Fire Damages Recreation Bldg.

Second Large Fire in Past Week

One of Best Bowling Alleys in N. E. M.

Last Sunday morning the Tawas City Recreation Building and equipment was badly damaged by fire. This was the second large fire in the city within a week, the first being the totally destroyed Barkman Building.

The Tawas City Recreation Building, owned and operated by Charles Moeller, is one of Tawas City's best and newest business blocks. Constructed in 1939, it is equipped with six fine bowling alleys and everything necessary to make it an up to date recreation hall. While the place was not totally destroyed, the damage to the building and equipment runs up into several thousands of dollars.

Discovered by the Moellers, the alarm was given at about 5:30 in the morning. Being close to the fire department, water was quickly turned on the flames. Starting at the rear, the fire rapidly worked its way under the roof toward the front of the building. Among those first on the scene with the fire fighting equipment were George Myles and W. C. Roach.

Nearly neighbors failed to hear the alarm and were surprised when they arose later in the morning to learn of the fire. Tawas City has purchased a powerful new fire siren to replace the old one which has been in operation for the past 25 years. The new one will be installed within a short time.

Lose to Sterling; Win from Whittemore

Au Gres Plays Elks Here Tonight

After shellacking Whittemore Friday night 55 to 7, the Elks lost a 47 to 46 thriller to the Sterling Hawks on Sterling's planks, Tuesday evening. The Elks were turned back after knocking a 35 to 35 count in the third quarter and came within one point of tying them with two foul shots after the final bell rang. Both teams dropped through some one handers which really twisted the nets. In Friday night's game the Whittemore quintet couldn't seem to get their sights adjusted to the baskets, but played a very good game taking into consideration that they have no gym to practice in. The winning of Friday nights game chalked up the ninth win and third loss. For the Elks Montgomery led the Elks in the Whittemore game by meshing 12 points, while Landon led in the Sterling game by sinking 15 baskets. The Elks committed only six fouls against Sterling but they missed 9 out of 19 charity flips which they were awarded. Couzens led the Hawks with 14 points.

The Sterling Reserves warped the Tawas reserves 40 to 13 in a fracas which saw the Sterling aggregation pull away from the Tawas City Reserves in the first quarter and kept piling on the points. Grack, Brown and Gallicker each accounted for Tawas City while Kocat rang up nineteen points for Sterling.

The Girls team took a 23 to 14 count over the Sterling girls, the only Tawas City team to win from Sterling the whole evening. Sparking Tawas City was Ogden with nine points and Musolf and Erickson with seven apiece.

The Reserve squad turned back the Whittemore reserves 12 to 8 in a fracas which saw both teams tied at the half and Whittemore surging ahead in the third quarter only to have Tawas City stage a come back in the last stanza. Don Wescott hit the hoops with nine markers. Chipps led the Whittemore team with 4 points.

The Girls team lost to Whittemore who made quite a scrap of things, by (Cont. No. 1, Back Page)

AN INNER SANCTUM MYSTERY
STARRING ARAB AND ANDY BLAKE WHO FEATURES

CHAPTER I

"Sure," I said, "I'm glad to see you. The way a guy's glad to see his right arm when he wakes up in the morning. The way he's glad there's enough air to breathe. The way . . . look, I can't say these things properly."

"You could try. You could start courting me all over again. You only spent about two weeks at it last spring, Andy, and I always felt a little cheated."

"Cheated?" I said. "How about me on our honeymoon? You got us in a shooting scrape so fast we almost used the wedding flowers for a joint funeral."

"You needed to be stirred up, Andy. You were turning into a vegetable. You were in a rut."

"Vegetables are in furrows."

"And I'm afraid," she said, looking at me seriously, "you're in one now. You've been here two months. You're still a first lieutenant. No citations. No ribbons. Not even a badge for pistol marksmanship."

I growled, "The way I handle guns I'll get a pistol badge and a military funeral at the same time."

"You're getting fat, Andy. I bet your joints are starting to creak."

"Oh, Andy, it's been so long—"

"In other words, meet Lieutenant Blake of the Chair-Borne Infantry. No hero. Just a guy doing a job that calls for a uniform. I know all that. What am I supposed to do about it?"

"I don't know yet, darling. But I'm going to find out. Ummm, how is the war getting on?"

"All right, I guess."

"She said softly, 'This is October, 1942. The Japs may take back Guadalcanal. The Germans have half of Stalingrad. The war's getting on all right, he guesses.'"

"Where did you sign up?" I asked grimly.

"Well, Andy, it was this way. I just happened to—"

"Where did you sign up?"

"All right. With Ordinance."

"Oh, Lord," I said. "Shotguns were bad enough around the house. Now it'll be bazookas."

"I'm awfully sorry," Arab said, "but I'd pay tuition to work for Ordinance."

The chief's fist hit the desk like an antipersonnel bomb. "It's an outrage," he said. "I won't stand for it! How do they expect us to operate? Either they get me another girl of I put in for a transfer. Four officers and one secretary, and we can't get half the work out. I'd trade any two officers for a good typist. Throw myself in too. Ordinance! Guns!" He took a deep breath, then growled, "Got a place to live?"

"N-not yet."

"What's Blake thinking of, letting you come to Washington before he gets a place for you? You'd better start looking. Good-by, Mrs. Blake. Clear out, Blake. Help her get settled."

I said, "Sir, I was going to stay tonight and finish up the report for tomorrow on my theater."

"Major Ingliss can do it. His theater's quiet."

"I can't take Andy away from the war," Arab protested.

"Young lady," the colonel said, "finding a place to live in Washington is twice as tough as winning this war. And," he added gloomily, "it may take twice as long."

I grabbed my service cap and we sneaked out of the office, while behind us Colonel Parker was starting to complain that he personally would throttle the next man who showed him a secretary he couldn't have.

We went to O'Donnell's for dinner and had Shrimp Norfolk and that cheered me up even more. Then we tackled the problem of finding Arab a place to sleep. She had come down with only a suitcase, which she had checked at Union Station, and she hadn't made an attempt to wire ahead for a room. Probably it wouldn't have mattered; you have to be entered for a Washington hotel room almost at birth, like getting into Groton or St. Paul's. I was rooming with a family out near Falls Church, in Virginia; they might put Arab up for the night in an emergency, but it would be better to get her a place of her own.

We checked the newspapers and made a few phone calls and located a couple of possibilities way out in Chevy Chase. That made us feel very gay and carefree, and we boarded an L-5 bus for the Circle and I had no suspicion that it was the last carefree moment I'd have for a long time.

Riding a Washington bus in any of the rush hours is like holding a wrestling match in a revolving door. You don't even dare let out your breath all the way because then they'll get somebody else in the bus and you have to give up inhaling until somebody gets off.

The bus had traveled only a few blocks when Arab gripped my hand and whispered, "Did you hear what that man said? The one behind me?"

"No. What?"

"Something about shipping locomotives to England. I think he mentioned twenty."

"That's not so good," I muttered. "People talk too much."

We listened a moment, and a girl's voice cut across the babble, saying, ". . . and he always used to write three times a week so when Jane told me that, I said, Jane, if you haven't had a letter in two weeks those parachute boys have moved out and his next letter will have an APO number on . . ."

Arab whispered, "Are they crazy? Don't they even know how to read?" She pointed up. Right in front of the man talking about locomotives was a car ad reading: NEVER DISCUSS MILITARY OR NAVAL INFORMATION IN A PUBLIC VEHICLE. Arab went on, "Is there much of this kind of loose talk?"

"Yeah, I suppose so," I said. "Something ought to be done about it."

"It ought to . . . and it's going to be, right now!"

"Now listen, Arab," I said uneasily, "you've got to take things easier. A lot of people are working on this business of loose talk."

"Add maybe a week, and—"

"Dabbs. Joe I can help them! I'm going through this bus and listen to what people are saying and make notes. And I'm going to write letters to newspapers and do a report for everybody high up I can think of and make speeches and everything."

I tried to calm her, without success. She dug out a pocket notebook and a stubby pencil and scrawled a few lines of symbols. It was my introduction to the Arabella Blake shorthand system: a method which combined the worst features of Pitman, Gregg, and the way Arab marks checkbook stubs.

"You stay here," she said. "I'm going to work my way up to the front of the bus."

She wriggled two feet up the aisle and paused. She swayed there, looking like a dreamy schoolgirl. If I hadn't been watching for it, I'd never have seen her make a few quick notes. You wouldn't have thought she was interested in anything more important than the relative merits of chocolate nut sundaes and malts with ice-cream floats. In a few minutes she had edged her way up the aisle out of my sight.

Gradually I began to realize that something was wrong. I couldn't figure what. The big Capital Transit bus was still rocketing up Connecticut Avenue through its bright tunnel of raindrops. Voices still chattered . . . but there was a difference. The passengers didn't seem the same. It was almost as if I had been transferred, while I drowsed, to a bus filled with utter strangers. The impression was so strong that I looked carefully at nearby faces. They hadn't changed.

Here in the middle of Washington, in a brightly lit bus filled with middle-aged civil-service workers and government girls and housewives and businessmen, a witch hunt was assembling. Sixty normal people were being slowly fused into a mob. A mob with one idea. Shreds of talk whipped by my ears like leaves in a gale.

"It was a girl . . ."

". . . while I was talking about Jane she . . ."

". . . standing right by me and listening . . ."

". . . a girl in a white raincoat . . ."

". . . listening to every word I said."

"I was telling you about that British carrier and she had a notebook and . . ."

"I peeked down and she was writing in some kind of code."

". . . a girl in a white . . ."

"She's up in the front of the bus now . . ."

". . . listening to every word I said . . ."

NOT only has the dress with a contrast top held high fashion rank right through the fall and winter, but it now registers as a major theme on the new spring style program.

The idea of a two-piece costume that tops a skirt with a contrast blouse or bodice offers endless possibilities in way of versatile interpretation. It is ever so practical too in that it is easier to get a few yards of this material or that, in these days of limited yardage distribution, than it is to buy a whole dress length in a single fabric. Then too, there's a thrift in the dress made up of a skirt with interchangeable tops.

The field of the contrast top is of such wide scope it enters into every phase of fashion from formal gowns, dressy afternoons types, simple daytime dresses to play clothes, and this year in early showings the suit that tops a dark or light skirt with a bright jacket is displayed as a fashion-first for spring. If you like something different in way of a suit, choose a smart model that tops a black or navy skirt with a jacket tailored in soft pink or ice-blue wool.

The suit that teams a dark brown skirt with a jacket in a vivid copper-colored wool would be a perfect selection for spring.

The contrast idea is most happily carried out in the costumes pictured. The striped-top rayon dress centered in the illustration is ever so wearable and good looking for daytime occasions. Black with charcoal-taupe is the color combination. The whole effect is co-ordinated with the use of black front facings, cuffs and belt. Girls who can sew are enthusiastic over the dressy blouses they make of crisp taffeta in bright or pastel plaids and stripes. These have a ruffle pelum with the ruffle repeated in the sleeves.

To the left is a one-piece dress-up version of the college girl's sweater and skirt that gives the impression of a two-piece. The sweater top of rayon-and-wool boucine on a lovely pastel is joined to the black rayon skirt with a wide belt effect that sparkles with nailheads. A choice color range is offered in this dress such as ice blue or soft blush pink. It comes in a tea-rose and turquoise also, with black skirt or in two shades of fuchsia with black. In buying pretty dresses like these, or the materials to make them, it is well to cultivate the habit of checking up informative labels for facts about color-fastness, shrinkage and dependable wearing qualities. You will find lasting satisfaction in fabrics that are guaranteed.

Clever fingers can easily fashion a wool remnant in color or in black into a smart wrist-length jumper-style jacket such as the model shown to the right. Designed to be worn over a dark sweater or blouse, this jumper-jacket which is a new-this-season item, will prove a friend indeed when there is chill in the air on a cool spring day. Sleek shoulder seams supplemented with inverted welt pockets effect a smart fit. For the sole tone three "licorice twist" buttons are used, giving a finished professional look to the jacket. Note that this lady studs the same buttons on her bracelet handbag as a closing detail that conceals the hook and eye. These handsome button originals also come in gold or silver. They make elegant earrings, and three sewed across a black velvet ribbon choker complete a most flattering jewelry-like ensemble.

Color contrast is seen all through the new print dresses and suits. Black band and border trimmings on color-bright prints are played up in endless way in the new showings. Destined to be one of the big success fashions for spring and summer is the perfectly charming two-piece (it also comes in one-piece versions) dress has a black jersey or crepe bodice-like top, the skirt being styled dirndl fashion of a gorgeous print.

Bejeweled Black

Your returning hero will like the way you look in this quality-kind black rayon crepe dress, sparkling with jeweled accents. There is something about romantic black that always creates an aura of elegance and charm. Note the nicely fitted sleeves and the modishly draped skirt. A dress of this type is the mainstay of one's wardrobe the entire year round. The distinguishing quality of this good-looking black dress that goes everywhere with aplomb is that it maintains the slim figure-flattering silhouette.

Pleats, Flares, Bows Give Accent to Hips

Hips are in fashion! We will have to reorganize our former ideas about slenderizing hips, for definitely a new angle in this season's silhouette is the accenting of hips. This is done in ingenious and varied ways. Dresses are coming in with fullness at each side achieved with pleats, flares, shirrings, inset panels with pleats in tiers, and so on. Then too, designers are doing clever things with pockets, bows, tunics and even panniers are seen on afternoon dresses and evening formals. Sometimes a little crinoline is used to accent hips. However, in most instances the fullness and pleats are introduced so skillfully as to preserve a slender look. In the smart form-fitting princess gowns a single huge bow at one hip gives a smart look. It is obvious that hips are inevitable with the smaller waistlines, and the new silhouettes are charmingly picturesque.

Designers' Skill Focuses On Sleeves in Spring Wear

Virtually every model in the new spring collection dramatizes the sleeves of suits, jackets, dresses and coats. All the skill, imagination, whimsy, tricks of cut and fine seaming, buttons, beads, sequins, embroidery, tucks, ruffles, color slashes and insets, goes into the sleeves. What is left makes the slimmest of skirts and the snuggest of bodices and jackets, thus focusing attention on the sleeves.

Some are shining with buttons that hold decorative flaps, others have caps of plain material over the shoulder to accent the long beaded and embroidered sleeves.

Maid Had Toothsome Bit Of Information for Mistress

THE mistress had given the nursery-maid notice to leave. "So I'm a flirt, am I?" said the nurse indignantly.

"You are — and more," answered the mistress.

"Well, replied the girl, 'I just think you are jealous because I am better looking than you are—your husband told me so! And what's more, I can kiss better than you. Like to know who told me that?'"

"Don't you dare suggest that it was my husband!" stormed the mistress.

"I'm not suggesting anything," laughed the maid. "But if you must know, it was your dentist!"

Mix This Cough Syrup at Home. Quick Relief

Easy Mixed. Needs No Cooking. Here's an old home mixture your parents probably used. But, once tried, you'll always use it, because it gives such quick, pleasing relief for coughs due to colds.

And it's so easily mixed. Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking is needed. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, if desired.

Now put 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex (obtained from any druggist) into a pint bottle, and fill up with your syrup. This makes a full pint of truly splendid cough medicine, and gives you about four times as much for your money. It keeps perfectly, tastes fine, and lasts a long time.

You can feel this simple home mixture take right hold of a cough. It loosens the phlegm, soothes irritation, and helps clear the air passages. Eases the soreness, makes breathing easier, and lets you get restful sleep.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for its quick action on throat and bronchial irritations. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.—Adv.

DOANS PILLS

IF YOU look over the list of all the leading ball players for the last 30 years, including baseball's hall of fame at Cooperstown, you'll find that over 90 per cent of them came from cities and towns under 10,000.

Cobb, Speaker, Jackson, Mathewson, Alexander, Cy Young, Johnson, Grove, Sisler, Eddie Collins, Hornsby, Foxx, LaJoie, Home Run Baker, Wagner, Bob Feller, the Cooper brothers, Keller, Dickey, the DiMaggios, Hartnett, the Deans, Carl Hubbell, and so on came to their fame from isolated and unknown spots on the map. Such instances run into the hundreds. New York's main contributions have been Gehrig, Greenberg and Frish. Chicago has turned out a few stars, including Phil Cavaretta. Baltimore gave the game Babe Ruth. But New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston and other crowded cities in proportion have lagged far behind.

Mort Cooper

In towns running from 1,000 to 10,000 population there is always room for a ball field. In these "Sweet Auburns, loveliest villages of the plains," there is space in which kids can hit, run, throw and slide. They can play the game up to the hilt. But in a city such as New York, you can see thousands trying to play on crowded streets as cars come through to drive them back to the sidewalks. Ever try to slide over cobblestones while eluding a fast-moving automobile?

Baseball's hall of fame, now and in years to come, would be extremely thin if it had to look to the crowded, thoughtless larger cities for its talent. If there isn't enough within these cities, there is always space enough outside - and there are still busses running and there will soon be motor cars available.

Complaining about juvenile delinquency, youthful crime, is a waste of time. The responsibility belongs to older people who through sport and the full support of so many hard working organizations can change the entire picture in a few years.

Athletes and Condition

What group of athletes keep in better physical condition-or worst professional sport is concerned? At a recent gabbing session we ran into a number of coaches, assistant coaches, trainers and assistant trainers who know their way around, who have been in charge of various sports for many years. It was their belief that professional football players and professional tournament golfers on the average were in better physical condition than any other group, and that professional baseball players trailed the list.

This statement will bring a loud and lusty squawk from many ball players, but it happens to carry more than a mere shade of truth. Anyway, the coaches and trainers who felt this way about it should know what they are talking about. "This, of course, doesn't include all ball players," one trainer said. "But it includes too many of them. Most of them couldn't do half the job a pro football player has to face. Watch most of them hit a triple and you'll find them puffing at third base and that's less than 100 yards. They don't turn in enough road work to build up their legs. A pro baseball player should last far longer than a pro football player, considering the punishment the footballer has to take, but few of them do. Last season the New York Giants had Mel Hein, Herber and Ken Strong, each with nearly 20 years of football behind him. There have been many others such as Hutson with 10 or 12 years already cashed in.

"For example, I see where Detroit's Tigers this season have 43 exhibition games. This means a total of 197 contests from March to October, a long march that demands the best sort of physical shape. Many of them will be ready for this endurance test. But quite a lot won't be, unless they make a far harder effort to get in shape and keep in shape than so many have made in the past. Those fellows heading south early are the smart ones. This will be the toughest season any of them will have to tackle."

Upon motion by McCuaig, supported by Bellville the report of the Welfare Board was unanimously accepted and adopted.
At this time Mr. Arthur Dillon of East Tawas presented a resolution to the Board as passed by the American Legion of East Tawas which had reference to the employment of Veterans of World War II and requested that it be adopted by the Board. Prior action had already been taken by the Board with regard to the employment of veterans of World War II in their pre-war jobs and for that reason no action was taken.
Mr. Carl Swenson addressed the Board regarding the passing of an ordinance by the Board of Supervisors making it an offense for minors to misrepresent their age when purchasing liquor. The matter was referred to the Judiciary Committee.
Upon motion, supported and prevailing the Board recessed until 1:30 same day.

Afternoon Session
The Board was called to order at 1:30 P. M. by the Chairman, who ordered Roll Call. Present: Supervisors Benson, Brayman, Burgess, Bellville, McCuaig, Webb, Black, Schneider, Schmalz, Rodman, Klenow, Look, Hickey, Luce, Fitzhugh, Brabant. Quorum Present.
County Agricultural Agent Finley presented a report of his office activities for the year and the report was filed with the County Clerk.
Supervisor Fitzhugh read the following report of Committee on Claims and Accounts Number One:
State of Michigan
The Board of Supervisors for the County of Iosco
To the Honorable Board of Supervisors:
Your committee on Claims and Accounts Number One respectfully submit the following as their report:

unanimously accepted and adopted upon roll call.
The Committees were ordered to their respective duties by the Chairman, the balance of the Board to be at ease subject to the call of the chair. Upon call to order at 4:25 P. M. Supervisor Bellville read the following report of the County Farm Committee:
Tawas City, Mich., Jan 18, 1946
(To the Honorable Board of Supervisors:
Gentlemen:
We, the members of the County Farm Committee, who met at the County Farm Dec. 17, 1945 for the purpose of taking inventory and looking over conditions at the farm beg leave to report as follows:
We found the farm machinery in a very good state of repair. Buildings are well looked after and in good shape except the farm house which is in need of heating installation as it is hard to maintain a uniform heat. The chicken coop is in very bad condition.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

MUNITIONS TO JAPAN

WASHINGTON.—The Pearl Harbor investigating committee has now spent nearly three months digging into military - naval - political reasons why we were caught asleep on December 7, 1941. While this is important, all the facts show that Japan would have attacked anyway; if not at Pearl Harbor, at some other place, and if not on December 7, at some other time.

Meanwhile, we have seized various documents from the Japs, showing that this war was carefully built up over a period of years and that certain American munitions makers were either unsuspecting or deliberate Jap co-partners.

If we are to prevent war in the future—and that presumably is one motive of the Pearl Harbor committee—the manner in which American business aided the Japs to prepare for Pearl Harbor is important. We must build up machinery so this doesn't happen again.

MUNITIONS LOBBIES

One thing the Pearl Harbor committee might well investigate is the way lobbies developed in Washington to put pressure on the government to sell war goods to Japan. These lobbies, representing oil, gasoline, scrap iron, airplanes, machine tools, made a lot of headway with the army and navy, sometimes with the state department.

One man they never affected was Harold Ickes. As secretary of the interior he controls the export of helium gas, and at exactly the same month the above report was written, the Germans were trying to buy helium from the U. S. A. for their zeppelins.

The army, the navy and Secretary of State Hull gave their okay. But Ickes said no—unless American inspectors were stationed in Germany to see how the helium was used. Finally the question came up in cabinet meeting. Secretary Hull gave a long speech telling why it was perfectly safe to sell helium to Germany without inspection. As the vote went round the table, every cabinet member voted against Ickes.

But Ickes still said no. Under the law, the secretary of the interior has absolute control over the export of helium. No one can overrule him. So finally FDR turned to Ickes and said:

"Well, Harold, you're the boss. You win."

VETERANS' PROBLEMS

Lt. Col. R. P. Bronson, chief of the contact and service branch of the Veterans' administration, blinked when he was handed a telegram from a distressed veteran the other day. It read:

"Assistance needed stop brother murdered here December 26 stop reply by wire."

Colonel Bronson instructed an aide to phone the veteran's home city and see that he was given immediate help. Then he continued to leaf through the daily file of pleas that come to his desk.

"It's all in a day's work," he said. "But I'll admit that one had me stumped for a while."

Wide and varied are the SOS appeals the Veterans' administration receives from men wearing the discharge insignia. They range from vets wanting to get traffic tickets "fixed" to those who want to adopt children, purchase new automobiles or get liquor licenses.

"We're the 'Little Mother' agency of the government," said the colonel, a two-fisted overseas veteran with a sense of humor and four battle stars on his campaign ribbons. "We do our best, but of course we can't please everybody. It would make it a lot easier on us if some of our correspondents realized that their off-the-track problems hinder the handling of thousands of legitimate requests from men seeking benefits under the G. I. Bill of Rights and so on. When they ask us to find them wives, that sort of stumps us."

The love interest is uppermost in unusual V. A. mail. However, a Maryland vet recently wanted help in getting his water main connected.

A West Virginian posed the following $64 question: "Do you know of or can you find out about some government agency which can assist me in finding a wife? I am a veteran of two years and nine months service—age 39—and so far, for some unknown reason, I am unsuccessful in finding a bride. Hope to receive a favorable reply very soon."

CAPITAL CHAFF

Members of congress were not pleased by General Eisenhower's quick departure from the Library of Congress auditorium after he addressed them on demobilization. Admiral Nimitz had aides on hand to answer questions after he spoke, but Eisenhower ducked out right after reading his speech, leaving no one from the army to answer questions. . . Al Marano, secretary to Congressman Clare Boothe Luce of Connecticut, has a new daughter. Her name—Clare.

SIGNPOSTS OF THE AIRWAYS

By EDWARD EMERINE
WNU Features

THERE'S a sign on the railroad station which states: "Airvil, Elevation 1,684 feet." There are markers on all the roads leading into town which proclaim: "Airvil, Population 4,089." But where are the markers that will tell the airplane pilot what town he is flying over?

That's a 64-dollar question these days, with thousands of private planes, many of them in the "puddle-jumper" class, flying over your town and mine on every day of the week. There may never be as many Sunday fliers as there are Sunday drivers, but in the short time since V-J Day a marked increase in private flying is evident.

Thousands of army planes are being released to the public. Ex-army and navy men, who got the flying bug while in the service, are grabbing them. Department stores now display the "cub" type plane in their show windows. Every community has its agitation for a new airport, a larger landing field, more adequate hangars and other aids to those who own private planes.

But don't forget the markers! They are just as important as the landing field, and should be erected whether or not you have an airport or landing strip near your town. In fact, the first thing to do is to show the fliers that your town is courteous to air travelers and that calls for air markers.

If an air-marked town puts a jittery pilot back on his course, he will remember that town for a long time. Railroads and highways are always the old reliable guides, but they have a tendency to wander off in the wrong direction when they are most needed. Rivers and streams are seldom straight, and the map can tell the pilot only how large the river should be, not how to see it when it is almost invisible because of surrounding woodland.

Of immeasurable value to the day pilot, then, is the air marker. With it the ground location can be identified on the flight map or chart. A standard air marker, developed by the Civil Aeronautics administration after years of study and advice from pilots, consists of three main parts:

1. The name of the place marked.
2. The direction of magnetic north.
3. The distance and direction of the nearest airport.

A fourth part, to make positive and universal the identification of the place marked, the latitude and longitude in degrees and minutes is included. Thus towns with identical names in adjacent states cannot confuse the pilot. All over the world, pilots are familiar with the latitude and longitude co-ordinate method of designating position.

Roofs Best Place.

The best place for an air marker is on the roof of a big building at the edge of your town. In sections where heavy snow falls the sides of large and isolated buildings, like the grain elevators of the milling towns of the north, make good locations. When markers are placed on sides of buildings, letters and figures should not be less than 10 feet in height.

The side of a mountain with the marker laid out in crushed stone, the intersection of two main highways on which the information is painted in traffic-resisting paint, or the lawn of an institution with the letters formed of shrubbery, are also good. In the desert areas the CAA suggests cutout letters made of enameled metal and mounted on short stakes to prevent blowing sand from obscuring them.

The average American pilot, not trained in instrument flying, might be able to follow a familiar highway in going across country, but it would not be like flying a straight line which should mark the perfect airplane flight. Or he might learn pilotage through study and practice. But if he has below him enough markers on the roofs and highways, he can lay out his course on the map and follow it like a veteran.

That is why the CAA keeps an air-marking specialist in the field all the time, encouraging all sorts of organizations to put the name of their town on a roof, or on a nearby road intersection, mountainside or big lawn.

Alabama, Nebraska and Tennessee are already installing air markers, according to Blanche Noyes, CAA's air-marking specialist, and each has a current program calling for about 300 of them. Ohio is working on a plan for 4,300 for the entire state.

In Missouri, the state department of resources and development, working with civic clubs, is starting toward a goal of 250 markers. In Wisconsin, the Women's National Aeronautics association of Beloit is backing air markers for the state.

Lots More Needed.

The American Legion post of Belmont, N. C., and the Carolina Aero club are working on a state-wide program for North Carolina. The state aviation commissions of Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, South Carolina, Minnesota and other states are co-operating with civic clubs in this work. The civil air patrol and the chambers and junior chambers of commerce of Texas are planning to install 500 air markers.

But the need for air markers is nation-wide. If there are only a few widely scattered markers throughout the nation, it is apparent that the purpose and full use of them cannot be achieved. It's a job for every community in every state.

The American people are taking to the air. They are flying in their own planes. And they need sign posts to guide them. Air markers are the answer.

Markers Can Be Painted On Roofs or Highways, Or Laid Out in Gravel

Air markers should be as simple as possible, says the Civil Aeronautics administration. The letters should be of sufficient size to be legible under good visibility conditions from a height of at least 3,000 feet.

Each marker should carry the latitude and longitude in degrees and minutes, the latitude and longitude to be separated by the meridian or north marker. If space permits, an arrow enclosing the name of the nearest hard surface airport, with the number of miles at the head of the arrow, should be included.

The following information is based on a study and tests made by the CAA over a period of years, and may be followed in most instances:

Painted Roof Town Marker.

Flat roofs preferred. If gable roofs are used each side should have the complete marker. A combination of chrome yellow or any good grade of yellow highway paint may be used. The border or background should be dead black. A size of 10 to 20 feet for letters, numerals and characters is recommended.

Air Markers on Ground.

Construction with crushed stone or gravel is recommended for ground markers. The stone or gravel is best when bound by a cement and gravel mixture. Markers should be placed in open spaces away from trees or other obstructions. Public parks or other grounds are often used. Cleared hills or mountainsides also make desirable locations. The minimum letter height should be 20 to 50 feet. The letters and characters should be white.

Air Markers on Highways.

In painting air markers on highways, care should be taken that they are located along open stretches of road away from overhanging trees, tall buildings and other obstructions.

Landscape Markers.

These markers should lend themselves nicely to school yards, airports, pastures, open parks, in traffic circles, and scores of other places. The marker should be at least 20 feet in height.

Airport Marking.

Airport ground markers can be made of either concrete or compact, crushed rock or shell. Markers should be flush with the grade of the field. The marker should be kept white at all times, clean and free from weeds. Markers should be in the center of sod fields or at intersections of landing strips.

Woman Is Head Of Air Marker Branch of CAA

By WALTER A. SHEAD
WNU Washington Correspondent.

A comely widow, hair graying at the temples, her blue eyes twinkling, and two big dimples appearing and disappearing with fascinating regularity as she talks animatedly, is boss of the air marking section of the engineering division of the Civil Aeronautics administration of the department of commerce.

She is Blanche Noyes, aviatrix, air marking specialist, airplane designer, friend and confidante of the late Amelia Earhart, and for the past nine years an executive with the CAA.

Her husband, the late Dewey Noyes, who taught her to fly, was a mail pilot, co-designer of the Beachcraft twin-engine plane, test and demonstration pilot for Standard Oil of Ohio, Great Lakes Aircraft corporation, Curtis - Wright and for Ethyl Gasoline corporation. He was killed in a plane crash in 1935.

"I became interested in aviation when I met a pink-haired gentleman at a dinner party and he invited me to take an airplane ride with him. A year later I married him. He wanted to convince me and everyone that aviation was so safe that even a woman could fly," she said.

Began in 1936.

Mrs. Noyes has more than 11,000 air-hours to her credit and flies her own and CAA planes all over the country in the course of her duties as head of the air marking section of CAA. She came with CAA in 1936 when it was the bureau of air commerce and has played a leading role ever since in making the airways safe for commercial and private fliers throughout the country.

She still holds the record, at least for a woman, for her flight, east to west, New York to Los Angeles in 14 hours, 49 minutes and 54 seconds in a stock model Beachcraft plane.

She is now conducting a nationwide CAA campaign backed by Aircraft Industries association, seeking to induce every town in the country to erect adequate and approved air markers as aids to air navigation, for probably the chief hazard concerned in contact flying is the danger of becoming lost. Obviously this hazard is lessened, if not eliminated, when the flyer can ascertain his whereabouts and orient himself merely by looking down and reading a sign as he passes over a town or city.

Mrs. Noyes has set up standard markers which are simple and inexpensive to erect, to serve efficiently the thousands of flyers expected to take the air in the immediate postwar years. Few of these flyers are navigators, hence the necessity of adequate air markers.

Puts Town on Air Map.

"These markers are more important than we can ever realize," Mrs. Noyes says, "because they are not only a help to the flyer but a safety to those on the ground."

"Newspapers can do more to help the air marker program than any other one industry, for it is only by making the public aware of the importance of air marking that we can be successful in this campaign," she said.

Towns which erect the markers are immediately placed on the CAA air map and geodetic survey and it means a real advertisement for the town.

During the war Mrs. Noyes worked with the army to construct markers within a 50-mile radius of all airplane training centers. She is a native of Cleveland, and believe it or not, her hobby is antiques.

DOING OVER THE WHITE HOUSE

The White House is to be remodeled and enlarged at a cost of a million and a half dollars. Not even the Republicans thought a place could run down under Democratic tenants to that extent.

One item in the program is cited as "entire new floors in the President's personal quarters, as the old ones are loose and worn." That gives you some idea how Mr. Truman has been pacing up and down the rooms lately.

An entirely new heating system is to be installed too, it is announced. We had an idea that the White House was hot enough for anybody just now.

Maybe they mean "cooling" system.

The grounds are to be done over, too. We understand there will be a series of fountains and pools through which a President can wade with his shoes on when the problems are especially hot.

There is also a rumor that Mr. Truman wants a chicken run, a well and an old-fashioned hammock on the grounds to give him something of the rural flavor he loves so well. (Opponents of the plan insist that whatever Mr. Truman needs it is decidedly not a hammock.)

Mrs. Truman is going to get new rugs, carpets, drapes and curtains, and you know what that will mean to a woman.

Boy, will Mrs. Roosevelt be sore! She was there 12 years without getting what Mrs. Truman is getting in a few months.

Also a large room artificially dampened and equipped with rattan chairs, old fishing tackle and foghorns so that the President may get all the atmosphere of being on his yacht without actually being so.

(Note to Mrs. Truman: Whatever they do to the shebang, you be sure you get the kitchen the way you want it first.)

THE 1946 AUTOMOBILE

Oh, fetch the motor ads to me
And let me read, my pet,
Of all the beauties of the car
I know I cannot get;
I want to know the shape and form
And sense the charms untold
Held by that lovely motor car—
Which is NOT being sold!

What is the radiator style?
Full facts I must possess
About the car nobody has
(And no one gets, I guess);
What of the headlights and the hubs?
Oh, I would be afraid
To choose, without more facts, a bus
That isn't being made.

And what of the upholstery?
I hate to fret about
My comforts in a limousine
Nobody's turning out;
Those little gadgets all around,
So novel and so quaint—
How are these little gee-gaws in
"The motorcar that ain't!"

Peace, It's Wonderful

Bill Hadden, attorney general of Connecticut, conferred with Dr. Stoyan Gavrillovitch, chairman of the UNO site committee, to sing the praises of Nutmeg State locations the other day. We hope Bill suggested the appeal of Amity Road, Woodbridge, and, perhaps, the old site of Harmony Lodge back home.

And, in view of the way UNO is dodging so many issues, how about Duck Island, just off Clinton?

Personally we nominate as a permanent site the Pease House, Saybrook Point.

A passenger plane made the trip to Bermuda in 2 hours and 22 minutes the other day. Remember away back when you went there because you could do it so leisurely and unhurried?

THE REVOLT

Hog Influenza May Cause Serious Loss

Prevention Should Be Practiced in Hog Lot

Earthworms, usually found in large numbers around old straw stacks, often contain the lungworm which in turn is the carrier of hog influenza. With the arrival of cold damp weather, swine raisers can look for cases of hog flu.

Proper housing including draft-free ventilation and adequate bedding are necessary if hog flu is to be controlled or prevented. They should be kept from undue exposure. Hogs need dry, warm quarters free from drafts.

A healthy, well-housed and fed hog will not be in danger of contracting flu.

As the disease is contagious, any sick animals should be separated if part of the drove comes down with the flu. Special care and nursing should be given to the brood sows.

By proper housing, feeding and management, little trouble should be met with in the prevention of flu. It is taken for granted that the hog drove has been bred for constitutional vigor. A strong hog well managed will never prove a disease problem.

Chemical Effective As Weed Eradicator

The chemical 2, 4-D (chemically dichlorophenoxyacetic), has proven effective in killing dandelions, plantains, and many other weeds with little difficulty or expense by spraying.

Detail work is being conducted at Mississippi state agricultural experiment station by Prof. O. A. Leonard and F. H. Herzer. Progress report indicates that the chemical acts as a plant hormone. When used in high concentrations, the plant dies under proper conditions.

Left, untreated bitterweed; right, bitterweed treated with 2, 4-D. This method of treatment has proven valuable in many ways.

The USDA reports that a solution of 2, 4-D containing as little as 1 1/2 ounces of the chemical in 10 gallons of water will be deadly to many species of broad-leaved plants including dandelion, plantain, pennywort, Japanese honeysuckle, annual morning-glory, daisy, chickweed, winter cress, ragweed, pigweed, burdock, wild mustard and annual sow thistle.

DDT in Paint

By W. J. DRYDEN

A wall paint blended with DDT under a new process has proved an effective "insect control" as long as 16 months after a single application. This paint, "Superior 365," contains 200 milligrams of DDT for each square foot of painted surface and has proven effective against 132 varieties of insects.

Tests have shown that seven seconds contact, on DDT paint, for flies first paralyzes and then kills the insects in 30 minutes. The paint is harmless to humans, and is especially effective in milk houses as well as other farm buildings.

Superphosphate Needed

Five to six tons of animal manure reinforced with one-half bag of superphosphate per ton of manure produces as much increase in yield as does 10 to 12 tons per acre without the superphosphate.

The superphosphate can be scattered over the top of the load of manure before it goes to the field. Or it can be applied in the barn or sheds. When used in barns or sheds, it helps to keep down odors as well as reduce nitrogen loss.

World's Longest Range Jet Plane Delivered to Army Air Forces

A new army jet plane has been developed that has demonstrated a speed in excess of 500 miles an hour. The twin-engine, experimental fighter, known as the XP-53, is the longest-range jet-propelled airplane in the world.

The XP-53, developed by army technicians of the air technical service command and Bell Aircraft Corp., is capable of flying to extremely high altitudes. Shortness of range, one of the faults of early jet planes, has been eliminated.

Successor to the P-59A Airacomet, and resembling it in appearance, the new plane can carry a 2,000 pound bomb under each wing, and possesses aerodynamic characteristics suitable for speeds in the sonic range. It is powered by G. E. turbo jet engines which are mounted under the wings to the cowlings adjoining the fuselage. The tail is 15 feet, 3 inches high at the top of the fin, and is upswep to clear the blasts of the jet engines. As in other jet-propelled planes, kerosene is used as fuel.

Many ambitious young men have been attracted to the new, peacetime regular army by the exciting adventure of jet propulsion. This and many other new developments in aviation provide unlimited opportunities for qualified men who enlist now as "Guardians of Victory." Jet propulsion is only one of many fascinating new developments.

Through service schools, on-the-job training and specialized correspondence courses, the latest scientific discoveries are placed at the disposal of army regulars.

For those who are interested in securing their future by learning any one of 200 skills and trades, enlistment in the regular army provides a profitable and interesting career.

CLASS LEGISLATION WAS UNKNOWN UNTIL RECENTLY

MEMORY TRAVELS backward over the years to the days of my boyhood in an Iowa village. I see, as of yesterday, the group of whiskered men gathered around the big wood-burning stove in the center of the general store. In the group are a liberal sprinkling of hardy dirt farmers, the merchant, doctor, school teacher, owner of the village livery, the carpenter, barber, and frequently the preacher. It represents a session of the community forum.

I listened again to the discussion, and compare it with what one hears when a group gets together today. From today's standards those men of the past were not well read; they did not have access to information on the current topics of the day, in any large way. The half dozen copies of weekly editions of city daily papers received in the community were passed around from family to family. Such was the source of such information as they possessed. But those discussions represented intelligent, home-spun opinions on the state of the county, state and nation. The thought was, at all times, for the good of the people as a whole. Partisan, yes, bitterly so, but never factional or of class. There was no demand for legislation by class; rights of interests of minorities were neither thought of or talked about. No one laid stress on something that would be of value to himself except as he was one of a majority of the whole.

To me the participants in that village forum represented better citizenship than we have today. Now each is inclined to think of personal interest only, if we think at all, as many of us do not. Such discussions as we now hear present, not the good of the nation as a whole, but the interests of that class to which we, as individuals, belong. We approve, or disapprove, legislation on whether it benefits or injures our personal interests, or those of the class to which we feel we belong.

That group gathered around the stove in the general store of an Iowa village represented the spirit of the Republic. Down to their day the ideals of Washington, of Jefferson, of Lincoln and other leaders of the past, had been preserved. Since their day we have lost that ideal of "the greatest good to the greatest number" on which the nation was built. We might, again, recapture it if we could have leaders who would think in terms of benefits to the whole, rather than counting the votes represented by each factional minority.

THE PESSIMIST IS his own worst enemy, and a nuisance to others.

I WAS THE recipient of the acme of generosity when Dwight Goodrich, the Santa Fe agent in my town, left at my door a dozen double yolk eggs. Twenty-four eggs in 12 shells, and that at a time when eggs were practically unobtainable by such mortals as I. That was generosity.

SELFISH DESIRES RULE CEILING VIEWPOINTS

AN ACQUAINTANCE who raises oranges is convinced there should be no ceiling on citrus fruits. He can see, to him, perfectly logical reasons for a ceiling on meats. That acquaintance sells oranges, but he buys meat.

Another acquaintance raises wheat. He does not want a ceiling on his product, but he insists there must be a floor. He demands a ceiling, but no floor, on farm implements, shoes, clothes and other things he must buy.

Still another acquaintance, a manufacturer who uses large quantities of cotton, insists the ceiling should be taken off entirely, or materially raised on his product. He is convinced that present, or lower, ceilings should be continued on food, and other things he must buy.

All of us see things from the viewpoint of our own personal interest. We are not concerned about what happens to the other fellow. Those in debt do not fear inflation. It would enable them to pay off their debts with valueless money. They do not consider what inflation would do to the economic life of the people in general.

Individually when we continue to spend more than we take in, we go broke. Collectively we, as a people, face exactly the same problem. If the nation is to remain solvent government deficit financing must stop. We cannot continue to finance theoretical social advances and evade the sheriff, who will come clothed in the garb of inflation. Lifting ourselves by our boot straps has not, and will not, work. Our political leaders should note.

TRY BICYCLE POLO FOR EXCITEMENT . . . Co-eds of the University of Miami have a crackerjack bicycle polo team, with glamour and skill combined. In above photograph, practically the entire membership of both teams are pursuing Nanette Verhooff, as she dribbles the ball towards the Zeta goal. Note her technique of coasting with one foot on a pedal while the other is used to kick the ball along.

STRIKES ALSO HIT JAPAN . . . While the United States is blanketed with strikes in many industries, natives of Japan decided to follow suit. Shown above is strike held by thousands of municipal workers in which they emphasized their demands for at least three times their present wage and for better living conditions. They stormed the Tokyo city hall, where they are shown making their demands. Strikers claim that the inflation has made it impossible for them to live on present wage scales.

WHAT RUSSIA WANTS . . . Among the major problems that will cause headaches for the United Nations assembly is the easing of Russo-Turkish relations. The map above shows what Russia wants from Turkey. It also shows what the situation is in Iran. Many observers of international chess-playing believe that Russia's biggest want at the moment is freedom of the Dardanelles and access to warm water outlets. Russia has wanted such outlets for centuries and believes that she is now, as a member of UNO, entitled to have these demands met in full.

NOT ALL TEEN-AGERS ARE DELINQUENT . . . A welcome change from recent publicity given to teen-age delinquents, is the story of the eleven members of the "Astoria Trojans," New York football team, who were sworn into the navy in a body. The 17-year-olds are pictured at New York City navy recruiting office, as they took the oath, administered by Comdr. W. T. Vrooman. The boys will be sent to school in Norfolk, Va.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

A PEOPLE DISCIPLINED Temperance Lesson

LESSON TEXT: Numbers 14:11-24.
MEMORY SELECTION: For whom the Lord loveth he correcteth; even as a father the son in whom he delighteth.—Proverbs 3:12

Instruction, training and culture, sometimes calling for the touch of judgment or punishment, that the lesson may be rightly learned—is this the meaning of discipline.

It is a good word and speaks of that which is much needed in a disordered and dissolute world.

Our lesson tells of God's plan for the discipline of the people of Israel in preparation for their entry into the Promised Land. They were not ready when God first brought them up to it, but through hard and trying experiences they learned. They did not believe God, so they had to learn the hard way.

One wonders whether we will be wiser than they. America is now in the awful grasp of a postwar wave of careless living, of moral disintegration and of awful dissipation. Alcoholic liquors flow in an uncontrolled flood of destruction. Where is the moral fiber that made America great?

I. There is a Limit to God's Patience (vv. 11, 12).

The background of our lesson is the report of the spies who were sent up into the land. All agreed that it was a good land, but 10 of them were afraid of its inhabitants. Two of them, Joshua and Caleb, urged the people to take God at his word and go up to possess the land. But the people rebelled and wanted to turn back to the fleshpots of Egypt.

God had been patient with the people, but the time had come when further patience ceased to be a virtue and would only be indulgence. Then judgment came—and fast!

There is a limit to God's patience with a sinful people. It is almost heartbreaking to think of the possibility that America may all too soon press its downward course to the point where God says, It is enough.

II. There is Power in Intercessory Prayer (vv. 13-19).

Moses stepped into the breach and made a mighty and moving plea for his people. He knew the power of intercession and called on God for mercy upon the people. He pointed out that the honor of the Lord was involved in bringing His people into the land. He recognized the guilt of the older members of the nation but asked for another chance for the children. He based his prayer on the known qualities of God, His justice and, above all, His mercy.

Does not this strongly suggest the importance of Christian people making their influence count in the solution of social problems? Prayer accomplishes more than this world has ever conceived to be possible. Praying people count with God; and hence they count in the affairs of men.

More Christian people ought to be deeply concerned about our country's liquor problem, and all the physical, moral, social, political and spiritual ills which are caused by drink.

III. There is Punishment for Unbelief (vv. 20-23).

The pardon of God for the people as a whole did not overlook or wink at the awful unbelief of those who had rebelled against God.

He had not left them without a strong basis for faith in him. Again and again he had made known his might in miraculous deliverances during their days of travel from Egypt. But they simply hardened their hearts in unbelief.

Lack of faith in God is no little offense against him. He has a right to our unquestioning belief and immediate obedience. Somehow we have come to regard it as a special favor toward God if we believe him, when the fact is that unbelief in such a God is definitely and obviously sin.

IV. There is a Reward for Courageous Living (v. 24).

God is looking for men of faith. All through Scripture we find the Lord coming magnificently to the help and blessing of the one who will believe him.

Caleb and Joshua were brought into the land, preserved through all of Israel's wandering, and kept in vigor even to old age in order to enjoy the promised possession (see Josh. 1:6-9; 14:10-12).

Caleb is an example of what courage, faith, self-control—yes, discipline, can do for a man. We need men and women—yes, young men and women with the spirit of Caleb. Social customs of our day encourage self-indulgence. Drinking is on the increase. Moral standards are low and seem to be getting lower.

What shall we do? Teach our young men and women to have faith in God and to discipline their lives in accordance with his word, so that they may be set free for courageous and useful living.
