TAWAS CITY

Weather Favors Tawas Builders

New Business Places Under Construction

Homes, Cottages and Cabins Underway

The unusually fine weather during the past few days has given an added impetus to building operations in the city, and contractors, carpenters and masons are busy on every hand. In addition to a number of cottages, cabins and homes, under construction, or being remodeled, work has been started on a number of business places here. Included among these are: Barnes Hotel, Packard Sales Building, Cowan Garage, and the Tawas City Recreation.

Kenneth Barnes is completely remodeling the Barnes Hotel. When completed it will be 60x150 feet. The new addition is being built in modern concrete construction and will give the hotel a beautiful front lighted by picture windows, glass brick panels and a semi-circular glass brick entrance.

The improvements will give the hotel six more bedrooms, enlarged dining room facilities and a handsome lobby, with a new stairway to the second floor of the building.

Albert Howitsen has charge of the carpenter work on the building and James Boomer, the mason work.

Between the Whitfield Building and the Fox Hardware, a structure is being built for the Goupil Motor Sales by George Whitfield. The building will be of concrete and steel construction with a brick and plate glass front. The Goupil Motor Sales, operated by Bruce Goupil, will handle Packard cars and Geo. trucks.

Charles Moeller is getting the Tawas City Recreation Building ready for remodeling. The building and equipment were badly damaged by fire recently. It will be enlarged and redecorated, and ten new Brunswick alleys will be installed. Mr. Moeller states that he hopes to have the work completed by August.

The work of remodeling the old Evans Building is well underway. W. E. Slaven, the new owner, says that his super market will be ready to operate by May 1. Modern market fixtures are being installed. Work on the exterior of the building is now in progress. When completed Mr. Slaven will have an excellent appearing market.

The new Bay-Vue Grill, owned by Frank Barrett, is nearly completed. Work is in progress on the concrete terrace and entrance.

A very extensive project of remodeling has been in progress at the Keiser Building this spring. It includes enlarging the drug store sales room and the construction of a handsome basement sales room in connection with the 5c to $1.00 Store. This work is by George Neumann.

McKenzie Resigns As Chairman of Price-Ration Board

Word was received Thursday evening that County Clerk, Russell H. McKenzie had resigned as chairman of the Iosco-Arenac Price Control Board. His resignation has been accepted effective April 1.

McKenzie has capably headed the Iosco county rationing and price control since it was first instituted. He stated yesterday evening, that press of duties was his reason for handing in his resignation.

Iosco Draft Board Clerk is Honored

Mrs. Mable Kobs, of Tawas City has received a certificate from the National Selective Service headquarters, Washington, D. C. in recognition of her service with the Iosco county local draft board. She has served five years and five months as chief clerk. The certificate is signed by Lewis B. Hershey, director.

Wins First Prize in Area Essay Contest

Award Goes to Mary Rempert, Tawas City

The results of the student essay contest in area 25, of Michigan Adult Education held during the Home and Family Living Week, December 7-14, were recently received by the local school. Mary Rempert, a Tawas City sophomore was awarded first place by the judges. Beverly Gould of Harrisville, and Gladys Upton of Standish were awarded second and third places, respectively.

The judges were Dr. Card of the Department of Public Instruction, Mr. Geyer of the Michigan Youth Guidance Commission, and Miss McGuire of the English Department of Michigan State College.

These three high school students are to be congratulated. A total of 600 manuscripts was submitted in this contest, and the area included all of the high schools in Arenac, Iosco, Alcona, and Alpena counties.

FOR SALE—White pine and oak timber. George LePere, Route 2 12-2p

War Finance Workers to Get Awards

Friedman Chairman 5 Years Gets Gold Medal

During the five years that the Iosco County War Finance Committee was in operation in Iosco county eight bond campaigns were handled. In each drive Iosco county went "Over the Top" and more than $1,000,000.00 worth of "E" bonds were sold.

H. E. Friedman of this city was one of the five men in the state who acted continuously as county war finance committee chairman since these committees were first organized. Mr. Friedman was awarded by the United States Treasury Department with a medal. Seven of Iosco county's top Gallants will also receive medals. The Gallant community chairmen and newspapers of the county received silver plaques. Every Gallant will receive a Certificate of Merit.

In answering the presentation of the medals and certificates yesterday, Mr. Friedman said, "In recognition of their fine work, I would like to thank the members of committee, and every gallant for making Iosco county 100 per cent driving each one of the eight bond drives. I also wish to thank and congratulate every bond purchaser in the county in making it possible to attain this fine record. I hope that everyone who purchased bonds will keep them until maturity because there is no better investment in the world."

Crocker Adds Brokerage to Real Estate Business

N. J. Crocker is starting a Brokerage Department, in connection with his Real Estate business.

Stuart H. White, will have charge of this department and they aim to give Iosco County another up to date Real Estate Exchange.

Mr. White says, "We are in position to handle all kinds of property, and give the public the benefit of 30 years of Mr. Crocker's experience in the Real Estate business."

"For the present all business will be handled from N. J. Crocker's office at Ottawas Beach."

Table Top Restricts Beer Sale Hours

At a meeting of the Iosco Unit of the Table Top Congress, held at the Court House Wednesday, March 27th it was agreed that due to the shortage of beer, all beer available will be served between the hours of 4:30 P. M. and 10:00 P. M. daily. These hours become effective April 1, 1946. The above hours will not affect the regular opening and closing hours of the licensees, who will continue to sell wines and liquors as usual.

Wednesday, April 17, at Tawas City—Rev. Harold G. Ausbury, Assembly of God pastor of East Tawas.

Thursday, April 18, at East Tawas—Rev. Paul Dean, Pastor of Baptist Church of Tawas City.

Good Friday Service, 12:00-3:00 at East Tawas will be held in the Methodist church.

At Tawas City, 12:00-3:00, will be held in the Baptist Church. The local pastors will participate in both services.

District Boy Scouts Meet At Oscoda

Court of Honor Ceremonies Held

Scouts of East Tawas, Oscoda, Harrisville, Lincoln and Glennie, with parents and friends, gathered at the Oscoda Gym Tuesday evening for an evening of Scouting events with Field Executive Carter H. Miller in charge.

The program opened with a court of honor at which Sidney Barkman of Troop 60, East Tawas, received nine merit badges, including Life Rank. The Life Rank Badge was pinned on by Sidney's mother.

A rally of events followed the Court of Honor.

Field Executive Miller was in charge, assisted by District Commander Klineck of East Tawas, by the scoutmasters of the several troops and others.

Awards for the events were presented to the troops in the form of silk ribbons by District Commissioner Klineck and the meeting ended with the Scout Closing Ceremony.

Auxiliary will Hold Regular Meeting Monday

The Auxiliary of the American Legion, Jesse Hodder Post will hold their monthly meeting next Monday evening at the billet. Two new members will be initiated.

White Again To Head Iosco Sportsmen Club

Spend $1,000.00 for Game Improvement

Thomas White was reelected president of the Iosco Sportsmen Club at the annual meeting held at the Community Building, East Tawas. At this meeting the officers reported a successful year with more than $1,000 expended by the club for improving hunting and fishing in the county. The club has 529 members.

Other officers elected at the annual meeting were: Dr. E. A. Hasty of Whittemore, vice president; E. A. Cuny of Grant township, secretary and W. C. Roach of Tawas City, treasurer. Bert Johnson of Tawas City was elected to fill a vacancy on the board of directors.

The financial report for the year, showed the receipts of $1643.08, and expenditures of $1093.23. The cash balance as of January 1, 1946, was $549.79.

On April 25 the club will hold its big annual banquet at the Tawas City Gymnasium. Tickets for the banquet will be $1.50.

Baseball Plans to be Made Monday Evening

It was decided at a meeting of the Tawas City Sports Booster Club Wednesday, to call a baseball meeting, Monday, April 1 at the Tawas City High School gym. The business meeting will be devoted to baseball, and the Tawas City entry in the Northeastern Michigan League. Anyone interested, as a player or fan, be sure to be on hand. Business meeting will begin promptly at eight o'clock.

The Secretary of the Club, William G. Murray, reports a membership of fifty so far. It is hoped to raise the membership high enough to carry out a good sports program for Tawas City. In next weeks paper a list of the club members thus far will be published. Junior membership cards will be available next week, for all under 18 years of age, when requested by parents.

After Wednesday's business meeting, all of the club's energy was turned to the gym playing floor where Charlie Moeller's "Wild-cats," and Carl Libka's "stalwarts" fought it out in a four game series of Volley ball, ending up with each team winning two. The evening was climaxed with a three fall wrestling match with Ed. Coyle and Randy Fox furnishing the opposition. Basketball was also played, before the business meeting.

Reckless automobile drivers might well indicate what hospital they want to go to if anything happens to them.

WANTED—Men for track work on Erie and Michigan Railway. Inquire of A. A. Bigelow. 12-2b

LEWIS IN REAL ESTATE
WASHINGTON.—Just how vigorously John L. Lewis plans to enter his battle to recapture the CIO came out at the AFL executive board meeting in Miami, where the bushy-browed labor thespian joined his former enemies in a holy war against his former friends, Phil Murray and the CIO.

One of Lewis' first moves was to persuade the AFL to move out of its shabby 30-year-old headquarters to a modern streamlined building near the White House.

Lewis was named chairman of an AFL committee to acquire the new building. Some years ago John paid a quarter of a million for the University club, once the home of Washington elite, and made it his United Mine Workers headquarters.

'VOTED AGAINST VETERANS'

Veterans are considering a new symbol which may become as famous as the label "Made by Union Labor." It will probably take the form of the initials "VAV."

When these initials are used immediately following a congressman's name, it will indicate that he "voted against veterans."

Congressmen, already sensitive about this year's elections, are worried sick about the recent vote on housing for veterans, especially the vote on subsidies which would have permitted low-cost homes at a price-range which veterans could afford.

This worry was why congress ducked a roll-call vote. If each congressman had been forced to stand up and be counted, it would have been political suicide for some.

The Democrats, despite a plea from President Truman himself, plus telegrams from Bob Hannegan, split ranks. Here are the Democrats who in the future will be labeled "VAVH" (voted against veterans' housing) in this important test vote: Barden, N. C.; Brown, Ga.; Camp, Ga.; Colmer, Miss.; Cox, Ga.; Cravens, Ark.; Dougherty, N. C.; Durham, N. C.; Earhartman, Tenn.; Ervin, N. C.; Gathings, Ark.; Gibson, Ga.; Hare, S. C.; Lanham, Texas; McMillan, S. C.; Manasco, Ala.; May, Ky.; Mills, Ark.; Murdock, Ariz.; Murray, Tenn.; Pacen, Ga.; Page, Texas; Riley, S. C.; Roe, Md.; Russell, Texas; Slaughter, Mo.; Smith, Va.; Summers, Texas; Tarver, Ga.; Vinson, Ga.; Whitten, Miss.; Whittington, Miss.

NYE'S RESIDENCE

Ex-Senator Gerald Nye took a setback in his first attempt to return to his old senate seat. People in North Dakota didn't like the fact that Nye continued his residence in Maryland, though running in North Dakota, and he didn't get far in the first Republican primaries.

STEEL HEADACHE

One of the biggest reconversion headaches is lack of steel. Hundreds of smaller firms, including Henry Kaiser's new auto company, can't get steel, while strike-struck General Motors was gorged with it. Recently General Motors officials traveled to Washington, wangled a promise from OPAdministrator Jack Small that he would not confiscate the thousands of tons of strategic materials which General Motors is hoarding. Small has cracked down on smaller companies hoarding nylons, but General Motors appears too big to touch.

CAPITAL CHAFF

Democrats were wrangling last week about the right of Chicago's Representative Sabath to be heard as much as Mississippi's Representative John Rankin. Meanwhile, GOP Leader Joe Martin went over to Democrat Mike Monroney of Oklahoma and said: "Mike, the next time you Democrats get into a scrap like this and it comes to a vote, we're just going to vote 'present' and let you Democrats fight it out yourselves." . . . Atlanta's new congresswoman, Mrs. Helen Douglas Mankin, has been assiduously cultivated by the Georgia delegation—with long visits on the floor of the house even from the two Georgia senators—George and Russel. But the first chance she got she voted against Rankin.

GI Joe (Pony) Is Sold for $20,000

CHICAGO.—The price of "G.I. Joe" has been zooming the last few months. Now he's worth $20,000. Joe is a Shetland pony who brought an all-time high of $13,500 at the Chicago Coliseum horse show last November. Recently an Indianapolis business man who bought Joe in Chicago sold him to J. L. Young-husband, Valley View farm, Barrington for $20,000. The pony, greatest of his breed in ring competition in the last 10 years, cost an industry, Ill., man $1,500. He sold Joe for $10,000 at the show to a Springfield buyer and H. Leslie Atlas of Wheaton. They in turn sold him to the Indianapolis man.

VIGOROUS LOBBYING

Capitol Hill today is more besieged by lobbyists than at any time in years. Big utility lobbyists are working against any increase of federal power, even passing out nylons to congressmen's wives to win votes. The American Legion is buttonholing senators in favor of military conscription, and the railroad lobbyists are pulling wires in favor of the Bulwinkle bill which exempt the railroads from anti-trust suits.

In These United States

Little Town in Kansas Is 'Oberammergau of Plains'

LINDSBORG, KAN.—On Sunday, April 14, and again on Easter Sunday, April 21, thousands of pilgrims will come to Lindsburg, "Oberammergau of the Plains," to pay their homage to "The Messiah," just as they have done for the past 64 years, since 1882. So much a tradition has it become that pilgrimages from all parts of the Middle West are made each Easter season to hear the inspired singing of villagers and town folk in Prosser hall, Bethany college.

Handel's "Messiah" has been sung 181 times by the Bethany college oratorio society and will be sung the 182nd time on Palm Sunday and the 183rd time on Easter Sunday. The chorus of 500 voices and orchestra of 65 pieces will be directed by Dr. Hagbard Brase, who has been the conductor since 1915.

It was the Rev. Olaf Olsson, a lover of music, who organized the first choir in Lindsburg. Later, another Lutheran pastor, the Rev. Carl Aaron Swenson, gathered an enthusiastic group in the Bethany Lutheran church for a rehearsal under direction of his wife. That was in January, 1882, and the first "Messiah" was sung the following Easter Sunday.

At first, most of the singers were farmers, but they all loved music. Through the bitter Kansas winter the singers came in sleds and lumber wagons to the rehearsals. There were many trying times, but the people remained deeply spiritual. "The Messiah" became their religion, their faith. And so it has remained from generation to generation.

The Lindsburg "Messiah" had made possible the appearances here of celebrated artists. The first one was Madame Nordica. After her recital the Bethany male chorus pulled her carriage to the local railroad station. Since that time Hempel, Elman, Schumann-Heink, Galli-Curci, and many others have inspired Lindsburg audiences with their solo parts in "The Messiah."

Over 200 Officers, One Sergeant Left

TURNER FIELD, GA.—Few former privates will sympathize with this sergeant, but they'd probably like to see him wear his arm out saluting the officers.

The strength at Turner field, which is near Albany, has been reduced to one sergeant major—and between 200 and 300 officers!

The officers, a civilian staff, and the lonely sergeant keep 550 airplanes on a flyable-storage basis. Incidentally, many of the civilian employes are former servicemen.

Farm Machinery Output Rose in 1945

WASHINGTON.—Farm machinery production in 1945 topped that of 1944 by over 20 million dollars, the civilian production administration has reported.

The production totaled $663,484,196 of which $240,060,434 or more than one-third was in repair parts and attachments.

During the second half of the year, the production of repair parts decreased and more new machinery

Kansan Watches P-80 Fuel Tank Fall Near Farm

SABETHA, KANS.—It's one thing to read about the P-80 Shooting Star airplane—and quite another to hear one, not be able to see it, and then have one of its fuel tanks come hurtling down from the sky and land near you. Ask Otho L. Johnstone; he can tell you!

At first Mr. Johnstone was puzzled by the sound of the jet plane, for it did not sound like the ordinary planes which fly over Kansas all the time. Unable to see the plane, he picked out the location of the sound, thinking a high-altitude flyer was in trouble.

Just then he saw an object come hurtling down, end over end. It landed farther from him than he expected, fortunately, and he went over to inspect it. Made of aluminum, it was about 12 feet long and had been crushed on one end by the fall, but not broken. There was about a gallon of fuel left in it.

Two of the fuel tanks were found in this area. First to report one was Albert Holthaus, who lives near Maple Shade school. Since the tanks were just alike, it is possible that both came from the same plane. They are auxiliary tanks which can be dropped from the plane when the fuel in them is depleted.

Jeeps Conquer Mud For Rural Carriers

JASPER, GA.—When it comes to good old Georgia mud, Pickens county is an unwilling claimant to the state championship. But two rural mail carriers have solved the mud problem and up to now have been making their trips on almost mid-summer schedules. Jeeps turned the trick for the carriers, W. J. Hamrick and R. E. Williams.

On only one occasion were they doubtful, and that was after a two-inch rain had fallen with the mud worse than ever. But the jeeps took them through.

Hamrick had a premonition of a bad winter, so he purchased a jeep in December to serve the patrons on Talking Rock Route 1. Early in January, Jasper Route 1 got so bad that Williams could not get through with his regular car. So he hired Hamrick to drive him around in the jeep. One trip was enough to convince Williams that jeeping it was the right way to beat Pickens county mud.

Throughout the winter the jeeps, with their four-wheel drive, have been able to travel over every road in the county. And so far "neither snow, nor rain, nor heat nor night (nor mud) stays these couriers from swift completion of their appointed rounds."

Rural carriers, who have long held that "the mail must go through," have thus found a peacetime use for the reliable jeep which won so many laurels in war.

STILL WORKING . . . Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, first woman to be chief executive of a state—she was governor of Wyoming at one time—is now director of the U. S. mint. She is shown with Edwin H. Dressel, superintendent of the Philadelphia mint, as they examine the plaster casts of the new Roosevelt dime.

ANNUAL MESSIAH . . . For 64 years the singing of Handel's "Messiah" by the Bethany College Oratorio society has been an annual event at Lindsburg, Kan. The 182nd rendition this year will be given on Sunday, April 14, and the 183rd on Easter Sunday, April 21. Dr. Hagbard Brase, who has been the conductor since 1915, will again direct the chorus of 500 voices and orchestra of 65 pieces.

Oldsters, Aged 80 to 100, Make News the World Over

Life may begin at 40, but the centenarians are crowding into the news all over the world. They just won't take a back seat for youngsters any more! Medical science is saying that longevity is increasing, and the news columns bear it out.

Recently a shuffleboard tournament was held at Daytona Beach, Fla., for octogenarians. Sixteen players, with their ages accounting for 1,367 years of living, competed. All were over 80 years old. At Caribou, Maine, Jeremiah Campbell, who will be 107 years old next August, is again fit as a fiddle after falling down a flight of stairs at his daughter's home recently.

From Moorland, Ind., comes a report of a blind man, 99 years old, who operates a farm alone. He is David Rhoades, who guides himself to the carpenter shop, barn and garden by kinky hay wires which he has strung up. "I like to be kinda independent," he says, blinded for the past 16 years.

Just Like a Woman!

Exercising her womanly prerogative, Miss Siobella Shepherd of Rhuddlan in Flintshire, England, insists that she is only 106 years old. But pension officials say—outside Miss Shepherd's hearing—that she is really 112.

The Rev. Theodore B. Farry, totally deaf, recently spoke at the Joplin, Mo., First Methodist church on the eve of his 100th birthday. His subject was "A Clean Life as Exemplified by Daniel."

In Warrenton, Ore., modern machinery proved the downfall of Clarence O'Hoyt, who died from automobile injuries at 102. After being struck down, however, he battled grimly for 10 days before giving up.

Each day's news carries its stories of older people who have found that 80, or 90, or even 100 years is not so unusual today as it was a few decades ago.

SPORTS—

All Baseball Teams To Be 1946 Champs, Predictions Show

By Steve Edwards
WNU Sports

They're all pennant winners and world's champions this year—the Cubs, Cards, Browns, Tigers, Yankees, Braves and all the rest. Anyway, that's what the managers and players are talking now.

Charlie Grimm declares the Chicago Cubs have the pennant spirit again. He declares he's never seen a "bunch of more hustling, aggressive, competitive players" than the Cubs are in practice.

Mort Cooper of the Boston Braves says his wing is in great shape after having 10 bone chips removed from the right elbow. "Feels the best it has in five years," he declares. In fact, the Braves are said to look like a fast, cocky crew in their warm-up games.

The Philadelphia Nationals have a few predictions too. "We're coming up out of the cellar," Manager Ben Chapman avers. He expects Frank McCormick, his first baseman from Cincinnati, to clout around 20 homers. He figures Jim Tabor, his third baseman from the Boston Red Sox, for another 15, and Ron Northy, his right fielder, and Vince Di Maggio, center fielder, for from 15 to 20 homeruns apiece.

Naturally, the St. Louis Browns expect another good year, and the Cardinals are pretty sure of one. James J. Dykes, manager of the Chicago White Sox, has a string of 66 athletes (he says), including pitchers, which will make his outfit a formidable one.

Poor old Joe Louis! The sports writers are accenting the "old" when they talk about him. Many are predicting that he can't possibly win his bout with Billy Conn. "Down through the years, since John L. Sullivan took the heavyweight crown from Paddy Ryan, in only four cases has an older man beaten a younger one for the championship," they point out.

But "old" Joe goes his unwhipped—and unworried—way. Maybe he doesn't feel old at 31, especially when he remembers that Conn is

Seek Secrets of North Country

Snowmobile Caravan Travels to Arctic Circle to Study Problems.

WASHINGTON.—Despite many years of exploration Canada's vast northlands still hold far too many mysteries to suit military men. Having in mind the importance of the great winter battles fought in Russia during the war just ended, and also the strategic importance of the north country in modern aviation, Canada's army and air force are about to begin a spectacular joint expedition to solve some of these still puzzling Arctic problems.

A moving force of 45 army personnel is traveling in 12 newly designed snowmobiles over a 3,100-mile semi-circle from the southern shore of Hudson bay north to far above the arctic circle and within a few miles of the north magnetic pole, westward through the northwest territories toward the Yukon, and finally south through British Columbia and Alberta to Edmonton.

In 80 days they will pass through three seasons, winter, spring and early summer, hit temperatures of 60 degrees below zero, and travel across territory where white man never has ventured before without heavy loss of life. It is to be called "Exercise Muskox," named after an animal found in the north country, says the Chicago Tribune.

Operate From 13 Bases.
The moving force will operate from 13 bases along the route which will be supplied and manned by the royal Canadian air force. The air men will put base personnel on the ground in leap-frog fashion ahead of the moving ground force, and will stand ready to aid the moving force in event of emergency along the way.

Although the moving force with its armored snowmobiles will number only 45 men, another 250 men will take part, including army base personnel and a total ground and air force of another 145 men.

In addition, because of the intense non-Canadian interest in the experiment, four United States army technical experts will be along and one British arctic specialist. The army, disturbed at some interpretations which were put on the expedition when it was first announced and which suggested it was a defense exercise, stresses that the expedition is "non-tactical, with no troops taking part who are not specialists and no weapons larger than rifles being carried."

May Aid Civilians.
The army and the air force hope that the lessons learned will aid civilians as much as the military. Meteorologists are to be benefited not only with data brought back from the expedition itself, but by lessons learned in supplying northern bases which the meteorologists want to establish in increasing numbers.

In particular, the army says, it is hoped the expedition will demonstrate:

- The new snowmobiles developed for invading Norway.
- The technique of large scale air supply.
- New and improved methods of navigating and surveying near the north magnetic pole where magnetic compasses are useless.
- The latest arctic clothing made of textiles, so that the killing of caribou for fur clothes is unnecessary.

U. S. Shipbuilding Firm

Armed 4 Huge Troopships

NEW YORK.—The Allies' four largest troop transports—the Queen Elizabeth, the Queen Mary, the Aquitania and Mauretania—were armed and converted in New York harbor, the shipbuilding division of Bethlehem Steel company revealed.

The company disclosed for the first time it handled 37,778 ships during the war years, totaling 302,224,000 tons, more than five times greater than the world's prewar merchant fleet and more than 25 times larger than the American merchant marine in 1939. The ships included almost every type of warship in addition to merchantmen.

The Queen ships alone were reported to have moved 800,000 American troops to Europe.

Moves 6 Miles an Hour

CHURCHILL, MANITOBA.—The Canadian army's motorized musk ox force has set a six mile an hour pace on the first leg of its 3,100 mile arctic tour. A radio report filed six hours after the 12 snow vehicles started from here said the party was 36 miles north of Churchill. The journey will take the force near the magnetic pole.

PARIS.—Autonomy in administration was granted to the French colony of Cambodia in Indo-China, according to a treaty signed recently by the king of Cambodia and Thierry d'Argenlieu, French high commissioner. The treaty specified that administration will be transferred to native hands and that only a skeleton staff of French officials will be retained in the capacity of advisers.

Homes Poured to Order

If we see anything approaching us resembling a huge concrete pourer accompanied by some apparatus out of a Superman cartoon it could be one of those outfits that now pours a man a home while he waits.

It seems that the machinery for producing such a home has been perfected and is already on the roads pouring home, sweet homes for people who want to get a parlor, bedroom and bath while they're hot.

The apparatus consists of a giant house-form or mould which is carted to a homesite. Then the cement mixer draws up and pours. After 24 hours a hydraulic derrick arrives, lifts off the form and . . . presto! . . . There she stands, the home complete to fit beautiful!

All you have to do is chisel off the rough edges!

A man named LeTourneau has invented the housepourer and has been pouring 'em in Longview, Texas, and Vicksburg, Miss. Huge crowds gathered in each place to watch a machine lay a house just as a hen lays an egg.

All that remains to be done is to make the machine cackle at the end of the performance.

How simple! You buy a lot, phone the Day-A-Bungalow office and say you would like a four-room home right away. The man asks if you can wait a couple of hours. You say it's a rush order. Presently the apparatus trundles up and a man hops out with the query: "Where would you like this residence poured?"

Fulton Makes Good

Fulton, Mo., site of Westminster college to which former Prime Minister Winston Churchill made a historic journey, is a town of 8,000 persons. It has a police force of only seven men. The college is one of the smallest in the world. But it is on the map now and how!

Up to now it had been known only as a place once visited by Jeff Davis and as a town where Bill Corum once dug sweet potatoes, danced the two-step and played basketball. But today out there they ask "Yale? Harvard? Princeton? Where are they?"

by GRANTLAND RICE

SOME earnest and able compiler of facts and figures has estimated there are over 30 million citizens, young and old, male and female, who are directly or indirectly interested in baseball.

Grantland Rice

I believe these figures are on the short side. We have 22 million high school kids for a starter, and most of these follow baseball, in one way or another. The range is from 8 to 89 years, and this includes those who play at the game, see the games, follow the box scores and the standings in the daily newspapers or hear games over the radio. My estimate would be 40 million, including the fanatics and the only mildly interested.

This is only a guess. But that many through newspaper and radio must follow a world series.

Many or most of the regulars have their favorite ball players. They may dig back into the past, or they may pick a few from the modern library. The leading favorite in the game's long history has been Babe Ruth.

Proof here is simple. Babe has gone into such cities as Philadelphia and Boston when they were trailing and drawing less than thousand at home games. But when the Babe came to town they had to call police reserves to the scene.

Next to Ruth we'd have Ty Cobb and after Ty Cobb there would be Honus Wagner. Among those of more recent date, there are four who belong among the rafters of the roof—Pepper Martin, Dizzy Dean, Carl Hubbell and Bob Feller. And you can't leave out Hank Greenberg.

Pepper Martin, one of the greatest hustlers baseball ever knew, was everybody's favorite, wherever he played. You got the idea that he was willing and ready to break a neck or a leg to get where he was headed for, and you were usually right.

The 1946 Favorites

Who will carry most of the public favor from city to city through 1946? In Boston the leading candidates at this spot are Ted Williams and Dave Ferriss. Among the Yankees you will find Bill Dickey, Joe DiMaggio and Joe Gordon—with Phil Rizzuto close up. Stirnweiss will be another. Terry Moore and Marty Marion will lead the Cardinals, who have several other candidates.

Hank Greenberg and Al Newhouser will head the cast for the Tiger zoo. For the Giants you'll find Mel Ott and Johnny Mize in front when the season opens.

What about the Dodgers? In this dizzy land of Bumdom they change with startling rapidity from day to day. Dixie Walker has been the civic nomination, or the peepul's choice, for some years. Whether Dixie will retain the affections of the nation's most turbulent and tempestuous baseball crowds remains to be seen. If anything happens to Dixie, or if it happens to be untrue what they say about Dixie, an early nomination is Peewee Reese.

The Cleveland situation is simple. The Indian's contribution to the favorite class will be one Robert Feller who will lure out the multitudes in fancy numbers at each start. What about the Cubs? Andy Pafko will be one of them and so will Phil Cavarretta and Hank Borowy. The able veteran Stan Hack will also get some votes.

At times it is hard to tell just what qualities are needed to make some ball player the crowd's favorite. Hustle is always one of the main points. The populace likes to see the athlete giving all he has. Home-run hitters always have a strong call. So do strike-out pitchers. Good people who are there in the clutch or pinch also harvest their share of fanville's affection.

The All-Time Best

Who have been my ten favorite ball players? It doesn't matter much, but here they go—Babe Ruth, Ty Cobb, Joe Jackson, Tris Speaker, Hans Wagner, Dizzy Dean, Pepper Martin, Rube Waddell, Christy Mathewson, Pete Alexander. Plus Walter Johnson. Old Barney's pitching motion and the ball you couldn't follow were still something to look at. Carl Hubbell also belongs in this group. So does Bill Dickey. Ten isn't enough. As an artist Hal Chase has no equal.

Just what favorite crop the new season will give us is in the so-called laps of the gods. There is time enough later on to take this up.

Bow and Arrow Records

Every record improves in sport and archery has made a big advance since the days of the Sioux and the Apaches, the Iroquois and the Mohicans. Their range was rarely beyond 200 yards. But in 1941 Curtis Hill of Dayton, Ohio, set a new mark a 614 yards, 8 inches—a new record for what is known as "free flight shooting." Hill's record for the regular flight shooting, according to Frank Menke's book, is 517 yards, one foot.

A NATION DEMANDS A KING

LESSON TEXT—1 Samuel 8:10-22. MEMORY SELECTION—Blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord.—Psalm 33:12.

A major crisis has come in the life of a nation when it is ready to change its form of government. That was especially true in the case of Israel, for they were about to throw off the direct rule of God and demand a king.

There were good reasons for their desire. Samuel was old. His sons who were to succeed him were not honest (1 Sam. 8:3). But there were other motives not so good; for example, their desire to have the pomp of a kingly ruler and a wish to be like other peoples (v. 20).

Their request was made known to Samuel (1 Sam. 8:6). He was grieved, but the Lord showed him that it was not His rule they were rejecting, but God's rule (v. 7).

The matter came to a crisis as Samuel was sent to reason with them (v. 9).

I. Prophetic Words (vv. 10-18).

There is always a price to pay if we are eager to follow the styles of this world. Israel wanted to have a king with an attractive court and a mighty army like their neighbors, the other nations, but they had not realized that such things are not provided out of the king's pocket.

A word of warning may be in place here for Christians who have fallen for the temptation to keep pace with their ungodly neighbors—to "keep up with the Joneses," as it is sometimes put.

Government has a right to call on the governed for its support, but who will deny that the tremendous military establishments which the rulers of the earth have maintained have been both burdensome and provocative of war.

We live in a sinful world, and we may as well face the necessity of protecting ourselves and policing the unruly, but think how much better would be our lot if we like Israel could have been under the direct rule of God.

They did not want it. Are men any better today when they reject the beneficent rule of the Son of God over their lives?

II. Persistent Wills (vv. 19, 20).

The people refused to hearken. Their stubborn reply was, "Nay, but we will have a king over us," and one can almost hear the emphasis on the word will.

One might have expected that the leaders of the people would have sensed the folly of their plan and asked God to continue to rule over them forever, but the stubbornness of the willful human heart is almost beyond belief. When its determination is coupled with pride and unbelief it becomes an even more appalling barrier to the blessing of God.

Therein lies the outstanding lesson of these verses. Let us beware that we do not sin like Israel; yes, sin even worse than they did. Joseph Parker in the People's Bible (vol. 6, p. 287) makes this acute application of the truth: "Do we condemn them? Let us not be ready with reproach; nor urgent in condemnation. We are doing a deadlier thing it may be than the elders of Israel did in this case. We are told that God is angry with the wicked every day; that the wicked shall be driven into hell, and all the nations that forget God. We are told that the liar shall have his portion in the lake which burneth with fire and brimstone, that no drunkard shall enter the kingdom of heaven, that anything unclean, defiled or corrupt shall not pass into the city of God's light; and we are told that nothing remaineth for the sinner but a fearful looking for of judgment and fiery indignation.

"What is the result? Men can go immediately from the hearing or reading of the most terrific statements concerning the future of the wicked and can throw themselves with unbridled license into all the diabolical enjoyments which stimulate but never satisfy the corrupt soul."

III. Providential Willingness (vv. 21, 22).

Reluctantly, but inevitably, comes the divine expression of willingness to let man go the way he wants to go. Israel shall have a king, says God. In fact He had prophesied this day long before (see Deut. 17: 14-20).

So it is true (to quote Parker again) that "we can force our way through all solemn warning, all pathetic entreaty, all earnest persuasiveness . . . We can go to hell if we will . . . There is nothing before you but love, grace, mercy, tenderness, God. That is all. There is a cross—hew it down! There is a way around it, a way through it, a way over it—you can get there!"

May we, neither as individuals nor as a nation, thus thwart God's love and reject His warnings, and go on our own stubborn way into sin and sorrow.

1945 A BUSY YEAR AT MICHIGAN BELL

TRANSITION War gave way to peace, but unfilled orders for new telephones continued to soar, reaching 127,500 in November. As Michigan Bell's Postwar Expansion and Improvement Program gained momentum, the number of applicants waiting for service was reduced to 113,200 by year's end.

WELCOME 1,295 of Michigan Bell's 3,056 war veterans had returned by Dec. 31. Mourned were 57 who had died in service. During the year, total employees had climbed 3,400 to an all-time high of 16,500. The prewar ratio of about 50-50 between men and women had shifted so that 2 of every 3 employees were women.

MORE CALLS Calls in 1945—159,700 toll and 6,004,000 local per day—were about double the prewar average. Service, although not up to prewar quality in some respects, was generally good.

MORE TELEPHONES By Dec. 31, telephones in service totaled 1,174,513 compared with 742,118 in 1939. In the last 3 months of 1945, the increase was 37,000 telephones, largest 3-month gain in Michigan Bell history.

PROGRAM BOOSTED The figure for Michigan Bell's 5-year Postwar Expansion and Improvement Program was boosted from $120,000,000 to $150,000,000 after experience gave a clearer picture of increasing public needs, rising costs of materials and labor. Money for the program must come largely from the sale of Bell System securities to investors.

EARNINGS DOWN While Michigan Bell's total revenues of $80,806,000 in 1945 were 101% over the prewar 1936-1939 average, costs were up 137% to $71,254,000. The amount left over to pay for the use of investors' money was about $569,000 less than the average of prewar years, although an additional $36,000,000 had been invested in the business since 1939. So the average return on the stockholder's dollar dropped from 7½ to 5½ cents.

RATE-CUT RESISTED

To attract the investor's dollar, the rate of Telephone Company earnings must compare favorably with the average of other industries—not substantially less, as has been the case in recent years. The future quality of telephone service, then, depends on earnings attractive to investors. So Michigan Bell in January, 1946, appealed to the courts for relief from a Michigan Public Service Commission order calling for retroactive reductions of $3,500,000 a year for 1944 and 1945, and lower rates for local service in 1946.

GOAL To return as quickly as possible to the kind of service wanted, when and where it is wanted, is Michigan Bell's aim. By year's end, work was being rushed on nearly 100 major projects which will boost central office capacity by 85,000 lines and add about 850,000 miles of subscriber lines. 2,600 miles of open wire were built in 1945.

FUTURE Unlike most industries, we have no alternative but to expand our plant when necessary to meet service demands. With earnings attractive to investors, we can continue to improve the quality of service and use future, technical research developments to help keep rates down in the face of rising costs. It is to everybody's interest that we give the best service at the lowest cost which will protect the future of the business.

ANNUAL REPORT The full story of Michigan Bell's operations for 1945, complete with all the facts and figures, is contained in an interesting, illustrated booklet, entitled "War to Peace." Copies may be obtained at any Michigan Bell business office.

AN INNER SANCTUM MYSTERY
STARRING ARAB AND ANDY BLAKE WITH WNU FEATURES

THE STORY THUS FAR: Lt. Andy Blake, Operations, was joined by his wife, Arab, who started to work for Ordnance in Washington. She secured a room at a house on "Q" street, run by Renee, whom Andy recognized as a girl he had known in Paris. Andy decided to search the Jones house, near-by, where he found a clipping service and other papers that showed a spy ring operation. He looked out the window and saw Arab coming toward the house. Breaking a window and calling out, he gave himself away, but believed he might save her. Jones started firing. After hiding from each other, Andy was saved when Arab put a gun in Jones' back.

CHAPTER VIII

"We've got to be sensible," I groaned. "You have to show up again at that picnic. What about Joey? Won't he be suspicious about where you've been?"

"He tried to teach me a lesson by wandering off with another girl. That worked out nicely. Because I'd arranged ahead of time for a taxi to wait near the picnic until I could slip away. So when Joey started to teach me a lesson, I zipped off to the taxi and had him rush me to as close as I dared go to the house."

"What taxi do you use on Washington taxi drivers? Ordinarily they don't wait five minutes for a Senator, let alone a CAF two."

"I paid him ten dollars ahead of time, Andy. And promised him ten more afterward."

"Forgive me for asking, but do we still have a joint bank account? Or is it an out-of-joint bank account?"

"It's... it's sort of going around in a splint."

"Uh-huh. Well, let's get you back. There's no reason why I can't show up too. I had an invitation."

"Oh, swell, Andy! But not in those clothes."

"Gosh, I forgot I'm not in uniform. All my things are on the back ledge."

I finished dressing and we drove out Rock Creek Parkway while I gave her a round-by-round report, from the moment I walked angrily out of her room two nights earlier to the moment when I smashed the fat man's window.

When I completed the report, Arab said, "It's wonderful! You've found out ever so much! If you go on like this they'll be putting you in Counter-Intelligence."

"If I go on like this they'll be putting me in Arlington National Cemetery. And what I've found out doesn't add up to anything."

"Oh, but it does! We know that Plain Mr. Jones is an Axis agent. He wrote an isolationist news letter when he knew what the real score was. He clips military news, under the cover of a legitimate clipping bureau, and sends it to Germany. He has a hold over your Renee Fielding and makes her do some of the dirty work. He employs Joey Raeder in the clipping bureau, and Joey coaxes his girl friends to talk out of turn. I'll bet what Paula Thompson saw, the night she was kidnapped, was your fat man and Joey cooking up something. And she was afraid to phone the police from the house because, with Joey involved, she couldn't trust anybody in the house. What do you think of that?"

She sighed. "Now what do we do?"

"Me, I march up to Colonel Parker's desk tomorrow and tell all."

"Oh, Andy, that's awful stodgy of you. We were doing so nicely."

"Get this," I said. "The war is not billed as Arab versus Axis. Lots of other people feel they own a piece of it, too. If Plain Mr. Jones really does croon himself to sleep with the Horst Wessel March, a couple of people at the War Department are gonna want in on it."

"Sometimes," Arab said, smiling, "I really think I've fixed things so you've stopped taking the war for granted. And I didn't mean to keep everything to ourselves. It's just that I'm afraid somebody will tell me I've been a bright little girl but now run along and don't bother your little head about what happens next. And I want to help!"

"You can start helping right this minute."

"Honestly? How?"

"By coming clean with me."

"Andy, darling, you don't think I'm holding out anything!"

"I know it. I've told you everything and you haven't told me anything. What have you found out?"

"Almost nothing, Andy, really. The first night Joey and I had some hamburgers at a Hot Shoppe. Last night we went dancing some place on the road to Baltimore. Joey was curious about what I do in the War Department, but that was all."

"Where does he get his black market gasoline?"

She looked at me admiringly, and said, "I forgot about that. At a little tumbledown country garage, a few miles past the District line on a side road off the highway to Baltimore. I wrote down directions how to get there. I counted each time the gas pump went ping and there were twelve pings, so Joey got twelve gallons. But the garage man didn't take any tickets from Joey's A book. How did you know Joey got black-market gas?"

"I checked his speedometer against the mileage the last time his oil was changed, and found he was getting five hundred miles a week on an A book. Now let's hear what you dug up in the Fielding house."

"What makes you think I was digging, Andy?"

"They fix up a picnic to see who will want to snoop through the house when it's deserted. They must have suspected somebody of wanting to snoop. And why? Because somebody had been snooping. Three guesses who."

"I didn't snoop much. Just a quick look around whenever I had a chance. I must have left things out of order in Joey's or Mrs. Fielding's room. But I really didn't learn much. I saw a letter in Mrs. Fielding's room. It was in French and mine is awfully rusty but I got the idea that she has some folks still living in Brittany."

"What does that prove?"

"It proves that Plain Mr. Jones can threaten her with something awful happening to her people if she doesn't obey orders."

I muttered, "I can't believe that she's mixed up in this racket."

"I know, darling. Men never do like to believe anything very bad about a pretty woman. But if she isn't on this racket, why does she let Joey stay?"

"To tend the furnace and so on."

"Piffle. Yesterday morning I overheard them scuffling. Mrs. Fielding ordered Joey from the house and he just laughed. And I didn't give you all the details about my first interview with her, when I came to see about renting the room. If I'd told you at the time, you'd have said I dreamed it. We talked a long time about my background and all...

"Lieutenant, you will refrain from any further independent investigation of this matter. If you observe anything of interest, report it to your commanding officer. That's all."

Later in the day I managed to get time for a beverage bar date with Arab. I told her that there was nothing to the spy angle, that an investigation would be made into the Paula Thompson case, and that I would be held responsible if she didn't limit her future war work to butchering carbon paper. I hinted that, if she didn't, the War Department would authorize the expenditure, on First Lieutenant Andrew Blake, of eight rounds of ammunition, ball, .30.

She was very docile about it, which should have warned me, but didn't.

The echoes of the war were louder, though. My theater was starting to crowd the cables and the shortwave channels. The Luftwaffe had given up trying to bomb Malta into sand, and the RAF was striking back. On the twenty-third they plastered Genoa and Turin. And, the next day, Montgomery's Eighth army began swinging punches from its shoelaces at the El Alamein line in Egypt.

Everyone had known that Montgomery was going to attack. The Germans knew it as well as anyone. But what they didn't know was when and on what sector and in what strength. The Afrika Korps sagged a little, counterattacked, and then for days the infantry and guns slugged it out. The sullen masses of Axis and British armor hung back, waiting for a break-through.

Something was cooking. You could feel the tension building up like steam pressure around the Pentagon. Nobody said anything, but there were signs. Quickened steps. Grimmer faces. The crackle of questions at War Room shows. Of course I thought things were cooking for North Africa, but that was just because it was my theater. Everybody, from Commanding General to the newest dogface, always thinks his theater most important. When I looked at the situation in other parts of the world I realized that we could be getting ready to sock the Axis almost anywhere.

And Arab turned into a one-woman task force.

The fireworks started because I found an apartment. One of my friends got his orders for overseas duty and I was the first to wish him luck in one breath and ask for his apartment in the next. I laid claim to it sight unseen, and we called up his landlord and closed the deal. The apartment would be mine in a week. I had lunch with Arab and told her. She didn't seem pleased.

"It means leaving the house on Q Street," she explained.

"You don't like the place, do you?"

"I hate it, but I'll be walking out on a job. A job that needs doing."

"Talk English, will you?"

"I am talking English, and you know what about! A clean-up job needs to be done there. You can smell Hitler's New Order all over the place. But you and the big brains here in The Pentagon have decided that there isn't any spy angle. And so nobody's allowed to fumigate the place."

I argued for fifteen minutes. I kept telling her that she was imagining things, and all I succeeded in doing was making her furious. Only one thing would have done any good: to tell her that the spy angle was being carefully investigated. And I was under orders not to tell her that.

Finally she rose from the table, and said, "We aren't settling anything, are we? Then let's not talk about it any more. Do we have some gas left in the car?"

"Half a tank."

Her hands patted me as lovingly as if I were a new spring hat. and she wasn't just making sure I'd fit in. She was making sure I had an important job at the War Department."

"You'll have to get more proof than that," I grumbled. "Did you find out anything else?"

"That's all."

"Cross your heart?"

"And hope to die, honest."

It was not much after ten by the time we parked the car and strolled to the scene of the picnic. Arab had been away only a little more than an hour. Long before this the picnic had broken up into couples. They were rambling all over the place; nobody could have kept track of each individual. Joey was still missing with the girl who was supposed to make Arab jealous. Arab's disappearance hadn't been noted; her return, with me, brought no comments.

We only stayed long enough to nail down a sort of alibi. It didn't have to be perfect. Plain Mr. Jones couldn't identify the prowlers who had sprung his booby trap. Any one of a dozen members of the picnic group might have been guilty, to say nothing of outsiders.

The first thing the next morning I briefed Colonel Parker on everything which had happened.

When I finished, he said, "Your wife certainly can stir things up, can't she!" He thought for a moment, then added, "We could use another secretary. Maybe if we spread this story around Ordnance, they'd get scared and release her to us, hmmm?"

"I doubt it, sir."

"Um. Yes. Explosives don't bother those people, of course. Well, all this is out of my field. Let's take it somewhere else."

I told the story again, and spread my scraps of evidence out: the clipping about Corporal Bill Dwight's Armored Division, the torn newspaper column about the secret German radio station, and the paper with the scribbled lines reading: Betty—I hope I can make it but we've been working late a lot of nights.

Genevieve—It's a wonder to me that trains don't get even more crowded these days, but maybe people are learning to stay home

Nobody spoke for a minute. I retired to a corner and wished that the QMC would put out a camouflage outfit for junior officers assigned to The Pentagon. Finally a discussion started.

"Ve-ry interesting."

"What do you make of it?"

"Not much to go on, is there?"

"You can take it up bit by bit and it's quite legal."

"Yes, there's no law against clipping items from newspapers."

"Those two scraps of conversation could be anything. They don't mean a thing by themselves."

"What do you know about this man Jones?"

"Just that he runs a clipping bureau and writes a confidential news letter and used to say it wasn't our war."

"He can clip all the news he wants and be within his rights. The question is, is he sending it out of the country? That's the point to check."

"Right. Now about the missing girl. We can look into that. How long will it take, Major?"

"Hard to say, sir. We haven't much to go on. Just a name. A week. Two weeks."

"And about this Joey Raeder and Mrs. Fielding. It won't hurt to look up their history. Apparently he was in the Spanish fighting, and she came over from France within the past few years. The State Department may have some ideas. Well, Major..."

"My pigeon, sir?"

"Yes. And a delicate pigeon. Gentle handling. Lieutenant! That meant me. "Sir?" I squeaked.

"Lieutenant, you will refrain from any further independent investigation of this matter. If you observe anything of interest, report it to your commanding officer. That's all."

Remodel a man's old suit...

Woman's World Tailored Slacks and Vests Are Easily Made from Men's Suits

By Erta Haley

IF YOU can persuade your son or husband to part with that old shiny suit, you will have the makings of a nice slack suit right in hand. So often suits may become ill-fitting for the men folk. Sleeves may be too short, trouser legs not quite long enough. In some cases, the vest loses all use because it is too tight to wear.

With expert cutting and fitting, many of these old suits can be successfully remodeled into a smart slack suit for the teen-aged girl.

If there is a great deal of fitting to be done, it would be best to buy a pattern to assure accurate cutting. If you are expert at cutting and fitting, make up a pattern of your own. If there is little fitting to be done, rip the trousers out completely and trim them as necessary.

In woolen fabrics it is essential to allow a generous half inch for seams on all edges beyond the stitching lines. Mark the paper patterns to indicate the sections to be cut from lining fabric and mark to show the lengthwise thread.

In making the slacks or trousers, it is especially important to have them hang properly. By no means should they be too tight, as this will not only give a poor appearance, but it will cause the fabric to pull apart easily.

machine-stitched at all points, and the stitches should be as short as is practical.

If the seams on the inside of the slacks are made as neatly as possible, the garment will hang well and look well. Work on a flat surface and press each seam before it joins another. The seams should come together without stretching or pulling.

I can't stress pressing too highly when working with wool. All the seams need constant pressing to assure good fit and workmanship, and the final finishing touch to the slacks should be a complete pressing.

Cutting and Making The Vest From a Suit

If you are making a vest for a girl's slack suit from a man's suit vest, it will be necessary to cut the vest apart at shoulder and underarm seams. Then fit the front and back vest to the figure. The second button from the bottom should come to the waistline.

The seams are then pinned directly on top of the shoulders so that the waistline is in the above position. The vest will extend away from the figure at the front armhole. Draw this excess down to the underarm seam and make a dart into the underarm seam.

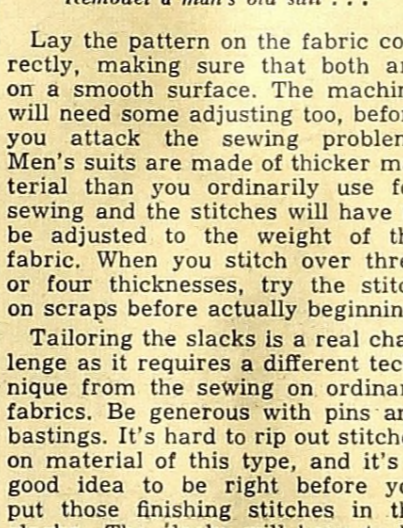

Shoulder seams should be marked after taking the vest off the figure, and also the side seams on the front vest. This is done with basting. Underarm darts both in the vest and lining should be marked. Pin both fronts together. Cut off at the shoulder and sides allowing generously (about an inch) for seams.

The darts in the vest and lining should be stitched separately. Slash darts in the vest and press open.

Turn under one-half inch on vest and lining at shoulders and underarm seams, ripping back outside the stitching when necessary. Baste the edges together and press. Stitch close to the edge on the machine.

A knitted back for this type of vest does not take much work and will make a very attractive outfit for the girl. If desired, a calot can also be made for the slack and vest suit, in the same color as the knitted back.

Posy Pretty

Spring Fashion Notes

Mother and daughter outfits have long been popular, but now we are also beginning to see matching suits for the younger and older brother.

With skirts full and sleeves inflated right now, waists, of course, look smaller and smaller. Tiny midriffs are played up, some of them even being laced like a real corset. Waistlines are dipping lower over rounded hips.

Stove-pipe hats with narrow brims are seen more and more in the news. These usually carry some intricate detail like a gold strand for trimming.

In some striped materials, very much resembling men's suit material, you'll find jackets slightly cut-away and flared. Wear these with frothy, veiled hats for the last word in fashion.

Treat Frozen Combs Early to Stop Loss

Fertility Decreased If Males Are Victims

While prevention of frozen combs in the poultry flock is always the best cure, once this condition has been brought about every effort should be made to reduce its ill effects.

When roosters' combs are badly frozen their ability to fertilize eggs is either greatly decreased, or

Rose comb roosters often prove more likely to suffer with frozen combs than single comb fowls.

In some cases entirely lost. At any rate, until the comb is completely healed, high fertility cannot be expected.

A more rapid recovery may be brought about if the frozen parts are amputated. Sharp scissors, razor or sharp snips may be used. The cut should be made in the unfrozen portion. To prevent bleeding, apply an astringent such as tincture of ferric chloride. It is usually necessary to remove the wattles as well as the comb.

Frozen combs and wattles can be prevented by dubbing the cockerels in the summer when from 6 to 12 weeks of age, when loss will be negligible.

Before placing a cockerel or rooster in the breeding pen, it should be first ascertained that his comb and wattles were not frozen the previous winter, or that he has completely recovered. In many cases, it may be a wise move to market all males with frozen combs and wattles.

Double-Blade Saw

Two buck-saw blades are desirable on the farm, with one fine and one coarse blade. The combined tightener consists of two straight bars mortised loosely and bolted in the frame at one end, while at the other end they are movable in a groove on the inside of the frame.

Benefit of Artificial Insemination of Bees

Artificial insemination is not new. It has stood the test and is being successfully applied in animal husbandry. Its use with bees was delayed until recent work by the federal experiment stations pointed the way to artificial insemination to improve honey yield.

The advantages will be possible to improve stock to a high degree. The practice will not immediately be practiced by bee raisers but will be limited to experiment stations and specialists who are now in a position to furnish improved honeybee stock by this method of breeding. The necessity for increased bee population may be aided by this method. It is also important that farmers time their spraying so as not to kill off large numbers of bees, as has been the case in the past.

Use High Frequency in Sterilization of Eggs

By sterilizing the egg, killing the germ, better keeping quality is secured from market eggs when subjected to high frequency. The principle is somewhere between radio and diathermy.

Certain bacteria on the shell are also destroyed and the white of the egg is slightly stiffened, so that when broken in the frying pan the yolk stands out above it, producing a better cooking egg.
