In Memoriam

In loving memory of Louis Bouchard who died in the service of his country January 16, 1943.

[This day brings back sad memories of one who has gone to rest. And those who think of him today, are those who loved him best. He is gone but not forgotten. And as dawn's another year, in our lonely hours of thinking, thoughts of him are always near. Days of sadness will come over us. Friends may think the wound is healed, but they little know the sorrow that is within our hearts concealed.]

County Improves Road Equipment For This Year

Two new KST International trucks have recently been delivered to the Iosco county Road Commission. White Motor Co. is the successful bidder on two more 5 ton trucks to be delivered in the very near future. The latter two trucks to be equipped with 12 ft. scrapers. Also one model D-8 Caterpillar tractor and one Caterpillar power grader were recently delivered to the Commission. A bull dozer for the D-8 is to be delivered soon. If no new power mowers have been ordered and will be delivered by spring. In addition to this another 7 ton International truck will be delivered next spring which will make three of this model purchased during the last two years. Thus much of the Commissions over age equipment is being rapidly replaced.

During the year 1945 approximately 32000 cu. yards of gravel and crushed stone were put on our badly worn gravel roads. Most of this was used in patching and resurfacing those roads that already had gravel on them. The Commission plans to resurface and patch to the extent of some 30 to 40 thousand yards in 1946.

The 1945 program included a total pay roll expenditure of $89,650.00.

OVERNIGHT GUEST

By BEN AMES WILLIAMS

THE STORY THUS FAR: Adam Bruce, FBI operator, Inspector Tope and Mrs. Tope met in the Maine woods. Tope found a man murdered at auto camp operated by Bee Dewain. At first he was believed to be Mr. Ledforge, head of New England utilities. Holdom, a friend of Ledforge, had his chauffeur, Kell, hit him over the head and leave him along side of the road. A car believed to have been used in the murder was raised from the quarry where it was found. A woman's body was discovered inside. Having received proof that dope was found in the stomach of the murdered man, Tope asked doctor to examine the woman in the car. He also asked New York to check on pilot of Ledforge.

CHAPTER XII

He was glad when at last Doctor Medford arrived, and Tope roused to hear what the medical examiner had to say.

"She was strangled, Tope," the Doctor reported. "An ignition wire knotted tight around her throat. I haven't had a chance to check on the drug end yet; came ahead so as to get things ready here."

Tope frowned. "Is she big or little?" he asked.

"Large for a woman."

"Then she was drugged first," Tope said crisply. "He couldn't have overpowered her. He's a small man."

Steps outside; and Cumberland and Joe Dane were here. "Banion's right behind us with the ambulance," Cumberland reported.

"Tope, Joe says he can't stand this waiting any longer. Says if you don't do something, he's going to."

Adam saw Joe Dane grin slightly. "Why, Joe's right," Tope agreed. "I guess it's time to clear it up. We'll want to get ready to make the arrest."

"Well, I'm glad to hear it, old man," Cumberland said with a heavy relief. "Who is it?"

Tope hesitated. "If I told you myself, you wouldn't believe me," he confessed. "I want you to hear two or three things first from others. Then you'll see I'm right."

"Who?" Cumberland asked. "Who are you—witnesses?"

"Well," said Tope, calmly yet with a deep triumph in his tones, "first one is Holdom. I know enough about what happened so I can make him talk now. He won't want to, because he's in it; but he doesn't know there's murder in the business. When he does, he's bound to tell the truth. He wasn't in on the killing—just the kidnap end. He'll talk, to clear himself of a murder charge."

He had their still attention now. "And the next is Kell," Tope continued. "He knows just as much as Holdom knows. He's lied to us so far; but he won't lie now. He'll tell all he knows—because his wife was murdered, and he loved her. I saw him awhile ago. He'll talk."

He looked from one to another; wagged his head. "You'll think Holdom is lying," he warned them.

"You'll say it couldn't have happened the way he'll tell you it did happen. But I'll show you that it could. Bob Flint was Holdom's pilot. He flew up here Friday night—with a passenger; spent most of the night up here. But he had a girl here, Sally Tennant. Her father's Holdom's gardener. If I know anything about the way a young fellow acts, Flint saw Sally while he was up here. Probably he told her who his passenger was, warned her not to tell."

"But she'll tell now; because that passenger drugged young Flint, after they got back near New York, and after he got out of the plane—drugged him so that Flint went to sleep in the air and crashed and was killed. I'm having an autopsy on Flint's body to prove he was drugged."

He concluded: "So there you are! Sally Tennant will tell you who Flint's passenger was that night, and Kell will tell you what happened to Ledforge on the way up here Friday; and Holdom will tell you why it happened."

"And if you don't believe them, Doctor Loud, the dentist down in Ridgcomb, can possibly tell you what kind of teeth Ledforge had."

Doctor Medford protested in some surprise: "Doctor Loud? But he's dead, Tope."

The Inspector whirled on him, stared at him. "Dead?" he echoed.

"Why, yes. He dropped dead two or three weeks ago."

Tope seemed to tremble. "Dropped dead?" he repeated. He shook his head. "We needed him," he confessed.

Ned Quill came in; and Tope spoke quickly.

"You see the Tennant girl, Quill?"

"Sure, had a long talk with her," the trooper replied, and he added: "She'd been to New York to young Flint's funeral. Or whatever you call it. They had him cremated."

Tope suddenly was pale. "Cremated?" he protested in a deep dismay. He whirled to Doctor Medford. "Then they can't do an autopsy."

Doctor Medford shook his head; and Joe Dane said, almost exultantly: "Not on ashes, Tope, old man!"

Tope hesitated, then turned to Quill again. "Did Miss Tennant see him last Friday night?" he asked.

Quill shook his head in some surprise. "Why, no. Hadn't seen him for two-three weeks," he answered. "She says he hasn't been up here!"

Tope was a man not easily shaken; but he was shaken now. He sat down as though wearily, and Joe Dane said derisively: "Your evidence isn't coming through, Tope. Quite a bit of static."

Adam cried loyally: "But there's still Holdom and Kell!"

"Why, sure," Mat Cumberland agreed, relieved. "We'll send for them. Joe, you go telephone."

Joe Dane went out; but Tope said slowly: "You know, Mat, I've got an idea that this whole thing has busted on me. We'll have to figure something else—some other way."

And he added, almost apologetically: "It's just a hunch; but I'm willing to make a small bet that neither one of them—"

He had no time to state the wager. For Joe Dane returned. "You've spilled it now, Tope!" Dane cried furiously. "You wouldn't let me question Holdom! And you told Kell his wife was dead! You've had your way so far, made a mess of the whole thing. Now I'll take charge."

Tope looked at him thoughtfully.

"Get out! You're through!"

"Kell kill himself?" he asked in mild tones.

"Yes!" Joe Dane retorted. "With his own suspenders. Hung himself to his cell door. And Holdom's got a concussion, unconscious. They've taken him to the hospital, and the doctor thinks he'll die. So he won't talk, either. Blast it, if you hadn't meddled, I'd have had his story, had the whole thing by now! Get out! You're through! I'm taking charge!"

Tope got up slowly, like an old man. "Why, Joe," he said, "I'm sorry. I hoped I could hand this case to you on a platter. But I can still—"

"You can get out!" young Joe Dane shouted. "Mat!" He appealed to Cumberland. "If you let this doddering old has-been fiddle around here any more, I'm through. I'll resign. Tell him to drag himself out of town!"

Cumberland hesitated; but Tope spoke. "Don't bother, Mat," he said. "I'm going. Joe, I hope you get it all straight, spite of the trouble I've made." Adam Bruce, watching him, could have wept for this old man. Then Tope caught his eye.

"Adam, you want to drive me back to Mrs. Tope?" he asked.

"Why, sure, Inspector," said Adam.

In a sober silence, while the others watched them without speaking, they moved out to the curb and the waiting car.

They got in; and Adam, at the corner, turned toward Ridgcomb, but Tope spoke then.

"Wait a minute, Adam," he said. "I want to buy some things before we go. Drive downtown."

Adam obeyed him. "What is it you want, Inspector?" he asked. "I can get them for you."

But Tope, instead of answering, inquired: "You a good rifle-shot, Adam?"

Adam whirled toward him, startled, incredulous; and he saw Tope was not downcast and humiliated, not the crushed old man he had seemed a moment ago, but alert, his eyes intent, his color high, almost beaming.

"Why, yes," Adam admitted. "Pretty good."

"Then we'll buy you a rifle," Tope said. "You pick out one that you're sure of at anything up to say two hundred yards. And after that, we want to get an outboard motor that will start every time."

He saw Adam's incredulous bewilderment, and chuckled. "And the only other thing," he concluded, "is one of these vests padded with some patent stuff that makes them float like life-preservers. Now go along, Adam. Let's see if we can find one in this little town."

During these forenoon hours while Tope brought the structure of his investigations to the point of completion, only to see it collapse like a house of cards, Mrs. Tope and Bee Dewain and Mr. Eberly waited at the Mill. Presently Ned Quill arrived, seeking Tope; but Tope was not here.

"He ought to be, by now," the trooper protested. "He left five-ten minutes before I did."

"Left where?" Mrs. Tope asked. "Was he coming here?"

"I thought he was," Ned declared; and—his questions prompting him—he told the story of that scene in Will Banion's chapel, when Tope's case crumbled and Joe Dane took charge.

"I'd like to slap Joe's face!" said Bee hotly.

But Mrs. Tope only asked: "Where is Inspector Tope?"

"Why, ma'am, he left us there in Banion's. I stopped in here to tell him not to take it too hard. I'll jog up to the quarry now—see how they're doing with the car. Tell the old man I'm for him, will you?"

He started his engine with a kick, and wheeled out into the highroad and so away.

Ten minutes later, Tope and Adam reached the Mill. These two had been some time in finding, in North Madderson, the things Tope sought; and when they had secured these objects and stowed them somehow, well concealed, in the back of the little car, Adam looked at the old man inquiringly.

"What's all that for?" he asked. Tope chuckled. "Why, Adam," he said cheerfully. "I thought I'd take you out to shoot a fish!"

Adam looked at him; and after a moment he said gravely: "Inspector, I've gone along blindly so far. But—if you're suggesting that I shoot anything but fish, I'll have to know where we stand."

Tope looked at him. "Why, Adam," he suggested, "if you saw one man trying to kill another man, and no way to stop him but to shoot him, you wouldn't wait for explanations, would you?"

"You expect some one else to be killed?"

"I expect there'll be a try to kill two people, before night," Tope assented simply.

"Who?" Adam demanded. "What two people?"

"Mr. Eberly," said Tope. "And Miss Ledforge."

Adam ejaculated: "Why? Who—?" Tope hesitated. "Well, Adam," he said, "you ought to be able to see it by now." And while Adam drove more slowly, listening, he explained: "This business builds up like a brick house, one brick at a time. First thing, a dead man under the bed in Faraway. Second thing, two people put him there. Third thing, they stayed in Little Bear, and one of them was a woman. Fourth thing, the man was small, and he knew Kell. He knew Kell because he imitated Kell's way of talking, and he wore Kell's shoes with the heel-plates on them. Fifth thing, they came in Holdom's coupe, and the woman was Mrs. Kell."

He added: "Those were facts; and Bob Flint being dead was another fact. And that telephone call from New York Saturday to report the stolen car was another fact. The dead man being Ledforge wasn't a fact, but it might get to be. Then the hair-oil on the dead man's head was a fact; and the hair-oil on the pillow in Little Bear was a fact. The two of them together made another fact."

But Tope said: "Here we are—here's the Mill. Wait till we leave here, son. We won't stay long."

Bee and Mrs. Tope were quick to meet them, Bee voluble with sympathy for the Inspector. But Mrs. Tope, watching them, thought him in no need of sympathy or reassurances.

"Why, I take that kindly of you, Miss Dewain. But he couldn't be Joe Dane and do different," the Inspector assured Bee. "Don't expect people to be different from what they are." He turned to Mrs. Tope. "I was thinking," he said, "that before we pull out of here, you might want to make a call somewhere. Like as not Miss Dewain would go with you. Mr. Eberly still here and all right, is he?"

Eberly spoke from the doorway: "Quite all right, Inspector."

And Mrs. Tope asked, surprised: "Call? On whom?"

Tope said: "Why, on Miss Ledforge. She's a real nice woman. Why don't you get Miss Dewain to drive you down there?" He looked at his watch. "It's going on three o'clock. Time you get prettied up and get there, it will be just about time for her to give you a cup of tea."

She hesitated. "I think I know what's in your mind," she admitted. "Ned Quill told us you sent for Mr. Ledforge's dentist. But—is that possible?"

"It's bound to be," he assured her soberly. And he added: "I'll be with Mr. Eberly, and you'll be with Miss Ledforge." He looked at Bee, here beside them. "You ladies, like as not you'll meet Mr. Ledforge. He's due home this afternoon."

And Bee, watching him, cried softly: "You haven't given up? You're still working on it? I'll take Mrs. Tope down!" Her eyes were shining. "What do you want us to do?"

A PEOPLE DELIVERED

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 6:6-8; 13:17-22. GOLDEN TEXT—I will trust, and not be afraid; for the Lord Jehovah, even the Lord, is my strength.—Isaiah 12:2.

"Is thy God able to deliver thee?" was the question asked of Daniel in the lions' den (Dan. 6:20). It is in the minds and on the lips of many in every hour of crisis.

God is able to deliver. Moses found that out when in answer to his complaint that the Lord had done nothing for his suffering people (Exod. 5:22), the Lord revealed Himself as the One who was not only able but ready to take them out of their bondage.

I. God's Promise (6:6-8). Moses was to remember that he was dealing with the Eternal One, unchangeable, and always true to His word and able to make His will come to pass (v. 2, 3).

So often men in dealing with God think of Him in terms of their own weakness and failure. What we need is to have a Godlike conception of God, not a manlike idea of Him. God is the infinite and the Eternal One with whom we have no right to quarrel, and whose dealings with us are too high for us to judge (Ps. 139:1-6).

God's covenant with His people was established (v. 4). He had heard their cry (v. 5), and His deliverance was sure (v. 6). The only thing Moses had to do was to wait and see God work.

That word "wait" is a little one. It seems to call for no effort, to be easy of fulfillment; yet it seems to be the hardest thing for a human being to do. Christians who can speak and work for God when things are active and moving become querulous and despondent when they have to wait or when they are laid aside for a time.

His promise is sure. That is not just a religious sentiment. It is a fact, and it is proved by history.

II. God's Plan (13:17-19). There was a direct, easy road along the coast of the Mediterranean up to Canaan, but God with His pillar of cloud and fire did not lead in that way.

How strange that He should take them by a longer, more difficult way! Not at all. He knew the danger of the easy way. It was there that the warlike Philistines would be lying in ambush. Such immediate conflict would discourage Israel and tempt them to return to the fleshpots of Egypt. So He took them the other way.

Note that God's guidance for them was one of intelligent planning, not just impulse or chance. He knew what to do, and He did it, for their good.

God has a plan, not only for the nations, but also for individuals, for your life and mine. Let us find His will for us, for it is good, acceptable and perfect (Rom. 12:1, 2).

Note the honoring of the faith of Joseph in God's promise (v. 19). The memory of his assurance was a blessing to his descendants, and they honored it and him. What will our descendants have to say about our faith in God?

III. God's Presence (13:20-22). Our God does not just send a plan or program to His people. He is always with them and is ready to go before them.

God's plan is made known to His people as they follow Him step by step. This means that there must be guidance, moment by moment, if His plan is to be worked out. He gives such guidance and it is only when His children fail to follow it that the pattern of life becomes confused.

The field of divine guidance is one in which Christians have widely divergent experiences. Some know the sweet, unconfused daily experience of God's hand upon them, caring for even the minor details (or are they minor?) of life. Others have known the directive power of God in some life crisis, but not in the ordinary affairs of life. Many, and perhaps most, think of divine guidance as a spiritual theory of which the preacher talks, but know nothing of it in their own lives.

What makes this great difference? Faith—or the lack of it. Those who trust God accept and receive His blessed leadership moment by moment. It is as simple as that. Others reach out and take it when the pressure of life makes them cast themselves on God. Others simply muddle along "doing their best," which is not their best, for God is not in it.

The pillar of cloud, which became luminous at night, was ideal for the guidance of Israel. It provided shade from the hot sun by day, and it was a sure guide in the darkness of the night.

We who believe in Christ have an even better and more precious evidence of God's presence—the Holy Spirit who indwells us. He reveals God's will to us, urging us on, or restraining us as the need may be. Are we obedient to His blessed promptings? Do we walk in the light of His perfect guidance?

CROCHET this chrysanthemum doily, singly or in sets, for lovely and lasting gifts. Easily done.

Household Hints

If you want to make your letters absolutely sure-seal, glue them shut with colorless nail polish. These can't even be steamed open by unscrupulous persons.

Should you want to make your own roller shades to match the fabric used in the decorative scheme of a room, better stick to glazed chintz, heavy saten, percale or other material of similar weight and weave.

To tighten cane seats and prevent sagging, sponge the surface with salt water occasionally.

Cutting knives are best kept by themselves in a wooden rack in the kitchen drawer. If allowed to rub against other knives or utensils, they dull quickly.

These dollies, simple enough for a beginner to make, take less than a ball in either size doily. Pattern 7328 has directions; stitches.

Due to an unusually large demand and current conditions, slightly more time is required in filling orders for a few of the most popular pattern numbers.

Swift Camera Photographs Explosive Action of 'Gas'

A movie camera that takes 40,000 pictures a second is used to photograph the explosive action of aviation gasoline at the NACA aircraft engine research laboratory in Cleveland, says Collier's.

This camera so slows down actions that if it were used to photograph a football player making a 40-yard run, the projection of the film, at the normal rate of 24 pictures a second, would require 2 hours and 20 minutes.

To Get Better Cough Syrup, Mix It at Home

So Easy! No Cooking. Real Saving.

To get quick relief from coughs due to colds, you should make sure by mixing your own cough syrup at home. It's no trouble at all, and you know it's pure and good. It needs no cooking, and it's so easy to make that a child could do it.

From your druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add enough plain syrup to fill up the pint. To make syrup, stir two cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, if desired. The full pint thus made should last a family a long time, and gives you about four times as much cough medicine for your money. It never spoils, and children love its pleasant taste.

And for quick results, you've never seen its superior. It seems to take hold instantly, loosening the phlegm, soothing the irritated membranes, and helping to clear the air passages.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for quick action on throat and bronchial irritations. Just try it, and if not pleased, your money will be refunded.—Adv.

Watch Your Kidneys!
Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste
Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.
Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, itching at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.
There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

DOAN'S PILLS

Sportlight

by GRANTLAND RICE

APPARENTLY only a minor portion of football followers, addicts, old grads and others understand just what a football schedule means.

For example, playing Army in these days means you haven't a chance to be even close. Playing Navy means you are likely to be beaten. Not always. But nearly always. That is as of today. Army and Navy had the two best teams in 1945 and they will have the two best teams in 1946.

But so far as any national ranking goes we've drawn a flock of complaints, especially from the Midwest, about the quality of many southern schedules.

"I recall some years back," one Midwesterner writes, "when Bob Neyland at Tennessee took no chances of defeat. Neyland was a great coach and he had great teams. But he rarely played over three hard games a year, with many soft spots planted in between.

"In my opinion this has been true of Alabama this season. Everyone knows Frank Thomas is an exceptionally good coach and that Alabama is one of the best teams in the country. But there was no way to prove this by playing only three hard games—L.S.U., Tennessee and Georgia. I would like to have seen Alabama tested by Army, Navy, Indiana, Pennsylvania, Oklahoma A. and M. or Michigan. That's why I don't think Alabama should have been rated over Navy and Indiana, or Oklahoma A. and M. After all a national ranking gets you nowhere while a Bowl game gets you from $30,000 to $100,000."

Alabama will tell you the Crimson Tide could get no stronger outside schedule. This is true. But many of their opponents, east and west, will also tell you they are not interested in southern teams that have so many football scholarships, and Bowl-developed teams.

The Bowl Complex

I have the feeling that the Bowl complex has set southern football back in a schedule way. For example two of my favorite southern teams are Clemson and Auburn, whose elevens go back 40 or 45 years. Once they begin winning, they are too often dropped from southern schedules. The reason—"too tough." Tennessee dropped Auburn after a close 7-0 margin in 1938 that almost kept Tennessee out of an Orange Bowl meeting with Oklahoma. Georgia Tech, I understand, has dropped Clemson after Clemson's late mop-up. The South has given Clemson and Auburn all the worst of it, and yet, traditionally they belong high up.

The various Bowls, apparently, are here to stay. But they have built up two armed, hostile camps. The Midwest, including the Big Ten plus Notre Dame, have no Bowl aspirations. Neither has the Ivy League, plus Army and Navy.

This leaves Bowl selections to the West coast, the Southwest, the South and one or two stray eastern or northern teams, such as Boston College and Holy Cross.

From the South the teams willing to play a tough schedule and take a chance are Duke and Georgia Tech. Duke has been willing to face Army and Navy. Duke was unbeaten outside of these two games. Georgia Tech has been willing to meet Navy and Notre Dame, always tough customers. And Duke and Georgia Tech also meet. The last time a strong Alabama team played Georgia and Georgia Tech, Alabama lost both games.

Tulane Also Takes Risks

Duke and Georgia Tech play by all odds the hardest schedules in the South. Tulane is also willing to take a bigger gamble. The Southwest also sticks with its own, from Oklahoma to Texas, although Tulsa is willing to move away from its own home area. Tulsa played Indiana this last season.

But outside of Duke and Georgia Tech, no other southern team, including Alabama, played a schedule ever close to Indiana's test with a menu that included Michigan, Northwestern, Illinois, Nebraska, Iowa, Tulsa, Minnesota, Pittsburgh and Purdue.

The South has turned out too many great football teams, too many leading football coaches and too many football stars, to permit the various Bowl collections to dominate its schedules and its play.

The Bowls, taken in their stride, are all right as postseason fill-ins but completely unimportant contributions to any national ranking.

But the Bowl games should not be used in making schedules to insure Bowl invitations, especially in the South, which has contributed too much to football to give much of its attention to any Bowls in its schedule arrangements. After all, Duke and Georgia Tech are not the only good football teams in the South. The North and the Midwest will never get to see Gilmer and Mancha, two of the country's best.

TRUMAN DUCKS QUESTION OF SECOND TERM
WASHINGTON. — Pres. Harry Truman isn't sticking his neck out on the 1948 political race—yet.

Democratic Rep. Edward Herbert of Louisiana and Mayor Robert Maestri of New Orleans discovered this when they called at the White House the other day.

Maestri reminded Truman that the Louisiana delegation was among the first to support him for vice president at the 1944 Democratic convention in Chicago. Then he added:

"We hope to cast our votes for you for President at the next convention."

Truman chuckled good-naturedly but that was all.

"All I can say to that," he replied, "is that I'm just doing a job here from day to day and letting the future take care of itself."

CLOTHING FOR VETERANS

Chief dilemma faced by the returning war veteran when it comes to new clothes is that either he will get clothes or his wife and sweetheart will get them. There aren't going to be enough for both.

In this choice between man and wife there is no question as to where the U. S. government stands, at least in theory—on the side of the man. He has been away fighting, his old clothes are moth-eaten and he deserves something to wear. Getting them for him, however, may be another matter.

Bottleneck of the entire problem boils down to linings. Wool clothing for men must have linings. This means rayon and cotton. At present the wool and worsted situation is improving and there probably will be almost enough for 1946.

But rayons and cottons are different. In the first place most of their production was allocated to war uses and it takes some time to get mills reconverted. Second, and here is where the sex problem comes in, most of the rayon and cotton now available for civilian use has been going to women.

In other words, women are getting the rayon blouses, the slips, the undies and other things they like to wear. Meanwhile the much more prosaic but absolutely necessary lining for men's suits is left out in the cold. In addition, the hosiery manufacturers are even asking for, and getting, a lot of rayon poundage for stockings, despite the fact that nylon is coming back.

WHY WOMEN GET BREAK

Chief reasons for this channelling of clothes to women, despite the needs of veterans, are:

1. Higher prices and more profits in women's apparel. Men's clothing manufacturers blame this on OPA.
2. The War Production board last fall issued priorities on cotton and rayon in order to spur production of medium-priced clothing, but for some strange reason entirely omitted the bottleneck of men's suits—linings.

Since then the WPB has been abolished, but its successor, the civilian production administration, if anything, perhaps, has done a little worse. Well-meaning Herbert Rose, head of the CPA textile division, who has sublime faith in the efficacy of priorities under any and all circumstances, has proceeded to grant priorities to "hardship" cases for coat linings. By the end of November, 160 "hardship" cases had received lining priorities from Washington alone with scores of other priorities issued by CPA branch offices, making the whole situation more snarled than ever.

Meanwhile, Frank Chester Bowles, who has done more to protect the American consumer than any one else in Washington, readily admits that he has made a mistake in clothing. His problem, however, is whether to get an army of women's clothing dealers on his neck by decreasing the ceilings on women's clothes, or whether to boost the price of clothes for men by allowing higher price ceilings on their clothes.

One or the other probably will be necessary even in addition to the plan for voluntary rationing of men's clothing and the issuing of clothing certificates to men at separation centers.

Now we in this country have a great form of government and a great basic concept of getting along with our neighbors. And it's time we went out as Christ did and tried to sell our American religion.

CAPITAL CHAFF

"I've been reading the platforms of the two major political parties for the past 40 years," remarked Con. Carter Manasco of Alabama, who did so much to sabotage the full employment bill. "Well, if everything called for in those platforms had been carried out, the country would have been ruined now." "Most significant thing about the Republican's Chicago convention to me," remarked "Cap" Harding, secretary of the Democratic congressional committee, "is the excellent planning."

How Do People Stand on Military Training? Editors Report on Their Communities

By AL JEDLIKA
WNU News Analyst.

FIFTY-SEVEN per cent of country newspaper editors polled in a nationwide survey by Western Newspaper Union favor compulsory peacetime military training, with 57.7 per cent of these approving of President Truman's proposal for one year of service for 18- to 20-year-old male youths. Thirty-seven per cent opposed compulsory training and 6 per cent remained undecided.

In the editors' report on prevailing sentiment for compulsory training in their communities, however, 44.8 per cent of the people stood against it, with 42.8 per cent approving and 12.4 per cent evenly divided. With every section of the country heard from, southern editors showed the greatest support for compulsory training, with 66.6 per cent for it. Following were the North with 59.7 per cent; the East with 57.6 per cent and the West with 50 per cent.

Southern editors approving compulsory training also showed the strongest preference for Mr. Truman's service program, 77.7 per cent being for it, while 58 per cent in the West favored it, 56.7 per cent in the North and 40 per cent in the East.

With 56 per cent of the people reported backing compulsory training, southern communities also were far out in front for the proposal, with the West following with 41.9 per cent and then the North with 40.9 per cent, and the East with 37 per cent.

Timely in view of pending congressional action on the President's measure for one year of military service for physically, morally and mentally fit 18- to 20-year-old youths of the nation, the WNU poll served to reflect grassroots sentiment on the all-important proposal. It seemed to justify congressional caution arising from strong, popular aversion to compulsory training, while also reflecting advanced acceptance by professional thinking.

Because editors were asked to gauge public opinion in their communities instead of actually polling it, however, some discrepancy might exist in their judgment of the sentiments prevailing in their localities. Since the country newspaper editor, of all persons, perhaps is the closest to the people about him, on the other hand, his observations may be considered fairly accurate.

Though the editors appeared out of step, rural community sentiment ran in line with the recent positions of the three great farm organizations on postwar service: The Farm Bureau favoring a broad program of physical fitness in schools and land grant colleges; the Grange proposing similar preparation and army pay sufficient to induce volunteers, and the Farmers Union advocating some form of combined civilian training modeled after the National Youth administration.

The WNU poll contrasted markedly with other nation-wide tabulations embracing the large urban and country districts. The final editors' count of 57 per cent for compulsory training differed from the reported over-all figure of 71 per cent for professional people in other surveys, while the community count of 44.8 per cent against contrasted with other findings of 35 per cent against.

In supporting both military conscription and President Truman's legislation with some modification Linwood C. Rodgers of the Luminary of Lockwood, Mo., wrote:

"The people of this community do not favor such legislation. They have many of their boys back home and want to keep them. The war is over and they do not want to anticipate another one.

"In my own personal opinion, the United States should adopt compulsory peacetime training. We served in the army and saw inadequately trained men thrown into combat, and that isn't good. We believe it is pretty well agreed that another war is inevitable and we can't stave it off by not training our men to be in readiness; in fact, that will only invite it sooner.

"I'd say that six months would be enough for the 18- to 20-year-olds to spend in training, for the basics will be all the trainee will receive in most cases anyway. In cases of extreme hardships . . . boys should be excused."

Agreeing with both proposals,

THESE FELLOWS ARE AGAINST IT, AND THEY GIVE THE REASONS WHY

Paul Metzgar publisher of the Forum of Eldon, Iowa, commented: "It is my opinion that the military could and should be made as active enough . . . to draw on the right kind of men seeking a career. In this way a sufficient armed force of trained intelligent men could be maintained at all times . . . and a sizable reserve could be retained by liberalizing benefits for men in that status.

"I personally oppose compulsory Bryant B. Voris of the Republican of Waterloo, Ill., said: "Certainly there can be no harm in military training in America. The brass hats, of course, must be kept under control and must not possess the attitude 'the king can do no wrong.' . . .

"I do not believe that compulsory training was the cause of war in other countries where it was in effect. It was more the propaganda of 'Gott mit uns' and 'Deutschland uber alles' . . . which will not accompany our military training if it is American training.

" . . . If we do have war, I would rather know our son had a year's training to back him up rather than the hurried training some of our boys had in this war without being ripe for it. . . .

Favoring a modified form of post-war service, Dan W. Johnson of The Times of Ivanhoe, Minn., declared:

"The United States needs some pared cost us many extra lives . . . It is not going to hurt any healthy boy to learn the manual of arms. . . .

Backing compulsory training, Carl Portman of the Record-Register of Coalgate, Okla., declared:

"We would leave to the army, navy and air corps officials the type and extent of military training. But we would emphasize the importance of physical culture and discipline in any training program which America might adopt, with particular stress on the building of strong bodies and clean minds for our young men."

Basing most of his opposition to compulsory service on moral grounds, O. D. Parks of The Graphic of Nashville, N. C., said:

"I do not think boys 18 to 20 years of age should be thrown into the environment of peacetime army life, especially with the liquor and beer situation what it is.

"I am all for a large standing army and for military training for poor physical condition, it would seem to indicate that the necessity is for a better standard of national health, which goes back to childhood and infancy. . . .

"Would approve a regular standing army of greater size and a powerful navy by making voluntary enlistments as attractive as possible.

"Compulsory training would subject too many young men to bureaucratic rule and tend to develop a military dictatorship. . . ."

West

In supporting both compulsory military training and President Truman's plan, D. W. Robertson of the Searchlight of Culbertson, Mont., said:

"It is my opinion that a man cannot learn the fundamentals of modern warfare in less than one year.

form of military training, but it doesn't need a year's training for all males physically qualified at the teen-age level.

"Basic training in some form could be thrown in with high school or college ROTC, with perhaps a month's summer camp each year for your finished reserve.

"But for the standing army, there's only one thing—regulars. Make the air arm strong and make it sufficiently inviting that enough youth will choose it as a career. Of course, to make it inviting will mean cutting out some of the caste that permeates our present military establishment. . . ."

Declaring that we won the war because of our superior productive capacity and technical skill, Clarence V. Smazel of the Press of St. Louis, Mich., advocated a five-point program instead of postwar service:

"What we really need to do," he said, "is build one department of national defense under a civilian board of experts in fields useful to war; eliminate the war colleges of West Point and Annapolis with their class distinctions, privileges and traditionalism; make our economy function in peace so that we can always have a margin of productivity over anyone else . . . for war; establish secret nests of atomic bombs so that if anybody tried to eliminate our power by suddenly attacking our productive centers we would be able to hit back fast with more and better . . . and have men who know most and behave best in charge, at any level, of every military activity."

South

In calling for compulsory training under the President's plan, W. E. Chapman of the Enterprise of Indiana, Miss., wrote:

"Our people, as a rule, favor compulsory military peacetime training and we are hoping that the congress will pass such a law at an early date.

"Our teen-age boys have much idle time on their hands and you know the old saying, 'idleness is the devil's workshop.'

Asserting that the old adage "a stitch in time saves nine," H. W. Fleer of the Democrat of Waverly, Tenn., wrote the lesson should be applied now.

" . . . Some argue that those nations that are everlastingly preparing always meet defeat," he said. "Not so . . . England prepared and so did France and they won out a second time.

"The fact that we were unprepared to intensive but should be combined with the boy's schooling . . . where he is under some measure of moral guidance."

Suggesting that military training be made part of the educational curricula rather than a compulsory military program, Katie B. Beauchamp of The Magnet of Taylorsville, Ky., advised:

"Make it competitive and boys will not have to be compelled to take it. It could be given somewhat as basketball and football—more athletic than military—and would reach more boys and those who need it most."

East

Advocating modified military training, Russell A. Wheelock of The Shopper of St. Johnsbury, Vt., wrote:

"By all means we should be armed, ready and willing to fight when our way of life is threatened. Therefore, military education in our schools and colleges—yes!

"If we are smart enough to cherish and control the atomic bomb, no country will war with us. Navies, armies, air forces are outmoded, and a waste of taxpayers' money. Money placed on armies would be spent to better advantage educating future scientists to cope with the enemy's weapons. A strict control of Japan and Germany will prevent wars. A strong international policy by America will back up world peace."

Supporting a modified program, C. D. Eldredge of the Courier of Winchendon, Mass., said:

"For young men about to continue their education after completing high school, I feel that a year spent in continuous military training would be a decided mistake. . . . Let the young man who is accepted for college combine his education with the military, and in that way not interrupt his program. It would not necessarily have to be an ROTC but something along the National Guard lines.

"In case of a young man who had no qualifications for college or inclination to continue his education, a 'hitch' in the National Guard would be the trick—with little chance of the youth of the nation becoming too military minded. . . ."

Believing the compulsory training to be counter to principles of freedom guaranteed in the Bill of Rights, M. E. Sunderland of The Record of Waterbury, Vt., declared: "A public health program would be more to the point. With so many men rejected by selective service

If a lesser period is adopted, our boys will be going into battle only half trained, and this is as bad as no training at all. . . . The only way to avoid war in the future is to have a large enough army, sufficiently trained so that no nation will dare to attack us, and then don't go out looking for trouble.

"We have been fortunate in the last two wars to have time to train an army, but when the next one comes, time will not be allowed for training an army. Really, the only way to stop wars is to do as two senators have been brave enough to suggest, and that is to form an individual state of the world. . . ."

Urging a modified program, Edgar R. Simpson of the News of St. George, Utah, wrote:

"It is my observation that many people think of peacetime military training as a program of physical education and disciplinary training, which they favor. Most do not, however, seem anxious to see boys of 18 taken away from their homes, and opinions of returning servicemen point up some plan whereby boys could have the advantages of discipline, physical training and education along some lines that would benefit them in peacetime activities as well as for wartime preparation, as on a college campus or something of the sort in their home state or area."

Stating that while he didn't think it would worry the President, T. D. Caverly of the Valerian of Valier, Mont., disagreed with Mr. Truman's training legislation. Said he:

"We believe it would be a mighty good thing for every boy and girl in the country to put in a year under strict supervision as to hours and habits, to be trained in calisthenics and be under the direction of the best doctors during that time so the doctors could observe any physical trouble and correct it. But we believe this should not be done at the exact age of 18."

Declaring that the government should adopt a policy of encouraging science to develop the most modern materiel combat means, W. L. Rader of the Courier of Polson, Mont., thought: " . . . it is useless to draft a man for a year for just ordinary military training. This would mean nothing the way war would be carried on in the future and would just be an enormous expense.

"It seems to me what should be done is to have a few roving ambassadors that really keep an eye on what is going on in other countries. And when they come back and make a report—like Lindbergh did to England and the U. S.—we should do something about it. . . ."

Easy-to-Make Gowns Are Styled For Smart Wear in Midseason

By CHERIE NICHOLAS

THE rush and the excitement of a busy holiday season is over. Comes now the quiet after a storm when women will have opportunity to take inventory of their wardrobes. It's time to see what's needed in way of one or more smart new gowns that will accent the midseason style program with outstanding chic and charm.

If you find you need something you'll find that it will be thrifty and bring you no-end satisfaction to make your own between-season dresses. Maybe you are an expert at sewing. However, if you are an ambitious beginner you will get along fine by just taking your sewing problems to your local sewing center. You will be surprised and delighted at the wonderful facilities and helpful instruction you will receive in the art. In a few lessons your eye will be trained to fine points of cut, fit and finish, also to keen discernment in matter of selecting patterns and fabric. It's nothing less than fascinating to learn of the wonders that the modern sewing machine performs in way of short cuts to smart dressmaker tricks through almost miracle-working attachments.

Any one of the modish gowns pictured will inject new "pep" into your midseason wardrobe. And what a grand and glorious feeling it will give you to have made it yourself! In choosing your patterns keep in mind as a guiding star that soft styling and easy silhouettes strike high-fashion keynote for smartest midwinter clothes. Keep in mind, too, that no styling detail is of greater importance than are sleeves. In fact, it might well be said that a dress or a blouse or a coat is no smarter than its sleeves. It's the deep armhole sleeves that are creating the big sensation this season, especially the new wedged sleeves, such as style the gowns pictured.

Classic and new details are combined in the wedged sleeve frock of beige gabardine as shown centered in the trio. This stunning model takes its "casual" cue from such tailored accessories as its wide leather belt, shoulder-strap bag and square-brimmed sailor. This is a type of basic dress that can lead a double life just by deft accessory changes. Hip-slurring, curved slot pockets and high-riding inverted center front pleat are good fashion aids to stress below-hip flattery. For truly dramatic accessory changes the model shown to the left presents an unbeatable basic dress that's collarless. Its wedged sleeves of contrasting color fan out in simple mandarin lines, and its mini-sized waistline is accented by a shapely curving stitched belt of self fabric. The skirt front interest is heightened by inverted pleats that are stitched down to well below the waistline.

Another midseason sure success project is a two-piece wedge-sleeve dress that dramatizes the new rounded look in easy-to-wear lines, after the manner of the smart model pictured to the right. Raspberry spun rayon is used for the bow-tied blouse, and black rayon for its curved waistband and full-gathered skirt. The rounded raglan shoulders are contrived to form a diagonal bodice yoke that wings out into deep armhole sleeves. With the aid of dolman shoulder pads such as are featured at local sewing centers, in a variety of colors and sizes for dresses, coats and suits one can more easily achieve perfected rounded shoulder and deep armhole lines.

Among other style details played up in last-minute midwinter fashions, the idea of drawstring belts makes wide appeal, for you are assured of a perfect fit, in that the waistline may be adjusted to any size.

Felt Suit Hat

This dashing felt hat in beige is perfect to wear with your tailored clothes, especially with the suit you are wearing under your fur coat during the cold midwinter months. Later on it will top your unfurred cloth coat or your classic wool frock with infinite chic. The high crown has interesting detail in its soft draped manipulation. The two handsome quills in natural tones are placed at exactly right angle to flatter.

All Plastic Sandals

An up-to-date version of Cinderella's slippers has been designed and they surely will enchant the modern Prince Charming. These intriguing and novel sandals are of crystal-clear lucite, and they are here for party-goers as well as for women who like to relax luxuriously at home. This amazing new footwear comes with colorful ribbon laces, run through slots to form criss-crossings and ankle ties. Squared-toe soles are cut in a single piece. The firmly fastened hollow heel is 2 1/2 inches high. Colors are also available, including translucent black, red, green and blue. Ribbons range from multi-color stripes to solid colors in royal blue, green, red, gold, black or white. In addition to its beauty, the plastic has the practical value of being lightweight and virtually unbreakable.

High Colors Competing With Subtle Neutrals

You will see high color in the new wool jerseys, which are being neatly tailored in resort toppers and suits, which of course assures their style prestige in the spring fashion picture. Vivid coral is on the new color list, and tangerine, royal blue and a lovely cornflower blue as well as chalk blue, also striking green tones and startling new reds and bright copper shades. Just as important, however, are the subtle neutrals stressing soft grays and light beige, such as putty or string beige.

THOUGHTS ON THE MARKET

Scenes resembling those leading up to the 1930 stock market crash are now visible in all brokerage offices. And they are being re-enacted in technicolor.

A burned child dreads the fire, but an adult will always go for second degree burns if the tips "are hot" enough.

There is even a more reckless mood in today's buying due to the fact this is a screwier age in which the gambling fever has never run higher. Horses, dice, gin rummy and football pools have made America risk-slappy.

Most people have more cash than they know what to do with, so they are accepting advice from strangers.

The horse players are in the market, too. We heard a fellow rush up when his stock went off a point yesterday and claim a foul.

He is the same one who boasted that he had bought Chrysler and Eastman, and thought they had a good chance in the daily double at the weights.

All some brokerage offices need is a smell of hay, a list of jockeys, an objection heard and a morning line.

In fact, it is our belief the stock market should no longer be opened with a gong. It is time to use a bugle.

Remember away back when "Never Again!" was the Voice of America so far as speculating in stocks was concerned?

Reflections on Housing

The housing crisis has reached a point where it is suggested that "Tenting Tonight!" replace "Home, Sweet Home" as an American folk song.

A four-room fabricated house at $2,399 is on sale at a New York department store. "What floor for residences, landscape gardening and cinder paths, please?"

The old-fashioned American may have been remiss and dumb in many ways, but he never confused a new home with a chicken house.

BACK HOME STUFF

Frank Bergen, ex-Princeton quarterback, is now a court magistrate back home and making quite a record for homespun philosophy. The other day, replying to a woman's complaint that the smoke from a kerosene lamp made her apartment unhealthy, Frank came out as a defender of the lamp.

"What do you mean by that?" he demanded. "I grew up in the kerosene-lamp era, and never knew it to hurt anybody. Did you trim the wick? Do you realize that it takes a lot of work to keep a kerosene lamp in good condition, but that if you do it, it's fine?"

Which brings back memories of kerosene in our boyhood. There were some pretty beautiful ones. The parlor lamp was especially high, wide and fancy. And trimming the wicks was a nightly chore. Mom was forever polishing the globes. Looking back, they seem the loveliest lamps in the world. We were sent often to the corner store for kerosene, and it just comes back to us how Lutz, the grocer, used to stick a potato over the spout as a cork.

Elmer Twitchell says there hasn't been any real happiness in the world since the old-fashioned wooden beer keg went out.

A radio program which makes phone calls at random and offers cash prizes if the subscriber answers a question had this one the other day, "Under what king was Daniel tossed into the lion's den?" Elmer Twitchell lost the pot by replying, "This is a deep humiliation, but I can't even recall the name of the lion."

"Molotov uses the American term 'Okay' and knows it means yes in English."—News Item.

But does he know what means "yes" in Russian?

Asked if he didn't want to take a look at the recent total eclipse of the moon Fred Allen quipped, "No, I'll catch it next time."

New York showmen are amazed at the development, into a hit show of 1945, of "The Red Mill," a musical first produced in New York thirty-nine years ago. It was put on for a limited run of eight weeks, but has developed into a sell-out. Many are the explanations offered, but we think the score, which is almost a grade A catalog of Victor Herbert's best known song hits, is mainly responsible. Such melodies as "In Old New York," "Everyday Is Ladies' Day With Me" and "Because You're You" not only delight grandma, but mother, too, knew them, and even the kids and grandkids have felt their charm on the phonograph and radio.

WITHOUT HANDCUFFS . . . Irma Wright, Canada's premier typist, hand-capped herself with everything but manacles in a demonstration at Toronto. She wrote 126 errorless words per minute blindfolded, with gloves on and typing through a silk handkerchief over the keyboard. Without such impedimenta she hit 136 words per minute.

To you who answered the call of your country and served in its Armed Forces to bring about the total defeat of the enemy, I extend the heartfelt thanks of a grateful Nation. As one of the Nation's finest, you undertook the most severe task one can be called upon to perform. Because you demonstrated the fortitude, resourcefulness and calm judgment necessary to carry out that task, we now look to you for leadership and example in further exalting our country in peace.

Sheep Rid of Ticks By Improved New Dip

Rotenone Basis of Effective Treatment

Sheep ticks are widely distributed throughout the United States. Unlike the true tick, they do not stay attached to one place, but move about in the fleece, making a new puncture each time they feed.

An economical and effective dipping solution for ridding sheep of these ticks has been developed at the University of California. It consists of six ounces of derris powder containing 5 per cent rotenone to 100 gallons of water.

Enlarged male sheep tick. They are easy to kill by the new rotenone dip.

Considerable labor is saved as the solution is easy to prepare and one treatment is sufficient. The rotenone kills not only the adult tick but the eggs as well, and remains effective in the fleece for several weeks. The cost of the new dip should not exceed 20 cents per 100 gallons. Allowing for replacement of dip, the solution should not cost more than 1 1/2 cents for each animal.

Improved Machinery Silent Tractor

New silent type tractor which has recently been placed on the market.

A silent tractor, particularly good when the power takeoff is used around the poultry or dairy barns. There are 52 known uses for the power take-off, such as churning, separating, feed grinding, pumping and spraying.

The Bear Cat tractor, made by Ellinwood Industries, Los Angeles, is 80 per cent quieter than standard models, due to new improved type of muffler.

New Lamb Brooder

Most of the materials needed for this electric lamb brooder can be found about the yard or farm. A one-pound coffee can is suggested for the reflector. If available, instead of wood, celotex or plywood is ideal material for this type of brooder.

A 100-watt light bulb will prove satisfactory, with hardware cloth to cover reflector hole. Burlap, canvas or similar material may be used for curtain.

Result of Terracing

Farmers have had the value of terracing, along with other improved farming methods, brought home to them forcefully by the war and its requirements.

Better yields result when sloping lands are terraced to control erosion and conserve moisture, particularly when supplemented by the best cropping practices. The type of soil, degree of slope and amount of water to be handled determines the type of terrace best suited.

Loughlin and Mrs. Carl Babcock as the queen committee for the winter sports committee.

W. D. "Mike" Nunn, president of the East Tawas Chamber of Commerce named Charles L. Nash, Marie Nash and Margaret Smith as a committee to select an East Tawas queen.

In Tawas City, numerous individuals from various sections are being contacted for possible queen candidates. Already a large number of names have been compiled. From these a committee will make selections of the individual to represent the city. If you have a favorite in Tawas City, whom you would like considered as a candidate for Queen, a call at 245W prior to Tuesday, January 15 will permit inclusion of the name in the list to be considered by the committee. It is realized that competition for the queen title will be strong, but expect to be able to meet such competition.

Harold L. Gould, finance chairman reported total receipts to date as follows: $3,540.00, contributed as follows: East Tawas $1,898.00; Tawas City, $800.00; Isosco county $500.00; and miscellaneous and balance on hand $342.00. Cost of reconditioning the toboggan sleds was $1,010.00.

Gould also reported that number of individuals who did not contribute cash had offered to donate time at the area. If these persons will inform Gould or Chairman Barnes they will be informed when their services are needed.

Conservation Notes

King Solomon might have trouble trying to decide how to satisfy everybody in drafting Michigan's beaver trapping regulations for 1946.

The conservation commission has to decide between the advocates of open and closed seasons when it meets here January 10.

In other years, sportsmen's organizations often presented a solid front in opposition to trappers; this year sees sportsmen and trappers disagreeing among themselves. As examples, a Hancock sportsmen's organization voted in favor of a closed season, a Houghton club on the opposite side of the river wants an open season. Trappers in the district appear to be about evenly divided.

Agitation stems from the record take last spring when trappers in both peninsulas snared 15,383 beaver, double the number taken in any previous season. Even the trappers, themselves, feared that the record take might almost wiped out the beaver populations on both sides of the Straits. However, trapper observations and close inspections made by department game men show that beaver are present in most of their usual haunts.

It may be that the commission will decide that shortened seasons are reduced take, or both, are indicated or that certain areas should be closed to trapping next spring.

Trappers were permitted to take six beaver and two otter in the 15 day season last spring.
