County to Honor World War II Veterans

Tentative Program Arranged for Event

Official dedication of the county honor roll, commemorating individ-uals from Iosco county who served their country in its armed forces during World War II, will take place on Sunday, June 16. The program for the day will include a military parade, scheduled for 2:30 p. m. followed by one son, Herbert Case of Detroit; a daughter, Mrs lowed by a dedication ceremony at the court house grounds, site of the honor roll. Immediately thereafter all returned World WarII veterans are the returned world warII veterans and the returned world warII veterans are the returned w of the county, including those who recently moved here, are invited to be guests of the citizens of Tawas be guests of the citizens of Tawas City and the Tawas City Chamber of Commerce at a picnic lunch in the Tawas City Chamber of Commerce at a picnic lunch in the Tawas City Chamber John Johnson, Bert Banks, Miss Norma Hopper, Mrs. Jean McAlpin, city park across the highway from the court house.

The Auxiliary of the Tawas City American Legion Post has assumed the task of arranging the picnic lunch to be provided veterans on the after-noon of Sunday, June 16 fol-lowing the County Roll dedication ceremonies.

With nearly 500 discharged service men and women of World War II home, this task takes on major proportions. In order to carry through this project to a successful conclusion assistance by townspeople in the various phases is solicited. Volunteers may contact any member of the Auxiliary for particulars.

GOP CONGRESSMAN REWARDED

Few congressmen have enjoyed a higher rating at the White House in the last two decades than hardhitting Richard J. Welch of California, a Republican congressman for 21 years.

Always subordinating party interest to the national welfare, Welch's rugged integrity won him the esteem of both Presidents Hoover and Roosevelt, with Harry Truman equally fond of him.

It is an axiom in congress that when Dick Welch wants something at the White House, he gets it. His last visit, to request Presidential support of another bridge connecting San Francisco and Oakland, was no exception.

Despite opposition from the navy, which contends that expanded aircraft and water-transport facilities in the bay area make a new bridge inadvisable, Welch told Truman that the bridge was imperative. Traffic on the present Oakland bridge, he said, was moving "bumper-to-bumper."

"All we are asking is a public hearing to state our case, Mr. President," said Welch, "but the navy is even opposed to that."

"This is an election year," commented Welch with a grin, "but there are no political considerations in the bridge project as far as I am concerned."

Truman may have been thinking of Welch's unflinching battle to support OPA as he replied:

"In your case, Dick, it wouldn't make any difference to me whether there were any political considerations in it or

CONGRESS RETREATS

It isn't often that the public rises up in protest so quickly and effectively as over the recent cutting of price control in the house of repre-sentatives, However, the "Save OPA" mail drive on congress now appears to have scored a bull's eye. Senate opposition to crippling house amendments is mounting and anti-price control senators one by one are beginning to yell "uncle!"
Despite this, OPA Boss Paul

Porter and Economic Stabilizer Chester Bowles are awaiting the senate showdown with crossed fingers. What they fear is a compromise senate bill - a watered-down, but still dangerous, version of the house "repeal" measure.

Porter warned of this in a recent secret conference with Bowles and other top officials when the question was raised as to whether the outspoken Bowles should continue his cannonading for air-tight OPA legislation. Bowles himself felt that it might be smart for him to pull punches temporarily.

Porter, however, vigorously advised the contrary.

"This is no time to trim our sails or for you to let down, Chester," he told Bowles.

MISSOURI POUND CAKE

President Truman's first cousins, Nellie and Ethel Noland of Independence, Mo., are writing quite a few letters these days about the fa-mous "pound cake" which long has been a favorite delicacy of the Truman and Noland families.

Last Christmas, while Truman was in Independence for the holidays, one of the Noland sisters' cakes was featured on the menu. A writer for the Associated Press. apparently inexperienced in the kitchen, obtained the recipe and published it. Later housewives throughout the country tried their hand at preparing the cake. But something was wrong. Scores of letters began pouring into the Noland mailbox at 216 North Delaware street. Housewives were having kitchen difficulties.

A check revealed the Associated Press reporter had failed to include in the recipe one pound of butter - necessary for good results in baking the cake. Perhaps the AP reporter was patriotic and didn't think butter should be used in cake in view of the edible fats shortage. Anyway, President Truman's cousins have been writing letters ever since.

National Parks Ready For '46 Travel Rush

(By WNU Features)

America is hitting the vacation trail this spring and summer and the crowds in the national parks are expected to be the greatest in their history. Some of the parks are already open, and all of them will be operating at full schedule by June, says Newton B. Drury, director of the National Park Service.

Lodges and hotels which have been closed for three years are being reconditioned. New staffs are being recruited and trained for the summer season.

Few of the sightseeing busses used in the national parks were suitable for war use, so most of the fleets are still intact.

Yellowstone, Yosemite, Grand Canyon and Glacier national parks will have complete sightseeing serv-

It is expected that enough manpower will be available to restore full service in the other parks of the system.

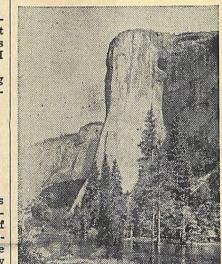

Some reconditioning work may take more than six months.

Staffs may not be as complete and skilled as they were before 1941, but the concessionaires stated their plans are being rushed and they have high hopes of giving good service by June.

More than $500,000 for reconditioning the cabins, lodges and cafeterias in Grand Canyon, Bryce and Zion national parks and at Cedar Breaks national monument is being spent by the Union Pacific railroad, which operates the facilities in these parks.

The renovation program also includes purchase of 22 new 29-passenger busses and a fleet of 9-passenger sedans for charter service.

The caverns were discovered in 1874 when Elijah Davidson, an early settler, shot at a bear. The wounded bear disappeared into a hole in the mountainside, and Davidson followed with a pitch torch to find a great underground world.

Before the war, increasing thousands each year were taking the 19mile drive to the caves up through the timbered Siskiyou mountains from the Redwood highway.

The weird and beautiful underground chambers and the Swiss chalet lodge, in a canyon at the mouth of the caves, are expected to break all attendance records as the west and the rolling hills of

An intensive road-building and road - improvement program is planned by the department of the interior, continuing through 1946 and 1947, to meet the influx of auto-mobile tourists who will follow in the wake of new car production.

While the national parks are always free and open, the usual tourist facilities were suspended dur-ing the war. Park attendance dropped from a high of 21,050,426 visitors in 1941 to a new low of 6,908,749 in 1943.

That the 1946 total will surpass the attendance of 1941 is indicated by the rush of late fall and winter visitors which started immediately after V-J Day.

Eastern Parks Offer Variety To The Tourist

The Shenandoah and Smoky mountains national parks offer an unsurpassed beauty treat to midwesterners whose previous vacations have shown them the wonders of the Rockies.

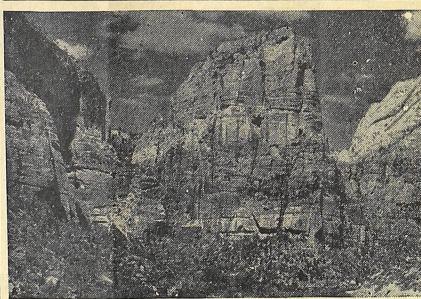

Great Smoky mountains national park embraces 460,000 acres, of which 200,000 are still covered by primeval forests. The peaks and ridges of the range, rising above 6,000 feet, and almost always veiled in mist, are the starting point of some 600 miles of trout streams.

The north entrance to the park is 30 miles southeast of Knoxville, Tenn., making it easily accessible by all types of transportation. Busses make two round trips from Knoxville through the park daily. There are two camp grounds in the park, and hotel and tourist camp facilities are available in nearby cities and towns and at Knoxville and Asheville.

Blue Ridge national parkway, a 485-mile strip of parkland connecting the Great Smoky mountains and Shenandoah national parks, will eventually have a modern highway running its entire length. U. S. route 11 provides an almost direct connection between the two parks at present.

A more scenic approach to Shenandoah from north of Roanoke, Va., is along the completed portion of the parkway, which connects with Skyline drive running the entire length of the park along the crest of the Blue Ridge.

The Skyline drive is 107 miles long, with parking areas, picnic grounds and a camping area along its length. Visitors may enjoy the magnificent scenery of the Shenandoah valley's fertile farmlands on Piedmont plateau on the east.

VETS ARE LUCKY

Colonial Mansion Used by GI Couples at University

NEW YORK CITY.—Three couples from Midwestern and Western communities who planned to live in New York City while doing graduate study at Columbia university are beating the critical housing shortage by sharing an old colonial mansion on a country estate an hour's drive from the school.

And they readily admit they enjoy their leisurely country living much more than city dwelling "be-cause it's so much like home."

The couples are Mr. and Mrs. Donald Murray of Wausau, Wis.; Mr. and Mrs. John McDonough of Seattle, Wash., and Green Bay, Wis., and Mr. and Mrs. Cameron Bremseth of Leeds, N. D.

They and 11 other married veterans and their wives live the part of country squires in Nevis, a 20room mansion built in 1835 on an oak-studded 75-acre tract which gently slopes down to the Hudson river. The mansion, located at Irvington-on-Hudson, New York, was converted into single room apartments by Columbia university to help solve the student veteran's housing difficulty. The estate was acquired by the university from Mrs. T. Coleman Du Pont in 1935 and had been used as a botanical experiment station before its present tenants moved in.

Mrs. McDonough, the former Marie Mornard, who was brought up on her father's farm near Green Bay, summed up the attitude of the couples from west of the Mississippi. "Country life is the life I'm used to and although I wanted to live in New York City while my husband was studying, I far prefer Nevis," she said. "Just to feel more at home, I'm raising vegetables on a small plot of land. It helps the shopping problem."

Caught Some Whoppers In Cumberland River

JAMESTOWN, KY. - When John S. Osborne, his wife and his twin brother went fishing near Lock 21 in the Cumberland river recently, they caught 11 fish weighing a total of more than 600 pounds.

They were sturgeons, John said, and it is only once in a blue moon that the condition of the river and the spawning period of these fish coincide so that they may be caught in such quantities. The trio used a single large hook on a drag line, and for the line they used a No. 14 electric light wire. It took four men to land one of these fish - one on top of the lock to throw the hook and snag the fish, one to hold the fisherman to keep the fish from dragging him off, and two down in the water to get the fish into a boat.

Once a Hobby, Rugs Now His Business

LARGO, FLA. - Several years ago S. M. Rife started making rugs from rags cut and torn by his wife. It was just a hobby which he enjoyed after his hours at the post office. He enjoyed working out new patterns so kept it up.

Today Mr. Rife is in the rug business. Church organizations and individuals began buying his product, and the demand grew steadily. Soon he purchased a loom, bought carpet warp and started in earnest to supply his customers. Recently he bought a house and has turned a shop in the rear into a utility house devoted to his former hobby, which is now a profitable business.

'Possum for Dinner'

PASADENA, CALIF. - Sunday dinner walked into Carson G. Bell's back yard recently when an eight pound opossum came in to sample the grapevines. Bell rounded up sweet potatoes and called in Van Williams, famed Negro chef, and invited his friends. The opossum was presumably a descendant of some brought to California in 1900 by Tennesseans who wanted their favorite eating im-

WHEN VALUE OF CURRENCY DROPS, DISASTER FOLLOWS

EXPRESSED IN the simplest possible terms, inflation is nothing more than runaway prices caused by a depreciation of the nation's currency until it has little or no purchasing value. That is especially true where the currency has no basis of value other than the government's promise to pay.

In the stock market, but not in commodities, we had inflation in 1927, '28 and '29. That was an inflation President Coolidge might have largely prevented or stopped, by a simple request to the Federal Reserve banks to raise the rediscount rate to such a point as would have made it impractical for people to borrow money with which to gamble in stocks. Politically it would have been a decidedly unpopular move. People thought they were getting rich at the expense of the other fellow. They learned differently when the crash came in October of 1929.

On a day in July in 1929, I was having lunch at a club in Chicago. With me at the table was Hayden Harris, then vice president of the Harris Trust and Savings bank, one of the large and substantial financial institutions of the city. A member of the club came into the dining room, accompanied by a guest. The guest was introduced to Harris.
"Yesterday I made an investment of which I am sure Mr. Harris will approve," said the guest. "I pur-chased 50 shares of Harris bank

"At what price?" asked Harris. "Eleven hundred dollars per share," replied the guest.

"Sell it at once," said Harris. "It is not worth anything like such a price. The bank never has, and never can, pay dividends on such a value. I do not approve of that purchase. The bank stock is listed on the exchange, and we cannot control the price foolish people will pay for it. If you can buy at around $300 a share it will be a good buy."

That was but an instance of the inflation of that time. Without such inflation the Insull stocks would not have soared to such impossible heights, and the Insull collapse would not have caused the loss of their all for many thousands of foolish purchasers. It was not values but cheap money that brought on the debacle.

The government's efforts to hold down prices and wages have done much to prevent a general runaway inflation, but the danger is far from

UNION LEADERS MUST RECOGNIZE PUBLIC

SO MANY YEARS AGO the present generation does not remember the conditions, the railroads were operated on a "public be d-d" policy. Tariffs, passenger and freight were set at figures as high as the traffic would stand, regardless of costs. In the end an aroused public demand resulted in drastic regulatory legislation. So drastic that it broke many of the roads, and put even the strongest in a precarious position for many years. What the railroads did a generation ago the labor union leaders are doing today. Union membership represents less than one-eighth of the population of the nation, but that one-eighth is disregarding the interests of the seven-eighths that is the general public. Labor must recognize the public interest or public demand will result in drastic regulatory legislation, as it did in the case of the railroads. A continu-ance of recent methods will result in solidifying public opinion against the labor movement. The public will not consent to "be d—d" for any great length of time.

another Mexican boy, tolerated but not encouraged by the Americans of the community. His place in life was that of a wielder of a pick and shovel. His social standing was zero. The war has changed all that, I saw that Mexican boy as an honored guest at a community service club luncheon. He was wearing the uniform of an officer in the United States army. The war had provided opportunity for him and he had improved it. Out of the horrors, the carnage and hardships of war hundreds of thousands of American boys have found themselves. They accepted the responsibilities war placed on their shoulders; they learned the need of obedience, and the rule of authority. From these hard lessons have come a new manhood, and, to them, a new meaning of citizenship. The war had some measure of gain for those boys. . . .

Colder Winters Ahead

Cooler weather with old-fashioned winters like grandpop used to know are returning, the United States Weather bureau says. Weather trends come in 50-year cycles, it explains, and for the past half century we have been moving away from the winters in which folks had to dig through the snowdrifts to locate clothespoles.

Now will come a slow move back to the days when grandpop often walked into the second story of the old farm right from the snow level.

"And a good thing it will be to toughen up the citizenry," declared Elmer Twitchell today. been getting soft in sissy-like winters when the folks thought a blizzard was any snowfall that kept a limousine down to 40 miles an hour in open country. 'Blizzard Sweeps Cty' has been the routine headline every time a snowdrift got halfway up a milk bottle on the windward porch.

"What's become of the old fashioned fellow who had three fingers missing from the deep freezes? Where's the native once common to every community who got around on a wooden leg most of his life because of exposure in an icepack in his own back yard? Where are the countless folks who went around all their lives with tender ears and noses because of frostbite in their early days?

"When I was a boy," he continued, "you had to face the house southward or you'd get four or five loads of snow in the bedroom right through a door crack. It was nothing to have a fire freeze up over night. Once every winter they had to get a snowplow to dig me out of bed . . . and I slept in the attic!

"Big cities get out super-plows to fight a snowstorm that old-timers would tackle with a whiskbroom, and without bothering to put on anything but a pair of pants and an open shirt.

"Let the old-fashioned winters come back for the good of the race!" he concluded. "There will be less squawkin' about minor inconveniences."

The Hobos of America have voted to hold their 1947 convention in Miami, because the cities usually chosen are too cold in the spring. In this announcement you have a reflection of the American mood these days. A bum used to be willing to take his fun where he could find it, and always convenience of locale and economic considerations counted most. But now the climate must be right regardless of traveling distance and general expenses. The modern hobo refuses to loaf except near the Gulf Stream and he prefers to get there by plane.

Cadets to Swap Places, Dates With Midshipmen

ANNAPOLIS .- There can be no doubts about army-navy co-opera-tion any longer—the West Point cadets and the midshipmen are going to exchange their books, bread, bunks and, most startling of all, maybe even their dates.

The superintendents of the two academies announced a plan whereby almost 1,000 cadets and middles would change places for three-day periods.

The exchange will be made in four week-end groups, starting

April 19. Rear Adm. S. H. Ingersoll, Annapolis commandant, said the plan was aimed at encouraging "enduring friendships between the future army and navy officers."

War Losses Vary Greatly In Two World Conflicts

Seven major countries combined suffered 77 per cent of the military deaths in the First World war and 90 per cent in the Second World war. Yet their losses in each conflict varied tremendously as shown by the following figures, the first being for War I and the second for War II: France 1,358,000 - 167,000; British Empire 908,000-390,000; Italy 650,000 - 175,000; United States 126,000-325,000; Russia 1,700,000-3,000,000; Germany 1,774,000 — 3,250,000 and Japan 300—1,500,000.

"Not even fair. They thought with their biceps. It is necessary to think with the biceps and with the head. As I do." Joey grumbled something, and the fat man kicked him and screamed, "As I do, pig! Did you hear me?"

Joey tumbled backward. "Yeah, Chief, sure," he stammered. "You got everything. You're the champ."

The fat man nodded, calmed. "Biceps are merely tools," he said.

"A guy like you," he said, "ought to try a bow and arrow. Might make out better. I thought—hey, where'd you get this rod?"

"I met a fellow wasn't using it."

"Chief," Joey said anxiously, 'don't get one of those spells. We got no time to lose."

The fat man spoke sharply, shrilly, to somebody in his dream world. "No time to lose," he echoed. "Germany can still win but there is no time to lose. Give us the Wehrmacht and the Luftwaffe and the Navy, and we will give you the world! But it must be at once! Kill that Schwein Canaris and Goering and the stupid generals and the others who hate us. The fat man was wide awake now. He polished his china-bowl head with plump fingers, and said, "Bring down Renee and the blonde girl. We with the lamp. That means that he swam ashore and that there was no plan. If there were others, if there still have a half-hour before the conwere a plan, we would be prisoner? tact. Talking will pass the time.' "Yeah," I admitted. "It looks as by now. I could almost guess how if I haven't much hope of winning an Iron Cross."

"Much trouble. I do not understand it. You are not very intelligent. You are not strong.'

"Sure, I'm just a sub on the junior varsity. Think what our first team will do to you babies."

"Your first team," he said, "is on its way across now. But it will never land in North Africa-not after my report reaches the High Command. What you have done will have no effect on that. But you have destroyed my usefulness here. I will have to start back to Germany. Tonight."

"When you get back," I said, "tell them to start learning how to make apple pie and ice-cream sodas. There's going to be a big demand-"

"Lieutenant!" "Hmmm?"

"I do not like some forms of your American humor. I am leading up coming up twice. And I'm just be-to something serious. There is little ginning to get friendly with the room for passengers on a U-boat. I will be aboard, and Renee and Footsteps sounded in the hallway, and someone gasped and ran across the room behind me. A shawl of bright hair tumbled over my face and Arab was laughing and crying and her lips trembled against mine.

"Andy," she sobbed. "Andy, they told me they shot you. Andy, are you all right? Are you hurt?" "Sure," I said, "sure I'm all right.

Nothing wrong but the recurrence of an old paralysis of the brain. Are you O. K.?"

A hand grabbed her shoulder, wrenched her away. It was Joey, and he growled at her, "If you wanna see Jack here messed up, just make another pass at him. Sit down!" He jammed her into another chair.

The fat man laughed. It was like the gurgling of water in drainpipes. "Joey has trouble with his women," he said. "He has to keep them tied up or they run to other men. I do not find myself troubled that way. Do I. Renee?'

"I have never given you any trouble," she said faintly. "Why should I? You know how much I love you. Don't you? Don't you?"

He patted her cheek. "Yes, of course. Are you glad to see the lieutenant?"

"No. Why should I be?" "He has been telling me what happened in the cellar. Just imagine, he fooled us into thinking he was dead!"

Her body trembled. She pressed herself against him, and whispered, 'Why are we talking about him?"

"I thought you might be interested. You were there.' "There was so much noise and I

"It would be amusing to have you try to remember. Then I could compare your story with his."

"What . . what did he say?"

He laughed softly. "We will discuss it some other time. It will be entertaining. Sit down and rest, Renee. You look tired. You have been doing too much. You are always doing too much for people. You are too kindhearted."

She crumpled into a chair. The fat man touched her glowing black hair, caressed her bowed neck. He wasn't going to do anything about it. Not yet, anyway. He was going to save the subject for an idle moment which might be enlivened by a little mental torture. He didn't want love from her. He wanted obedience and terror.

Joey had finished lashing Arab's ankles together. Now his hands slid up her slim legs and he began tying knots very slowly and elaborately above the knees. His blue eyes were smoky; a vein squirmed on his fore-A curl of his yellow hair flopped down on his face and clung damply. It was like watching a high priest, preparing a girl for strange pagan rites. I tried not to think of Paula Thompson's helpless body.

Arab's dark blue dress and white linen collar were smudged and wrinkled, but she sat there looking oddly demure. She made me think of kids at high-school graduations: feet and knees pressed primly to-gether, soft blonde hair escaping from a little-girl ribbon, hands in long white gloves crossed on her lap but they were not gloves. Her hands had been wrapped in adhesive tape and her wrists had been crossed and taped. She couldn't wiggle anything but her thumbs. "What happened to your hands?"

I asked. She looked at them, tried to push her skirt down. "They kept getting in people's hair," she said.

Joey complained, "I got fed up with her slipping outta ropes and scratching and slapping. I bet that Venus de Mille went over big in her day. No hands at all."

"We'll get you a show-window dummy," I said. "You could make real time with one of those."

My wife said, "Andy, you didn't bring the U. S. Cavalry. I wish you wouldn't be so absent-minded."

Joey said, "He's got a rope tied around his finger to help him remember next time."

"Andy," she said, "is there a chance?" I shook my head. It would be tough on her not to be able to hope for anything, but I couldn't risk a hint; Plain Mr. Jones was too clever with loose talk. Any chance we had of getting away would be washed out if he became suspicious.

"I'm afraid we're tagged out," I said. "Two of the gang were bringing me here and I coaxed them in for a swim . . . but then I pulled a skull and left sandy tracks all over the house. Paula Thompson got away, though. She took the garvey. She can't run it but she could pole

"That's good. Now Joey hasn't anybody he can bully, have you, Joey?"

"I'm doin' O. K. You'll learn to be a lady, sister." The fat man said, "She will have to learn quickly. In a few hours we

Flour Sacks Aid Seamstress

By Ertta Haley

IF YOU'VE tried to do any sewing lately and have scoured the stores in a vain attempt to find suitable material for yourself, then you will welcome any suggestion that gives material easily. Long before we had the wealth of fabrics found in prewar times, many homemakers were making good use of those large, clean, readily available flour or sugar sacks.

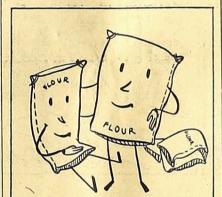

Some of the department and notions goods stores still carry them, and you might well look to them as material for a cheerful morning dress or cover-all apron. Cheerful? Why yes, of course. Just get out the package of dyes and dyeing kettle and go to work. Since these sacks are cotton, they take dye very easily, and of course you do not have to bleach them first. You can have any color you desire—a bright kelly green, rose pink, aqua or robin's egg blue.

Depending on your size, it will take from two to four of the large size flour or sugar sacks to give you the material you want. Take out the seams first, and make certain the scale are clean. Use the tain the sacks are clean. Use the directions for the particular dye you have on hand and go to work. After the fabric has been dyed, dried and ironed, lay it out for the pattern, making sure that no materials will be wasted.

Checking Measurements Considered Essential

Some of you may say, "Well, it's not so important that my house dress fits so perfectly." Why shouldn't the dress you do your work in, the one you spend most of the daylight hours in, be well fitted? Actually, good fit is important here as in a dress-up dress. Then too, these dresses are relatively simple, and you can learn good fitting from making them-a thing of importance when you begin sewing on the "more important" articles of clothing.

Select or make a pattern that comes exactly to your own bust size. Adjustments of an inch or so can be made easily, but remember it is easier to make a pattern one size larger-a little smaller, than to cut slits in a pattern that is too small to make it fit.

good way problem in hand is to take your own measurements and pencil them down side by side with the pattern measurements. Then you will know exactly the amount of adjustment needed, and can allow accord-

In cu'ting a dress from a flour sack, bear in mind the grain of the material and place the pattern correctly on the lengthwise grain. Mark all sewing guides either with stitching, tailor's tacks or chalk. This makes the work move along much

Here Are Tips For Sewing

There are usually some parts of dressmaking that are more tricky than others. Take the sleeves, for example. Just how are they to be eased into the garment without ugly gathers where they should not be? The best way I know is to take small basting stitches around the fullest Cool Crepe

Convert them into a morning dress.

Here's a newsworthy print inspired by a newspaper girl's bright idea. This cool attractive dress from Herbert Sondheim's collection has brief sleeves and simple lines that keep you cool and well dressed at the same part of the sleeve that fits to the dress, and draw these gently until the sleeve fits the armhole. Unless you are experienced, do not try to sew the sleeves on the machine before basting.

After the sleeve has been basted, try the dress on and see how the sleeve feels. If it does not give the fullest comfort, adjust the basting until the dress looks and feels exactly as you wish.

Another thing you may have noticed in buying ready-made gar-ments is the waistline. If this does not fall exactly where the natural waistline is, the dress is uncom-fortable. You can determine the natural waistline by putting a tape measure around the waist and bending to see that it is exactly in place Then mark the natural waistline on the garment with chalk.

Even in morning dresses, the fit over the bust is important. You might try underarm darts, even if they are not marked on the pattern. These darts, you know, are found on the most expensive clothes just for the sake of fitting.

Sheer Materials

Now that warmer weather is here and you are sewing on the lighter weight materials, keep in mind these pointers to make the sewing easy.

1. When sewing on sheer fabrics, use tissue paper or obsolete patterns to place underneath the garment when sewing with the machine. The tissue paper comes off almost by itself and insures a seam that is not too tight.

2. A double stitched seam is the simplest type to use for finishing sheer fabrics. The first row of stitching is on the seam line, and the second an eighth of an inch outside it.

3. A lapped seam is often used on bulky net or closely patterned lace material. The surplus edges of the seam are trimmed after the edges are overlapped.

4. Overcasting is another neat method for finishing seams on sheer fabrics. In this case, make a plain seam first and then press it open. Overcast both edges.

5. The fabric which you use determines the type of hem. For chiffons, organdies and geor-gettes, use a rolled or picot hem.

Sultanate of Oman Hot, Barren and Backward

The Sultanate of Oman on the southeastern coast of Arabia is one of the hottest and most barren and backward countries in the world. Although its area equals that of Kansas and its population that of Cincinnati, Oman has only 30 miles of road, one small hospital, and most of its people live in huts and sleep on the floor. Yet its ruler, Sultan Saiyid Said, receives a salary of $225,000 a year.

HUMAN tidal wave, headed for almost any sort of sporting competition, has struck baseball in record sweep. All past records are being submerged in the way of attendance figures, even on the part of those teams who are conceded nothing better than sixth place.

It would not be surprising to see the newly bedecked Yankee stadium, under the Cubs and the Dodgers also should surpass their best year, with many thousands added to the list.

A sporting crowd is willing to take a heavier beating than any other section of the human race. All these frenzied multitudes ask is a chance to buy a ticket, then let nature take its course. These crowds make the sardine look like a rover in the wide-open spaces, with room to spare.

The Kentucky Derby set a new high in several directions. So probably will the Louis-Conn inter-mingling at the Yankee stadium in

The Rush to Sport

We have been asked to explain this overwhelming rush to sport. After all, we have few who can match in ability and color the headliners of the Golden Age following the First World war. I am referring again to Babe Ruth, Jack Dempsey, Bobby Jones, Man o' War, Bill Tilden, Tommy Hitchcock, Devereux Milburn, Walter Hagen, Rogers Hornsby, Earl Sande and Red Grange. We have no such galaxy of famous names with which to conjure, although Di-Maggio, Williams, Nelson, Hogan, Arcaro, Blanchard, Davis and a few others may be just as good.

It may be that the glamour of past years takes on too keen a hue and glint. But that Golden Age of Sport produced a pretty fair collection of talent and color. No such talent has been proved in this present postwar era up to date, but it may happen later.

It may be that the coming season in various sports will give us champions that can match the Old Guard of the lost and golden era. We don't believe so. But we know that sport will give us greater crowds than ever were known in the past.

We know that there will be more money than ever before wagered on the races through the mutuels and the bookmakers - a total surpassing 2 billion dollars. New York alone will pass 500 million through the mutuels.

In this era of peace following the blackness of the world's greatest war, there are two details that make this possible: (1) the reach for release - the excuse for taut nerves and (2) more widespread cash than this country has ever known previously. It is the same in England, even more so. This is no knock against the human race. It is only a natural reaction, even if it isn't the wisest and the sanest reaction. When was the human race ever sane or wise?

Some Big Questions

The season will soon begin to unroll a number of answers to various important questions.

No. 1. How will the Yankee pitching staff make out? Will it be consistently good enough to be even fairly close to the pitching strength of Tigers, Red Sox or Indians? Or the Senators?

No. 2. Can the Tiger infield hold up well enough to give Steve O'Neill's crack pitching staff the chance to win again?

No. 3. Can Leo Durocher find enough pitching to keep his Dodgers up with the Cardinals and Cubs? Especially the Cubs.

No. 4. How far will the Cardinals be in front by the first of August? No. 5. Will the Giants' somewhat jittery defensive play crowd Mel Ott's team out of the first division?

No. 6. What about the season's impending pitching duel between Bob Feller and Al Newhouser? No. 7. Also the A. L.'s all around batting championship among Ted Williams, Joe DiMaggio and Dick Wakefield?

No. 8. How many home runs can Hank Greenberg deliver to offset the natural and expected deficit in foot speed?

No. 9. To what ball clubs are a few of the Cardinals' pitching surplus headed? No. 10. How will Pesky and Doerr of the Red Sox compare with Rizzuto and Gordon of the Yankees? No. 11. What are the odds on either Phillies or Athletics leaving the ancient and moldy cellar? No. 12. How will the old New York - Boston argument concerning the all-around ability of Joe Gordon and Bobby Doerr work out? No. 13. How far up will Billy Southworth be able to lift the Braves in his first Boston season?
