Wife, daughter, grandson.

Corp. Clifford Anschuetz U. S. M. C. arrived home Wednesday on a furlough. He will report back in April to receive his discharge.

Anschuetz-Humbert

Before an altar banked with white stock, huckleberry and evergreen at the Emmanuel Lutheran Church on Saturday, Miss Inez Carol Anschuetz became the bride of Keith A. Humbert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Humbert of Saginaw. The service was solemnized before 200 guests in a candle light setting by Rev. J. J. Roekle and music by Raymon Behmer.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, Andrew Anschuetz, chose a gown of white felle taffeta with a lace overskirt extending into a long train, sweetheart neckline, bishop sleeves, and fingertip length veil edged in lace, which was secured by a beaded crown. She carried an all white colonial bouquet of gardenias and carnations tied with white satin ribbons. A single strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom completed her costume.

Margaret Anschuetz, sister of the bride was maid of honor, was gowned in pink lace with net overskirt and matching headress. She carried a colonial bouquet of pink roses and carnations tied with pink satin ribbon. Rosemary Bean, was bridesmaid and was gowned in powder blue satin with net overskirt and matching headress. She carried a colonial bouquet of tea roses and carnations tied with yellow satin ribbon.

Robert Brockless of Saginaw was best man. Milton Gottleber of Bay City and Arthur Anschuetz of Tawas City were ushers.

Dinner was served to members of the family at the Bay View Restaurant. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the American Legion Hall in East Tawas for about 300 guests. The young couple left on a short wedding trip.

Guests were present from Detroit, Flint, Saginaw, Bay City and Alpena.

Reorganize NEM League Tuesday Night

Meeting Held at Summer Trails Inn

Iosco County had two teams represented at the first meeting of the North-eastern Michigan Baseball league, Tuesday evening. Tawas City and Hemlock, along with representatives from Pinconning, Twining, AuGres, Grayling, West Branch, Pine River, Sterling, Standish, Rose City and Worth met at the Summer Trail Inn in Standish to discuss the possibilities of re-organizing the NEM League which has been in operation since 1916, except during the war years. Tawas City, Pinconning, Twining, Standish and Worth were holdovers from the 1942 season when the league was discontinued because of the war.

A two division league was contemplated, hoping to pick up three or four more teams that were not represented at the meeting to fill out the 16 team league.

The next league meeting will be Tuesday, April 2 at the Summer Trail Inn, Standish. At this meeting officers will be elected, the circuit will be formed, schedule arranged and any changes in the Constitution will be made.

Chas. T. Prescott Speaks at Kiwanis Meet

"Results Not Excuses; Will Promote Northern Michigan"

At the Tuesday luncheon meeting of the Tawas Kiwanis club held at the Barnes Hotel in this city, Charles T. Prescott was the principal speaker.

Mr. Prescott has won a state wide reputation for his efforts toward placing Northeastern Michigan on the map as a livestock and agricultural area, and his efforts toward securing good roads for this section of Michigan. The subject of his address was "Results, Not Excuses," in the promotion of Northern Michigan as a resort center. Mr. Prescott asked questions, the answers of which are pertinent to the growth of this great industry in the Iosco county area. He said that there must not be excuses but definitely executed plans—results.

The questions touched such items as, eating places and their condition, milk and water supply, entertainment, hotel, cabin and cottage facilities, improvement of our beaches, lakes and streams, our hunting areas, and services to the people we invite here.

He pointed out that while Michigan had a wonderful wild life area, Michigan's appropriations of money for conservation fell far short of appropriations made by eastern states, especially New York and Pennsylvania.

In his questions, Mr. Prescott did not neglect his own field of operations, the improvement of Northern Michigan's livestock and grazing area.

Fifty-five Kiwanis club members and guests were in attendance at Tuesday's meeting.

Communications

Are You a Pedestrian

Another Spring is rolling around and again we see the conditions of our County Roads. Do we want them improved? Do we want these conditions to continue on and on? This is entirely up to you Mr. Public. You cannot say, "What can I do?" You can help remedy these things by showing more interest in the affairs of your County Road Commission. See your Commissioner and ask him about the equipment and where it is.

We have been informed that expensive equipment lays idle. Is it because of untrained help? We cannot have proper maintained roads until drainage we so sadly are in need of has been provided.

A very good example of the work being done on our roads is about two miles south of National City on the

In These United States

They Like It! That's Why Farmers Stay on the Farm

HERBERT HOOVER HESITATED
WASHINGTON.—Secretary of Agriculture Clinton Anderson had a hard time at first persuading Herbert Hoover to come to Washington for the food conference. Anderson caught the ex-President at Key West, Fla., where he was fishing.

"I've promised my family for seven years to take them fishing," Hoover told the secretary of agriculture, "and now at last here I am."

Anderson, however, emphasized the urgency of the food crisis.

"We need your experience and advice, Mr. President," he said. "You can go back to your fishing immediately afterward. But this is a time when your country needs you."

Hoover finally consented to come.

BRICKBATS WIN ELECTIONS

Two of the bitterest opponents on the house floor and in the interstate commerce committee are Representatives Clarence Brown, conservative Republican of Blanchester, Ohio, and Vito Marcantonio, American Laborite of New York City. Off the floor, however, the two respect each other's ability and get along well.

Sitting in the house lobby the other day they smilingly concluded an agreement which will probably never be carried out.

They were talking about campaign expenses, when Brown proposed: "Vito, I've got a suggestion. Why don't we both cut our campaign expenses to the bone? Here's how to do it:

"You go into my district and make three speeches against me. Call me a reactionary Hooverite, an isolationist, an economic royalist — and anything else you can think of. That'll elect me.

"Then I'll go into your district and make three speeches. I'll call you a Red, a Dago, a new dealer and an anti-Rankinite.

"With the proper literature about you in my district and the proper literature about me in your district, both of us are a cinch for re-election when we do that."

Marcantonio agreed that the idea had merit, and they shook hands on it.

NAZIS REMAIN IN GERMANY

A secret report on failure to de-Nazify Germany has been made to the war department, but is considered so shocking that it probably will be destroyed. It is now in the office of Brig. Gen. Frank A. Meade.

The report shows complete failure to clean out high-ranking Nazis. It also shows a surprising number of so-called German "laborers" who have secretaries and stenographers assigned to them.

This is one of the latest dodges to get around the employment of Nazis by the American army. According to army rules, no former Nazi can be employed in any job more important than that of a "laborer." Result is that many Nazis are used in important jobs, but listed on the books as "laborers." That is why they are assigned secretaries and stenographers.

These "common laborers" are then put in charge of important manufacturing plants. The report now in the hands of the war department was made by the public safety and inspection division of military government. It may never see the light of day.

HOW WYATT DID IT

If there were more men like Housing Expediter Wilson Wyatt around, President Truman would have easier sailing. The other day in Chicago, Wyatt was guest speaker at a banquet of the National Association of home builders, 3,200 strong, all hostile, all prepared to boo at the man who proposed revolutionary building reforms in order to complete 3,000,000 homes in two years.

As Wyatt arose, the atmosphere was charged with hostility. However, he told stories, explained his program, made no antagonistic statements.

"If you gentlemen are against this program, then you don't understand it," Wyatt said. "It's my fault for not making it clear."

After 45 minutes, having won over a considerable part of the audience, he stopped. Then for 45 minutes more he answered questions. Every inch of the way he fought for his program of low-cost housing for veterans.

Finally, when he finished, every builder in the huge dining room rose to his feet and cheered.

NOW WHITE SPAGHETTI

Some of the strongest opposition to the President's "dark bread" order is coming from an unexpected quarter — spaghetti manufacturers. Spaghetti, macaroni and noodles are made from semolina, a gritty flour made, in turn, from durum wheat.

Semolina millers, as well as spaghetti makers, are up in arms about the "dark bread" order, declaring it will drive them out of business. A number of semolina mills have filed an exception.

KUTZTOWN, PA.—It was men's night at the Kutztown grange, and each man was asked by Mrs. Howard Baldwin, lecturer, why he became a farmer. There were 17 responses, with 16 men replying that they were born on a farm, liked it, and intended to stay.

Some of the replies, as recorded in the Kutztown Patriot, follow:

"I was raised on a farm," said Henry Rabenold. "I had 10 years in the city, but was glad to get back to the farm."

"You are your own boss," Ray Kulp pointed out. "You're independent, and the farm is the ideal place to raise children. Personally, I like livestock, especially the old cows."

"At the end of a year you have something to show for your work—straw, hay, grain, your cattle," added Thomas Merkel. "I like to see things grow. To the farmer, farming means more than any other occupation can mean to anyone else."

"I like the outdoor life," volunteered William Schulz, who spent 30 years in manufacturing. "It means your own roof, plenty of food, and time to look around, watch the sky and the clouds."

"I was away from it for seven years," said George Schaeffer, "but had to get out in the open, so started it again."

And so it was with all the rest, from the soldier just discharged to the youth still waiting his draft call. As Clarence Johnson put it: "The farm is the best place, for it gives you the chance to make something out of it, not only for yourself but for other people."

SEA CALF . . . More arrived than started. This picture, taken at Antwerp, Belgium, shows a calf born while its mother was crossing the Atlantic ocean. American heifers are being sent to devastated areas of Europe by the Church of the Brethren in order to provide food for Europeans and re-stock that continent with dairy cattle.

Sportsmen Plant Trees to Provide Shelter for Game

PERKASIE, PA.—Perkasie Sportsmen's organization has authorized Lester Frederick, head of the forestry committee, to purchase 6,000 transplants for the club's reforestation program. The agricultural class of Sell-Park high school, under the direction of D. Ker Endsley, will assist in the planting.

In 1938 the club began its reforestation program with an allotment of 3,000 trees, and a similar number were planted each year except in 1944. The planting of 6,000 this year will balance the annual program.

Dies at 102

LIVONIA, N. Y.—Jacob John Hasler, who would have been 102 years old May 18, died here recently. A native of Switzerland, he came to this country when he was 20 years old. He worked as a gardener, 9 years for one family and 43 years for another, before he retired.

Weed Burner Explodes

CANON CITY, COLO.—When a weed burner strapped on his back exploded, setting his clothes on fire, Frank Day, 60 years old, ran two blocks to a watering trough and jumped in to extinguish the flames.

'Soft' Basket for Potatoes

A rubber-covered potato basket to safeguard potatoes against bruising has been developed. The basket, made of steel wire coated with rubber, holds five-eighths of a bushel and is for use in field harvesting.

101 YEARS OLD

Starting on his second hundred years is Elias Brownfield, now living in Glendale, Calif. He still plays his accordion, and after looking back over more than a century he says he has only one thing to regret, that he electioneered against Abraham Lincoln. He has no prescription for longevity.

"I never smoked or took liquor," he admits, "but I don't think that had anything to do with it."

Manure Loader Used to Move Wyoming Snow

LUSK, WYO.—The new mechanical manure loader, designed to save back-breaking work for farmers and ranchers, was put to a new use by the town of Lusk recently when snow drifts filled the streets.

Councilman Joe Kuhn, also a farm machinery dealer, brought out the mechanical manure loader and set it to work loading snow into trucks to be hauled away. The snow was removed in one-fourth the time ordinarily required.

State Wishes It Had Bought Land From Ute Indians

DENVER, COLO.—Rangely oil field, in northwestern Colorado, is the most sensational oil find in years but the state of Colorado isn't happy about it. The Indians had the last laugh after all.

"When Colorado became a state, the Ute Indian tribe was given title by the federal government to a large section of land in western Colorado, including most of what today is the Rangely field," State Land Commissioner William Milliken explains.

"The federal government gave to the state sections 16 and 36 of each township in the state. But when it came to the Ute lands, it became necessary for the state to put up $1.25 an acre.

"The state officials objected and bargained for other sections. As a result, the state was granted additional land in Rio Blanco, Garfield and Mesa counties. That's why we own so much land in those counties and none in the Rangely field.

"If the state owned the usual sections in Rangely, our school finance problems would be solved for years to come."

Moreover, another question has come up: Who owns the land underlying the bed of the White river? There are 170 acres of land, potentially worth millions of dollars, to be considered. Oil men and state officials would like to know who owns it.

Black Setter Pulls Master from Creek

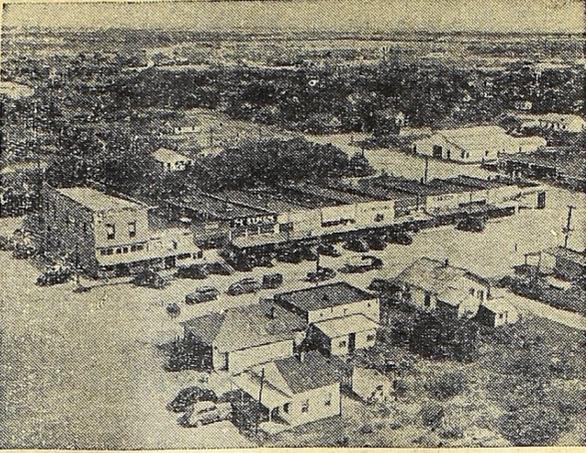

DAWSON, GA.—A black setter named Smoky is credited by his master, T. J. Donovan, with saving his life when the car in which they were riding plunged into a rain-swollen stream near Macon.

They were returning from a hunting trip when the accident occurred. Smoky, riding on the back seat, grabbed Donovan by the neck and swam with him to the bank of the stream. The dog was still on guard over his master and tried to fight off state patrolmen when they approached.

Examined at an animal hospital, the setter was found unharmed and later had a joyous reunion with his master.

GROUNDING . . . Two golden eagles, believed to be slayers of calves and squirrels, were caught in a coyote trap by ranchers living near Paso Robles, Calif. Sandy Sumner, owner of the Diamond D ranch, has offered the pair to the city or county, if the officials feel they want to give a couple of eagles a good home.

TO MOVE AGAIN . . . Robert Lee, Texas, first christened Hayrick, was settled in 1889. The next year it moved several miles to the Colorado river in search of water, and changed the name to Robert Lee. Now it's preparing to move again—because of water. This time a reservoir, Buffalo dam, will be built on the Colorado river, and Robert Lee, unless it moves, will be several feet under water.

Quarry Stone as Fathers Did to Build New Parish

DECORAH, IOWA.—"In the faith of their fathers," as the Decorah Journal expresses it, men of Washington Prairie church are quarrying limestone for their $30,000 parish house. And too, they will be the masons who lay each stone in place.

The Rev. Oscar E. Engbretson said two-thirds of the men engaged in the work are grandsons of men who did the same job to build the church nearly a century ago.

They are taking turns working on the quarry crew and in the construction work. Every man in the church expects to do his share. Two hundred tons of stone are needed.

The beautiful, high-quality limestone is being taken from a hilltop quarry belonging to Oscar Bruvold northeast of Decorah. No dynamite is used, lest it shatter the rock. The whole job is hand work, just as the grandfathers did it. Bruvold is donating the rock. The men are donating their work.

The men in the first week of their work quarried about a third of the needed stone, Pastor Engbretson said.

The parish house, designed by one of the country's leading church architects, is expected to make Washington Prairie church one of the nation's most completely equipped country churches.

It will match the beautiful high-spired native limestone church. Stone for this church was quarried by the pioneer members.

This church became the home parish of the Rev. V. Koren, pioneer missionary, who founded many Norwegian Lutheran churches. He first held services at Washington Prairie in 1853.

THE FLYING FARMERS

Grandpa Was Upset
BAKER, ORE.—Grandfather John A. Burton, age 82, went for his first plane ride with his grandson, Capt. Robert B. Alexander, and greatly enjoyed it. But he was a bit puzzled by the way it ended.

"Isn't there a better way to land a plane than this?" asked grandpa as he hung upside down from his safety belt.

The plane had hit a snow drift in landing and had upset.

Can He Wreck That Many?
Paul Mantz, Hollywood stunt flier, has purchased 475 surplus war planes. He claims to be the world's largest individual aircraft owner.

States Join in Airport Plan
A group of southern Vermont and New Hampshire communities set the pace for interstate and intercommunity co-operation in providing adequate airports without duplication of facilities when several towns, including Brattleboro, Vt., and Hinsdale, N. H., got together and selected North Hinsdale, N. H., as the best site for a combined airport.—White River Valley Herald, Randolph, Vt.

More Hostesses Needed
The nation's airlines will need stewardesses by the thousands in the next decade to staff domestic and international passenger planes. Expansion of service, introduction of larger planes and use of stewardesses for the first time on international flights all have contributed to the need for three times as many this year as were employed in 1941.

Airport Promotion
Securing permission from the civil aeronautics board, Paul Lindstrom of Rifle, Colo., flew over several towns distributing handbills, some of which entitled the fliers to a free airplane ride. A benefit dance was held for the benefit of the Rifle airport.

Scobey Airport to Re-Open
Once an international point of entry, the Scobey, Mont., airport has been reopened by Jim Cross, a former bomber pilot, who hopes to build it up to its prewar status. The Scobey city council recently leased the airport to Cross, who is now giving pilot instructions to students.

GIRLS' FLYING SCHOOL
Colby junior college at Dennisport, Mass., is one jump ahead of most girls' schools. It lists among its subjects an "aeronautical secretarial course," which is adapted to familiarize the young women with the component parts of aircraft as well as prepare them to become trained secretaries.

Train to be a GOOD pilot first, and you won't be too anxious to become a "hot-rock."

RECONVERSION . . . Former glider tow plane, hospital plane and cargo carrier is being converted into an airline passenger plane. Mrs. Terry Stidd and Francis (Hawk) Lippert formerly served in the armed forces, Mrs. Stidd as a member of the WAC and Lippert with the 15th air force. Picture taken at Hawthorne, Calif.

AIRLINES BOOMING
Airlines are mushrooming today like the railroads did in 1880 to 1890. Instead of the 5,000 pilots now being used by airlines, the need will be near 50,000 within the next 10 years, it is estimated.

First Plane in County
The first private plane in Gates county, N. C., a yellow Piper cub, was purchased by John Rountree, who recently spent a Sunday afternoon demonstrating it to the people in and around Gatesville.

A PILOT'S PAY
Capt. Merle C. Robinson of American Airlines recently announced the pay for the average pilot. Co-pilots start out at $220 per month, and receive a $20 raise every six months, until they reach a top of $380. Before that time arrives, however, they're likely to be promoted to captains at a base pay of $600 per month, with extra flight pay and night work raising the total to $700 and even $800. And for those who graduate to the big four-engined ships, the salary is even higher.

Woman's World Recipe for a New Spring Suit: First, Take a Dated Formal—

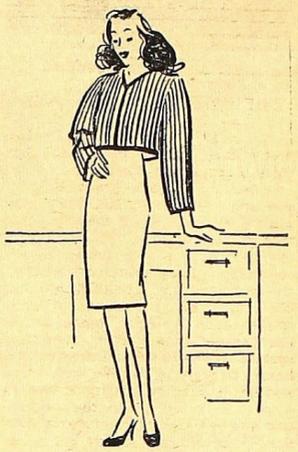

By Eritta Haley

THERE is no such thing as the young teen-ager who has all the clothes she wants. When some new gadget, trinket or fad takes the school by storm, girls frequently feel out of the swing of things if they can't have them. On the other hand, clothes budgets for the high school girl are frequently limited, and it's impossible to buy everything.

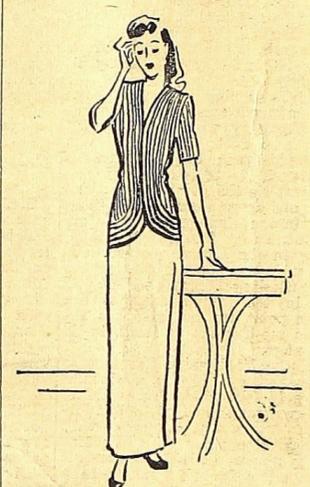

In cases like this, the girls who can sew, or whose mothers are handy with the needle are truly born under a lucky star. There are always dresses in the wardrobe that are dated, rather than worn, but with skillful recutting and sewing they can be transformed into new and lovely things.

One of the items in a young girl's wardrobe which easily acquires a dated look, but does not lose its value as a good piece of material, is a formal. Formals are worn a few times, and then they lose their usefulness as such. But what a wealth of good material for sewing!

Not only one but several articles can be made from dated formals. The bodice can be recut and sewed as the top of a suit, and the skirt especially if it is full, offers ample material for the skirt of a suit, and even an extra blouse or skirt.

Becomes a bolero and skirt.

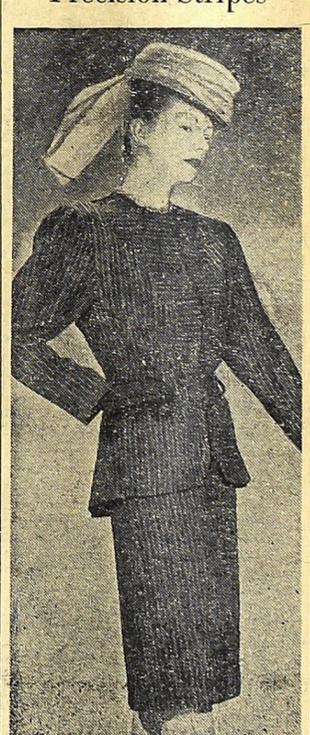

A discarded formal . . .

Striped effects are popular this season for both boleros and jackets. The formal with a striped top can easily be utilized for this providing it is ripped apart completely and every scrap of material given thorough use.

If the skirt of the formal is striped rather than the top, then it can be used for the jacket or bolero, with perhaps a peplum of the same material.

Precision Stripes

Impeccably hand-tailored but with distinctive dressmaker detail is this precision striped jacket. In navy and red striped worsted, this suit is indicative of the trend in fashion being shown this spring.

terial. The bodice of the formal, in this case would not offer enough material for the skirt, but the purchase of extra, matching material would be a worthwhile investment if a complete suit is the result.

If you do not want to use the remainder of the striped skirt material in another skirt or blouse, it will make beautiful accessories such as a hat or gloves. The accessories will then pick up their cue from the costume itself and add a smart, finishing touch to the outfit.

Should you be making a bolero as topping for the skirt, then try the rounded shoulder effect. Pads can be purchased or made from muslin in a large enough size to give the desired rounded effect. They should be fitted carefully to the wearer.

For making the pads, you will find that featherbone in two or three ply makes an ideal support for these pads. They are easy to stitch to position with a long machine stitch.

Making a Circular Skirt For the Suit

The main thing to remember in making a circular skirt is to let the garment hang on a garment hanger overnight. This is done to let the fabric sag—if it will—and let you make adjustments before you really turn the hem and stitch it. This may be done after the garment is on its way toward finishing. When you are ready to sew the hem, take the garment off the hanger and try it on with the shoes you plan to wear.

The hem is then marked with a skirt-marker just as you would for any other type of skirt. Now the dress is removed. Lay the skirt on the table, folded at center-front and center-back lines and measure evenly all the way across the skirt. Mark with chalk for length. Trim a little off at the sides because of the sagging bias seams and then measure the depth you want them finished in. A circular skirt requires a narrower hem than does a lengthwise skirt. Turn the raw edge under a generous one-half inch and clean-stitch it. Use a long stitch to draw up the fullness of the hem with a bobbin thread. When the hem is basted and the lower edge pressed, try the skirt on again for fit. Then slip-stitch the hem into position, doing this with the skirt spread out on a table so the hem will lie perfectly in position. Long slip stitches are best—and be careful so that they do not show through.

Sewing for Youngsters
You'll find these tips worthwhile when sewing for youngsters just past the bib and tucker stage:

1. Choosing materials for children should center on the following points: washability, wearability, ease of making, warmth or protection, and attractiveness.
2. The length of skirts, trousers and sleeves are important. Children's clothing should look smart if you want them to be happy and win appreciation from their playmates.
3. Good buttons and fasteners, good binding or trimming material such as ric rac are essential if the child is to get in and out of his clothing easily, and make the clothing easy to launder.
4. Little folks like good fitting clothes. Making up a muslin pattern takes little time and saves ripping and tedious pinning that make youngsters fidgety.
5. Make sewing easy for yourself by doing all the cutting at one time. Then the sewing can all be done at a sitting. You can concentrate better when your work is well organized.

Spring Fashion Notes

Boleros are going to be more important than ever, and so are belts, wide ones, slim ones and colorful belts. Peplums are in to stay, too. Skirts are longer for street wear, shorter for dancing, these ideas taking their cue from ballet styles. Speaking of ballet, you will notice that bathing and beach apparel have been much influenced by this classic form of the dance, too.

Tunic suits are being seen more and more frequently in this trend of longer jackets. If you have a large build, wear garments with broken lines to make you look smaller. If you're young and long for coquettish accessories, select a plaid taffeta bag and hat. Drawingstring bags that swing freely are high in favor.

DANGER OF COLLECTIVISM PRESENT IN AMERICA

THE GREATEST, right-now, danger we Americans face is collectivism or state socialism. In Germany they called it Nazism, in Italy, Fascism, in Russia, it is Communism. They are practically all one and the same thing. They substitute the interest of the mass for that of the individual. They wipe out the individual's opportunity of development. They promise security; the assurance of something desirable without effort. Any one of them foisted upon America would mean the passing of our free enterprise system. It would mean bureaucratic bosses to plan for us. We would live and do as such bureaucratic bosses direct. It would mean the regulation and regimentation of every citizen. It is all not so far away as we think. Back of its coming are the economic disturbances with which we have been afflicted. The demand, on the part of labor, for higher wages and lower prices of commodities.

The effort to force the government to take over production, and the effort is all too near to being successful. Should it succeed we will be a totalitarian state. As individuals we will have nothing we can call our own. Ambition will be valueless and dead. America will have been made over, not because we desired it, but because we were asleep.

ADVERTISING INCREASES DEMAND FOR PRODUCTS

UNTIL HE HAD TOLD the people about it, the man who invented a superior mousetrap would not see a throng beating a path to his door. Demand, created by advertising, would produce the throng.

American inventive genius, supplemented by American advertising, has made of us the greatest producing nation of the modern world. Genius, alone, could not have done the job. It took more than the genius of the inventor to put more automobiles per each 1,000 of population on the roads of America; to put more radios, automatic refrigerators, telephones, bath tubs, home heating furnaces, electric irons, toasters and the thousand and one conveniences we enjoy in our homes, than is true of any other people. Demand for these conveniences was created by advertising. Because of that demand, jobs were created and jobs at a higher wage scale than any other people have ever known made the purchase of these conveniences possible.

Advertising created that keen American competition that is the life blood of our economic system. The methods of attracting customers included lowering prices with a smaller margin of profit on each sale, offset by a larger number of sales created by advertising that paid its own way.

Advertising has created increased markets for the farm products of America. The food processor produces a new cereal. He gives it a brand name, and creates a demand for it by advertising that name. That demand means an increased consumption of the grain from which the cereal is made, and the farmers profit from an increased market. The meat packer gives a name to his processed products. His advertising creates demand for those products, and assures a more staple demand for the farmer's food animals. Through advertising, a demand is created for many things that were considered as waste, and so enables the processor to pay higher prices for the food animals, as well as enabling him to sell at lower prices because of eliminating the waste.

RETAILERS AND PRODUCERS BENEFIT BY ADVERTISING

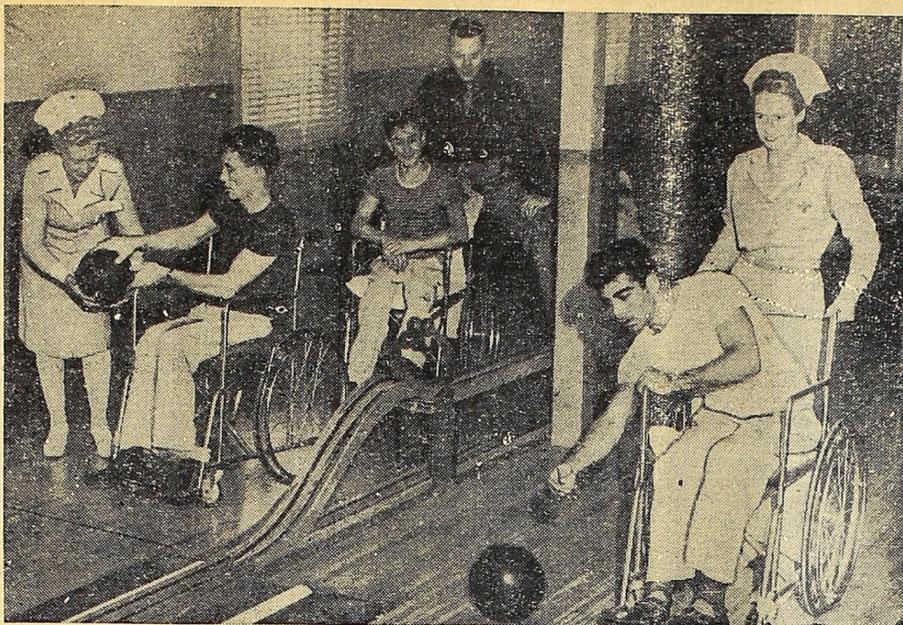

THE MERCHANT shares in the advantage provided by advertising of branded commodities that has created a consumer demand. By announcing to the people of his community that he has desired brands in stock he attracts the patronage of those who want them.

SO IT IS that advertising benefits all of us. By increasing demand it makes more production, and more jobs, possible. The larger production reduces unit costs, resulting in lower prices to the consumer.

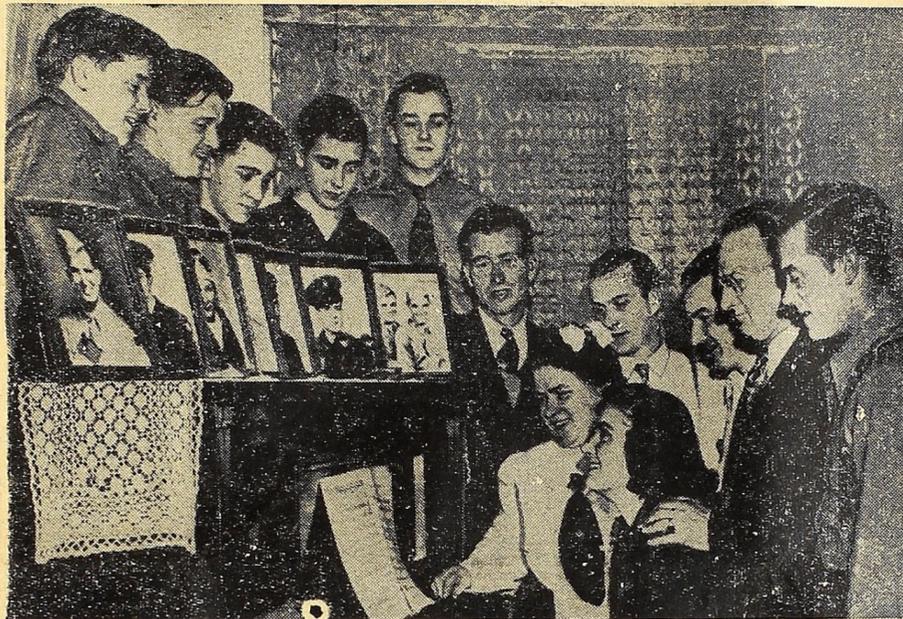

There are those theorists who propose to "make over" our America, who tell us advertising is an economic waste. The fallacy of that is in line with their fallacies on other things, including their advocated state socialistic government. They are not safe guides to follow.

WE ARE SADLY in need of a Moses who can lead us out of the wilderness of confusion, and show us definite and detailed ways of preserving the freedom that is our heritage, and which we greatly value. Glittering generalities are not enough. We want the why and how details.

INVITATIONS WITHOUT a date are about as satisfying as a meal without food.

BOWLING CONQUERED BY WOUNDED VETS . . . For thousands of war wounded, the Red Cross insignia is a badge of mercy. They give their services and provide facilities to aid while away tedious hours of hospitalization. Here aided by Mrs. Lucille Carey, Mrs. Marian Lee and Capt. L. J. Sheaffer, are left to right, Sgt. Paul Jackson, Sgt. Robert Abajian and Pvt. George Rodriguez, who are given a chance to continue their bowling in Los Angeles alley. Reports indicate that many of the wounded have become expert bowlers, which also aided in their rapid recovery.

FAMOUS FIGHTING FAMILY REUNITED . . . The famous fighting family of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Ostler, Chelsea, Mass., are together for the first time since Pearl Harbor, with the exception of the oldest son, Pfc. Charles, 32, who was killed in action in Italy. The group around their father and mother includes twins, Roland and Robert, twins Richard and Lawrence, George, Donald, Arthur, Howard, Leon and sister Marilyn at piano.

EGYPTIAN STUDENTS RIOT IN CAIRO . . . With demands that the British leave Egypt, students and sympathizers take possession of part of the city of Cairo without opposition from police. The rioters terrorized the capital, many fires were started and considerable damage resulted. Similar riots later broke out in Alexandria, site of a great British naval base. While the riots did not have government backing, little effort was made to prevent or control the demonstrations against the British government.

THIRTY MILLIONS IN GOLD THEIR GOAL . . . Irwin A. Williamson, famed explorer, is shown, left, with Capt. Edward Eriksen, as they planned expedition to recover a reputed $30,000,000 in gold from the cursed Spanish galleon "Santa Rosa," which has been on the sea's bottom since 1768. Williamson discovered location in 1941 and brought up the ship's bell. Location is somewhere off the coast of Cuba.

PARIS OBJECTS . . . Against Franco executions of 10 anti-Fascists. This mass demonstration was held in Paris demanding an immediate break with Franco.

Soil Fumigation Has Been Proven Sound

Machine Application Successfully Tested

By W. J. Dryden
WNU Farm Editor

While fumigation of the soil for the control of soil-borne plant pests has been undertaken during the past 20 years, it is only recently that the practice becomes of commercial importance. With the development of hand and drawn machines, it is now possible to fumigate the cold frame, hot bed or greenhouse soils as well as the garden or farm tract.

There are several types of fumigant on the market such as Dowfume G, which is a mixture of methyl bromide and chlorinated hydrocarbons. It is highly toxic to nematodes (ellworms) and soil insects. The rapidity of action has also been improved. It will kill most nematodes in four hours of exposure and permit the successful seed planting in two days and most plants within four days.

Application is made at staggered injection points to depths of 5 inches. The surface is sealed by thoroughly soaking with water. Outdoor fumigation is practical wherever there is sufficient water available for soaking the surface after application.

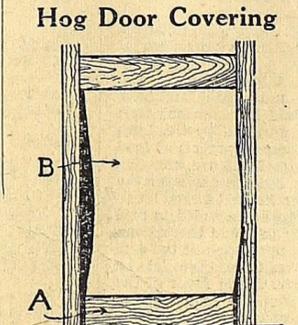

In many parts of the country, infestation of the soils by the root-knot nematodes is so extensive that many garden crops cannot be produced on otherwise desirable lands. This system of soil fumigation will permit the successful operation of such land.

Improved Machinery Farm Welder

A new electric welder suitable for rural power lines has just been released by the Lincoln Electric Company, Cleveland, Ohio.

It has a maximum input current of 35 amperes and provides a machine which meets the new NEMA standards for this type of welder. Under modern farming, practical electric welding has become a must.

Hog Door Covering

Curtain Keeps Out the Cold, But Does Not Prevent the Hogs from Using the Door.

By the use of burlap (B), this device will keep the cold out of the hog house. The burlap is fastened at the top to the door frame and at the bottom (A) to a 2 by 4. The 2 by 4 is fastened to nothing but the burlap.

DDT-Soybean Flour Spray Reduces Loss

DDT mixed with soy bean flour and sprayed on apple trees at intervals which will not prove dangerous to bees, has proven an effective means of reducing spraying costs and eliminating serious pests.

Four treatments with the DDT-soy bean flour mixture are usually required for effective control under general conditions. The spraying must be done prior to the time when the bees start pollinating.

ANNUAL TAX SALE

STATE OF MICHIGAN
IN THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR THE COUNTY OF IOSCO IN CHANCERY

In the matter of the Petition of John D. Morrison, Auditor General of the State of Michigan, for and in behalf of said State, for the sale of certain lands for taxes assessed thereon.

No. 1574
On reading and filing the petition of the Auditor General of the State of Michigan praying for a decree in favor of the State of Michigan, against each parcel of land therein described, for the amounts therein specified, claimed to be due for taxes, interest and charges on each such parcel of land, and that such lands be sold for the amounts so claimed by the State of Michigan.

It is ordered that said petition will be brought on for hearing and decree at the March term of this Court to be held at Tawas City in the County of Iosco, State of Michigan, on the 26th day of March A. D. 1946, at the opening of the Court on that day, and that all persons interested in such lands or any part thereof, desiring to contest the lien claimed thereon by the State of Michigan, for such taxes, interest and charges, or any part thereof, shall appear in said Court, and file with the clerk thereof their objections thereto on or before the first day of the term of this Court above mentioned, and that in default thereof the same will be taken as confessed and a decree will be taken and entered as prayed for in said petition. And it is further ordered that in pursuance of said decree the lands described in said petition for which a decree of sale shall be made, will be sold for the several taxes, interest and charges thereon as determined by such decree, on the first Tuesday in May thereafter, beginning at 10 o'clock a. m. on said day or on the day or days subsequent thereto as may be necessary to complete the sale of said lands and of each and every parcel thereof, at the office of the County Treasurer, or at such convenient place as shall be selected by him at the county seat of the County of Iosco, State of Michigan; and that the sale then and there made will be a public sale, and each parcel described in the decree shall be separately exposed for sale for the total taxes, interest and charges, and the sale shall be made to the person paying the full amount charged against such parcel, and accepting a conveyance of the smallest undivided fee simple interest therein; or, if no person will pay the taxes and charges and take a conveyance of less than the entire thereof, then the whole parcel shall be offered and sold. If any parcel of land cannot be sold for taxes, interest and charges, such parcel shall be passed over for the time being, and shall, on the succeeding day, or before the close of the sale, be reoffered, and if, on such second offer, or during such sale, the same cannot be sold for the amount aforesaid, the County Treasurer shall bid off the same in the name of the State.

Witness the Hon. Herman Dehnke, Circuit Judge, and the seal of said Circuit Court of Iosco County this 19th day of January A. D. 1946.

HERMAN DEHNKE, Circuit Judge.
Countersigned,
R. H. MCKENZIE, Clerk.

STATE OF MICHIGAN
IN THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR THE COUNTY OF IOSCO IN CHANCERY

In the matter of the Petition of John D. Morrison, Auditor General of the State of Michigan, for and in behalf of said State, for the sale of certain lands for taxes assessed thereon.

To the Circuit Court for the County of Iosco, in Chancery:
John D. Morrison, Auditor General of the State of Michigan, respectfully shows unto the Court:

- That he is the Auditor General of the State of Michigan and makes and files this petition under, by virtue of and pursuant to the provisions of Act No. 206 of the Public Acts of 1893, as amended, and Act No. 126 of the Public Acts of 1933, as amended;
- That Schedule A annexed hereto is the tax record required by the act first above mentioned and contains the description of all lands in the aforesaid county upon which taxes, which were assessed for the years mentioned therein, have remained unpaid for more than one year after they were returned as delinquent, the description of all lands in said county heretofore bid off in the name of the State and thus held and upon which taxes which were assessed subsequent to the tax for which such lands were sold to the State have remained unpaid for more than one year after they were returned as delinquent, and the description of all lands in said county which are delinquent for any installment of taxes under the provisions of the act last above mentioned;
- That extended separately in said schedule against each description of said lands therein contained are (a) the total amount of delinquent taxes upon said description for the non-payment of which the same may lawfully be sold at the next annual tax sale, (b) interest computed thereon as provided by law to the first day of May, next ensuing, (c) a collection fee of four per cent and (d) $1.00 for expenses, all in accordance with the provisions of the act first above mentioned;
- That all of the aforesaid taxes, interest and charges are valid, delinquent and unpaid, and have remained delinquent and unpaid for sufficient time to authorize and require, as provided by the foregoing acts, the sale of the aforesaid parcels of land against which they were assessed and are extended in said schedule at the next annual tax sale for the nonpayment thereof, and that said taxes, interest, collection fee and expenses so extended in said schedule against each parcel of land therein described constitute a valid lien upon each of the said several parcels of land described in said schedule as therein and against which extended in favor of the people of the State of Michigan, the payment of which lien this court may enforce as a preferred or first claim upon such lands by the sale thereof.

Wherefore your petitioner prays:

- That within the time provided by law this court may determine and decree that the aforesaid taxes, interest, collection fee and charges are valid and constitute a valid lien upon each of the said several parcels of land described in said schedule as therein extended;
- That within the time provided by law this court make a final decree in favor of the State of Michigan against each parcel of said lands for the payment of the several amounts of taxes, interest, collection fee and expenses, as computed and extended in said schedule against the several parcels of land therein contained;
- That said decree provide that in default of the payment so ordered of the said several sums computed and extended against said lands in said schedule, the said several parcels of land, or such interest therein as may be necessary to satisfy the amount decreed against the same, shall severally be sold as the law provides;
- That your petitioner may have such other and further relief in the premises as to this court may seem just and equitable.

And your petitioner will ever pray, etc.
Dated: January 17, 1946.

JOHN D. MORRISON,
Auditor General of the State of Michigan, for and in behalf of said State.

National City

The people are told to do useful things. One man says that one useful thing he often wants to do is to go home when his wife stays too long at social occasions.

People talk about high moments of their lives. One high moment in many cases was when they bought something more costly than they could afford.

Human knowledge is said to be very limited, but you would not suspect it for you heard some confident people talk and exhibit their learning.

Hand Duster

A good hand duster or sprayer will give effective control of insects and plant diseases. Only in large gardens is power equipment economical, whether for cultivation, spraying, or dusting. The duster or sprayer should be equipped with an extension and an angle nozzle or blower, to make it easy to hit the underside of the leaves, where many insects do most of their feeding.

The world is said to be sitting on the lid that holds down dangerous forces. Apparently it is not enough to sit on the lid, but should be nailed down.

Finland Big

Contrary to popular belief, Finland is not small. In prewar Europe it was the seventh largest nation, extending some 700 miles from the Arctic ocean to the Baltic sea. It was nearly three times the size of England, and close to 30,000 square miles larger than Italy. Its population, however, was less than one-tenth that of either England or Italy.

It used to be said that fat people were usually good natured, but people should not expect they can borrow money of anybody simply because he is overweight.

Women are said to have the hand that rocks the cradle, but some seem to want to spend more time rocking the automobile wheel.

People are told they should learn to "take it." If the thing they are invited to take is money, they are usually able to do so.

THERE'S NO BETTER TIME TO TAKE THAT TRIP THAN RIGHT NOW!

—AND NO BETTER WAY THAN GREYHOUND

Buses will be less crowded, in the next few weeks, than any time this year

You'll be 'way ahead of the crowd if you board a Greyhound today. During the next few weeks—before millions of pleasure-bound Americans start to sweep across the country in their first peacetime vacation year—you can expect more travel comfort than any time in 1946.

If you've delayed a friendly visit, business call, or vacation trip, go right now—go in the comfort of an easy-riding Greyhound motor coach along beautifully-lined highways, at lowest fares.

This year, it's wise to travel early! Any year, it's smart to travel by Greyhound!

SPACIOUS CHAPEL AMBULANCE SERVICE

Reddy Kilowatt SOMETIMES GETS HOT ENOUGH TO BLOW A FUSE Too!

IF you could see inside one of the electric wires back of a wall outlet that carries an octopus like the one pictured here, you would see hundreds of pushing, crowding Reddy Kilowatts fighting to get through to the appliance you want them to operate.

This condition always exists when the wiring is overloaded or is inadequate, causing dimming of lights and inefficient operation of appliances. Many times when these little fellows are crowded so closely together they get plenty HOT, overheating the wire and causing it to blow out the fuse, interrupting the service completely.

This inefficient, wasteful, costly condition is easily corrected by bringing the wiring in your home UP-TO-DATE. Adequate Wiring will enable you to enjoy all the benefits of complete electrical living.

Adequate Wiring SERVES AND SAVES

If you plan to build or remodel, provide adequate wiring and plenty of convenient outlets. Your new home will be only as modern as its electrical wiring. We'll gladly assist you with suggestions regarding your wiring.

Townline

Mrs. Leonard Schriber and daughter spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Freel.

Mr. and Mrs. James Muir and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Ulman and son, Bobbie spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ulman.

Mrs. George Biggs and son, Wayne, spent Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. Ted Winchell and helped out with the chores as Mr. Winchell has been on the sick list the past four days.

Townliners are again starting to wade the mud. Joe Ulman says it's nothing unusual for he's been in it for 70 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Freel and family spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Freel.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee Lange spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Luplow in Saginaw.

Mrs. Annie Ulman has returned home after spending the last few months in Pontiac.

Keith Freel has received his honorable discharge from the army and is spending a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Freel.

Mrs. Norton Freel and Judy spent Tuesday with Mrs. E. Vance.

The people are told to pay attention to the signs of the times. If they don't pay any more attention to those signs than many do to the danger signs along the roads, their attention will not help much.

How would you CHART YOUR COURSE?

Pictured here are the records of four "life lines" of our business—four things which largely control the destiny of any business, whether it be a farm, a factory or a store. They are Wages, Materials Costs, Prices, and Profits. Suppose these were pictures of what is going on in your own affairs. How would you chart your future course from these facts?

What about wages?

Wages have risen steadily for five years. Before the strike which began on January 21 in ten of our plants and which has choked off nearly all farm machinery production, earnings of employees of these plants averaged $1.15 1/2 an hour, not including any overtime. The Union demanded a 34 cents per hour increase and a Government board has now recommended a general increase of 18 cents an hour, which would make average earnings $1.33 1/2 an hour. Weekly average would be $53.40.

What about materials?

No one seems to know how high materials costs will go. The Government has increased steel prices as much as $12.00 a ton, with an average increase for all grades of 8.2%. Steel is the most important material we buy, but prices on other materials are also increasing.

What about prices?

There has been no general increase in our prices since they were frozen by the Government in early 1942. Since then a few small increases have been allowed where particular machines were substantially changed in design.

What about profits?

Risk is part of the American profit and loss system, so we do not, of course, ask either our customers or the Government to guarantee that we can be certain of profits each year. The chart tells the story of our profits during the war. Although Harvester produced more goods than ever before, it had no desire to get rich out of war, so our rate of profit has steadily gone down. What our 1946 profit will be is extremely uncertain.

What is the next step?

As you can see, our present situation is that with frozen prices and declining profits, we are asked to pay higher materials costs and to make the biggest wage increase in the history of the Company. Can we do this?

Wages and materials consume all but a few cents of every dollar we take in. If our prices continue frozen, and cost of wages and materials continues to rise, obviously our Company will begin to operate at a loss at some point.

The exact point at which operating at a loss would start is a matter of judgment. Government agencies and union leaders may have opinions as to where that point is. But if they turn out to be wrong, they can shrug their shoulders and say: "Well, it wasn't my responsibility. I didn't make the decision."

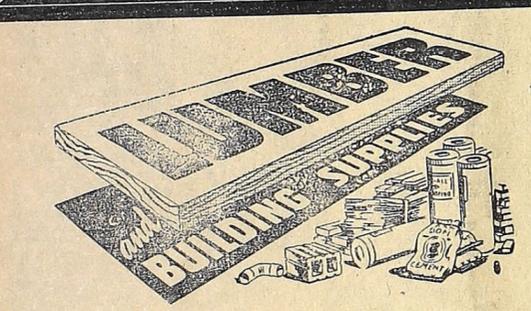

The management of this Company cannot and will not say that. It does not gamble. It has to be sure. Continuation of our service to millions of customers, the future jobs of thousands of employees, and the safety of the investments of 39,000 stockholders depend on our making a correct decision as is humanly possible.

What about future prices on farm machinery?

The judgment of Harvester's management now is that we cannot safely make the huge wage increase recommended by the Government until the Government authorizes adequate increases in the prices of farm machinery to cover the resulting increased costs.

That is not a judgment that makes us happy. The Company does not want to raise prices. We prefer to lower prices, when possible, and we know our customers prefer to have us do that. We have produced at 1942 prices, and hoped we could continue to do so. We have delayed seeking general price relief in the hope that it could be avoided. Now we are convinced that it cannot be avoided any longer. The price question must be settled. Until it is settled we do not see how we can settle the wage question. Until the wage question is settled we do not see how we can resume production and begin turning out the farm machines which we know our farmer customers need.

Because of the important stake which both farmers and city dwellers have in this controversy, we are bringing these matters to your attention. Through the cross currents of today's conditions, we are trying to chart a course that is fair to our employees, to our farmer customers, and to our stockholders.

AN INNER SANCTUM MYSTERY STARRING ARAB AND ANDY BLAKE

THE STORY THUS FAR: Lt. Andy Blake, Operations, was joined by his wife, Arab, who started to work for Ordinance in Washington. She secured a room at a house on "Q" street, run by Renee, whom Andy recognized as a girl he had known in Paris. He got into a fight with Joey, one of the roomers, who was knocked out by Arab found out that the house was being used by German agents. While looking over the ground one night, Andy heard Renee scream. He ran to the back of the house and was attacked by Jones, who was stopped by Renee. He was introduced to Andy as Mr. Jones. Andy decided to search Jones' home.

CHAPTER VII

The files went back five years. Until Pearl Harbor the letters were violently isolationist. Nothing wrong with that, in itself. No matter how wrong the isolationists may have been, plenty of them were sincere and patriotic. They had believed that the lion could lie down with the lamb. But the man who wrote these letters hadn't been sincere. He had written them in this room, as evidence by a half-completed one on the desk. He had read Haushofer and Clausewitz and Mahan and Homer Lea and had still written isolationist stuff. He had been playing his dear subscribers for suckers.

The desk was locked. I didn't feel like breaking it, and some more laws, wide open. I rummaged through the wastebasket, and found a crumpled sheet of paper on which had been written: BETTY—I hope I can make it but we've been working late a lot of nights. Genevieve—It's a wonder to me that trains don't get even more crowded these days, but maybe people are learning to stay home. Neither of those notes meant anything to me, but I put the paper in my billfold, anyway. Then some bits of paper on the floor near the window caught my attention. Plain Mr. Jones had torn up a newspaper clipping, violently. The pieces were ragged and crumpled; the carbon smudges of a rubber heel hinted that he had ground the paper into the carpet with his foot.

I pieced the clipping together. The story was based on a recent broadcast, picked up by the FCC, from a station inside Germany. A man calling himself Gustav Siegfried Eins had told the German people that if only Hitler would kick out that pig Himmler and his Gestapo, all Germany's troubles would be over. He had put in a plug for Germany's old-school generals and admirals, even mentioning by name Admiral Canaris of German Naval Intelligence. They'd have won the war by now, the commentator said, but for Himmler's bungling. The room had been a small gold mine, although it hadn't given up its most important secret. This was the room in which Paula Thompson had seen something curious a week ago. I switched off the flashlight and went to one of the windows. It was possible to see the pin oak outside Arab's window, and I was willing to swear that this was the window which had once been framed like a target in the notch of the pin oak.

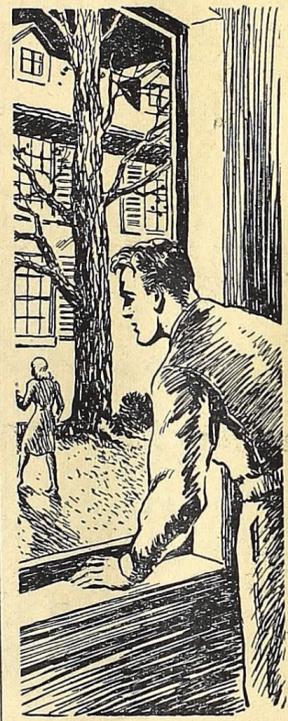

I stared out into the darkness, and then little cakes of ice began breaking away from my spine and drifting out through my arteries. Something had stirred in the unkempt garden. A figure was moving through the bushes toward the Fielding house. Someone else had decided that it was a nice night for a prowler. Someone else wanted to pry around in the Fielding house while everyone was away. But this time the broken stick by the front door wouldn't scream a warning. It would just be a broken stick, not a broken neck. The booby trap was about to be sprung.

The figure in the shrubbery was close to the Fielding house now, moving with less caution. There was a narrow starlit space to be crossed to the last protecting bush. After that, the prowler might decide that there was nothing to worry about, and might walk confidently up to the front door. The figure slipped across to the last bush. Starlight glimmered for a moment on slim silken legs and on shoulder-length blonde hair. It was Arab.

I didn't think anything out. My fingers hooked around a straight chair and slammed it at the window. It went through in a crashing spray of glass. I stuck my head in the opening and let out a yell that scalded my throat. Not a yell to Arab. Not a warning. I made it a shriek which curled off into a maniacal laugh. A whip cracked beside my ear and there was a slamming noise and plaster smoked from a small hole in the wall. I hit the floor and stayed there. He had taken a snap shot as I crossed in front of a window. The guy could shoot. If I had been moving a trifle slower he might not have marked the plaster.

My wild career had ended in the study. I hugged the floor and wondered whether Plain Mr. Jones were on the second or third floor of the Fielding house. If he were on the second, I could crawl safely out of the room, zip downstairs, and leave quietly by the front or back door or by a window on the side away from the Fielding house. But if he were on the third floor, he would have a line of sight which would hit the floor of the study near the door. . . . and a crawling man would make a sweet target. The best idea might be to make a sprint for it. I lay there and worked things out as carefully and wrongly as possible. Because, suddenly, every light in the house went out. A master switch had been thrown downstairs. I was alone in the house with the fat man. I could picture him creeping up the stairs. His head would be sunk in its collar of fat. He would be feeling the air ahead of him with pudgy fingers. Once again my memory flashed me that rice-paper print with Fujiyama in the background and a fat, deadly Jap wrestler hunching forward in the foreground. It was no use lying there. I couldn't hope for outside help. In this neighborhood of big estates a distant shot would pass as a car backing. I got up, grabbed another straight chair, ran quietly into the black hall and heaved the chair downstairs. It caromed off something soft near the bottom. Something which grunted. I rushed back, got an upholstered chair, and sent that down too. I tried a couple of gibbering laughs to help the nerve war along, then crept about easing light switches into off position and unscrewing all the bulbs I could find. Now and then I lobbed a bulb down the stairs to keep him from sneaking up; they exploded nastily and probably sprayed glass over quite an area. But I ran out of light bulbs much too soon. There was nothing now to keep him from slipping upstairs. He must realize that I didn't have a gun. I realized that I had picked a blind alley. I should have stayed in the hall and waited for him to make a noise. Now I was afraid to return to the hall. He might already be upstairs. I might be the one to make a noise, and he might be the one waiting. I papered myself against a wall of the study and lost interest in being the life of the party.

I stood quite still and felt out on both sides for a weapon. My fingers touched something, explored it, then leaped away as if scorched. The something had been a bald head. For a moment I couldn't budge. Then I got tough with myself. Plain Mr. Jones wouldn't have waited patiently while I tickled his head. And he couldn't have shrunk so much in height. I felt for the object again, located the bald head, and found a series of scallops circling it. It was the laurel-wreathed bust of Caesar.

I slid my hand down to Caesar's neck. The bust was heavy but manageable. I crouched, held the bust up and to the right, away from my body, and crept out from the wall. If I had estimated the fat man's position correctly I would pass between him and the dull gray rectangle of one of the windows. The bust ought to make a nice silhouette. I moved two steps, three, four, five—

Everything happened at once. The bust of Caesar twisted out of my grasp and a shock numbed my arm and the fat man screamed. He had mistaken Caesar for me, as I had hoped. He had leaped and clipped it with the edge of his palm. My arm tingled as if he had used a baseball bat. I reached out, touched serge-covered bulk, ripped hooks into him. Then I caught it. A blow slashed across my right temple and sent sparks flickering through my head. It spun me around. I fought for balance like a drunk trying to stand in a canoe. I stumbled toward the spot where the door ought to be, and rammed into a wall. I got panicky. I was lost. I couldn't locate the door or windows or the fat man. I yanked the flashlight from my pocket and swept its beam around the room. The door was a foot away. In the middle of the room the fat man seemed to be wrestling insanely with himself. His right hand dangled uselessly while his left was crossed over his body trying to dig into his right pants pocket. I watched stupidly. I didn't get it—not until his pocket ripped and his left hand swung out gripping a revolver. Only one thing saved me: he wasn't a southpaw. He had the gun reversed and his fingers were tripping over each other as he tried to hold it and turn it one-handed. A lot had happened in about ten seconds. It had happened too fast for me. I was still dizzy and my thoughts were a couple of seconds behind the action. It was like being paralyzed. Things were moving in high and I was in low gear. I watched him juggle the gun, and then there was a blast of sound and a flash two feet from my face. Caesar's head exploded into fragments. It hadn't been marble at all, just plaster of Paris with a fake finish. I collected these details and sorted them like an old man counting change. Somebody had spoken, too. Had snapped, "Drop it—fast!" And, by the time I began wondering whether the speaker had meant my flashlight, the fat man's gun clattered obediently to the floor. I added these curious details to the others.

A familiar voice whispered in my ear, "Keep that light in his eyes." I nodded and did as I was told. The light didn't seem to penetrate the fat man's glasses. The lenses bent the light, refracted it, as if made of flawed quartz. He didn't look like a man wearing glasses. He was a new kind of insect with flat glaring eyes. Down at floor level, so far outside the cone of light that it was hard to see details, a hand scooped up the revolver. A hand with slender fingers. A girl's hand. It must have been Arab who had spoken to me. She tugged at me, and we backed through the door. I was catching up with events now. I kept the flashlight aimed back into the room. The fat man didn't move; only the flat disks of his glasses turned, looking into the light. Arab shook me. "Andy," she whispered, "can you run?"

"Run? Run?" I rattled my head from side to side. The dizziness shook together in one corner under my right temple. The spot began to hurt, but it was all to the good. The pain was like sniffing ammonia. "I'm O. K. now," I said. "Beat it downstairs and cover me." We climbed into the car and let it jangle for a couple of blocks. I drove silently, conscious of Arab edging closer to me and peeping up at my face. Every time her shoulder touched mine it left a tingle. I wanted to grab her and tell her that she was a little idiot and I was a big one, but it wouldn't make sense. Not with Joey Raeder in the picture. All I could do was to go on trying to keep her out of the obit columns. Just then she switched off the ignition and took the key. The car coasted to a halt, and she said meekly, "That was a hint."

I said, "This will acknowledge receipt of your hint of October twenty-second. It is regretted that no action can be taken at the present time." "You stop that, Andy Blake," she flared. "What does a girl have to do nowadays to get a pass made at her—flash a gun?" "We've got to get you back to that picnic. You need to be fitted with either an alibi or armor plate." "Andy, don't I mean anything to you any more?" "I don't know. I've got to think things out." "I do, Andy, I know I do! Or you wouldn't be taking such care of me. Like tonight and that time you got Sadie to shorten my white raincoat. She told me about it. Why did you go to all that trouble if . . . if . . ."

"I'm just trying to save the War Department a good secretary." "I don't want to talk about secretaries," she wailed. "Why are we talking about secretaries? All I wanted was for you to kiss me and you talk about secretaries and I'm all mixed up!" She tucked her head down on my arm and began to cry. I patted her head. Her hair felt warm and crinkly. "You're just upset by this mess tonight," I mumbled. "You think I kept you out of some grief and you're grateful and—"

"I am not grateful! I'm not grateful to you for anything except loving me and now you don't any more. And you might just as well stop looking after me because I don't care what happens." She sat up and pounded my arm with her fists. "If I don't mean anything to you, what are you going around saving me for?" "I couldn't help it. I growled, 'For Joey Raeder.'" She took a short quivering breath and held it and stared at me. "Oh, darling," she said, "you haven't been worrying about him!" "I couldn't help it. I tried to tell myself you were only stringing him along to pump him for news, but it didn't work. Not after you didn't tell me about those data."

Crippled Children Living in Palace Prince Umberto Provides Home for Stricken.

ROME. — Thirty children — once healthy and normal, but today blind or crippled refugees from Cassino and other Italian towns where the Allies fought the Germans — have found a home in Rome's royal palace.

Boys and girls, 4 to 12 years old, some without legs and arms, others with faces marked with powder burns from mines and bombs, are living in the Quirinal, the palace of Prince Umberto, lieutenant general of the realm. More than a year ago the prince assigned the children a building facing the principal garden of the Quirinal. The children are wards of the Italian Chapter of the Sovereign Order of Malta, organized in 1099 to take part in the Crusades. Today the order supports hospitals, child clinics, and other welfare projects in many European countries.

Found by American, British and Brazilian soldiers in the battle area during the fighting for Central Italy, they were given first aid and hospitalization and later brought to Rome. "The greatest difficulty," said Prince Umberto recently, "was to remove the traces of nervous shock from which they were suffering." The prince described how the attentions and care of five Sisters of Charity, members of the blue-garbed order of hospital nuns founded by St. Vincent de Paul, have helped the children.

Because of their frequent visits, the prince and his children are well known to most of the children. When, during a recent visit, seven-year-old blind Vittorio called him over to show him a toy, the prince explained that Vittorio was in his mother's arms when a German bullet killed her, grazed the child's temple and cut the optic nerve. Umberto pointed out little Italo, aged 10, who lost not only his sight but also both arms below the elbow. "While most of the children who have lost their sight are learning to feel things with their hands," the prince said, "Italo is doubly handicapped, but still has the spunk to take a lively interest in everything."

Red Cross Help for War Bride to Be Adequate

WASHINGTON. — The American Red Cross announced that it was assigning recreation and social workers to ships bringing war brides to New York and San Francisco. Red Cross chapters in the port cities will assist wives and children of servicemen and veterans on their arrival and others will help out in towns where they have long stopovers. In towns to which the wives and children are going, the Red Cross said it would make sure the relatives expected and were prepared to receive them. It said that the war department had asked it to discourage plans for husbands and other relatives to meet incoming ships. The army had set aside special ships to bring war brides to this country.

Becoming a Father Is Busy Day for Chester

WALPOLE, MASS.—Chester Orlando, former G.I., calmed down from the excitement of becoming a father. A maternity hospital awakened Orlando to tell him he was a father of the three-pound baby for which an incubator would have to be brought from Boston. Orlando set off by automobile. A few miles from Boston his car collided with a truck, injuring his leg. He limped to a telephone, summoned a police ambulance which rushed him to Boston, then back to Norwood with the incubator. He returned home. The kitchen range had become overheated and set fire to the house. The fire was extinguished. "We haven't lost a father yet," a hospital attendant said, crossing her fingers.

Dental Technicians Are Scarce in U. S. Army

TOKYO. — Allied headquarters recently listed dental laboratory technicians, orthopedic mechanics and medical laboratory technicians in "scarce" categories, subject to retention for six months after they become eligible for discharge. It said Washington had listed medical and dental officers with adjusted service rating of 60 points or 39 months' service or those more than 45 years old as eligible for discharge.

Hopes for Hosiery Hang by a Thread

WASHINGTON. — The only bright note on the lady's hosiery front isn't too bright. The Civilian Production Administration says it will be six months to a year before the shortage is over but that it should ease up very soon. Nylon production increases.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By HAROLD L. LUNDQUIST, D. D. Of The Moody Bible Institute of Chicago. Released by Western Newspaper Union.

Lesson for March 24

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts selected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by permission. A PEOPLE GAINS NATIONAL CONSCIOUSNESS LESSON TEXT—I Samuel 7:1-8, 13-15. MEMORY SELECTION—Obey my voice, and I will be your God, and ye shall be my people; and walk ye in all the ways that I have commanded you, that it may be well unto you.—Jeremiah 7:23.

The most powerful movement for national prosperity is a revival of spiritual Christian living. Israel had come to the place where the people recognized that they were on the brink of national disaster. One of the scriptures on revival is II Chronicles 7:14: "If my people, which are called by my name, shall humble themselves, and pray, and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways; then will I hear from heaven, and will forgive their sin, and will heal their land."

This is the way of revival and prosperity for America, too. Revival will come when God's people will I. Seek God's Face (vv. 1, 2). The ark had been out of its proper place for a long time. The ungodly Philistines had it, but they were glad to return it. The calamities which befell them speak of distress in the heart of an unbeliever when the presence of God is evident. For a time the ark was in the house of Abinadab, but even there it was not in its rightful place. Samuel moved among the people, pointing them back to God. This was his first act of public ministry, but behind that public act is the history of a godly life. Such a man can consistently urge others to turn to God. The response of the people was wholehearted. They were thoroughly sick of their sin and separation from God. The earnest of their sincerity was their obedience to the admonition of Samuel that they II. Turn From Their Wicked Ways (vv. 3, 4).

Israel had learned from their heathen neighbors to worship their false gods. These they must put away if God was to bless them. The same prerequisite to spiritual revival exists today. But some may say, We do not worship heathen gods. One is astonished at the similarity between the ritual of some cults and orders and the ancient religions of heathendom. The fact is that we have set up many new gods—money, fashion, social position. The command needs to go out again through God's messengers. "Put away the foreign gods." Now the time had come for God's servant to call the people to III. Humble Themselves and Pray (vv. 5-8). Spiritual life thrives on the gathering together of God's people. The crisis in Israel was met by a great convocation of the people. We need to revive the great soul-stirring religious gatherings of a generation ago. We can get plenty of people together for a football game, but where are the people who should be in our churches? "I will pray," said Samuel. He was a great intercessor (see I Sam. 15:11; Ps. 99:6; Jer. 15:1). Revival never comes without faithful intercession on the part of those whose hearts are really burdened. Ask yourself, How much have I really prayed for revival in my church, my community, and my nation? If I should begin to pray in earnest, would not God hear me and answer? IV. God Will Hear and Forgive (vv. 13-15). Because his people had sought him in humility and repentance, God forgave and cleansed and gave them victory. "Behold, the Lord's hand is not shortened, that it cannot save; neither his ear heavy, that it cannot hear" (Isa. 59:1, 2). God saved Israel out of the hands of their enemies. The Philistines, seeing them gathered together to pray, assumed that they were preparing to fight, and they attacked. In the previous battle at that very spot (I Sam. 4:1-10), Israel had fought with weapons of men and been disgracefully defeated. Now they fought with the weapon of prayer and faith in God, and great was the victory. America is valiantly battling against the social and economic problems of these distressing post-war days, but one fears that all too often the weapons are those of the arm of flesh which will fail us. Let us look up instead of to one another. "God will save us" (v. 8).

There is an inspiring word of hope here for every troubled soul. You may like Israel, have fallen into sin. Your life may be defeated. You may be utterly discouraged. Return to the Lord, put away sin, gather with God's people, pray, and God will give you victory, even at the very point of former defeat.

Gems of Thought

BELIEVE me when I tell you that thrift of time will repay you in after-life, with a usury of profit beyond your most sanguine dreams; and that waste of it will make you dwindle alike in intellectual and moral stature, beyond your darkest reckoning.—W. E. Gladstone.

Hail, guest, we ask not what thou art;
If friend, we greet thee, hand and heart;
If stranger, such no longer be;
If foe, our love shall conquer thee.—Paul Elmer More.

Despite his self-ignorance, there is no man but knows more evil of himself than he does of his neighbor. — Bishop Wilson.

Kidneys Must Work Well

For You To Feel Well

24 hours every day, 7 days every week, never stopping, the kidneys filter waste materials from the blood. If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove surplus fluid, excess acids and other waste matter that enter stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole system is upset when kidneys fail to function properly.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warns that something is wrong. You may suffer nagging backache, headaches, dizziness, rheumatic pains, getting up at night, swelling. Why not try Doan's Pills? You will be using a medicine recommended the country over. Doan's stimulates the function of the kidneys and help them to flush out poisonous waste from the blood. They contain nothing harmful. Get Doan's today. Use with confidence. At all drug stores.

London and Kansas City. . . .
Plymouth and Hannibal. . . .
Liverpool and Independence. . . .
Shropshire and Calloway. . . .
Nottingham and Taney. . . .
The Thames and "Big Muddy!"

This is Westminster College, Winnie. . . .
Westminster away out among the longhorns. . . .
Its name is English but it's all Missouri. . . .
It's not one of the big colleges But it's a right smart one. . . .
It is no Yale or Harvard in prestige. . . .
But it teaches 'em so they "stay taught."

There must be Missouri stuff in you, Winnie. . . .
The stuff of Huck Finn and Joe Folk. . . .
Claiborne Jackson and Charlie Hardin. . . .
Alec McNair and Mark Twain.

You don't really need a degree. . . .
You've got more than an Injun has feathers. . . .
But this one won't hurt you: "The Honorable Winston Churchill Honorary Old Grad of Westminster, Mo. . . .
Alumnus of the Golden West!"

Missourians have to be shown. . . .
You showed 'em, Winnie. . . .
As you have shown the world. Have an honorary degree. . . .
And some Missouri ham and candied yams! . . .
Help yourself to Missouri hospital-ity. . . .
But don't let that Truman boy Give you any of those Eastern cigars! . . .

MAINE WINTERS SOFTENING UP

"The State is warming up. At North Jay a house that was built by mistake so the keyhole in the front door lines up with the prevailing winter winds has sometimes taken in as much as 37 bushels of snow through the keyhole in a single storm. It's been five years now since any storm has blown in more than 18 bushels. No storm this winter has blown in more than 15."—John Gould of Lisbon Falls, Maine, in the New York Times.

CAN YOU REMEMBER—

Away back when you could find a place to get away from trouble?

When anybody with fair eyesight could tell the difference between a $5,000 one-family home and a $125 chicken house?

And away back when it isolated a man if he said he hadn't a shirt to his back?

Boyhood's Greatest Thrill

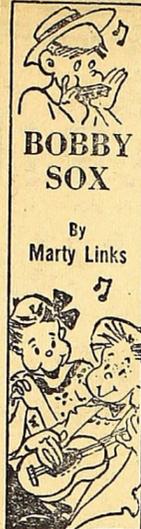

Buffalo Bill was born 100 years ago. We feel sorry for kids to whom he is a remote figure. What a thriller the Buffalo Bill Wild West and Congress of Rough Riders was to the small fry of yesterday! It came every year back home, and one of our earliest memories is seeing Buffalo Bill in the flesh, riding down Whalley avenue in an open buggy, at the head of the Injuns, cowboys and buffalo hunters. The show was held in Westville, just back of the Nick Hubinger mansion. Once, lacking money to get in, we climbed a tree to see the show and we almost imagine we got riddled by stray bullets in the hold-up of the Deadwood stage.

HERE AND THERE

Ilka Chase is running a fever after reading the reviews on "I Love Miss Tilli Bean." . . . Clifton Finnegan is our favorite radio comic. . . . "A Walk in the Sun" is the most graphic war picture yet ed has seen. . . . A book title with a kick, "Applejack for Breakfast." . . . There will be a big black market in beer this summer.

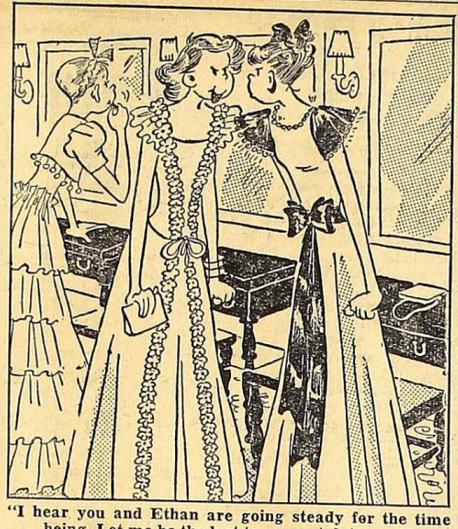

Laugh line from "Truckline Cafe": An optimist is a fellow who worries about the future in the atomic bomb age.

Dr. John William Mauchly, 38, and J. Prescher Eckert Jr., 26, have invented and developed the eniac, an electronic machine that can compute and answer questions in the twinkling of an eye. This practically does away with John Kieran and promises a war to the finish between the inventors and Dan Golenpaul.

ST. PETERSBURG, FLA. — Variety is supposed to be the spice of life, but so are arguments in a baseball training camp. The argument this time, including members of the Cardinals and the Yankees, had something to do with brains on and off the ball field.

"Why is it?" one Cardinal wanted to know, "that a fellow can be smart in many ways, but dumb when he gets into football or baseball? Or why he can be pretty dumb until he gets into some athletic competition, when he may be smarter than almost anybody?"

This is a fair question. Does anyone recall the most intelligent member of the old Giant team from 1908 through 1913? I can give you his name. He is better known as Bonehead Merkle — the Giant who forgot to touch second base in 1908. Yet Fred Merkle was the best educated member of the Giant squad. But his reflexes on the ball field failed to operate as quickly as some others who would have been baffled by McGuffey's second reader. Fred had to take time to think things out. You can't do that when split second co-ordination or intuition must rule.

For example, Rube Waddell was a mental eccentric. But there were few smarter, once the gangling Rube reached the mound with a baseball in his left hand.

There were two famous ball players who, as far as I know, never made a mental mistake on the field. One was Babe Ruth who came along from an industrial school. The other was Nap Lajoie who was lifted from a cab driver's seat in Woonsocket, R. I., and a trifle later was surrounded and captured by Uncle Egbert Barrow.

Neither needed any college degree to be smart on a ball field. They were born that way.

Instinct and Intuition

The athlete who is naturally smart in competition must have a high degree of instinct, intuition and concentration. I know Eddie Arcaro figures it that way in racing.

"You haven't time to think in a split second," he told me once. "There's an opening or there isn't an opening, and you have to make up your mind in a flash. Which means largely instinct for the right things to do."

Ty Cobb had this natural instinct. This ability to concentrate, but Cobb also worked on these natural gifts.

"I used to lay in bed at night for hours thinking up plays," he said once. "I planned some of these plays weeks ahead against certain teams."

Old time ball players had no motor cars, movies, night clubs or other distractions to kill time. So many of them thought only about baseball. I mean such men as King Mike Kelly, Kid Nichols, John Montgomery Ward, Charlie Comiskey, Hughey Jennings, Clark Griffith, John McGraw and most of the old Orioles.

The main mental asset in any game is concentration. Many have this needed ingredient more than others. But the art or knack of concentration can also be developed. Concentration means keeping your mind on the job from start to finish.

As Knute Rockne used to tell his squad—"Keep physically relaxed — but mentally alert."

Borowy's Predictions

We caught Hank Borowy on the fly just as he was heading for the Cub camp and Catalina island.

"How about Cub prospects?" we queried.

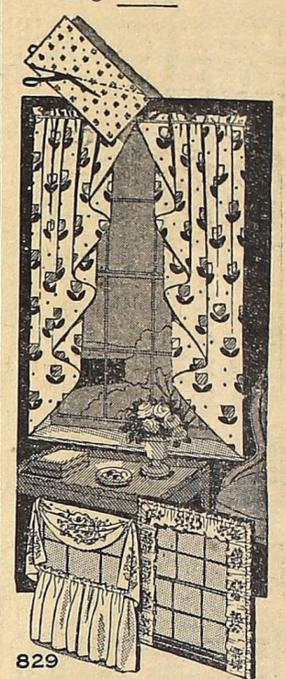

"We'll need all the pitching we can get this season," the Cub star said. "By that I mean most of the other clubs will be stronger where we will have about the same cast. We got little back from the service. The Cardinals, Giants and Dodgers will all be stronger. So will the Pirates, Braves and Phillies."

"We'll be pitching to better hitting strength all along the line, while at the plate we face improved pitching also. That means tough going. A flock of dangerous hitters have been added to the league since last fall.

"Hitting in the two leagues? I can't see much difference. I had a better record in the National than I had in the American. But my arm was in much better shape when I joined the Cubs."

I asked Borowy how the National league race looked from his angle.

Well, Can't a Young Lady Have Dreams?

She was pretty and ambitious and had studied the matrimonial problem to a nicety.

"Yes, I suppose I shall marry eventually," she said, "but the only kind of masculine nuisance that will suit me must be tall and dark with classical features. He must be brave, yet gentle. He must be strong — a lion among men, but a knight among women."

That evening a bow-legged, lath-framed, chinless youth, wearing flannel bags and smoking a cigarette that smelt worse than a burning boot, rattled on the back door and the girl knocked four tumblers and a cut glass dish off the sideboard in her haste to let him in.

AuGres River. Drive down, if you can, and see it, then ask the Road Commission what happened to the bridge on this important road. Important it is, for it is a connecting link between the National Gypsum Plant and a number of Gypsum employees have to travel over this route.

Several employees have taken pictures of various parts of these roads and we hope to publish these if the facilities to do this are available. Nature has shown that again there has been "Too little and too late" in providing for our roads.

We would like the readers of the newspapers to send us their ideas on this subject. Do you want it to continue? There is a Committee man in your neighborhood, write or tell him what you think should be done. Your name will not be used without your written consent.
