for this office withdrew after the Primary and another candidate was selected as a substitute nominee by the County Republican Committee. Neither of these candidates is a resident of our county. The Attorney General of the State of Michigan, who incidentally is a Republican, ruled that the Republican candidate for Prosecuting Attorney is not qualified to be a candidate and that his name should not appear in the ballot. The Election Commission, consisting of Probate Judge H. R. Smith, County Clerk R. H. McKenzie and County Treasurer Grace Miller, definitely indicated it would not comply with the Attorney General's ruling, so it became necessary to file suit to bar the name of Herbert Hertzler from the ballot as an ineligible candidate. Even though Mr. Hertzler and I are good friends personally, it was my duty to the people of Iosco County to make certain that the ballot contained only such names as are legally qualified to be on it. No reflection upon the good name of Mr. Hertzler is there by intended or cast. The fact remains that he is a resident of another county, holds office in that county and is a candidate for county office there. He is not a resident of Iosco County and is not eligible for county office in Iosco.

The office of Prosecuting Attorney is too important to be made ridiculous by partisan politics.

Your support for my re-election will be appreciated and I will try to continue to do a good job as your Prosecuting Attorney.

T. GEORGE STERNBERG

SCHOOL NOTES

SCRAP DRIVE PARTY
The party winding up the Tawas City "Army-Navy" scrap drive was held Friday evening in the gym. After working up an appetite by singing and dancing to the music of some of the students and faculty members, sandwiches, cookies and pop were served. This party was provided by the members of the "army," since according to the present figures they were the losers in the scrap drive.

M. E. A. MEETING IN FLINT
The faculty of the Tawas City Public Schools traveled to Flint Thursday morning to attend the meetings of the Michigan Education Association held in that city Thursday and Friday. This provided a two day vacation for the students coming, conveniently at the beginning of pheasant season.

SCRAP DRIVE
The drive for scrap which the school army and navy teams put on last week was brought to a close last Thursday at which time the figures stood at 61,101 pounds for the army and 71,388 pounds for the navy.

The eleventh and twelfth grade girls are studying the various types of house architecture in preparation for making and furnishing small model floor plans of their favorite houses.

Do You Know?

by Dorothy Scott
Salads in the packed lunch are just a bit difficult. In cool weather gelatin with fruit or vegetables is a favorite of children, and many grown-ups. Grated carrots and chopped peanuts or raisins with salad dressing may work out very well, and cole slaw, too.

Simple desserts, other than fresh fruit or sauces, are custards, cream puddings, rice and fruit puddings (nice with light lunches), jello. Among baked items are molasses, oatmeal, dried fruit cookies, and plain unfrosted cakes—especially sponge cakes.

You can add fruits, nuts, coconut and chocolate in puddings and custards, and they are a pleasant way to get in the egg, as a change from sandwich fillings.

As suggested once before, adults come in for larger servings, higher calorie content in food preparation and richer desserts, particularly if they have lots of physical exercise. With care, some kinds of pie may be carried—apple, prune, peach and perhaps cherry or berry. Good sized portions of cake, plain or frosted, and a dish of fruit is a satisfying dessert.

About quantities. No amount can be definitely set, as there will be variations due to age, activity, and growth rate. The important thing is to be sure the additions or subtractions include all kinds of food, rather than more pie and cake or less milk and fruits.

In general, these quantities make for good proportions:

Food	Children	Adults
Soup	1 1/4 cups	1 1/2 to 1 3/4 cups
Bread	up to 3 or 4 slices	5-6 sli.
Milk	1 cup	1 cup
Cookies	1 or 2	2 or 3
Sauce, custard pudding	1/2 - 3/4 cup	1 cup
Cake	2"x2" x 4"	2"x2"x5"
Pie one small children	1-5 to 1/4

sold War Stamps and Bonds each month well in excess of the 4 per cent which the Treasury Department requests. Others have given little co-operation, because they failed to grasp the importance of this assignment. The fact that the Treasury Department now asks retailers for greater accomplishment is evidence of their growing importance in helping to finance the war. Fabric Gloves

Gloves made of fabric wash clean in a twinkling, provided that the washing is done as soon as they look wilted. Lukewarm soapsuds for the washing and clear, lukewarm water for the rinsing, are all that they need to look like new. Pat the moisture out with a towel to make them dry more quickly, then stretch the gloves lengthwise, and hang them over a towel bar in the bathroom or dry flat on a clean turkish towel.

USDA Committee to Aid Farm Truckers

The Iosco County Farm Transportation Committee, recently appointed by the Iosco County USDA War Board will be available to assist farmers who own trucks and truckers who haul farm products from farms in executing applications for "Certificates of War Necessity" which all trucks are required to obtain before November 15, according to Harry A. Goodale, chairman if the Iosco county USDA War Board.

The dates, October 22, 23 and 24 have been designated as National Farm Truck Registration Days. On one of these three days all farmers in Iosco County whom own trucks and all truckers in Iosco County who service farmers should obtain assistance in filling out the necessary application blank from the County Farm Transportation Committee.

Under General Order No. 21 issued on September 9 by the Office of Defense Transportation, all trucks must carry a "Certificate of War Necessity" in order to legally operate, and in order to obtain gasoline, tires or repair parts after November 15.

Certificates of War Necessity" confine truck operations to those which are necessary to the war effort or to essential domestic requirements, and to make the most possible use out of each truck. To this end, certificates will be set the maximum mileage and the minimum loads for each truck or vehicle for which a certificate is issued.

The ODT is now mailing application blanks to all truck owners. Any truck owner who does not receive an application blank previous to the registration days may obtain one by writing to the nearest ODT field office located in Michigan at Cadillac, Saginaw, Detroit, Lansing and Grand Rapids.

Mr. Goodale, who serves as chairman of the County Farm Transportation Committee, stated that the following were members of the committee: Will Waters, Farm member, Reno Township; James P. Mielock, farm member, Alabaster; Rudy Gingerich, Truck Transportation Services, Tawas City; Fred Holzheuer, Dealer in Farm supplies, Hale.

Alternate Members: Harry W. Cross, Farmer member, East Tawas; W. Harrison Frank, Farmer member, Tawas City; Forrest Streeter, Truck Transportation Services, Hale; Joseph Collins, Farm Supply Dealer, Whittemore.

This Is a 'Corker'

Here's a story that may well be termed a "corker." Recently Robert E. Adams of Shreveport, La., mourned the disappearance of $40—his whole week's pay. He considered himself a "hard-luck guy." A happy ending came later, however, when he found the money—in his cork leg. Adams said he apparently had put the money in his trousers pocket in which there was a hole, and the money fell through into the artificial limb.

S.P.C.C. Organized

The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children was organized in New York in December, 1874, by Henry Bergh, organizer of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. Bergh's attention was called to the plight of mistreated children by Mrs. Etta Angell Wheeler, a social worker. Elbridge T. Gerry, attorney for the S.P.C.A., was active in the organization of the children's society and later became its president.
