Alabaster Boy's Regiment Praised

Dick Martin on

Way Home

In a recent issue of the Stars and Stripes, members of the 508th Infantry Parachute Regiment were honored. This is of special interest to Alabaster residents, since one of our local boys, Dick Martin is a member of the 508th. The release read as follows:

"Recently we we've fortunate enough to view this organization at our air base when they honored our Commander, Gen. Eisenhower, during his most recent trip to Germany.

"We have never seen a better looking bunch of soldiers. Watching these men standing at attention without wilting and performing the manuel of arms with faultless precession made it known that the U. S. Army still has a few good men left. The kind that the German's don't laugh at.

"Our larmy is badly in need of many more outfits like the 508th, and we would be proud to be a member of such a crack outfit."

ANOTHER STRIKE WAVE

WASHINGTON. - Only two labor leaders have let the cat out of the bag but around Christmas the nation will face its greatest strike wave in history.

Most labor leaders are not talking about this before election, for fear of hurting the chances of their particular congressional candidates. Not so John L. Lewis, head of the Mine Workers and Walter Reuther, head of the powerful CIO Auto

Despite the fact that Lewis had demanded the end of meat control and wage stabilization; despite the fact that the AFL went on record for the end of all controls, AFL and CIO leaders held a series of secret huddles after Truman's meat speech to decide on a new wage policy. Most of them agreed to soft pedal strikes for the moment and see what happened to the price

However, Lewis, who wants to be president of AFL, and Reuther, who wants to be president of the CIO, would not hold back.

SPANISH WAR SURPLUS

As if there weren't enough headaches in disposing of surplus goods from this war, War Assets administration recently had to unload some ancient horse-drawn ambulances used in the Spanish-American war.

The problem finally was solved by removing the wheels and painting the bodies in delicate pastel tints. Presto - the relics were converted into gay cabanas and bathing shelters for seashore resorts. They sold like hotcakes.

CHURCHILL FUMES

Winston Churchill is getting more and more irked over reports that he is the member of the Big Three chiefly responsible for sabotaging a democratic peace.

Originally, Churchill had planned to take plenty of time writing his memoirs, spinning them out in three volumes to be finished about three years hence. Now, however, friends say he wants to put out a quick short volume to answer critics. This book would deal with some of the Big Three conferences, especially Teheran.

Churchill's critics have blamed him for the spheres of influence agreed upon at Teheran, following which Russia took over most of the Balkans, while England took over Churchill's friends, on the other hand, claim that actually he was vigorously opposed to these spheres of influence and threw the Atlantic charter in Roosevelt's face. Stalin, however, replied that Britain could have her own sphere of influence, and in the end Roosevelt cast his weight with Stalin.

Whether this or Elliott Roosevelt's version is true, remains to be seen. However, it is interesting that the Harry Hopkins inspired stories in the Saturday Evening Post immediately after Teheran dwelt heavily on the fact that Roosevelt decided to cast his lot with the Russians. If correctly interpreted, that decision has now backfired.

SHE WASN'T FROM MISSOURI

Kate Smith was so excited she lost her hat and almost forgot her gloves when she called at the White House to launch the Community Chest drive and to give President Truman the original copy of the Community Chest's new march, "The Red Feather." It was composed by Maj. George Howard of the army band, who accompanied

"Gee, it's great to be home again, Mr. President," said Miss Smith once she got to the White House, gloves and all, "You know, I am a native Washingtonian."

"Well, I'm mighty glad to hear that," grinned Truman. "It's a rare occasion when you find a native Washingtonian in Washington any more. They tell me about everybody here is from Missouri."

NAZIS ARE STILL NAZIS

Col. Bernard Bernstein, ex-finan-cial adviser to General Eisenhower at SHAEF, has just returned from his first tour of Germany since he retired from the army. Unless too many northerners endorse it first, the new novel, "Night Fire," should be well re-ceived in the South. The author, Edward Kimbrough, a Southerner, writes of the South's dilemma over social traditions.

EVERYTHING BUT TALK

Customer Is Always Right— In Future 'Push-Button' Era

By AL JEDLICKA

The customer is always right!

Stubborn clerks who frequently have questioned the boss' insistence on the truth of that age-old assertion soon will be deprived of that opportunity. In fact, in the "push-button" era which lies ahead there will be no one to dispute the customer's authority to make final decision.

A preview of the multiple self-service gadgets which are destined to become commonplace in the "push-button" era was afforded by representatives of the vending machine industry when the National Automatic Merchandising association met recently in Self-Service Supreme. By dropping a coin into a device, the customer will be able to fill his tank with gas, obtain change for a dime, quarter or dollar, sizzle his own hot dogs and hamburgers, pop his own corn, obtain a railroad ticket, take out an insurance policy, buy packaged groceries, have his shoes shined, and, heaven knows, what next!

While the U. S. was far behind Europe in coin vending machinery before the war, this country promises to forge far ahead in use of such devices in the future, especially since the bigger consumer outlets are considering their advantages as economical and efficient merchandisers.

As manufacturers have perfected the machines, operators have found them to be quick, low-cost and silent salesmen. Indeed, there is nobody to argue with the customer about being right!

No More Expenses.

Motorists should be especially interested in the new automatic gas pump, scheduled for trial installation around the first of the year. This device was designed for stations that close in the evening and do not afford 24-hour service to customers. Any farmer coming into town late; any tourist stretching the last gallon of gas at night, or any beau confronted with an emptying tank after a long spin through the countryside, should find the automatic pump a welcome oasis. Drop in the money, pick up the hose and, presto! the fuel gurgles in.

With vending machines coming into more general use for a wide variety of items, the automatic changer provides a convenient means of furnishing customers with needed coins. At present, two such machines will make change for a dime and quarter in nickels and for a dollar in any combination.

The automatic hot dog and hamburger vendor already has proven its worth and promises to obtain wider acceptance. After the insertion of the coin, the weenie or hamburger is roasted before one's very eyes through the application of electronics. In all, the operation takes 15 seconds.

The use of an automatic vending machine to purvey insurance represents the last word in furnishing prospective buyers with a convenient means for taking out a policy. To be sure, the investor ordinarily has to be sold before making use of the machine, but its presence in some convenient locality spares him the effort of getting in touch with a salesman to close the deal.

When procuring a policy through the vending machine, the purchaser inserts enough money to pay his first premium, receiving a receipt and a contract. All he has to do then, is to fill out the contract and send it into the company.

No Snippy Clerks. Use of automatic frozen food machines have withstood tests in big chain outlets and with the trend toward self-service marts there are prospects for increasing installation of these vendors. Indeed, Nathan Cummings, president of the Consolidated Grocers, Inc., who is considered one of the sharpest food merchandisers in the industry, declared it is possible to foresee completely automatic grocery super-

Pilfered Articles Result in Career

ORLANDO, FLA. - Sheets stolen from his mother, a few old plumbing fixtures and other scraps started Raymon Parker, nationally-known glider pilot, on his career. With the pilfered sheets and discarded articles, Parker at the age of 15 had built, flown and crashed his first glider.

Many Convicts Are Redeemed by Army

ALBANY, N. Y .- A large number of ex-parolees in New York state now are living as respected members of their communities as a result of war service with the armed Commissioner Frederick A. Moran, chairman of the state parole board, reports that of all the parolees who served with the armed forces, an "amazingly low number" had bad records in service.

"The parolees almost to a man," Moran reported, "found a new life in the army and took advantage of it to restore themselves to a respected position in their commu-

One parolee, a medical aid man, was wounded three times and was awarded the Purple Heart with two oak leaf clusters, a presidential unit citation and a French decoration for bravery in evacuating wounded comrades during a fierce engagement in Germany.

Several received spot battlefield commissions and one was awarded the Bronze Star medal for "utter disregard for personal safety" in assisting wounded to reach our lines.

One parolee, Moran reported, volunteered to lead a Filipino party bringing food and water to a lost American company. The group was ambushed and two men were killed and three others wounded. It required two days for the detail to deliver the supplies and when they returned they brought their wounded with them.

Whenever possible the parole board has released men from parole after they were honorably discharged from the armed services and has assisted them in their search for a new start in civilian life, Moran said.

He enjoys recalling the act of a parolee who learned in prison that orders are orders. While on sentry duty, the parolee, under orders not to allow anyone to enter a certain plane, refused entrance to an officer-who turned out to be the senior pilot. The sentry was commended for his attention to duty.

Buy Embassy in Rome With Surplus Property

ROME. - One of the most beautiful buildings of Rome, the Margherita palace, has been bought by the United States government to house the U.S. embassy offices in Rome.

It was first utilized by the United States embassy, July 14, 1944, a month after Rome fell to

This depresses us deeply. If we can't have unity, peace, understand-ing and brotherly love on the highest court in our land, how can we have it on lower levels? There is something scary in the thought of the United States Supreme court being no different from the lawyers and their clients.

We had a case all prepared for carrying to the Supreme court, in fact we had just christened a new carrier to do the job, but we phoned our attorney and suggested that he take the appeal only through courts that got along well, and stop the minute he ran into some tribunal full of hard looks and cold shoulders. Our lawyer argued back. He contended that it might be a break to submit the case to judges not on speaking terms.

PAUL MINISTERS TO THE THESSALONIANS

LESSON TEXT-Acts 17:1-7; I Thessalonians 1:2-3.

MEMORY SELECTION—Be not weary in welldoing.—II Thessalonians 3:13.

A great city, commercially active, religious to a high degree, a military center and a harbor so fine that it is important to this day-such was the city of 'Thessalonica. It presented a challenge to the preachers of the gospel and, in the name of Christ, Paul accepted and won a great vic-

In the face of persecution, bitter and persistent, the believers in this city remained faithful. The reason for that appears in our lesson. Rooted and grounded in Christ, they had brought forth the fruit of real Christian living under circumstances which were difficult and trying. Our lesson tells of both the preaching of the gospel by Paul and the living of the gospel by the Thessalonians. I. The Gospel Preached—Accepted and Rejected (Acts 17:1-7).

Paul began his long and successful ministry in Thessalonica in the synagogue. It was to the Jews who worshiped the one true God that he came with his message about their expected Messiah -Christ the Lord. Here he established a strong church.

What was the message which so signally succeeded in this great strategic center? Well, it was not (as some modern preachers in large cities seem to think necessary) a series of social, political, or literary discourses. Paul preached Christ. He reasoned with them and presented the Saviour (v. 3) as One who was

1. Dead for our sin. These people were like us in that they needed a solution for their sin problem. Without the death of Christ there is no salvation for any man. Only through the shedding of blood can there be remission of sin (Heb. 9:22). Paul had no part in the folly of a "bloodless gospel" — as though there were any such gospel.

2. Raised for our justification. It was not enough that Jesus died, marvelous as that is in our sight. For many a man has died for his convictions, but none has risen from the dead. Christ could not be holden of the grave. He arose the victorious Redeemer.

3. Declared to be the Christ. He is more than a man, more than a great leader and an earnest teacher. He is God's anointed One, himself divine-and our Lord.

Some believed (v. 4), including many devout Greeks, and not a few of the leading women. The gospel does have life-giving power as the Holy Spirit applies it to the hearts of willing men and women.

Others opposed (vv. 5, 6). Note that they were "of the baser sort." They always are, even when they appear to be cultivated and educated, for there is something fundamentally wrong in a life which rejects Christ.

It was a serious charge they made against the Christians (v. 7) for it was treason punishable by death to have any other king but Caesar if one lived in a Roman colony.

But the thing which they hated worst in these Christians was the fact that their topsy-turvy world was in danger of being set right (they put it the opposite way, v. 6) and they did not want to be made right. It is interesting to note that these early preachers had divine power to turn over the social order. Would that we showed more of that power in the church today!

Accepting the truth is good, but t must go on in daily living. The Thessalonians knew that and they are models of

II. The Gospel Lived - Followers and Examples (I Thess. 1:2-8).

Paul, the missionary, was a courteous preacher. He recognized the faithfulness of Christian brethren and did not hesitate to commend them. We could do more of that when we meet true and faithful believers.

They were followers of Paul, but only because he followed Christ (v. 6). His power was from above (v. 5), even as they also were chosen from above (v. 4).

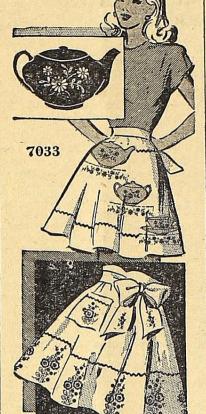

Following Christ meant affliction to them (v. 6), but it also meant the joy of the Holy Spirit, which is entirely independent of the circumstances of life-and above them.

These Thessalonian believers were examples of what it meant to be Christians. Wherever Paul went their faith toward God was recognized and he did not need to explain or argue for his gospel. People knew the Thessalonian Christians, and thus they knew real Christianity.

There could be no finer witness to the faith of anyone than to be able to bear testimony that it is an example-a model-to which others may look and not go astray. Do we dare to measure our Christian lives by such a standard?

TREASURE OF THE SEA W.N.U. Release

BY George E. Walsh

Adrift on a raft for four days, Dick Jordan is almost unconscious from hunger and thirst when he scoops a few shrimps from the water and re-gains his interest in living. He had been on a steamer bound from a South American port to the United States, in custody of Hen Pettigrew, who was returning him to prison. They became separated when the steamer sank. Dick's lifeboat went down and only he survived. Dick sights a sail on the horizon. The ship comes up and takes him aboard. Captain of the dirty little ship is Tucu, an evil-looking halfbreed. The others of the crew are Caribs. Dick fears they are little better than pirates.

CHAPTER II

Dick concluded that he would be a hard customer to deal with, and it would be much better to court his friendship than to provoke his en-

Black Burley, the mate, was nearly as tall and powerful as the skipper, but his black shiny face and swarthy limbs proclaimed the pure Carib Negro.

While he was eating and drinking, Captain Tucu grunted and broke the silence.

"Where'd y' drift from?" he asked gruffly, his words singularly free from the taint of his black ancestor's dialect.

"From the City of Bahia — wrecked four days ago," Dick re-plied, wiping his mouth. "Struck something in the storm, reef or another ship, and went down in half an hour. Four hundred people aboard-men, women and little children. I was in the last boat that left her, and we capsized-Glory! it was awful!"

He closed his eyes an instant as if to shut out the memory of it. When he opened them again, Captain Tucu was asking eagerly:

plied Dick, "and they were filled with people."

The half-breed nodded his head and muttered something to his mate in a dialect that Dick could not translate. "Where was this steamer?" demanded Tucu, turning suddenly to Dick. "What latitude?"

Dick Jordan shook his head. "I don't know. I'm not a sailor."

The skipper's face clouded with disappointment, and an ugly scar across his left cheek showed red, mottled with white. Dick did not like the looks of it.

"Carib renegades," he reasoned to himself. "Sea scavengers—half fishermen, half pirates. They'd kill me without batting an eyelash if it suited their purpose.'

He glanced past the semi-circle of black faces and he saw the wide, heaving, limitless sea. The shock of being adrift upon it for another period awkened his mind from its dull lethargy. He had to stay aboard the lugger until they reached shore or met another ship. He smiled craftily, and spoke slowly.

"Wait a minute, captain! Come think of it. I'm wrong. 1 neard the wireless operator calling for help and giving the steamer's position. I'm something of a wireless expert myself. It was-it was-"

He hesitated and cocked his head sideways in the attitude of one recalling something that eluded his memory. "I got it," he added a moment later. "It was North latitude 13-and 80 or 81-yes, that must have been the longitude-80

To Dick's surprise, Captain Tucu broke in abruptly:

"The Roncador Bank!" Black Burley nodded his head, and rumbled: "We can make it in five hours."

From One Danger Into Another

Roncador Bank was a mystery to Dick. They seemed to know where that was. Perhaps, after all, that was the explanation of the queer accident. The City of Bahia had struck the reef in the night of the storm and foundered as a result of

"If I can make myself of service to them, they will keep me," Dick mused to himself. "Therefore, I must make myself indispensable.

"If I sail with them, I'll know too much-find out things they'll want to keep secret. Therefore, I'll be no better off in the end than now. They'll never put me ashore. On some dark night, I'll disappear, un-

His mind stopped abruptly. He was jolted out of his reverie by the shadow of the skipper in front of him. When he looked up, however, he was smiling in spite of the shock.

"You rescued me in the nick of time, captain," he said pleasantly. "Another hour in the water, and I'd been done for. I'm mighty grateful.'

Captain Tucu nodded, but made no comment. Dick felt that his fate was hanging by a slender thread. The indecision on the other's face was menacing; but the smile never faded from Dick's lips. He continued easily:

"When we get to the spot where the steamer went down, I may help you find something of value."

The captain's face grew suddenly greedy and eager. "What's that?" he demanded, stepping near-

"Smuggling, you know," Dick went on, feeling his way carefully, "isn't a lost art. It's still practiced.'

He winked and grinned, with the intent of simulating special knowl-Tucu stepped closer and scowled, but behind the scowl was an eager expectancy.

"Y'was smugglin'?" he demanded, thrusting his face close to Dick's.

"That isn't a fair question, is it, captain?" laughed Jordan. "If I confessed to it you could—could—oh, well," he added, shrugging his shoulders, "I guess you wouldn't arrest me-not if we divided the stuff!" he winked again, anxious at heart but on the surface smiling and complacent. Would the man fall for the bait?

The skipper was eyeing him, half in doubt, half in eager expectancy. All the avarice of his nature was in Carib brothers.

"What is it?" he grumbled, checking his impatience.

"Why specify?" retorted Dick, half rising. "It's enough that it's valuable—a rich haul."

A gleam of anger shot from the other's eyes. To pacify him, Dick added:

"I picked them up in South America at a big bargain. If I get them in the United States, they'll be worth -worth-well, I can't get them through. The City of Bahia's gone to the bottom. So, of course, the jewels were lost, too."

Captain Tucu interrupted with an "Y'left 'em aboard!" he oath. growled. "Y' didn't have sense enough to save 'em?"

Dick's Proposition Interests Tucu

"Hold on, captain! If you're going to cuss me for a fool, I'll shut up, and you'll never get a sight of the jewels. I said they'd gone down with the steamer. Wouldn't that be the natural conclusion of their owners when they heard of the foundering of the City of Bahia? For all I know every mother's son aboard, except me, was lost. You couldn't expect me to save smuggled goods under such circumstances, could you? That lets me out as an agent

He smiled craftily, watching the expression of the half-breed's face and eyes. He was following himnibbling at the bait. Dick drew an uncomscious sigh of relief.

"They didn't go down then?" snapped Tucu. "Ye-ye-got 'em?" Dick chuckled at his eagerness. "If I had them," he said easily, 'you could take them. There's all

"Sure, captain-or pretty near it," smiled Dick impudently. them overboard with a string attached to 'em-and a float to the end. Reckon I could pick up that

He grinned, allowing time for the information to sink in the other's brain, and then continued, glib-"It's an old trick, of courseold as smuggling-but it generally works. I had 'em ready to chuck through the porthole when we reached the Jersey coast-expected to get the signal some dark night glanced at each other, and, reading from a motorboat. Easy, wasn't each other's thoughts, nodded.

Captain Tucu was glaring at him with greedy eyes, his flat nostrils dilated to their full expansion. The mottled complexion of his face changed like the shifting of a chameleon.

"When the steamer struck," added Dick lightly, glancing seaward, "my first thought was of those pre-cious gems. If left in the stateroom they'd go down with the steamer. If chucked out in time there was a chance to salvage them. So," noding, "I let 'em go."
"Where was this?" asked Tucu, struggling to appear calm, "Near the Roncador Bank?"

Dick laughed, a bit insolently, and shrugged his shoulders. "I won't tell you, captain," Dick continued quietly, "unless we can come to some sort of a bargain.'

"What bargain y' want?" asked the other slowly, checking his an-

"Half interest-no, three quarters. You should be satisfied with that.'

"An' if not?" "You don't get anything. If I'm killed or found missing suddenly the jewels will remain a plaything for the fishes." "We could find the float by cruisin' around," replied the Carib, smiling craftily. Dick laughed again. "Not in a year of Sundays," he replied. "You don't think I'd make that float so anybody'd spot it, and pick it up? I'm too old at the game. I'd give you ten chances, captain, if you were within fifty feet of it. Why, a float that looks like a fish or bird or even a jelly-fish could pass you a dozen times without exciting your suspicion.

Dick could see that his bait was swallowed now, hook, sinker and line. Captain Tucu became suddenly amiable. He grinned good-naturedly. "We'll go shares," he said. "Is it a bargain?"

"Sure, if you play straight—one-quarter to you, and the rest to me no double-crossing.'

"Never double-crossed a friend," was the purring reply. "Come in the cabin an' talk about it. Mebbe we get those jewels afore night."

Later that day one of the Caribs forward called attention to something on the horizon. Tucu seized a pair of old sea-glasses and inspected it in silence for a few moments. Then handing them to Black Burley, he grunted: "What d'ye make out o' it?"

The mate gave a short squint, and exclaimed: "A schooner wrecked!"

"Yes, it's a derelict. We can pick her up before dark."

Dick, listening and watching, drew a sigh of relief. If they had discovered a floating derelict, they would sail out of their course to overhaul her. That would give him a respite of a few hours, or perhaps another night and day.

He heard with pleasure the orders to alter the course of the lugger to bring her in direct line with the derelict. Captain Tucu and Black Burley derelict on the high sea might mean much to them. If abandoned hastily by her crew, the pickings might be of great value. There was the cargo to consider, if not watersoaked and ruined; and the personal belongings of the crew and officers, if in the excitement of leaving they had not taken them away. Finally, there was always the possibility of salvaging the hull, and towing it into some port to sell to the highest bidder, if the original owners didn't make a stiff offer for it.

Derelict Schooner Changes Plans

Altogether, it was not an unprofitable business. It paid sometimes better than out and out piracy. At such times the sea scavengers kept strictly within the laws. They knew the laws of sea salvage by heart.

When the derelict finally assumed definite shape to the naked eye, Dick became absorbed in studying it. She was not waterlogged; neither was she battered and broken below decks. Most of the damage seemed to be in the sails and rigging.

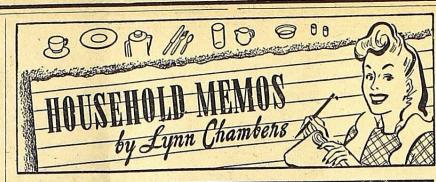

This fact had not escaped the keen eyes of the skipper of the lugger, and the nearer they approached the more promising appeared the prize they had picked up.

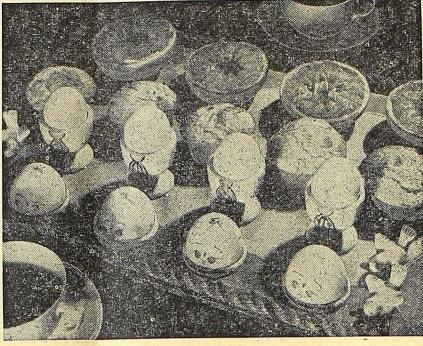

Then came a sudden guttural cry from one of the crew, followed by wild gesticulations and a pointing hand. There, standing in the rigging, waving and nodding at them, was an old man, hatless and nearly shirtless, with bushy whiskers flopping up and down in the breeze. At first they could hear no sounds coming from his lips, but with a slight change in the wind the voice carried to them.

For the most part it seemed like the wild, incoherent gibberish of one demented. "Ahoy there, mates!" called. "What ship is that? Don't recognize her! Never mind, come aboard! This is the Betty of New London-sound of timber and fast of heels-makin' twenty knots an hour. Come aboard if y'can catch us! Throw me line while I luff her-quick now!'

Tucu and Black Burley stared at the man in silence. Then they

Start the Day Right With a Good Breakfast

Breakfast Breads

How's breakfast interest at your home these days? Does everyone look forward to sitting down for breakfast be cause mother is sure to have some fluffy hot bread that they can smell baking while they're going through the finishing touches of bathing and dressing? Or, is the family anxious to scamper through breakfast without giving it so much as a sniff?

If the latter is the case, then sit down right now and do something drastic about it. You may have to do without bacon and sausage, those breakfast standbys, but the ingredients required for breakfast breads are available. Let them give you a lift for that important first meal of the day. Your family can't resist light, fluffy rolls with the tangy smell of cinnamon and rais-

How to Make Tastier Breads

When using flour or sugar for bread making, make sure that they are sifted or they will not measure out properly. It is often necessary to sift sugar to get lumps out of it.

Yeast breads are usually put in hot ovens for 10 minutes to stop the growth of the yeast, then lowered to finish baking. Quick breads are baked in a moderate oven, as a gen-

If you want to impart a buttery flavor to baked goods without using butter itself, then use sour cream. It imparts richness and taste to almost any baked food.

Sour Cream Waffles. 1 cup flour

3/4 teaspoon soda 1 teaspoon baking powder 1 teaspoon salt 34 cup rich sour cream

LYNN SAYS:

Sponge cakes should never be removed from the pan until they are thoroughly cooled. The air cells in these cakes, as in angel food cakes, are so delicate that they cannot hold the weight of the cake unless the cake is thoroughly cooled.

Bake muffins and cup cakes in fluted cups to save fats and to conserve on dishwashing. The pan does not have to be greased, and neither does the cup.

When Your

Back Hurts And Your Strength and

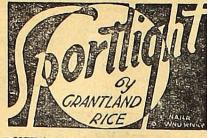

Energy Is Below Par It may be caused by disorder of kid-ney function that permits poisonous waste to accumulate. For truly many people feel tired, weak and miserable when the kidneys fail to remove excess acids and other waste matter from the blood.

And the waste matter from the blood.

You may suffer nagging backache, rheumatic pains, headaches, dizziness, getting up nights, leg pains, swelling. Sometimes frequent and scanty urination with smarting and burning is another sign that something is wrong with the kidneys or bladder.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Uso Doan's Pills. It is better to rely on a medicine that has won countrywide approval than on something less favorably known. Doan's have been tried and tested many years. Are at all drug stores. Get Doan's today.

JUST how long the new boom that has hit sports of every variety will last is anybody's guess.

This includes baseball, football, racing, basketball, golf, hockey, tennis, boxing, curling, bowling, shot putting, table tennis, gin rummy, javelin throwing, hunting, fishing, automobile racing or jumping through a hoop. Tail-end baseball teams draw over a million. Many times beaten football teams pack the others who take credit for this amazing public surge in their own line are merely being goofy. They don't even have to be smart or good. Just open the gate. Make it a dogfight. It doesn't seem to mat-

But there is at least one detail that can't be missed. In this country or nation of some 3 million square miles and some 140 million sport-loving people, there is room for two major professional football leagues.

The New York Giants proved that when, facing double competition from the Yankees and the Dodgers they packed the Polo Grounds with their greatest crowd. The Cleveland Browns, in the new league, have passed any expected mark. They have set new records up above 70,-

So far, in their exhibition and their scheduled games, both leagues have gone far beyond early expecta-

The situation hasn't been so hot in several spots, including Los Angeles-a hot college center-but the general average has been exception-

The Giants could play at least one game a season before 100,000 spectators-if there were room enough to park the human frame.

We still believe, as far as the two leagues are concerned, that there is room enough in this country for 16 pro teams, 8 in each league. And both leagues can save enough to pack a mint by working out the same arrangement the National and American baseball leagues have to-

The rivalry of the two leagues has made baseball what it is. The same inter league rivalry, with a postseason championship, will be just as effective for pro football.

In such an event, we could have results thrown against futile argu-

The Two Best Backs

Several correspondents have written in lately, asking if any other football team ever had a pair of backs to match Blanchard and Davis, Army's terrifying football twins. Let's look at the record, as Al Smith used to say.

Carlisle's Indians once had Thorpe and Guyon-not too bad. Harvard had Mann and Brickley. Yale had Coy and Philbin. Michigan had Heston and Boss Weeks. Cornell offers Pfann and Kaw. Pennsylvania had Hollenback and Manier. Stanford had Grayson and Hamilton. Notre Dame has had many great pairs—a longer list than most of the others. Minnesota, Tennessee, Alabamathese and many others—have had strong backfield combinations, counting only two men.

But we can't locate at the moment any other combination that ranks with Doc Blanchard and Glenn Davis in all-around ability and destructive effectiveness.

In making a complete check you'll come upon these facts-

1. Davis and Blanchard are brilliant ball carriers, through the line or out in the open. Both are extremely fast.

2. Both can throw a pass and both can handle a pass.

3. Both are excellent blockers. 4. Both know how to tackle and are strong defensively. 5. Both are dangerous opponents against a rival pass. 6. Both can kick. 7. Both are packed with stamina and durability and both give all they have at every start. Neither is temperamental or swelled-headed. They happen to be two fine kids who play the game for the love of it. In looking back many years over a long list we can't locate any team that had any such pair among its backfield talent, not for a few games but through the greater part of three hard seasons. When you've seen Blanchard and Davis turned loose on some field you've looked upon the best that football has ever had to offer.

About Bob Neyland

Bob Neyland of Tennessee, now General Neyland, an old West Pointer, left his coaching job in 1942 for army duty.

It was generally accepted that it would take Neyland a year or so to rebuild a winning team against the powerful opposition the South always offers. But in his first year back we find Neyland's volun-teers heading the Southern parade, at least a stride in front of Wally Butt's Georgia delegation.
