

Iosco County to Vote on Levy for Proposed County Building

Plans Adopted by Board of Supervisors

Special Ballot at Tuesday Election

Financing the construction of the proposed new Court House will be one of the important things to be voted on at next Tuesday's primary election.

Iosco county has been planning and arranging for the construction of a new county building for the past eight years. It became apparent to the Board of Supervisors that the old building lacked office space for the efficient handling of the county's business and that the present fireproof storage space provided for only a small portion of the county's valuable records. These records are stored in whatever place was available in the court house unprotected from fire and other damage. A fire could destroy records important to every citizen of the county and which could not be replaced.

With this necessity in mind the Board of Supervisors set up a building fund and each year have appropriated $5,000.00 to the fund. The fund now contains about $50,000.00. This with the money raised by the proposed tax levy will construct a suitable building, and one of which the people of the county can be proud.

The services of Joseph C. Godfrey, of Bay City, well known architect who has specialized in public buildings, was secured.

He, in collaboration with the supervisors committee and city officers, designed a handsome structure with ample facilities and fireproof storage space. The plans were accepted last year by the Board of Supervisors. A drawing of the proposed building appears in this issue of the Tawas Herald.

Vote yes on this proposal which will give Iosco county a suitable county building with facilities ample to protect records which are vital to you.

McLean-Musolf

In a lovely home wedding Saturday afternoon, Miss Janet E. McLean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. McLean of this city, became the bride of Julius G. Musolf. The groom is the son of Julius Musolf Sr., also of this city.

The home was decorated with baskets of yellow tulips and snow balls for the double ring ceremony which was read by Rev. Frank Benish in front of the bay window.

The bride chose a white Marquise floor length wedding dress. Her fingertip veil was secured by a wreath of orange blossoms and she carried a cascading arm bouquet of yellow roses and gardenias.

The bride's sister, Marguerite McLean of Washington, D. C. was her only attendant. She wore a pastel blue Marquise floor length dress and carried an arm bouquet of Johanna Hill roses, yellow daisies and snapdragons.

Walter Lang of Great Lakes Training School, attended his uncle as best man.

A reception and luncheon was held for the family and friends following the ceremony.

After a weeks' trip through Northern Michigan the young couple will return to Saginaw where both are employed. Both are graduates of Tawas City High School, class of 1941.

Mrs. Musolf is employed at the Michigan Mutual Liability Company. Mr. Musolf recently returned from three years service in the Sea Bees.

Three lovely showers were held honoring the bride. Miss Arlene Leslie entertained Tawas friends and two in Saginaw were given by Mrs. Tony Sparks and Mrs. Alice Cramer.

Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lang, Sr., Walter Lang, Misses Carolyn and Linda Lang of Detroit; Mrs. Walter Betts, daughter of Wayne; Mrs. Tony Sparks and children of Saginaw; Mrs. Martin Musolf, Marion and William of Bay City; Mr. and Mrs. Louis Nuernminger of Saginaw; Mr. and Mrs. William Smith and daughter of Plymouth, Leo McLean of Farmington, Mr. and Mrs. Murlin McLean, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Danin of Whittemore of Whittemore, Misses Alice Tramer and Emily Gielczyk and Edward Dyszewicz of Saginaw.

Tawas City Wins 10 to 8 at Rose City

Harrisville Here Sunday, June 23

Tawas City racked up their second win of the season by nosing out Rose City 10 to 8 last Sunday. The Libkamen were "hitting that apple," out-slugging Rose City 15 hits to 7. Four errors and several misplays kept Rose City in the game.

Included in the fifteen hits were extra base knocks by Gackstetter, home run and triple; and four doubles by Gingerich, Prescott, Myles and Wegner.

Gackstetter led the Tawas attack with a homer in the third, triple and single driving in five of Tawas City's ten runs.

Tawas City took the lead in the second, when Thornton reached first on an error, Prescott singled, Thornton going to third; Prescott stole second and Gackstetter drove both in with a single.

In the second for Rose City, Karcher walked, went to second on Thornton's error, and scored on a single by Smith.

Gackstetter's homer in the third added another run to the Tawas City total. In the fifth Rollin walked, stole second, Thornton singled with Rollin scoring; Thornton went to second when the centerfielder bobbled the ball; Gackstetter tripled scoring Thornton.

In the fifth for Rose City, Smith reached first on an error by the short stop; Cooley flied to short; Dessureau doubled, Smith going to third; Dwangler grounded back to Bublitz and was safe when Bublitz's fielder's choice to the plate was too late to nab Smith; Fritz walked; all hands were safe when Wegner's peg of McPherson's grounder failed to catch Dessureau at the plate. Karcher singled scoring Fritz.

In the seventh Tawas scored their sixth and seventh runs on a walk by Rollin, singles by Peterson and Thornton. Tawas City added another tally in the eighth when Gingerich walked, stole second, scoring on Landon's single.

In the big eighth for Rose City, Karcher walked, Sanbeck hit into a double play but both runners were safe when Karcher took Gingerich out of the play and Gingerich dropped the ball. Both runners advanced on Fayette's fly to center; Smith walked; Karcher scored when Thornton kicked away Cooley's grounder and Sanbeck scored on his low peg to home. Sanbeck scored on a passed ball and Smith came in on Duangler's single.

National Gypsum Wins from Twining

National Gypsum Co. dropped Twining from the undefeated class by winning from them 8 to 5.

After Twining took a 4 run lead in the first inning, it looked like another game sewed up for Twining, but National came back with a rush getting 2 runs in the second, one in the sixth and put the game on ice with a five run spree in the seventh. Phillips and Katterman paced National's 12 hit attack; Phillips getting a homer in the sixth and Katterman a double with the bases loaded.

TRUMAN AND WHITNEY

WASHINGTON.—Those who have set in on the hectic closed-door conferences over the railroad strike report that it is hard to say who has been sorest at the prima donna tactics of "Brother" A. F. Whitney, head of the trainmen—government officials or the other brotherhood leaders who are not striking but were thrown out of work by the trainmen and the locomotive engineers.

At one time probably the President of the United States was the most irked at the grandstanding Mr. Whitney. Truman even had difficulty getting Whitney to stay in Washington. He was constantly threatening to stage an opera exit to Cleveland without even bothering to advise the White House.

This brought a sharp tongue-lashing from the President during one of their meetings.

"What do you mean to do—walk out on the President of the United States?" Truman roughly inquired of "Brother" Whitney. "No, sir," responded Whitney—and his voice lacked its usual brusqueness.

"Well, then you had better stay here until we get this thing settled and try to show a little more co-operation," snapped Truman.

GOP WHITE HOPE

While the East and Middle West are conjuring with the names of Stassen, Bricker and Dewey as Republican presidential candidates in 1948, some strong medicine is brewing in the politically dynamite-laden state of California which may put another name in the limelight. For in next month's primary Earl Warren may win the Democratic nomination for governor, as well as the Republican.

Under California's odd election law, candidates may enter both the Republican and Democratic primaries. And under a clever law passed by the state legislature last year, Warren's name will be printed at the top of both the Republican and Democratic ballots, despite the fact that Warren is a Republican and his rival, Attorney General Bob Kenny, a Democrat.

Today Warren has split Kenny's labor support, has won the backing of the AFL hierarchy and may very well pile up enough Democratic votes to kill all competition in the final election. This would make him a very important presidential candidate.

GOVERNMENT LETTERS

The civil service commission has just issued a fancy pamphlet telling government employees how to write letters.

A section devoted to "What's Wrong With Government Writing?" reads in part: "Are you one of the people who think all government writing must be impersonal and legalistic? . . . What does it profit a man if he writes the long way around—and loses his reader? Why use horse-and-buggy writing in an airplane age?"

"Let's cut long sentences into bites we can swallow," the civil service rhetorician urges government writers. "Shorten your sentences to an average of 17 words."

But here is the payoff: The first sentence of a foreword in the booklet contains 27 words; the second, 18 words; the third, 20 words; the fourth, 22 words, and the fifth, 18 words.

$1-A-YEAR McGRADY

Jovial Ed McGrady, vice president of the Radio Corporation of America and ex-assistant secretary of labor, was asked by a newsmen if it were true Labor Secy. L. B. Schwelienbach is "raising his salary" because of his diligent efforts to bring John L. Lewis and the operators together.

McGrady got a chuckle out of the question, for he is being paid nothing for his herculean work in trying to settle the dispute.

The fact is that few men have donated more time to their government than McGrady. After a brilliant record as assistant secretary of labor, he joined the Radio Corporation of America, but during the war was loaned to the war department as a dollar-a-year man. McGrady is one of the men the treasury department cusses out. For his office is covered with framed government checks—all for $1 and un-cashed.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

Bob Hannegan is running into trouble with his "task force." His young men's committee, appointed to bolster weak spots in the Truman administration, can't operate without treading on the toes of certain weak administrators—especially John Snyder. Whereupon the cabinet protective society intervenes. Even broad-gauged Secretary of the Treasury Vinson didn't like having his subordinates invade the sacred inner sanctum of John Snyder's duties. More jurisdictional disputes!

DEEP PROJECT . . . Fishing and trapping—which all boys like to do—are part of a 4-H project conducted by Louisiana State college. Above are 4-H boys of St. Charles parish at a "wild life" school.

In These United States

Louisiana 4-H Clubs Engaged In Trapping, Fishing Project

BATON ROUGE, LA.—There's one kind of work that 4-H boys really like; it's the "wild life" project Louisiana clubs have adopted. Besides enjoying it the boys learn fundamental lessons in trapping, fur curing, fishing and study of birds.

Perhaps the most unique 4-H project in the United States, it is conducted by the Louisiana State college. The boys actually trap fur-bearing animals, catch fish (including crabs, shrimps and oysters) and study such birds as the blue heron, white heron and Louisiana egret.

Out of the project the members have developed a market for musk glands from the Louisiana muskrat or "marsh rabbit." Club members receive $50 a quart for the oil, which is sold to perfumers. In addition they find a ready market for the meat of the marsh rabbit, and the fur when properly cured is always in demand.

The wildlife project was initiated four years ago by W. E. Simmons, county agent of St. Charles parish, who envisioned the need for some activity that would fit into the life and environment of the boys of the marshlands, all of whom are children of trappers, oystermen and fishermen whose ancestors have followed such callings for 150 years.

The boys of Louisiana's coastal region would be literally "fish out of water" if assigned a program associated with the farm. They are familiar with their native bayous and marshlands but know little about crops and domesticated stock.

In this vast mangrove-covered terrain, the 4-H boys learn more about the millions of little fur-bearing animals and how to trap them and prepare the skins for market. The preservation of bird life is also taught so that, as sportsmen, they will always have good hunting.

9,000,000 Trees Are Ready to Be Planted

STEVENSON, WASH.—Over 9,000,000 Douglas fir and ponderosa pine trees produced in the Hemlock nursery have been distributed for replanting in all parts of the Northwest. Over 58,000 of the firs were sent to the Olympic national forest in the Puget Sound country. Approximately 3,000,000 trees a year are replanted. During the war years when help was scarce the replantings were not carried out. Seed is gathered in the forests each year and taken to the nursery to grow the trees.

Belgian War Bride Sees First Frame House

Bemidji Expands By Making Room For More Houses

By E. L. KIRKPATRICK WNU Features

When things got too "tight" in Bemidji, center of 10,000 population in northern Minnesota, town officials decided to move the fair grounds out to "great open spaces." This left room for residential development on a large tract that had become surrounded by homes and the new high school.

Plans call for a new-type development, having single lot fronts, wide paved rear alleys and 10-foot sidewalks. Town recovers the cost of these and other facilities like curbing, paving and parkways through a revolving fund based on reasonable charge to owners. County officials are doing the moving, using receipts from sale of property to pay major portion of costs for new fair ground site.

Another "project" is a million-dollar airport, covering 1,350 acres, with paved runways, hangars and administration building. This perhaps becomes an important link in the proposed Twin Cities - Alaska air route, and will serve as center of flying into northern Minnesota resort and summer vacation area.

Finally, there is the Jaycees (Junior Chamber of Commerce) lake shore development. This provides for an annual summer carnival featuring water sports and show, boat races and seaplane rides, a 300-foot concrete breakwater with complete water - play equipment, modern bathing facilities and a 100-car parking zone.

Briefly, Bemidji looks to "bigger and better things." As a constant reminder it has the famed statues of Paul Bunyan and his Blue Ox, Babe, which are "the most photographed scenes in the state."

Price Going Up on Contempt of Court

VANCOUVER, WASH.—"Ten dollars for contempt of court," said Justice of the Peace Paul Elwell, after Attorney Booth McAbee started arguing with him.

"Ten dollars would not begin to express my contempt of the court," replied McAbee hotly. "Fifty dollars!" said the justice. The attorney remained silent.

GET A ROOSTER

Waking Up Is Tough as Few Alarm Clocks Are Available

By EDWARD EMERINE WNU Features
The new 1946 alarm clock is just like the one you bought before the war—which you are, no doubt, still using. It's still a sleep-disturbing thing. That is, if you can get one.
My old prewar alarm clock is now 12 or 14 years old. Age is creeping up on it and its tick is a little tuckered. It sometimes fails now, but we've kept it going pretty well by shaking it gently, or by laying it on its face (and who wants a clock with its face hidden?)
"I'll buy a new one," I announced as head of the family.

But the jeweler didn't have any, nor did the hardware stores. Even the drug stores couldn't supply one.
My neighbor felt quite superior because he has an electric clock with an alarm so gentle—he claims—it's a pleasure to be awakened by it.
Alarm clocks didn't mean a thing to an old uncle of mine. He just set the time in his head and the next morning he awoke right on the second. I've tried it, but I overslept. I can't set my head, and I can't buy an alarm clock!

Big Gain in Jobs Reported in U.S

March Figures Are 500,000 Above Those of 1945.

WASHINGTON.—Industry in March made its greatest gains since V-J Day, the civilian production administration has just reported. Employment was 500,000 higher than a year ago.

March progress showed up not only in goods but in jobs, said the monthly report of CPA Administrator John D. Small. He said April output would slump because of the coal strike.

The report said that "civilian employment moved sharply upward in March for the first time since the end of the war."

Some 55,700,000 Americans were working, a gain of 1,300,000 over February. "This is an extremely significant indication of the high level of production activity in the country at the present time," Small observed.

Although 800,000 veterans were released into the labor market in March, unemployment rose only 60,000 to a total of 2,710,000, by census figures. The seasonal upturn in farm work absorbed many workers.

Small predicted that the strike of the United Mine Workers would be felt "throughout the country" as plant after plant runs out of fuel. He termed the steel outlook "very discouraging."

Automobile producers hit a new postwar high of 90,045 cars in March, almost double February's output, the CPA report said, but the coal strike and other continuing labor disputes will hurt future production.

The best recovery to date has been in textiles, building materials and—until the coal strike—iron and steel, Small said.

While the output of civilian goods and services was running at a record-breaking 154 billion dollars annual rate compared with 122 billion dollars in the first quarter of 1945—Small noted that the gain may be surprising to those who are disappointed at the slow reappearance of autos and other durable goods.

Here's Straight Tip

On Sale of Jackets

NEW YORK.—Bargain note for housewives: For sale, 397 white jackets, original cost, $4,000, durable, tubable—with neat little straps to tie down your arms.

Down in the salesroom at 70 Pine street, government clerks are hard at work finding attractive consumer uses for wartime surpluses.

"We took cannon shells and showed how they could be converted into lamps," sighed a clerk. "We made barbecue stands out of operating tables. We transformed air raid wardens' helmets into flower pots . . . but a strait jacket!"

Ceiling's Off on Berries

Of Canned, Frozen Type

WASHINGTON.—Price controls suspended indefinitely recently on all canned, frozen and preserved berries and berry products except cranberries.

Fruits used in soda fountains are included, but not processed products made by mixing berries with apples or other fruit, such as raspberry-apple jelly, nor foods which are not commercially recognized as berries.

In the latter group are grapes, tomatoes and other fruits, even though they are classified botanically as belonging to the berry family.

Retail prices for hand lawn-mowers are going up 9 to 10 per cent.

Retailers can charge the higher price only on mowers shipped by producers. Other lawn cutters must be sold at previous ceilings, OPA said.

The agency also announced that retail price ceilings for wire-tied innerspring mattresses have increased 2 per cent.

Railroads Touched New Record in War Shipments

WASHINGTON.—Railroads handled 50 million tons of high explosives for military purposes plus great quantities of poison gas in World War II, without a person being killed.

In its annual report for 1945 the Association of American Railroads said that in one month of 1945 the railroads handled more military explosives than during all of World War I.

From 1940 to 1945 inclusive, the report said, shipments by rail of explosives totaled 1,302,623 carloads.

Imaginary Interviews

President Truman and His Mom.

Mom—Well, Harry, you sure do look all frazzled out. What on earth's happened to you?

Harry—What hasn't? Gosh, mom, I sometimes wish I had never left the farm.

Mom—I tried to get you to stay, son. I warned you about those city folks. You could have been a prosperous farmer today with no worries.

Harry—Shucks, mom, a farmer has his worries.
Mom—Yes, but he doesn't have a flock of newspaper editors telling him what to do next. You'd be happy right now with a farm and cows and chickens and turkeys. . . .

Harry—It would be just my luck to have to milk cows, surrounded by radio commentators. As for chickens, mom, I think I'd like 'em. There's never any doubt who's laying the eggs. So far as turkeys are concerned there are more big ones in Washington than in all Missouri.

Mom—I wish I could tell that awful John Lewis what I think of him for the way he's treated you. What did you ever do to make an enemy of him?

Harry—Nothing. Friend or foes are all alike to John.

Mom—And that railroad mess! It's terrible the way they all gang up on you, son. Why don't you tell 'em all to go to thunder and come back to Missouri for keeps while you're still able?

Harry—A President can't walk out.

Mom—It seems that everybody else can. What's all this about you seizing things to right and left?

Harry—It's just a figure of speech. I seize mines and railroads theoretically, that's all.

Mom—You look as if they had seized you, and NOT theoretically. I hate old Mrs. Gufaston more than ever.

Harry—Who is she?

Mom—When you were a baby she said you might grow up to be President!

Harry—Maybe she didn't know what it meant.

Mom—See here, Harry, what's this stuff in the papers about you refusing a pardon?

Harry—What do you mean, refusing a pardon?

Mom—It says you want a second term. Tell me it ain't so!

Harry—Gosh, mother, you told me to go to Washington and plow a straight furrow, didn't you?

Mom—I didn't say anything about an eight-year furrow. Just be sensible, my boy, and come home to Missouri where people love you, where they know you for the fine man you are and where nobody wants to scalp you every few minutes.

Harry—Think how I'd look if I quit the White House, mom!

Mom—Think how you'll look if you don't, my son!

The 'New Capitalism' As Johnston Sees It

ERIC A. JOHNSTON, retiring president of the United States chamber of commerce let loose a veritable atomic bomb in his swan-song at the recent annual meeting of the chamber at Atlantic City. He outlined the course he thinks capitalism must follow, if it is to survive in this country.

And today as a result, while thousands of businessmen and farmers and laborers hail his speech as one of the finest expressions of progressive thought of the day . . . others are still holding their heads in utter horror at the blasphemy which dropped from his lips . . . these are the monopolistic standpatters of the NAM, some of the frozen apostles of special privilege in their plush chair club windows . . . some of the fat reactionaries of the house and senate . . . the lobbyists against the peoples' interests and the backward-lookers and normalcy advocates.

Johnston's denunciation of capitalism as we know it in this country was complete and all-inclusive, and his concept of a new capitalism as fresh and revitalizing as a spring shower. And the evidence is all about us that unless and until capitalism pulls itself up into a progressive power it will die in our country as it has died a waning death in Europe. Here are some of Johnston's concepts:

Capitalism must change from a monopolistic concentration of power and influence in the hands of the few into a competitive economic system designed for the enrichment of the many and not to make a few men rich.

The whole process of thinking of capitalism for the privileged few must be raised to a plane where responsibility to the public interest is the key word. . . .

We must choose between the old capitalism that holds it has a closed and perfect system resting on congealed and unchangeable dogmas . . . against organized labor, against government activity, against community planning . . . and the new which must be a human institution, vibrant and evolutionary, capable of constantly adjusting itself to new conditions, justified by its works instead of its words.

'A Tool of the People'

We must change from the old standpat conception of capitalism where people were merely the inert tools of the system to the new or progressive conception where the system is a tool in the hands of the people.

We must change from the old concept where man ran roughshod over the rights of others, to the new where the individual is a free agent but not a free booter, where man is more important than the machine or the products of the machine . . . where the primacy and dignity of man come first . . .

We must turn from the old capitalism to recognize the supremacy of the individual and to recognize that modern mass production society has caused individuals to band together for their well being into unions, corporations, farm organizations, the co-operative, trade associations and professional societies.

We must learn that these voluntary but powerful organizations are the core of America's new capitalism, but they must be regulated . . . the ideal way is a maximum of self-regulation and a minimum of government regulation setting up fair rules of the game. . . .

Really Equal Opportunity

Our new capitalism calls for competition, not in the nostalgia of the good old days of dog-eat-dog, but with a basic ingredient of equal opportunity . . . and there can be no equal opportunity without fair competition. We must turn from the old monopolistic competition which throttled competition of the little fellow to the new competition which provides opportunity for ideas, thinking, for inventive minds, which holds prices reasonable, makes better living, stimulates, but never stymies opportunity.

The new capitalism must mean greater diffusion of the good things of life, more people owning more things, the enrichment of the many, and not to the goal of making a few men rich.

We are for a great middle class economy which means fewer people at the top and fewer at the bottom . . . then what's the matter with a decent minimum wage?

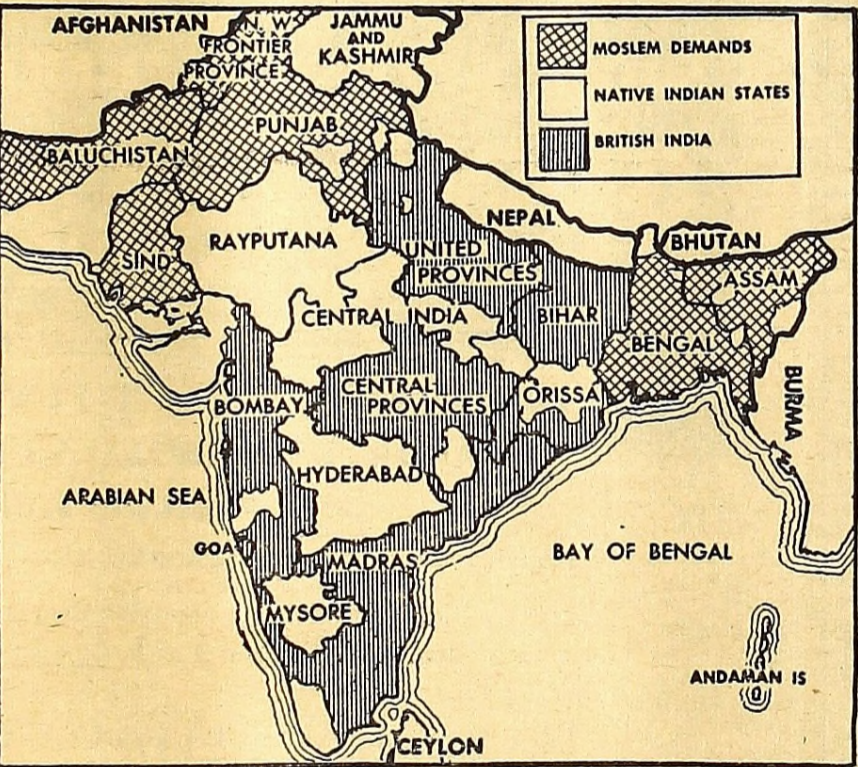

We say we really want to see more diffusion of the good things of the world . . . then what's wrong with profit sharing? What's wrong with giving workers a real incentive to produce more for their own profit . . . more people buying more things so you can make more things which more and more people can buy . . . that's what it would mean.

HONOR U. S. DEAD IN EUROPE . . . White crosses and stars in every country where American soldiers fought against Hitler's army, bear testimony to the sacrifice of U. S. lives. The liberated people of these countries now honor the U. S. war dead as fervently as their own. The photograph shows French and American officers saluting. Beyond the graves were the hills through which the Allied forces pushed their way to the Rhine.

FATHER WITH MOST CHILDREN . . . George N. Davis Sr., 63, farmer of Theresa, N. Y., at left, behind microphones on porch as he was awarded saving bond by national fathers day committee, which selected him as the father in the U. S. with the most children. The presentation was made in the presence of Mrs. Davis, beside him, the 20 children in foreground and 28 grandchildren. Theresa declared a public holiday and the entire town turned out to honor Davis.

DIVIDED INDIA—UNITED ON FREEDOM . . . Although the word "India" bespeaks of one country and thereby infers a certain contiguity of territory, the fabulous land is actually in a strange political position with islands within which are in reality little nations in their own right. In the north are the Moslem provinces and scattered throughout (parallel lines) are the All-India party strongholds in the British holdings. Both All-India party representatives and Moslem league men, normally at odds, attended the conference.

REBEL PASSES . . . Sen. Carter Glass, 88, Virginia Democrat, who died of a heart attack. Senator Glass has not attended congress for four years. He was secretary of the treasury under Wilson.

"LUCKY" SMITH . . . "Lucky" Arthur Smith, a gypsy, who lived in a shack on Stebbing Downs, England, is shown with his bride, Edith Helen Hume Henderson, daughter of General Henderson.

Electric Hotbeds to Suit Average Needs

Use During Entire Year With Profit

Science has invaded the hotbed field and, to a large extent, has dictated the replacement of manure as a heating agent with electricity, which generates the desired temperature in the bed by means of a special soil heating cable.

The cable, preferably, should be buried from 4 to 6 inches beneath the surface where it is permanently out of the way, although it may be placed flush with the ground. Sixty feet of cable is regarded as adequate for a standard 6 by 6 foot bed, with strands spaced 7 inches apart and uniformly laid back and forth across the entire bed.

In northern states, a standard hotbed, with thermostat, will use from 1/2 to 1 1/2 kilowatt hours of electricity per day for each 3 by 6 foot glass-covered sash, depending on the weather, the protection given the bed and the temperature maintained. The use of a thermostat makes the operation of the bed automatic, saves power and gives the grower control over plant development. Plants in electrically heated hotbeds should be watered frequently, most users specifying 5 quarts per sash.

Studies made by the United States department of agriculture record that seeds germinate and plants grow in from 20 to 30 per cent less time in electric hotbeds than in those in which manure is the "heating" agent.

Window Ventilator

This sketch shows an excellent way to fix the windows of the various barns or farm buildings. There are no hinges and the windows can be opened and closed at will or removed entirely if desired.

The triangular pieces (A) are fastened to the sides of the frame as shown. A piece (C) across the bottom holds the bottom of the sash in place. Another piece (B) across the top keeps the pieces (A) the correct distance apart and serves as a rest for the sash when it is opened.

A small button fastened to the window frame at the top holds the window shut, and another attached to the sash holds the window open.

Urea Wound Powder Used on Livestock

During World War II, two medical corps officers, Holder and McKay, and later, Iltnier, reported astonishingly efficient results in handling contaminated wounds by local application of a powder made by mixing urea with sulfanilamide and sulfathiazole.

The advantages of such powder are obvious as the urea not only aids greatly in dissolving and ridding the wound of necrotic or dead tissues cells, but also greatly increases the antiseptic properties of the two sulfa drugs.

A urea-sulfonamide mixture has now been offered to the veterinary profession and to the farmer. Currently this formula promises to replace most of the so-called wound powders containing lime and alum, formerly used to dust on wounds of livestock. It is also widely used in the uterus to hold down infection after birth of young and is also incorporated in ointment bases for use in eye infections.

Give Phenothiazine in Bolus Form to Sheep

Tests conducted at Mississippi have indicated that phenothiazine given in bolus form is more effective in treating sheep with stomach worms or nodular worms than when it is given as a drench. Mixing the phenothiazine with the food is too uncertain unless each animal is treated separately. The capsule form is not satisfactory because of the amount of time required to fill and weigh the capsules.

How to Avoid these "BOOBY TRAPS" IN YOUR HOME!

What you can't see CAN hurt you—says the National Safety Council

1 About 5,000,000 Americans are injured every year at home—33,500 fatally! Largest single cause: falling. To avoid shattering obstructions and other lethal "booby traps," carry your "Eveready" flashlight in dark areas.

2 Be sure all obstacles are cleared away. Linoleum or carpeting should be tacked down firmly. In attic or basement, pack all loose objects in nonflammable boxes stored against the walls. Don't rely on your knowledge of where obstacles are located—the next person may not have that knowledge. Moreover—

3 Know in advance where your fuse box, main water and gas valves, etc., are located; have a clear path to them. Armed with your "Eveready" flashlight, you can approach without fumbling in an emergency. Be sure loose wires are out of your way.

4 Keep your "Eveready" flashlight always in the same convenient place—so you won't be tempted to do without it because it can't be located. Keep it filled with "Eveready" batteries—they're again available at your dealer's. "Eveready" batteries are the largest-selling flashlight batteries in all the world!

Only two-thirds of the inhabitants of the world are enumerated by means of a census, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica. For this reason, the estimate of more than 1,900,000,000 inhabitants of the earth can only be an approximation.

Cleaner Tips

It's a wise and economic house-keeper who takes care of her vacuum cleaner. An hour at a stretch is a good working stint for the electric motor in your cleaner.

At the end of this period rest it for 10 or 15 minutes. Never run your cleaner over pins, nails, hairpins, paper clips or any other hard object that can unbalance the fan or damage the main casing.

Papoose Frame

Papoose frame, papoose cradle, cradleboard and papoose board are some of the terms used for this convenient (to the baby) means of transportation.

NOTICE TO ELECTORS

Due to the re-registration of voters now going on all over the County, considerable confusion exists among voters concerning their eligibility to vote in the coming Primary Election, June 18th.

All those who were registered under the old registration system may still vote on June 18th whether re-registered or not. The old registration books will be used by election boards at this election in conjunction with the new ones. However, every voter who intends to vote in the November election must re-register under the new system whether or not he is now registered under the old.

Remember, you can still vote June 18th whether or not you are re-registered, but that will be the last election in which you may vote until you have re-registered with your Township or City Clerk, as the case may be.

Registrations will be accepted up to and including October 16th, 1946. That is the deadline for your chance to vote in the fall election.

R. H. McKenzie,
Iosco County Clerk

A picture of you and your telephone

No, no, NOT THAT! We certainly do not suggest that you include your telephone's photo in the family album. But you may welcome a picture of your telephone service—and how we plan to make it bigger and better. So here goes.

Right now we are working at top-speed on a 5-year $150,000,000 expansion and improvement program. Our first objective is to supply service to the thousands of families who are still waiting for telephones. But this program is intended to do much more than that. It will enable us to care for future growth and give everyone the kind of service wanted when and where it is wanted.

And Michigan Bell's earnings are in the picture, too, for good telephone service depends on adequate earnings. Thousands of thrifty people have their savings invested in Bell System securities. Their money makes good service possible. In fact, Michigan Bell's $150,000,000 post-war program will be financed largely by these and other investors. And that program will provide more and better telephone service for you.

So you see, telephone rates—such a small part of your monthly budget—must be maintained at a level which will keep our earnings adequate. Otherwise, investors would not put their money into the telephone business, and the future quality and extent of your telephone service would suffer.

We believe our customers want good telephone service, even if it costs a trifle more than inferior service.

Technical improvements over the years have brought rates for good service down and have kept them down in the face of rising costs. But if the recent rapid rise in costs continues, rate increases may become necessary. In any event, Michigan Bell wants rates no higher—and no lower—than necessary to insure good telephone service.

Putting the Shot
The shot put, a standard event in any modern track meet, was first done in ancient Irish games in 632 B. C. In later years, the stones which had previously been used were supplanted by cannon balls, hence the name putting the "shot." In 1860 the 16-pound shot was made standard for track contests, although 14-pound shots were also used for many years.

Stomach Ulcers
Patients with ulcer of the stomach need to be fed at night to neutralize the acid present which retards healing, according to a report of the Journal of the American Medical association. The authors conclude that although the ulcer patients have no greater volume of gastric juice at night than normal persons, the evidence indicates that they retain more of the juice and acid in their stomachs. Therefore, in order to prevent the acid from irritating the ulcer at night, feeding is essential.

Alaska, famous as a gold producer, had its mining start when Russians exploited coal deposits on Cook Inlet in 1854.

Baste Comforter
A strip of soft washable material basted over the top of comforter or blanket so it may be removed easily for washing and then replaced will save wear on the blanket and laundry time for the homemaker.

Prisoners' Ransom
In the Middle ages ransom was practiced only in legitimate warfare. Now the term is usually used in cases of individual kidnappings, but then all of knightly rank were given the right to buy their own release when made prisoners of war.

Egg Uses
Eggs serve to thicken custard or sauce, to leaven or lighten a soufflé or cake, and for mayonnaise made at home. Specialists suggest using egg whites to make cloudy soups clear, or an egg shell with some of the white still clinging to "settle" muddy coffee.

Developed Celluloid
Celluloid was developed by an Albany, N. Y., printer who was trying to win a $10,000 award from a billiard ball manufacturer which in 1863 sought a substitute for ivory. The printer, John Wesley Hyatt, developed cellulose nitrate plastic in his experiments, and from that came the trade name "celluloid," and the entire basis for the modern plastics industry.

HERES 'DAD'

GEORGE ELDRIDGE
The casting director of "Mom and Dad" solved a big problem when he selected George Eldridge for the role of Dan Blake, easy going broad-minded father. Eldridge does a natural, easy characterization of the part that is next to perfect.

"Mom and Dad", the new hygiene special attraction coming to the Family theatre June 26 can be shown to segregated audiences only. This is because its medical sequences deal frankly with very delicate subjects and it is only in good taste, the management points out.

Each day there will be two showings for women and one for men. The women only shows will start at 2 and 7 P. M. and the men only performance at 9 P. M. Grade school-age students are not admitted. There is no exact age limit. A boy or girl must be in High School to be eligible for admission.

AN INNER SANCTUM MYSTERY STARRING ARAB AND ANDY BLAKE WNU FEATURES

CHAPTER XIX

I knelt beside Joey for a moment, then straightened. He had been dead when he hit the floor. Renee was still waiting by the desk. The fist doubled against her side seemed darker. Her body swung lightly up into my arms. I carried her out into the corridor. We were lucky. The smoke wasn't suffocating, and the flames had started on the top floor and hadn't gnawed their way down yet. I started downstairs.

"Bob," she said suddenly. "Sorry. This is just Andy."

Her eyes opened. "Bob used to carry me like this."

"Did he?"

"He used to say I ought to try out for the ninety-pound team."

"You could still make it."

"I mustn't talk about myself," she whispered. "You still have work to do. Did you understand that he went into the powerhouse? He took the black-light set with him. He can attach it and signal through one of those slots near the roof. Don't let him tell the men on the U-boat about the convoys."

"We'll take care of him."

"The door will be open, Andy. He expected Joey and me to follow him."

"I'll make sure he doesn't get lonely."

I picked my way through a jumble of furniture on the first floor, kicked the back door open. The guard, the man who had kidnaped Paula Thompson, was still huddled beside the steps. But he was off the books as completely as Joey. His head lolled at a queer angle. Apparently the fat man didn't like to leave unsolved problems lying around; the guard might have talked, later. I carried Renee well back from the house and placed her gently on the sand.

Her eyes were feverish, and she gasped, "I used to be afraid. Afraid of dying. Afraid for my people in Brittany. Afraid that the Germans could not be beaten. Now I am not afraid. It is worth dying to beat the Germans. Tonight I stood at the window and when the guns fired the third time I found that I was no longer afraid."

I said gruffly, "You always did have what it takes."

"I—I'm sorry you saw how I acted with . . . with—" she nodded toward the powerhouse—"with him. It wasn't really me."

"I know it wasn't."

"Will Bob understand?"

Feet scuffed in the sand and Arab ran up to us. She dropped to her knees, spilling an armful of loot. "How is she?" she gasped. "I grabbed a tablecloth. You'll have to rip it into bandages, Andy. My fingers—"

Renee pressed the stained fist harder into her side. "Let me alone," she said sharply. "The U-boat. You must warn the ships about it. You must go after that man in the powerhouse."

Arab bent and kissed her. "I brought Joey's flashlight," she said. "And I brought that international code book you were using. I can work the flashlight with my thumb and warn the destroyer. Andy will do the rest."

Renee smiled. Her head drooped onto the sand. Her lips moved. I leaned close. She was crooning an elfin melody. For a moment I could see Renee and her big Dartmouth kid hanging over their balcony, watching moonlight on the Seine and humming a quaint little college tune. I don't think there could have been any homesickness in the way Bob had sung it, because there wasn't any now. She whispered it softly: Dartmouth will shine tonight, Dartmouth will shine tonight, Dartmouth will shine tonight, Dartmouth will shine . . . When the sun goes down and the moon comes up . . . Dartmouth . . . will shine . . .

It was almost gay, almost a challenge. The elfin whisper faded. She lay there quietly, smiling up at the Dartmouth moon. From the look on her face, Bob must have been waiting.

I got up stiffly. "Take the shotgun," Arab said. "I can't handle a shotgun. Let 'em know about the sub."

She pushed something into my hand. "Take this, then. Please take it, Andy."

It was the hand grenade from the fat man's arsenal. I stuffed it inside my undershirt, remembering my trouble earlier in trying to untangle a gun from my pocket. I walked across white sand to the powerhouse. I thought about Renee, and the building blurred and I had to gulp knots out of my throat. The door was slightly ajar. I kicked it open and went in.

Finally I caught a sentence. He had said, "This time we will not be interrupted." I moved carefully toward the platform. There were steps leading up to it but this time I wasn't going to hand him any presents by making a rush. The platform wasn't wide. I could stay on the floor and yank him down. When he saw I wasn't charging he started down the steps. His round polished head hunched between his shoulders. The long fat arms swung out, fingers stroking the air ahead of him. He was three steps up when I reached the bottom of the stairs. Suddenly he whirled, dropped to his hands. A foot lashed at my throat. I was waiting for it. I jerked back my head, caught the foot with my left hand and flipped it. The fat man crashed down. I locked a foot around his ankle to steady myself, ripped hooks into his left kidney with my free hand. His bent back was a sweet target. Like socking a drum. I pounded him three times. He grunted, jerked upright. Something tore agonizingly at my locked arm. I dug into his kidney once more and then he whirled around and let me fly off at the wall.

It wasn't a clean toss. I hit spinning, felt skin burn off one shoulder. But I kept on my feet. My right forearm ached. A curved flap hung loose three inches above the wrist. It was lucky, though. His teeth had missed the artery . . . and rabies takes a long time to kill a man.

"Just for that," I mumbled, "we'll see how you like blinking glass out of your eyes."

And suddenly he broke and ran. Ran sobbing along the wall and up the steps onto the platform. At the top he swung around. I could hear his breath whistling above the dynamo. He jerked and tore at a pocket. For a second I goggled up stupidly at him. He was yanking out his gun. His hand wavered up, faltered, rose again. The slide of the automatic had a greasy blue shine.

I ripped open my undershirt and clamped my fingers around the waffle pattern of the hand grenade. It felt good. It would raise hell in this concrete room. I wouldn't have picked a room like this for my first lesson in using a hand grenade, but the selection was limited. He had the gun up now. It steadied on me. I cocked my arm and thought: this is for Dartmouth. And I burned it down the groove at him.

Flame slashed at me. A blast of noise seemed to stave in my eardrums like old barrels. I closed my eyes and let things go dark . . .

When I opened them again, ages later, I heard myself mumbling, "I got the guy I got the guy I got the guy I—"

Someone tugged at my arm, argued with me. For some reason I was walking. I complained, "Why don't you let a guy stay in bed after he's blown to bits? This is a hell of an army walking a guy around and around . . ."

"Andy! Oh, Andy, please."

The fog swirled around in my head and smoked quietly away. Arab was clinging to my arm, laughing and crying. We were walking through sand. The fragment of moon I had seen ages ago was still skimming through the night sky.

I growled, "Where's the hospital? What am I doing here? That grenade tore me to bits."

"Oh, Andy," she choked, "it didn't go off! You aren't really wounded. Just a bitten arm and a lot of bruises and—"

"Just that, huh? And why didn't the grenade go off? One of your lousy defective Ordnance grenades. I'll get off a military letter with nineteen indorsements and see about these defective grenades."

She nuzzled my arm and quivered with an assortment of laughs and snuffles. "They don't ever go off unless you pull the pin," she moaned. "You didn't pull the pin!"

"They ought to print directions on the things. How would I know you had to pull a pin? What happened to the fat man?"

She shuddered slightly. "Well?"

"Andy, you hit him with it." "Did I hit him hard?"

"If you can always throw grenades as hard and straight as that, we'll have some special ones made up for you, without pins."

"Yeah, but I saw a flash and there was an awful bang."

"A forty-five makes an awful racket in a closed room."

"He missed me, huh?" "Yes, darling. And I've been walking you up and down for five minutes to wake you up."

Arab took a deep breath and clung to me. Her lips felt cool and soothing. "Andy," she whispered, "I won't ever try to stir things up again. From now on I'll be a mouse."

I scrubbed a hand over my aching face, peered at the flaming house and distant depth charges. "If you're going to be a mouse," I said solemnly, "God help the cats." (THE END)

Last Year's Slacks Offer Material for Gored Skirts

By Ertta Haley

Crinoline Days

TAKE a good last look at last year's summer slacks when you trot them out with your summer wardrobe. If there's enough good material in them, they can easily be converted into a lovely skirt fitted just for you.

The twill, serge, linen or butcher linen out of which many warm weather slacks are made is nice material for sewing. The gored skirt which is a simple basic style can easily be cut from the slacks and is simple to sew.

Your most important points to consider in making this type of skirt is smooth fitting for waist and hips. The waistband should be firm but not tight. If it is too loose, the skirt will constantly twist.

When you make the placket for the skirt, take care! It should stay closed smoothly to give an unbroken hip line. It's another of the secrets of success in making a skirt. Zippers now are available, and it is easy to make a skirt with one fitted in. Or, your slacks might even have a zipper on them that could be used to an advantage in the remodeled skirt.

If the fabric you are using is light enough, you might find the gathered skirt more attractive. Straight lengths of material are gathered, making the popular dirndl type that the younger set like so well.

Rip Slacks Apart Before Cutting.

Since you want the best fit possible in the skirt, it would be best to rip the slacks apart carefully, using razor edge (being sure not to cut the precious fabric) or a small scissors. After this is done, wash and dye the fabric, if necessary, and carefully iron out all the creases so that you have a smooth cutting surface.

The skirt is started at the waistline—if it is a gathered type, or the height. When you press the bulb of this gadget, it squirts chalk as you turn around.

Another way of measuring the hemline is having someone help you in taking the measurement and placing pins around the skirt. In this case a tape measure is used—or a yardstick is easier—and place pins so many inches from the floor. Before taking the skirt off, have them pin it to make certain the length is correct.

After removing the skirt, take out pins while making a basting line in their place. Before turning the hem, the edge should be finished with seam binding, with a stitched turn or with a plain turn. Once the edge is finished, the skirt can be turned at the basting. Smooth the edge over and hold in place with pins or basting. Use a small overlapping stitch to finish permanently. Press before and after stitching to insure perfect smoothness and evenness.

If you are making a circular hem on a skirt, it's wise to let the skirt hang for two days or so before trying to adjust the hem. Otherwise you might be unpleasantly surprised to find that the skirt sags in the wrong places shortly after you have sewed it.

A crinoline note of femininity creeps into the play scene in this two-piece bathing suit of crisp white celanese beach cloth and jersey shorts. The parasol ruffle is trimmed with three rows of white ric rac.

Choosing Fabrics

If you are making sport clothes or classic styles, choose the conventional fabrics with subtle weaves, dots or checks. Neutral fabrics like gray and beige are always good provided they go well with your coloring.

Printed fabrics are good for all types of useful, everyday garments. They may also be used for daytime and evening wear, made up for the latter in very simple styles.

Smooth surface fabrics demand sophisticated styles. These fabrics show up every detail of construction and should be carefully worked with.

The luxury fabrics like velvet, satin and rayon crepes are for evening wear. Sometimes they are used with a less expensive fabric and used for trimming.

Tweeds, woolsens and some of the sturdy rayons and cottons are for utility use, like men's clothes. Factory workers and youngsters find good use for them, too.

Fabrics with pile like velvet, corduroy, velveteen and other rayons and woolsens are used for winter wear, or as trimming.

Summer Fashion Notes

Soft elbow cuffs and the new pushed up sleeves that have the look of studied carelessness are much in the news. These are particularly noticeable on blouses.

Looking for all sorts of feminine frills on hemlines. Eyelets and lace are popular, but if you go in for more tailored things, you will want different colored contrasting bands for edging.

White shoes and slippers will help you keep well groomed and comfortable during hot, sweltering weather. The manish style suit is taking a snub this season with more feminine styles prevailing. But look for an influence of men's suits just the same, even though the suits are aping men's fashions from the time of Cavaliers, Directoire and Restoration periods.

To prolong the life of children's shoestrings, stitch up and down them several times on the sewing machine.

Gems of Thought

FOR every social wrong there must be a remedy. But the remedy can be nothing less than the abolition of the wrong.—Henry George. There's a better man behind an honorable failure than there is behind a dishonorable success. The world would be both better and brighter if we could dwell on the duty of happiness, as well as on the happiness of duty. We can well afford a seeming sacrifice for the right, because any other side is a losing side.—Ben Franklin. Everyone excels in something in which another fails.—Publius Syrus.

A NUMBER of new arguments and debates have arisen that call for further dissection and discussion before the cases are dismissed.

They might be rated in this order—

No. 1.—What effect will the new union have on baseball and what job can it do?

No. 2.—What are the prospects ahead for Messrs. Mauriello and Woodcock?

No. 3.—How does one account for the Yankee team batting average of .236, on a par with the hitless wonders—the White Sox of 1906—and 32 points below the Phillies of 1946?

Starting with No. 1, there is nothing any union can do about the reserve clause, since baseball is a competitive matter. But for all that, the reserve clause shouldn't give big-league clubowners the power to keep good ball players over time in minor leagues, which so many of them do. Also a ball player certainly deserves a good section of his purchase price when sold to another club. Also a ball player good enough to be moved up to a major-league job among the 500 major-league survivors deserves a minimum salary not below $5,000 a year. A holdout also deserves a fairer court than he is getting today. Against this, a badly run union can do more than a slight amount of damage. This is an intricate affair that requires careful consideration.

Moving along to query No. 2, the two main weak spots attached to Bruce Woodcock are inexperience in the way of tough competition and lack of ring aggressiveness. The British champion has his share of courage and boxing skill. He can also punch. But he has spent too much of his time against set-ups who could neither throw a punch or take one. He must learn, against better fighters than he met before Mauriello, how to continue an attack, once started.

The No. 3 Heavyweight Tami Mauriello is probably the best heavyweight left below Louis and Conn. Soft living and overeating haven't helped him any. He was equipped to be a far better fighter than he is today. At the age of 22 he could still be a much better fighter by removing surplus suet from his system through the brand of reconditioning that Tunney, Dempsey and Louis brought to the game.

With Tami it is largely a question of how hard he wants to work and train in order to be ready for one of the best openings any 22-year-old ringman ever knew. This is entirely up to Mauriello—what price he is willing to pay in the way of hard work.

This brings us to the case of the Yankees, one of the season's major mysteries to date. I saw them at spring training around St. Petersburg. The one worry that Joe McCarthy, Larry MacPhail or anyone else never faced was lack of the punch.

The old ash furniture was all in place. What pitchers were going to curb or suppress a batting order that included Joe DiMaggio, Charlie Keller, Tommy Henrich, Phil Rizzuto, Nick Etten and Johnny Lindell, Joe Gordon, Snuffy Stirnweiss, the A. L. batting champ of 1945? Also Bill Dickey, one of the most dangerous hitters of all time in any clutch.

A Gang of Sluggers You had to admit this looked to be one of the hardest hitting lineups from top to bottom that baseball has known in many years. Their busy bats wrecked Panama and later on left a debris of battered fences and shattered palms and palmettos through Florida against big-league pitching.

At least five from this group were potential punchers from .300 to .350. The others were above the .290 mark. To find only one .300 hitter in this group—Charlie Keller—must be classed among the major upsets of the year.

One answer—too much spring baseball, causing batting eyes that should be clear and keen in late May to be already stale and jumpy. They'll work out of this later, but so far the Yankees have paid a costly price when it comes to the rather important matter of base hits through the first part of the season.

International Polo What's the chance for international polo on the old scale this summer or early fall? Pete Bostwick, who served for three years with the cavalry and tank corps, and a live wire in polo, thinks there's a pretty fair chance ahead against either Mexico or Argentina, or both.

"Why not?" asks Pete. "We already have the basis for a good polo team in Stu Iglehart, Mike Phipps, Cecil Smith and some others. We also have some pretty fair polo ponies on hand.

Posies for Bathroom From Yard of Chintz

IT IS marvelous what you can do with a yard of flowered chintz. Just try cutting the posies out and spreading around for dramatic effect. Tint a faded bath mat and apply a stunning big rose in one corner, use others on towels; then make shower curtains of plain material with more roses applied.

These intriguing ideas are from a 32-page booklet, "Make Your Own Curtains." Every page is illustrated so clearly that you can follow directions whether you have ever sewn before or not. With its help you may use both new and old materials to curtain your house as beautifully as if you hired a decorator. Readers may get copies of this booklet for 15c postpaid. ANNUAL IRIS SHOW

The date of the 2nd Annual Iris Show given under the auspices of the Mio Irisarians has been changed from June 9 to June 16, Father's Day. This change being necessitated by the unseasonable weather which retarded the blooming period.

The show will open at 10:00 A. M. in the Mio Community Building, at which time all entries are to be set up and ready for judging. The doors will be open to the public at 2:00 P. M. Admission to the show this year is free.

Roy V. Ashley of Battle Creek, who is an accredited judge, first for the American Iris Society, also a grower and hybridizer, will be the official judge ever to appear before the local group or any where else in Northeast Michigan, in his official capacity, he will have complete jurisdiction during the Mio Show.

After the show the membership will put on a pot luck dinner, during which lantern slides of Iris will be shown and discussions will take place.

A new feature has been added this year by opening the show to oriental poppies, to learn if enough enthusiasm to guarantee including them next year. Prizes will be awarded for outstanding specimen stalks.
