SECRECY PREVAILS

Ships Regrouped for Second Atomic Test

By WALTER A. SHEAD WNU Correspondent.

HONOLULU, OPERATIONS CROSSROADS -- With much attendant secrecy the target fleet in Bikini lagoon has been regrouped for the second atom bomb test scheduled for July 25. Although most of the correspondents have returned to the States, several made application to remain in Bikini during the interim so they could cover the arrangements being made for the second test. This request was refused by the navy, however, and all newspaper men were ordered to proceed to Kwajalein, where they were either transported immediately by air to the States or to Honolulu, or were housed aboard the press ship Appalachian.

In the meantime the Appalachian made a leisurely trip to Pearl Harbor where she underwent some minor repairs, and now is proceeding back to Bikini, where she is sched-uled to arrive on B-Day minus 1, or July 24.

Nearest Center.

It has been announced that ships nearest the bulls-eye of the second test will include the battleship Arkansas, the heavy cruiser Pensacola, the Jap battleship Nagato, the aircraft carrier Saratoga, the destroyer Mayrant, the submarine Pilotfish, the transport Fallow and a tank landing ship.

It may be that the Pilotfish will be nearest the bomb burst, which, as has been announced, will be an underwater detonation. Other ships of the target fleet have been placed in various positions ranging up to 1,800 yards away from the blast.

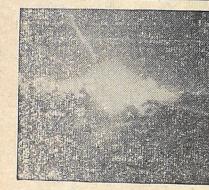

The Arkansas, the Pensacola and the Nagato all were severely damaged as to superstructure in the first blast. The Pensacola particularly suffered heavy damage to her fire control; her stacks were blown off and her deck plates buckled. This correspondent went aboard the Pen-sacola after the first test and noted that her decks amidship were driven downward about 12 inches and with such force that steel supports beneath were driven through the steel deck plating like toothpicks through paper.

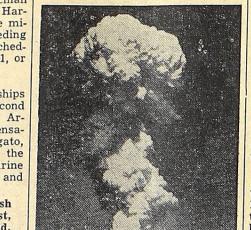

Await Report.

There is considerable speculation as to the coming report of the Military Evaluation board as to the efficacy of the atom bomb as an offensive weapon in naval warfare. If the board decides that future naval construction must meet the dangers of atomic blasts, then we may expect an entirely different warship of the future.

The experience of the first blast indicates that firepower exposed upon high superstructure is particularly susceptible to the heat and blast of atomic power. The specu-lation is that to meet this threat, future construction will see streamlined warships with low superstructures, enclosed as much as possible, looking something like a modern deisel locomotive with curved sur-faces to deflect blast.

Installation of ventilation systems also will be given close scrutiny since it was learned that the blast in some cases, particularly aboard the Pensacola, entered the ventilagasoline. But on most all the ships were placed live mines, bombs, shells were in guns or on loading apparatus, and each ship had a full load of ammunition. None of it was exploded and the safety crews which boarded the ships following the blast were careful in their examination.

Then the speculation goes to the use of lead lining against X-rays, rock wool or some other protection against heat, and concrete or some substitute against neutrons and other radioactivity.

Opinions Vary.

There are two schools of thought as to the damage likely to occur to ship hulls from the underwater blast. Having in mind the fact that depth charges of presently used explosives have sunk or damaged submarines and heavily damaged destroyers and other lighter craft, one school declares that the atomic bomb will play havoc with the target fleet and predicts that even capital ships closest to the blast will be capsized and sunk. Others, however, predict that much of the force of the blast will be absorbed by the water and that, although there is danger of light hips capsizing, the larger shi

THE TAWAS HERALD

IN THESE UNITED STATES Badger Is Known as the 'Co-Op' Town of Iowa By E. L. KIRKPATRICK

It's as easy to say as "Buster has the mumps." In fact "Cooperative" should be either the first or last name of the little town of Badger, Iowa, (population of less than 400 in 1940). The first co-operative program in this center of Lutheran background was the stock and grain association, started almost 40 years ago.

Although this organization met with difficulties and opposition during the first few years, it survived by realizing its advantages of co-operation as a community builder. By 1914, the association had been reorganized as a Farmers Grain Elevator company which has oper-ated efficiently and successfully ever since.

Another venture of long standing is the Co-Operative Telephone company which has been going for more than a quarter century, and then a petroleum co-operative organization in 1930 with a capital of $6,000. The latter firm does hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of business annually, since it deals in farm machinery as well as petroleum products. A Co-Operative Bank.

Another similar development is the co-op credit union started in 1939 "out of necessity, to provide the Badger community with needed banking services." Although opposed by the banking interests of Iowa at the outset, this group persisted wisely, although slowly, until the bank which it operates is one of the safest and most stable in Iowa, according to the state bank examiner.

Finally, there is the co-operative food store handling meats, groceries and electrical appliances. Its car-rying ABC co-op labeled goods assures patrons of quality and safety according to government grading standards. Folks know they aren't likely to get gypped in this or other co-op trade and relations that characterize Badger.

Other co-operative possibilities are being considered by Badgerites. Entertainment for the teenagers and a playhouse for young people are being talked about. That's the way it seems to be done. A few people get the idea, throw it out to others, and all get together and discuss it as a possible development of, by and for the community. In this way, the people meet their major needs to the extent that problems and difficulties that spotlight most rural communities are seldom heard of in Badger. When wanting a hunch on how a producer or consumer co-op can be made to work in a rural center, write or go to Badger.

Man Remembers Dentist After Decade Passes

SUMNER, WASH. -- Most toothaches are forgotten in 10 years, but Dr. C. L. Tolefson, a local dentist, recently received a check from a man he had treated a decade ago.

The dentist had forgotten all about it, when a letter with a money order came. A search into the office records disclosed the name of the patient and the forgotten date.

The letter explained that the man had bought a money order several years ago and was going to send it to the dentist. At that time the packing plant where he worked closed and he lost his job. He cashed the money order in order to live. But after several years, and attendant prosperity, he had the money to spare, and "hoped the doctor would forgive him for the delay.'

Boy, 15, Operates A Farm and Dairy

AUBURN, WASH .- Jimmy Marshall, age 15, operates a 60-acre farm here without help and intends to build up a good herd of purebred Jerseys. In addition, he's a good athlete and a good scholar in school.

Last January an accident brought death to B. L. Marshall, Jimmy's father. There were 12 cows to be milked night and morning and spring work had to be started. Jimmy, though just a curly-haired youngster with an engaging grin, took over the farming, the dairying and raising hogs.

Yes, he intends to keep right on farming. He likes it. And he is well on his way to success.

Mickey Walker, 45, Sure He'll Paint 'Real Stuff' WNU Features.

NEW YORK CITY .- Although he is 45 years old, he thinks that in about four years he'll be "doing the kind of painting called the real stuff." That's the way Mickey Walker, former welterweight and middleweight boxing champion of the world, looks at his art career.

It was five years ago that Mickey decided to take up the easel and start mixing the paints. He saw a movie based on the life of Gauguin in which a man in middle age left fame and fortune to become a painter in the south seas. Mickey decided to become a painter in the United States where he is known as "a tough little guy."

And what about his 45 years? Well, in Mickey's opinion age is the best thing that can happen to a man. It gives him some sense. He no longer wants to sit around in a night club, or think only of blondes and champagne. Age helps a man know what he can do — and ought to do

TRUMAN'S VETO

WASHINGTON. - Opinions may differ as to whether President Truman was right in vetoing the price control bill, but he personally has not changed his mind a bit. When he arrived on Capitol Hill for the Roosevelt memorial service, Truman was greeted by his old friend, Kenneth Romney, sergeant-at-arms of the house. As they shook hands, the President quipped:

"I didn't know whether you folks would let me come up here today after reading my latest message.

"Oh, don't worry about that," chuckled the sergeant-at-arms. "A lot of us are glad you vetoed that OPA bill. And your veto message hit the nail right on the head. You did the right thing, in my opinion."

"I couldn't do anything else," replied the President with chin-set seriousness.

EQUIPPING U.S. SCHOOLS

When a committee representing the leading national educational organizations tried to see War Assets Chief Lt. Gen. Edmund B. Gregory about getting surplus equipment for American schools, it received two brush-offs.

Once Gregory had been "called out"; another time he was "too busy." However, the educators had no trouble seeing Gregory's boss, President Truman. Further, Truman's callers were definitely assured that steps would be taken to provide schools, colleges and universities with more war surplus.

They informed the President that approximately 2,000,000 American youths would seek education next fall in colleges alone. Of these, about 970,000 will be World War II vets. Unless schools are given a "fair and reasonable" access to war age 77, was the first passenger to CONSOLIDATING GERMANY Top secret talks between the Americans and the French have now started to weld western Germany into one economic unit. The move may end up by uniting the U. S., British and French zones into one anti-Russian sector, with the rest of Germany under the hammer and sickle.

The U. S. occupation zone includes most of the province of Wurttemberg and the northeastern quarter of Baden. The remainder of the latter province and a small western piece of Wurttemberg are under French control.

This suggestion was approved in principle by Maj. Gen. Lucius Clay and Lt. Gen. Joseph Mc-Narney, highest-ranking U. S. commanders in Europe, and the war department has instructed General McNarney to inform the French that this country will discuss the plan if France agrees to discuss, at the same time, internationalizing the vital Ruhr basin.

This was particularly noticeable in a comparison with the German ship Prinz Eugen, which has no ventilation system and depends upon row upon row of portholes for ventilation for its crew. Not a porthole was smashed and no damage done below deck, but she was admittedly much farther from the center of the blast than the Pensacola.

They predict the heavily armored ships will not suffer as much underwater damage as could be inflicted with a torpedo. This is all in the realm of speculation, however, and the navy remains mum about its own expectations.

In discussions aboard the Appalachian among scientists and off-the-record comment by naval officers, there is some reason to presume that the atomic bomb as an offensive weapon against ships at sea is not as effective as other weapons. However, its effectiveness against naval bases would be devastating and a fleet without naval bases would be rendered im-

RESEARCH FOR FARMS

Secretary of Agriculture Anderson and a delegation from the house agriculture committee recently called on President Truman to plug for the Flannagan - Hope farm research bill. However, not much plugging was necessary.

Anderson opened the White House meeting by emphasizing the importance of the legislation, which is aimed at finding new uses for farm products and improving marketing.

"The bill already has been called to my attention," the President said immediately. "I have looked into it and I am in favor of appropriating whatever money is necessary."

A primary aim of the bill is to do away with such marketing bottlenecks as caused large acreages of cabbage and lettuce to be plowed under recently in North Carolina.

Jimmy Durante at Yale

Jimmy Durante was a guest at the Yale commencement exercises the other day. The Yale classic festivities coincided with the opening of Jimmy's latest movie "Two Sisters From Boston" in the college town. Both Yale and the picture people made the most of it. No result was announced officially, but observers say Yale lost another close one.

Believe it or not, the class of 1913 adopted Durante. And in one of the class costumes "The Schnozzle" paraded in the traditional commencement parade, did his stuff at the annual ball game and was photographed being welcomed by Pres. Charles Seymour of Yale and Mrs. Seymour, a distinction not record-ed by the photographers in the case of Trygve Lie, secretary of the United Nations, and many notable Americans present for honorary degrees.

Proving that by the scale of cockeyed values existing in this screwball age there is no limit to how far a radio celebrity and Hollywood star may go.

News that Jimmy Durante would be a Yale commencement figure drew out greater crowds than any commencement in years and there are those who insist that the closing line of the famous old Yale theme song was rendered "For God, for Country and for the Schnozzle."

"I never realized them Yale scouts was even watchin' me," said Jimmy. "I admit I never stopped Harvard or Yale, but on the other hand I kept Notre Dame from getting on the Yale schedule.

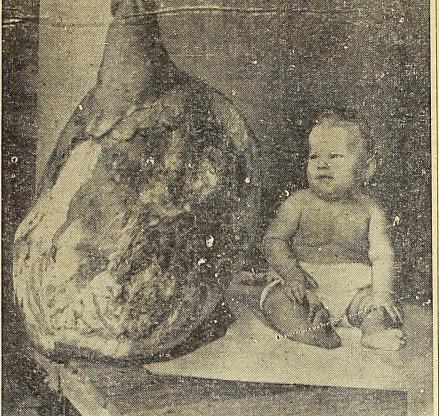

"I was always a Yale man at heart, even if my soul belonged to the University of Hard Knocks and my body to good old Crossley Ratings. Blue is my favorite color and I'll see that it gets a break in television.

"I was cut out to be a college man, but in my youth I could never get much practice in punting and drop kicking on account of them low ceilings in Greenwich village nighteries. My first words as a baby were 'Boola Boola.' I was christened James but my folks called me Elihu for short. And I was shorter than most kids.

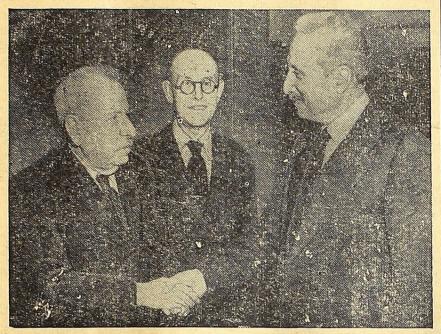

"Yale was in my blood. I could feel it thumping there, but not getting nowhere. Maybe it was on account of the good blocking by Harvard and Princeton.

"I wanted the higher education but I was particular. I said it's Yale or nuthin' with me. Yale lost that one too!"

Doctors Try Out Oscillating Bed Debunk Another Old Theory In Recent Tests.

NEW YORK. - The theory that bed-rest is the best thing for the patient has received another setback as a result of tests on four conscientious objectors by the New York hospital, Cornell medical center.

Out of the tests on the volunteer patients came a design for a new bed-an ocillating bed-which constantly see-saws up and down.

The hospital concluded, after keeping the four healthy C.O.s immobilized for six to seven weeks, that losses of nitrogen and calcium resulted.

Later tests with the electricmotor-driven bed showed smaller losses.

The hospital's findings have been submitted to the American Society for Clinical Investigation.

The tests began two and one-half years ago with Drs. John E. Deitrick and G. Donald Whedon working with Dr. Ephraim Shorr.

Four willing conscientious objectors were found through selective service and were placed in casts similar to those used for a fractured pelvis, except that they were split in half to allow the patients 20 minutes of freedom daily.

At the end of the test period the hospital noted the loss of nitrogen ran as high as one-fourth of that of a patient with a fractured leg.

Nitrogen is used in building muscle. The loss in calcium, the bone-builder, was from one-third to one-half that of a fracture patient. The efficiency of the circulation of the blood was impaired. A year later the oscillating bed was tried with the same routine.

Three C.O.s were used in this test, with the beds moving eight hours a day for two of them. For the third the bed was kept running on an average of 21 hours a day.

None of the men experienced any discomfort from the moving bed, which at one tilt lowered the feet as much as 24 degrees.

A slight shifting of weight and pressure on the heels was noticeable at first, but later the patients were scarcely aware of motion.

The 1946 pack will begin to appear on store shelves soon. OPA said prices of vegetables canned by processors who have not granted wage increases "will remain generally unchanged."

OPA recently suspended price ceilings on Boy Scout and Girl Scout uniforms, except shoes.

Price controls also were discontinued on tents and tarpaulinswoven decorative fabrics used in railroad cars, busses and air-

Love and Flagpoles

America must be getting back to normal. A couple were married on top of a flagpole the other day.

Marshall Jacobs, a professional flagpole sitter and Yolanda Cosmar, the girl of his choice, went through the wedding ceremony of the year at Coshockton, Pa. The wedding numbers were announced as "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life" and "I Love You Truly." We would have recommended "Don't Fence Me In" and "Upsie Daisie."

Evidence of a return to daffiness in this country is most comforting. And we needed a demonstration of true and unswerving love and devotion. When a bride goes up to the top of a 176 foot flagpole for her man that is it.

in Michigan in 6 Months...

But 100,000 families are still waiting

Severe shortages of lead, copper and other materials which go into telephone equipment have upset our time-table for clearing up waiting lists.

Even so, during the first half of this year, Michigan Bell

- Installed new telephones at the fastest rate in its history — an average of 26,000 per month.
- But also received new orders at the fastest rate in history—an average of 27,000 appli-cations per month.
- Added 340,000 miles of wire and installed enough additional central office switching equipment to serve 50,000 new customers.
- Cleared waiting lists in 27 Michigan Bell exchanges.

As the second half of 1946 gets under way, there are still 100,000 families waiting for telephones. Of these, 49,000 have placed their orders since the first of the year.

We still have to expand our facilities in 200 exchanges to give service to everyone who has ordered a telephone.

We now hope that most of the orders for service received before January 1, 1946, can be filled by the end of the year. In some areas, of course, we expect to complete many orders received this year, but it may be late 1947 before we can return to a "ready-to-serve" basis everywhere.

Meanwhile, we are loading our present equipment far beyond its normal capacity, to shorten the wait for as many folks as possible. This may affect the quality of service for the time being. But normal service will return as we install the needed lines and equipment.

Waiting applicants can be certain that we are just as anxious as they are to see their orders filled at the earliest possible date.

* Long Distance lines and switchboards serving Michigan resort areas are extra busy this summer. On calls to and from those areas, you'll get better service by avoiding the rush hours-10 A.M. to noon and 7 to 9 P.M. Keeping calls brief will help too.

THE STORY THUS FAR: Mac tells THE STOLY THUS FAR: mae tends Sherwin that Jane is going to marry Stenhart. "I think she will not," he re-plied. Solemnly Mac stated that the sheriff had a picture of "someone that's wanted." Sheriff Cutler had shown the picture to Jim too. Murder, first degree, escaped from Rhode Island. "I don't think he's around these parts," Jim replied. Jane too saw the picture, and Stenhart panted: "Don't let him kill me!" Sherwin admitted to Jane that he was the man they wanted. Jim advised him to "melt away." Feeling like an outcast, Sherwin goes to Old Mac's shack where the foreman has a meal ready for him. "Aint no use starvin'," Sherwin asked, still standing. The old fellow nodded. "Seen th' paper you had in your pocket, Sherwin. You'd marked the description, and it dropped t'other day an' I saw it. Th' sheriff talked some, too, when we were goin' to look for th' place where Jordan jumped the creek. I ain't askin' questions. You man," he said chokingly. "I'm old," said MacDowell quiz-zically. "I ain't dead set on pun-ishing other folks."

"Do you know why I'm wanted?"

"Except Jordan," said Sherwin. Mac laughed. "Well, maybe! Eat, son, you may have a long hike. You can't take th' trains; Cutler'll have your picture up in 'em."

"You said a while ago-when you were tending my arm-that-Miss Keller was to marry Stenhart. Is that true?"

MacDowell considered, pulling on his pipe. "I've heard Jim say so. You don't like Stenhart?" "He's my cousin," Sherwin said in a flat, emotionless voice. The old man started and took his pipe out of his mouth. "Gosh!" he ejaculated, and stared at the young man dumbly.

"He's my cousin and his testimony sent me to jail for life," said Sher-win, and his voice shook. "He lied. He lied me out of the way for fear I'd break our uncle's will. He got everything."

"An' you're accused of killin' th' uncle because he'd cut you off, ain't that it?" Mac leaned his elbows on the table, looking across it at the shadowed face of Sherwin.

The latter nodded. "The old sto-ry," he said shortly. "Uncle was killed in the garden. He was stabbed while he slept on the old bench by the cedars. I'd just found him when Max came in the gate; he'd been up the street at the newsstand. He swore I had the knife in my hand. It was perjury but he got away with it. Uncle and I had had a difference the day before, and people knew of it. That went against me, and Max swore me into jail for life.

That's all." Mac was silent for a while, then he grunted. "Did you tell Jim about it?

Actually, though, the most important considerations in making baby's clothes sensible are comfort, protection, room for rapid There ain't anybody knows about it growth and room for plenty of movement. So, when you plan a layette, or do some sewing for a friend with a baby, don't get too sentimental. The gift-type garment may bring most Ahs and Ohs from friends, but the mother will appreciate simplicity and ease of placing the garment on the baby most of all, and this should be your main aim. It certainly will be your main theme if you've ever tried to dress a squirming, wriggling youngster.

The garments you'll want to avoid are those with tiny collars that wrinkle and crush easily, garments that have to be slipped over the head, and tight, gathered sleeves. Whenever you can, make clothing for baby with wide, raglan sleeves because these slip on so easily. A rectangle of light appeared, the Show a definite preference for gardoor was open! The old man looked across under the lamplight again; something in the white face opposite moved him deeply. Sherwin was a stranger, he was an escaped convict, yet-"Don't do it, son," old Mac said gently. Sherwin, startled, raised his bloodshot eyes to his. "You know?" "I reckon I do!"

Sherwin rose and began to walk about the room. "I came out here to find him. He wasn't in his usual haunts in the city-so they told me -and I'd tracked him patiently, tracked him to Keller's ranch, when I stumbled into your accident and motored you here. It was pure luck, I thought, to get here so easily-without credentials, too!"

MacDowell nodded. "He's gettin' well an' he's sure to hang around Jane.'

Sherwin said nothing, but his hands clenched until the nails bit into the palms. In the silence the little room seemed full of Jane's presence. Again he saw her eyes change, saw her recoil! A shudder ran through him, fury leaped up in him, he remembered Stenhart's white face, his cowardly cry: "Don't let him kill me!" Again he paced up and down. Old MacDowell rose slowly, stretching his uninjured arm.

"Th' sheriff'll be around here for a spell, maybe thirty-six hours. You can't hardly miss him if you try to get out now; some of 'em will meet up with you. I tell you what I'll do-you come along with me now, before moonrise, an' I'll fix you up. I've just been figurin' it out."

Sherwin stopped in his pacing and hooked at him, strangely touched. "How about Keller? He wanted me to get out at once."

'You ain't goin' to stay on th' ranch; you follow me." Mac picked up the food-pack and opened the years in prison but he was still young. The girl's eyes, her voice, her soft hands on his wounded arm, had kindled a flame; now the flame was made fiercer, more terrible, by jealousy. Stenhart was with her! Then suddenly he was roused from his fierce revery. Old Mac drew rein.

"Get down," he said briefly. "We can hobble th' horses, we've got to hoof it the rest of the' way."

The moon was rising over the top of the mountains as Sherwin swung himself out of the saddle. They had left the road and were on a mountain trail; great trees surrounded them, their spreading boughs making a dense shade through which the rising moon shot, here and there, an arrowhead of light. Mac-Dowell led, and, as they advanced, the almost imperceptible trail grew narrower, tree-trunks of gigantic size locked them in; far off was the sound of rushing water, a mere murmur at their ears. "Walk slow," Mac cautioned him, "th' path's mighty narrow in front now an' a mite treacherous. We're coming to the edge of a precipice, ain't nothing to save you if you fall."

"I hear water somewhere," said Sherwin.

"Mighty pretty little cascade be low us, 'bout two hundred feet. It's too far down for th' moonlight to strike it yet-mind th' turn nowthere, you can see th' drop, it's mighty steep."

They stood on a narrow ledge. Some convulsion of nature had long ago ripped out the side of the slope. Behind them was a bit of sheer rock; on either side the great trees. stopped and there was only a narrow path at the edge of a deep ravine. Far down a turbulent little river roared over the broken rocks and tumbled from a high cliff into the depth below. The moonlight revealed a sheer precipice with nothing reaching out from it but one old, gnarled tree.

"A mighty bad place to slip, Sherwin said musingly; "easy to thrust a man over there- to his death!" Old Mac grunted. "Mighty easy-but you ain't goin' to get th' chance, he's too lame a duck to get this far!"

Sherwin felt the hot blood burn in

They both stepped back into the shadow of the cabin and waited, expecting a rush by Jordan and his confederates, but nothing happened. Far below them they heard a twig

"I'm going to stay here." "You'll have to give th' cabin up. son; you'd have a batch of them pustlers to fight-if he comes back." "And the sheriff on the road," Sherwin replied grimly.

"That's true!" Mac thought a moment. "I say, Sherwin, you'd better just keep under the trees for th' night an' skip at daybreak. The posse'll be most likely tired an' restin'. You'll get some hours start anyways."

Sherwin nodded. He had other plans, but he would not tell them. He grasped the old man's hand. 'Come, I'm going to see you off safe with the horses, then I'll come back here quietly."

Mac protested, grumbling, but he finally let the younger man accompany him to the road. His lame arm still made the old man more or less awkward. Sherwin helped him get the two horses and saw him mount.

"You skip at daybreak," Mac said kindly, and leaned from the saddle to hold out his hand again. "I don't believe you did it," he ended brusquely.

Sherwin wrung his hand and stood under the trees, watching him go. The old man's blunt sympathy and active help had touched him to the quick. He watched until the old figure in the saddle and the two horses became mere specks on the whith road toward Las Palomas.

All mothers want their youngsters to have lovely pastel coats of soft wool with silk linings. This is a nice sentimental gesture, but actually this type of coat is more practical if made with flannel or challis that is unlined. Then the coat is more easily made, simply washed and more durable.
