Tawas City jumped into a three way tie with Harrisville and West Branch for the leadership in the N. E. M. League by defeating West Branch 9 to 2, and Twining dropping the Harrisville team 7 to 3. At the league meeting Tuesday at Hale, a play-off was scheduled for this week-end at the East Tawas diamond, as it was centrally located for West Branch and Harrisville and a neutral diamond. As Tawas City drew the bye, Harrisville and West Branch will tangle Saturday afternoon and Tawas City will play the winner Sunday afternoon. Peterson, on the mound for Tawas City allowed but seven hits, with never more than one hit an inning. Both of West Branch's runs were unearned, with a walk, a hit batsman, an error and a double by Goodman accounting for the runs in the first inning.

Tawas City scored their first run in the second on Prescott's single, stealing second and scoring on R. Landon's single. In the third Tawas scored another run on Libka's double and a three infield errors. In the fourth a beautiful squeeze play bunt by Libka completely un-nerved West Branch and before they recovered, Tawas had added three runs on two hits, a walk and three errors. Scores now 5 to 2. In the fifth singles by Thornton, Gackstetter, Prescott, R. Landon and D. Landon accounted for three more runs. A base on balls, an error and fielder's choice and some fast leg work by Peterson accounted for the ninth run for Tawas City in the eighth.

Peterson and Libka did the long ball clouting for Tawas City with Peterson getting a triple and Libka a double. Goodman hit a double for West Branch. 200 000 000—2 7 7 Tawas City . . . 011 33 01—9 2 2

LeClair Heads Tawas Hospital Association

Incorporate to Sponsor Project

Dr. John D. LeClair was elected president of the Tawas Hospital Association at the first meeting following its incorporation held Tuesday evening. William Parker and R. W. Hickey of East Tawas were named vice presidents, and Judge H. Read Smith, secretary. L. G. McKay was elected treasurer. The Peoples State Bank was named as depository.

The association was incorporated as a non-profit organization to acquire a site, raise funds and erect a 30-bed hospital building. Plans for financing the program will be formulated at the next meeting of the association.

(After a thorough investigation by a committee from the association it was found that small hospitals are not self supporting, but have a deficit in operating expenses each year so an agreement has been made with the sisters of St. Joseph of Nazareth College, Kalamazoo, to operate the proposed hospital here. This arrangement would avoid the usual annual deficit. The agreement is subject to an approval of the association and St. Joseph's sisters.

Arrangements have been made with Earl Metheron to procure a proper site. The property now being purchased consists of a full city block adjoining the J. Barkman Lumber Co. property on the east. The board of directors elected last Tuesday evening are: K. W. Bublitz, R. W. Elliott, H. E. Friedman, H. C. Westrich, W. L. Finley, G. W. Myles, P. N. Thornton, Berkeley Smith, Joseph Allen and Harold L. Gould.

Enjoy Sight-Seeing Flights From Airport

Airport Approved For License

A week-end Labor Day crowd enjoyed flights from the Tawas City Airport. During the two days ten planes came into the port from Detroit and other points.

The airport has been approved by Percy Southworth, field man for the Michigan Board of Aeronautics, and a license will be granted. The field has three excellent runways, and a new Taylorcraft plane is in service. Two planes were in use in the sight seeing flights during the week-end. Licut. Wilbur C. Roach, pilot at the airport, states that the runways are in fine condition, but to keep them up, of course, requires a lot of hard work.

Fred Marsh, senior partner in the enterprise, said Thursday, "Plans are being formulated for a hangar and other buildings for the airport. These will be built as material becomes available. Preparations are being made to establish a GI flying school at the airport."

RUSSIA'S BIG MISTAKE
 WASHINGTON.—If the Soviet government had deliberately set out to make mistakes it couldn't have made more than it has piled up in the past year. In the one year that has passed since V-J Day, Russia has won the ill will of her neighboring countries in Europe, has lost virtually all her friends in the United States and has turned most of the world against her.

In considering our present strained relations with Russia, this is all-important. It indicates that time is running on our side, that Russia's own policies are playing into our hands, and that war can be avoided.

One year ago Soviet Russia was considered the great savior of the world. In Europe, the Russians were given credit, far more than the United States, for liberating the occupied countries, were even hailed by some as the pioneers of a new world order. In the U. S., most Americans had a genuine admiration for the heroism of the Russian people and looked forward to a period of friendly co-operation.

Today that good will has vanished. In all of Russia's satellites, with the possible exception of Finland and Czechoslovakia, the Soviet is extremely unpopular, even hated. Romania and Bulgaria would bolt Russia in a minute were it not for the Red army. Hungary and Austria, which Russia hoped to win over, voted overwhelmingly against the Soviet. In France the strong Communist upsurge now has hit the downgrade. Even in Yugoslavia, where Tito is supposed to be supreme, the Russians are not popular.

Most interesting fact is that the countries nearest the Russians usually dislike them most. Thus in more distant France, there is more pro-Soviet sentiment than in the adjacent Balkans.

Finally, in the American-British zones of Germany, Germans are fearful lest the western allies eventually evacute and Russia walks in.

U. S. STOCK GOES UP

Thus the world has turned against an aggressor nation. Thus also, the world has turned toward a nation which has no selfish axes to grind and which is attempting to co-operate with the rest of the world.

This is what Secretary of State Byrnes has sincerely tried to do at Paris; and as far as this observer could ascertain, his patient, fair-minded policy is paying dividends. Part of the world, once ready to sing Russia's praises, has veered toward the United States.

Therefore, the No. 1 point of American policy should be to work things out within the family of nations; to put Palestine and other controversial problems under the United Nations; not to let the British drag us into separate alliances. This is our greatest danger. If we become the tail on the British kite, we can be eured into war with Russia—exactly where the British foreign office imperialists want us. But as long as the smaller independent nations of the world are convinced of our unselfish motives, as long as we remain aloof from both sides, our strength as a world leader is secure.

TENSION INCREASES

However, this alone may not head off war with Russia. As this is written, censored diplomatic dispatches from the Far East report three days of rifle skirmishing between American and Russian troops along the Korean border. This is the first time U. S.-USSR troops have deliberately fired at each other. Another censored dispatch from London reports the British general staff meeting daily to plan strategy for defeating the British lifeline in the Near East.

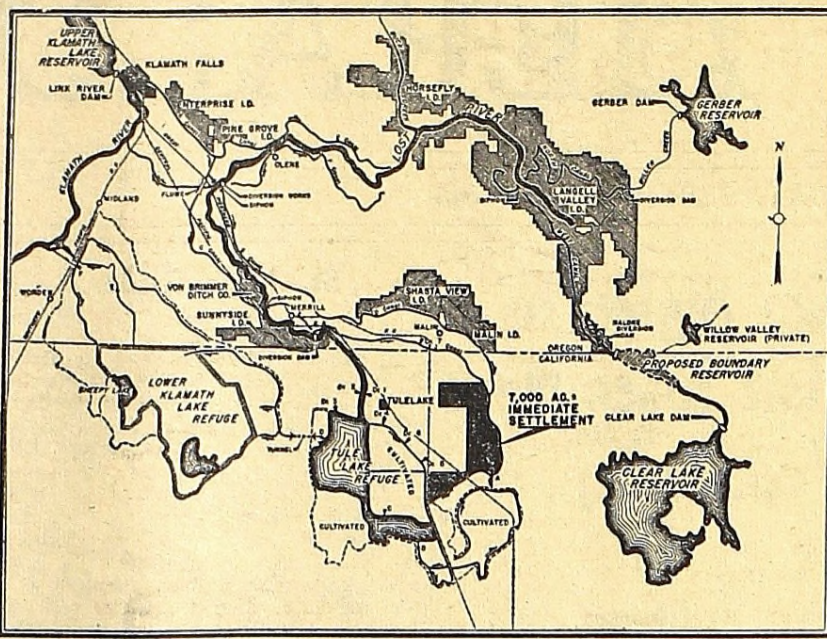

In other words, certain belligerent elements in Russia are quite willing to risk war now; and certain elements in England believe a showdown is better now than later. In a charged atmosphere like this, one spark can cause tragedy.

However, this observer's experience in watching foreign affairs convinces him that seldom does any nation provoke an incident if it knows that incident means war; thus the best way to prevent war is to let a prospective belligerent know he will get it in the neck if he sticks his neck out.

In other words, if Russia knows categorically and definitely that she will be at war with us if she becomes an aggressor against the United Nations, then the chances are 100 to 1 Russia will risk no war.

COULD HAVE STOPPED HITLER

To illustrate: If Adolf Hitler had known he would have been at war with France and England when he sent his troops into the Ruhr and Rhineland he never would have given them marching orders. As it was, fearing war, he gave them two sets of orders, one to advance and the second to retreat if the French resisted. Likewise, Hitler never would have sent his troops into Austria if he hadn't known the Allies were unprepared. He was right as later events proved.

HIGH LAND FOR THE LUCKY . . . Enclosed in the dark sector in the center of this location map are the 7,527 acres to be awarded to veterans of World War II, through the reclamation bureau of the department of interior, on the Klamath project land near the Oregon-California border.

First Public Farm Lands Opened to War Veterans

By WNU Features

SACRAMENTO, CALIF.—Marking the first opportunity for ex-G.I.s to realize the dream of a self-sufficient outdoor life for which they dreamed in their lonely wartime vigils from the shores of China to the banks of the Elbe, the first public farm lands to be opened to veterans of World War II for farming soon will be available in the 7,527-acre Tule Lake sector of the Klamath irrigation project in Northern California.

More than 15,000 veterans are expected to apply for the 86 farm units to be awarded this year. Located near the California-Oregon border at an elevation of 4,100 feet, the farm units comprise rich irrigated lands which are highly productive. Varying in size from 60.8 to 141.3 acres, the units have an average size of 87.5 acres. Most valuable land is found in the smaller units.

Post Regulations.

Qualifications for entrymen and an explanation of the method of selection to be followed in awarding the lands are contained in a public notice posted in the Klamath Falls, Ore., post office, according to an announcement by regional bureau of reclamation headquarters here.

Copies of the public notice and application forms are being mailed to all veterans requesting them. Veterans interested in the lands who have not contacted the bureau may secure full details by writing to the superintendent, bureau of reclamation, at Klamath Falls or to the regional director of the bureau at Sacramento.

Establish Deadline.

All applications returned to Klamath Falls by September 15 will be considered as having been filed simultaneously, it was announced. "Because of the large number of applications expected, bureau officials report that it is doubtful if any lands will be left for consideration of applications received after that date.

The procedure to be followed in selecting the entrymen includes a local examining board, a public drawing and the right of disqualified applicants to appeal decisions of the board.

Qualifications for applicants, as set forth in bureau regulations, include citizenship, character, farm experience, minimum of $2,000 capital and physical condition permitting manual labor involved in farm operation. No minimum age is set but regulations require service of at least 90 days in the armed forces, together with an honorable discharge.

Good Children Cost Less, Survey Shows

INDIANAPOLIS, IND.—It costs less to keep a good child than a bad one, according to figures cited at the Central States parole conference in the Hoosier capital. Reports indicated Indianapolis pays 7 cents to keep a child out of trouble and 75 dollars to care for a child in trouble.

Main item in the city's program to keep children out of trouble is an athletic program in which 75,000 Indianapolis youngsters have participated thus far this year. Cost has been approximately 7 cents a child.

A delinquent child who is turned over to the juvenile aid division for care costs the taxpayers $75 to cover expense of administration, investigation and disposition.

Sailors Keep Test Imprint on Chest

HONOLULU, H. I.—Style trends in tattooing keep abreast of the times. With each new arrival of the "Operation Crossroads" fleet, local tattoo parlors are thronged with sailors seeking a full color reproduction of the atomic bomb cloud. Most of the sailors want the tattoo on the chest.

The aerial test is out in front so far but the underwater blast is catching up rapidly.

New Timetable

Streamlined 'Modern' Year Sought in World Calendar

WASHINGTON.—The old horse-and-buggy timetable by which Americans trustingly counted the shopping days until Christmas and sweated out the due dates of their promissory notes isn't sufficiently jet-propelled for this atomic age, four congressmen insisted, in introducing bills for adoption of a fixed, perpetual world calendar.

The proposed calendar would divide the year into four quarters of 91 days each, the first month in each quarter having 31 days and the succeeding two months 30 days each. The 365th day would be a world holiday and in leap year the 366th day also would be a holiday. The year-end world holiday, according to Senator Murray of Montana, one of the sponsors, would be dedicated to international peace and friendship.

"This modernization provides a calendar the same each year perpetually, equalizes the quarters and fixes holidays so they fall on the same day and date each year," Murray said.

Fourteen nations already have endorsed the proposed world calendar. These include China, traditionally polite to foreign innovations and six Latin-American countries, where siestas need no calendar guide. Norway, Greece, Estonia, Hungary, Spain, Turkey and even Afghanistan also have joined the movement.

In addition to providing future youngsters with a new birthday, February 30, and a year-end holiday, proponents maintain that the new system would facilitate accounting and make statistics more readily comparable. They failed to mention that it also would help a man keep his wedding anniversary straight.

Vet Stowaway Seeking Work In Europe Held

BAD NAUHEIM, GERMANY.—Discouraged by conditions in the United States when he went in search of a job, Ralph K. Betz, 26, of Willoughby, Ohio, army veteran of 42 months' service, went back to Germany in search of a job, but instead found himself detained in the city jail here facing possible deportation charges.

Betz, who served in the European theater and was wounded in France, was bitter about being detained and wryly remarked: "When Europeans sneak into the American zone illegally, they set up a camp for them but an American they throw in jail."

Army headquarters at Frankfurt said no charges had been filed against the former soldier. An

MOUNTAIN FLYING

Some time you may want to fly the Rocky mountains. In that case, there are a few things to remember. First of all, air is a liquid. It follows the contour of the land over which it is blowing (or flowing). Most of the winds in the Rocky mountains are westerlies, blowing toward the east. As they cross the Rockies, they naturally tumble down the eastern slopes and there are great "falls of air." The force or pressure of this air sweeping down adds to the pull of gravity, and sometimes pilots have trouble getting their planes high enough to go over the Great Divide.

"Never fly where you can't turn around," is the advice of Eddie Drapela, veteran mountain flyer of Grand Junction, Colo., intrepid veteran who knows what he is talking about. He often flies small planes 14,000 feet high—and carries passengers. What Eddie means is: Don't fly through a canyon between walls that won't let you turn around.

Other advice to flyers in the Rockies—or other mountainous region—includes such fundamentals as checking the winds aloft over your take-off point. If those winds aloft are over 25 miles an hour, keep your fingers crossed because you may encounter turbulence over the mountains that will flick your plane 1,000 feet up or down in a minute's time.

army officer said he was arrested after failing to report twice daily to the provost marshal, as directed when the investigation began.

After his arrest, Betz claimed that military officials have known his story ever since he arrived here last May in quest of a job. He admits that he came into Germany without a passport or military orders by the simple expedient of stowing away on a troopship.

"So many G.I.s couldn't find jobs at home and with prices so high you couldn't live on your salary if you got a job," Betz said.

Small Utah Town Reverses Common Movie Procedure

BLUE SPRING, UTAH.—Aspiring movie actors of this community do not go to Hollywood to get before the camera. Hollywood brings its camera and comes to Blue Spring!

Recently more than 175 men, women and children from Blue Spring, Panguitch and other towns were employed as extras and bit players in the film "Bob, Son of Battle" being filmed here.

Entire families deserted their household and farm chores for the glamorous work of the cinema. Four generations of one family worked in the picture. Myron Proctor, 77; his daughter, Mrs. Eva Tebb; her daughter, Mrs. Shirley Horne, and her small daughter, Kay, were all competing for camera angles in the production.

Director Louis B. King praised the scenic attractions of this area which provided the background for the film.

Daughter Files Claim For $250,000 Damages

PORTLAND, ORE.—Charging that she was committed to the state mental hospital to prevent her sharing in a million-dollar estate, Miss Agnes McBride filed suit in circuit court for $250,000 damages against her mother.

The daughter declared that her mother inherited the bulk of an estate estimated in excess of one million dollars upon the death of her husband in January, 1945.

Butter Is Made by Germans From Coal

Product Is Tasty and Does Not Need Refrigeration.

WITTEN, GERMANY.—A factory that makes butter from coal was one of the prizes discovered by the British in their zone of Germany, says the Associated Press.

"It is excellent butter and I doubt that anyone ever would guess it was synthetic," said one British official who sampled it.

The factory, Imhausen & Co., located in this Ruhr city, has not made butter since the end of the war but its management hopes to resume operations in about a month. Dr. Karl Imhausen, young manager, said the plant normally could produce 600 tons a month at a cost less than that of natural butter.

The synthetic butter can be kept without refrigeration.

Coal is converted into butter like this:

Coal is made into coke, coke into gas, the gas into paraffin. By a blowing process, the most difficult part of the operation, 80 to 82 tons of fatty acid can be drawn from 100 tons of paraffin. The fats are further separated by distillation under a high vacuum. Some are edible, some are not.

From there on the recipe is: Add to the pure, synthetic edible fat 20 per cent water. Add carrot extract for vitamins and coloring. Add salt. Finally, inject something called diacetyl to give the odor of butter.

This mixture is whipped up in a machine and comes out the other end like a long sausage about eight inches in diameter.

That goes into another machine from which pounds of butter come out, neatly wrapped, on a conveyor belt. Most of the fats that don't go into butter are made into soap by an affiliate, also operated by Dr. Imhausen.

The residue, unsuitable either for butter or soap, is manufactured into a basic product for plastics, a softening material for rubber, an ingredient for varnish and into alcohol.

Wotje Natives Happy To Return to Island

KWAJALEIN.—Lojolon, heir apparent to the throne of the western Marshall islands, recently presented the navy $50 and the Red Cross $10.20 to express the appreciation of Wotje natives for having been returned to their island a year ago from Majuro. The Wotje natives had been removed for their own safety shortly after United States forces captured Wotje in February, 1944.

Babies Reunite Sisters Parted Since Infancy

CHICAGO.—Two sisters, separated since they were infants, were reunited recently in St. Therese hospital, Waukegan, because their respective husbands compared notes while awaiting arrivals of daughters. The two families had been living only seven blocks apart.

The sisters are Mrs. Mary Hibel, 25, of 717 10th street, North Chicago, wife of August Hibel, a welder and Mrs. Antoinette J. Griggins, 27, of 1532 10th street, Waukegan, wife of Anthony Griggins, steel company employee. Their daughters were born less than two hours apart.

After their mother died, Antoinette, then three, was adopted by street, Waukegan, and Mary, then Mrs. Jennie Petrovic of 612 Fulton street, Waukegan, and Mary, then 6 months, was adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Kutzler, 921 Commonwealth avenue, North Chicago.

The Griggins baby was named Carmella Jean, and the Hibel daughter Mary Louise.

Czechoslovakia's Army To Be Soviet-Equipped

MOSCOW.—A Soviet-Czechoslovak communique made public here recently announced an accord by which the Russians will equip the Czechoslovak army on credit terms. Negotiations were concluded at the end of a week's visit to Moscow by the Czechoslovak premier, Klement Gottwald, a Communist.

The communique said the negotiations were carried on in a spirit of "hearty friendship and close alliance," and that, among other things, Russia agreed to turn over to the Prague government a large German-built chemical plant in Czechoslovakia and leave German machinery in other Czech factories which Russia might have claimed as reparations under the Potsdam accord.

ORLANDO, FLA.—A new altitude record for two-place gliders was claimed by Paul Tuntland, a civilian glider pilot. He soared to 18,700 feet above the point of release from a tow plane or 22,700 feet above sea level. The present world record of 14,960 feet for two-place sailplanes was set by the late Maj. Lewin Barringer December 12, 1940.

THE PSYCHIATRIST AND THE WORLD

"Psychiatry may play an important part in world peace, United Nations World Health Organization is told."—News Item

Doctor (looking at the battered world)—Now just relax and be perfectly candid with me. I want to find out what's the matter with you.

World—Can you find anything that ain't?

Doctor—It's all a matter of psychiatry, I think; just a matter of reviewing your past life.

World—Reviewing my past will be no help, doc. It only makes me feel worse.

Doctor—Just leave that to me. Now we've got to find out what has made you act the way you do. Did anything ever happen to you as a child? Did you ever fall out of your high chair?

World—I couldn't say for certain. But I've been falling out of it ever since!

Doctor—I ask that because I observe many bruises on your head.

World—You should see the ones in some other places!

Doctor—Was your home life marked by violence at any period?

World—Sometimes I don't feel that I had any home life; it seems that I was always on horseback or on an army truck.

Doctor—Did you as a child feel frustrated, unable to express yourself, balked in attaining your desires?

World—One time when I showed up with gun powder, which was really a lovely plaything, they bawled me out sumpin' awful. I got licked for that, too.

Doctor—Clear as a bell! They filled your young mind with the feeling of frustrations. Your natural development was thwarted. I'll bet they even objected when you played with poison gas.

World—Yep. What a row they made. I remember they said I would come to no good end and might even wind up as the kind of boy who would throw atom bombs.

Doctor—Just as I thought! You were never allowed to express yourself fully! You became an introvert, a duplexvert and possibly a nincomvert.

World—Yeah! Ain't parents awful?

(This settles everything. The psychiatrist promises to fix him up in no time. All he has to do is to let himself go, shake off all inhibitions, regard himself as master of his fate, take some new vitamins, and come in every Tuesday between wars).

Gaunt, gray ghosts of valiant youngsters— Kids who made the sacrifice— Stir beneath the palm fronds asking

"Cacha make it worth the price? What of goods for which we battled? What of dreams that made us glad? And the world can merely whisper, "Would we had the answer, lad!"

The Home Town Reporter in WASHINGTON By Walter Shead WNU Correspondent

Atomic Bomb Must Be Outlawed, Or Civilization Is Doomed

THE President's committee, headed by Sen. Carl Hatch (D., N. M.) which observed the atomic bomb tests at Bikini, and the military evaluation board of the joint chiefs of staff have submitted their first report on these naval experiments in atomic energy.

After reciting the results of the two blasts, the President's committee tersely said: "The tests at Bikini strongly indicate that future wars employing atomic bombs may well destroy nations and change present standards of civilization."

This reporter, as one who witnessed the Bikini experiment, is firmly convinced that unless there is a change in thinking, a veritable revolution in the minds of the American people regarding the future of atomic energy, and specifically the atomic bomb...

There is no alternative... either we share the secret of the atomic bomb and not only outlaw it internationally as a weapon of war, and outlaw war itself, or we surely are headed toward a third world war of annihilation.

No matter how holy we may be in our determination not to use this absolute weapon aggressively, we will continue to reap the distrust and suspicion of every other nation. We have used it against Japan. Why would we not use it again? Such is the reasoning of worried realists everywhere.

The Baruch report to the United Nations, without question, should be adopted. And the United Nations should ban the bomb, and to keep it banned, should organize an international inspection or police force to make certain there is no evasion afoot.

'Golden Rule' Cited

Speaking on the atomic bomb and atomic energy recently, Secretary of Commerce Henry Wallace said: "We have all heard of the golden rule. Some of us say that it is a beautiful ideal, but not very practical. I say that Christian morality, not as practiced during the last 1900 years, but as Jesus himself taught it, has finally become the most practical thing in the world."

"The golden rule means that we look at things from the other fellow's point of view as well as our own. If every nation in the world could, for one week, drop its selfish, hateful, maneuvering and adopt the golden rule, we would work out an international moral code that would permit us to use atomic energy safely so as to unlock for us one door after another to abundance and joyous living."

The scientists and physicists who discovered and successfully manufactured the atomic bomb are the most international-minded people in the world. They have real international co-operation and international thinking. International peace will not come until the rest of the peoples of the world have this same feeling of co-operation.

The committee report pointed out that the bureau of ships is studying the results of the Bikini tests and says, "undoubtedly they will point the way towards changes in ship size, design and structure." The report further says that such changes in ships can offer increased immunity from flash and blast effect, but such changes will not protect manpower from the catastrophe of deadly gamma and neutron radiation.

This reporter believes that once atomic energy is let loose in war, there will be no need for navies. There will be nothing for them to protect, no cities, no navy yards, nor harbor installations. Neither will there be any need for armies. For war with atomic bombs will mean a war of extermination of civilian populations.

SAW AIR FORCE GROW FROM BALLOONS TO BOMBERS

IN AUGUST the army air corps celebrated the 39th anniversary of its establishment. The same month marked the 48th anniversary of the American army's first venture into the air.

When in the war with Spain, an American army, under command of General Shafter, invaded Cuba, a piece of the equipment of that army was a balloon, with sufficient gas to inflate it. It was an experiment. If it worked, the balloon would be used for observation purposes to learn the lay of the land and the disposition of the Spanish army.

After some difficulty, the big bag was inflated and fastened to a windlass by a heavy wire. It began the ascent with Lee in the basket. In some 30 minutes it had attained a height of about 500 feet.

Such was the American army's first venture into the air. Despite the effective work of the Spanish riflemen the venture was a success.

Lee remained in the army. After service in the Philippines and in the Boxer uprising in China, he attained commission rank. When we entered World War I he was, for a time, assigned as an inspector of aviation.

Major Lee saw the development of air warfare, ranging from that feeble, but not futile, experiment in Cuba to the dropping of the atomic bomb on Jap cities.

But Lee did not see completion of the air warfare story. We are not, and should not, be told any details of what the future will provide.

EVERYBODY WANTS ECONOMY, BUT WE GO ON SPENDING

THE PRESIDENT now insists government must spend less; the Democratic members of congress insist we must spend less; the Republican members of congress insist we must spend less.

IT IS NOT who they are, or what they have, but how they live that makes desirable neighbors.

SECRETARY BYRNES in his dealings with Molotov can be credited with long patience, but cannot be charged with efforts at appeasement.

FOR THE NEXT several years, at least, the American farmer is assured of a market for all he can produce. He will not only sell his product but will get a profitable price for it.

Chair, Shelf and Cornice Easily Made

IT IS a combination of things that harmonize that make a home cozy and attractive. This corner of a room that was furnished with next to nothing proves that. The chair frame was made from odds and ends of lumber—no piece longer than 2 1/2 feet.

They'll keep singing its praises for years

Every so often it happens. A car comes along that rings so many bells on so many counts that folks remember it fondly and talk about it for years thereafter.

You're looking at one of those "vintage-year" Buicks now.

Right from the start, it clicked with the stand-out, hint-of-the-future freshness of its styling.

It brought wide, appreciative grins with the smooth way its Fireball straight-eight engine delivers its eager surge of power.

Registered with the steady stride of two lively tons of roadweight, cradled on tireless coil springs all around that turn the roughest road into a pleasure cruise.

Then as people began to discover the blissfully easy way this dream boat handles—as the miles piled up and owners found their cars getting actually better—word started to go round: "That '46 Buick—there's an automobile!"

They'll be saying that for many a long year.

And while we're doing everything in our power to get you yours soon-as-possible, you'll find that when you get it is a secondary matter.

For the man who gets a '46 Buick has really got something—something certain to be a high spot in his car-tuning history.

Meet our Boss:
MRS. ROE

Who's the Big Boss of any business? That's easy—the person or persons who own the business!

In the case of Michigan Bell, our Big Boss is "Mrs. Richard Roe" and thousands of other thrifty folks who have invested in Bell System securities and provided the money for enlarging the system and improving the service.

Now let's see what Mrs. Roe's investment helped make possible. Here are just a few examples:

- From 1920 through 1945, it has permitted the Bell System to increase the number of telephones in service from 8 million to 22 million—almost 16 telephones for every hundred people in the United States.
- It has provided the facilities for handling a record-breaking billion and a half toll calls in 1945, compared to 360 million in 1920.
- It has financed the development and installation of dial telephone equipment so that now 4 out of 5 telephones in Michigan, for example, are dial operated.
- It has paid for the construction of 75 million miles of wire and cable throughout the nation, and accomplished many other improvements too numerous to mention.

If this progress is to continue—more money will have to be obtained from more investors through the sale of additional Bell System securities. And, since investors naturally want a fair return on their savings, telephone rates should be sufficient to permit paying a reasonable rate of return.

Michigan Bell's "cost of living", like yours, has been rising rapidly. If it continues to go up, rate increases may become necessary to insure adequate earnings. In any event, Michigan Bell wants telephone rates no higher—and no lower—than necessary to operate the business efficiently . . . pay good wages . . . give a fair return to investors and, thereby, protect the future quality of the service we give you.

DESERT ROSE

By ROLLIN BROWN

CHAPTER I

Far to the West, Doane could trace the highland divides and peaks of the Sierra Nueva, marking the boundary of the state and the San Loreto County line. The ranges had the mirage-like quality of seeming to float, ridge on ridge, upon some upper crystalline stratum of the atmosphere. Low-lying miles of dust haze concealed the massive base of the foothills. Sierra Nueva held for him a strange, magical fascination, as it held for anyone who looked upon it.

But the fascination lay really in the fact that the mountains were real, and not another of the false, shifting desert mirages that formed and faded ceaselessly in other quarters of the compass. Doane could trace the blue-black creases of canyons in the skyline divides. Water ran down those canyons.

In his fevered imagination Doane could hear the life-giving, gurgling music of it. His parched throat cried for its taste.

He resolutely turned his eyes away. The upper ranges he saw so clearly were all of thirty air-line miles away; traveling to them, the distance would be twice that far. Two days' march over the desert for a strong man with plenty of food and water. Doane had neither, and he was no longer strong. The instant his fevered brain forgot that, and his legs turned west, he was gone.

That thought in itself was steady-ing. In the quart canteen at his hip there remained perhaps two full swallows of warm, stale water. He could sometimes hear the faint swish of the infinitely precious stuff within the canteen. Doane was a man of strong will. He knew the utter necessity of holding one thought and determination. He had to hold out for twelve or fifteen hours longer, walking continuously to the south. Perhaps it would take eighteen or twenty hours. He had to make it!

To the south lay the railroad junction of Sand Wells, and the distance could not be more than twenty-five miles now. He should walk two miles an hour, as an average. A strong man went twice that fast. Frequent rest, Doane told himself these things in spasmodic reassurance. At sundown he would drink the rest. The chill of the desert night would help him on.

Uncontrollably his mind began to center on one thing—on the single swallow of brackish water he would allow himself at sundown. One swallow! He could taste it now, feel it run deliciously down his agonized throat, drop by drop. He caught himself pulling at the canteen stopper, in the act of lifting it to his lips. . . . The hour was not yet much past middle afternoon. He cursed himself softly.

Half a mile ahead a little nubbin of rock thrust itself above others on the desert floor. Doane studied it. He measured the distance mentally. Half a mile! A fifth of the distance back to Sand Wells. He began to count paces. . . . One, two, three, four, five—nineteen, twenty, twenty-one . . . fifty-four, fifty-five.

"That's madness!" Doane muttered through his stiff lips. "Get hold of yourself, man!"

His stride became more determined and steady with the hard, driving force of his will behind it. But it seemed that the count would continue in the very beat of his pulse. Miraculously, after a quarter of an hour, the count popped into his brain. . . . one thousand! He must have underestimated the distance, for the rocky nubbin seemed far away again.

He stumbled. Anger at himself flooded through his brain. He pushed himself up, stood there trembling, fists clenched. He was giving fatigued muscles, weary flesh, the upper hand. That sinewy, hard young body of his that had once been so strong was betraying him. . . . No, it wasn't! Doane didn't give up. He had never given up. He glared in that, as other men did. Doane wouldn't fail. He moved on.

After a while, he stumbled again.

The desert can strike with appalling swiftness.

It was, in fact, less than forty-eight hours earlier that an east-bound train had made the customary halt at the Sand Wells tanks for water. As the train moved on again, four men stepped from the dusk shadows along the track and swung gingerly onto the rear platform of the last car. One moved swiftly through the train until he stood at an entrance four cars ahead. The man who followed on his heels caught the conductor and the brakeman, forcing them into a washroom at the point of his gun. The porters were intimidated as easily as the passengers.

The four rear cars were plundered with a swift efficiency. A hatful of feminine jewelry was flung into the bandits' Stetsons; the final checkup of the currency taken totaled better than three thousand dollars. The jewelry estimate ran almost as high.

Two miles out of Sand Wells the emergency cord was pulled, and the train screamed to a sudden halt. The four bandits dropped as suddenly from the coaches and melted into the night.

The alarm, of course, had been swift, and Sand Wells was an isolated point. Railroad detectives closed in on the two ends of the line; possible roads of escape were carefully blocked. Distant city newspapers, next morning, ran lurid accounts of the daring crime. Arrest of the four highwaymen, the papers stated, was momentarily expected. But sheriff Sam Flick, reading the headlines in his office, wasn't as sure as the editors about that.

"Shucks!" he had said, when the alarm reached him at eight o'clock on the evening of the crime. "Shucks! Mighty little use watchin' the roads. All them railroad dicks'll do is to pull half a dozen assorted bums and hoboes off the freights. The outfit that pulled this trick looked farther'n its nose."

Flick sent a hurry call for help to the one man he wanted, above all others, on this job. He sent for Jim Doane. When that lanky, gray-eyed individual sauntered into the office, two hours later, the sheriff of San Loreto County leaped to his feet.

"So here you are, you loafer, you

"I gotta have you on this case."

dad-busted globe-trotter! Hold up your hand! Do you solemnly swear—"

"Wait a minute, wait a minute—No! I don't swear a thing. No! Blame your hide, sheriff, what's eatin' you? I'm not ready to go to work, least of all on an outfit of wristwatch thieves. Let the railroad round up its own bad men."

"No, but Jim," pleaded the sheriff, "I gotta have you on this case. I know you said six months ago you wasn't going to spend your life hunting down your fellow citizens. You said that when you resigned and went east. But now you're back, and I gotta have help." The sheriff dropped back into his chair.

"Why did this have to happen to me? Sufferin' wildcats, if they'd pulled it a mile down the track, it'd been in the next county. Only just a mile!" He jumped up and paced the floor, fuming, while Doane dropped into a chair. Without warning Flick stopped dead in the middle of the room and shot a question. "You're going to do just one little scout down that end of the county for old Sam, ain't you, Jim? Raise your right hand. Do you solemnly swear—"

Jim Doane leaned back in his chair and laughed heartily. "You know, Sam," he said at length, "if you were a girl and this was leap year, you'd have me bothered. You sure look bothered yourself. Now just supposing I took this case for you, which I'm not saying I will, mind you, what would you want this one-man posse to do? Raise your right hand! Tell papa the truth!"

A broad grin of relief swept over the sheriff's leathery, sunbrowned face. He wiped his forehead with an old red bandana. "I knowed you'd stand by the old man, Jim. So I talked with the railroad. They've got a box car over on the siding for you, right now. Get your horse and a spare mount if you want it, an' git aboard. In half an hour the east-bound express'll pick you up.

They'll drop you off at Maxmilla City, off the end of the express, some time before midnight; from there . . . if this division superintendent ain't a liar . . . you get your own engine down over the cut-off to the other straightaway, an' so back to Sand Wells. You ought'a get there by sunup tomorrow."

"You're in a powerful hurry, Sam. What's all the rush?"

Flick stared into empty space for a minute, then turned to his prospective deputy with the expression of a man about to make a clean breast of things. "Shucks! I hate to tell you, Jim. For a fact I do. Truth is, some o' them big Eastern papers is plumb anxious to get my personal opinion on this holdup, an' if I told 'em I'd be a laughin' stock from here to both coasts. The folks around here'd laugh themselves sick."

"What is there in a holdup to laugh at?"

Flick fidgeted. "Fact is, I got a hunch that a girl's had a hand in this job, an' everybody else that knows about it's got the same breed o' hunch. You know, that Alvaro girl. Wouldn't that make some juicy copy for them papers, if it turned out to be true? Somethin' like: 'Southwest Sheriff Foiled by Schoolgirl!' That's what they'd say. An' that's what they're all thinkin'. That's why all the rush, Jim Doane."

He ran a warm and trembling finger around his wilted collar. "She's been raisin' Cain, Jim, all the time you been east. Star La Rue was in to see me again about her, just last week. He claims she's run off half his fat beef stock this spring, an' about two-thirds of his calf crop as well. Star's got some good hard-ridin' cowhands himself, but they're just nately tied to a hole in the ground when it comes to catchin' her."

"Anyhow, one of us is just about forced to pay a visit down there pretty soon, Doane, if only to stuff somethin' in Star La Rue's mouth an' shut him up. That's why I sent fer you; you're the only one of that worthless bunch I can count on."

Doane stared at him. "The Alvaro girl! You think the Alvaro girl was mixed up in a train hold-up? Shucks, Sam, I know that kid. I met her at a dance once. She wouldn't dance with me, and I never found out why. But she wouldn't stick up a train. Anyhow, all the passengers say it was four men. Nobody saw any girl. What about that?"

The sheriff answered with a question of his own. "Reckon you've heard mention of the old Rancho de los Tres Hermanos. Mebbe-so, you've heard the name of Senor Don Pio Miguel Alvaro hisself, in connection, eh?"

"Yeah, sure," drawled Doane. "He was her father. He sold the ranch to La Rue. I know all about that."

"There is some that says old Pio Miguel Alvaro didn't exactly sell to La Rue," said Flick slowly, his eyes glued on Doane's expressionless face. "Them same hints at somethin' else. . . . That La Rue might even 'a stole the place, more or less. Howsomever, that ain't exactly neither here nor there, far's this business is concerned. But I reckon you might as well do some thinkin' 'bout the connection between old grandee Pio Miguel Alvaro, and this here daughter o' his you're goin' after. Also 'bout some o' the things Star La Rue has been right determined to impress on me. Star says she's got some of the old-time vaqueros from Rancho de los Tres Hermanos ridin' with her. If so, they'd be pretty smart saddlemen. Mighty likely be smart in other ways, too. Y'see? Mebbe things isn't going so good with this here Miss Alvaro. Mebbe them riders is back in their wages. Mebbe with the right sort o' brain tellin' 'em just how it ought'a be worked, they might be smart enough to hop the express as it pulls outa Sand Wells."

"Yeah, I guess that might happen," Doane replied. "But shucks, sheriff, a rustled herd of stock or two is one thing, if she's sore at Star La Rue about that ranch business, whatever it is, but stickin' up a train is something else again. Even if she has a little nerve—"

"A little!" interrupted Flick. "Say, if you think she's some sort o' common spineless Mex, you got another think comin'. The Alvaros were Spanish-Americans, which is as white of skin as you and me, a sight handsomer an' pounds prouder by disposition."

"No matter," replied Doane. "Let's say the girl has nerve and friends. Down there she's known as an Alvaro, which means things. She engineers a job or two o' stock rustlin' from Star La Rue because she's sore he owns the old Alvaro ranch; she gets her friends to do the work, figurin' she can use the head. Then comes the big idea of a full-fledged train robbery. That what you're tryin' to tell me?"

Attractive Coats May Be Made At Home with Simple Patterns

By Ertta Haley

IF YOU'RE considering the purchase of a coat for this season, you'll soon realize that the outlay for the coat represents the largest single outlay for one item in the clothes budget.

Contrary to what people think, a coat is no harder to make at home than a dress. Working with woolen material is a pleasure provided they are not too heavy to run through the machine easily, and you will have a real sense of accomplishment if you can make your own coat.

Before you select the material, choose a pattern. Look them over closely as coats may be very similar in style, but some are harder to make than others. Select the pattern with easy construction. After the pattern has been chosen, follow the guide for material so you will have an appropriate fabric for the style. A dressy coat style will not look good in a plaid, etc.

Just a word about the size to choose. If you wear a size 14 dress, then that is your coat size. Pattern makers always try on the finished garment with a dress, so you needn't worry that it will be too tight when worn with a dress.

If you want a coat to wear with your suits, select a loose, sporty type, one with full sleeves and full back, so that it will fit well over a suit which is naturally more bulky than a sheer dress.

Tips Given for Easy Sewing

A large table is one of the best assets which a home seamstress can have. Select a table without cracks or buckling as it will enable you to lay the fabric smooth, and simplify cutting.

If you have a dress form, this, too, will make fitting easier. Have a good pair of sharp shears (this is especially important when cutting on wool, as the fabric offers less resistance than cottons, rayons or combinations of those two), and a full length mirror right in the room where you sew.

You, who have an old coat no longer wearable, may find that the lining or interlining in that coat is still in good condition. Having this already made, with only a little fitting necessary to place it in the new coat, will save lots of time and work. Remove the lining carefully and hang aside until ready to use. Be sure to brush off any stray threads.

Adjust the pattern to yourself before cutting out the coat as this will save many hours of fitting and re-cutting and sewing. Make sure the sleeves and length of the coat are proper for you.

A good rule to follow is to pin before basting and fit before sewing. Once basted the coat will look on you as it would when the final sewing is completed. How much better it is to make alterations without having to rip out fine machine stitching!

Do Detail Sewing As in Dress

Are you surprised to learn that sleeves in a coat are put in much the same way as in a dress? Well, they are. Insert the padding before you fit in the sleeves, then attach them at the shoulder. Any gathering should come at the top of the shoulder rather than underneath.

Then making a dress.

When you fit the coat for sleeves, see that they hang straight, and look to the coat closing to see

Chinese Influence

how they fit. This is all done after basting so adjustments can be made easily.

Pockets are not hard to make on a woolen coat and they add a lot of flair to the sporty models. You may choose a patch pocket, a welt pocket, a patch pocket with a flap, or a bound pocket. Make the pockets only after the coat is put together, except for the lining, as it will be necessary to pin them at the right height to have them look well. Bound buttons and button holes add a great deal of style to the coat. The bound buttonholes are easy to make in a woolen, but you may have a tailor make them for you if necessary. The same goes for the bound buttons.

How to Line Coat Properly

Most coats have a lining throughout, including the sleeves, as this is essential for winter warmth. A lining also helps a coat to slip on and off easily, so select a glossy material which will slide easily. A darker lining will not soil as easily as a light one, so select material that is a darker shade than your coat, but have the color the same basic one as your coat.

Using the coat pattern, cut the lining for the coat. You'll notice that in many coats there is an extra pleat in the back. The fabric is folded before cutting. The pleat gives extra room in the back without making the coat bulky.

Stitch the lining like a dress, and press seams open. Join the sleeves last.

A good way to insert the lining properly is to place the unlined coat, inside out—on your model figure, then pin and baste the lining to that. Wear the coat after lining is basted to make sure you have enough room, etc.

Bits and Pieces

If you make cretonne slipcovers, save all the odd bits of material and use them for making shopping bags, sewing bags, shoe bags and clothespin holders.

Make water-resistant aprons from old oilcloth. They are handy when washing dishes.

Old damask tablecloths are excellent when dyed and recut into dirndl skirts. They can also be used for attractive but simple place mats or extra napkins.

Worn-out pillow cases are very good for covering clothes that are put away for storage. It prevents dust from accumulating on the shoulders of garments where they're most susceptible.

Fashion Forecast

Colors that continue to be seen as definite possibilities for the season are grays and off-whites. These are often accented with muted white or rich, bright jewel tones.

Everything about the fall costume has the slim look except sleeves, which are definitely full. Sleeves will drape and balloon. The melon and leg of mutton sleeves are very popular.

Slim waistlines and dropped hemlines are high fashion news, as is skirt draping. With short sleeves and sleeveless dresses, the gloves worn are short length ones.

You'll remember World War I when you look at some of the new skirts. There are slim tubular ones and others with the draped panier so popular then, and incidentally, now.

He Got Service

A boy entering a drugstore placed a quarter on the counter. "Please could you give me a dose of castor oil so that it won't taste?" he asked.

"Certainly," smiled the assistant. "Would you like an ice cream soda while you're waiting?"

"Yes, please," answered the lad, and drank the soda with relish.

"Did you want anything else?" asked the chemist.

"No thanks—just the castor oil," replied the boy.

"But you have just drunk it," smiled the chemist.

"Gosh! That wasn't for me, it was for my dad!" exclaimed the boy.

Household Hints

Does your mixing bowl move away from you under the beating and stirring you do? Set it on a damp cloth and it will remain steady. A tea towel works fine for this.

Wear can be distributed on large and small-sized rugs by turning them around from time to time.

Cutting one-fourth-inch notches in the edges of bacon or smoked ham with the scissors will keep it from curling when cooking.

Children should have some time for rest before each meal. Before breakfast and supper they can sit quietly and look at books until the meal is on the table, but at dinner time, after they have been playing hard all morning, they should lie down to rest for about 15 minutes.

Go over your scuffed white shoes with the beaten white of an egg. This pastes the broken pieces down and fills the spaces with a transparent filler that can scarcely be noticed.

THERE seems to be a wide divergence of opinion as to whether the rabid fanatic is entitled to boo a good ball player on an off day and feed him the Old Bronx Cheer in his time of trouble. As you may know, there are two sides to every argument, the same as a plank. Usually both are just as wooden, leading nowhere, but in this case the argument at hand is a big part of baseball.

Booing a visiting or hostile player is another matter. This is often a tribute to the damage said player has slipped to the home club.

The argument we are taking up here concerns the ethical side in riding the home athlete when he is in the process of cavorting on the soapy chute, otherwise known as a slump.

The fan's argument is that as long as he pays his entrance fee and the game is offering him no particular thrill for the money invested, he has a perfect right to pick up his enjoyment and entertainment over another route, which is letting the erring or futile ball player know just what the fan thinks about him.

The fan has a good case here as long as he doesn't move into personal invective, involving the player's ancestry and his present family, which often happens. The only half-way shock I ever picked up over a booing incident occurred many years ago when Pittsburgh fans started riding Honus Wagner.

Wagner was then in his 41st year. He had been an outstanding star for over 20 seasons. He had given millions as many thrills as any ball player had ever displayed up to the reign of Babe Ruth, the all-time thrill king. His brilliant work at short with his bushel-basket hands, his great base running, his tremendous hitting through two decades seemed to be quite enough to allow for a few lapses in his fading days.

Home and Visiting Boos

But the theme song of the baseball crowd is: "It isn't what you used to be—it's what you are today." Just what the Flying Dutchman thought of the vocal raspberries thrown his way no one ever will know. But I've figured ever since that if a home crowd could boo Wagner, no one else should be immune.

Ball players tell me they have no feeling about being booed in hostile hamlets. I know John McGraw relished the dislike he deliberately built up in Chicago, St. Louis and other cities away from New York. I've heard Matty booted in New York—but not McGraw, although he may have been.

The swiftest and most effective reaction to booing from a rival crowd came from Cobb years ago. Ray Chapman, Cleveland shortstop, had just been killed by Carl Mays in a Yankee game. Cobb had been quoted in an interview denouncing Mays. Cobb denied the interview with considerable fervor.

The next day, appearing with the Tigers against the Yankees, Ty took a terrific vocal lathering from some 35,000 Yankee fans. "It's no fun," Cobb told me that night, "to be booted, hissed and cursed by 35,000 American citizens."

But in place of curling up or growing sour, Cobb stepped out that day and got four hits, stole two or three bases, scored several runs and broke up the ball game. The answer is that the big crowd was cheering him in his last time up.

Showing Up the Mob

This seems to be the best answer. The best reply to a boo or a vocal cataclysm of hate and derision is to show up the maudlin mob of goat-getters. You rarely hear them booing a fellow who is making good. No ball player ever took the terrific vocal riding Babe Ruth absorbed in the Yankee-Cub world series years ago when he came to bat against Jack Root in Chicago. Packed stands howled and yelled and called Babe names they wouldn't print in the press of purgatory. The Babe applied even viler epithets, one against 45,000, as he pointed to the center field flag pole. That was the most famous home run Babe ever hit in his collection of more than 700.

"All I know about it," the Babe told me later, "is that ball was kinder egg-shaped or flattened out after they found it."

Problem of 1947

We have been talking recently with a number of managers not club owners or ball players, about the 1947 baseball season. One of the smartest told me this—with the amazing increase in attendance, with the aftermath of the Mexican league and the union arrival, ball players for 1947 are going to demand big pay increases. "A good many of these deserve such increases," the manager said,

That Nagging Backache

May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action. Modern life with its hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking—its risk of exposure and infection—throws heavy strain on the work of the kidneys. They are apt to become over-taxed and fail to filter excess acid and other impurities from the life-giving blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, headache, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling—feel constantly tired, nervous, all worn out. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination. Try Doan's Pills. Doan's help the kidneys to pass off harmful excess body waste. They have had more than half a century of public approval. Are recommended by grateful users everywhere. Ask your neighbor!

McIvor 4-H Club Meets
 The McIvor Experts 4-H club met at the Sherman Township Hall on Wednesday, August 21st at 8:00 p. m. The meeting was called to order by our president Norma Pringle. After the pledge to the flag and the 4-H pledge, the secretary called the roll and read the minutes of the previous meeting. A. G. Hakola, District 4-H club Agent discussed the project exhibit requirements for the fair, and the possibilities of organizing a Sherman township 4-H club to which we may enroll club members from McIvor, Turtle, Jordan, Schneider and National City school districts. We are extending an invitation to all the 4-H club members and their parents of these other school districts to a 4-H club meeting on Thursday, September 19th at 8:00 p. m. at the Sherman Township Hall to plan for club exhibits to the Iosco County fair, September 25th, 26th and 27th, also discuss the organization of the Sherman township 4-H club a bit further. It is urged that all parents be present. The success of a 4-H club depends a great deal on the cooperation and encouragement of our parents. Many is the time when a bit of timely advice and a kind sympathizing word of encouragement from the mother or father will determine whether some of us club members will continue weeding the garden or training Daisy, the dairy heifer, to lead. 4-H club work is educational and recreational. After the meeting, we played two games, musical chairs, and steal the bacon. These games were enjoyed by both the youngsters and parents. Last, but by far the least, our mothers served a very delightful lunch.
