WASHINGTON. - Inside reason why the Russians are pulling wires to have the capital of the United Nations moved back to sleepy Geneva is that American public opinion has been too powerful a champion of the smaller nations.

So the Russians have been working behind the scenes to corral votes in favor of the Geneva transfer and can count on Yugoslavia, Czechoslovakia, Poland and France. However, they can't count on the British, who once favored a European capital, but are now 100 per cent sold that American opinion is one of their best allies.

The Russians also can't count on the Latin Americans. In the old days, Pan - American diplomats loved lolling in Paris most of the time and turning up in Geneva a few days of the week. Today, however, Paris is one of the most uncomfortable places in the world, Geneva is short of food, and New York is far more pleasurable.

The Russians, who originally favored an American city as the U. N. capital, now consider this a serious mistake. They dislike the fact that American newspapers publish columns and columns of front-page news on every move made by the Russians and they figure that American newsmen at Geneva would sit drowsily in the Swiss cases drinking beer, or spend week-ends in the Swiss Alps.

In Europe, they also believe, no photographer or newspaper would have the energy to trail Ambassador Gromyko on his famous and circuitous trip around New York City when he almost stopped in at the Security Council meeting, but

If the Iranian question had been discussed at Geneva, instead of New York, the Russians figure, it never would have attracted so much attention and the Soviet would have come off with a complete vic-

NO ARMY RACE PREJUDICE

A Negro, former master sergeant in the army, Marion F. Green, testified before General Doolittle's "caste system" board the other day, that there was little evidence of racial prejudices and discrimi-nation in the army. When General Doolittle inquired about this, Sergeant Green replied:

"Colored soldiers found some resentment against them when they first joined the army, but this was quickly ironed out after a few months of training. In February, 1941, we had some fights and riots while I was stationed at Camp Livingstone, Lousiana. However, by the time we finished training, everybody was getting along fine. I encountered no racial bias whatever overseas."

POWER AND NYLON LOBBIES Many congressmen will vote against dynamic Speaker Sam Rayburn in a secret committee session. but don't have the nerve to stand up and oppose him on the floor of the house. Very soon, however, Democrats who have fallen for the beguiling promises of the giant power lobby are going to face the latter

Sam Rayburn really has fire in his eye when he talks about the power lobby. And today that lobby ranks with the real estate buttonholers as one of the most potent on Capitol Hill, has even gone to the extent of dangling nylons before the wives of congressmen in order to win votes against the government's southwest power authority in Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and southern Missouri.

The question at issue is whether the government can construct its own electric lines to distribute electric power from the Denison dam on the Texas-Oklahoma border and the Norfolk, Ark., dam. Without such power lines, the gvernment merely generates the power but can't sell it. The power lobby wants to prevent this sale.

So far, the power lobby's technique has been successful with the appropriations subcommittee, which knifed the construction of the distributing lines. Cong. Ben Jensen of Iowa, Henry Dworshak of Idaho, Robert Jones of Ohio, and W. F. Norrell of Arkansas were the gentlemen reported to have fallen for the wiles of the lobby.

However, when the bill comes out on the floor of congress, Sam Rayburn, together with the dean of congress, Adolph Sabath of Illinois. plans to stage a real battle.

Bombed German Family Lives Amid Ruins of Famous Castle

By PAULINE FREDERICK

NUERNBERG.—In 1938, in a humble home in the shadow of a great castle, a little German girl was born. Her name was Hertha Strobl. I saw Hertha today as I stood in the biting winter wind on the hill that commands the ruins of the legendary old inner city of Nuernberg. Hertha had run out of the shambles of the castle to ask me for chewing gum. I couldn't help following her back. That's how I found out that a lot of things have happened to her in eight short years.

One day Hertha's father had to leave his humble job as a packer of dental supplies and go to the Russian front as a soldier. But Hertha was too young to know much about this. Soon after the days of the fairy tales came to an end. Hertha told me about them in the kitchen of the place where they are living, with her mother and sister adding a word now and then. The home is a little three-room gatehouse built into one of the towers of the castle wall which miraculously stands in the bomb-shattered ruins. Over the doorway there is a Latin motto etched into the stone and dated 1561. Roughly translated it says, "There is nothing greater to be desired than to deserve well

Bought Alabama Farm in '39; Has Mortgage All Paid off Now

FLORENCE, ALA.—They all said Louis Olive could never get out of debt if he bought that old 120-acre farm in the Fairview community. But he bought it anyway, back in 1939, and the mortgage is now paid off!

Mrs. Mabel Anderson, associate farm security administration supervisor, recently told Mr. Olive's story in an article published by the Florence Herald. She wrote:

"In July, 1939, Mr. Olive filed an application with the FSA for a loan to purchase a farm, a farm that had been under mortgage for the past 43 years. A loan of $4,080 for purchase of the land and construction of a house and other buildings was granted.

"The year before the purchase, only 22 acres were in cultivation, 7 in cotton and 15 in corn, but during the first year of Mr. Olive's ownership he terraced the farm, planted 13 acres in soil building crops, cleared a good portion of the land to get in a fairly good crop and put out a nice orchard. The plan called for a "live at home" program and this was followed always with a surplus produced for market.

"This year, when food has been a problem, the Olives have 1,450 pounds of meat, 500 quarts of canned fruit and vegetables, 200 bushels of potatoes, 10 bushels of sweet potatoes, 1 bushel of dried fruit and plenty of milk and eggs. Besides food for home use they have 600 bushels of corn, 17 tons of hay, hogs for another year, 4 cows, 5 heifers, 150 leghorn hens and 3 head of work stock.
"Plans have been made for another year by planting 4 acres in clover and rye, 10 acres of vetch, and 8 acres of hay, according to soil conservation plans.

"Howard Olive, the oldest son, has studied vocational agriculture at Central high school and with the aid of his teacher has landscaped the home and is maintaining the grounds as part of his school pro-

SUBSIDY PAYMENT MUST BE PAID BY TAXPAYERS
THOSE OF US who are not on the receiving end, and most of us are in that class, may feel the payment of subsidies by the federal government does not concern us.

But each individual of us is concerned. We do the paying. The subsidy payments anyone may receive comes out of our pockets. The taxes, direct and indirect, that we pay is the government's only source of revenue. For each million dollars in subsidies paid by the federal government, there must be a million dollars in taxes collected from us regardless of who receives the subsidy payments.

An effort was made to pay the producers of lumber a subsidy, both to make meeting the cost of produc-tion possible, and to hold the price of lumber for the consumer down to the OPA ceiling.

With such a subsidy in effect Jones finds it possible to build that new home he wants. He can get the lumber, and he can get it at that reasonable OPA ceiling price.

A neighbor, Brown, lives in a rented house. He, too, would like to build, but cannot finance such a project. Brown, both directly and indirectly, pays taxes to the federal government. Some portion of the taxes collected from him is used to pay the subsidy on the lumber used in the Jones home. Brown may feel that he has no interest in the subject of government paid subsidies, but he has. It is through such a system that he pays a part of the construction cost of the Jones home.

Both the lumber mill owner and Jones would be on the receiving end of a subsidy on lumber. To the mill owner it would make no difference whether his cost of production came from a government subsidy, or from an increased price to Jones for the lumber he needs. To Jones a subsidy meant not only the opportunity to secure the desired lum-ber, but to secure it at a lower price. Jones profited, the mill owner did not lose, but how about Brown? If he stops to think about his place in the subsidy racket, he will not approve.

In the operation of the various subsidies congress, or the executive department, have foisted upon us, most of us are Browns. We pay but do not receive. Wonder if President Truman thought of that when he urged a subsidy on lumber, or possibly he wanted to build a house. A majority of the members of the house of representatives were Browns.

INFLATION COSTS HAVE MOUNTED STEADILY and the higher mathematics needed to follow economic trends, are beyond my depth. I can, however, read and understand such facts as those presented by O. J. Arnold, president of Northwestern National Life Insurance company at Minneapolis. From that statement I get the information that during the five years, 1940 to 1945, the inflationary price we have paid for commodities has cost American families, as an average, $2,630. To that will be added for 1946 another $830.

THE INTRICACIES of economics

The basis of the inflation that has been so expensive is too much the men and 22 per cent of the circulating currency and credit. The cause for such a condition is largely the 66,300 million dollars of federal borrowings from the banks. The banks turned much of that credit into circulating currency, and It would give the organization terfrom it we have inflation. From that rific press notices, especially if any inflation we have labor troubles, higher wages, again higher prices and more inflation. It is all a vicious eircle which the government is supposed to control, but has not enposed to contain tirely succeeded. eration represents 985,000 farm families and says "Transportation

THE FARMER would prefer to receive all of the price of his product directly rather than have a portion of it come to him indirectly in the form of a sub-sidy. In either case, the consumer pays, but the subsidy is covered up, and all consumers do not realize they are paying it. All subsidies must come from the pockets of the taxpayers, and we are all taxpayers. Political honesty would permit the direct price raise, and cut out the subsidies. The farmer would prefer it that way.

The President and Horseshoe Pitching

President Truman has decided to build a horseshoe pitching court on the White House grounds. This should make America feel better. Much of the trouble that the worldis in today is due to the fact few, if any, rulers have been horseshoe

There is something about horseshoe pitching that keeps a man cool, eases his nerves and lessens the chances of his doing anything cockeyed. We had a few horseshoe pitchers among our earliest Presidents, and their administrators were the most peaceful in history.

Perhaps in these troubled times of irascibility, frenzied disputes, hair - trigger decisions, impatience, with the other fellow's viewpoint and the itch to settle everything overnight, horseshoe pitching may save civilization!

Had Adolf Hitler ever gone in for pitching horseshoes the yen to conquer the world would never have developed. In your wildest dreams can you picture Mussolini fooling around with a horseshoe?

On with the horseshoe stuff, Harry! You're no genius in statesmanship. You are not the wisest ruler of the day. But nevertheless when the atomic bomb crisis agitates the great men of the earth, when potentates on all sides are shouting at one another and when so many big men have so many hot ideas for causing trouble, it will be good to know that you spend a little time each day out behind the White House pitching horseshoes.

Circus Memories

The circus is back in New York, and thousands of big city kids will be thrilled no end. But we pity the kid who never knew the circus in a small town. Back home in our boyhood it was the event of the year. The first flush of posters on the billboards kindled our imagination. . . we were sleepless for nights before the great day . . . and we were up at 3:30 a. m. the morning the big show arrived. . . . It was always unloaded in the freight yards down at Long Wharf off Water street, and what a thrill it was to hear the locomotive whistles and then see the circus trains pull in, unload and start on the five-mile trek to the circus grounds, which used to be in Elm City park back of the Hubinger mansion.

After the unloading had progressed an hour or so, we hustled to the grounds to see the tents go up. . . . The rat-tat-tat of the stakedriving crews . . . the rumble of the wagon wheels . . . the smell of tambark and hay . . . the aroma of lamb chops and boiled potatoes from the cook-tent . . We generally managed to get a job leading a pony in a parade and got a free pass to the show.

TWO BROTHERS LEARN TOLERANCE

LESSON TEXT-Mark 3:14-17; Luke 9:49-56; I John 4:7, 8.
GOLDEN TEXT—And this commandment have we from him, that he who loveth God love his brother also.—I John 4:21,

Intolerance is soundly condemned in our day, and we agree that the spirit which hates or hinders a man because he is of a certain race or

I is definitely wrong. Even within Christian circles we could well learn more of that fine spirit of Christ which is epitomized in the words, "no respecter of persons."

A word of caution is needed, however, lest we come to extend our tolerance to that which is sinful, wicked or destructive. One should never tolerate poison in a child's food, or in his textbooks. One does not tolerate a fire while it destroys one's house. Nor should one be tolerant of false teaching which breaks down faith in the Bible as the Word of God.

James and John were outstanding in their places of leadership for God. We learn in our lesson for today that

I. God Wants Powerful Men (Mark 3:14-17).

There seems to be an impression current in some places that being a Christian is practically synonymous with being a weak, frightened, negative person without either personality or power.

The fact is that the gospel of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ rightly interpreted, and fully received into the heart and life of a man, brings such a tremendously enriching and transforming experience that it appeals to all, including the vital, dynamic type.

These two men were "the sons of thunder"; that is, they had that flashing alertness and power of personality which made them quick to understand and decisive in action. True, it showed itself in an impatience which was wrong and a desire to bring down judgment, when they should have shown compassion, but that was power out of control, always a dangerous thing.

II. God Wants Balanced Men (Luke 9:49, 50).

Power goes to a man's head, and he needs the balance of God to keep him from going astray. Then too, strong men have intense loyalties and are not afraid to assert them, and are prone to condemn all who do not conform.

John was here exhibiting that dreadfully sectarian viewpoint which persists even in our day. To him it was not enough that a man was doing the Lord's work; he must either join their particular circle or quit. He was willing to stop a work of grace because this disciple of Christ was not in the regular group. That same spirit prevails today.

One wonders how some narrow sectarians can read the words of Jesus without blushing in shame and rushing to his feet for forgiveness and cleansing.

God wants dynamic men to work for him; but he wants them to be poised and balanced in their dealings with others, especially with the brethren.

III. God Wants Patient Men (Luke

The friction between the Jews and the Samaritans dated from the time when the latter-a half-Gentile people-were denied the right to help in building the temple. That became the foundation for long and bitter strife, which showed up in such a discourteous act as to refuse a night's lodging to travelers because their destination was the hated city of Jerusalem.

Their offense viewed from another angle was far more than a bitter lack of courtesy, for they were turning from their door the Son of God, the Lord of glory.

Stubborn prejudice combined with spiritual ignorance to make this tense and explosive situation. The sons of thunder had an answer ready-let's blow them off the earth. Simple, wasn't it? Yes, but nei-ther right nor kind. These poor people should have drawn forth their compassion, not their hatred or a desire for revenge.

Whenever and wherever you see a man set to get revenge on another, you see a man who knows nothing of the true spirit of Christ

IV. God Wants Loving Men (I John 4:7, 8).

Love is not merely something that God shows toward men or inspires in their hearts. God is love. Being God, he is love, and that love is not a passive quality but an active one. He loves.

Because he is love, those who profess to belong to him are also to love one another, to love a world lost in sin, yes, to love even the utterly unlovely.

Volumes have been written on this subject, but here we must be satisfied just to state the fact and to ask ourselves the direct question, Do I manifest the love of God in my life? Well, do you?

What is your GUESS on our profits...

SOMETIMES, although an idea is wrong, it does no harm. Like the idea that a square jaw is the sign of will power. That winters aren't as severe as they used to be, or that red hair denotes quick

But there are other wrong ideas, which are definitely harmful to public confidence in and understanding of industry. One such idea is the current "guessing" about profits made by large business organizations.

Many people are apt to grossly exaggerate the money made by business. So Opinion Research Corporation (an independent organization) made a survey to learn just what the public thinks about profits. Compare these guesses and yours with the International Harvester profit figures given below.

55555 Public guess on war profits . . 30.0¢

In this survey, the average of the guesses by the public of the wartime profits made by industry was thirty per cent (30%).

But in the four war years of 1942, 1943, 1944, and 1945, the profits of International Harvester Company averaged only . . . 4.9% on sales. Less than one sixth of what the general public "guessed" for all industry.

For this period, the year by year per cent of profits on sales was: 1942-7.34, 1943-5.59, 1944-3.95, 1945-3.93.

5555 Public guess on peace profits 18.0¢

5 1 H four pre-war year average profit . . 7.17¢ In the four peace years of 1938, 1939, 1940, and 1941, the profits of International Harvester Company averaged . . . 7.17%. This is well under half of what the public

(5) FAIR (5) (5) 1 H Majority think fair profit in normal times is 10¢

"guessed" for all industry.

I H ten-year average is less than 7¢ The survey indicates the public knows that in our economy profits are indispensable. And the rate of profit in normal times. Many large businesses, including ourselves, would consider it a banner year if we could reach this figure. Our average profit for the last ten years—four war and six peace—was 6.43%—more than a third less than what the public considers fair.

All these figures show that our profits are not high. As a matter of fact, the entire farm machinery industry is a low profit industry. In 1944, the Federal Trade Commission published a list of 76 industries ranked in order of their ratio of profits to sales. The farm machinery industry was 57th on

What About Current I H Prices?

When the War ended and we planned our peace-time production, we had hoped to be able to serve our farmer customers at the same level which has held since 1942, regardless of war-time increases in costs of wages and materials up to that time. But recent developments have forced a change in our plans.

Wages and materials consume nearly all of every dollar Harvester takes in from sales. A Government board has recommended and the Company has agreed to pay a general wage increase of 18 cents per hour for Harvester factory employees. The Government has also allowed price increases on raw materials which we purchase in large quantities. Ŝteel has had an average increase of 8.2%.

There has been no general increase in our prices since they were frozen by the Government early in

So our situation today is that what we BUY costs us 1946 prices. We will be paying average hourly wages 56% above 1941. For what we SELL we get only 1942 prices. This condition cannot long be met out of our present low rate of profit.

Future Prices on I H Products

It is plain that price relief will be needed to meet the increased wage and material costs which we must carry. We regret this necessity. We prefer to lower prices, when possible, rather than raise them and we know our customers prefer to have us do that. We had hoped to be able to "hold the line," at least. But we do not see how we can avoid operating at a loss if our prices continue to remain at their present frozen levels. We will NOT "cut corners" on any of our products, because QUALITY IS THE FOUNDATION OF OUR BUSINESS. Our customers can be certain that we will seek no more than a moderate profit, both because of our policies and because we have approximately 300 competitors fighting us vigorously for your business. Our request for price relief will be no more than is necessary to insure continued service to our customers, continued work for our employees, and a reasonable return for our stockholders.

STARRING ARAB AND ANDY BLAKE WAN FEATURES

THE STORY THUS FAR: Lt. Andy Blake and his wife, Arab, discovered evidence of a spy ring headed by a Mr. Jones. They arranged to have Jones and his gang follow to Andy's home. While there Renee, who kept the hangout, came through the window and was taken to the cellar. Arab tried to escape but was captured by Jones. Renee tried to help Andy by cutting a small hole over his heart so that when Jones broke into the cellar he left Andy there, believing him dead. Andy rushed to his superior, reported the whole matter, then headed to a black market gas station used by Jones. He captured the operator, but not until the operator had sent out an alarm to the gang.

The regulation belt with its telltale brass buckle and keeper went next. It was just as well to be set. I had the tie half undone as our branch secretary answered the phone.
"It's Blake," I said. "Get Colonel

In another moment his voice rumbled over the wire and I began babbling out the story and trying to listen to him with one ear and to road noises with the other. I was incoherent at first. If an average person had been on the other end, saying "Huh?" and "What's that?" and "I didn't get that," we'd have had the wire snarled faster than a kitten with a ball of yarn. But the chief brought me along like a CO chief brought me along like a C.O. handling a green forward observer.
When I finished, he had all the facts and he had them straight.

"Blake," he said, "can you give us fifteen minutes?"
"I'll try, sir. But the way this guy's listening he expects his friends awfully soon."

awfully soon.'

"Got a gun?"
"No, sir."

"Then get your prisoner hidden

My left ear went out of business and my right took over. It had picked up a faint hum. Like bees swarming. But bees don't swarm in late October.
"Blake, did you hear me?"

The hum was rising. Ninety horsepower would sound like that a quarter mile away. 'Blake! Blake!"

I whirled to the mouthpiece. "Car on the way, Colonel. Hitting plenty. This looks like it."

"Won't hold you, then. Good luck." The receiver clacked. I slammed It into the holder, and cleared for action. My fingers had finished loosening my tie as I talked. I flung it into a corner, ripped the shoulder straps from my O.D. shirt, and got rid of my dog tags. That left nothing to scream army. Two hundred yards down the road tires yowled around the curve. I dropped to the floor and rolled oil and grease and dirt into my clothes. It wasn't enough. I scrambled to the workbench and found a battered tin can filled with penetrating oil and rusted parts. I dipped both hands in it, ran them through my hair. They were looking for a redheaded guy. face a smearing, snatched an old sweater from a hook, dove into it, and swiped the lanky man's crumpled felt hat.

The shack trembled to the roar of eight cylinders. Brakes shrieked. I slugged the lanky man back of the ear just hard enough to make him groggy. Not a time for playing nice. Then I ran outside and saw dust still spurting behind a big sedan.

"Jeez," I yelled, "am I glad you guys got here! I thought you was never comin'!" Two big men piled out of the car and came at me like guards double-teaming a tackle. Big hands jolted me, twisted my arms into pretzels behind my back, slapped my body. I howled, "Take It easy! I'm with you guys!"

They moved in high gear but thought in low. Right away they handed me the lanky man's name. "Who're you?" one said. "Where's Eddie? Make it fast if you wanna be able to scratch again." He gave the arm he held an extra twist.
"Eddie got nailed!" I cried. "I'm just tryin' to help. Gimme a chance. The army put the snatch on him!' The pressure eased. Two square stolid faces pushed close to mine. "Whatcha mean, the army? Quit yammering and give out!" 'I'm tryin', fellows. This army lieutenant come back, see? He was onto Eddie sugarin' his gas. He sticks a rod in Eddie's ribs and says come on, buddy, we're goin' for a trip up U. S. 1 and you're gonna show me where Jones and Raeder and the others hang out. And he makes Eddie get in his car and they drive off. Jeez, it was oney a couple minutes after Eddie buzzed you." "What were you doin' all this

"I was in the house. I watched him. He didn't know there was anybody but Eddie. I couldn't do nothin'! I didn't have no rod."

One of them jarred me with the heel of his thick hand. "Yah," he said, "if you'd had a rod you wouldn't of used it. You don't weigh in like a real guy, for my money.

The other nodded, said, "I lined him up for a rat." They looked at go. They weren't so worried about was more future in it than playing suspicious character.

"Whaddya want?" I whined. "Want me to come out and bite that rod outta his hand?"

One of them slapped me. Not hard. The kind of slap that tells a rat he belongs. The kind a real guy gets on his back. "What was you doin' here, huh?"

"Just helpin' Eddie out, that's all.

Listen, fellows-" "Aah, Eddie didn't go in for helpers. You're hidin' out. Who's lookin' for you, huh?" "It was just a little job I pulled up north. Nothin' much." What kind of job? Let's "You'll make him cry. He never pulled a job. Where's your draft card, jerk?"

"I—I lost it somewheres."
"It gets me," one of them said.
"These jerks will plead to anything except keepin' one jump ahead of a Greetings.'

"All right, 1-A. Fill up the tank,

I fumbled in my pocket, brought out the key. That seemed to wipe out any remaining suspicion. I went to work filling their tank. My hands kept shaking. All they had to do was to glance into the repair shop but they didn't. I finished the job, screwed the cap on tight. I had their license number and a good description. They wouldn't get far up U. S. 1.

'You oughtta be able to catch that car," I said. "He don't have too much of a lead. Smack him one for me, will you?'

One of them laughed. "Do your own smacking," he said. He wrenched open the rear door and shoved me into the car. "We like your company."

"Listen, fellows, I got to stick around here! Jeez, if a highway cop says where's my draft card and I-"Shut up! We need you to spot the car." He climbed in beside me. "Take it away, chum," he told his partner. The engine howled. The big sedan made a rocking turn which slammed me against my companion, and roared back the way it had come. Only five minutes had passed since Colonel Parker had hung up. Five minutes . . . and he had asked me for fifteen. I had let him down. I had let a lot of swell people down. And I might have cost Arab her only chance of rescue.

It was no use counting on cops, but the army was something else. Every time we screeched around a bend I prayed for a road block and a squad of tough G.I.'s from Meade in battle dress. A couple of phone calls from the gas station would sew up this road until armor couldn't get through. Curve after curve loomed ahead and then dwindled in the rearview mirror. I chilled a little more each time. My idea had been on the optimistic side. I couldn't expect the army to read minds.

Probably they were losing time right now searching the underbrush around the gas station for my body. When they didn't find it they wouldn't know where to look next . until they got the lanky man talking. It takes time to loosen up a man when you don't use Axis methods. Until he talked, the army was looking for an unidentified car filled with an unknown number of strangers headed in an undisclosed direction. The car neared Baltimore. Once the man next to me snapped orders to keep a closer watch for the green coupe I had described. Both he and me disgustedly, but let my arms the driver were getting jumpy. We spotted a green car at a diner, and me now. They had me typed, and two thick automatics slid out into it was a type they understood. I two big hands. They almost seemed had been lucky. It isn't healthy to to doubt my word when I said it puzzle guys like them. Playing rat wasn't the car, and the driver might not be nice work, but there slowed to check. But the car had Delaware plates and we went on.

We slipped through Baltimore shortly after ten. Then came open country, and the driver swerved to the side of the road and halted. 'Well?" he said, scowling at me.

"Who, me?" I asked. An elbow slammed into my ribs. Not extra hard. Just enough to remind me of my place. "Where's the car? Where's Eddie?" "How would I know?" I whined.

"I ain't been carryin' them in my pocket. "A clown," the driver said, reaching back to clip my jaw warningly. 'Why didn't we spot that car? You said he took Eddie up U. S. 1. What about the sugar in his gas tank? We didn't see no green coop stopped anywhere."

"Maybe he stopped and drained his tank before we caught up," I said. "He could have had time for a fast job. He could still be up ahead, couldn't he?"

"Not now, jerk, not now." He looked at me from empty blue eyes, and said, "You know why? On account of Eddie don't know where we go from Baltimore."

It took a few seconds for that to sink in. When it did, I got sick. The army wouldn't be able to find out the location of the hangout from Eddie. He would give them Baltimore and then they would have to guess. They still had the whole Jersey and Maryland coastline to work on. It would take ten divisions to check that coastline, and it couldn't be done between now and tomorrow morning. About now was time for me to get my brain out of cold storage. I had been letting things slide, counting on others to clean up the mess. I hadn't even noticed, for example, that we had turned off U. S. I in Baltimore and had taken the more easterly highway: 40. It took a route marker near the car to make me realize that.
"What do you think?" the driver asked his buddy.

"Get going. But watch for a tail." "If you guys don't want me no more," I said, "I'll thumb a ride back and-"

A slap ended that try. "We're tak-ing you along, jerk," my companion said. "The chief might want to get a load of you."

From that point on we didn't try to set any speed records. In open country we eased along at thirty. Occasionally another car would tag along behind us for a while, and the big men would start to worry. Our car would drift into a side road and then crouch on its rear springs from sudden acceleration. Sometimes we made long detours, or turned into side roads and parked to watch traffic on the highway. Once a light plane circled overhead and the big car ran for cover like a rabbit under a hawk.

A little while later I noticed my companion staring at my shoes. The shoes were dirty enough, but the russet leather wasn't cracked, the laces were neat, and the heels studied. The two big men had lowgear minds, but low gear will get you places the same as high if you have time to spare. And low-gear minds aren't likely to get off the

We stopped for more gas at a place in Delaware. They let me go into the washroom alone while my companion smoked a cigarette outside the window. I had time to tear off a piece of paper towel, write Colonel Parker's War Department address, and print: ONE-THIRTY MID-DELAWARE SEDAN VIR-GINIA LICENSE 360642 ROUTE 40 HEADED JERSEY STOP UNDER SUSPICION BUT NOT YET PRIS-ONER STOP BLAKE. Underneath I wrote: Telegram. URGENT! I underlined URGENT three times, and backed it up by folding a fivedollar bill in the paper. It made a small wad which I could hide in my hand until I got a chance to pass it to somebody respectable. They let me get away with that, but when we reached the Newcastle-Pennsville ferry one of them stuck beside me wherever I went. I had no chance to slip the telegram to anyone. By the time we rolled up the Jersey ramp the wadded paper was getting damp with sweat. As we drove on I noticed that my pal no longer kept his automatic in his pocket. It was on the far side of the seat beside him. I knew what the books said to do: clip him across the throat, grab the gun, and plug the man up front. But maybe my pals hadn't read the same books. And I hadn't the right to take that kind of gamble . . . yet.

Ten miles into Jersey we stopped at a diner for coffee and sinkers. A faded middle-aged woman served us and wondered aloud if we knew a war job for anybody with arthritis. She told us that gas rationing had ruined the diner business.

When we finished I made my bid. 'Let me take this," I said, and went to the cash register before they bill with a flourish, turned my back to them, and handed the woman the dollar and the folded note. She gave me the change from the dollar, fingered the note, saw the five, and started to speak.

Woman's World

Boost Blouse Supply By Making New Ones from Old Dresses

By Ertta Haley

O WOMAN ever has enough blouses, the most economical item in the wardrobe. If you have a skirt with a choice of two, three or even four blouses, you can always be sure of going about well dressed without giving the impression that you are always wearing the same clothes or operating on a limited wardrobe.

Most blouses require two yards or less of material, and they may be made from all sorts of material. In fact, the sky is the limit as far as fabrics for blouses are concerned. Many a woman with outmoded dresses or evening gowns can put together several blouses and give the impression of a brand new wardrobe.

Taffeta evening gowns make par-ticularly attractive blouses. Since taffeta blouses are now popular, those outmoded gowns should now be taken out, overhauled, cut and made into something as usable and pretty as a blouse to give you an alternate for that new spring suit.

Any style may be chosen for taffeta blouses are seen in draped and tailored styles. They are cool and feel well under a wool suit. They are dressy enough even when you remove the jacket to your suit.

Fitting is as important in a blouse as in a well-tailored suit. Take a look at some of the handsome, expensive blouses in the stores and you will see what I mean. Notice that there are at least four tucks at the waist of the blouse, two on each side in both back and in front. In some styles you will find even more tucks to give that "nipped" at the waist look, and prevent too much fullness under the skirt.

Details are Important In Making Blouse

Another important detail which we are beginning to see more often in blouses is the deep dart right underneath the arm. This is used to get away from the flat-looking bust and to give more attractive, fitted lines to the garment. Even if the pattern which you happen to be using does not show these darts, fit them into the garment after the weren't run over at the back. I shoulder seams are sewed and you shuffled my feet back out of sight.

If you have a taffeta evening gown . . .

Nothing was said, but I knew that this and other odd facts were being on. You will see how much they do for the figure.

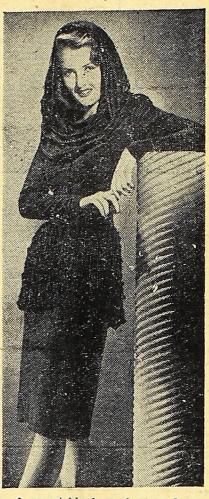

Darts are used plentifully on the blouse, as are gathers. In making the blouse, gather at the shoulders first, using very tiny stitches so that the gathering will be even. If the blouse has a yoke and an action back, make sure that the blouse is gathered, as at the shoulders, and basted carefully in place before sew-

Another detail which is important in the blouse is the shoulders. A tiny basting stitch is run around the upper part of the sleeve, and this is used for making the small gathers which enable you to ease in the sleeve when you are ready to stitch it into place on the blouse. Most of the fullness is allowed on the top of the shoulders and the back. Make sure that no gathers are allowed underneath the arm, as this will make the blouse uncomfortable

Many types of shoulder pads are now available which will also aid in Black Wool Crepe giving good lines to the blouse. The more expensive pads seem to cup the shoulder rather than pad it, and they are not so weighty as the stuffed ones. They may be used in several blouses. Another type of pad now being made is attached to a net vest. This is designed to be worn underneath the blouse, and of course, it eliminates sewing pads in each blouse. Still another solution to the pad problem is to use the taffeta itself. The pads, which need not be stuffed, since the material is stiff, will also match the blouse perfectly.

If you are fond of cuffs on the blouse, taffeta makes beautiful pleated cuffs. The pleats should be placed evenly and pressed and basted in place before sewing. Pay particular attention to the line or print of the material. Piping may also be used if you are fortunate in finding some that matches or con-trasts perfectly with the material you have on hand.

If you are making long sleeves on the blouse, you will want at least two darts at the elbow to allow for freedom of movement. Sometimes patterns will call for only one dart. but it has been found best to make two small rather than one deep dart. The finished garment will also look much better.

It is always wise in making darts of this type to come to a sharp point. You can best guide your sewing if you will baste first. Always tie the threads on the inside-and do tie them firmly so that the dart does not come open later. It's much easier to sew them right the first time than to try to repair them later when they are sewed on the garment and you no longer have a flat working surface.

Home Sewing Hints

Just a word about patterns for those of you who do a lot of home sewing. If the tape measure around the bust reads 42, please buy a pattern in that size, not in a 38. The size of the individual is much better concealed in a correctly fitted garment, than one which is too small.

If the pattern must be altered. it is much easier to alter one that is too large simply by taking tucks in the pattern. If too small, the pattern must be slit, and this is much more difficult to do than taking in tucks.

Avoid over-sewing if you want the garment to look nice. Use the type of finished edge most suitable to your material and make this as neat as possible.

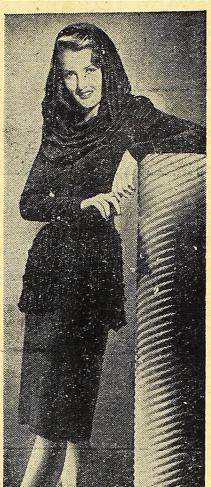

Good table space, good light and a place for the ironing board are among the essentials needed for home sewing. If it is not possible to have a sewing room, have all these items conveniently on hand when you do sew.

Spring Fashion Notes

Gray is a most popular color for summer wear. Gray chambray could answer. I dug out a dollar trimmed with white eyelet is exceedingly popular.

Delightful cotton eyelet is perfect for cool, short, street-length dresses. These can be dressy and sophisticated and need not look as though they were borrowed from Scarf prints are worked into the bodice or scarf treatments in ingenious ways that bespeak a decided play of imagination. They are worn around the head like a little draped turban. Hoods are the plaything of designers who are creating scarflike affairs to wear in connection with new spring dresses.

ahead will outclass the postwar period of the first world conflict when it

R. Hornsby comes to the matter of attendance and the actual amount of gold or its equivalent taken in at the turn-

This 1946 season will make all other past years look like the tag end of a depression so far as crowds and cash are concerned. The recent basketball season flattened all past attendance records. We have had over 50,000 people clamoring to pay $20 a seat for a nontitle fight, meaning Graziano and Servo.

California and Florida race tracks have left the past far behind in this same respect. Two Alabama football squads, made up from Ala-bama players, recently fought it out before 25,000 spectators in Birmingham. Racing at Jamaica has already taken long leaps beyond last year's earlier marks.

The super-brilliant stars who followed the last world war may be missing, but there are still enough good ones to keep the human mass rolling in the general direction of the next show, whatever game it might happen to be.

Only Warming Up

But these matters are only in the warm-up division. The real harvest from the golden crop is still on beyond us.

Baseball expects to shatter all past crowd records by a wide margin. The Yankees hope to play before something approximating two million at home. The Dodgers would be right alongside if there was only enough parking room for the human frame. The Giants won't be far away if their ball club holds up.

The 450 million dollar bet at New York tracks last season is likely to reach or pass 550 million dollars this year. We have seen crowded Derby and Preakness years before, but nothing to what this next May will offer in these two better than 100 thousand dollar tests. The Yankee stadium hasn't the attendance space to equal the crowds that saw the two Tunney - Dempsey shows, but the Louis-Conn meeting will outdraw both financially in the way of extra carloads of cash. They are already talking about Graziano being involved in a million dollar gate and the rock-fisted entry hasn't even a title.

The United States ation is dead sure that the open at Canterbury, Cleveland, in June and the amateur at Baltusrol in September will run up far higher figures than either has ever drawn in the past. The crowds who want to see a contest have already far outgrown the limited spaces through spring and summer and fall.

On a recent tour of the southeast we were often asked how long the money would hold out. Apparently it is going to hold out for at least another year. No one can say yet in just what fighting shape either Louis or Conn will be, but the rush to contribute at least three million dollars is still under way with the contest coming late in June.

Apparently it isn't the entry list but the game that is drawing them out. As far as one can see neither the Derby nor the Preakness nor the Belmont has any Count Fleet or any Whirlaway or Alsab running. No outstanding star has yet shown for these events, but this won't affect the size of the populace on hand. Baseball comes nearer approaching the first golden age in playing elass. For baseball still has the Cardinals, DiMaggio, Ted Williams, Bob Feller and many others with a high standard of excellence, including Newhouser and Wakefield of the Tigers. Some one recently asked how large the crowds would be if Ruth, Dempsey, Jones, Tilden, Hornsby, were back in their prime. The answer is they couldn't be any larger for the simple reason there isn't any more room. Today they'll rush to see anything at any price. Apparently everything is worth $50 -except $50.

Genius in Sports

What is this "know-how," this genius or instinct for superlative play in sport? Ty Cobb's father was a Georgia judge who had no particular interest in any game. Ty Cobb's children had no interest in baseball. Yet Bill Tilden once told me that young Ty Cobb might have been a tennis champion.

Old man DiMaggio never had the slightest idea of what baseball meant. Yet he produced Joe, Dom and Vince DiMaggio.

18_4 That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered

Kidney Action Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper cating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

urination.

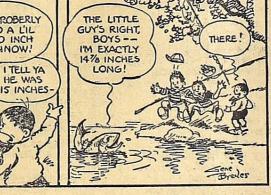

Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the lidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

HOW'LL YOU HAVE YOUR EGGS?

This weather-beaten trouble-shooter isn't worrying about your eggs-or whether you want 'em soft boiled, fried, or scrambled.

But he is worrying about keeping your electric service flowing along as usual. If that means eggs for your breakfast, okay then, that's why he's up on a storm-lashed power pole.

And, he'll stay there till he gets your line repaired - in spite of hot wires sputtering around him. In spite of rain . . . lightning . . . thunder . . . and a high wind howling, "Watch out, fella, we're gonna hit it again!"

You don't have to send him a check for his trouble. You won't pay any more on your electric bill-to cover his hard, wet work and the materials he uses. Chances are you'll never even know a line went out.

This kind of service is routine stuff for the trouble-shooter and the electric company he works for. Storms - the repairs and cost - are all prepared for and handled in a businesslike way. But it isn't an easy job. Keeping your electric service dependable and cheap is the result of careful planning and sound business management.
