Alibi

By CARLTON JONES

"THIS," said Captain Howe, is the most ingenious alibi it has ever been my pleasure to run across. . . .

I stared at him, and then looked at Albee, the butler, and Anna, the maid, and at John Munroe who sat at the desk in his study and at the faces of the half-dozen house guests. . . .

It had been Albee who had summoned the police. Captain Howe and I and Medical Examiner Field and a couple of photographers went out to the Munroe place.

Albee met us at the door, and Captain Howe made him talk before we went in to look at the body. It seems that the butler had entered John Munroe's study at eight o'clock that morning, as was his habit, and found Munroe handcuffed to his own desk. . . .

There human nature operates on precisely the same pattern. The larger the corporation the more chance the individual "cheater" has of getting away with it. . . .

In a corporation there is at least an incentive for somebody to discover the waste. It is the much reviled, among the liberals, profit motive. . . .

There is a trace of the latter in government. But not very much. For example it is almost unthinkable that the studies made by Senator Harry F. Byrd of Virginia would have passed unnoticed if the investigation he had conducted had been into the expenditures of the American Telephone company. . . .

Mere publication of Byrd's reports would have stirred up such a hornet's nest among the minority stockholders that action by the high officials would have been virtually compulsory. . . .

Business of Government But in this business of government, unfortunately, there do not seem to be any minority stockholders. . . .

The best example of pure waste of man power and government money is the department of agriculture, which is proceeding full steam with all the divisions which formerly were created to prevent surpluses in the staple crops, in other words to curtail production in order to prevent price declines. . . .

It is true that in wheat and some other staples there are large surpluses at present. But the idea of making surveys and paying farmers not to grow needed foodstuffs in view of the war situation, plus the situation everybody knows will exist the moment war is over—that of feeding a starved world—is one that would not appeal to a grammar school child if there were no human elements involved. . . .

The second element is always with us—the desire to reform everybody else. Granted that this is an essential part of government in ordinary times are the activities of hundreds of department of justice lawyers and clerks trying to reform the Associated Press, and the Aluminum company, to mention just two pending cases, necessary now? . . .

Different persons might differ as to the total results, naturally, but probably no disinterested investigator would place the amount at less than one billion dollars. . . .

They say one cannot visualize a billion dollars. True. But any grammar school boy or girl can add items to that amount, whether they comprehend the total or not. . . .

One of the ablest men in the country recently estimated that efficiency would be increased, and he was thinking of the war agencies, by a reduction of 70 per cent in the clerical personnel. . . .

In some of them there should be a 100 per cent reduction, because the work a few of them are doing there is not only the waste of the salaries, typewriters, stationery and free mail perquisites, not to mention the man power, but the work done is actually harmful to the war effort. . . .

ning, probably talking business. You got mad and shot him. No one heard the shot because the study is so far removed from the rest of the house and almost soundproof. . . .

Captain Howe smiled thinly. "It's the most ingenious alibi it's been my pleasure to run across," he repeated. . . .

Figurin' Wrong

By VIC YARDMAN

WHAT we couldn't figure out was why Walt Hodges stuck on the job. You see, Harry Fontenalla, who owned the Horizontal Bar F where Walt worked, had just been acquitted of a charge accusing him of the murder of Cliff Sterling, one of his hands, who was Walt's buddy. . . .

We found out a week after Harry went back to the ranch, but finding out didn't help Walt much, because Walt was dead—shot three times. . . .

Sheriff Sam Shepard rode out to look things over. Now, Sheriff Sam was smart. . . .

Four of us from town, friends of Walt, accompanied the sheriff out to the Horizontal Bar F. . . .

"Looks like you figure on having some trouble, Sheriff," Harry Fontenalla remarked as we rode up. . . .

"No," said Sam. "No, I don't figure there'll be no trouble, Harry." He hooked his thumbs in his belt. . . .

"The damn little fool!" Harry blazed up suddenly, and we knew he had been drinking. . . .

"I reckon he figured I was nowhere around, 'cause when I spoke he whirled, an' went for his gun." . . .

"And you shot the gun outter his hand?" said Sam. . . .

"Yeah, I shot the gun outter his hand and then plugged him twice more. So what? That's self-defense, ain't it?" . . .

"Yeah," said the sheriff, "that's self-defense, all right, Harry. Let's go take a look at Walt." . . .

So he went into the office and there was Walt sprawled out on the floor. Sam knelt down beside him and examined the wounds. . . .

"You boys wait here," Sam said. "I'm going down to the bunk house." . . .

"I'm going with you," said Harry, looking ugly. . . .

Sam hesitated. Then he said: "All right. Don't know as I can stop you. You boys come along, too, if you want." . . .

So we all followed Sam down to the bunkhouse and watched while he went through Walt's belongings. . . .

"Harry," he said. "This will make the second time I've had to accuse you of murder within a year. This time I don't figure you can get out of it." . . .

"No?" said Harry, his lips sneering, his eyes full of insolence. . . .

"There's a bullet hole over there in the corral fence," said Sam. . . .

"Now I figure that's one of the bullets you shot at Walt. I figure the murder took place down at the corral." . . .

"I figure you and Walt had words. I figure he was in here ropin' out his horse. I figure he had a rope in his hand an' couldn't get at his gun very handy, if he wanted, which gave you a good chance to shoot him down." . . .

"The fact," says Sam, "that the fact that Walt kept on here was drivin' you nuts, because you knew he thought you killed his partner. You didn't dare fire him because of the way it would look. So you killed him." . . .

"Hold on now, Harry. I'll explain how I know. I know that Walt had a rope in his hand when you shot him because there are some fibers embedded in the wound in his hand. . . .

"Not at all," Howe smiled. "But it is unnatural for a man to smoke thirty-five cigarettes in five hours' time." . . .

There was a moment of silence. Munroe licked his lips and glared. . . .

"You killed Bean, Munroe. You and he were in his study last eve-

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D., of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago (Released by Western Newspaper Union.)

Lesson for November 22

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission.

MOTIVES THAT STRENGTHEN FAMILY LIFE

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 2:1-4; Joshua 24:14, 15; Ephesians 5:28-31; 6:1-4. GOLDEN TEXT—Love never faileth.—I Corinthians 13:8.

Last week we saw the things which mar the life of the family, now we turn to those things which give strength to the home and to daily life. This is a lesson much needed just now when so much of our normal home life is thrown out of joint. . . .

I. Recognition of God in the Home (Exod. 2:1-4; Josh. 24:14, 15). Failure at this point is without question the great mistake of our day. Christianity touches every phase of life, but nowhere is its blessed influence of greater importance than in the home. . . .

Our lesson suggests that this is to be done in two ways in our homes. 1. By Faith in God (Exod. 2:1-4). The story of the birth of the babe who was to be Moses, possibly the greatest civic and religious leader of all time, reminds us that the Jewish people, who had found favor in the eyes of the Pharaohs in Joseph's time, were now being persecuted. . . .

Here were two parents faced with the awful fact that their baby boy was condemned to death. Did they weep in fear and despair? No, they trusted God and sent the little one forth on a venture of faith, the charming story of which follows the verses of our lesson. . . .

He pleads with them to turn to the one true God, but notice that his plea is made effective by the fact that he and his house were serving the Lord. Every man who has a position of leadership in this world is responsible for the use of that place of power, as a testimony for God. . . .

The Intelligentsia: Carl Sandburg's epic four-volume treatise of Lincoln and the Civil War has been digested into a single meaty volume, "Storm Over the Land" (Harcourt, Brace). . . .

Edward W. Beattie Jr., the United Press correspondent, whose new book, "Freely to Pass," is a click, tells this one . . .

At the Munich conference there was a large bowl containing a lone goldfish on a table . . .

"Hitler stepped up and started bailing out the water with a teacup . . .

Soon there was only a little water left and the fish flopped around dismally on its side . . .

"Grab him, grab him!" cried Benito. . . .

"No," said Hitler, "first he must cry for help!" . . .

Dewey got this telegram on his election: "Congratulations and all the other headaches that go with being a winner." . . .

Judith Evelyn of "Angel Street" relays the latest draft tale. A near-sighted youngster with thick lensed specs was put in IA. . . .

"Didn't they examine your eyes?" asked a pal. . . .

"No," he said, "they just counted 'em!" . . .

Typewriter Ribbons: Ring Lardner: He looked at me like I was a side dish he hadn't ordered . . .

Edith Wharton: A lady of energetic eyebrows . . .

B. Alexander: Her wrinkles proved that time had dug in for a long stay . . .

Margaret Bailey: She wore conviction like a well cut gown . . .

Anne Parrish: A face as calm as custard . . .

O. Henry: She gave him a well-manicured glance of a cultured lady . . .

John G. Pollard: Genealogy means tracing yourself back to people better than you are. . . .

PATTERNS SEWING CIRCLE

SEWING CIRCLE PATTERN DEPT. Room 1116 Chicago 211 West Wacker Dr. Enclose 20 cents in coins for each pattern desired. . . .

Exaggerate What you exaggerate you weaken.—La Harpe.

Treat Constipation This Gentler Way! Many folks say that almost as bad as constipation are harsh cathartics and purges. . . .

Mirrors, framed to harmonize with the other furnishings, can be used to brighten dark corners in hallways, bedrooms and even living rooms. . . .

When lemons become dry immerse them in cold water. They will soon become quite soft and ready to use. . . .

Sweet biscuit will not rise properly if too much sugar is used. . . .

Chamois gloves will retain their color if washed in water in which the peel of two oranges has been boiled. . . .

QUALITY counts more today than ever before, particularly in home baking. That's why more and more women are turning to Clabber Girl, the baking powder that has been the baking day favorite in millions of homes for years and years. . . .

War goes right on, despite Thanksgiving. And messages essential to the war effort will crowd the wires as on other days.

War-loaded Long Distance lines cannot carry the usual flood of social calls this Thanksgiving.

Therefore, please make only the most urgent Long Distance calls on Thanksgiving Day, and keep those calls as brief as possible.

SNAPPY FACTS ABOUT RUBBER

The government's goal is to produce synthetic rubber at a rate of more than 800,000 tons per year by the end of 1943. Even without a war program requiring tremendous quantities of rubber, the U. S. used 648,000 tons of rubber in 1940.

Sentinels of Health Don't Neglect Them! Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure. When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging headache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out. Frequent, scanty or burning passages are sometimes further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance. The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed by the country over. Insist on Doan's. Sold at all drug stores. DOAN'S PILLS
