Proposed New Court House Would Safeguard Records Vital to Property Owners

Present Vaults Not Fireproof and Space Inadequate

Iosco county has needed a new courthouse for many years. Space for offices for the various departments is insufficient and there is an appalling lack of fireproof vault room for records vital to every resident of the county.

In the register of deeds office alone, a disastrous fire could destroy the title records of every parcel of land in the county.

Every transfer of title from the time the land was secured from the government to the present time is on record in the register of deeds office, on each parcel of land in the county. This documentary history of the chain of title is necessary to give a clear title to your land. The destruction of these records would require a costly court proceeding on the part of each land owner to again establish a saleable title.

A recent courthouse fire in Montmorency county is costing each landowner about $100.00 for clearing the title on each parcel of land he owns. A good fireproof vault space would have been cheaper.

Recognizing the necessity for remedying the conditions in the Iosco county court, the board of supervisors established a building fund several years ago which now amounts to about $50,000.00.

In the building program planned by the board of supervisors this fund was to be supplemented by a special tax levy. The proposition will be voted on at the coming November election and the presenting of it to the voters required two ballots. Vote "Yes" on both ballots and assure yourself of having the vital records of your property amply protected. The cost will be $2.00 per $1000.00 assessed valuation for a period of five years.

The courthouse propositions read as follows on the ballots:

No. 1—Shall the tax limitation rate be raised for Iosco County from 1.5 per cent of the assessed valuation of the taxable property of said County, to 1.7 per cent thereof for the years 1947 to 1951, both inclusive, to permit a levy of a tax of 0.2 per cent in each year to raise $100,000.00 for the purpose of constructing a new County Building?

No. 2—To authorize the Board of Supervisors to raise $100,000.00 for a new County Building by levying a tax of not more than 0.2 per cent of the assessed valuation in each year, 1947 to 1951, both inclusive.

Large Road Program Nears Completion

38½ Miles of New Grade Made in 1946

The Iosco County Road Commission has just about completed a large improvement program for the year 1946. The program included 38½ miles of new grade, 17 miles of ditching and 11½ miles of resurfacing in addition to a considerable amount of surfacing patching that was almost equal to resurfacing.

The road commission has this year purchased a lot of new equipment, and having this equipment has made possible the doing of the large amount of work that needed to be done.

Purchases during the last few months includes two new 5-7 ton F. W. D. trucks, four new snow plows and a new grader. Much of the old and obsolete equipment has been replaced with modern machines.

Included in the highways in Iosco county being improved this year is three and one half miles from National City to Turtle. The Leffler Construction Co. of Davison has the contract on this project and it will be completed this year.

The grade has been completed on one mile of the road extending south of McVor. This will be resurfaced this fall.

Streeter-Spencer

A pretty home wedding was solemnized at seven o'clock Sunday evening, October 20 when Shirley Jeanne Streeter and Ralph Selwyn Spencer repeated their marriage vows with Rev. Raymond Rose, the officiating clergyman. Vases of large white chrysanthemums and potted palms formed the background in a beautiful candle light double ring ceremony conducted in the living room of the brides home. Only the immediate relatives were in attendance for the wedding.

Shirley is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Streeter of Hale and Ralph the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Spencer of Oscoda.

A prelude of piano music including Chopin's "Symphony" Tschaikovsky's Fifth Symphony and Fritz Kreisler's "Old Refrain," favorites of the bride were played by C. G. Scott of Oscoda. Mrs. C. G. Scott, soloist sang, "The Lord's Prayer," Strains of the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin followed.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her gown was fashioned in Colonial style of lustrous candlelight satin. The portrait neckline was outlined in candlelight French imported lace. The same exquisite lace edged the brides peak which extended over the wrist of the long sleeves. The full skirt extended into a long flowing train, and tiny satin buttons extended down the breast, a gift of her grandmother. Her cathedral length veil was of candlelight illusion, and caught to the crown with a coronet of orangeblossoms. She carried a white Bible, a gift of the groom, topped with white orchids and baby mums, tied in white satin.

Shirley chose Virginia Smith of Cheboygan, and sister of the groom, as her only attendant. Her gown with bodice designed from pink satin and three-quarter length sleeves was fashioned with a full skirt of silk marquisette, with the same portrait neckline outlined with bands of shimmered satin. She wore a sweet heart halo of pink net with a shoulder veil. She carried a colonial arrangement of Ophelia roses and white baby mums, tied with pink satin ribbon.

Ralph chose Dale Kennedy of Oscoda to serve as his best man.

The brides mother wore a black crepe gown with jet sequin trim. Her corsage was fashioned of American Beauty roses and white mums. The groom's mother wore a gown of black crepe with aqua crepe trim and her corsage was of sweetheart roses and white mums.

A reception for one hundred guests followed later. The bride's table was centered with a four tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom, in a garland circlet of orange blossoms. An arrangement of fern and Ophelia roses encircled the cake and crystal candleabra with lighted Cathedral candles adorned each end of the table. The serving table was decorated with vases of pink flowers and a bowl of baby mums. Festoons of white ribbon and wedding bells adorned the space above the table.

They left the following day for Ypsilanti where the groom will resume his studies at the College and where they will reside during the college term.

The bride chose for traveling a pink gabardine suit with black accessories. Her corsage was of white orchids.

The young couple are well known in this section of the state and both are graduates of the Oscoda High School. Shirley has been with the U. S. Postal Service, Oscoda, for the past two years.

Ralph received his discharge from the United States Naval Reserve in August. He spent eighteen months in the service, the last twelve overseas at Samar, Phillipine Islands.

Guests from out of town included: Mr. and Mrs. James Spencer, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Scott, Mr. and Mrs. A. Larson, Mr. and Mrs. Guide Freund, Mrs. Mae Kennedy, Mrs. E. E. Thompson, Mrs. A. V. Smith, Mrs. Elmer Swenson, Mrs. Mary Luhrs, Mrs. Charles Pietsch, Mrs. John Cutting, Miss Edna Young and Miss Alberta Stewart, all of Oscoda; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Smith of Cheboygan, Mr. and Mrs. William D. Rahl and Reese, Mrs. Otto Rahl and Jim of Turner, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Streeter and Izalda, Mr. and Mrs. Eddie LaBarge and Gary and Allyn of Long Lake.

Hunters License Tags Not Up to Par

The poor quality of wartime substitutes is causing concern to Michigan's half million small game hunters.

The conservation department last summer had considerable difficulty in obtaining material for the cloth tags Michigan hunters are required to wear on their backs. It finally succeeded in getting enough "window shade" material to furnish each licensee with a numbered strip. The cloth is of inferior quality and tears easily, the department says, and hunters should take precautions to preserve them—at least long enough to last through the season.

The department suggests that if hunters are unable to obtain transparent shields that the tags be stitched to the back of the hunting coat or be backed with a cloth that will not tear easily.

Iosco Produces $1,224,000 in Farm Products

Double Annual Income Since 1940

More than doubling their annual gross income in comparison with 1940, as reported by the U. S. Bureau of Census, Iosco County farm families last year produced crops and livestock with the record value of more than $1,224,000.

This huge increase in farm revenue has already created heavy demand for general farm improvements and for home remodeling, according to a study released by the Tile Council of America.

The study shows that many farm improvements were made even during the war. Since 1940 for example, the number of farm homes reporting electric lights here has increased from 458 to 514. Forst pointed out that farmers in the county today have 140 more tractors than in 1940, and that the number of trucks on farms has likewise increased substantially. "These facts not only indicate the importance of the farm market but also make it one which no businessman or manufacturer can afford to overlook," he said.

Unsportsmen Like Hunters Spoil Hunting

Chief gripe encountered by conservation department game men interviewing waterfowl hunters in the first week of the season was neither the weather nor the supply of ducks, but the green ignorant, selfish, unsportsmanlike, sky-shooting novice hunters. Gunners in the field call them names considerably stronger.

Some hunters were observed firing at ducks "coming in" when they were still 200 yards away. Oldtimers know that the consistent killing range of the average shotgun is about 45 yards, and that beyond that the hunter is lucky to do more than cripple a bird.

Neighboring hunters whose shooting is spoiled by the ignorant beginners have no legal remedy for the spoiling of their sport. They do say the honorable sportsman will find out in practice what his gun can do, use it intelligently in the field, and treat other hunters as he would like to be treated by them.

REDS CONVERT NAZIS
WASHINGTON. — U. S. intelligence officials have sent the White House a highly important report on Soviet operations in Germany showing how the Russians have converted large segments of the old German army to the Communist banner.

Nucleus of the new Red-Nazi army is the old German Liberation committee, organized by the Russians when they captured several thousand Nazis at Stalingrad. Field Marshal Frederick Von Paulus, who surrendered at Stalingrad, was chairman of this committee and appealed by radio to the Nazi army in Germany during the war, urging them to desert Hitler and come over to the Russians.

Today thousands of Von Paulus's men and officers have been put through Russian indoctrination schools designed to sell them on sympathy for the Soviet and are ready to govern the Soviet zone of Germany.

Here are other salient points in the U. S. intelligence report:

1. The Russian zone is now more than twice as efficient as a productive unit as the American zone and three times as productive as the British zone.

2. The Russians are prepared to set up a government of their own in Germany if the Americans and the British set up an autonomous German government in the western part of the Reich. It will be under Von Paulus.

3. The Russians are not retaining Germans for slave labor, as generally expected. They have already sent a million and a half captured Nazis from Russia to the Soviet zone of Germany, where each has completed one year's schooling under Soviet and German Communist instructors. Only a half million Germans still are being used in labor battalions in Russia. These are the leading Nazis whom the Russians know they can't either convert or trust.

The U. S. intelligence report strongly recommends against an autonomous German government in the Anglo-American zone, as proposed by Secretary Byrnes, and urges instead agreement with the Russians on the control of Germany. It points out that unless agreement is reached, Germany again will be the source of a new world war in the not too distant future.

LA GUARDIA SEES STALIN

When UNRRA Director La Guardia and aides visited Moscow on their recent tour of Europe, the entire party was eager to see Stalin. The Kremlin invitation, however, permitted only La Guardia and two other UNRRA officials to call on the top Soviet leader.

La Guardia, therefore, suggested to his aide, Joseph Lilly, that he divert the rest of the party by taking them to Lenin's tomb, where the body of the father of the Russian revolution is still perfectly preserved.

Late that night, the party re-assembled, and Lilly eagerly asked La Guardia what he had learned from Stalin. Replied Fiorello:

"I got as much out of Stalin as you did out of Lenin."

NO MONEY FOR FINLAND

Finland has been known to Americans as the little country which always paid its debts. Now, however, the U. S. is getting the reputation among Finns as a country which breaks its financial promises.

What happened is that a year ago Finland sent a trade delegation here to arrange for a 70 million dollar loan from the Export-Import bank. The loan was promised, and on the basis of this promise, the Finns made purchases amounting to 35 million dollars in the United States, with partial commitments for the remaining 35 million dollars.

Part of the deal was that Finland was to secure coal from this country, which in turn would help increase her newsprint production. Many American newspapers made arrangements to buy this extra newsprint.

However, something has caused the state department to reverse itself. The Export-Import bank loan to Finland has been held up.

Actual, although unannounced reason for the reversal is the fact that Finland is now in the Soviet sphere of influence and it's feared that any financial help indirectly would aid Russia. However, there is considerable difference of opinion regarding this.

So far, however, Finns still are waiting.

ADMIRAL HALSEY GETS BORED

Admiral William (Bull) Halsey is beginning to fidget in his new job on the President's super-advisory board of five-star army-navy officers. Since his semi-diplomatic mission to South America, Halsey has had little to do. Privately, the tough little skipper hankers to take that job as vice president of Pan American Airways, which is still open to him. He isn't interested in the extra money. His sparkplug temperament craves action, in or out of the navy.

MINISTER AT WORK . . . James W. Carty, 21-year-old minister, contends that ministers should learn at first hand the problems of the working man. He proves his contention by working on the assembly line of the Ford Rouge plant.

'GOOD FELLOW'

Minister Takes Factory Job To Study Workers' Problems

WNU Features

DEARBORN, MICH.—To prove his contention that ministers should learn at first hand the problems besetting the working man, James W. Carty, 21, of Hastings, Neb., theological student at disciples divinity house, University of Chicago, spent his vacation working on the assembly line at the Rouge plant of Ford Motor company.

Carty, who believes that ministers in middle class parishes should spend more time working alongside their parishioners to learn their problems intimately, was one of four theological students employed at the plant.

Exchanging their ministerial garb for work clothes, the four theological students took their places beside the regular working man on an assembly line in the production foundry. Like their fellow workers, they were paid at the regular hourly rate of $1.25.

To round out their experiment in intimate contact with the working man, the students spent a week at the CIO summer camp at Port Huron, Mich., after completing three months' work in the foundry. Smart and likable, Carty was popular with his fellow workers, who invariably would gather round him at lunch period to hear a simple explanation of religion.

"He seems like a good fellow," fellow assembly line workers agreed.

Carty also preached every Sunday in Detroit while working here. Although he has no parish, Carty, who is a member of the Christian church denomination, has preached at "about 30 churches in Chicago of Christian, Methodist, Presbyterian and Baptist faiths."

He has compressed four years of college and three years of divinity school into three years. He received his A.B. degree from Culver Stockton college, Canton, Mo. Several of his articles on various phases of religion have been published in religious journals.

Foul Trick Scares Turkey to Death, Biologist Reveals

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. — The native wild turkey of the Southwest can be scared to death. But, for the benefit of anyone who might hope to get a Thanksgiving feast that way, J. Stockley Ligon, field biologist of the Fish and Wildlife service, adds, the turkey first must be trapped and then scared on a full stomach.

Alone in a trap and approached by human beings, the turkey becomes crazed with shock and, if his crop is full, digestion stops and he soon dies.

The native turkey reached all-time lows of 20,000 in Arizona, 16,000 in New Mexico and 3,400 in Colorado between 1935 and 1940, Ligon reports, the total representing only 15 per cent of the number when Coronado and the first white men began their slaughter 400 years ago.

Civilians Eat More Than Soldiers

WASHINGTON. — A soldier eats less food than the average active civilian, figures compiled by the army quartermaster corps show.

The army's master menu for troops allows an average of 3,780 calories a day, according to the quartermaster, while many non-soldiers burn up 4,500 calories.

Left out of account, however, the war department acknowledges, are the candies and other sweets which

Hair-raising Data Disclosed in Bald Facts on Women

CHICAGO. — One of the nation's best-kept secrets — although it had no bearing on the war or politics — finally has leaked out.

At least 500,000 women are bald and more are getting that way, it was disclosed by a veteran wig-maker, George Henri, who revealed the hair-raising statistics after 40 years of hiding women's lights under bushels of artificial hair.

"Few of the women are totally bald," he reports, "but they do need wigs. Quite a few wear toupees."

"Some of the women say they prefer wigs to their own hair," according to Henri. "They don't have to bother with beauty parlors and they can hang their hair on the bedpost at night so it won't get mussed."

He points out that most hair-shedding among the fair sex is a result of illness.

Unique Floating Hospital Combines Gaiety, Health

NEW YORK—Multiply the ecstatic shrieks of any youngster on a boat ride by about 800 and you have some idea of the happy pandemonium which prevails aboard a unique floating hospital which provides a mixture of gaiety and health for thousands of New York youngsters every summer.

For 70 years, hundreds of squealing youngsters of all sizes and descriptions have collected on an East river pier every summer day. Eagerly they clamber aboard the big white ship, which furnishes a combination joy ride and health checkup for youngsters and their mothers.

Some three million passengers recommended by various social agencies have contributed to the confusion during the 70 years of the ship's operation by St. John's guild, nonsectarian philanthropic organization.

Mothers preceded by four or five youngsters try vainly to keep their broods together as they board the $65,000, specially-built Lloyd I. Seaman. The kids are up the gang-plank and hanging over the ship's rails before their mothers have a chance to set foot on board. The corps of Girl Scout mariners on hand doubles between making sure no one falls overboard and carrying babes-in-arms up the gangplank — first step in giving the mothers as well as the children a complete change of scene and rest.

As the floating hospital is pulled out of its berth by a tug—used to avoid any upsetting vibrations that might make the passengers seasick—there is a chorus of "hurrahs" and "here we go." From that moment until the ship docks again six or seven hours later, there isn't a moment's quiet on board—not even at luncheon.

The more than 900 mothers and children on board include social service agency clients, crippled and disabled youngsters, and families recommended by churches, settlement houses and other community agencies. Wherever they come from, the youngsters are in holiday mood and garb.

Head of Salvation Army Visiting U. S. On Postwar Tour

CHICAGO. — Plans for promoting the Salvation Army's expanded postwar program on the general theme of "Marching Forward to a Better World" are being advanced during a three months' tour of the United States and other western hemisphere countries by Gen. Albert Orsborn, international head of the organization.

Orsborn, whose headquarters are in England, is in charge of Salvation Army activities in 97 countries. His itinerary on the United States visit calls for stops in Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Washington, St.

ALBERT ORSBORN

Louis, Chicago, Detroit, San Francisco, Oakland, Los Angeles, Long Beach, Houston, Atlanta and Miami. He also will visit the West Indies, Central and South America on his 20,000-mile tour of the western hemisphere.

Orsborn, who recently was elected international head of the organization, has spent 41 of his 59 years working in the Salvation Army. His parents before him pointed the way, both having worked with the founder, Gen. William Booth.

The new leader stresses the youth program and internationalism in the organization's postwar policy.

Archers Join Deer Quest in Missouri

STEELVILLE, MO. — Marking the opening of the first special area for archery deer hunting in Missouri, bow and arrow hunters will invade Crawford county October 24-26 for a three-day season.

Crawford county, containing 760 square miles of wooded hills and clear, spring-fed streams, is located in east central Missouri. It was selected as site for the archery hunting by the state conservation commission because of its easy access, good deer population and local cooperation.

Popularity of the bow and arrow has grown considerably in recent years. As early as the 11th century the long bow had its converts. As a weapon of war it served through the Crusades, often accounting for many of the royal stags when not more usefully employed against the king.

Today several adaptations, such as the bow sight and the backed bow, have served to increase its range and accuracy. Although the modern hunting bow and broadhead arrow are vastly superior to those used by the Indians, the hunting methods have changed little.

Slip of Pillow Shows Woman's 'Condition'

NEW YORK. — Lined up at a well-stocked Brooklyn meat market, 2,000 women took it calmly when the management singled out pregnant women and put them at the head of the line. That is, they offered no objection until one woman, whose condition seemed obvious, dropped a pillow she had concealed under her coat. Her face crimson, the woman hurried off amid threats.

PRESENTATION OF COLD FACTS BEST CAMPAIGNING METHOD

IF IT SHOULD ever be my province to conduct the election publicity for either party, which it will not be, I would take a tip from the political wisdom and psychological understanding of Harrison E. Spangler of Iowa. I have seen them applied.

More than six months before the convention that nominated Gov. Alfred Landon of Kansas as the Republican candidate for President, Spangler, then vice-chairman of the Republican national committee, opened a western headquarters of the party in Chicago. In December, 1933, he began offering factual information regarding the operations of government to the rural press of the nation. In the material offered there were no vituperative condemnations of the opposing parties. There was nothing that could be considered partisan unless a plain statement of facts about government operation could be considered as such. The rural newspaper editors, always chary of propaganda, did not consider the material anything other than what was claimed for it, a presentation of facts. Close to 6,000 rural editors asked for, and printed the material. That service to the newspapers continued each week up to, and for a week after, the convention in late June.

Early in July the Literary Digest mailed its straw vote cards to several million names, as it had done in a number of previous Presidential campaigns. Those cards were checked by the recipients and returned to the Digest before the middle of July, but the tabulation was not completed, and the result announced, until the first week of October.

That straw vote, taken in early July, indicated the election of Landon. The Digest poll had demonstrated its accuracy through many campaigns. It was equally accurate at the time it was taken in 1936. The political conditions at that time were those created by Harrison Spangler's campaign of government facts. He had molded public opinion with the presentation of those facts at a time when politics as such was not being talked.

Then came the more than three hectic months of the active campaign waged under a new party management. Spangler's factual material was thrown into the discard. In its place were the tirades and recriminations that are usual in political campaigns. "Oratorical effort shouted charges and counter-charges. Each week saw the Republicans losing votes that Spangler's facts had created. We all know the final result.

That pre-convention campaign, as conducted by Spangler, would teach me two lessons. First, to give the public unvarnished facts. The people will digest them into opinions. When the facts do not conform to what the people expect or want of government, they will vote for a change. They resent condemnation of one party by the other. They will do their own condemning when the facts call for such action.

Second, I would conduct my fact campaign as far in advance of an election as possible. I would start it immediately after an election, rather than a few weeks before the next one. I could make more votes when the people were not being assailed by campaign oratory, and were in a more reasoning mood. And I would not undo what I had accomplished by indulging in tirades.

A MIMEOGRAPHED NOTE from the income tax collector tells me his office can no longer advise me as to tax payments, made or owed, because of a limited personnel. Senator Byrd's committee reports an increase of 10,564 employees in the treasury department for June, 1946, as compared with June, 1945. There must be a "slow down" working in the treasury when they can no longer do what they formerly did when the department employed 10,564 less people. They still have enough personnel to assess penalties if I forget to pay when payment is due.

THE RED JAWS OF THE TOLLITARIAN Russian bear are snapping at the heels of defenseless Greece, ancient home of wisdom and freedom.

MORE TIME SPENT AT BEING thankful for what we have, and less at regrets for what we do not have, will add to the pleasure of living.

THE ROCKS IN THE SEA OF matrimony would seem to be increasing.

THERE IS AN OLD ADAGE the Republicans might apply to the rift in the cabinet caused by the utterings of ex-Secretary of Commerce Wallace that disagree with the policies of Secretary of State Byrnes.

Lawyers and Advertising

California State Bar association has let down the time-honored bars on advertising. It still holds it unethical for an attorney to advertise individually, but has inaugurated an advertising campaign by the association to sell the public on the importance of legal advice.

"A lawyer is your personal adviser. He will serve you in confidence. He aims to clarify your legal problems," says a sample advertisement. Sounds okay. What's wrong with letting the public in on what a lawyer is supposed to do, with maybe a little emphasis on what he is NOT supposed to do?

The public as a whole has been kept in darkness as to some of the sworn obligations of a barrister, and few know that he is supposed to be, first of all, an agent of the court in getting at the honest facts and securing strict justice.

There are individual counsellors who, if allowed to advertise, would put their faces on surface cars and billboards and their telephone numbers in electric lights. It would be hard to tell whether they were selling legal services or a new shampoo.

We can imagine the country plastered with signs, "Let Smugglers Get You Out of It," "Fool the Judge With Lawyer Pottle" and "Guilty or Not, Boggle Can Fix It Up." And even:

Keep out of jail
By hook or crook;
Consult by mail
Attorney Cook!

We think the California bar does well to limit the advertising to bar associations. But we warn it that, anticipating a further weakening of the old concepts on legal ethics, a lot of radio boys are busily engaged in thinking up jingles to suit the individual barrister. Like these:

Does a lawsuit bother you?
Tinkle, tinkle, tootle-oo!
Phone for Lawyer Chidsey Pott:
Five opinions, that's a lot.
Affidavits, will and such,
Three flights up will save you much;
If it's legal aid you seek,
Special prices all this week!

Boy, turn off that radio! We're going to pass up legal advice and take a bottle of hair oil instead.

The Village Blacksmith, 1946 Model

Under a spreading snafu tree
The village smithy stands;
The smith, a helpless man is he,
With trouble on his hands,
For he's short of everything he needs
In all the types and brands.

He's short of iron, short of steel,
He's short of horseshoe files;
The only horseshoes he can get
Are in soybean-plastic styles,
And to get a keg of nails he must Go seven hundred miles.

Week in, week out, from morn till night,
You can hear him telephone;
You can hear him pleading for some stuff

In a voice that seems a groan,
As he hears of further bottlenecks,
While the shoeless horses moan.

And children coming home from school
Look in at the open door;
They know, whatever he's doing,
he

Is shoeing nags no more!
He's even short of sufficient coal
To make the bellows roar!

Some Extra Skirts Will Make A Small Wardrobe Seem Larger

By Erta Haley

Ideal for Travel

THOSE of us who have small clothing budgets are constantly looking for ways to make them appear larger without adding too much extra expense to our allotment. One big help to such a wardrobe is an extra skirt or two, one for sports or casual wear and another one for dress-up occasions. Fortunately, these skirts can be added to the wardrobe if you are handy with a needle and happen to have a coat that is no longer fashionable. Perhaps you have a tweed sports coat that is showing too much wear. This can be ripped apart, and the inside of the material which is still bright and new looking—if it has been protected by a lining—can be fashioned into an attractive skirt.

Soft wool spring or fall coats or evening wraps might still be good, although out of date, and they can offer their material for the dressy skirt.

If you've done any amount of sewing, you know that making a skirt is really a simple matter, much easier than a blouse or even a dress. Tailoring and fit are very important, however, and every care should be taken to make the most of the fabric you are using.

If you are using an old coat for the skirt, rip apart all the seams, since the skirt must be recut entirely. Use a pattern that gives you attractive lines, and make sure that you have plenty of material for the skirt you wish to make.

Pleating a Skirt Requires Care

If you have chosen to make a pleated skirt, work on a flat surface and have your basting thread and needles handy, as you will need all these helps.

If you have enough blouses . . .

Patterns show perforations where the fabric fold, and when cutting the skirt these should be marked heavily with chalk. Fold the pleats on the line of the white chalk marks, using straight and even lines. Pin and baste carefully, working on a flat surface so that you can pleat the skirt all the way. It should be basted carefully and then pressed after you are certain the pleats are even and correct.

In basting pleats it is best to baste the center pleat first, then the ones to either side. If the skirt is pleated all over in front, the pleats will overlap considerably at the waistline. In all cases of pleating, keep the lengthwise grain of the fabric as correct as possible; otherwise, the skirt will appear lopsided and will be difficult to wear.

Careful tailoring is required in making pleats, but it is possible for even a beginner to do this correctly, provided she measures carefully and works correctly. Use pattern directions and tape measure discreetly.

Stitching is very important if the finished skirt is to look nice, but with good basting stitches to guide you, there should be no difficulty in this respect.

Hidden Zipper Gives Smooth Fitting Skirt

Now that zippers are again available, plan to put one of them into your skirt if you want a nice, smooth look around the hips. Lay the closed fastener along the unstitched side of the skirt on the seam. Make sure

Make some extra skirts.

The young lady who is about to go traveling will appreciate a bag large enough to carry her glamor preparations neatly arranged in place on a removable upright tray. This bag comes in black, red, navy and hazelnut brown with self color stitching.

the center of the zipper lies exactly over the seam line, with the slider down. Pin fastener in place easing fabric slightly and using the pins crosswise.

Baste fastener in place, using large catch stitches, and keeping straight and neat. Remove pins and turn over the skirt.

Make a pocket at the top of the placket to conceal the zipper by basting 1/2 inch below the top of the fastener and 1/4 inch from the seam line and make the shaped end 3/8 of an inch wide across the top. Pivot needles at the corners when stitching in the zipper.

All sewing authorities tell us that it is much easier to insert the zipper when it is closed. If there is enough material at the opening for this fastener, it may be folded and stitched as above to conceal the zipper. If there is not enough material at the seam to do this, an extra piece will have to be stitched in before putting in the zipper to conceal it.

Do not remove the stitching on the zipper or the seam until the work is completed.

Too much can never be said on the importance of having hems properly sewed. But before this can be done, see that you have selected the proper length for your skirt. Have someone else pin it up for you if possible, or use one of the hem markers if you must do your own.

Use a binding at the hem so that it can be stitched properly without being too bulky.

Make It Wear!

Careful finishing on a garment means longer wear, whether you are buying a garment or making it yourself. Check the following points to see whether garment is well finished:

1. Stitching on buttonholes should be firm with no sign of fraying. See that buttons are sewed firmly but not tight.
2. Check to see if all plackets are neatly finished, trim and not bulky.
3. Examine stitching to see that it is even and neat, and that all seams are held together. The thread should match the fabric so well that you cannot tell too much of a difference between them.
4. All seams should be at least one-half inch deep. Pinked seams are used for firm weaves otherwise fabric will fray. Bound seams are best for loosely woven fabrics. French seams are best for lightweight fabrics while a double stitched seam prevents fraying in a heavier type of fabric.
5. Hemline should be straight and of a length becoming to the wearer. It should be of the same depth all the way around, finished with seam binding or turning under.

Fall Fashion Notes

Necklines have taken to trimming. You'll be in style if you have them trimmed with pearls or sequins, and your bodices show embroidered flowers—or elephants.

Long forgotten luxurious notes are added to many garments, with raglan sleeves, dropped shoulder lines, and furs. Skirts are slightly shorter in some cases, but the knees still remain well covered.

Black is the smart thing to wear when you go to the city. It always looks neat and smart, and pearl accessories show off well with it.

There's much pocket interest in the new suits. Some of them have broad flaps, others are deeply curved. There's interesting stitches on some of them too—all of which adds a simple and elegant decorative note to the costume.

Chill Bacon
Slicing bacon by hand, especially when the cut is largely fat, has always been an unwieldy, difficult job, even with the sharpest knife. Meat specialists of the department of agriculture suggest hardening the slab before slicing, by storing it in the freezing compartment of the refrigerator. When chilled until firm, bacon is easily cut into thin, even slices.
Potato Minerals
Most of the minerals and vitamins in the potato are located in a thin layer directly under the skin. Hurdled preparation in which thick peelings are discarded marks the end of much of the minerals and vitamins of the potato. So, potatoes cooked in the jackets are best.
Glazed Rolls
To achieve that smooth, glazed look after they are baked, brush dough for biscuits or rolls with beaten egg yolk before putting them into the oven.

Medieval Toys
In the Sixteenth century, the making of dolls and toys flourished as a fine art, and parents bought them for their beautiful workmanship as well as for their children's delight. There were fine knights in armor on caparisoned steeds with trappings of thin silk; ladies on palfreys with falcons at their wrists; glass dolls and toys from Venice; and doll houses costing thousands of dollars, with cunningly wrought miniature furniture, designed for little princesses.

Pillow Cases

For the best service from pillow cases, select cases of a firm weave, little sizing, and with smooth and even hems. It's also well to remember that sizes are important—cases too large wrinkle under the head, and if too small, they bunch the pillow into a hard lump, and are more likely to be strained. The best size is a case one and one-half inches wider and six inches longer than the pillow.

Whales Don't Spout

Whales do not spout water, contrary to popular belief. According to the Encyclopaedia Britannica, the moist air blown from the whale's lungs condenses into drops of moisture in the colder atmosphere, giving the appearance of a fountain of water.

Repels Potato Insects

DDT has proved to be excellent for control of flea beetles and leaf hoppers on potatoes, and in addition seems to allow greater growth of the potato plants than other standard insecticides or repellants.

Radars Equipment

All radar equipment employs the same principle; it sends out radio waves which are reflected back to the sender if they encounter a sufficiently dense object, just as the light of a searchlight beam on encountering an aircraft may be reflected back to an observer. The term "radar," however, covers a wide variety of gear designed for different tasks and differing strikingly in details. Only the microwave types, introduced since 1942, are of interest to the meteorologist.

Electrical Fixtures

A new electrical fixture brings together for the first time the infra-red heat lamp and the ultra-violet sun lamp for use in the home. The dual lamp unit has the appearance of a small ultra-streamlined automobile headlight.

Cooking Macaroni

The secret of success in cooking macaroni, spaghetti or noodles is plenty of bubbling boiling water. Gradually add macaroni, spaghetti and noodles to the actively boiling water and watch them tumble about as they cook to firm tenderness. Two or three quarts boiling water, to which one tablespoon salt has been added, cooks four to eight ounces of macaroni, spaghetti or noodles.

Pad Rugs

Be sure to put ample padding under your rugs if your floors are not in good condition, otherwise the rugs will wear.

It's not that we don't love our work!

WE DO LOVE our work—but these days, we almost dread leaving home and going to our showroom.

So many people want new Packards, and there are so few coming through!

But you can't build cars without materials!

The factory is straining every effort to get more parts and material so production can be increased.

We're doing our best!

Some cars have been shipped with wooden bumpers, some without window regulator handles. This costs the factory a lot of money, for it means that replacements must be shipped and installed later.

Under such difficulties, it's a wonder the folks at the factory have done as well as they have. This year, compared to the same period of 1941, Packard has built a higher percentage of cars than the industry as a whole.

We don't dare predict!

Our customers have been so patient that we'd like to sound some optimistic note.

But word from Detroit says that parts and materials are still scarce. Steel continues to be limited. Shortages of lead, copper and other materials are looming up.

Scrap iron has been so scarce that Packard started the ball rolling on a nation-wide collection drive!

Take care of your present car!

Until you're sure of getting a new one, give your present car the best of care.

Lots of cars are running better and lasting longer because our trained mechanics have serviced them right. Give us a chance to catch those little troubles before they grow up into big ones.

Bring your car in any time. We're short on new cars, but we're long on helpful, car-saving service.

Early Books

According to history, wooden boards were first used as book covers. In book binding of those early days, animal glue, the standard adhesive known to the ancients over 33 centuries ago, was always used for its strength and flexibility. Wooden boards as covers were first abandoned in favor of paper by the craftsmen who bound the books of the famous printer Aldus of Venice in the 16th century. Prior to this time, even small books had wooden covers one-fourth of an inch thick.

Two-Humped Camels

Bactrian camels, which get their name from Bactria, a province in Afghanistan, are two-humped and reddish-brown or black in color. Found throughout Asia, these camels are able to withstand zero weather in the mountains of Mongolia. They have long, shaggy coats, are shorter and sturdier than Arabian camels, and a difference in foot structure enables them to traverse rocky, uneven terrain. South American llamas, alpacas and vicunas are members of the camel family.

Eighty-Two Eyes

One animal, the onchidium, may have as many as 82 eyes in the skin on its back.

"To like your county, you must know it," was the theme which Casper Blumer, Alcona County Agricultural Agent, carried thru his talk to the Hale P. T. A. Tuesday evening. "You must know your own community and the people in it and be ready to give and take in your association with them. This all goes toward making your community an enjoyable place to live in," said Mr. Blumer. He gave tips on how to raise money to help purchase the projector which he P. T. A. is planning on buying. He stressed the fact that Iosco county has wonderful recreational advantages and says that the income from these sources is equal to, or above the income derived from our agricultural pursuits. His colored pictures were enjoyed along with his descriptive talks as he presented them. Lunch was served in the Home Ec. room. Tables were decorated with black cats and pumpkin cut outs.

It's always fair weather when good neighbors share together!

REGARDLESS of the season, a thoughtful neighbor always knows how to share. That goes for his party-line telephone, too.

Today, with telephone equipment still scarce because of material shortages, knowing how to share our party line is more important than ever before. Sharing the lines means more service for more people sooner.

To provide as many waiting applicants as possible with telephone service, we are temporarily having to limit most new installations to party lines. As additional facilities come through and are installed, we will be able to give individual-line service to those who want it.

But meanwhile, you can help to improve party-line service by following these simple suggestions:

- 1 When the line is in use, please don't interrupt except in case of emergency.
- 2 Keep all calls as brief as possible.
- 3 Avoid making several calls in succession.
- 4 Be sure to hang up after every call. One receiver off the hook puts all the telephones on the line out of service.

Deputy sheriff Jim Doane sets out to track down a gang of train robbers. After meeting Dolores Alvaro and Monte Garcia he resigns and goes to see Star La Rue. Jim forces La Rue to deed over the ranch which he had stolen from Dolores' father. Later he encounters a posse led by sheriff Flick. They are pursuing five riders. One of them turns out to be Dolores. Jim discovers her in hiding. She seizes his horse and dashes away. Next day Jim hears from the sheriff that he has been deputized to assist in apprehending bank robbers. Jim fears that one of the gang is Dolores. Nevertheless, he takes Garcia with him, and they start out on the trail.

CHAPTER VIII

After a mile or so Doane worked cautiously up a slight rise. He nodded to Monte when he came back, and they went on, changing direction a bit.

For long periods of time now they halted. Doane cannily took advantage of the roll and irregularities of the country, following the gullies and depressions. A mounted figure against the skyline could be seen for miles; so could dust. They drew up the rim of a small, ragged range of rock hills and buttes. Again Doane pulled rein, studying the approaching riders for a long while.

"They'll hit through at about those next buttes," he decided. "That ought to suit us as well as anywhere else."

"This is to be ambush?" asked Monte thoughtfully.

"No," snapped Doane. "We give them the chance to surrender first." "We are two against five. I do not think these approaching riders will want to—well, surrender."

"We'll take those odds. I'll be glad of 'em!"

"I do not quite understand, my friend."

"Ever since I was a kid, Monte, I've been riding on the side of the law," muttered Doane softly. "This Maxmilla affair now—just one thing left for me to do! A straight road. I got to do it. Flick knew I would. This is bank robbery, killing! . . . But the way things are, Monte, I guess I don't want to ride back. Anyhow I like the odds!"

"Yes?"

"Yes." A steel-hard intensity came into Doane's voice; "Monte, you asked me a question a while ago and here's your answer. You're going to do a thing I can't do. I owe that girl everything—my life; the law owes her something, too, I figure, because of its one-time blindness. D'you see that? When things break now, Monte, you're going to get her out—alone! See? You got to do it! Don't mind anything else. That's why, if you hadn't offered to come with me, I'd have made you come. But I've known from the start that that was your reason for being with me. Now it's a thing you've got to do!"

A Desperate Plan To Save Dolores

On the instant the scene changed. Something moved the coming five riders to forge into a fast lope. Watching them, Doane swung back from the rim. Under shelter, the roan shot forward, Monte beside him. At a furious pace they beat along the far side of the hills, through the boulder-strewn depressions and across the side gullies, in an effort to round the first butte and ride into the face of the five.

Between the buttes of the sharply defined ridge was a small, slot-like pass, hemmed by sandstone walls of odd formation. Wind-eroded pipes stood up against the walls like deformed fingers or lob-headed stalagmites. Their feet rested in talus from the walls above, banks of slash-edged rock that had fallen down. One end of the tiny, desert-formed pass could not be seen from the other.

Reining the roan, Doane could hear the rattle of shod hoofs echoing between the walls. Monte moved to one side. They halted in the floor of the pass. No words.

Doane's gaze was fixed on the bend of the pass. Waiting. Motionless. He was a figure of steel, steely gun in one hand, muzzle slightly lifted. The blue color of the roan in the afternoon light added to the illusion. Not long to wait—

Hard-riden mounts rounded the turn. As swiftly spade bits checked them, brutally threw the saddle animals to haunch.

For ten seconds riders sat saddle without movement. It was as though the walls of the pass had suddenly closed in and shut these seven off from the rest of the world. Doane's voice was brittle as breaking glass, calling down through the pass:

"Surrender—in the name of the law!"

A harsh laugh answered him. The distance was too great to plainly distinguish features. For an instant Doane wondered how he knew that laugh—where he had heard it before? The sound roused some slow, deep anger in him. It was something instinctive.

"So it's you, huh?"—followed the voice up the canon.

The voice brought instant recognition. The significance of it was stunning. The speaker was Star La Rue!

A tumult of thought broke in Doane's brain. He remembered several things as one. The Maxmilla Cowman's Mortgage and Loan bank had suffered this loss by robbery and killing, according to Flick's telegram—and that was the bank in which La Rue had interest. La Rue, then, must have hit trail from town even before Flick got away with the main posse!

Doane was suddenly able to recognize the four riders with La Rue, substantiating his conclusion. The four were those deputized men Flick had pushed on northward, to Maxmilla City; the four riders Doane had discharged from Rancho Hermanos the morning of his arrival, who had later met up with Flick in San Loreto, joining his first posse in search of the girl. Doane gazed at the five men and his lips curled.

"We've met buzzards instead of hawks, Monte!"

The five were edging slowly forward up the floor of the tiny pass, tense in their saddles. The distance lessened. Doane had a single glance at Monte. At his side Monte Doane tugged to get free. One leg had gone under the roan's side. Twisting like a cat, he fired over the fallen animal. Dust swirled over him. The following trigger-pull found his weapon empty.

Almost simultaneously another thing happened. Monte's fast guns were done. With a graceful leap, he vaulted free from the saddle of a heady horse, turned, and as Doane fired his last shot, ran for the shelter of the fallen roan's body.

Monte suddenly paused. He seemed to balance himself—sway—and he came forward only by some supreme effort of will. There was still that set, white smile between his lips. Shivering as though with palsy, hands with the handsome guns outflung, Monte lunged a pace more and fell half across the down horse. Doane caught at his shoulder to pull him on.

A rumbling, great echo growled hoarsely into silence. Suddenly the pass was quiet.

The battle had lasted not longer than fifty seconds. A single mounted man was fleeing down the pass, a riderless horse following. The rattle of shod hoofs was the only sound. Silence now—on the heels of death!

Caught as he was, Doane tugged futilely to pull Monte on to his shelter.

"Nevaire mind—my friend," muttered Monte. The words came through clenched, white teeth. "Nevaire—"

Monte lay still. Now even the clatter of hoofs had ceased. Struggling, teeth gritted, Doane got at his belt and reloaded. Twisting back, he peered over the roan.

The mounted man had halted at the turn of the pass, waiting undecidedly. Doane saw Suarez and the rider fallen across him, the gun that had just become voiceless in the man's hand. At another spot a boot stuck grotesquely into the air. That might be La Rue. Or again it might not.

Doane pulled again at his caught foot, trying to drag it free with the other boot as a lever on the back of the dead roan. The trapped leg was losing feeling. The wound in his thigh had begun to pain and blood was soaking through his clothing. The man down canon might return at any moment. He wondered about Monte. The fallen Monte Garcia did not stir. Doane reached slowly to touch his shoulder again—

That was when he saw La Rue! At a distance of less than twenty paces Star La Rue's deadly, intense eyes peered over the belly of one of the fallen horses. That instant Doane also knew that Monte Garcia was not dead. For Monte, wounded, the useless guns in his hands, hissed softly:

"Down!"

The hiss was cut short by the explosion of La Rue's extended weapon. The bullet clipped Doane's skull. He fell back stunned. . . .

Time passing might have been a second or a moment. When Doane remembered he was wiping blood from his eyes and his left hand was red from the wrist down. But the right still held his gun.

Jim Shoots It Out With Star La Rue

His head cleared instantly. To expose any part of his body in an attempt to free himself gave opportunity for La Rue to fire again. Or the instant La Rue sensed his plight he would close on him like a trapped animal. There was Monte to consider. To bring battle over the roan's side now would mean certain death to the helpless Monte. Meanwhile the man at the curve of the canon might have the presence of mind to hit for high ground.

Seconds of time were suddenly infinitely precious. Lying prone, Doane pried with his free boot against the roan. That was the leg with the bullet wound in the thigh. A soft groan escaped his lips. He pushed with all his strength. The trapped foot gave an inch or two—jammed tighter than before. Doane doubled over. With his fingers and hands he began to scrape under the leg—pebbles, rocks and sand.

He fought silently and desperately. Seconds took on the time dimensions of moments. Gradually he was scooping out a tiny depression under the leg. But time was passing. Time! Once more he strained to pull free. Then Monte's soft hiss reached his ears:

"Coming! He's coming!"

There was maniacal strength in Doane's body. Like a wild thing in a trap, he tore free. La Rue took snap aim at a suddenly exposed arm or shoulder. But Doane was loose, foot with boot half torn from it before him. It was a single gesture that turned him on his belly, crawling, coming up.

Gun in hand, crouched, he leaped out!

The lightning of two guns came as one. It was a single last echo that roared through the pass, crashing on the walls. Then one man fought against falling, trying desperately to bring his weapon up again. Just as he toppled the gun exploded, throwing dust against his own stiffly tilting boots.

"Gracias a Dios!" said Monte Garcia softly. And his eyes closed (TO BE CONTINUED)

was a picture of motionless grace, lips drawn in a set smile.

The first taut deadliness of the scene was even intensified. The five riders did not come forward like one posse approaching other men of the law. Like fire, a new thought snapped in Doane's brain. There was sudden fierce joy in his burning eyes. His lips bit off words, to the approaching La Rue: "Stop where you are!"

He heard La Rue's laugh answer him again. The distance was halved little over forty yards now. Thirty! The five riders had spread a bit. Each man for himself. Doane could see faces now—white-lipped, stiff, set! He could see what was coming. La Rue called: "All right, Mister Doane. We'll—surrender!"

A gun leaped in La Rue's hand, belched fire, as though to accent the false word. Like a leaden oath hurled after it!

Men crouched in their saddles, like wolves crouching for the throat leap. In the resounding echo of La Rue's shot there came a rattle through the pass, like machine-gun fire.

Doane spurred forward, shooting low over the saddle, the gun a living thing in his hand. Fierce exultation filled him. No conscious thought; no time to consider. This issue was forced. He had declared himself clearly; La Rue understood. Here, somehow, between desert walls, was marked the end of a long, long trail.

Monte Garcia's lightning weapons flashed. Monte smiled over white teeth that held his reins. The two rode into twice the fire they gavel!

Punctuated, a terrible roar filled the narrow desert pass. The echo rebounded on the walls and seemed to vibrate in the rock and fantastic formation of pipes and lob-heads.

A horse reared high, toppling backwards. Suarez, one-time foreman for Tres Hermanos, suddenly quivered in every muscle and slipped sideways from his saddle. He hit earth face down. Men shouted—

Things happened in flashes. Another horse went unmanageable. A man reeled to foot and fell half across Suarez. La Rue left the saddle, seemingly untouched in the hail of lead. Monte plunged into Doane's field of vision. The white smile still on his lips.

Roaring confusion. Racket of hoofs on rocks, animals gone mad. Dust. The fast, terrible bark of the guns over all.

Things happened with a rapidity that the mind struggled to grasp. A bullet cut Doane's thigh. No pain; just the numbing concussion of it. In the middle of the next stride he felt the roan wince under him. The animal collapsed, hurtling over, rolling with the momentum of the fall. . . .

PAUL TRAINS FOR HIS LIFE WORK

LESSON TEXT—Acts 9:19b-22; 11:25, 26; Galatians 1:17-24
MEMORY SELECTION—And straightway he preached Christ in the synagogues, that he is the Son of God.—Acts 9:20.

The regenerating grace of God had made Paul into a new man, one who now had no greater delight than telling others of the redeeming grace of God.

In preparation for that fuller ministry which was to follow, Paul first gave witness in the place where he had been persecuting the Christians, in fact, in the city to which he was bound when the Lord met him. But now instead of breathing out threats and violence he met these former associates and friends with the new message of the gospel.

He had to meet them sooner or later, and it was well that he met them now. A clean break with his past makes a man ready for future service.

I. Paul Faces His Past (Acts 9:19b-22).

What a surprise it must have been for those persecutors of the Christians at Damascus to find that the one to whom they had looked for leadership was now a Christian. What a testimony that was—right to the point!

"Straightway"—what a good word to apply to the servant of the Lord. Paul did not hesitate to declare his faith in Christ, to proclaim that the One who had redeemed him was able to save others.

It is the normal and proper expression of Christian faith to give testimony to others. That should be true of every believer. With Paul there was the added element of his call to preach, for God had ordained that he should be his chosen vessel for that purpose (Acts 9:15).

Paul's message was Christ. He proved to the Jews that Jesus was the Christ (v. 22), the One of whom their Old Testament Scriptures spoke and for whom they professed to be looking. He declared him to be the Son of God (v. 20).

They were unwilling to accept the message. They were "amazed" at Paul and "confounded" by the truth he proclaimed, but they rejected both it and him, and he had to escape for his life.

Although our lesson only indirectly refers to it (see Gal. 1:17, 18), it should also be noted that Paul went up to Jerusalem before he went to Antioch, as indicated in our next portion of Scripture.

There he faced suspicion on the part of the believers, who knew him as their enemy.

Having faced his past we now see that

II. Paul Faces His Future (Acts 11:25, 26).

He was God's chosen instrument to bear his name to the Gentiles (see Acts 9:15), and at the invitation of Barnabas he came up from his home city of Tarsus to minister at Antioch, the place which now became his real spiritual home, and the center from which his great missionary enterprise was carried out.

It is interesting to note how this came about in the providence of God. Persecution spread the believers abroad (Acts 11:19), and like the scattered brands of a beaten fire they carried the flame of Christianity far and wide. Thus the gospel came to Antioch, the third greatest city in the world of that day. A revival broke out and Barnabas was sent from Jerusalem to be of help.

Good and spiritual man that he was (Acts 19:23, 24), Barnabas did nothing to hinder this work of God, but admonished the people to "cleave unto the Lord"; that is, to follow him closely. Would that all spiritual advisers had such a spirit and such sound judgment.

He was also wise in sensing his need of help. So he went after Paul, the very man to teach these young Christians and to lead them out into a radiant and abundant life for the Lord. Here it was that the beautiful name of "Christian" was first used.

III. Paul Faces His Lord (Gal. 1:17-24).

Many years after he had been called to Antioch, Paul wrote this letter to the Galatians to warn them against Judaizing teachers and to urge them to hold fast to salvation by faith. He declared this to be a message which he received from God and not from men.

Before Paul went out to preach and teach he went up into Arabia to be alone with the Lord, as he took what we might call his postgraduate course in theology. He learned—alone with God.

His life had been transformed. His attitudes had been completely changed. His thinking about Christ was diametrically opposite to his former beliefs. He needed time alone with God to prepare himself for the stormy but triumphant years ahead.

End Table Easily Made From Spools

IF THERE is a table shortage in your home, here is an easy way to solve the problem. All you need is some plain shelf boards with holes bored in the corners, empty spools, a set of curtain rods and some glue. In a few minutes you can combine these things to make the attractive table shown here.

BEFORE the record season just closed, it had always seemed to us that baseball's 154-game schedule should have been cut to 140 games. As a general rule all interest has been withering on the September vine for 12 or 14 of the major league entries. The year 1946 has told a different story in the way of attendance figures, but certainly not enough to justify any 14-game increase to 168 contests as proposed by a few club owners.

Ty Cobb

With the wild rush to sport after the war, this has been an abnormal year. You get the main idea when the Phillies, a tail-end contender, could approach the million mark at home. Most major league clubs play at least 32 exhibition games. The 168-game menu would therefore give ball players 200 games to handle between early March and October. This is more than most ball players can absorb without going stale. Three hours of baseball each day seems easy work. But three hours of hustling competitive sport each afternoon or night is another story.

Even with the 154-game schedule the number of weary, injured, bedraggled ball players is something greater than you might think. Ty Cobb told me once that 154 games was about all any hard-playing hustler could handle.

"In the old days," Ty said, "I wasn't a hold out. I simply didn't need or want all that early training and all of those exhibition games. I hunted all winter and kept my legs in shape. I remember in 1911 I didn't join the Tigers until they reached Evansville, six days before the season opened. That year I hit for .420 and stole 83 bases as I recall it. One answer was that I was still keen and fresh in August and September when a lot of the others were stale and tired."

Danger of Staleness

This seems to make sense. No athlete who has lost his keenness, who has grown stale, can be of much help. The right sort of ball player will keep in shape all winter, through golf or hunting. The spring training and the spring exhibition campaign has been badly overdone. Add 14 extra ball games to the present list and it will mean more baseball than most players could handle—and still retain the body needed hustle.

Also with the additional 14 games suggested, ball players' salaries should be lifted from 10 to 15 per cent over the 154-game pay. With the record attendances 1946 has offered, you can look for a rousing scrap on the part of the ball player for a big jump, even at 154 games. But who is going to see that the ball player gets this percentage increase above the demand he might make for the present schedule?

Roughnecks in the Ring

It was James J. Corbett, a great boxer and the smartest fighter the game has ever known in or out of the ring, who first set a rather sour example by being known as "Gentleman Jim."

For the ring is no spot for a gentleman, or anything approaching the same. And Jim Corbett was no gentleman in any ring. He told me this himself. The gentleman has his club or his box at the opera or track, but he is out of place. It remained for Hughey Keogh, years ago, to tell the true story:

"There was no high finance about the game of spoiling mugs, 'When the dear old tub from Boston Was the King, When we paid our honest tribute To the other tanks and jugs And the soiree with the raw 'uns Was the thing.

"Fighting bade adieu to its Traditions long ago, And kissed its grimy hand To sentiment, When they took it to the steam heat From the hail and rain and snow And a champion aspired To be a gent."

I still recall a story Jim Corbett once told me. Jim was fighting Joe Choynski on a barge. "I nailed him in the ninth round," Jim said, "and Joe fell to the floor. I stooped and lifted him up. The cheers were terrific. But I lifted him so I could nail him again before he recovered. Then the boos were terrific." Gentleman Jim Corbett also knew his game.

Dempsey the Killer

Jack Dempsey, at heart, was about as close to being a gentleman, outside the ring, as anyone I've known. But only outside the ring. There he was kind, generous, thoughtful and courteous. Inside the ring he was a killer. Anything went. I saw him once giving Max Baer a few lessons.

"You can't do that," Baer said. "It's illegal." "You can get away with it once," Dempsey said. "I have."

This Home-Mixed Cough Relief Is Truly Surprising

So Easy. No Cooking. Big Saving.

You may not know it, but, in your own kitchen, you can easily prepare a really surprising relief for coughs due to colds. It's old-fashioned—your mother probably used it—but for real results, it's hard to beat.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed. It's no trouble. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Then get 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex from any drugist. This is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for quick action in throat and bronchial irritations.

Put the Pinex into a pint bottle, and fill up with your syrup. Thus you make a full pint of splendid cough syrup, and you get about four times as much for your money. It never spoils. Children love its pleasant taste.

And for quick relief, it's a wonder. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, eases the soreness, makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep. Just try it, and if not pleased, your money will be refunded.

Kidneys Must Work Well-

For You To Feel Well

24 hours every day, 7 days every week, never stopping, the kidneys filter waste matter from the blood.

If more people were aware of how the kidneys must constantly remove surplus fluid, excess acids and other waste matter that cannot stay in the blood without injury to health, there would be better understanding of why the whole system is upset when kidneys fail to function properly.

Burning, scanty or too frequent urination sometimes warns that something is wrong. You may suffer nagging backache, headaches, dizziness, rheumatic pains, getting up at night, swelling.

Why not try Doan's Pills? You will be using a medicine recommended the country over. Doan's stimulate the function of the kidneys and help them to flush out poisonous waste from the blood. They contain nothing harmful. Get Doan's today. Use with confidence. All drug stores.

Bowling Resumes After Bird Hunting Recess

By Walt Sabin, Secretary Major League.

Tawas Herald continued their League leading ways winning four from Bill's Drive Inn on counts of 974, 926, 921, 2821, to hold a comfortable lead of 17 won and 3 lost.

Mueller Concrete also continued in the spotlight by winning four from St. James Electric on counts of 934, 985, 1014, 2933 to hold second place, just three games back of the league leaders.

Bronson Garage continued in undisputed possession of third place just one game back of the second place team, taking four on a forfeit from Holland Hotel, who apparently had South Dakota trouble.

In the individual scoring department, Mueller Concrete team again made the headlines with Ernie Mueller, team sponsor, rolling as a substitute, contributed 214, 212, 237 for the evenings high in 3-game totals of 663. Jack Dodson not to be outdone entirely rolled 247 for the high single game together with scores of 171, 216 for a total of 634. Peoples State Bank also furnished two team members in the individual scoring, C. Moeller having a second high single game of 240 for a 606 series and Paul Robert tied for third high single game of 237, with 217, 181 for second high series of 635. Harry Morley of Bronson Garage team rolled 204, 196, 225 for the third high series of 625.

The Major league booby prize, the Great Pin was awarded to C. T. Proccott of the Mueller Concrete team for his "sparkling" 467 series. (Standings All Leagues Back Page)

In the Commercial League, Moeller Grocery took over the lead from Weaver's Radio with a 3079.3 game total and sent, besides Weaver's Western into a three way tie for second.

Huron Shores Rustic Furniture jumped from third to first in Thursday nights bowling in the Minor League, with 16 wins and eight losses. The big feat of the evening was E. Moeller who swept through for high three game total and high single, with 264, 242 and 181—687. Following closely behind Moeller's high single was H. Morley who kegled 254.

The Ladies League continued in a walk-a-way race for East Tawas Electric with 23 wins and one loss.
