

Charles T. Prescott Victor in 28th District Senatorial Race

CHARLES T. PRESCOTT

Court House Fund Proposal Defeated

Moran, Curry, Moffatt Jacques Nominated

Charles T. Prescott won the Republican nomination for state senator in the 28th District by a margin of more than 1100 according to unofficial tabulated reports made yesterday. Prescott was opposed by J. Stuart Bicknell a Clare county banker. Prescott received 7,347 votes in the district and Bicknell 6,236.

While the court house proposal received a substantial majority, it lacked the necessary two-thirds vote in order to carry. The vote was 1205 yes and 710 no.

Several years ago the Board of Supervisors set up a building fund to build a new court house. Last year an architect was commissioned to draw plans of the building. The building fund now contains about $50,000.00. The proposal if carried, would have completed the financing and would have allowed its construction as soon as materials were available.

John Moran received the nomination for his seventh term in the sheriff's office. In a three man race, Moran received 847 votes, Ivan O'Farrell 702 and James R. Dotter 274.

Three candidates were in the race for the two nominations for coroner. The vote was close with E. John Moffatt receiving 880 votes, E. D. Jacques 856 and Donald A. Evans 800.

In the vote for governor, Isosco county cast 553 votes for Sigler, 486 votes for Brown, 487 votes for Kelly and 219 votes for Jeffries. In the state vote Sigler won by a 32,000 majority.

Keyes was the favorite candidate for lieutenant governor in Isosco county receiving 880 votes. His nearest competitor was Nugent with 589 votes.

Roy O. Woodruff received 1255 votes for congress and Ballard 852. Richard Deadman of Alpena was renominated as state representative from this district. Isosco county gave him 824 votes and his competitor, George T. Cathro 551.

Isosco county is especially pleased with the outcome in the race for state senator. In the nomination of Prescott it will be the first time in about 25 years that this side of the district has furnished a state senator, and they feel he is especially well qualified to represent the whole district.

William Draeger

Services for William Draeger, 67, of Detroit, who died Saturday at St. Mary's Hospital was held Wednesday at Armstrong Funeral Home, and at St. Francis de Sales Church. Mr. Draeger was a former Tawas City resident.

A resident of Detroit for 33 years, Mr. Draeger was a member of Alpena Lodge, Knights of Columbus and of the Holy Name Society. He is survived by his wife, Helen; a daughter, Mrs. Helen Sandretto; a son, Russell Draeger, and two sisters, Mrs. Mary Waters and Miss Gertrude Draeger.

Burial was in the Mt. Olivet-Cemetery.

"Flying Tiger" Ace to Speak at Kiwanis Meet

Out of the pages of "God Is My Co-Pilot" steps a real live character, Major Dallas Clinger, who became the first ace from the State of Wyoming. A veteran of over 100 combat missions he came to grips early in the war with the famed "Flying Tigers" flying as wingman to Col. "God Is My Co-Pilot" Robert Scott.

Honor Roll Dedication Impressive

Although the late Sunday morning rain storm threatened to disrupt the program, the Isosco County Honor Roll dedication ceremonies were fully carried out that afternoon in the presence of a large number of people from all sections of the county. Judge Herman Dehnke gave a very fine dedication address.

Large Number Uniformed Veterans Present

Assembling at the Tawas City High School building, about 200 uniformed World War II veterans, and World War I veterans marched to the court house where the ceremonies were held. In the parade were the four Isosco county high school bands from East Tawas, Oscoda, Hale and Tawas City who helped to make it colorful. Two selections were given by the massed bands at the ceremonies. Ex-Sergeant Elwood Bronson was in charge of the World War II veterans and Ernest Burtzloff the veterans of World War I.

Play Harrisville Here Sunday

This Sunday, June 23, Tawas City will play host to Harrisville, current leaders in the Northeastern Michigan Baseball league. In the only game played last Sunday, Harrisville won their fifth straight game, defeating West Branch 8 to 7.

Though Tawas City was slow in starting this year, losing two games, they have finally hit their stride winning the next two, and are awaiting their chance to topple the league leaders Sunday.

So far this season, Tawas City has hit the opponents pitching for a total of forty-five hits and twenty-eight runs, while the opposition has garnered thirty-five hits and twenty-four runs from Tawas City. The erratic fielding has held the Tawas team down, in four games, committing many errors that made the difference in losing or winning a game.

Now that they have two wins under their belts, they have settled down and will give Harrisville a scrap. Come out Sunday, fans for some good scrappy baseball, and help the locals rack up their third win.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear mother, Mary Bouchard, who passed away one year ago, June 19, 1945. When evening shadows are falling, and we are sitting here alone, silently longing for you could only come home. No one knows how we miss you dear Mother, or the heartaches we suffer since you left us. Even though heaven's gain, life will never be the same. We know your days of pain have passed. That you have gained your rest at last. Around our hearts your memory creeps. Rest well dear Mother, up there so high, with the white clouds for your bed. You have not left our hearts, but just gone on home ahead. Sadly missed by the family.

CARD OF APPRECIATION

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors, and also relatives of Gladwin and Detroit for all the kindness shown us during Mr. Simpson's recent illness and hospitalization. Mr. and Mrs. Martin Simpson

AT TAWAS CITY PARK JUNE 28

A huge trailer exhibition from Selfridge Field, Michigan will visit Tawas City on Friday, June 28, displaying such interesting features as playing such interesting features as the 2200 horse-power Pratt & Whitney aircraft engine which will run in actual demonstration with cut away parts to show the function of the engine. Bombs, guns, arctic escape equipment, many other articles that have heretofore remained a secret with the Army Air Forces. The main attraction of the exhibition will be two way radio communication with Aircraft flying in the vicinity from Selfridge Field.

This interesting exhibition will be on display for the public's inspection and all are invited to see it at the Tawas City Park.

Certificate of Honor Awarded Gypsum Workers

National Gypsum Co. employees were awarded the Joseph Holmes Certificate of Honor for outstanding accomplishment in the prevention of accidents in the quarry at National City. The certificate was presented by John A. Johnson, mining engineer, of Duluth to Luther Jones, safety director at the National City works.

Group Enjoy U. P. Fishing Trip

A tired, but happy, group of fishermen returned Wednesday from their fishing trip in the Upper Peninsula. The party included Rudy Geringich and A. Fredrickson of Tawas City; Emil Lewitzke of East Tawas and Newton Rosenberg of Saginaw.

They set up their camp at the mouth of the Taquemomon River on Whitefish Bay. The cook, Emil Lewitzke, who was elected by a three to one majority, was right on the job with a scrambled egg dinner before the camp was all set up. The boys were pleased with the way the "cook election" came out, as Emil proved a very capable chef with several messes of fish and all the good food of a camping and fishing trip. Another member, Al Fredrickson, in his yeaming for the great outdoors, acquired the outstanding sunburn of the crowd.

The boys brought back their limit in pike, averaging about two pounds each. The big thrill of the trip was when Rudy Geringich went trolling with his deep water, pickled trolling rig and finally landed a six inch rock bass. After an argument with the rest of the crew, he agreed to throw it back, only after having a picture taken with his fine catch. It was undecided whether to pack-up or spend a few more days "roughing" it. When it was time to break camp and start for home, all thoughts were on their successful trip and another trip next year.

Much of the success of the pleasing ceremonies Sunday were due to the efforts of Walter Kasischek, secretary and manager of the Tawas City Chamber of Commerce, Fred Brabant of the Board of Supervisors, and the ladies of the American Legion Auxiliary. The State Police and Sheriff's department handled the parade and huge crowd of people with very little inconvenience to through traffic on Lake street.

27 4-H Members Attend Loon Lake Camp

Enjoy Program of Club Work

Twenty seven 4-H members from Isosco County attended the 11th annual District 4-H club camp that was held this year at the Oakland County Y. M. C. A. camp on Loon Lake in Plainfield township. The camp which featured both class work and recreation was opened Sunday afternoon, June 9th and closed at noon, Wednesday, June 12th.

Group Enjoy U. P. Fishing Trip

Besides the campers from Isosco county a like number were in attendance from both Arenac and Ogemaw counties. An educational staff consisting of State 4-H leaders, Miss Ada Hough and P. G. Lunden from Michigan State College, and Forest Ranger, John Franson of East Tawas conducted daily classes in conservation, wood identification, gardening, food preparation, food judging, canning judging and clothing judging. The recreational periods included contests, games, swimming, and soft ball. Evening programs emphasized educational talks, motion pictures, singing, contests, and stunts by the campers, and the traditional 4H candle lighting ceremony.

Mary Etta Bills, Hale, was the Isosco county winner in the clothing judging contest; Eleanor Short, Hale, was winner in the canning judging contest; while Bud Rick of Oscoda collected high score among the Isosco county boys in the wood identification contest.

Frank Garner, Rev Milligan and Raymond Rose were Isosco county local leaders who assisted in making this 4H club event a real success.

The 4H Club's from Isosco represented 9 different clubs and include Bernard Blust and Billy Rapp from Vine; Leonard Robinson, Ross Williams and Robert Robinson from Taft; Noreen Fullerton, Bruce Caldwell, Bud Rick, Jananine May and Ruth LeCureux from Oscoda; Billy Allen and George Strauer from Ivor; Lottie Yost, Eleanor Short, Shirley Romaine, Virginia Hilder, and Mary Etta Bills from Hale; Donald Hester, Shirley McKenzie, Donald Leitz, Janet Wagner, Shirley Zupun and Tommy Dillon from East Tawas; Loren Sherman from Cottage; Bobby Ulman from Anschuetz; Wilda St. James and Melba Sheffer from Burleigh.

What Quality Hay Means to You

Hay is the backbone of most livestock rations during northern winters, and is directly responsible for the health and productiveness of animals to which it is fed, according to an article rating hay quality in the June issue of Successful Farming magazine.

Leafy, green, "excellent" alfalfa hay, is made from hay crops that have been cut at a relatively early stage of growth. It has not been discolored by undue exposure to sun and dew, nor to rain, and has been raked into windrows while leaves and stems were still tough and clung together. Some hours after gently turning the windrows by a side-delivery rake, and with bottoms of windrows exposed to the sun, the hay has been baled or hauled into the barn in a condition where most of the stems have lost their toughness but the leaves were not shattered and lost.

This alfalfa is almost too rich to be eaten in large quantities by some stock. It makes a very good meal for ration mixtures for swine, poultry, and in calf meals. It is rich in carotene (provitamin A), and other vitamins. Legume hay of this sort permits feeding largely farm grain to make a balanced ration. Less than 10 percent of all the hay put up in this country is of this quality.

"Good" hay is the mainstay of dairy and livestock rations in large areas of the country, and amounts to perhaps one-fourth of all hay put up in sun and dew, the mechanical handling of the hay, after rain or dew has partly dried, or too-early cutting may keep it "stale" or "excellent." Either fed in a rack or ground into meal, this kind of hay makes satisfactory hog and poultry feed, and has enough carotene to help avoid vitamin deficiencies.

Even though they don't have the carotene content of alfalfa, clover, timothy hay of this sort have been stand-bys for generations of stockmen, especially in northern states. Clover easily loses its green color; timothy is never as green as alfalfa. "Fair" hay makes up the bulk of the tonnage of hay harvested and stored through the country. It has usually been cut weeks after its most

VANDBURG GOP CANDIDATE

WASHINGTON. — Erudite Senator Vandenberg of Michigan not only has been doing a good job on foreign relations, but he takes it—and himself—seriously. Perhaps one is necessary to the other. Talking to a friend the other day, the Michigan senator opined:

"Well, we're getting along pretty well now that we have a Republican foreign policy."

"What do you mean?"

"Well, analyze it for yourself," shot back the man who may be the next GOP nominee. "It all goes back to my now somewhat famous speech of January, 1945."

NOTE—Van claims he is getting bored with politics. "One question I can't answer to my wife's satisfaction," he says, "is why I'm running for re-election (as senator). I've threatened to divorce her if she asks me again." (The answer, of course, is that if Van doesn't run again for senator, he won't be in the trial heats for President.)

SENATE LABOR REBELLION

Deadliest backstage punches against President Truman's labor-draft program were scored by CIO Pres. Phil Murray in a secret meeting held by the senate education and labor committee.

Those present included Murray; Lew Hines, AFL legislative representative; Martin Miller, representing Al Whitney's railway trainmen; plus Senators Jim Murray of Montana (chairman), David I. Walsh of Massachusetts, Elbert Thomas of Utah, Claude Pepper of Florida, Lister Hill of Alabama, Joe Guffey of Pennsylvania and Wayne Morse of Oregon.

The CIO president got right down to cases.

"My organization has always followed President Truman's recommendations in labor disputes and the record proves it," Murray declared. "Look at the auto, steel and oil disputes. We went along with the fact-finding boards. In some cases we had to accept much below what we asked, but we did so patriotically."

"Can industry say as much?" Murray continued. "Look what happened during the auto strike. General Motors held out for months against the recommendations of Truman's fact-finding board, which labor was willing to accept. That was a case of management striking against the government, but did President Truman call for a joint session of congress to up-braid General Motors officials as he did recently against labor? He did not."

NO-STRIKE PLEDGE?

Then, with a scowl, the usually mild-mannered CIO boss acidly added:

"Did he offer legislation then to penalize and enslave all management as he did in this case against labor? Well, I don't remember reading anything about it."

Senator Hill inquired if labor would be willing to offer Truman a compromise on the strike issue, such as a six month no-strike pledge.

"That is impossible, as far as the CIO is concerned," replied Murray emphatically. "My organization is run on Democratic lines and such a pledge could never be enforced. When members of a CIO union are working under intolerable conditions, I couldn't dictate to them not to strike. Therefore, I would never agree to such a pledge."

RATIONING FERTILIZER

Agriculture department experts are worried over a new drive by Dixie democrats. They now want fertilizer rationed. Hitherto, potash fertilizer has been used mainly for food growing, but now the southern bloc wants it rationed so more can go for the cotton and tobacco crops.

Midwest farmers do not object to the idea of rationing of potash, provided rationing regulations recognize the supreme importance of food. The Civilian Production Administration, however, has always allocated scarce materials on the basis of a base period, and the southern representatives are insisting that any new rationing program be based upon 1944 consumption of fertilizer.

In 1944, five southern states used 44 per cent of the nation's fertilizer but produced only 10 per cent of the nation's food. In the same year, five midwest states produced 50 per cent of the nation's food but used only 6 per cent of the fertilizer.

CAPITAL CHAFF

The exit of young men continues. Josiah DuBois, one of Secretary Vinson's crack assistants, has resigned to practice law here and in Camden, N. J. . . . Secretary of the Interior Cap Krug ended a six-hour fishing trip in the Virgin Islands with a painful sunburn, then proceeded to sweat out 12 days of hotter negotiations with John L. Lewis. . . . At Fort Washington, Md., is a half-empty veterans' hospital which costs the taxpayers $211 a day per patient.

NO INDIANS . . . But here is where some 25,000 Indian clay pipes can be made every day. The factory is at Pamplin City, Va.

Indian Stone Pipes Are Big Industry in Virginia Town

By E. L. KIRKPATRICK
WNU Features

Pamplin City, Virginia, town of 300, has the world's largest plant making Indian stone clay pipes. The factory has a capacity of 25,000 "smokers" per day, using a kiln that will handle 200,000 at a single burning. It uses four regular employees and as many as 70 on a part-time basis.

Most prized product of the plant is patterned after the "Powhatan" Indian pipe. This is held to have been invented by Virginia Indians many generations ago, in the Virginia county whose name it bears. It had a long stem, gracefully curved at the upper end so that the smoker once seated in his easy chair could pull away knowing that "all the nicotine would be gone after the long journey through it and the smoke well cooled." Clay for the pipe was soft and soapy — somewhat like meerschaum—believed to have been found in some cave where water had deposited an unusual sediment without grit.

Clay in the Pamplin City area meets requirements for the original "Powhatan" as well as other pipes including "Ole Virginny," "Powwow" and "Wigwam." It has served this purpose adequately for more than 200 years, according to authentic records, having "gone through" the present plant for almost 50 years.

Pamplin City has a sense of security so long as the buying trend is toward Indian stone and clay pipes. In addition to this unique factory which draws many workers from nearby farms and villages, it has 20 business establishments and a lumber mill. Tourists and visitors from everywhere frequent it for pipes for personal use, gifts or souvenirs since every American smoker appreciates a genuine Indian pipe.

CATHEDRAL ROOM . . . Lewis and Clark cavern in Montana, third greatest in the United States, is open this year to tourists on a large scale for the first time. It was discovered early in this century by a prospector, Dan Morrison, who saw an eagle fly into "a hole in the hill."

Arkansas Grows Some Whoppers

LITTLE ROCK, ARK. — California and Florida people who boast about productivity will now hear from Arkansas. Recent newspaper clippings call attention to these Arkansas "whoppers":

A stalk of cotton with 85 bolls; a 91 pound pumpkin; a 5 1/2 pound sweet potato; a 19 ounce apple measuring 14 inches in circumference, and two bass weighing more than 5 pounds caught at the same time on one hook.

He's Caught Up

MOBILE, ALA. —Born in 1943, Ronald Regan was only 11 inches long and weighed 2 pounds and 11 ounces. Battling for two and a half years, he has caught up with normal growth and weighs over 25 pounds.

Why Allegheny Never Became Great City

ALLEGHANY, N. Y. — Allegheny (1940 pop., 1,436) was planned as Allegheny City, "the intellectual, cultural, industrial and mercantile hub of the East." But through freak accidents its dream was never realized.

The proposed city had been completed and surveyed on paper and the company started to build a palatial hotel (the Park hotel recently dismantled) according to plans. Work was interrupted on the Erie

Prefab Houses Built in 1850

HAMILTON, MO. — Prefabricated houses are nearly 100 years old in Missouri, for this town of 1,600 population built them back in the 1850s.

There were no carpenters in Hamilton, so A. G. Davis sent plans for a two-story house to a St. Louis firm. He received the lumber, windows and doors with holes already bored for wooden pegs — since there were no nails available. Complete instructions for assembling the house were furnished. A few years later, Otis Richardson did likewise.

The Richardson house is still in good shape. It has been remodeled and is in use.

Half of Topsoil Has Washed Away

BECKLEY, W. VA. —More than 50 per cent of the original top soil on West Virginia land has been washed away, according to Walter C. Grumbel, a soil conservationist.

"Where soil conservation methods have been practiced," Gumbel said, "crop yields have increased anywhere from 10 to 25 per cent." He said an intelligent conservation program would protect and stabilize the land and water supply, restore plant food, increase farm income, prevent floods and restore forests and wild life.

Man Really Builds 'Better Mouse Trap'

BAMBERG, S. C. — S. D. Bishop has finally built that "better" mousetrap and may have a path beaten to his door. But it was entirely accidental.

What Bishop was really making was a fish trap. He left it overnight at the feed store where he is employed, baited and ready for a try-out.

Next morning he found five rats he caught 19 more.

Ex-GI Gives Anti-Snorer To the Army

BEAVERTON, ORE. — T. M. Weed, local lawyer, who used to be a G.I. and knows what snoring sounds like in a barracks, has submitted his "no-snore kit" to the U. S. quartermaster corps.

He claims snoring can be stopped or greatly reduced by a specially constructed device designed to prevent the fluttering action of the soft palate and uvula that causes the coarse, low-pitched irritating noise made by a sleeping person.

Weed admits that it was the complaints of his barracks mates in 1942 and 1943 that spurred him to devise an anti-snore device. He used it for the other two years he was in the army—and made friends!

More Crop Dusting

Peanuts may be dusted from airplanes in the near future. Tests carried on at the Omega plant farms at Omega, Ga., first of the kind in that section, proved that plant dusting from the air not only costs about one-half as much as dusting or spraying from tractors but is much more efficient, since a single plane can dust 1,000 acres per day.

Organization Plans 1,000 Movie Circuits for Farmers

By WALTER A. SHEAD
WNU Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Under sponsorship of the Foundation for American Agriculture, from which it received a substantial grant of money, the Farm Film Foundation has been incorporated here under the presidency of Walter D. Fuller, president of the Curtis Publishing company.

The newly organized film foundation has a major objective of creating a minimum of 1,000 16-mm. sound moving picture circuits throughout rural America; maintenance of a national film library from which any responsible group can secure desirable pictures, and the setting up of an advisory committee on farm film production which will be available to any acceptable organization desiring to produce and circulate pictures through the foundation facilities.

The creation of this film foundation was among the announced objectives of the Foundation for American Agriculture upon its organization several months ago. Other officers of the film foundation include Paul Armstrong, general manager, California Fruit Growers Exchange; Herbert Voorhees, director American Farm Bureau federation; Ken Geyer, executive committee, National Co-operative Milk Producers association, Hartford, Conn.; E. A. Eckert, chairman, executive committee, National Grange, Monmouth, Ill., vice president; J. Cameron Thomson, president, Northwest Bancorporation, Minneapolis, treasurer; and Earl W. Benjamin, eastern director, Washington Co-operative Farm association, Seattle.

Leaders of major farm groups and key industrial figures are named to a board of trustees and a national advisory board composed of presidents of State Farm bureaus, Masters of Granges and managers and officers of Co-operatives.

SERGEANT RETIRES . . . Sgt. Martin (Marty) Maher, who is as much a part of West Point tradition as Generals Grant, Pershing and Eisenhower, retired May 23. Now 70 years old, Maher went to West Point 50 years ago as a civilian waiter, but soon enlisted in the army. Assigned to the gym, he won fame as a swimming instructor—although he never could swim a stroke! He retired from the army in 1928, but was immediately hired as a civil service employe.

Lose Pep? Try Comfort Zone

It May Not Be the Weather; Agriculture Department Tells All About It.

WASHINGTON.—If you feel below par some day this summer, it may be neither the heat nor the humidity. Your "comfort zone" may be your problem.

The department of agriculture in its authoritative book, "Climate and Man," gives this explanation as to why weather conditions which may be a headache to John Smith, may fill Joe Jones with the joy of living.

One's comfort zone is an atmospheric condition—that is, the combination of temperature, humidity, wind or sunshine under which a given man is comfortable.

Differences in comfort zones arise from various causes: heredity, diet, clothing habits, sex and age, race and other factors.

Difficult Problem.
That is why, says the department of agriculture, "air-conditioning engineers have found it impracticable or impossible to design installations that will make more than 50 to 65 per cent of an average group of workers, shoppers or moviegoers comfortable at any given season."

Scientists have worked out "comfort zones" for the people of the United States, summer and winter, outdoors and indoors.
They find that 98 per cent of persons can be comfortable at 76 degrees and only 6 per cent at 84, given a 50 per cent relative humidity.

The department maintains it is the "monotony" of the weather in the tropics that "is far more intrinsically disadvantageous to the maintenance of good health than its warmth and humidity."

Might Be Solution.
Variability in weather, such as prevails in many sections of the United States, is stimulating to the human body's "tone," says the department.

In the tropics, it says, it's a good idea to take a little exercise to keep the body pepped up. Noting that some tropic dwellers tend to turn to alcohol to give their bodies the stimulation the climate fails to provide the book says:

"A daily set of tennis or some other vigorous exercise in place of the extra highballs would be the best solution."

The ability of some persons to sweat more freely than others is an aid to them when exposed to excessive heat.

The army and navy conducted special tests to select free-sweating men for assignment to tropic areas.
Other factors, of course, play a part in adjusting to heat. One of these is the ability of the body to maintain proper balance between heat production and heat loss.

Postwar 'Miracle' Will

Soon Become a Reality

SAN FRANCISCO.—One of those promised postwar miracles — telephone conversation between automobiles and regular subscribers — will become a reality in San Francisco within the next two months.

Lyle M. Brown, Pacific Telephone and Telephone company division manager, has disclosed workmen are erecting a transmitting antenna atop the telephone building for the new service.

Initial auto telephone service will be conducted on an experimental basis, beginning in June.

Eventually the company plans to install facilities which will permit truck drivers to talk to their home offices, passengers to converse from car to car or to regular subscribers and drivers to place calls with vessels in mid-ocean.

Army Used 425 Million Pounds of Soap Yearly

WASHINGTON, D. C.—This is for the KP's and barracks orderlies who may have wondered how much G.I. soap they used in the army.

Four hundred twenty-five million pounds, the quartermaster corps announced recently, was the peak yearly consumption of the yellow bars known to all soldiers as G.I. soap.

The army also used 175 million pounds a year of other soap during the war.

Chinese Seize 3 Britons For Jap Propaganda Quiz

SHANGHAI.—Chinese authorities announced that upon request of the British they had arrested three Englishmen suspected of collaborating with the Japanese by broadcasting propaganda. They were identified as Frank Johnston, also known as Pat Kelly, and Robert Lamb and J. Gracie.

Secret Chinese Police Are Accused in Slaying

NANKING, CHINA.—A Communist spokesman, Wang Ping-nan, charged that secret police killed Li Fu-ren, editor of a liberal newspaper at Sian and prominent member of the Democratic league on May 2.

Wang asserted the killing was connected with Li's publication of details of the death of another liberal newspaper man at Hantung, in Kiangsu province.

NEWS OF FLIERS AND FLYING

AIRPORT CHATTER

Jimmy Hays, one of Oklahoma's veteran pilots, and Walt Chambers taught army boys how to fly in 1943. Hays recently visited the Alva, Okla., airport. . . . Edgar Bergen has opened an airport at Montebello, Calif., and hopes to make it popular with radio and movie stars. . . . The Oceana, Mich., supervisors have approved a fund of $4,000 toward the purchase of an airport site. . . . Sites are being considered for an airport at Delphi, Ind. . . . The Independent, Elkhorn, Wis., recently published the story of a pilot who flew up from Harvard, Ill., to do some shopping. . . . The G.I. Airlines, with headquarters in Milwaukee, is making arrangements with cities to pick up and deliver mail on the wing; that is, without landing. . . . Under A. Rountree Jr., state director of aeronautics, Alabama has worked out a program for veterans taking flight training under the G.I. bill of rights.

CAA NOTES

Approximately $100,000 has been added to the bill sponsored by the CAA for an air marking program. . . . Again: July 1 is the deadline for annual inspection of aircraft. . . . CAA's first consolidated "Airman's Guide," a publication for certified airmen actively engaged in flying, is off the presses for distribution. . . . A new edition of "Statistical Handbook of Civil Aviation" has been published by CAA and is on sale at the superintendent of documents, government printing office, Washington, D. C., for 25 cents.

QUOTE OF THE WEEK

"Ontario airport enthusiasts who have worked for 15 years to attain the development of a modern airport that could be used for industrial purposes are coming to realize their plans."—Eastern Oregon Observer, Ontario, Ore.

AVIATION OFFICIALS MEET

A meeting of the National Association of State Aviation officials was held recently in Washington, D. C., to study effects of the passage of the federal airport bill and other matters. Those present at the meeting included William L. Anderson, president, Pennsylvania; Leo G. Devaney, vice president, Oregon; Edward F. Knapp, secretary-treasurer, Vermont; Clarence E. Cornish, Indiana; David Ciltinan, West Virginia; Dexter C. Martin, South Carolina; A. W. Meadows, Texas; Philip E. Tukey, Maine; Russell Hilliard, New Hampshire; Floyd E. Evans, Michigan; E. A. Nasset, North Dakota; C. E. A. Brown, Ohio; Crocker Snow, Massachusetts; E. R. Fenimore, Maryland; L. L. Schroeder, Minnesota; Charles L. Payton, New Jersey; A. W. Hays, Oklahoma; William B. Catchings, New Mexico.

FLYING MISSIONARIES

A thorough aeronautics training program for prospective foreign missionaries is the latest innovation of Moody Bible institute, Chicago. Two light training planes will be used in the course, which will include such standard studies as theory of flight, meteorology, navigation and aircraft maintenance. There will also be instruction in civil regulations in foreign countries, local weather conditions in individual mission fields, and maintenance problems in various climates.

Train Tennessee Vets.

The Milan, Tenn., flying service has been approved by the veterans' administration to accept applications for flight training under the G.I. bill of rights. Courses offered to veterans include private flying course, commercial pilot course and single-engine rating course.

Maj. Arthur Wermuth, the "one-man army, has visited many of the larger towns recently as field director for the Flying Tigers air circus.

FISHING BY RADIO

Sonar, the sound-detecting device developed in the war, is being used by fishermen to locate fish. We will now hear of "the big one that faded away."

Sardine fishermen are already using the device and hope to increase their catches greatly. Any instrument that can locate sardines should be terrific when after swordfish.

Different fish make different sounds. These will be tabulated so fishermen may know which fish is broadcasting.

We can imagine the fishing trip of tomorrow:

A couple of fellows, Joe and Gus, climb into the leaky rowboat equipped with a sonar set and pull for the fishing grounds. They heave the anchor and tune in for prospects.

"Hear anything?" asks Joe. "Yes, there are fish all around, but they are not coming through clearly," says Gus.

"Sounds like a school of blowfish," says Gus a minute later as he hears a terrific disturbance.

"Now," puts in Joe as he too tunes in. "It's just another one of those radio breakfast table chats." "No matter where you go you can't get away from those programs," sighs Gus.

Now Joe registers excitement and fidgets with the dials. "Oofoe . . . glub-glub . . . arf . . . bozzle-wozzle . . . irk!" comes a sound from the deep.

"Codfish?" asks Gus. "Nope. Just a congressional debate. I can't seem to tune out those land programs and get into deep water."

"Stick to congress and you'll be in deep water enough," moans Gus.

"Wurf-f-f-f . . . gozz-goss . . . bwilch-h-h . . . gazzink-kkk. Brrr," comes over the sonar set.

"Seabass!" says Gus. "How can you tell?" asks Joe.

"I've got a code book." Presently some very loud noises seem to indicate a school of big fish broadcasting. But all they catch is a small eel.

"How do you explain a thing like that?" asks Joe. "Something wrong with my batteries," says Gus.

And so on. Until at the close of day they get something fairly big. As they haul it into the boat the fish gives vent to a most annoying series of grunts and groans. "I knew it," exclaims Gus. "It's a commercial!"

An "Eat More Potatoes" drive is on with special attention to public eating places. Well, a first step could be a little effort to solve the mystery of why so many eating places seem never to have heard that there is any other way to cook a potato except as french fries. Try to get a baked or boiled one, without infuence.

Plain Talk on Idiots

No matter what you may think of his stand on other matters, Harry Truman is right about automobile drivers. The only thing that puzzles us is his candor and toughness on this point.

It must be that he thinks all the crazy auto operators are Republican anyhow.

The President says that we are not only permitting nuts, morons and crazy people to drive automobiles on the streets of America, but making it easy for them. That's an understatement.

THE UNION AT THE BAT

'Twas a balmy day in summer With a double-header planned— But to one game they had cut it On the union's late demand; Early had the ball fans gathered, But the game was slow to start Due to technical proceedings On an organizer's part.

Now the battle seemed impending— Fans sat ready to enthuse Till a further stay resulted From some unpaid union dues; Then a checkoff was demanded, And the bleachers took it hard When three pitchers were excluded As they had no union card!

CAN YOU REMEMBER—

Away back when, whatever might happen at breakfast, it would never wind up as a radio broadcast?

America is now to get bread made from potatoes. We await the fellow who will ask for a roll french fried.

We understand that Chester Bowles hopes that whatever the critics say of his new book they will not say "there is meat in it."

INCREASED WAGE COSTS PAID BY BUYER AND STOCKHOLDER
THERE ARE MANY items of increased costs involved in the building of that new automobile you want, and will buy when you can get delivery. All of these cost increases have been created by the wage increases awarded workers during the past few months. They start with the production of the materials out of which the car is built and the transportation of the materials to the factory and of the completed car. Those costs include the mining of the iron ore and the coal necessary to the production of steel. They include the manufacture of the steel and its transportation to the plants in which car parts are produced. They include next the manufacture of those parts and their transportation to the assembly lines. It now costs more to put the car together and to ship it to the sales point and it costs more to sell it than it formerly did.

There are at least 10 additional costs involved in the building of that car. Some one must pay those costs, at least all that cannot be offset by improved technocracy and the genius of management. That some one must be either you, as the purchaser, or the millions of stockholders in the industries and the transportation involved in car production. Both will probably pay a part.

I have no way of knowing, or figuring, the number of man hours involved in producing either the iron ore, the coal, the steel, the construction of parts, the assembling of those parts or the transportation, but for every man hour involved in each of them, there is an additional cost tacked onto that car you are waiting for. It all demonstrates how closely the price of a commodity is connected with wages. It is the buying public who, in the end, pay the wages.

What is true of automobiles is equally true of all other commodities. It is true of houses, of food, of clothing, of home furnishings, of everything we buy of which man hours is essential to production. The costs have not been merely added to, they have been multiplied. It means that our dollars are buying less, have decreased in purchasing values. It is all another long step on the road to a run-away inflation.

If we can get a sufficient quantity of production to meet the buying demand created by an over abundance of currency and credit, our free enterprise competitive system will absorb much of the shock and establish values on a new, and higher basis. Our two grave dangers is lack of adequate production and too much currency in circulation. We are trying to lift ourselves by our own boot straps. It seems impossible, but let us hope we can do it.

SMALL INVESTORS ARE 'FORGOTTEN MEN' NOW

THE PEOPLE who have been forgotten, and almost forsaken, by the federal government are those who have financed American industry. Very largely they are "little people." They are those who, through the practice of thrift and frugality, accumulated something to see them through their declining years. There are millions of such men and women and especially women. Their numbers are several times the total of those represented by organized labor. Their savings represent some 50 per cent of the money invested in the plants of industry, transportation and other utilities and distribution. It is to these stock and bond holders, these thrifty, frugal Americans, that OPA would pass the job of paying wage increases. To do so would wipe out the investments from which come their old-age income that organized workers might have more. They, too, have votes, but they are unorganized, and do not put up six million dollars with which to browbeat those who make our laws.

THE MAN, POSSIBLY of 60 years, occupied one end of a park bench. "I will vote for the party that offers the most liberal platform," he said. "What would you define as liberal?" I asked. "The party that would be most generous in providing for those who have not been lucky enough to accumulate for themselves," he replied. "I take it you are for the party that would be most generous in distributing the other fellow's money." That ended the discussion. He left.

AS THE WOMAN is something more than a housekeeper, a maid of all work, for man; so is a man something more than a meal ticket for woman. Between them there is that affection that is the foundation on which is built that blessed place called home. It is the home and family on which our civilization is founded. The divorce courts can wreck that civilization. Possibly we need some domestic "conciliators."

YOUNG PATTON RECEIVES COMMISSION FROM MOTHER . . . At graduation exercises in the U. S. military academy, Mrs. George S. Patton, widow of famed U. S. 3rd army commander, presented a regular army commission to her son, George S. Patton Jr. Young Patton was one of 21 sons of generals graduated in largest class in history of the academy. Others included the sons of Lt. Gen. James H. Doolittle and Lt. Gen. Wedermeyer.

NEW BRITISH ENVOY VISITS BYRNES . . . Lord Inverchapel, left, new British ambassador of the United States, photographed with Secretary of State James F. Byrnes, center, when he made his first official call at the department of state. John Falfour, right, British minister, accompanied the new envoy, who relieved the Earl of Halifax, now enjoying a rest after the hectic war years.

BANANAS FOR AMERICAN TABLES . . . Choco Indian boy with silver bracelets, silver and bead necklace and painted face. The two paints used, black and red, come from the berries of native trees. The dugouts are carved from mahogany. The Choco Indians of Panama are believed to be the Western Hemisphere's wildest living tribe. Each dugout will hold half a ton of bananas.

IN FATHER'S FOOTSTEPS . . . A staff sergeant with his own "private army" takes a stroll through Plymouth. He is Frank Cooper, Hansom Lane, Halifax, who is trailed by Allan, 7; twins, Ronald and Derek, 6; and Malcolm, 4, all born in New Delhi, while carrying the only girl in the family, six-months-old Frances. Clothes are the least of their worry, using battle suits for all except the baby.

AUSTIN TO UNO . . . Sen. Warren R. Austin, 68, Vermont republican, who has been named by President Truman as U. S. representative of the United Nation security council to succeed Edward R. Stettinius Jr.

BABE IN MEXICO . . . Babe Ruth, Sultan of swat, is shown here zooming one across during an exhibition game between Vera Cruz and Mexico City. An overflow of Mexican fans turned out to see Babe. Reports are that he will join organized baseball in Mexico as the "Judge Landis" of baseball in the southern republic.

SOVIET AMBASSADOR . . . The need for maintaining close relations between the United States and Russia was stressed by Nikolai Novokov, when he presented his papers to President Truman as Soviet ambassador.

UNITED STATES MACE . . . Kenneth Romney, sergeant-at-arms of the house of representatives, is shown holding the U. S. Mace. It is 46-inches high, and consists of 13 ebony rods, representing the 13 original states.

KERRY KELLY, 3½-year-old daughter of the dancing Gene, recently saw her first movie, a special 20 minute reel of all her daddy's dances from "Anchors Aweigh" — and wanted to know why she couldn't have danced with her father instead of little Sharon McManus, who did the Mexican dance with him. Incidentally, since he got out of the navy in April Kelly has been dancing five hours a day, limbering up his feet for more dancing, and then working out for two or three ours in a gymnasium, to tighten up his muscles. He starts work immediately on "The Pirate," with Judy Garland, at MGM, which means that he'll be in training till it's finished.

Johnny Desmond, NBC singing star, is a little worried about his first movie, slated to begin production this summer. "In Hollywood they usually turn dancers into dramatic actors and singers into comedians," says he. "I'll probably wind up in a Western, co-starring with Trigger." Johnny has a new pastime; when the records of his radio show, the Tuesday night "Follies," are played back he sings tenor to his own baritone; it's his ambition to work up a quartet that way, singing all the parts himself.

Audrey Totter's sister June turned her back on Hollywood and went home to Juliet, Ill. "She saw me getting up at 5:30 every morning to go to work in 'Lady in the Lake,'" explained Audrey, "and decided she'd rather sleep than act in films."

Billy Riley, who fibbed about his age and saw two years of naval combat in the South Pacific, can't escape the school teacher on the "Lady in the Lake" set. Still under 18, he must obey the California law and do his lessons. He complained to Director Robert Montgomery about it. "I sure had to look after myself on the beachheads," said Riley.

"The Adventures of the Thin Man" is being substituted for the "Fanny Brice Show" over CBS Sunday nights starting August 11, marking the beginning of the sixth year this show has been on the air. There have been three "Nick Charles," Les Damon, David Gothard and Les Tremayne; Les Damon and Claudia Morgan, the original "Nick" and "Nora," now on the program, will continue.

Frank Sinatra hopes to do some flying this summer with his friend, pianist Skitch Henderson. Sinatra's been trying to interest Alex Stordahl in flying, but the maestro says when he waves a stick he wants music, not an airplane, to start rolling.

Radio announcers never get over the fear that they may "bobble" a line. Bob Williams, the young blond announcer of "Meet Me at Parky's," is still haunted by his worst break. In the midst of a powerful drama, which boasted top Hollywood stars performing for a charitable cause, Bob set the scene for the tense climax thus—"And now the sheen slips to the home of Mr. Gregory." ! ! !

Emerging from a recent "Inner Sanctum" broadcast, "Host" Paul McGrath was accosted by an irate woman who said she'd long been a fan of the program—"And for weeks I've been writing to Hi Brown, the producer, and even to the sponsor, begging them to do something about that horrible door." To which McGrath replied with dignity, "Madame, our door squeaks for itself!"

ODDS AND ENDS—The perfect retort, at rehearsal for the George Burns-Gracie Allen broadcast; Gracie to heckler Bill Goodwin—"Oh, go roll your Hooper!" . . . Chili Wills, the Texas Swede who has portrayed on the screen members of nearly every nationality but his own, finally plays a Swede in "High Barbaree," as a pal of Van Johnson. . . . Electricity works for peanuts!

AND if you aren't up on today's expressive slang, peanuts means a very small amount of money. Like your electric bill. It really is peanuts, isn't it—compared to most other items in your family budget?

While the cost of most things climbed through the years—the price of electric service kept right on going down. Even in wartime, when practically all prices popped up, electricity actually became a few peanuts cheaper.

As a matter of fact, the average American family gets twice as much electricity for its money today as it did 20 years ago!

All of this goes to prove an important point. Sound business management—and experienced employees—together have given the American people dependable, low-priced electric service—the best and the most in the world! You'll enjoy that service even more in the electric years ahead.

NOTICE OF SALE

$28,000.00

City of Tawas City, Michigan
General Obligation, Water and Sewer Extension Bonds.

Sealed bids for the purchase of General Obligation bonds of the City of Tawas City, Michigan, of the face amount of $28,000.00 will be received by the undersigned at his office in the City of Tawas City, Michigan, until Monday, July 8th, 1946 at seven o'clock P. M., Eastern Standard Time, at which time and place they will be opened and considered by the Common Council of the City of Tawas City.

The bonds shall be dated April 1, 1945, and shall mature serially without option of prior payment $1,000.00 on April 1st each year 1948 to 1975, both inclusive; shall be coupon bonds of the denomination of $1,000.00 each, and shall bear interest at a rate, or rates, not exceeding three per centum per annum, expressed in multiples of 1/4 of 1 per cent, and said interest shall be payable on October 1st, 1946 and semi-annually thereafter on April 1st and October 1st. Both principal and interest shall be payable at the Office of the City Treasurer.

The bonds shall be awarded to the bidder whose bid produces the lowest interest cost to the City of Tawas City after deducting the premium offered, if any. In determining the net interest cost, interest on premium will not be considered as deductible and interest on bonds will be computed from April 1st, 1946 to the respective maturity dates.

No proposal for loss other than all of bonds will be considered.

The City of Tawas City is authorized and required by law to levy upon all the taxable property therein, such as valorem taxes as may be necessary to pay the bonds and interest thereon, without limitation as to rate or amount.

Envelope containing the bids should be plainly marked "Proposal for Bonds."

A certified check in the amount of 5 per cent of the total par value of the bonds drawn upon an incorporated bank or trust company and payable to the order of the treasurer of the City of Tawas City must accompany each bid as a guarantee of good faith on the part of the bidder. No interest shall be allowed on the good faith checks.

Bids shall be conditioned upon the unqualified opinion of Miller, Canfield, Paddock and Stone, Attorney's Detroit, Michigan approving the legality of the bonds. The cost of such opinion shall be paid by the City. The City of Tawas City shall pay the cost of printing the bonds.

The rights reserved to reject any and all bids.

W. N. U. RELEASE

CHAPTER I

"Steady, Tex!" Jane Keller patted her horse as she drew rein at the crest of the hill trail.

She was young and slim and straight, and her old corduroys made her look like a boy.

"A mighty handsome boy," old MacDowell always said; "ain't any girl in these parts can touch her!"

She turned in her saddle now to watch the lights spring up in the distant ranch house, small and faint and flickering, like candles in a fog.

Dusk was down there in the valley, but up on the hill trail there was a yellow light behind the sycamores, and great flares of yellow and orange and red in the sunset sky.

Below her lay the private road to "Las Palomas," her brother's ranch; it crossed the hill trail and the bridge to meet the State highroad, five miles away. There was a big cliff at the bend. Jim Keller talked of blasting it, but he had never had the time nor the men to spare; it loomed there still in the midst of trees, a rugged sentinel.

Tex put down his head and began to crop grass; it was supper time but his mistress did not stir. She was thinking, thinking hard. Then, lifting her eyes to the darkening outline of the distant cliff, she saw a sudden glow of light and, the next instant, the headlights of a big high-power touring car emerged. The girl recognized it with a start of surprise; it was Jim's car, and Jim was not at the wheel. Urging her horse, she galloped down the trail to intercept the car before it reached the bridge. A nearer view showed her old MacDowell in it, and a stranger at the wheel. As she rode up they stopped the car.

"Mac," she panted, "where's Jim?"

"He's all right; don't you get scared, Jane," the old man reassured her, trying to get out of the car.

Jane stopped him. "You've hurt your arm—what's wrong, Mac?"

The headlights of the car illumined her as she leaned from the saddle to question him, but it left the man at the wheel in the shadow. Jane felt his eyes; they made her move uneasily and cast a quick glance at him.

"It's this way, Jane," the old foreman explained soberly. "Jim's stayed behind; he's got th' sheriff an' a party out. You see, we figured we'd got Jordan skewered, tight as a chicken for roasting, but somehow he broke loose—when we were gettin' water for th' car—you know that place near Simmons' well? We gave chase—both of us, an' I fell an' sprained my blamed old arm; if it hadn't been for this young man here—he came along an' helped me out an' motored me back. Jim was kinder afraid Jordan might hit it back here an' he sent me to warn th' men. Jim's all right, he's got th' whole bunch with him."

"Jordan couldn't get back here tonight on foot," Jane objected.

"He's got pals, might get a horse—or a lift in a car. Anyways, I'm here—an' say, you oughtn't to be up here alone," old Mac said, in his fatherly way. "You ride along beside th' car, if you won't get in, an' let this young man ride Tex home."

Jane laughed. "I'll make it; I'll beat you to it!"

"This young man wants work on a ranch," Mac added, putting his well hand on the stranger's shoulder; "this is Miss Jane Keller, the sister of the boss," he said to his companion, impressively.

Jane caught the outline of the man's head as he swung off his hat, but she spoke to Mac with her crisp little tone of authority.

"When you get to the ranch send him to me; I'll see what I can do for him until Jim comes. I'm going to take the short cut; Tex can beat any old car, Mac!"

"Jane—Miss Jane!" Mac wanted to stop her, to make her ride beside them, but she was off like a shot; they could just see the beautiful dark outline of her horse as he leaped the creek. "Ain't that like her, bless her!" old Mac laughed in his beard. "She ain't scared of a thing for herself—only for Jim! An' he'd be scared stiff if he thought she was out an' Jordan might be here!"

"Tell me about this Jordan; I can't just make it out. Cattle thief or what?" asked the young man at the wheel.

"It's this way—take that turn, there's Las Palomas up there—Jordan used to work here; he's a good cattleman but he drinks like blazes, a good many of 'em do, but he took to 'dope running, sellin' it here to the cowpunchers. Jim caught him at it an' there was a big row. Jordan, half drunk, tried to kill Jim. That settled it; he was fired. Then he took to cattle rustling an' he's got a gang of cut-throats along with him; maybe some of our fellers are in cahoots with th' gang to get dope; we don't know! He's cleared out some of our best cattle. Yesterday he got drunk an' came back to brag. Jim Keller was furious; he lassoed Jordan like a steer, we tied him up an' started. Jim was goin' to have him jailed sure, but he got away; you came along, as you know. Well, he'll try to get even—sure as shooting!" Old Mac stopped, with an expressive shrug.

"He's likely to kill Keller?"

MacDowell nodded. "Sure! Jane, too, if she stands in his way; he's just as vindictive as a rattler. Get me, young man?"

The younger man kept his eyes steadily on the unfamiliar road, but he uttered an exclamation of surprise. "You don't mean that the rascal would try to hurt that young girl?"

"If he thought he could get her an' hold her over Jim's head for ransom, he'd do it. Jane's in just as much danger as Jim, that's why I had to come back."

"By Jove, I wish I'd known that today—when he bolted past me—before you an' Keller came up!"

Old Mac chuckled. "Seen Jane Keller, eh? That's how all th' cowpunchers feel! Well, you know now, son, an' you've got an all-fired good chance to make good," he drawled. "To make good!"

The words struck the other man like a blow; his face burned in the darkness, his steel-gray eyes shone strangely, but he said nothing.

"There's the house, we're goin' to the men's quarters. That lit row of windows toward us—all lit up—belong to th' sickroom. One of Jim's friends was took down with pneumonia here an' they got a trained nurse an' kep' him; he's a heap better. Old Teresa says he's ledge was on a level with his eyes. There was no curtain, and he had a clear view of the low-ceiled room. A trained nurse stood at a table beside the bed, dropping some medicine slowly into a glass, and the lamplight was focused on her white uniform; but beyond her, in the shadowed four-poster, lay the invalid. He had raised himself on his elbow and was talking to her, a slight flush deepening the color of his handsome face. The man at the window caught the sharp clean outline of his profile, the fevered brilliance of his dark eyes, the hollows in his cheeks. There was a look of mental conflict, of unrest.

"It's bitten in," the outsider thought, with a kind of bitter satisfaction; "after all, it's bitten in!"

Then something, the daredevil in him, made him lean forward and speak slowly, distinctly, loudly, one word:

"Sherwin!"

Stenhart heard it. He sprang up in bed with a cry, his hands shaking at his throat, his eyes staring at the darkness of the window. His tormentor, seeing it, laughed grimly, but he saw the nurse turn and come toward him. She must not find him there! Softly, swiftly, he dropped back into the night and made his way to the front door.

"MacDowell has just phoned from the garage how kind you were when he sprained his arm, and I want to thank you. We, my brother and I, both think a lot of old Mac!"

The girl had risen from her seat at Jim's old desk as she spoke, and she faced him. He saw the fine curve of her chin and throat, and the black-lashed blue eyes. She was an upstanding girl; she could run the ranch alone in Jim's absence. The men all looked up to her, held her in high esteem.

The newcomer did not speak and she went on quickly: "Mac says you'd like something to do about the ranch and we need men, anyway. 'What—' she smiled frankly—"please tell me what you can do best?"

The man reddened. Of course he had to expect something like this, but he was not one to whom falsehood came easily, and to lie to a fine, frank girl like this! But, after all, it wasn't altogether a lie!

"My last job was bookkeeping," he said, and then, as he saw the swift change in her expression, he added: "Not just the thing for a ranch, I'm afraid, but if I can turn my hand to something out-of-doors, I'd like it."

"You're from the East?" her blue eyes considered him gravely, impersonally, and then she smiled. "I'm not sure but that you're a gotsend! I've been trying to straighten up Jim's accounts and it's perfectly hopeless, he's so splashy with ink and so bad at figures! I'd be glad if you'd try your hand at these tomorrow." As she spoke she swept a bunch of dog-eared old books with her fingers.

He came nearer and began to turn them over, snatching at this strange opportunity to get into the house, the house where Stenhart was! He ran his index finger along under the name—written in Jim Keller's big sprawling handwriting.

"El Rancho de las Palomas—you cling to the Spanish down here, eh?"

She laughed. "Las Palomas" sounds so much better than just plain English. Besides, there used to be many doves here—there are still. Can you untangle those figures, do you think?"

"Surely I can—they're quite simple."

"Simple? I was all snarled up!" she laughed softly again. "Then you'll do this until Jim comes? I—" she hesitated, blushing unaccountably; "I can't make any terms—of course you understand that? My brother's the boss, but if you can wait—"

"Oh, that's all right, you'll be feeding and lodging me, you see!" For the first time, he laughed and got a devil!" Mac added, laughing. "Kind of fine feller, name of Stenhart—Max Stenhart."

Mac heard a smothered exclamation at his side and sensed the sudden swerving of the big car.

"Strike a stone? Here, shut her off, there's one of th' men—Sandy!" MacDowell roared as the car stopped, "you come an' take th' mail in—where's Pete Rooney? He can run this car to th' garage. Here, you," he put his hand on his new driver's shoulder, "you go right up to th' house, front door there, an' see what Jane says about your stayin'—then you come to th' quarters for eats, see?"

The young man nodded, helping the old foreman to climb down; then he heard MacDowell telling them about Jordan's escape.

"Get your guns handy, boys," he sang out. "You know that snake; he'll be after the yearlings again—he may get here any time!"

The newcomer did not listen to the rest of it; he turned away into the darkness and made a feint of going directly to the house. Half way he stood still; the lights from the windows flowed across the short turf in long pools of radiance, reaching nearly to his feet. He caught the sound of dishes in the kitchen, and an open door gave him a glimpse of the Chinese cook busy at his task. In the distance somewhere a man was singing lustily in Spanish; far off he heard the scarcely distinguishable sounds of cattle in the corrals. He moved swiftly under the lighted windows, trying to count them, then, suddenly, he heard Stenhart's voice! After all these years he knew it instantly, and his hands clenched at his sides until the nails bit deep into the flesh. Something tightened in his throat, he could scarcely breathe. Then came a feeling of savage triumph; he had won out, he was here and Stenhart was here!

Slowly and cautiously, he took a step nearer; he was in the deep shadow of the house and the window his face lighted up. "Money isn't the only thing I came West for!"

The girl gave him a quick, questioning glance, but his face was in the shadow and she made nothing of it.

"Oh, I know—adventure!" she said, watching him.

He nodded grimly. "The great adventure!" he said, in an odd tone.

got a devil!" Mac added, laughing. "Kind of fine feller, name of Stenhart—Max Stenhart."

Mac heard a smothered exclamation at his side and sensed the sudden swerving of the big car.

"Strike a stone? Here, shut her off, there's one of th' men—Sandy!" MacDowell roared as the car stopped, "you come an' take th' mail in—where's Pete Rooney? He can run this car to th' garage. Here, you," he put his hand on his new driver's shoulder, "you go right up to th' house, front door there, an' see what Jane says about your stayin'—then you come to th' quarters for eats, see?"

The young man nodded, helping the old foreman to climb down; then he heard MacDowell telling them about Jordan's escape.

"Get your guns handy, boys," he sang out. "You know that snake; he'll be after the yearlings again—he may get here any time!"

The newcomer did not listen to the rest of it; he turned away into the darkness and made a feint of going directly to the house. Half way he stood still; the lights from the windows flowed across the short turf in long pools of radiance, reaching nearly to his feet. He caught the sound of dishes in the kitchen, and an open door gave him a glimpse of the Chinese cook busy at his task. In the distance somewhere a man was singing lustily in Spanish; far off he heard the scarcely distinguishable sounds of cattle in the corrals. He moved swiftly under the lighted windows, trying to count them, then, suddenly, he heard Stenhart's voice! After all these years he knew it instantly, and his hands clenched at his sides until the nails bit deep into the flesh. Something tightened in his throat, he could scarcely breathe. Then came a feeling of savage triumph; he had won out, he was here and Stenhart was here!

Women's World Old Cotton Bathrobes Easily Made into Pajamas for Kiddies

By Ertta Haley

Classic Sportswear

SINCE inexpensive cotton prints are still scarce, you are probably looking around for ways and means to convert what cottons you have into wearable clothing. There's nothing that takes up quite so much material and remains in service so short a time as pajamas for the young fry of the family.

One of the common sights around most households I know are those wornout cotton robes which you may just now be taking out with your summer clothing.

If the print on the fabric has worn or faded to such an extent as to make it look even more worn than usual, it would even be worth dyeing into a solid color. Follow your directions on the package of dye to get the best results.

After the robe has been cleaned or dyed, and pressed flat, fit the pajama pattern to it. You may have to do some smart fitting to make it come out, but there is bound to be enough material for the project.

Pajamas may be one-piece or two-piece, depending upon the preference. The one-piece type with the slip-on top will save a lot of work because there need be no buttonholes. There are no fitting problems in making pajamas because the only requirement is that they be loose and comfortable enough for sleeping. If you are making pajamas for a tot, be sure to choose one with a drop seat.

Use Time-Saving Routine in Sewing.

Pajamas are very easy to make, especially if you use the following method in cutting and sorting. As you cut, sort out those that require sewing and pin the pieces together. Then you need not go scrambling through the lot of them when you start sewing.

In making the pants, be sure to allow a generous cut. The legs should be comfortably wide without being to make sure the lengthwise thread of the sleeve is exactly in line with the top of the pajama, not with the forward shoulder line.

Baste on the seam allowance and then try on for fit. Move the arms about, up and down, in front, etc., to make sure there is no undue strain. Stitch on the basting thread when you are sure they fit. Or, stitch outside the basting if you need a little more room.

Buttonholes, if you make this type of pajama are easily made with the machine attachment. Select your buttons first and try out a buttonhole on a piece of material so that you can get it the right size, and adjust the stitching on the buttonhole maker according to the material. Use matching colored thread for the best appearance.

The sewing construction in the pajamas is very simple. Most edges can be finished with the pinking shears, and the seams are plain.

In sewing the legs together, the best type of seam to use is the flat fell because it is sturdy and lies flat. To make this, stitch first on the seam line from the right side. Trim away one edge to within one-eighth of an inch of the stitching. Turn the other edge flat over this, turn in the raw edge and stitch the seam from the right side.

The instructions given here apply to any type of sleeve, but particularly to the pajama sleeve, which must be fitted well to offer the greatest comfort. First place the sleeves in position, making sure the notches on the sleeve and the armhole come together at exactly the same point.

When you want to appear sophisticated, combine black with the following colors; red, kelly green, chartreuse or orange. When you want to be soft and feminine, use these colors with black; pink, yellow, turquoise and lavender.

Some people look their best in dark brown rather than black, especially teen-age girls. This brown is most flattering when combined with the following colors: pale blue, turquoise, pink, chartreuse, yellow orange and green.

There are loads of colors that look well with dark green, that give pleasing variations to the wardrobe. Try some of these: yellow, luggage tan, orange, chartreuse, pink or pale green.

The texture of the fabric is very important in the color you choose. Red crepe might be very attractive but the same shade in satin would be too harsh-looking. Select color and texture at the same time for best effect.

Adjust the fullness at the top by making small running stitches which can be pulled to make a gather for fitting the sleeve in the armhole. Adjust all the fullness between the notches. In other words, none of the gathering should fall anywhere except at the top of the sleeve—none under the arms.

Pin the sleeve in place. When pinned, hold the sleeve in your hands

Make a child's pair of pajamas.

Summer Fashion Notes

Off the face hats are youthful appearing, as are sailor models. If you prefer, however, the garden party variety, can be just as chic as any other.

Boxy jackets are favored for summertime wear. You can wear a box jacket over sports dresses, afternoon dresses and even evening gowns. Choose white or one of the soft pastel shades.

Halter necklines with wide straps at the back are popular, as are sports dresses with a deep, off-the-shoulder top.

Sunback dresses which come and go have come into style again. Many of these have the straps done in a pinafore effect at the back to permit plenty of vitamin D rays from the sun to cover back and shoulders.

NEEDLEWORK PATTERNS

Pineapple Motifs to Crochet

5530

Household Hints

To remove a black coating from the outside of a frying pan, sprinkle borax on it and scrub with steel wool moistened with water. Wash in suds and rinse thoroughly.

Small bottles with a combination screw cap and medicine dropper are convenient for storing small amounts of household oil near appliances that require regular oiling.

Patches that press on may be used for mending weak spots in the feet of hose. Mend before the weak spot wears through to make certain patch does not show.

Stocking feet can be made more durable by rubbing candle wax or paraffin on heel and toe.

If you don't like your cabbage heads bursting, stop them. When a cabbage has grown so large there's danger of its bursting, pull the entire plant until about half the roots are broken; that is, loosen it in the ground and leave it. It won't have so many roots to take water (so won't burst), but it will stand until ready to use without wilting.

QUIT DOSING CONSTIPATION!

Millions Eat
KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN
for Lasting Relief

Harsh laxatives got you feeling down? If yours is the common type of constipation, caused by lack of sufficient bulk in the diet, follow this pleasant way to lasting regularity.

Just eat a serving of crisp, delicious KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN every day and drink plenty of water! Do this regularly—and if your trouble is due to lack of bulk—you may never have to take another laxative the rest of your life! ALL-BRAN is not a purgative—not a medicine. It's a wholesome, natural laxative food, and—

KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN is Richer in Nutrition than whole wheat.

Because it's made from the vital outer layers of wheat, in which whole-wheat protective food elements are concentrated. One ounce of ALL-BRAN provides more than 1/2 your daily iron need—to help make good, red blood. Calcium and phosphorus—to help build bones and teeth. Vitamins—to help guard against deficiencies. Protein—to help build body tissue essential for growth. Eat ALL-BRAN every day! Made by Kellogg's of Battle Creek and Omaha.

Spool Shelves for Interesting Trinkets

THESE graceful corner shelves are 10 inches wide and 7 inches deep at the bottom. Just the right size to hold the quaint match holder, the old-fashioned china doll head and other interesting trinkets that you have been treasuring. In Victorian times such shelves were strung together with cord and the spools saved from the voluminous amount of sewing done each season. Today, with spools piling up from our sewing, we make similar shelves that have all the old charm but are much more rigid and substantial.

The spools and shelves now may be practically welded together with new easy-to-use types of glue. The wire or cord is then run through, as shown here, so that the shelves may be hung in a corner ready to hold articles of considerable weight.

NOTE—Mrs. Spears has designed an actual-size pattern for these three gracefully curved corner shelves which are graduated in size. This pattern also contains complete directions for cutting and joining these shelves as well as a pattern for another larger set of spool shelves. Ask for Pattern No. 255. Address:

DOES a winning horse make a star trainer, or does the trainer make the winning horse? Does a winning baseball team make the leading manager, or does the manager make the winning baseball team? Does a winning football team make the winning coach, or does the coach make the winning football team?

This ancient argument keeps popping up from time to time, but the answer is as simple as adding two and three. The material nearly always is about 80 per cent of it—often more than that. As a result coaches, trainers and managers are given far too much credit for winning results, and have to shoulder far too much blame for failures they couldn't help. They have important work to handle and their superior skill is needed at times to beat an opponent just a bit better—but they can't close the gap between class and mediocrity.

In something more than 40 seasons Connie Mack has won nine pennants. He also has had as many or more tail ends. Frank Chance won four pennants in five years with the old Cubs, but Chance couldn't get the Yankees, or Highlanders as they were known then, within V-rocket range of the first division.

The same thing applies to football coaches who are bedecked with laurel and olive when they have a big, hard-charging line and fast-moving backs but who are panned to a pulp when they can't win with a poor line and slow-moving ball carriers. Football coaches, realizing this, with the help of willing alumni have outclassed all other fields in locating promising talent and bringing the same to the campus they must guard—especially when they have enough money with which to work and the scholastic requirements are softened up. No one can blame the coaches for this action, the same being for self-protection.

As far as material vs. management goes, what manager could lift the Athletics or the Phillies out of last place? In your summary you can include Stalin, Truman and John L. Lewis. The winning answer is the material.

Best College Outfit

In the midst of the tumult and the shouting from baseball, racing, boxing and golf, there is a clear note from college sports that sings its own song. This note comes from Oklahoma A. & M. to this effect: Dear Mr. Rice:

Please allow me to introduce myself. My name is Weldon B. Boyles of Oklahoma City. I am attending Oklahoma A. & M. for the first time under the G. I. Bill.

When I first enrolled, in January of this year, I realized that Oklahoma A. & M. was turning out a basketball team of national importance, and in view of the fact that A. & M. had a national ranking football team last fall, I began to wonder if the Aggies were not setting a new American mark in that: (1) No school, two years in a row, ever ranked so high in both of our major sports (basketball, football); (2) No school has ever accomplished the feat of winning THREE top sports in ONE school year.

Here is part of what the Aggies have done so far:

1. FOOTBALL—The Aggies ranked 11th in 1944, plus a Cotton Bowl win. In BASKETBALL, the Ags placed 1st in 1944, beating DePaul.

But look what they've done this school year of 1945-1946:

- 1. FOOTBALL—They ranked 2nd (tied with Alabama) and won the Sugar Bowl game. 2. BASKETBALL — They ranked 1st. Kentucky did not meet them because I don't think Adolph Rupp cared to take the chance. 3. Wrestling—they won 1st place in the NCAA tournament, beating Iowa Teachers.

Is it possible, when you compare the Aggies against some of the other schools, that you might print some of the findings in your daily column? There probably are many sports lovers in our land who would enjoy the reading of such information, although you would be laying yourself wide open to a blast of controversy from many loyal alumni of other schools.

Weldon B. Boyles. We have no set of vital statistics at hand to clear up this point, but for the moment we can't recall another college outfit with a better all-around record against the competition of present years.

Career of Jake Jones

The new White Sox first baseman, Jake Jones, stands 6 feet 3 inches and comes from Monroe, La. He left college to play in the Texas league and in 1941 was called to the White Sox—but the arrival of war ended Jones' career as a ballplayer when he enlisted in naval aviation. Here is what one of the flying mates says:

"A great guy and one of the best fliers I ever saw," he said. "Jake was on the Fighting Lady, one of the fightingest carriers in the war.

The sweet southern drawl of a young and pretty Mississippi girl combined with the fiery zip of a red-head, puts Jane Isbell squarely into Hollywood's starlet limelight by her portrayal of Mary Lou, a true girl-friend, in "Mom and Dad."

OFFERED CONTRACTS So successful has proven the screen story, "Mom and Dad," an original by Mildred Horn, young Indiana writer, that she has been offered contracts by three Hollywood studios and two independent producers. Although many of her writings have been published in newspapers and magazines, "Mom and Dad" was her first attempt at a screen story—and it certainly clicked.

"Mom and Dad," will be seen here at the Family theatre on Wednesday and Thursday during its current cost to coast tour. Elliot Forbes, noted hygiene commentator and nurses travel and appear with the picture. Critics have praised it as a very worthwhile, clean, moral, educational attraction.
