Judge Herman Dehnke To Give Honor Roll Dedication Address

Program of Ceremony Arranged

Event to be Held Sunday; June 16

Veterans of Isoco county are making plans to participate in ceremonies scheduled in connection with official dedication of the county honor roll at Tawas City, Sunday afternoon, June 16.

Highlights of the program for the occasion include a military parade commencing at 2:30; the dedication ceremonies at the court house grounds, site of the honor roll; and a picnic lunch for all returned World War II service people of the county. Circuit Judge Herman Dehnke, of Harrisville, will present the dedication address.

All Northeastern Michigan League games, with the exception of the Harrisville vs. West Branch game, scheduled for June 16 has been postponed because of the Honor Roll Dedication event which will be held at Tawas City on that day.

Veterans of both world wars will take part in the event. Additional color will be provided through participation by the different high school bands of the county in various features.

Five groups of individuals for the parade will be arranged. They are as follows: Oscoda (AuSable and Oscoda), East Tawas (Baldwin, Wilber and East Tawas), Whittemore (Sherman, Burleigh and Whittemore), Hale (Reno and Plainfield) and Tawas City (Alabaster, Grant, Tawas and Tawas City). The veteran's organization from the above localities will serve as the nucleus for each group, with other individuals attaching themselves in accordance with the above outline. Leading the different groups will be the Hale, East Tawas, Oscoda and Tawas City school bands.

National City Turtle Road to Be Improved

Federal Aid Project Planned

Plans are now ready for the improvement of the National City-Turtle road, according to a statement made Wednesday by County Road Engineer J. F. Sloan.

Mr. Sloan said that advertisements for bids on the project would be carried within the next two or three weeks. The improvement will be a Federal Aid project and will include re-grading and re-graveling which will be followed with black top as soon as the road is in condition. This is one of the important roads leading to the National Gypsum Company plant.

Coming Event at the Tawas City LDS Church

Beginning Sunday evening, June 9, and continuing for four consecutive Sunday evenings, a series of stereopticon views on the development of Jerusalem and Palestine will be shown at the L. D. S. church. The views will be shown by Elder L. G. Sager of Bay City and the program will start at 8:00.

Special musical talent will be a desirable feature. Everybody welcome and bring your friends.

NOTICE TO ELECTORS

Due to the re-registration of voters now going on all over the County, considerable confusion exists among voters concerning their eligibility to vote in the coming Primary Election, June 18th.

All those who were registered under the old registration system may still vote on June 18th whether re-registered or not. The old registration books will be used by election boards at this election in conjunction with the new ones. However, every voter who intends to vote in the November election must re-register under the new system whether or not he is now registered under the old.

Remember, you can still vote June 18th whether or not you are re-registered, but that will be the last election in which you may vote until you have re-registered with your Township or City Clerk, as the case may be.

Registrations will be accepted up to and including October 16th, 1946. That is the deadline for your chance to vote in the fall election.

R. H. McKenzie, Isoco County Clerk

Former Herald Publisher Dies at Niles

James E. Ballard Passes Away Friday

James E. Ballard, former publisher and owner of the Tawas Herald, died early Friday morning at Niles, Michigan, according to a message received here Saturday afternoon. Mr. Ballard had been in poor health for several years.

Mr. Ballard purchased the Herald in 1913 from Len J. Patterson and operated the plant until 1923 when he leased it to P. N. Thornton who later purchased it. Previous to owning the Herald Mr. Ballard had operated the Buckley Enterprise in Wexford county and had been employed as a journeyman printer in Chicago and at Waukesha, Wisconsin. Earlier he had been foreman in the Tawas Herald plant for a number of years. After he had disposed of the Herald, Mr. Ballard moved to Niles where he entered the mercantile business. He later purchased a commercial printing plant which he operated until his retirement.

Always interested in civic affairs Mr. Ballard had served Tawas City as supervisor and mayor, and at Niles he served as a member of the city council.

He was a member of Tawas City Lodge No. 302, F. & A. M., and was a past master of the lodge. Mr. Ballard served in the Spanish American War.

Mr. Ballard was born February 6, 1876, at Standish. Surviving him are the wife; three daughters, Helen, Edith and Ruth, and one son, James.

CARD OF THANKS
We wish to thank the neighbors and friends for their kindness during our bereavement. Also for the beautiful flowers, the pall bearers, and the use of cars.
The Pfeiffer Family.

CARD OF THANKS
We wish in this way to express our thanks and appreciation to relatives, friends and neighbors for their many acts of kindness, during our recent bereavement in the loss of our father, Charles Royce.

Detroit Men To Open Auto Sales Here

Lease Frank Dease Building on Lake St.

C. A. Gehardt and H. Hamway of Detroit have leased the Rempert Garage building on Lake street in this city where they will operate their Kaiser-Fraser sales and service.

The arrangement is temporary. Mr. Hamway stated today, as the firm owns a site adjacent to the Tawas Hi-Speed building on which they plan to build a building. Federal building regulations and scarcity of materials prevent them from building this spring as they had previously planned.

In addition to Kaiser and Fraser cars, the new firm will handle trailers, deep freezers and farm equipment.

Fred Rempert removed his garage equipment from the building which is owned by the Fletcher Oil Company, last week. Mr. Rempert stated today that while he planned on continuing in the garage business here, he had not decided on just where he would locate his business. He said he wished to thank the many patrons for their business during the past 25 years.

FOR SALE—Kitchen Range Phone 371. Mrs. Harry Westrich, Tawas City.

Bublitz Appointed 3rd Ward Alderman

Karl Bublitz has been appointed alderman of the third ward to fill the vacancy made by the resignation of Carl Peters.

Coyle's Fish Market Opens Today

Edward Coyle announces that the Coyle Fish Market will open today (Friday) at the Trudell Fishery Building in this city. A full line of fresh and smoked fish will be carried.

Garden Club Holds Meeting Monday

The Tawas City Garden Club met at the Home Ec. room Monday evening. The members decided to hold regular meetings the first and third Monday of each month. Plans are being made to hold a flower show later in the season. Mrs. A. W. Colby gave an interesting talk on June gardening, followed by general discussion.

Take Armour Truck to Plains; Dump Meat

Mead and Bamberger Face Theft Charge

Theft of a meat truck containing $2,000.00 worth of meat, and slugging the driver and leaving him unconscious at the side of the road, are allegations booked against Dewey Bamberger and Philip Mead, Jr., of this city. The assault and taking of the truck occurred early Wednesday morning. A few hours later the two men were picked up by Sheriff John Moran and lodged in the Isoco county jail. They are awaiting arraignment before Justice H. E. Friedman.

The truck and meat belong to Armour & Co. The driver was Kenneth Hath of Durand.

Coming here Tuesday night to make deliveries of meat in this district, Hath stopped at the Hotel Isoco for the night. Going into the bar room, Hath met Mead and Bamberger. After a friendly conversation the three decided to visit one of the taverns near the city. Driving out on Inglesh's mill, where Bamberger is employed, the three young men got into a mill truck and drove to the Buckhorn and from there to National City.

On their return trip, while driving on the Sand Lake McIvor road, Hath alleges that Mead and Bamberger struck him and left him on the side of the road unconscious. Hath made his way to the home of Howard Van Arsdale on the Hemlock road. Van Arsdale immediately brought him to Sheriff Moran's office arriving at about 3:30 o'clock.

When a check was made at the Inglesh mill both trucks were missing. Deputy Sheriff Harry Pelton was stationed at the mill, and Sheriff Moran and William Inglesh started out in search of the men and trucks.

Bamberger and Mead were found drowning in the mill truck some distance in the brush west of the Thompson Trail near the Monument.

After some questioning, Moran and the two young men took Sheriff Moran several miles back to the place where they had dumped the meat in the brush. The meat truck had been left in the brush south of the Silver Creek Ranger Station.

Hale News

Alvin Riemer is home with his discharge from the Navy.

Rev. Drury Martin of Lansing visited in town last Tuesday.

Tawas City Defeats South Branch

Play at Rose City Next Sunday

The local lads came out of their two game losing streak at the local diamond last Sunday and defeated South Branch by the score of 9 to 3.

Dale Landon, making his first start for the Tawas team, hurled an efficient game despite the seven errors of his team mates behind him. Landon had perfect control, striking out 5 and not issuing a base on balls.

South Branch got off to a one run lead in the first inning. Thayer was safe on an error by Thornton, but was erased when Taber attempting to sacrifice, bunted a pop fly to Landon who doubled Thayer at first. Roe singled, stole second and came home on Greve's single. In the third they added another tally on a double by Taber and Roe's single.

A single by Peterson in the second, and one by Rollin in the fourth was all Manager Libka's "lurping lads" could gather off Trankle during the first four frames. The Libka clan, however, came to life in the fifth; Landon started the festivities by beating out a bunt down the first base line, W. Thornton was safe when Taber bobbled his easy bounder. The bases were laded and Gackstetter singled in left Myles came thru with a single scoring Landon and W. Thornton to tie up the game.

Gingerich forced Gackstetter at third and Prescott fled to Roe. Rollin then doubled to score Myles and Gingerich. That was enough for Trankle and Bowles came in. Peterson greeted him with a single to score Rollin with the fifth run and what proved enough to win the game. But the Tawas team added three more in the sixth. Again Tawas City's hurler, Landon, started the fun this time with a walk. W. Thornton sacrificed, Gackstetter singled, scoring Landon, Myles and Gingerich walked to fill the bases.

Prescott forced Gingerich, Gackstetter scoring. Rollin then smashed his third hit, a single to left to score Myles. In the seventh, N. Thornton walked, and Landon doubled. N. Thornton tallied the final run for the local team scoring on Gackstetter's fly to left.

Landon had complete charge of the visiting team, scattering eight hits over the route. Rollin with four hits-wielded the heaviest bat for the locals, with Peterson, Landon and Gackstetter getting two hits each.

Roe and Taber were the visiting teams stars of the day. The former getting three singles and handling six fly balls flawlessly while the latter collected two doubles.

Next Sunday Tawas City journeys to Rose City where they hope to bring their record for the season to an even number of wins and losses.

Writes on Machine Shop Practice

The following item which appeared in "Detroit Schools," official publication of the Superintendent for May, will be of interest to people of the Tawas.

"Simplified Micrometer, High School Machine Shop Project" is the subject of an article in Industrial Arts and Vocational Education by H. W. Babcock, teacher at Mackenzie High School. Mr. Babcock also authored an article in the April issue of the same magazine under the title, "Using the Milling Machine as a Surface Grinder." Mr. Babcock is one of the winners in the recent Detroit Civic Awards contest.

HOOVER AND REPORTERS

WASHINGTON.—When Herbert Hoover staged a press conference after his talk with President Truman and Secretary of Agriculture Anderson, newsmen immediately asked what President Truman had told him.

The former chief executive—who had as rough a time with the press as any United States President in this century—replied with deep feeling:

"There ought to be a law," he said, "against anyone repeating what the President has said to him."

Hoover also refused to answer any questions about administration measures to meet the European emergency, and would not give any opinion when asked if U. S. rationing might be necessary.

ARMY DENTISTS

At long last Maj. Gen. Norman Kirk, who has the reputation for hoarding more medical manpower than any other surgeon general in history, has decided to let a few more doctors slip through his fingers and go back to civilian practice.

He has decreed that all medical corps officers who have served 30 months as of May 1 can be released from the army before June 30.

However, this does not apply to army dentists, who are now getting to be the 'forgotten men of the U. S. army.

For some strange reason best known to General Kirk, general service doctors can get out of the army after 30 months, but a dentist must remain in 39 months. And today there are hundreds of patriotic dentists who gave up good practices to join the army, now marking time at army posts, unable to get discharged.

Furthermore, the brass hats have permitted the discharge of many younger dentists, while older men have to stay on. Many of the youngsters, educated at army expense, have been declared "essential to civilian practice" and discharged, while older men with families to support, can't get out. This means that younger dentists get their civilian practice firmly established before older men can even begin to look for scarce office space.

HOW TO HANDLE LEWIS

Towering Gov. Bob Kerr of Oklahoma, who packs close to 250 pounds and a droll wit, tells this story about a chat with a "prominent Republican" during a recent visit to Washington.

"Why doesn't Truman do something about John L. Lewis," complained the GOP'er, "instead of sitting around on his hands while Lewis ties up production in the entire country?"

"Lewis is a tough man to handle," said Kerr. "What would you suggest that the President do?"

"I could give him plenty of ideas if I had the chance."

"Okay," said Kerr. "I'm going to give you the chance. I'm a close friend of Harry Truman. In fact, I am going to see him tomorrow morning. And I happen to know that right now, more than anything in the world, he wants the answer to this coal strike. So you just sit down and write out the solution and I'll give it to him the first thing in the morning."

The discussion ended right there.

RAIL BITTERNESS

For a long time, bad blood had existed between the trainmen-engineer brotherhoods and the other three—conductors, switchmen and firemen. It has been somewhat like the CIO-AFL row, but the bitterness deepened after the Roosevelt arbitration dispute.

Whitney, at the time, sent a letter to all his trainmen exhorting the other brotherhoods for refusing to arbitrate—a letter which doesn't put him in such a good light today. Among other things, he made up a little poem which read:

"Three blind mice—hear how they talk!
They all refuse to arbitrate—
They're gambling with their country's fate—
Though the hour is getting late

For the three blind mice,"

"Were they afraid to trust the President?" Whitney asked his fellow trainmen in the round-robin letter. "Or is it possible that they (the other three brotherhoods) were playing organization politics in the hope that they may strengthen their numerical and financial condition?"

CAPITAL CHAFF

Candy made in Fascist Argentina is now sold in the house of representatives' restaurant. . . . Senate Majority Leader Alben Barkley grows in stature daily as a result of his difficult battles in a hard-headed senate. . . . John Pehle, just resigned from the treasury, will go to work for the French government. . . . The Soviet government is now permitting the state department to up the circulation of its Russian language magazine Amerika from 10,000 to 50,000 copies a month.

Nine American Women Receive Camp Fire Girls Silver Medal

NEW YORK CITY.—Nine American women who have given outstanding service in the field of girl guidance have been awarded silver medals, it has been announced by Miss Martha F. Allen, national executive of Camp Fire Girls, Inc.

TEXAN . . . Mrs. Eunice LeBlanc of Beaumont, Texas, winner of a silver medal, given for outstanding service in the field of girl guidance.

Determined from annual reports submitted to national headquarters in New York City, the awards this year, as in previous years, are based on the important contributions made by women volunteers in planning all-around programs for their Camp Fire groups.

The organization's silver medal, which bears the Camp Fire emblem of crossed logs and flame, was awarded to Mrs. Edward Shepter, Baltimore, Md.; Mrs. Helen A. Davis, St. Augustine, Fla.; Mrs. Eunice LeBlanc, Beaumont, Texas; Mrs. Howard Wood, Berkeley, Calif.; Mrs. Grace Hawkins, Spokane, Wash.; Mrs. Alma Hastings, Overland Park, Kan.; Mrs. Orville Hanson, Hawley, Minn.; and Mrs. Alveda Hocker, Mishawaka, Ind.

The winners, who represent a cross-section of American womanhood, devoted themselves wholeheartedly to providing for the leisure time needs of Camp Fire girls, even though they themselves had their own families and household responsibilities to care for. In addition to planning health and character-building programs for their groups, they also aided the many social, welfare and health agencies with which Camp Fire co-operates. During the war the volunteers directed their Camp Fire groups in many patriotic activities, which included selling war bonds, collecting canned foods and clothing for UNRRA, assisting in the "March of Dimes" campaign, and "adopting" war orphans.

Injured While Shoeing Aged Shetland Pony

EDGEWATER, COLO.—"Red" Schaeffer's face is really red! A seasoned village blacksmith in Golden, and a former bronco buster, Red doesn't know yet how it happened.

"I have a horse I want shod," a woman telephoned him. "He's 33 years old—a Shetland pony."

Schaeffer went out and did the job. A few days passed and Red began complaining about a pain in his chest. The doctor took a look at him and pronounced it a broken rib.

Red finally admitted that the old Shetland pony did "press his foot" against Red's chest during the horseshoeing.

Tung Orchards Are New South Industry

TALLAHASSEE, FLA.—Tung oil, for thousands of years an Oriental monopoly and closely guarded secret, is back from war and ready to lend its magic qualities to peacetime uses. Known as "Chinawood oil" in the paint and varnish industry, which takes most of the U. S. tung production, this magic fluid is rapidly finding new uses in industry and agriculture.

Grown in a belt along the coast of the Gulf of Mexico from Gainesville, Fla., through Georgia, Alabama, Louisiana and Mississippi, tung orchards are an early indication of spring. Their five-petaled, pink and white blossoms have come to mean to the upper Florida peninsula what the orange blossom means to central Florida.

Marshall Ballard Jr., secretary of the American Tung Oil association, says that "to the southern American farmer, large or small, tung oil today offers a splendid opportunity for a good cash crop."

CALIFORNIAN . . . Mrs. Bernice Wood, Berkeley, Calif., honored by the Camp Fire Girls for outstanding service. She was a member of the AWWS for four years.

Horse, 51, Dies

MELBOURNE, AUSTRALIA.—Nigger, acclaimed recently as the oldest working horse in the world, died here at the age of 51. Owned by John Croker of Footscray, Nigger died in the harness. He was still doing light work, but was too old and slow to get out of the way of a bus.

VERY WONDERFUL . . . Mrs. Lois Bernhardt, wife of vet, finds housekeeping "thrilling" even after she typed Japanese surrender terms. Robert Bernhardt, husband, attends Iowa State college at Ames.

NOW A HOMEBODY

From the World Stage To an Iowa Kitchen

AMES, IOWA.—Stenographer, housekeeper, or farm wife, Mrs. Lois Bernhardt can always recall the glamorous part she played on the world stage during World War II, for she can always look back on these experiences:

Typed out the Japanese surrender terms hours before they were made public.

Typed out the charter of the United Nations organization when it was being drawn up.

Attended the Potsdam Big Three conference as secretary to Secretary of State James F. Byrnes.

Mrs. Bernhardt, formerly Lois Kevans of Schaller, Iowa, who gave up her exciting career for love, is currently employed in the Iowa State purchasing office, while her husband, a childhood sweetheart, studies for a degree in dairy industry.

The good-looking Iowa girl quit her job with Secretary Byrnes last November to marry Robert Bernhardt, with whom she attended high school at Schaller, and traded duties of an international nature for the prosaic job of darning her husband's socks, keeping house and helping out the family budget.

But the change-over hasn't dulled the memory of a wedding where Secretary Byrnes gave the bride away or of a glamorous job where the secrets of international affairs were everyday routine.

After graduating from the American Institute of Business in Des Moines, Mrs. Bernhardt took a job with the war department in Washington. From there it was just a step to a position as stenographer in the state department.

"The first job I had in the state department was the typing of the Japanese surrender terms," she said.

"We knew of the surrender before the announcement was made, but we had to stay in the office. The halls were full of reporters. If any of us had gone out they would have known it the minute they saw our faces."

Previously she had attended the San Francisco conference, where she typed the charter of the United Nations organization.

"I worked on it night and day until it was finished," she said. "There were other secretaries from all the other nations doing the same thing in all the other languages."

And when the Potsdam conference was called, Mrs. Bernhardt again was chosen to do the secretarial work. She acted as personal secretary for Byrnes.

Her husband is a former navy flier who saw service in South America on anti-submarine patrol.

Indian Scout Dies

HOT SPRINGS, S. D.—Ben Ash, age 95, pioneer South Dakota Indian scout, peace officer and cattleman, died here recently at the State Soldiers' home. Ash served as wagon master for General Custer and as an Indian scout during the Mesquiah war from 1889 to 1890 in western South Dakota. Earlier he had been a deputy U. S. marshal at Pierre and was sheriff of Hughes county. He operated a cattle ranch on the Moreau river in Perkins county for many years. Ash was credited with building the first house on the site of Bismarck, N. D.

Home Costs 44% More than in 1940

MINNEAPOLIS.—It costs 44 per cent more to build a home today than in 1940, or a house that could be built for $5,000 in 1940 costs $7,200 today and will cost more in six months from now, says Northwestern National Life Insurance Co. Questionnaire surveys have disclosed that four out of five veterans want homes costing $6,000 or less. After World War I both materials and labor costs rose rapidly.

"Off We Go" AVIATION NOTES

Airport Chatter
Terrell county, Georgia, has purchased 259 acres three miles from Dawson for an airport. . . . The Aberdeen Flying Service, Aberdeen, Idaho, presented an aerial photo of that city to the local newspaper, which was published—with a credit line. . . . PLANE QUIZ
Q. Did the helicopter see active service during World War II?
A. Yes, on Atlantic anti-submarine patrol and for rescue work in Burma.
Q. How many airports are there in the U. S.?
A. At the end of 1945 there were 3,255 airports. With the completion of the CAA program now underway the number is expected to be doubled.
Q. What is "seat of the pants" flying?
A. It was flying in the old days before there were instruments. When the plane went up or down or tipped, inertia of the flyer's body changed his position in his seat enough for him to feel the difference and he could sense the position of the plane accordingly.

CAA PROPOSES NEW AIRPORTS
The "National Airport Plan," proposed by the CAA, is aimed at achieving a uniformly adequate distribution of airports—for town and country; for heavily populated industrial areas, and for states with long stretches of sparsely settled land between population centers. To attain this goal, the CAA proposes construction of 3,050 new airports, and improvement of 1,625 existing fields.

Fly high, bud, when you're over a town.

Women's World

Tight Dress Can Be Altered To Fit Wearer Comfortably

By Ertta Haley

Torso Jacket

A DRESS that fits you, and you alone, is good value. It will give you real pleasure every time you wear it, no matter how inexpensive or expensive it may be. But just what is meant by perfect fit, as we know it today?

A dress that fits easily at the shoulders without straining when you bend or stretch is just right for you. The shoulder seam should lie about one-quarter inch back of the center of the shoulder and be absolutely straight from neckline to sleeve. The sleeve seam should lie at the extreme edge of the shoulder.

Now, how should shoulders be padded? If you are square in the shoulders, little or no padding may be necessary. If, however, you are rounded or sloping in the shoulders, one or even two sets of pads may be necessary.

Collars should lie flat without pulling or wrinkling. If there is any tightness in sewing the collar, you can bet on its wrinkling sooner or later, particularly when the dress is washed.

That taut look around the bustline means the dress is too small, and chances are you do not look your best in it. I'll tell you how this can be remedied a little later, but in the meantime, when you buy a dress or pattern, get one that fits well across the bust. It's possible, too, that another style might be more becoming — one with fuller shoulders or more fullness in the bodice.

Waistlines, Skirts

Sleeves Important.

Most dresses you buy will not nestle down on your natural waist line because most of us vary slightly from the average. But just where is the natural waistline? Tie a tape measure or belt around the waistline and you will find out easily. Bend slightly to the front and the tape measure will settle at the correct line.

You can also determine the size of the waistline accurately if the zipper slides open and shut easily without straining. Don't try to gather in a too-large waistline with a belt. It looks untidy and you're uncomfortable. It's far better to refit the waistline.

An easy fit over the hips is a big comfort. Sit down when trying on a dress and it doesn't ride up, you have a well fitting neckline. Length is also important. Most women are wearing their dresses just below the kneecap, but this can be varied slightly as looks best on you. Full skirts should be slightly shorter and snugly fitted skirts can be a trifle shorter than average.

Armholes must be big enough so that you feel at ease in them. When trying a dress, move the arms up and down. There should be no straining.

On long sleeves, look for the elbow easing to come right. This is at the crook of the arm.

If you have chubby arms, do not wear tight short sleeves with cuffs.

Here's how to make it fit.

These will not only make the arm look larger, but will not be comfortable.

If just the bustline is off, pieces may be added underneath the sleeves to ease the fitting, and a bolero can be made or purchased to go with the dress.

If you have a two-piece dress in which you cannot make the skirt fit, you might make a darker skirt to go with the jacket. Dark skirts are very slimming with lighter colored jackets if you are full in the hips.

If you have a princess type dress or a button-front dress, try contrasting panels down the center or on the sides to add fullness. This is a good way to adjust the dress for the short, full figure.

If the waistline is too tight, and the dress too short, with no hemline to let out, consider placing a piece of contrasting colored material at the waistline. This may be set in wide or narrow as necessitated by your problem.

If the neckline is too tight, let the shoulder seam out enough to ease the strain on it. There is usually enough in the seam allowance to take care of this minor problem.

If your sleeves are too short, add crosswise bands below the elbow. Add this detail somewhere else in the dress, too, so that it will look as if it belonged.

If your skirt has stretched from wear, adjust the bagginess at the waistline.

If the skirt is too short, add a band of ruching or ruffles or braid around the hem. Several rows of gay ribbon will also do the trick. Add this detail to the sleeves, too.

Stitching Pointers

Mercerized thread is recommended for most sewing because it is strongest and easiest to use. Select the color of thread by matching closely to fabric.

Use correct needle and thread sizes and test on a piece of material before attempting to stitch the garment.

Fine, sharp-pointed needles are best for pinning. In pinning rayon and taffeta, take care not to mark up the fabric from pinning. Adjust the tension to suit the fabric and test on a scrap before sewing the garment. Generally speaking, a tighter tension is more suitable for sheerer fabrics, a looser tension for heavier fabrics.

Stitch with paper underneath the fabric when working with sheer materials. This provides a firm sewing base and prevents slipping.

When you have completed as many single seams as possible, get out the ironing board and press them out. Seams should be pressed before sewing other parts together.

Press each bit of binding and facing after basting, and sometimes before and after to assure smooth fitting. They will be much easier to machine stitch if the fabric is pressed and seams are straight.

Summer Fashion Notes

Long full peplums and skirt draperies are a high fashion note these days as the fullness over the abdomen movement gathers strength.

It's often been said that most women can wear blue. So, no matter what your type, you'll be seeing plenty of all types of blues, but particularly blues that match the color of skies and seas.

Look for the South American influence in play clothes and gay cottons. They have a real south-of-the-border flavor.

If you have any lace tucked away in the attic, now is the time to take it out. Lace is appearing at the neckline, on sleeve cuffs, pocket trimmings and even hems. This is one of dips fashion is taking into prewar era of the first war.

ALL DONE BY MIRRORS

Mother — Goodness, haven't you heard a thing on that new auto yet, dear?

Dad—No; they tell me there ain't a chance of getting one for another six months. They just ain't getting 'em through.

RADIO—And remember, folks, to get one of those 20 new sedans being given away by Twigg's Deodorant. You just send in a four-line jingle on body odors . . . just a four-line jingle and four cents in stamps . . . Every week 20 lucky persons see a brand new 1946 sedan roll up to their door.

Mother—Now how do you explain that? If they can give twenty cars a week away as prizes in a radio contest I should think that you . . .

Dad—Now, please, don't make me go into that again!

Mother (a little later)—I don't know whether to call a doctor or not.

Dad—What's wrong?
Mother—All those bruises and contusions.

Dad—What bruises and contusions?

Mother—Oh, I got 'em yesterday in one of those nylon lines. It was awful.

Dad—Did you get any nylons?

Mother — No; thousands were turned away. The supply is still terribly limited, you know . . .

RADIO—And now, folks, for further details in our wonderful contest in which 5,000 pairs of nylons will be distributed absolutely free to the women of America! . . . All you do is send in a 25-word essay on why you use Zaflex for bleeding gums. . . . Merely send in a 25-word essay and the six box tops and win a dozen pairs of nylons. . . .

Dad (with sarcasm) — Supply scarce, did you say, honey?

Mother—Now I know I'll have to call the doctor! Those bruises hurt more than ever.

Dad (as the radio announces another contest in which 10,000 pairs of suits will be raffled)—Make it two doctors!

Mother (at the phone)—I can't get a doctor. They all say they won't be free for weeks.

RADIO—Do you want a doctor? Are you feeling indisposed? Clip the tops of four boxes of Byxby's new face simonizer and . . .

Mom and Pop—Awahh-h-h-h!

Merrily We Roll Along

A National Highway Safety conference is being held in Washington, with its main object safer auto driving. Well, we think its emblem would be four slices of baloney floating in a dish of applesauce. Everybody knows that the incredibly reckless driving and the hundreds of tragedies every day are due chiefly to three facts:

1. Few states make more than a pretense of an adequate test for auto drivers, seven out of ten of whom don't even know the elemental rules of the road.

2. Not a community in America has police enough to make a real war on reckless drivers, and the cops now on the job are almost helpless, due to the fact the courts let the reckless drivers off with piddling fines.

3. Big cities, especially New York, permit flagrantly dangerous speeds on crowded streets day in and day out, with the traffic cops apparently loving it.

If a good title is wanted how about "Welles-A-Poppin"?

VANISHING AMERICANS

"The government won't stand for it."

"Let's see, you had two beers and gave me a quarter; you got 15 cents coming back."

"We'll get married first and find a place to live afterwards."

Models, style parades and the distribution of nylons are now features at Yankee stadium ball games. We expect to hear of a pitcher taken out for a bathing beauty any day now.

TRAINING FOR SERVICE

LESSON TEXT — Mark 6:7-13; Luke 10:1, 2, 14, 25-27
MEMORY SELECTION — And he that taketh not his cross, and followeth after me, is not worthy of me.—Matthew 10:38.

Workers for God, and with God! Such is the high privilege of the men and women who respond to his call and who go out to witness for him.

On the one side, we have a world desperately in need of the gospel, perhaps more so than any generation in history. On the other hand, we have the gospel of the saving grace of God in Christ Jesus, the only solution to the problems of mankind, the perfect answer to man's need.

How shall these two be brought together? By sending out witnesses to tell the glad tidings of redemption and peace. Where shall we find these witnesses? In the church, for only the believer in Christ is qualified to tell others of his saving grace.

Our lesson, in telling of the Lord's calling and sending forth laborers into his harvest field, gives us much helpful instruction regarding service for the Lord. We learn that

I. God Provides for His Workers (Mark 6:7-10).

Jesus sent out his twelve disciples two by two, thus providing every worker with fellowship and help in hours of discouragement and trial.

This also served to keep a man in balance so that he would not become self-willed and proud of his own achievements.

It was a wise provision. Perhaps the church should have observed it with more care, and thus have saved some good workers from going astray.

They were not to be cumbered with extra equipment, nor be concerned about their daily sustenance. The Lord would provide through the hospitality and generosity of his people.

Note that the expected hospitality was not to be allowed to hinder their work (cf. v. 10 with Luke 10:7). Many a preacher or evangelist has ruined a series of meetings by letting social life hinder prayer, soul-winning, or preparation for preaching.

II. God Gives Power to His Workers (Mark 6:7, 11-13).

He gave them authority over evil spirits, so that they could drive them out. He gave them power to heal; he gave them power to preach effectively.

The man who goes forth to speak for the Lord does not have to muster up his own puny powers or depend on the weak arm of some human helper. His resources are infinite and omnipotent. He speaks for the Almighty God. He has a message with saving power.

All too often the servants of the Lord are apologetic and hesitant in their ministry. They mistake weakness for meekness, and in their desire not to assert themselves, they fail to speak a ringing "Thus saith the Lord."

We need a revival of authoritative preaching, of that holy boldness which was not afraid to rebuke sin and any unwillingness to do the Lord's will (v. 11). We need a new emphasis on repentance (v. 12).

III. God Calls Helpers for His Workers (Luke 10: 1, 2).

After the twelve were sent out, he called and commissioned the seventy. That blessed process has gone on ever since. How blessed it is that even in our day of unbelief and sin, hundreds of young men and women are going out to all the mission fields of the world to work with older and experienced missionaries.

Perhaps these words will be read by some young man or woman who has felt the promptings of the Spirit of God to go into his service. Step out by faith just now, and begin to prepare yourself for God's service. If the writer of these notes can be of help to you, do not hesitate to write to him. God is looking for more workers.

Do not overlook the important admonition in verse 2. The Lord is waiting for his people to pray for laborers for fields which stand white and ready for harvest.

IV. God Requires Self-Denial of His Workers (Luke 14:25-27).

The mighty works and the powerful words of Jesus made it impossible for people to ignore him. Multitudes followed him, but he, knowing the fickleness of the human heart, faced them with the real demands of discipleship.

The Lord was never concerned with mere numbers. He wanted followers whose hearts were right. The church has broken down its testimony in the world by its frantic desire for more members, great crowds, large church buildings, at the expense of compromise of testimony.

The requirement of the Lord is unmistakable. A man or woman who is to serve him must put him first. No worldly ambition or earthly friendship, no, not even the tender love of family, can come between the Lord and his servant. He is either Lord of all, or he is not Lord at all.

AN INNER SANCTUM MYSTERY
STARRING ARAB AND ANDY BLAKE WHO FEATURES

THE STORY THUS FAR: Lt. Andy Blake and his wife, Arab, discovered a spy ring headed by a Mr. Jones. Followed by Andy's house by Jones' gang. Arab was taken prisoner. Andy escaped. Andy reported to the army, then was taken up by two of Jones' men and taken to the Jersey coast. In crossing to a small island, the boat was upset by Andy, who swam ashore. He found Paula and set her free. Jones made him a prisoner, Jones, realizing they must escape, then made plans to signal the submarine to send a rubber boat for them. Jones had a black light that could signal the submarine and still not be seen from shore, but he wanted to radio Germany.

CHAPTER XVII

I sneered, "The commander sees you coming out in the rubber boat and yells 'tricked!' They are Americans in our boat! Ten rounds rapid fire!" Blam-blam-blam-blam!

"Stop it!"

"That's just one way," I drawled. "There are a million ways he can take care of you."

He swung back to the set. His fingers jerked on the sending button. "Chief!" Joey cried. "Don't get rattled! Don't let this guy upset you. Take it easy."

The blind glasses glared at Joey. The fat man's voice sounded as if he were yelling through a blanket. "Quiet!" he shouted. "Who do you work for? For me or Canaris? I begin to wonder. I have just ordered the commander to send in a boat now. We will get aboard before telling him anything. I will take over his radio. I have the authority."

He whirled back to the eyepiece, crouched at it. A message must be coming back. His fingers clutched and twisted at the legs of the tripod. At last he straightened, and gasped, "Schwein! He signals: 'Detectors picked up propeller beat quarter hour ago. Inshore patrol active. Unsafe send boat. Transmit information first.' He bent to the sending button again. Joey quavered, "Whatcha doing now, Chief?"

"There!" the fat man said. "I instructed him to stand by. Now we will see who gets the credit." He went to the short-wave transmitter, flipped switches.

"Chief!" Joey cried. "It ain't safe! They can pick up that radio stuff."

The fat man cursed at the stubbornly cold radio set. "A chance in a hundred," he muttered. "One destroyer cannot police the short-wave bands. It would take a dozen—what is wrong with this pig of a radio!" He peered over the panel, fumbled among tubes and wires and condensers. Then he walked very quietly to me. "The tube," he said.

I had to play this carefully. I could wreck everything by being suspiciously helpful. "What tube?"

"The tube you took from this set. You have not broken it because there is no glass. You did not have the window raised to throw it out. You have hidden it."

"I don't know what you're talking about."

"The tube," he said. His right hand clamped across my face, his thumb dug into the hollow under my right ear. He pressed, and said, "The tube."

"I don't know!" I yelled. "I don't know!" Rockets whizzed and burst in my head. Pain shrieked down every nerve in my body. I could feel it at the tips of my fingers, my toes. I had to take it a second longer. A second longer. It had to look good. "In the wastebasket!" I screamed.

He left me, and fumbled in the basket. I slumped. I had almost overcome things. A few seconds more would have fixed that ear for life. He found the tube and lifted it delicately and replaced it in the set.

Arab was crying. "Andy," she said, "Andy, did it hurt awfully?" I wet my lips. "It's O. K. now."

"Will . . . will it help them very much having the tube?"

"It doesn't matter," I said. "He'd get his news out either this way or the other. I just wanted to make things unpleasant for him if I could."

Tubes and dials glowed on the set, reflected greasily on the fat man's face. "Yes," he said. "We will settle for that later, Renee!"

She whispered, "Yes?"

"Our friends out there may be worrying. I should have sent more than stand by. Signal them that I am getting the information in order and that it will take a number of minutes."

"I do not know how to signal them."

"Anybody can send. A long press on the button for a dash. A short press for a dot. It is plain international code. There is a handbook on my desk."

She slipped past my chair like a pale shadow, found the book, went to the tripod. Joey got her a flashlight. She masked the light with her hand, studied the international code, and began sending slowly, going back to the page for each new letter.

In front of the fat man the big radio set was warming up now. It purred like a giant cat. The fat man touched dials, clamped a receiver over his ears. His fingers tested the sending key. "Joey," he called.

"Here, Chief."

"The code book. Lower right-hand drawer." He flipped keys at Joey, and added, "Get the book, and paper and pencil. This cannot go in the clear. Encode it." He waited while Joey got the code book and writing materials, and then said, "The first sentence: Jones to Ullrich. Second sentence: For Himmelrich only. Third sentence: Huge task forces sailed last three days from East Coast Ports of Embarkation. Fourth sentence: Objective absolutely confirmed French North Africa. Encode that. And quickly. There will be more."

"O. K., Chief."

The fat man's fingers had not stopped for a moment. He was sending a recognition signal. Dit-dah-dit . . . dah-dah. Dit-dah-dit . . . dah-dah. Dit-dah-dit . . . dah-dah.

I tried to picture the waves leaping out over the Atlantic in huge vertical zigzags, caroming back and forth between the earth's surface and the Heaviseide layer forty miles up. Out on the Atlantic were Navy radio men waiting tensely just for this. Combing segments of the short-wave bands. Waiting for the whine of power in their ears and the crackle of an enemy message. I prayed that they wouldn't miss, prayed that the signal wouldn't leap-frog the waiting aerials.

Dit-dah-dit . . . dah-dah. Dit-dah-dit . . . dah-dah. He threw words at Joey now and then. Joey scribbled them down and then hunted through the secret code book for the right signal. Dit-dah-dit . . . dah-dah. Dit-dah-dit . . . dah-dah. It seemed to go on forever. Renee finished her chore and moved over to watch Joey encoding.

I lay there for a short time, dopy with concussion.

Suddenly there was a change. The fat man jerked upright. His sending hand stilled, quivering. He listened. He had been acknowledged. Far away in Germany they were ready for him. He ripped back a jerky stream of dots and dashes. His hand reached for the first sheet of the coded message.

Heat lightning flickered on the horizon to the northeast. My skin tingled. Heat lightning at thirty minutes to November? I sucked in my breath. It might have been four miles away. I would know in ten to fifteen seconds. I counted. Maybe I counted aloud, or maybe something in the way I strained forward registered with the group at the radio. They swung around, peered at me. I hardly noticed. They were just blurs in the dim room. I counted. Nine . . . ten . . . eleven . . . twelve . . .

Then it happened.

Out on the sand bar two majestic cones of water foamed up into the night sky. Windows jumped in frames. Sound thudded at us. And I went nuts.

"They got a fix on us!" I screamed. "Come on, boys, pour it in! Lay it in their laps! You got the radio tagged! Let 'em have it!"

The fat man leaned over me, snarling something. I didn't care what. I rocked deliciously in the chair and howled up at him. "Watch this one, Jonesy. Get to the window and watch it. Open your window and they'll drop one in. Yeeeahoo! Right one zero. Eight eight hundred. Fire!"

He jerked around like a puppet on strings. Lightning glared again on the horizon. Black-powder lightning in Navy five-inchers. "On the way!" I shrieked. "Count it, you rats! Two . . . seconds to live! One . . . two . . ."

I went on counting and raving half-forgotten artillery commands while the room turned into a madhouse. The fat man was rescuing his black-light set. He screamed orders. Orders to collect papers. To run to the powerhouse. I heard him howl at Joey to shoot us before leaving but I didn't give a hang. "Eight,"

I yelled. "Nine . . ." The fat man tumbled out through the door. His feet clattered on the stairs. "Eleven . . . twelve . . ."

Twin screeches rode the air overhead. The roof seemed to lift to meet them. Blaam! Glass jingled and the old house rocked and groaned like a schooner slamming onto a shoal.

"Hurry up, Joey," I chanted. "Hurry up. That was a hundred over. Hurry up. They got their bracket now. Left five. Eight seven hundred. Hurry up, Joey."

He was flopping around the room like a drunken rooster. He picked up things and dropped them. I chanted "Hurry up" once more and then noticed Renee. She was standing motionless at the window, looking out to sea. Moonlight gilded her face. For the first time she seemed to be calm, almost happy. The brief glow washed the horizon again.

"On the way," Renee said softly. I took a deep breath and turned to Arab. In the dim room her hair seemed to glow like phosphorus. Her head was tilted, chin up. For a moment she and Renee could have been sisters. They faced the ocean almost eagerly, like lovely delicate figureheads on the old China clippers.

"Hold your hat," I said. She smiled. "I'd rather hold your hand."

"I wish I could think of something deathless to say."

"I love you, Andy."

"And I love you."

"That's nice enough," she said contentedly.

She was still smiling at me when everything let go at the seams. The blast was too close, too stunning to be heard. Something pumped the air out of my lungs, picked me up chair and all, and slammed me back against the wall.

Hessian Fly Always Troublesome Factor

Proper Sowing Dates Protects Winter Wheat

By W. J. Dryden

Until recently little damage has resulted to spring wheat from the hessian fly. With winter wheat it has been another question.

In the past two years several states have reported outbreaks

Hessian fly maggots beneath leaf sheath in the soil.

among spring wheat. After a succession of cool seasons with good rainfall several outbreaks were reported. At the North Dakota experiment station it was found that the Mida variety of wheat showed a high degree of resistance to the hessian fly. The Mida was not immune to the hessian fly, but its resistance was strong enough to make loss negligible.

Kansas State college found that the Pawnee is highly resistant to the hessian fly in that district. Other strains have been developed in other states.

With winter wheat, the USDA has determined the fly injury may be avoided by safe sowing dates. These dates range from September 16 in the latitude of central Michigan to October 27 in that of central Georgia. The exact safe date in any locality may be determined from state agricultural specialists.

Portable Saw Aids Pasture Expansion

Converting waste brush and timberland into profitable green pastures is an important job being performed by new portable power saws developed in the southwest as an aid to farmers whose land is covered by undesirable undergrowth.

In field operation the cutting blade is horizontal. For cutting logs to length, the blade can be raised to a vertical position. The Kraft Foods company are assisting farmers by making the portable saw available on a loan basis. By this plan they hope to assist dairy farmers to produce more milk on available acreage.

Wheel Foot Scraper

Foot Scraper Made of an Old Iron Wheel.

This type of foot scraper utilizing an old wheel with a somewhat broad rim. The wheel is slipped over one end of a round stake which has in turn been driven into the ground. About two inches from the top end of the stake a hole should be bored and a bolt thrust through to keep the wheel off the ground, allowing it to rotate and always present a clean edge.

Vitamin Deficiency May Cause Pink Eye

Lack of vitamin A, brought about by long periods of drought or lack of green feeds often causes keratitis, or pink eye, to occur in range and pasture cattle. The condition may also be caused by injury to the eye which becomes infected with the normal staphylococci and diphtheria. Treatments suggested include milk eye antiseptic and astringents. The cattle should be kept away from dust during treatment.

Atom Aid to Cooperation

Compton Says Brotherhood Is Necessary to Survival In This New Age.

NEW YORK. — The development of atomic energy has accelerated "certain human trends" toward increased co-operation, education in understanding others and seeking of common objectives for all mankind, Dr. Arthur H. Compton, atomic physicist and co-chairman of the national conference of Christian and Jews declared here.

Dr. Compton stressed the importance of recognizing these trends and adjusting to them, adding that "brotherhood is a necessary concomitant to survival in the atomic age." He spoke at a luncheon held in the Hotel Biltmore for the cabinet and executive committee of the conference.

See Wide Use of Atom.

No nation can afford to be without atomic energy, since it will probably eventually become an extremely cheap source of power, Dr. Compton asserted. Already atomic energy in controlled form has been used to produce plutonium "10,000 times more efficiently than any electrical method devised before."

Noting possibilities for medical and scientific research through the artificial radiation of matter, Dr. Compton said that every important nation must, for its economic development and welfare, exploit atomic energy on a controlled basis.

"As we consider then the needs of the atomic world, it is clear that our need is that of co-operation," he declared. "A society that is becoming more and more complex needs specialists, and those specialists have to work together. That is the direction in which modern society is evolving."

Defines Objectives.

In such a society the development of antagonism has as a corollary the development of "tragic weaknesses," he held. Therefore, he added, the second trend toward learning to live together involves learning to understand one another, and leads directly to the third trend, the discovery of united objectives toward which all mankind can work.

In wartime these objectives were obvious, he said, but in peacetime they are harder to find. He defined them as objectives that will enable the individual to contribute most efficiently to the common welfare, with the most important being elimination of war.

"You cannot have freedom unless you know what the values are that you want, and unless you know how to work effectively to secure them," he said. "That is the task both of religion and of the national conference of Christians and Jews."

U. S. to Sell 4,500 Ships At Losses Up to 50 Pct.

WASHINGTON. — The maritime commission announced recently that its fleet of approximately 4,500 war-built cargo ships would be sold at from 50 to 87 1/2 per cent of cost calculated on 1941 figures.

Dry cargo freighters will be sold for 50 per cent of 1941 cost, and tankers for 87 1/2 per cent. The sale prices will be calculated on the 1941 costs of production, regardless of the year in which the ships were built.

To promote the creation of a privately-owned modern merchant fleet, the commission will accept old and obsolete vessels as part payment on the newer ships.

Purchasers will be required to make a minimum down payment of 15 per cent. The balance will be payable over 20 years with 3 1/2 per cent interest.

The prices will run from $531,500 for C-1 type lumber freighters to $2,026,500 for T-2 tankers. The latest type of Victory ship will sell for $1,065,000. Liberty ships will cost $639,000 each.

The commission has about 4,500 ships of all types to sell. It supervised the construction of 5,626 ships between January 1, 1942, and April 1, 1946. Some were war casualties, however.

1,200 Pounds of Butter Is Declared 'Surplus'

VANCOUVER, B. C. — A United States vessel, the Fairmont Victory, arrived here recently with 1,200 pounds of surplus butter in her hold, and Capt. H. C. Gibb said the butter would stay aboard when the ship sailed for England and still would be there when it arrived back in butter-short America.

Captain Gibb said the butter was declared surplus by the United States war shipping administration when the vessel arrived at Seattle with troops from Yokohama.

He said the WSA told him to leave the butter aboard because it had no use for it.

Hearing of Deaf Woman Restored by Childbirth

OKLAHOMA CITY. — Childbirth was given credit recently for partly restoring the hearing of an Oklahoma City woman who had been deaf since she was three years of age.

Mrs. Rolla D. Starbuck, who bore a son on March 6, now can hear sounds that she had not heard in 21 years. Mrs. Starbuck's voice also has improved noticeably and her tones are clear.

Keep Grafters Out Of Michigan Government!
ELECT A GOVERNOR WHO WILL

- USE HIS CONSTITUTIONAL POWER TO KEEP GRAFTERS OUT OF ALL DIVISIONS OF STATE GOVERNMENT!
- EXPOSE PUBLIC OFFICE HOLDERS WHO VIOLATE THEIR PUBLIC TRUST AND REMOVE CORRUPT OFFICIALS FROM OFFICE!
- SPEAK OUT FRANKLY AGAINST LEGISLATION SPONSORED BY GREEDY PRIVATE INTERESTS DETRIMENTAL TO PUBLIC WELFARE!
- BE GUIDED BY WHAT THE PUBLIC NEEDS AND WANTS RATHER THAN BY THE WISHES OF PREYING POLITICIANS!
- APPOINT HONEST, EFFICIENT STATE AIDS ON THE BASIS OF MERIT ONLY!
- CARRY OUT A REAL PROGRAM RECOGNIZING AND REWARDING WAR VETERANS!
- MEET ISSUES AS THEY RISE WITHOUT CONSIDERATION TO POLITICS!
