Win First Game In League Playoff

Tawas City Wins 9 to 2 at Standish

Second Game Here This Sunday

Tawas City won the first game in the playoff for the Northeastern Michigan League Championship last Sunday from Standish, the Southern Division Champs, 9 to 2. The two teams battled it out at the Standish Fair grounds where a large crowd witnessed the game. A nice turnout from Tawas City and Iosco County was there to lend their moral support to the team. Bob Rollin, the winning pitcher, was in rare form when he struck out fifteen of the opposing batsmen, allowing only two solid hits and a scratch single, and not walk a man. Rollin had the Standish team eating out of his hand after the first inning when they scored their only two runs or an error and one hit. But after their two run spree the Standish were rocking on their heels when Rollin threw them his fast breaking hook.

Rollie Gackstetter took the batting honors of the day when he blasted the first pitch in the ninth for a homer over the left field fence, and his long fly in the fifth scored another run. Dale Landon and Rollin each had two hits apiece, while Bob Proulx led the Standish team with two hits.

This Sunday the two teams will meet again, this game will be played here in Tawas City at the Tawas City Athletic Field. Come on out and lend your support to the team. This game will no doubt be better played for both teams will be out with blood in their eyes. If Tawas City wins they will take the Northeastern Michigan League Championship.

Harry Toms of Tawas City will give five dollars to the first Tawas City player who hits a home run Sunday. The game begins at 2:00 Sunday. The game and admission price will be o'clock and admission price will be thirty-five cents for adults, and children free. Don't forget, Sunday, September 29th is the day. Gackstetter struck out. D. Landon grounded out, short to first. No runs, no hits, no errors.

TO VOTE NOVEMBER 5 TO REPLACE 79 YEAR OLD COURT HOUSE WITH NEW BUILDING

Faced with inadequate space and facilities for county business in the present court house, about ten years ago the Board of Supervisors voted to create a fund for the construction of a new court house. The fund was to be supplemented by asking the people for a special tax levy when it was thought the proper time to start preparing to build. The county now has about $50,000.00 in the building fund.

Architects plans were secured and the supervisors unanimously voted at the April session to ask for a special building fund tax levy at the June primary. While receiving a substantial majority, this proposition failed to receive the necessary two-thirds majority by about 70 votes.

At the June session of the Board of Supervisors it was again decided to submit the proposition to the voters of the county for their reconsideration at the November election.

The construction of a new Court house (county building) in Iosco county is urgent because the present building which is 79 years old lacks office space to house all of the county officers and for the efficient handling of the county's increasing business. The vault space for the storage and protection of the county's valuable records is much too small, and is fireproof for a duration of only 20 minutes. The replacement of these records would be exceedingly expensive and a large share of them could not be replaced.

Furthermore, the insurance rate for the present wood frame building is high because of the fire hazard. The cost of heating is expensive because of the extremely high ceilings and windows on the main and top floors.

Sanitary facilities are inadequate to provide for the County office force, not to mention the large number of people who enter the building for business purposes and during court trials.

Complete plans and specifications for a fireproof brick and stone building with ample space and facilities for all of the county offices, also fireproof vaults for the storage and protection of all the county's valuable records were prepared by an architect who has specialized in public buildings. These plans were approved by the county officers and accepted by the Board of Supervisors last year.

The approval of the proposition to increase the county tax limitation by two mills for a five year period and voting a two mill tax for the years 1947-51, inclusive, by the taxpayers at the general election on November 5, 1946 will raise approximately $20,000.00 per year for the following five years. This $100,000.00 together with the $50,000.00 already in the building fund created through annual appropriation of $5000.00 made for the past ten years by the Board of Supervisors, will furnish an approximate sum of $150,000.00. This being the estimated cost of the new building at the time the plans were completed. In the event the vote on this proposition is favorable the construction of the new building will begin as soon as building conditions are reasonable.

IN THESE UNITED STATES

Picturesque Wilderness Becomes National Park

City-weary Americans will have an opportunity to step into the past to see the northern forest as it was centuries before Columbus stumbled onto a new world through dedication of forest-green and rugged Isle Royale, "the jewel of Lake Superior," as the nation's newest national park.

The island, jutting boldly from the blue Superior waters, 55 miles from the mainland, stood for centuries before its discovery by the Indians.

French explorers followed the Red Men across the lake to the island, a virtually untouched laboratory of nature where rich mineral deposits lie buried deep beneath the grandeur of the surface.

Mecca for Thousands.
Centuries later the modern sportsman and tourist rediscovered Isle Royale, and now it has become a mecca for several thousand persons each year.

Dubbed the "Lake Superior icebox," Isle Royale is isolated by the ice over Lake Superior for seven months a year—November to May. It is the permanent winter home of only fishermen and trappers. In the summer months the population is increased greatly when more fishermen arrive and when vacationists flock to the picturesque wilderness.

Years ago the state of Michigan took initial steps to save the island from the pulp loggers, already starting their operations there, for a cut-over Isle Royale would have been such a bleak and barren wilderness that probably not even the moose would have liked the place.

Came in 'Big Freeze.'
The famous Isle Royale moose, incidentally, are not native to the island. They have been there only since the very cold winter of 1912 when that part of the big lake froze so solidly that the herds' ancestors migrated from Canada 10 miles across the ice. The island proved a perfect place for the moose, the herd thriving and increasing.

The caribou and white-tailed deer, which were native to the island long before the moose came, are no longer found there. But of other wild life there is a good variety and an abundant amount: mink, beaver, coyote, brush wolves, rabbits.

The island is the home of a great many water birds that fish on its shores and streams. Like every well watered wilderness, Isle Royale is a forested area with groves of white and black birch, sugar, red and mountain maples. Black ash, mountain ash, quaking aspen, alders and willow trees also thrive.

Because the winters are subarctic and the nutrient for trees is meager and the summers short, some trees are more than four centuries old and only five feet tall. The area abounds in wild flowers, including 30 varieties of orchids.

Starts Campaign.
The man who made the modern discovery of Isle Royale was Dr. William P. Scott, who in 1890 was sent there to look after the miners and their families. He made leisurely explorations over the place, fell in love with the rugged island far out in the cold, cold lake and was the first to campaign for its nationalization.

Fishermen, meantime, built huts, groups of them clustered into tiny shoreline villages, and worked the rich waters around the island, taking out whitefish by the ton. Life in the summertime there was pleasant and profitable.

But life on Isle Royale in the winter was always rugged, bleak, lonesome and dangerous. Once a winter worker had an eye pecked out by an owl made so desperate by hunger that it dared attack a man.

Formerly there was no communication between the island and the rest of the world from the time the last boat sailed away in November until the next one broke through the ice in May. In late years, of course, there has been radio.

Compared to Battleground.
The big island is 46 miles long, contains 205 square miles of area and has a number of small islets around it so that it is sometimes compared to a battleship escorted by a flotilla of destroyers. Transportation around the island is by boat from port to port, or by foot over the moose or old miner trails, some of which were cleared a bit and marked a few years ago by the CCC. There are no railroads, not even any wagon roads on Isle Royale.

In 1931 congress voted to make a national park out of the area, and in 1933 President Roosevelt approved the spending of $750,000 of federal funds to purchase land of the island in danger of being logged for pulp. By 1939 all claims were cleared and the department of interior took over administration of the area, making it a national park. The war intervened to delay dedication of the new park until this fall.

Doctors Abandoned Hope—But Injured Vet Now Can Talk
JAMESTOWN, N. Y. — "He'll never talk again," doctors agreed after Richard J. Werner, 20, of Jamestown, was wounded in action on a battlefield in Germany March 25, 1945 — but now Werner plans to try out for his school glee club.

SITE OF SANATORIUM . . . Shown above is the Ottawa Arthritis sanatorium and Diagnostic clinic, where revolutionary new methods of treating arthritis have been evolved.

NO LONGER 'HOPELESS'

New Concepts in Treating Arthritic Patients Evolved

OTTAWA, ILL. — Convinced that "something could be done" to end the futility which has characterized most efforts to treat arthritic patients, Dr. E. C. Andrews, director of the Ottawa Arthritis sanatorium and Diagnostic clinic, has developed a revolutionary new concept in treatment of the disease and other rheumatic conditions.

The new method, which Dr. Andrews describes as "completely outmoding procedures generally followed by present-day doctors," is providing permanent relief for hundreds of arthritis sufferers who once believed their cases to be hopeless, he adds. Success of the new procedure, he continues, lies in its ability to treat the body as a whole rather than merely the part affected by the arthritic ailment.

Located in quiet, spacious surroundings in an industrial community of central Illinois, the Ottawa sanatorium places main emphasis on a thorough, 48-point examination of the arthritic patient. Findings of the examination, which usually requires about six days, then are correlated to determine cause of the affliction. A complete report and prescribed treatment are forwarded to the patient's own doctor, to be carried out under his supervision when the patient returns home.

Pointing out that arthritis never "heals itself," Dr. Andrews insists that success of any program to control the disease is based on adequate diagnosis followed by treatment of the entire body to return it to a normal condition.

"There is no such thing as a hopeless case of arthritis," the specialist maintains.

Dutch Give Food Grants as Means To Spur Weddings

AMSTERDAM. — Special inducements to marriage have been authorized by the distribution service of the Dutch government, including food as wedding "bait."

The grants stress extra food allowances for wedding feasts, including a half pound loaf of bread for every guest, one pound of margarine, six ration coupons for sweets (or three for tobacco), two ounces of meat, one ounce of coffee, four quarts of milk and two pounds of sugar for the festive board.

Shortage of Males Termed 'Sabotage'

WASHINGTON. — Reports that the war left a scarce supply of single eligible males were revealed as so much "romantic sabotage" in census figures.

On the contrary, the girls have an edge in the marriage odds. Statistics disclose that in the marriageable age groups there are more single men than single women.

"There still are more than enough men to go around," Dr. Hope T. Eldridge, census bureau analysis expert, reports.

Bobcats Are Peril In Oil Field Areas

THERMOPOLIS, WYO. — Increases in the bobcat population near the Warm Springs oil field represent a new menace, according to Gayle Lewis, Lewis, who uses tomcats to catch mice at his house in the oil field area, reports that three of his tomcats have been killed by foraging bobcats. Now, he says, the mice walk around in the oil at the field, then track up his house.

AVIATION NOTES

College football fans are becoming air-minded, with many prospective rooters planning to fly to major grid classics this fall. Both private planes and commercial airliners will be used in carrying grid enthusiasts to their favorite stadiums.

Ernie Nordstrom, Northwestern university ticket manager, reports many inquiries from fans planning to fly to Evanston, Ill., for Wildcat games. An alumnus in Seattle, Wash., has purchased two season tickets, he and his wife planning to make the trip each weekend by regular airline travel. Season tickets also have been purchased by alumni in Colorado and Texas, who plan to travel to Evanston by air.

A block of 150 seats has been sold to a group of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., fans for the Ohio State game. The party has chartered planes for the trip. Another party in a far western city plans to charter a DC-3 plane for the Northwestern-Illinois game.

Add novel uses for airplanes:
A means of keeping farm kids "home on the range." Dewey C. Shaffer, O'Neill, Neb., farmer, uses an airplane to cover his 25,000 acres of ranch land, oversee his 3,000 Herefords and check his 45 windmills and 175 miles of fencing. Main advantage to the plane, however, is that the shiny red two-seater has added a glamorous punch to ranching for his son, Larry, and two daughters. It will be the means, Shaffer hopes, of "keeping them down on the farm."

FLYING SCHOOLS DOUBLED

Postwar increase in private flying and flying training for veterans under the G.I. bill of rights are reflected in the more than twofold increase in the number of flying schools approved by Civil Aeronautics administration in the first seven months of 1946.

The number of CAA approved ground and flying schools operating in this country totaled 1,021 on August 1, compared with 405 at the first of the year. In the month of July alone 188 new schools were approved while another 70 were given reapproval.

Among the 1,021 new schools there are 1,306 CAA ratings, some schools holding two or more ratings for different kinds of flying. Broken down, the ratings are as follows: basic flying, 129; advanced flying, 50; primary flying, 637; instrument flying, 193, and flight instructor, 221.

NEW HELICOPTER . . . Introduced to the public for the first time at the Cleveland national air races, Firestone's new helicopter jumps off the ground vertically before the small plane in the background can gain flying speed on its short take-off run.

AIR EXPRESS SERVICE

Direct air express service to Anchorage, Alaska, from all parts of the United States now is available. The new service is operated non-stop between Anchorage and Seattle, Wash., marking the first extension of Northwest Airlines routes beyond U. S. borders in accordance with its recently certificated routes to Tokyo, Shanghai and the Philippines. The air express rate is 60 cents a pound between Seattle and Anchorage, with a minimum of $1 a shipment.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

Lesson for September 29

JESUS AND THE LAW OF LOVE

LESSON TEXT—Psalm 119:33-38; Matthew 5:43-48.
MEMORY SELECTION—Love worketh no ill to his neighbor; therefore love is the fulfilling of the law.—Romans 13:10.

Love fulfilled the law—in Christ. God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son (John 3:16). The law of love is therefore appropriate as the subject of our closing lesson on the general theme, "Jesus Interprets Old Testament Laws."

Love is the heavenly gift of God, who is love, to man who so much needs its grace and power for his own life and for his living with others.

I. The Mind of Love (Ps. 119:33-35).
Eight times in this psalm there is found the cry of verse 33 for instruction in the laws of God. Man not only must know them, but he must know how they operate. The picture here is that of a man who wants to get in step with God, marching out to spiritual warfare and being prepared to respond in prompt obedience to the commands of his divine leader.

Here we have the true mind of love. The one rightly instructed in the principles of God's rule in the world sees that love is the basic requirement, but that it expresses itself in a life that is in accord with the will of God.

The thought of this passage is well expressed by Dr. W. R. White: "The psalmist had the highest possible conception of love before the revelation in Christ. He saw it as the basic order of things. He conceived it as identical with the will of God. He viewed it as the safe, happy path for man. He considered it as the way of wisdom. He passionately desired to embrace it and order his life by it. He saw it imparting to the naive and simple the benefits of extraordinary judgment. To measure up he knew that he had to be quickened or made alive to it by the power of God."

II. The Manner of Love (Ps. 119:36-38).
Love operates not from necessity, but because of an inner urge which will not be denied. The psalmist prays that his heart may be so inclined toward the Lord and so quickened within that he may be eager to do the will of God.

Love has a technique, if you will, a manner of operation. It avoids certain things which would hinder or prevent its full function and seeks out those attitudes and experiences which will encourage and enlarge.

Covetousness must be avoided, for that is idolatry (Col. 3:5). We noted in our lesson of two weeks ago that covetousness makes a man stingy, envious, selfish, proud and foolish. That means that love must rule out this destructive element.

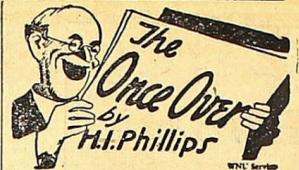

Love turns away from vanity. The vain things of this world are usually presented in such attractive dress that to look at them is to be tempted. The answer is to turn your eyes away, or better still, ask God to give you special grace not only to turn away, but to stay turned away. The vain passions of this world destroy real love, even while using the word to describe their base counterfeit.

The positive side of the matter is also clear. The manner in which love best expresses itself is in the fear of God, in the established order of a life according to the law of God (v. 38). By being inclined to his testimonies it finds the right way—God's way (v. 37).

III. The Measure of Love (Matt. 5:43-48).
How far does love go? Does it have a limit? Does it choose those toward whom it will express itself, loving the lovely and ignoring or hating the rest? In answer to these questions let us first ask, What is the general attitude of the world? The answer is evident. The world has established its own principle of conduct based on selfish advantage. It pays to be polite to those who can favor you, so cultivate their good will by acts of courtesy and kindness. Your neighbor may be able to help you in an hour of need, so do good to him as you have opportunity.

But an enemy—what can you gain from kindness to him? Hate him, and treat him like an enemy. Christianity knows nothing of such a spirit. Even though it be necessary to oppose wicked men in order to hinder their evil plans, we need not lose our love for them. Even those who despitely use us may be loved for Christ's sake.

"Consider him that endured such contradiction of sinners against himself (and went right on loving them) lest ye be wearied" in your own love for those who bear the sad name of enemies (see Heb. 12:3). This is admittedly a high standard, but it is not too high for those who know the love of Christ.

ELMER TWITCHELL ON THE BEER OUTLOOK

"Well," said Elmer Twitchell, "I see where it is announced that on account of the government's 15 per cent increase in grain allotments to the breweries the beer shortage will be over in a few months but I am still betting that there is a big battle ahead before the old time glass of beer comes back. The demi tasse glass of suds has become routine stuff and it would break a lot of barkeepers' hearts if they ever had to serve the stuff in a man-sized goblet again."

"I admit there has been a real beer shortage and that with costs of operation and high taxes the schooner of beer and the growler had to go. But my point is that once the size of anything sold to the consumer is cut down it rarely comes back. And I know of nothing that was cut down so much as the size of the beer glass since Pearl Harbor."

"In my opinion the barkeepers could have served a much larger glass at the price they were getting and not have gone to the poorhouse. But be that as it may, what America needs as much as anything else is a good five-cent glass of beer. Or maybe I should say a good glass of beer, even if it costs 10 cents."

"There will be no rest, peace and contentment in this country until a man can get a decent glass of suds at a decent price. You can talk about all the things that have caused unhappiness, trouble and low morale here, but among the top causes is the custom of serving beer through an eye-dropper and getting as high as 20 cents a glass for it."

"This nation knew its most contented and peaceful years when beer was passed out in a glass that was hard to lift and when, all over town, there were signs 'The Biggest Glass of Beer in Town for a Nickel.'"

"There was little of the brother-hate-brother stuff, every man didn't suspect every other man's motives, the soap-box orator on the green was almost talking to himself, the country wasn't echoing to the cries of 'We're being exploited,' and war was about the last thing anybody had in mind."

"Bring back the five-cent glass of beer and the free lunch and civilization will take on its old-time appearance!"

Elmer was quite excited. "It's something the U. N. should put on its agenda," he declared. "Let it drop half the stuff it is studying as the cause of war and just study the beer situation. Let it drop everything else, and come out for the return of the free lunch! Even Russia will be appeased!"

THE SOARING ORANGE

The ceilings have been taken off all fruits except oranges and bananas, lest the prices run away. Personally, we can't remember back to a time when the price of an orange didn't seem to be not only to be running away but going for the record.

Secretary Anderson, we note, also has suspended ceilings on "edible tree nuts." That simplifies our food problem for the fall and winter, provided we can get a priority on ladders and shoe-spikes.

Country life is often synonymous with alcoholics not so anonymous.

COOLS TOWARD PRESS

WASHINGTON.—Newsmen probably won't write about it, but President Truman's Bermuda trip climaxed a significant change in his relations with the press. The old days of intimate, chummy talks now have vanished! Truman was cool, aloof, even chilly.

And for good reason. Some of his supposedly most trusted news friends let him down. Off-the-record talks which the President thought were going only to half a dozen people leaked out and became the property of millions.

Most disillusioning of these was a reunion of the "Hard Rock Club," a group of a dozen newsmen who covered Truman's vice presidential campaign when he was ignored by the rest of the country.

Several weeks ago the President invited the boys to an evening on the yacht Williamsburg. They played poker, drank bourbon and generally let their hair down—especially the President. He was indiscreet enough to tell all about the Russian situation and what he thought of Chester Bowles—then OPA administrator.

His remarks were not complimentary. Truman minced no words about either Bowles or the Russians and it was hard to say which he liked least. Although he favored OPA, he thought the fight to win its approval from congress would not have been so hard if Bowles had not issued so much propaganda and talked so much.

Shortly afterward, Time magazine published a brief account of this very confidential evening. Blame for the leak fell upon Edward Lockett, Time staffer who is a member of the Hard Rock club.

Truman was so indignant that for a long time he would not speak to Lockett. Other club members virtually ostracized him.

Later, the Chicago Sun's Tom Reynolds, no member of the club, wrote another account of the President's off-the-record remarks on that memorable evening. Naturally, Truman's views got back to the Russians. This made him even more vexed—and worried.

So from now on the chief executive has decided not to be the naive and trusting gentleman he once was with his supposed close friends of the press. During the Bermuda trip, for instance, he gave press secretary Charlie Ross instructions that newsmen were to ask no questions which did not pertain directly to the trip. And when one man violated this rule to ask why Rhode Island's Sen. Theodore Green was not invited aboard the Williamsburg, the President nearly snapped his head off.

LEARN OF SPEECH

Final decision for the Jimmy Byrnes speech on Germany was imparted to high officials in Washington about 12 days before he made it. The suspicion is that the Russians learned about it at the same time.

Byrnes phoned President Truman about 12 days in advance, told him the Russians were on the rampage, that nothing could be done to satisfy them. He therefore proposed that the United States and Great Britain try to set up a German government which could be won over to democracy and which could serve as a bulwark against Russia.

President Truman, who has come to put complete trust in Byrnes' judgment, agreed.

Whether or not the Russians tapped the trans-Atlantic phone, or whether they had other ways of knowing what was going on is anyone's guess. Maybe it was just coincidence.

Anyway, it was shortly after this that Foreign Minister Molotov made his sudden, mystery flight to Moscow. Simultaneously, inspired stories began to leak out of Poland that Russia would take Silesia away from Poland and give it to Germany. Obviously this was German bait to counteract the offer Byrnes was going to make to Germany.

If Russia goes ahead with this policy of "The Soviet giveth and the Soviet taketh away," it will cause the toughest showdown so far experienced between Moscow and Washington.

The categorical Byrnes-Truman position is that the Soviet can neither "giveth nor taketh" without the consent of its allies, that Germany's boundaries are to be decided only at the final peace treaty—which Russia so far has refused to call.

Even Beavers Occasionally Are too Eager

GREELEY, COLO.—Even beavers occasionally become too eager, county road workmen insist.

Called to repair a flooded section of county road, the workers at first thought some farmer had been careless with irrigation water. Later they discovered that beavers were building a dam across a nearby irrigation ditch, causing water to run onto the road. The road workers pulled out the dam. That night the beavers put it back in. The battle continued, the roadmen working like beavers taking out the dam during the daytime and the beavers living up to their name at night by putting the dam back.

Finally Sheriff Gus Anderson was called into the case. He refused to take legal action to dispossess the beavers, but he did notify Game Warden W. O. Adkins, who will trap the beavers.

Many Ways Are Given For Preparing Fresh Fruits

Baking is a good way of preparing apples and other fruits because it's easy and it also saves precious minerals and vitamins.

Fruit Feast

If you're one of those people who can't think of enough ways to serve fruit, then look over some of our suggestions today. They will get plenty of fruit into the diet as well as plenty of ways to serve it.

Sometime ago someone asked me if one could eat too much fruit, and I replied hesitantly, "No." Most of us don't get enough, and even if we go over the allotted amount of 2 fruits and a citrus fruit, it won't do even a bit of harm.

Use fruits fresh as often as possible to eat just as they come from orchards and gardens. Try chilling them just a bit if you want them to be really palatable. Use them often in a salad, and in that way you won't destroy their precious store of vitamins and minerals.

Fruits can be combined with other foods to make them extremely popular. Here's a variety plus for you in the form of real, down-to-earth goodness in recipes.

French Peach Pie.

- (Serves 4 to 6)
- 6 to 9 peaches
 - 1 9-inch unbaked pie shell
 - 1/2 cup butter
 - 1 cup sugar
 - 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
 - 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
 - 1/2 cup flour

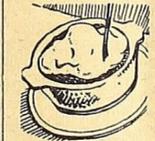

Mix flour, sugar and spices. Cut in butter until crumbly. Arrange peaches (peeled and cut in quarters or eighths) in the unbaked pie shell. Cover with crumbly mixture. If peaches are not very juicy, add a few tablespoons of water to peaches. Bake in a hot (450-degree) oven for 10 minutes, then reduce heat and bake another 40 minutes in a moderate (350-degree) oven.

Here is a dessert with the goodness of fruit added to eggs and milk. It's a perfect recipe for making for the younger children:

Baked Apricot Custard.

- (Serves 6)
- 2 eggs
 - 1 tablespoon sugar
 - 1/4 teaspoon sugar
 - 1/4 teaspoon lemon extract
 - 1 cup scalded milk
 - 12 canned apricot halves
 - 12 pecan nutmeats

Beat eggs slowly, add sugar, salt and extract. Add hot milk, slowly, and stir until sugar is dissolved. Drain the peaches and chop nuts, then arrange them in greased custard cups. Pour the custard mixture into them, sprinkle on top and bake in a rather slow (300-degree) oven

LYNN SAYS:

Fruit Tips: Try to find fruit that is ripe but still not spoiled. Wash and dry carefully as soon as you have brought it home.

Never pile soft fruits on top of each other, but try to lay flat over a surface. Chill just before serving.

Never wash berries until just before serving, or they will mold. To keep perfectly they should be stored in their little baskets, washed and drained gently just before serving or using.

It's best to store fruits in a cool rather than a freezing place as many fruits cannot stand refrigeration, particularly bananas.

If fruits, such as bananas, apples and pears, tend to turn dark after peeling and cutting, sprinkle a citrus fruit juice over them to prevent discoloration. Lemon, grapefruit or orange juice may be used.

If fruits are cut and shredded before using, cover and store them before serving to prevent a loss of vitamin C.

about 25 minutes.

You may have been hearing a lot about this dessert recently, and though it's an old-fashioned dish which grandmother no doubt knew well, I thought you might like the instructions:

Apple Pan Dowdy.

(Serves 6)

- 4 tart apples, sliced
- 1/4 cup brown sugar or maple syrup
- 1 cup cake flour
- 1 teaspoon baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 cup melted butter or margarine
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 egg
- 1/2 cup milk
- 1/2 teaspoon grated lemon rind
- 1 teaspoon lemon juice

Grease a round or square cake pan. Heat oven to moderate, about 350 degrees.

Wash apples, core, peel and slice. Place them in baking pan and sprinkle with sugar or maple syrup. Stir sugar into melted shortening, add egg and beat vigorously. Sift dry ingredients together and add alternately with milk. Fold in lemon juice and rind. Pour batter over apples and bake in moderate oven about 30 minutes. Remove from pan immediately and serve warm with plain or whipped cream.

Now that bananas are here again you might like some variety in ways to use them. Here are some sure-fire ideas.

Banana Praline Ice Cream.

(Yields 1 quart)

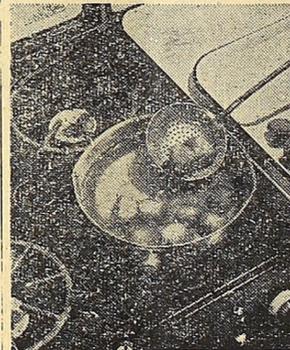

- 3 very ripe bananas, sieved
- 1 tablespoon lemon juice
- 1/2 cup brown sugar
- 1/2 cup milk
- 2 eggs, separated
- Dash of salt
- 1 cup rich or evaporated milk, chilled
- 1 teaspoon vanilla
- 1/2 cup broken pecan meats

Add lemon juice, sugar and milk to bananas. Beat egg yolks until golden colored and fluffy; add to banana mixture. Whip rich milk until doubled in volume and add to bananas. Fold in vanilla and beaten egg whites and turn into freezing tray. Freeze until mushy, with control set at coldest point. Stir well and then freeze again. Serve, garnished with slices of banana.

Banana Scallops.

(Serve With Meat)

Slice peeled yellow or slightly green-tipped bananas crosswise into pieces 3/4 to 1 inch thick. Dip slightly in one beaten egg. Drain, then roll in 3/4 cup of finely crushed corn flakes, bread crumbs or cornmeal. Fry in shallow fat until golden brown.

Cherry Cobbler.

(Serves 6)

- 1 1/2 cups flour
- 1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup lard or other shortening
- 1/2 cup milk
- 3 cups stoned cherries
- 1 cup sugar
- 3/4 cup corn syrup
- 1 tablespoon butter
- 3 tablespoons flour

Sift flour and then sift again with sugar, baking powder and salt. Work in cold shortening with a pastry blender, and add milk to make a soft dough. Roll out to 1/2 inch thickness on lightly floured board.

Heat cherries and add combined sugar, corn syrup and flour. Then add butter. Pour hot into baking dish and cover with rolled dough. Cut slits in dough and bake in a moderately hot (400 to 425-degree) oven for 20 to 25 minutes or until crust is golden brown.

This may be served warm or cold with plain cream or a foamy sauce.

It takes planning to achieve a goal

Some young men know what they want and plan for it. Others are still looking for their niche. The new Regular Army can help both.

Perhaps you want to go to college but can't afford it. If you enlist in the Army, you'll get your chance. Honorably discharged after a three-year enlistment, you are eligible for 48 months of education at any college, trade, or business school for which you can qualify. The Government will pay your tuition, laboratory fees, etc., up to $500 per ordinary school year, plus $65 a month living allowance—$90 a month if you have dependents.

If you haven't found your spot, an Army enlistment offers you training in any of 200 trades and skills. You leave the service eligible for further training at the best civilian schools.

You can assure yourself of the benefits of the GI Bill of Rights if you enter the Army on or before October 5, 1946. See your nearest Army Recruiting Station for details.

HIGHLIGHTS OF REGULAR ARMY ENLISTMENT

- Enlistments for 1½, 2 or 3 years. (1-year enlistments permitted for men now in the Army with 6 or more months of service.)
- Enlistment age from 18 to 34 years inclusive (17 with parents' consent) except for men now in Army, who may reenlist at any age, and former service men depending on length of service.
- A reenlistment bonus of $50 for each year of active service since such bonus was last paid, or since last entry into service, provided reenlistment is within 3 months after last honorable discharge.
- A furlough for men who reenlist within 20 days. Full details of other furlough privileges can be obtained from Recruiting Officers.
- Mustering-out pay (based upon length of service) to all men who are discharged to enlist or reenlist.
- Option to retire at half pay for the rest of your life after 20 years' service—increasing to three-quarters pay after 30 years' service. All previous active federal military service counts toward retirement.
- Choice of branch of service and overseas theater (of those still open) on 3-year enlistments.

We're Trying to Make Telephone Service Go Around, Too!

A lot of people are still waiting for telephones. To provide as many of them as possible with service, we're having to limit most new installations to party lines.

This, of course, is a temporary measure, designed to give more service to more people sooner. As additional facilities become available, we'll be able to give individual-line service to those who want it.

Meanwhile, you can help make party-line service good service by observing these simple rules:

- 1 When the line is in use, please don't interrupt except in case of emergency.
- 2 Keep all calls as brief as possible.
- 3 Avoid making several calls in immediate succession.
- 4 After every call, hang up carefully. One receiver off the hook puts all the telephones on the line out of service.

GREYHOUND

DESERT ROSE

By ROLLIN BROWN

W.N.U. FEATURES

Deputy sheriff Jim Doane sets out to track down a gang of robbers who had held up a train two days earlier. He follows their trail in the desert dust of San Loreto county until his horse dies from a rattlesnake bite. Then he travels on foot, seeking water, until he collapses. Three days later he awakens in a bed, having been picked up by four horsemen led by a girl. When he calls out for a drink of water, a tall man, Monte Garcia, enters. Later Jim meets Dolores Alvaro. He is charmed by her beauty. Garcia tells him that the house is close to Sand Wells, and that Jim was near the town when he fell in a coma. Jim thanks him, but points out that there is a warrant out for Dolores.

CHAPTER IV

"Yes?" asked Doane. "Well, that's beside the point. But my story isn't."

"You expect me to deny it, your story?"

"I expected you to—yes. I see you don't. Then why the first lie?"

For an instant something sinister flashed in the strange Spanish eyes; then Monte Garcia smiled suavely.

"It will be best if you do not call me liar," he said. "Not many men do."

"Maybe few have caught you lying."

"Ha! That is true." Then the smoulder came to the eyes again. "Lis'en, my friend. We have had your story; now we will have one of mine. Both true. You are ready to listen? Eh!"

"Shoot."

"My story," began Monte Garcia, with a wisp of a smile, "is most twenty years old. The first part of it. It makes me a young man, younger than you. But already I have skill with my hands. Always my hands are my fortune. They shuffle the cards, they deal. Just nineteen years old I am, but I manage a table in the Star La Rue Silver Palace, up in Maxmillia City. In those days many men come to the Silver Palace. It is legal in those days. . . . You wish to hear this story, senior?"

Alvaro Family Was Evicted From Ranch

"Shoot, I said," mumbled Doane. Monte smiled slightly, and continued.

"It is legal, yes, yet this Star La Rue is not the man to care for things legal after all. Even in those days, the other way pays better. La Rue has one-two ranches of his own—an on the side, as you say, he buys cattle. Where do the cattle come from? That is not the question La Rue asks. You see? If cheap, he buys. Then one day he buys something more than cattle, but without greater price. You shall hear."

"Senior don Pio Miguel Alvaro has one splendid rancho, far down here, which La Rue sees, and which La Rue wants. Don Pio must sell cattle every year, to make profit. So Star La Rue comes to him."

"Don Pio," he says, "I hear you have five hundred head of cattle to sell this spring. That true? All right. I will give you twenty dollars a head, just as they come—big, medium, or small. What do you say?"

"Done!" says Don Pio swiftly.

"The price is high for those days. Ver' high. So Star La Rue, with his men all around him, draws papers for the deal an' tells Don Pio to sign. The papers are written in English, which Don Pio does not read ver' well. But then he is only selling cattle, an' the money has come to his han' already. A bill-of-sale is customary in an honest deal. So Don Pio puts his name there, an' other men with La Rue they sign."

"This rancho," says Mistaire La Rue after a while, "is a good rancho, Don Pio. I think I will like it, an' the price was cheap, considering that I also get all the stock." Don Pio, I will not hurry you to move from my rancho, but be gone in ten days."

"In ten days," continued Monte Garcia, "the sheriff comes down from San Loreto an' forces Don Pio, his wife, an' his baby daughter from the house. Because he does not read En'lish well, you see, Don Pio has signed one deed for his whole property, not a bill-of-sale for some five hundred head of cattle. Star La Rue's men are witnesses, an' each states it is certain Don Pio understood when he took the money. Now it would only seem he wanted to back out of the deal by lies, which is not allowable. Do you understand, my friend? All this happened long ago."

"I understand," Doane nodded stiffly, paused. "I can tell you other stories of the same kind. Twenty years ago this was a pretty lawless strip of country. But the past is past. Today is today, and things have changed. I'm one of the men that's helped to make that change."

"So?" said Monte, with a faint smile. "You are giving me a peek at your own hand, now, senior."

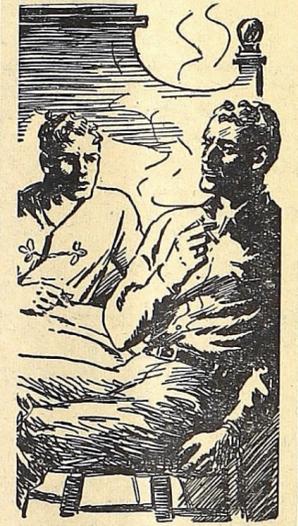

"You know who I am," said Doane.

Monte smiled. "Of course. All along Mistaire deputy sheriff Doane. Telegrams through the railroad, if for no other reason. But my story is not finish. You wish to hear what follow, also? Eh?"

"Yes. Go ahead."

"Bien, then. An' the scene is still the same," continued Monte. "Still in Maxmillia City. Still I shuffle the cards, play the game, for I have a living to make, an' cards are the things I know best. Yet the time now is not long ago; maybe two-three years past, not longer. But there is change, as you know. Now gambling with the cards is no longer legal in this state. A new law has been passed. This makes difference in Star La Rue's Silver Palace. La Rue himself has changed—in the daytimes he is respectable, vice president of a certain Maxmillia City bank. Only on occasional nights—or when something happens—does he come to the Silver Palace, which operates now behind guarded doors without music or many lights. None the less, all kinds of men come there to gamble."

"There is one old man with a ver' bitter face who comes. He does not have much money, but he plays regularly. He likes my table sometimes. I think he is waiting for something. An' perhaps I have one better memory for the Spanish faces than another man. Anyhow, I know this ol' fellow—he is Don Pio Miguel Alvaro, once owner of the Rancho de los Tres Hermanos, down in this country. Usually he loses at the cards. But always he comes back, waiting for that something."

"Was this old man very slight of figure?" asked Doane softly.

"Then one night it happens. It is luck! Senior Alvaro wins one thousand dollars. Half he puts back; wins again. Twice more. Loses. For an hour the play goes. But when the ol' man finally stands at his chair, he has broke the bank of Star La Rue's illegal gambling palace. It is twenty-five thousand dollars he has won!"

"Star La Rue is called. He comes like one animal. He gets the ol' man aside."

"Play once more," he says. "Play your luck once more—against me! At another table!"

"For one thing," says the ol' man firmly, "Down in San Loreto County you have a rancho, senior La Rue. It is called Rancho de los Tres Hermanos. I would like to wager against that rancho."

"There is much debate. For one thing the rancho is worth more than twenty-five thousand dollars. On the other hand, the old man is about to walk away with all the money he has won, or so Star La Rue thinks. So they compromise. The ol' man gives back to La Rue his winnings, to be kept no matter how the cards fall. That evens matters. The Rancho de los Tres Hermanos is put at stake on one matched draw of the cards."

"I have worked for Star La Rue a long while. I am the most skillful dealer he employs. So they come to my table. Star La Rue looks at me a long while an' gives a certain signal. I shuffle the cards as I know how. Three times through the deck. There is a double cut. . . . But, my friend, I already begin to plan where I will look tomorrow for a new job. Something honest now, maybe a school for telegraph operators, I think—an' so it has turned out."

Monte Garcia smiled thoughtfully to himself. He lighted a fresh cigarette with an unconsciously swift gesture. Deep in his eyes was the trace of a keen, hidden satisfaction; and also a deadly anger.

"And senior Pio Miguel Alvaro drew what card?" asked Doane.

"The ace, of course," said Monte. "But to make my little, last gesture the more perfect, Star La Rue gets the two-spot. Lower than that a gambler cannot draw."

"Uh-huh. And the after-result?"

"Yes, the after-result," considered Monte. "It would have been better had I given the two-spot to Don Pio. Sometimes fate and justice are like that."

"Meaning?"

"Star La Rue's gambling palace was illegal. We have mentioned that change. State laws have now been passed against gambling. Such a thing as a gambling debt no longer exists in the eyes of the law. Do you see? There is nothing to force a man to pay a debt of the cards."

"So Star La Rue didn't?"

"Ver' much he didn't, senior. You should know that. Does Star La Rue still not own Rancho de los Tres Hermanos? But less than a week following La Rue's debt another thing happens. An aged Spanish gentleman is shot an' killed in the yards of Tres Hermanos. His body is left unidentified. It is claimed this ol' man has been caught attempting to steal horses from the corrals. Nothing at all is said about his coming to claim the rancho he thinks he has won!"

Seconds of silence followed Monte's words.

"Was this old man very slight of figure?" asked Doane softly. "Did he have a silvery-white mustache and a slight scar over one eyebrow? Was the forefinger of his right hand slightly crippled, caught sometime in the dallies of a reata?"

"You describe senior Don Pio Miguel Alvaro to me," said Monte Garcia. "It is a ver' exact description."

Again long silence.

"Dios!" whispered Doane. "It was my first job under Sam Flick. That's why I remember so well. I came down to Rancho Hermanos with the coroner. They told us the old man was some cholo horse thief. No name for him. I even congratulated La Rue on his marksmanship."

Monte shrugged. "So it would have been better, you see, for me to have given the ol' man the two-spot."

"No!" snapped Doane.

Monte studied him for a long while behind the wisps of blue cigarette smoke. The gray-green eyes showed no emotion. Finally Monte smiled slightly.

"My friend," he said, "I thought that I would come to like you in the end."

Sheriff Sam Flick of San Loreto was in a funk. Railroad officials were pressing him on one hand; Star La Rue on the other. There were fifty rumors, and one single fact. The fact was that five horsemen had turned north from the point of the train robbery at Sand Wells and hit for the desert reeveses of San Loreto county. Flick knew that they might have ridden five, or fifty miles north, and also that they then had the quarters of the compass to choose from.

Eight days had passed since the night of the hold-up at Sand Wells, and the ninth dawned with equal lack of promise. The sheriff had been back from his own trip to Sand Wells for some forty-eight hours, returning by way of Maxmillia City. If he now took a posse into the desert he knew it faced failure; if he didn't, he failed before he began, with corresponding criticism. Flick's one hope was Doane.

Better than eight days now since Doane had left for the scene. Nothing had been heard from him. Nothing was known, except that he had ridden promptly north on the supposed trail of the fugitives. Doane was the very backbone of Flick's law enforcement, and in his secret heart Flick recognized the fact. It added to his helplessness. Day by day he had confidently expected Doane's return. In Sand Wells, he had confidently expected to see his deputy ride into the horizon at every turn. Such delay had meant just one thing to the sheriff at first: Doane had hit a hot trail, too hot to drop, hanging on alone. Doane might do a thing like that. Knowing his deputy, the only thing Flick didn't expect was utter failure.

The sheriff sat over his office desk—brooding, sweating, irritable. The hour was mid-morning, the ninth day.

Deputy Jim Doane Turns in His Badge

"How are you, Sam?"

Flick spun around, like a top. Stared a moment, and relaxed in his chair with an audible sigh.

"Well—Doane! Here you are at last!"

They shook hands, and Flick puffed: "Let's get to business. Things sure in a mess! What happened? Where are they? Who pulled the job? Was it that Alvaro girl?"

. . . Say, you haven't got an arse up your sleeve, have you?"

"No," said Doane. His hand reached out and something hard dropped from the palm onto the smooth surface of Flick's desk. "No, Flick. No arrests. Just nothing, except—Well, there's my badge."

Flick stared at Doane for a long, long time. An unbelieving, stunned expression came over his red face.

"Your badge?"

"My badge," repeated Doane. "My resignation. I'm no longer a deputy sheriff in San Loreto county. I resign the position."

Flick's eyes grew. His face took a purplish cast.

"But, but—" he stuttered. "You—you can't do that!"

"I already have," said Doane.

Flick's hands were grasping the edge of the desk so hard that the knuckles were white.

"I—I never thought I'd see you fail, Doane! Break! Quit!"

"And you haven't—yet!" said Doane, leaving.

WOMAN'S WORLD

Two Worn Dresses Often Yield One Good Wearable Garment

By Erta Haley

WE'VE all had the experience of seeing two worn dresses in the closet, one with the top perhaps all worn beyond repair, and another dress with a skirt that is out of style or no longer useful. Have you ever thought of combining the wearable portions of each dress and making a chic dress from the combination?

Yes, it can be done, and with very good results provided you really take the care to mold the two into one complete garment.

First of all, you may have several dresses as possibilities. For the combination, select two dresses which have a harmonious color scheme, and what is even more important, harmonious fabrics. In other words, don't try to combine a cheap cotton with a rich rayon crepe or a jersey with a wool.

Here are some combinations which you will find compatible: velvet or velveteen with lace or taffeta; two kinds of rayons, provided the texture doesn't clash; wool with silk or rayon or even taffeta (provided there isn't too much of the latter); cotton with cotton, wool with wool, etc.

It's best not to try to match colors, since this is really too difficult, but rather to strive for a good contrast. If the dresses simply don't go together, you might try dyeing one of them to contrast with the color of the first one. Always select the easiest one to dye for the job.

Speaking of things that harmonize or contrast well, you might very well try combining a print with a solid color, or a plaid with plain, etc., as these offer interesting combinations. And if the print does not match the solid, it often can be dyed so that the shade will contrast well, without ruining the print.

Two old dresses can make . . .

Hints on Combining Two Dresses Properly

No combination of two-dresses-into-one will be successful unless you do the combining completely. First of all, the dresses must be either washed or cleaned properly. Every piece of the garment must be pressed carefully so that it can then be re-cut and sewed properly—just as though it were new fabric.

To remove any lines or stitches left on the garment after ripping, press with a damp cloth under the iron. Be sure to remove any small pieces of thread by pulling them away from the garment.

A pattern can be of great help in putting together a dress of this type as many of them show how to combine two fabrics cleverly. Many fashions are adaptable to remodeling of this type, and it won't be hard to put the garment together if you have a guide.

Don't waste work by trying to reclaim garments that do not have material worth sewing on. If you find just one dress that's good enough to remodel, then buy enough material to go with it, instead of using material that is already too worn.

Secrets of Combining Dresses Smartly

To give you some help in selecting dresses that really go together, I'm going to give some concrete ideas that have worked and may be useful to you.

Dressmaker Sleeves

Molly uses the Norfolk silhouette with dressmaker sleeves and a wide turn-back collar in this suit of gray gabardine. Note the well-tailored detail and button interest.

Let's say that you have a plaid dress and a plain one and fabrics and colors harmonize. You might make the skirt and sleeves from the plaid with a bodice that extends below the waistline of the plain material.

Or, if you're shy on the plaid material, just reverse the procedure and make a bodice of the plaid with a yoke, sleeves and skirt of the plain material.

Another interesting combination seen recently was a skirt made of velvet or velveteen with a plumed bodice of a plaid taffeta. To add interest to this rather simple costume, the cuffs and the collar of the dress were made very chic with generous amounts of material.

One of the simplest ways of remodeling two garments into one, especially if the usable material of one garment is rather on the slim side, is to make a yoke and sleeves or just yoke of the one dress while the remainder of the garment is in the other material.

If you can make only a simple dress of one material, say the reclaimed wool, then make the outfit smart by making a jacket—long or short, whichever you look best in—from the velvet or velveteen you have on hand. This latter might be salvaged from an old evening gown or dinner dress, or formal street dress which is now out-of-date.

Guarding Your Woolsens

Dry cleaning is preferable for cleaning most woolsens as it preserves the nap, but many knit garments, flannels and challies wash well with tepid water and a mild soap.

Avoid rubbing as this gets the fibers out of place. Hot water and strong soaps are taboo; so are chlorine bleaches.

Mend woolsens before washing them or the holes will easily stretch larger by the washing procedure.

If blankets show strains of yanking and pulling (because they weren't long enough to begin with) place a strip of cloth at top or bottom or around all sides before the blanket is ruined. Satin ribbon or binding is well used in this case.

Never iron wool with a hot iron. Follow the guide on your iron if you have one of this type. It's always a good idea to use a damp cloth over the wool when ironing, both to prevent scorching and also to give the fabric a nicer, softer finish.

Fashion Forecast

Look for the side fringe on slim skirts this season. It's very new. And gray flannel skirts are a must—can be worn with anything.

Incidentally, sweaters are being worn inside skirts more often than out. Responsible for this is the passing of the "sloppy joe" sweater, and also the new belts which add nice tailored touches to the costume.

Sandals for lounging still show very definite effects of Greek inspiration. There are lots of straps and grace to them, and the colors are an inspiration to see.

Stripes have not passed along with summer. They are here to stay in the soft, lightweight woolsens that make up such nice tailored dresses for business, shopping or school.

RED BLAIK'S brilliant Army football team is on the march again. With a record of 18 consecutive victories picked up in 1944 and 1945, Army's first team should carry it through another big year, even if its spottless record so far happens to be dented before December arrives.

At least no one should expect any further wild romping over such teams as Notre Dame, Michigan, Duke, Cornell, Columbia, Pennsylvania and Navy.

"Our first line strength is extremely good," Red Blaik tells us, as he looks over his eager talent—talent that includes such backfield stars as Blanchard, Davis, McWilliams and Tucker. "But we are no longer three deep. We are no longer even two deep. In addition to our starting backfield, which will match any in football, we have Fuson at center, Poole and Foldberg at ends and two good guards."

As good as Blanchard and Davis are, they are not as likely to steal the entire show again from such fine backs as young Tucker at quarter and Shorty McWilliams at halfback.

A look at the complete records in McWilliams' case proved the Army was entirely blameless in connection with Coach McKean's charges from Mississippi State. It was McWilliams, backed up by his family, who wanted to come to West Point. McWilliams made application while still in high school, before he ever entered Mississippi State. Letter after letter has proved this.

The trouble started on his home furlough when rather luscious financial inducements, apart from any Mississippi State official connection, were made. And don't believe this was the only large financial inducement offered a college football player this year.

A Smart Choice
 McWilliams elected to stay at West Point of his own free will. It was a smart move in his case, as too many leaving service football have come under the gossip of ducking the draft, whether or not the charges are true. I might add that his opponents will find the able entry from Mississippi is one of the best backs in football. He is a great kid with unusual ability. And if there is a better quarterback in college football than young Tucker, or a much better passer, I'd like to have his name.

This year of 1946 may be the last season in some time that Army can field any winning team.

For one reason, too many colleges are paying good football players money that West Point and Annapolis won't and have no desire to meet. For another reason, too many young men have no yearning to get up at 5 a. m. and work 16 hours a day.

It is my belief that college paychecks are going to lead to a national scandal unless there is a sudden check. The fight for young stars, plus inducements offered, already have broken all past records.

Athletic scholarships and jobs that can take a young fellow through college, are O. K. But not the substantial paycheck on the side, usually handled by keyed-up alumni.

Back again in this 1946 Army squad—
 In my opinion Army will have the best backfield in college football—Blanchard, Davis, McWilliams and Tucker—power, speed, smartness and spirit. Once again, keep a more open eye on McWilliams and Tucker.

Tough Year for Army
 "This is the hardest year we've known since 1943," Blaik says.

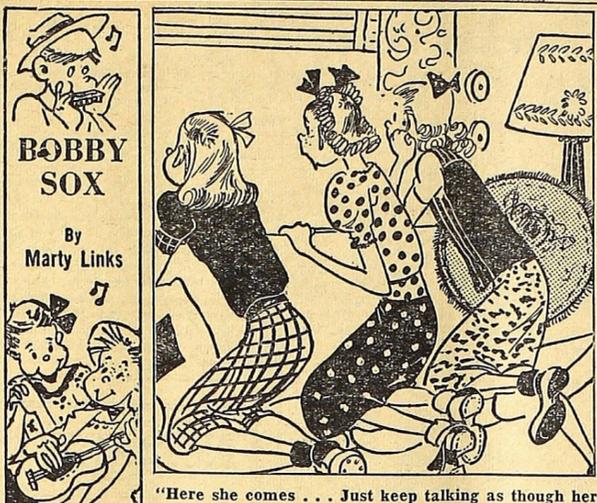

"Frank Lahey at Notre Dame is three deep with a flock of veterans who range back to his great team of 1943. Many have picked Notre Dame as the best team in football. It may be Pennsylvania will give us all the trouble we can handle. Navy had some hard luck in losing men, but Tom Hamilton will do a fine job with a squad that will give anyone a battle.

"Few men on our squad," Red added, "have ever known defeat. They love football. They are all fine officer material, and that is what West Point is supposed to turn out. We can be beaten and we may be beaten, but unless we are handicapped by injuries to key men, it will take quite a team to turn the trick."

At this point, Athletic Director Colonel Biff Jones was gazing moodily into the autumn sky.

"I was just thinking," he said, "that if we had enough parking space for the human body, we could play to at least 300,000 in the Michigan game, and over 800,000 in the Notre Dame and Navy games. We might do 300,000 in the Pennsylvania game.

"You don't think so? Come along to my office and see the ticket requests already piled up. There were over 110,000 applications for the Michigan game early in June.

"Here she comes . . . Just keep talking as though her whole life wasn't really ruined 'cause she didn't get a letter from Warren today!"
